And the children of the captivity kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month. For the priests and Levites were purified, all were clean to a man, and they slew the passover for all the children of the captivity, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves. And the children of Israel ate the passover, even they that were of the captivity, and every one who separated himself to them from the uncleanness of the nations of the land, to seek the Lord God of Israel. And they kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days, with gladness, because the Lord made them glad in the land of Egypt, and he turned the heart of the king of Assyria to them, to strengthen their hands in the works of the house of the God of Israel.

Now after these things, in the reign of Arthasastha king of the Persians, came up Esdras the son of Sarais, the son of Azarias, the son of Chelias, the son of Selum, the son of Saduc, the son of Mahob, the son of Zaraia, the son of Ozyon, the son of Bokki, the son of Abiouse, the son of Fines, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the ierew of the prophet. And the son of Eleazar, the son of Zaraia, the son of Zaraia, the son of Ozyon, the son of Bokki, the son of Abiouse, the son of Fines, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the first priest. This Esdras went up out of Babylon, and he was a ready scribe in the law of Moses, which the Lord God of Israel gave: and the king gave him leave, for the hand of the Lord his God was upon him in all things which he sought. And some of the children of Israel went up, and some of the priests, and of the Levites, and the singers, and the door-keepers, and the Nethinim, to Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Arthasastha the king. And they came to Jerusalem in the fifth month. This was the seventh year of the king. For in the first day of the first month he began the going up from Babylon, and in the first day of the fifth month they came to Jerusalem, for the good hand of his God was upon him. For Esdras had determined in his heart to seek the law, and to do and teach the ordinances and judgments in Israel.

And this is the copy of the order which Arthasastha gave to Esdras the priest, the scribe of the book of the words of the commandments of the Lord, and of his ordinances to Israel.

Arthasastha, king of kings, to Esdras, the scribe of the law of the Lord God of heaven, Let the order and the answer be accomplished as thou hast said by me, that every one who is willing in my kingdom of the people of Israel, and of the priests and Levites, to go to Jerusalem, be permitted to go with thee. One has been sent from the king and the seven counsellors, to visit Juden and Jerusalem, ac-according to the law of their God that is in thine hand. And for the house of the Lord there have been sent silver and gold, which the king and the councillors have freely given to the God of Israel, who dwells in Jerusalem. And all the silver and gold, whatsoever they had found in all the land of Babylon, with the freewill-offering of the people, and the priests that offer freely for the house of God which is in Jerusalem. And whatever it shall seem good to thee and to thy brethren to do with the rest of the silver and the gold, do as it is pleasing to your God. And deliver the vessels that are given thee for the service of the house of God, before God in Jerusalem. And as to the rest of the need of the house of thy God, thou shalt give from the king's treasure-houses, and from me, whatever it shall seem good to thee to give.

I king Arthasashta have made a decree for all the treasuries that are in the country beyond the river, that whatever Arthasashta the priest and scribe of the God of heaven may ask, you shall be done speedily, to the amount of a hundred talents of silver, and a hundred measures of wheat, and a hundred baths of wine, and a hundred baths of oil, and salt without reckoning. Let whatever is in the decrees of God be done, be done taken lest any one make an attack on the house of the God of heaven, lest at any time there should be wrath against the king and his sons. Also this has been decreed to you, with respect to all the priests, and Levites, the singers, porters, Nathinim and ministers of the house of God, that they paid thee; thou shalt not have power to oppress them. And thou, Esdras, as the wisdom of God is in thy hand, appoint scribes and judges, that they may judge for all the people beyond the river, all that know the law of the Lord thy God; and ye shall make it known to him that knows not.

And whosoever shall not do the law of God, and the law of the king readily, judgment shall be taken upon him, whether for death or for chastisement, or for a fine of his property, or casting into prison.

Blessed be the Lord God of our fathers, who has put it thus into the heart of the king, to gladly listen to the Lord God which is in Jerusalem; and has given me favour in the eyes of the king, and of his councillors, and in the eyes of the king, the exalted ones. And I was strengthened according to the good hand of God upon me, and I gathered chief men of Israel to go up with me.

And these are the heads of their families, the leaders that went up with me in the reign of Arthasashta the king of Babylon.

Zacharias, and with him a company of three hundred and fifty.

Of the sons of Zophiel; Schedias the son of Asiel, and with him three hundred males.

And of the sons of Adin; Obeth the son of Jonathan, and with him fifty males.

And of the sons of Saphatia; Zacharias the son of Baruch, and with him twenty-eight males.

And of the sons of Asad; Joab the son of Joaah, and with him a hundred and sixty males.

And of the sons of Babi; Zacharias the son of Babai, and with him seventy males.

And I gathered them to the river that comes to Evi, and we encamped there three days: and I reviewed the people and the priests, and found none of the sons of Levi there. And I sent men of understanding to Eleazar, to Ariel, to Semeas, and to Almon, and to Zabdi, and to Eleazar, and to Nathan, and to Zacharias, and to the sons of the Levites, and to the Merarites, and to the sons of the priests, and to the sons of Heman, and to the sons of Elnathan, and to the sons of Beeri, and to the sons of hillam, and to the sons of Abia, and to the sons of Zibad, and to the sons of Beur.

And I forwarded them to the rulers with the money of the place, and I put words in their mouth to speak to their brethren the Athinim with the money of the place, that they should bring us singers for the house of our God. And they came to us, as the good hand of our God was upon us, even a man of understanding among the sons of Mooli, the son of Levi, the son of Israel, and at the commencement came his sons and his brethren, eighteen. And Asaiah, and Isaia of the sons of Merari, his brethren and his sons, twenty. And of the Nathaniel, whom David and the princes had appointed for the service of the Levites there were two hundred and twenty Nathaniel; all were gathered by their names.

And I proclaimed there a fast, at the river Aila, that we should humble ourselves before our God, to seek of him a straight way for us, and for our children, and for all our property. For I was ashamed to ask of the king a guard and horsemen to save us from the enemy in the way: for we had spoken to the king, saying, The good hand of our God is upon all that seek him, for good.

And I weighed to them the silver, and the gold, and the vessels of the first-fruits of the house of our God, which the king, and his councillors, and his princes, and all Israel that were found; and had dedicated. 26 even weighed into their hands six hundred talents of silver, and a hundred silver vessels, and a hundred talents of gold, 27 and twenty golden bowls, weighing about a thousand drachmas, and superior vessels of fine shining brass, precious as gold. 28 And I said to them, Ye are holy to the Lord; and the vessels are holy; and the silver and the gold are free-offerings to the Lord God of our fathers. 29 Be watchful and keep them, until ye weigh them before the chief priests and the Levites, and the chief of families in Jerusalem, at the chambers of the house of the Lord. 30 So the priests and the Levites took the weight of the silver, and the gold, and the vessels, to bring to Jerusalem into the house of our God.

And we departed from the river of Arie on the twelfth day of the first month, to come to Jerusalem; and the hand of our God was upon us, and delivered us from the hand of the enemy and adversary in the way. 31 And we came to Jerusalem, and used the days of our mourning, and the time to pluck the beard, and the month of Ab, brought us to Jerusalem.

And we set over them daily Observers, and overseers, and rulers, and commanders over all Israel, which returned out of Babylon; and the Levites, the priests, and the chief of families.

And certain of the sons of Israel, and the priests, and the Levites, and the singing men, and all that are written, and the chief of the fathers who were present, went up, and came to Jerusalem; 34 and some of the people of Israel, and of the priests, and Levites, and the singing men, and all that went up with me from Babylonia: 35 the priests, twenty and two; 36 and the Levites, two and ten; 37 and of the singing men, two and ten; 38 and of their brethren that were Levites, two and ten; 39 and one hundred and twenty and twenty porters; 40 and of their brethren the porters, two and ten; 41 and of the priests, four hundred and thirty; 42 and of the Levites, two hundred and fifty and six; 43 and of the singing men, a hundred and twenty and eight; 44 and certain of their children were of them, two hundred and thirty and four; 45 and of the porters, one hundred and twenty and eight; 46 and the gatekeepers of the cities of Jerusalem were one hundred and fifty and eight; 47 and all the people, that went up out of Babylon, which returned out of the captivity, were forty and three thousand and two hundred and thirty and five.

And the chief of the fathers brought forth wine of wine, and of honey, and oil, and of other victuals, and free gifts, and svmphories to Jerusalem.

Then the Levites the priests, and the singing men, and all the house of Israel, brought forth the offering of the Lord God of their fathers; 2 and the hardware of gold and silver, and the sacred vessels, and the changeable vessels, did the priests and the Levites bring.

And of them that were come out of the captivity of the exiles, in the seventh year of their coming to Jerusalem, 3 in the year of the restoration of Jerusalem, in the fourth year of the reign of Artaxerxes the king, came again Sherezer, and others of the children of the exiles, and of all them that had the zeal of Jacob; and they came to Jerusalem, 4 and brought in the Temple vessels, even vessels of silver and vessels of gold, and they sacrificed burnt-offerings and libations, and offered sacrifice and burnt-offerings before God, 5 and rejoice, and say, "The Lord our God is among us; the hand of the Lord is changed from its enemies!"

And they brought forth from the Temple of the Lord the vessels of silver and the vessels of gold, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had taken out of the Temple which is in Jerusalem, and the princes, and the governors, and the whole assembly, dedicated them for sacrifice before God.

And all the children of Israel, that were found at Jerusalem, brought sacrifice, burnt-offerings, and libations, of a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs, and a thousand goats, and a thousand turtledoves and pigeons, to sacrifice before God.

For Nebuchadnezzar was king of Babylon at the first; and in the first year of his reign he decreed, and sent Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, into the fiery furnace; 7 who were not afraid of the king, and had not bowed down, to worship the golden image; 8 therefore in the second year of his reign he decreed, and brought into the fiery furnace four hundred and fifty thousand talents of gold, and five hundred thousand talents of silver, and ten thousand talents of brass, and twenty thousand talents of iron, and three hundred talents of tin and lead.

And he said to them, Whom do ye serve? the gods of Babylon, whom ye have brought out of the land of Judah; or the gods of the heavens, silver and gold, which ye have made for yourselves?

And they said, We serve the God of Heaven; and we worship the same, as our fathers have taught us, from our youth; even the God that took us out of the land of Egypt; and we have not served the kings of Babylon.

Therefore it was in the heart of the king to set the fiery furnace at a very high height, and to increase the热 of the fire within. 11 And he commanded the most mighty men of his army to be there, and they arrayed themselves against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and said to them, Ye servants of the most high God, come down, and come down. Then answered Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to the king, saying, 12 My lord, we will not serve your gods, nor worship the golden image which ye have set up.

Therefore I the king, even I, have determined, that your goods and your children shall be thrown into the midst of the fire; and that your sons and your daughters shall stand in the midst of the fire; and that ye shall not serve our gods, nor worship the golden image which we have set up.

Then they said to the king, We are not willing to serve the gods, nor worship the golden image, which ye have set up.

Then was the king exceedingly angry, and rose to the fire. And those princes, and the governors, and the captains, and the chief of the fathers, stood beside the king, and said, 17 My lord the king, let not the king, nor his servants, sin against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego; for the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, is able to deliver them out of the fire; and he delivered Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego out of the fiery furnace.

Then, because the fire had no power on them, and the lion devoured them not, he pronounced Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to be blessed.

Then the king gave a command, and Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were taken, and cast into the midst of the live coal burning fire. 20 Then the king stood up at the door of the fire; and of the princes, even of the governors, and the captains, and the captains of the thousands, fell to the earth before the king, and prostrated themselves before the king, and adored the king.

Then were the presidents of Judah, and Benjamin, and Ephraim, and Manasseh, to the king, 22 and said, O king, live for ever; let not your clothes be torn. 23 And he commanded, and they brought Shadrach, and Meshach, and Abednego out of the midst of the fire. 24 And the mouth of the lion opened not upon them, and they were saved thehot of the fire: and fire came not upon them, because they trusted in God, and asked for themselves, and hearkened to their prayers; 25 therefore he changed the form of the lion, and saved them, and changed the fire into a small flame; 26 and Shadrach, and Meshach, and Abednego, were not hurt at all, because the fire had no power on them: and no part of them was singed, nor was any hurt found in them; but they appeared as though they had been wrought, and the fire had no power on them, because of the holy spirit which was in them.

Then the king was exceeding glad, and gave commandments to bring all Shadrach, and Meshach, and Abednego out of the fire. 28 And the king made a royal robe for them, and clothed them with the purple, and set their chairs, and gave them rations of the king's bread; 29 and his princes provided for their sons, and the sons of those that had been killed by the sword, and for their wives, and their children. 30 Then Shadrach, and Meshach, and Abednego came forth from the fire unharmed; and the hair of their locks was not scorched, neither was their skin burned, and they were not weary in any wise.

Then the king gave commandments, and they brought those that were cast into the fire; and they gave them all things in the form of the king's commandments. 32 Then Shadrach, and Meshach, and Abednego, came to the king. 33 And the king was exceeding glad, and made the commandments known to all the people of Judah, and to the children of the captivity, Selah.
Lord, I am ashamed and confounded, O my God, to lift up my face to thee: for our transgressions have abounded over our head, and our trespasses have risen up even to heaven. 7 From the days of our fathers we have been in a great trespass until this day: and because of our iniquities we, and our kings, and our children, have been delivered into the hand of the kings of the Gentiles by the sword, and by captivity, and by spoil, and with shame of our face, as at this day. 8 And now we are servants every one of us to the Gentiles in the hand of nations, as it is this day. 9 For our iniquities have taken us away from this place unto the hand of our kings, and to the hand of our princes: whither so ever we went away, there were brought us into captivity, even until this day. 10 But now is the time that we shall arise and be saved, according to all the counsel of the Lord through his servant Moses. 11 For we are not as other men, which have set themselves against the Lord, the God of Israel, with their covetousness, neither are we as these nations, that have dwelt in our lands. 12 For he fed them with the food of heaven; he satisfied them with the treasures of store: so that they sinned against him, and forsook their Lord, and served graven images. 13 For then our God made himself known among them, in the sight of their fathers, in the hand of our kings, and of their princes; because they did not believe. 14 But they were disobedient, and rebelled against the commands of the Lord, and sinned against his Most High God. 15 Therefore he delivered them into the hand of the Ammonites, and the Arabians, and to the Philistines and the Chaldeans, which had no righteousness. 16 And they served their gods: for even their children, and their children's children, know they not, therefore they have not sought their God. 17 And the anger of the Lord was kindled against his people, and he abhorred his inheritance. 18 And he delivered them into the hand of the Chaldeans, until the time of their redemption came. 19 And it came to pass, when they had sinned against him, and were fallen away, and had done that which was not right before him, to provoke him with their works, 20 That he forsook them also, and delivered them to the hand of their enemies, until they cried unto him. 21 And, behold, they were sensible of their transgressions: and in their trouble they cried unto the Lord, and he heard them out of an holy place. 22 They spared not the innocent with their dear sons, when they caused them to go down into the pit, the北京大学图书馆，以及《圣经》中的语言与文化背景。

13. The story of the Israelites as told in the biblical texts is a cautionary tale of the dangers of disobedience, idolatry, and rebellion. It serves as a reminder of the consequences of sin and the importance of fidelity to God's commandments.

14. The passage describes the Israelites' futile attempts to strike a new treaty with their enemies, their futile attempts to appease their gods, and their futile attempts to rebuild their nation. It is a vivid portrayal of the Israelites' desperate situation, their helpless condition, and their hopeless predicament.

15. The passage is a reminder of the power of God's mercy and grace, and the possibility of redemption through repentance and faith. It is a call to the Israelites to turn to God and return to him, to seek his forgiveness and assistance in their time of need.

16. The passage is a warning to the Israelites and to us all of the consequences of unfaithfulness and disobedience, and the benefits of faithfulness and obedience. It is a call to turn to God, to repent of our sins, and to trust in his grace and mercy.
Then Esdras arose, and caused the rulers, the priests, and Levites, and all Israel, to swear that they would do according to this word: and they swore. And Esdras rose up from before the house of God, and went into the treasury of Joannah the son of Eliashib the high priest, and took out氪he two new wine; neither was there bread to be drunk no water; for he mourned over the unfaithfulness of them of the captivity.

And they made proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem to all the children of the captivity, that they should assemble at Jerusalem, saying, Every one who shall not come within three days as is the counsel of the rulers and the elders, all his substance shall be forfeited, and he shall be separated from the congregation of the captivity.

So all the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled at Jerusalem within the three days. This was the ninth month: on the twentieth day of the month all the people sat down in the street of the house of the Lord, because of their alarm concerning the word, and because of the storm. And Esdras the priest arose, and said to them, Ye have broken covenant, and have taken strange wives, to add to the trespass of Israel. Before these days you have made no prayer to the Lord God of our fathers, and do that which is pleasing in his sight: and separate yourselves from the peoples of the land, and from the strange wives.

Then all the congregation answered and said, This thy word is powerful upon us to do it. But the people are numerous, and the season is stormy, and there is no power to stand without, and the work is more than enough for one day or for two; for we have greatly sinned in this matter. Let now our rulers stand, and for all those in our cities who have taken strange wives, let them come at appointed times, and with their elders from every city, and judge and thus may the fierce wrath of our God from us concerning this matter.

Only Jonathan the son of Asaah, and Jazias the son of Themoe were with me concerning this; and Mesollan, and Sambathai the Levite helped them.

And the children of the captivity did this. And Esdras the priest, and heads of families according to their house were separated, and all by their names, for they returned in the first day of the tenth month to search out the matter. And they made an end with all the men who had taken strange wives by the first day of the first month.

And there were found some of the sons of the priests who had taken strange wives: of the sons of Jesus the son of Josedeck, and his brethren; Masan, and Eliocer, and Jarib, and Gadalia. And they s°v pledged themselves to put away their wives, and offered a ram of the flock for a trespass-offering because of their trespass. And of the sons of Emmer; Anani, and Zakbab. And of the sons of Eram; Masael, and Elia, and Samaia, and Joel, and Ozie. And of the sons of Phasrah; Eliomai, Masan, and Israel, and Nathanael, and Jozabad,

The words of Neemias the son of Chelcia. And it came to pass in the month Chasleu, of the twentieth year, that I was in Susan the palace. And Anani, one of my brethren, came, he and some men of Juda; and I asked them concerning those that had escaped, who had been left of the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem. And they said to me, The remnant, even those that are left of the captivity, are there in the land, in great distress and reproach: and the walls of Jerusalem are thrown down, and its gates are burnt with fire.

And it came to pass, when I heard these words, that I sat down and wept, and mourned for several days, and continued fasting and praying before the Lord God of heaven. 5 And I said, Nay, Lord God of heaven, great and terrifical, keep thy covenant and mercy to them that love thee, and to those that keep his commandments: 6 let now thine ear be attentive, and thine eyes open, that thou mayest hear the prayer of thy servant, which I pray before thee this day, 7 that the children of Israel thy servants, and make confession for the sins of the children of Israel, which we have sinned against thee: both I and the house of my father have sinned. 8 We have altogether broken covenant with thee, and we have not kept the commandments, and the judgments, which thou didst command thy servant Moses. 9 Remember, I pray thee, the word wherewith thou didst charge thy servant Moses, saying, If ye break covenant with me, I will disperse you among the nations: 10 But if ye turn again to me, and keep my commandments, and do them; if ye return to me, saith the Lord of hosts, and seest after the utmost bound of heaven, thence will I gather them, and I will bring them into the place which I have chosen to cause my name to dwell there. 11 Now they are thy servants and thy people, whom thou hast redeemed with thy great power, and with thine strong hand.

And it came to pass in the twenty and first year of our君 Arthasastra, that the wine was before me: and I took the wine, and gave it to the king: and there was not another before him. 2 And the king said to me, Why is thy countenance sad, and dost thou not control thyself? and now this is nothing but sorrow of heart. Then I was very much alarmed, and I said to the king, Let the king live for ever: why should not my countenance be sad, forasmuch as the city, even the home of the sepulchres of my fathers, has been laid waste, and her gates have been devoured with fire? 3 And the king said to me, For what dost thou ask thus? So I prayed to the God of heaven. 4 And I said to the king, If it seem good to the king, and if thy servant shall have found favour in thy sight, I ask that thou wouldest send him into Judah, to the city of the sepulchres of my fathers; then will I rebuild it.

And the king, and his concubine that sat next to him, said to me, For how long will thy journey be, and when wilt thou return? and the proposal was pleasing before the king, and he sent me away, and I appointed him a time. 7 And I said to the king, If it seem good to the king, let him give me letters to the governors beyond the river, so as to forward me till I come to Judah; and a letter to Asaph the keeper of the *garden which belongs to the king, that he may give me timber to cover the gates, and for the wall of the city, and for the house into which I shall enter. And the king gave to me, according as the good hand of God was upon me.

9 And I came to the governors beyond the river, and I gave them the king's letters.
(Now the king had sent with me captains of the army and horsemen.) 10 And Sanaballat the Aronite heard it, and Tobia the servant, the Ammonite, and it was grievous to them that a man was come to seek good for the children of Israel.

11 So I came to Jerusalem, and was there three days. 12 And I rose up by night, I and a few men with me; and I told no man what God put into my heart to do with Israel; and there was no beast with me, except the beast which I rode upon. 13 And I went forth by the gate of the valley by night, and to the mouth of the well of 8 fig trees, and to the dung-gate: and I mourned over the wall of Jerusalem which they were destroying, and her gates were devoured with fire. 14 And I passed on to the fountain gate, and to the king's pool; and there was no room for the beast to pass under me. 15 And I went up by the wall of the brook by night, and mourned over the wall, and passed through the gate of the valley, and returned.

16 And the sentinels knew not why I went nor what I was doing; and until that time, I told it not to the Jews, or to the priests, or to the nobles, or to the captains, or to the rest of the men who wrought the works. Then I said to them, ye see this evil, in which we are, how Jerusalem is desolate, and her gates have been set on fire: come, and let us build throughout the wall of Jerusalem, and we shall be no longer reproached of the Gentiles, who say that the hand of God which was good upon me, also about the words of the king which he spoke to me; and I said, let us arise and build. And their hands were strengthened for the good work.

17 And Sanaballat the Aronite, and Tobia the servant, the Ammonite, and Gesam the Arabian, heard it, and they laughed us to scorn, and came to us, and said, what is this thing that ye are doing? are ye revolting against the king? 18 And I answered them, and said to them, the God of heaven, his shall prosper us, and his servants are pure, and we will build: but ye have no part, nor right, nor memorial, in Jerusalem.

Then Eliasub the high priest, and his brethren the priests, rose up, and built the sheep-gate: they sanctified it, and set up the doors of it; even to the tower of the hun dred they sanctified it, to the tower of Anameel. 2 And they built by the side of the men of Jericho, and by the side of the sons of Zacchur, the son of Amari.

3 And the sons of Asana built the fish-gate; they reared it, and covered in its doors, and bolts, and bars. And next to them the order reached to Ramoth the son of Uri, the son of Acco, and next to them Mosollam son of Barachias the son of Mazeel took his place; and next to them Shallum son of the son of Baana took his place.

And next to them the Theocim took their place; but the Adoram applied not their neck to their service.

And Jokdas the son of Phasec, and Mesulam son of Basodla, repaired the old gate; they covered it in, and set up its doors, and its bolts, and all its bars, and covered its doors with boards over its bolts.

And next to him Ozia the son of Arachias of the smiths, carried on the repairs: and next to them Anania the son of one of the apothecaries repaired, and they finished Jerusalem to the broad wall.

And next to them repaired Raphia the son of Sur, the ruler of half the district round about Jerusalem. And next to him repaired Jedain the son of Eromaph, and that in front of his house; and next to him repaired Attuth son of Asabania. And next to him repaired Melchiah son of Henadad, and Asub son of Phat Moab, even to the tower of the furnaces. And next to him repaired Sallum the son of Alloes, the ruler of half the district round about Jerusalem, he and his daughters.

Anun and the inhabitants of Zano repaired the gate of the valley: they built it, and set up its doors, and its bars, and a thousand cubits of the wall as far as the dung-gate.

And Melchia the son of Rechab, the ruler of the district round about Beth-accharim, repaired the dung-gate, he and his sons; and they covered it, and set up its doors and its bars, and the wall of the pool of skins by the meadow of the king, and as far as the steps that lead down from the city of David.

After him repaired Neemias son of Azabuch, ruler of half the district round about Bethsur, as far as the garden of David's sepulchre, and as far as the artificial pool, and as far as the house of the mighty men.

After him repaired the Levites, even Raum the son of Bani; next to him repaired Asabia, ruler of half the district round about Keila, in his district.

And after him repaired his brethren, Benei son of Enadad, ruler of half the district round about Keila. And next to him repaired Azur the son of Joshua, ruler of Masphai, another portion of the tower of ascent, where it meets the corner.

After him repaired Baruch the son of Zabu, a second portion from the corner as far as the door of the house of Eliashib the high priest.

After him repaired Meremoth the son of Uri the son of Acco, a second part from the end of the house of Eliashib to the end of the house of Eliashib. And after him repaired the priests, the men of Eccehecar.

The LXX. have rendered ἔτει in this chapter by four different words. 7 Heb. nobles. 6 The Gr. is a Hebrew word in Greek letters.
And after him repaired Benjamin and Asub over against their house; and after him repaired Azarias son of Masias the son of Ananias, the parts near to his house.

After him repaired Bani the son of Adad, another portion from the house of Azaria as far as the corner and to the turning, of Phalach, the son of Uzai, opposite the corner, and after him also the tower that projects from the king's house, even the upper one of the prison-house: and after him repaired Phadsea the son of Phoros. And the Nethim dwelt in Ophal, as far as the garden of the water-gate eastward, and there is the projecting tower.

And after these the Theeom repaired, another portion opposite the great projecting tower, even as far as the wall of Ophla.

The priests repaired above the horse-gate, every man over against his own house. And after him Sadduce the son of Emmer repaired opposite his own house; and after him repaired Semea son of Sechena, guard of the east-gate.

After him repaired Anemia son of Deuen, and after them, the sixth son of Seleh, another portion of the pentagon made by Mesulam the son of Barachia repaired over against his treasury. After him repaired Melchias the son of Sarepi as far as the seventh house of the Nethim, and the chapmen over against the gate of Mapheked, and as far as the steps of the corner.

And between that and the sheep-gate the smiths and chapmen repaired.

Now it came to pass, when Sanballat heard that we were building the wall, that it was grievous to him, and he was very angry, and railed against the Jews. And he said before his brethren (that is the army of the Samaritans): Is it true that these Jews are building their city? do they indeed offer sacrifices? will they prevail? and will they this day restore the stones, after they have been burnt and made a heap of rubbish? And Tobias the Ammantic came near to him, and said to them, Do they sacrifice or eat in their place? shall not a fox go up and pull down their wall of stones?

Hear, O our God, for we have become a scorn: and return thou their reproach upon their head, and make them a scorn in a land of captivity, and do not cover their iniquity.

But it came to pass, when Sanballat and Tobia, and the Arabians, and the Ammanites, heard that the building of the walls of Jerusalem was advancing, and that the breaches began to be stopped, that it appeared very grievous to them. And all of them assembled together, to come to fight against Jerusalem, and to destroy it utterly. So we prayed to our God and set watchmen against them day and night, because of them. And Juda said, The strength of the enemies is broken, yet there is much rubbish, and we shall not be able to build upon the wall. And they that afflicted us said, They shall not know, and they shall not see, until we come into the midst of them, and slay them, and cause the work to cease.
And it came to pass, when the Jews who lived near them came, that they said to us, They are coming up against us from every quarter. So I set men in the lowest part of the place behind the wall in the lurking-places, I even set the people according to their families, with their swords, their spears, and their bows. And I looked, and arose, and said to the nobles, and to the captains, and to the rest of the people, Be not afraid of them; remember our great and terrible God, and fight for your brethren, your sons, your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

And it came to pass, when our enemies heard that it was made known to us, and God had frustrated their counsel, that we all returned to the wall, every man to his work. And it came to pass from that day that half of them that had been driven forth, wrought the work, and half of them kept guard; and there were spears, and shields, and bows, and breast-plates, and rulers behind the whole multitude of them that were building the wall: — and those who carried the burdens were under arms: each with one hand wrought his work, and with the other held his dart. And the builders wrought each man having his sword girt upon his loins, and so they built: and the trumpeter with his trumpet next to him. And I said to the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, The work is great and abundant, and we are dispersed upon the wall, each at a great distance from his brother. In whatsoever place ye shall hear the sound of the cornet, thither gather yourselves together to us; and our God shall fight for us.

So we continued labouring at the work: and half of them held the spears from the rising of the morning until the stars appeared. And at that time I said to the people, Lodge ye every man with his servant in the midst of Jerusalem, and let the night be a watch-time to you, and the day a work-time. And I was there, and the watchmen behind me, and there was not a man of us that put off his garments.

And the cry of the people and their wives was great against their brethren the Jews. And some said, We are numerous with our sons and our daughters; so we will take corn, and eat, and live. And some said, As to our fields and vineyards and houses, let us pledge them, and we will take corn, and eat. And some said, We have borrowed money for the king's tributes: — our fields, and our vineyards, and houses are pledged. And now our flesh is as the flesh of our brethren, our children also, and our daughters, as the children of the people: and we have reduced our sons and our daughters to slavery, and some of our daughters are enslaved: and there is no power of our hands, for our fields and our vineyards belong to the nobles.

And I was much grieved as I heard their cry and these words. And my heart... took counsel 1 within me, and I contended against the nobles, and the princes, and I said to them, 2 Should every man demand of his brother what ye say? 3 And I appointed against them a great assembly, 4 and I said to them, We of our free-will have not received money for the brethren the Jews that were sold to the Greeks, or ye sell your brethren? and shall they be delivered to us? and they were silent, and found no answer. 5 And I said, The thing which ye do is not good; ye will not so walk in the fear of our God 6 because of the reproach of the Gentiles our enemies. 7 And I called the priests, and bound them by oath to do according to this word.

8 And I shook out my garment, and said, So may God shake out every man who shall not keep to this word, from his house, and from his labours, he shall be even thus shaken out, as an outcast and empty. And all the congregation said, Amen, and they praised the Lord; and the people did this thing.

9 From the day that 1 he charged me to be their ruler in the land of Juda, from the twentieth year even to the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes, twelve years, 1 and my brethren ate not provision extorted from them. 10 But as for the former acts of extortion wherein 1 those who were before me oppressed them, they even took of them their last money, forty didrachmas for bread and wine; and the very outcasts of them 1 exercised authority over the people: but I did not so, because of the fear of God. 11 Also in the work of the wall I treated them not with rigour, I bought not land: and all that were gathered together came 1 thither to the work.

12 And there came to me for one day one calf, and I had six choice sheep and a goat; and every ten days wine in abundance of all sorts: yet with these I required not the spread of extortion, because the bondage was heavy upon this people.

13 Remember me, O God, for good, in all that I have done to this people.

Now it came to pass, when Sanballat, and Tobias, and Gesem the Arabian, and the rest of our enemies, heard that I had built the wall, and that there was no opening left therein; (for hitherto I had not set the doors 1 thereto) that Sanballat and Gesem sent to me, saying, Come, and let us meet together in the villages in the plain of Ono. But they were plotting to do me mischief: 2 So I sent messengers to them, saying, I am doing great work, and I shall not be able to come down, lest the work should cease: as soon as I shall have finished it, I will come down to you. 4 And they sent to me again to this effect; and I sent them word accordingly.

Then Sanballat sent his servant to me with an open letter in his hand. 5 And in it was written, It has been reported among the Gentiles that thou and the Jews are planning to revolt; therefore thou art building the wall, and thou wilt be a king to them. 6 And moreover thou hast appointed prophets to thyself, that thou mightest dwell in Jerusalem as a king over Judah: and now these words will be reported to the king. Now then, come, let us take counsel together. 7 And I sent to him, saying, It has not happened according to these words, even as thou sayest, for thou framest them falsely out of thy heart. 8 For all were trying to alarm us, saying, Their hands shall be weakened from this work, and it shall not be done. Now therefore I have strengthened my hands.

Then came in the house of Semei the son of Dalai the son of Matabel, and he was shut up: and he said, Let us assemble together in the house of God, in the midst of it, and let us shut the doors of it; for they are coming by night to slay thee. 10 And I said, 11 Who is the man that shall enter into the house, that he may live? 12 And I observed, and beheld, God had not sent him, for the prophecy was a false, devised against me: 13 and Tobias and Sanballat had hired against me a multitude, that I might be frightened, and do this, and sin, and become to them an ill name, that they might reproach me.

Remember, O God, Tobias and Sanballat, according to these their deeds, and the false prophets Noadiah, and the rest of the prophets which tried to alarm me.

So the wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul, in fifty-two days. 16 And it came to pass, when all our enemies heard of it, that all the nations round about us feared, and great alarm fell upon them, and they knew that it was of our God that this work should be finished.

And in those days letters came to Tobias from many nobles of Judah, and those of Tobias came to them. 18 For many in Judah were bound to him by oath, because he was son-in-law of Sechenias the son of Hero, and Joppa his son had taken the daughter of Mesulam the son of Barachia to wife. 19 And they reported his words to me, and carried out my words to him: and Tobias sent letters to terrify me.

And it came to pass, when the wall was built, and I had set up the doors, and the porters and the singers and the Levites were appointed, 2 that I gave charge to Ananias my brother, and Ananias the ruler of the palace, over Jerusalem; for he was a true man, and one that feareth God beyond many. 3 And I said to them, The gates of Jerusalem shall not be opened till sunrise, and while they are still watching, let the doors be shut, and bolted; and set watches.

And a part of the heads of families gave into the treasury to Neemias for the work a thousand $ pieces of gold, fifty bowls, and thirty priests' garments. And some of the heads of families gave into the treasuries of the work, twenty thousand pieces of gold, and two thousand three hundred pounds of silver. And the rest of the people gave twenty thousand pieces of gold, and two thousand two hundred pieces of silver, and sixty-seven priests' garments. And the priests, and Levites, and porters, and singers, and some of the people, and the Nethinim, and all Israel, dwelt in their cities. And the seventh month arrived, and the children of Israel were settled in their cities; and all the people were gathered as one man to the broad place before the water-gate, and they told Esdras the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the Lord commanded Israel. So Esdras the priest brought the law before the congregation both of men and women, and every one who had understanding was present to hearken on the first day of the seventh month. And he read it from the time of sun-rise to the middle of the day, before the men and the women; and they understood it, and the ears of all the people were attentive to the book of the law. And Esdras the scribe stood on a wooden stage, and there stood next to him Mattathias, and Samaas, and Ananias, and Ursias, and Chelias, and Maasia, and Bezechia, and Mythil, and Melyxias, and Ascom, and Azabcham, and Zacharias, and Mesollam. And Esdras opened the book before all the people, for he was above the people; and it came to pass when he had opened it, that all the people stood. And Esdras blessed the Lord, the great God: and all the people answered, and said, Amen, lifting up their hands: and they bowed their heads, and worshipped the Lord with their face to the ground. And Jesus and Banaas and Saria-bias instructed the people in the law, and the people stood in their place. And they read in the book of the law of God, and Esdras taught, and instructed them distinctly in the knowledge of the Lord, and the people understood the law in the reading.

And Neemias, and Esdras the priest and scribe, and the Levites, and they that instructed the people, spoke and said to all the people, It is a holy day to the Lord our God; do not mourn, nor weep. For all the people wept when they heard the words of the law. And the governor said to them, Go, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions to them that have nothing; for the day is holy to our Lord: and faint not, for the Lord is our strength. And the Levites caused all the people to be silent, saying, Be silent, for it is a holy day, and despond not. So all the people departed to eat, and to drink, and to send portions, and to make great mirth, for they understood the words which he made known to them.

And on the second day the heads of families assembled with all the people, also the priests and Levites, to Esdras the scribe, to attend to all the words of the law. And they found written in the law which the Lord commanded Moses, that the children of Israel should dwell in booths, in the feast in the seventh month; and that they should sound with trumpets in all their cities, and in Jerusalem. And Esdras said, Go forth to the mountain, and bring 7 branches of olive, and branches of cypress trees, and branches of palm trees, and branches of every thick tree, to make booths, according to that which was written. And the people went forth, and brought them, and made booths for themselves, each one upon his roof, and in their courts, and in the streets of the city, and as far as the gate of Ephraim. And all the congregation who had returned from the captivity, made booths, and dwelt in booths: for the children of Israel had not so done from the days of Jesus the son of Naue until that day: and there was great joy.

And Esdras read in the book of the law of God daily, from the first day even to the last day: and they kept the feast seven days; and on the eighth day a solemn assembly, according to the ordinance.

Now on the twenty-fourth day of this month the children of Israel assembled with fasting, and in sackcloths, and with ashes on their head. And the children of Israel separated themselves from every stranger, and stood and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers. And they stood in their place, and read in the book of the law of the Lord their God; and they confessed their sins to the Lord, and worshipped the Lord their God. And there was a great upheaval of the Levites, the sons of Jesus, and the sons of Cadmial, Sechena the son of Sarabia, sons of Choneni; and they cried with a loud voice to the Lord their God. And the Levites, Jesus and Cadmial, said, Rise up, bless the Lord our God for ever and ever: and let them bless thy glorious name, and exalt it with all blessing and praise.

And Esdras said, Thou art the only true Lord; thou madest the heaven, and the heaven of heavens, and all their array, the earth, and all things that are in it, the sea, and all things in them; and thou quickenest all things, and the hosts of heaven worship thee.

Then the Lord God, thou didst choose Abram, and broughtest him out of the land of the Chaldians, and gavest him the name of Abram: and thou foundest his heart faithful before thee, and didst make a covenant with him to give to him and to his seed the land of the Chananites, and the Chettites, and Amorites, and Philistines, and the Jebusites, and the Gergesites: and thou hast confirmed thy words, for thou art righteous.

And thou savest the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and thou heardest their cry at the Red Sea. 10 And thou shewedst signs and wonders in Egypt, on Pharaoh and all his servants, and on all the people of his land: for thou knowest that they behaved insolently against them: and thou madest thyself a name, as at this day. 11 And thou didst cleave the sea before them, and they passed through the midst of the sea on dry land; and thou didst set up the deep against them as a stone in the mighty water.

12 And thou guidedst them by day by a pillar of cloud, and by night by a pillar of fire, to enlighten for them the way wherein they should walk. 13 Also thou camest down upon mount Sinai, and thou spakest to them out of heaven, and gavest them right judgments, and laws of truth, ordinances, and good commandments. 14 And thou didst make known to them thy holy sabbath; thou didst enjoin upon them commandments, and ordinances, and a law, by the land of thy servant Moses. 15 And thou gavest them bread from heaven for their food, and thou didst instruct them to go forth out of Egypt, and thou madest them dwell in the midst of the sea.

16 But they and our fathers behaved proudly, and hardened their neck, and did not hearken to thy commandments, 17 and refused to listen, and remembered not thy wonders which thou wroughtest among them; and they hardened their neck, and appointed a leader to return to their slavery in Egypt: but thou, O God, art merciful and compassionate, long-suffering, and abundant in mercy, and thou didst not forsake them. 18 And still further they even made to themselves a molten calf, and said, These are the gods which brought us up out of Egypt: and they wrought great provocations.

19 Yet thou in thy great compassions didst not forsake them in the wilderness; thou didst not turn away from them the pillar of the cloud by day, to guide them in the way, nor the pillar of fire by night, to enlighten for them the way wherein they should walk. 20 And thou gavest them thy good Spirit to instruct them, and thou didst not withhold thy manna from their mouths, nor didst thou give them water in their thirst. 21 And thou didst sustain them forty years in the wilderness; thou didst not allow anything to fail them: their garments did not wax old, and their feet were not bruised.

22 Moreover thou gavest them kingdoms, and didst divide nations to them: and they inherited the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, and the land of Og king of Bashan. 23 And thou didst multiply their children as the stars of heaven, and broughtest them into the land of which thou spakest to their fathers; 24 and they inherited it: and thou didst destroy from before them the dwellers in the land of the Canaanites, and thou gavest it into the hands of them and their kings, and the nations of the land, to do unto them as it pleased them. 25 And they took lofty cities, and inherited houses full of all good things, wells dug, vineyards, and oliveyards, and every fruit tree in abundance: so they ate, and were filled, and grew fat, and rioted in thy great goodness.

25 But they turned, and revoluted from thee, and cast thy law behind their backs; and they slew thy prophets, who testified against them to turn them back to thee, and they wrought great provocations.

26 Then thou gavest them into the hand of them that afflicted them, and they did afflict them: and they cried unto thee in the time of their affliction, and thou didst hear them from thy heaven, and in thy great compassions gavest them deliverers, and didst save them from the hand of them that afflicted them.

27 But when they rested, they did evil again before thee: so thou leftest them in the hands of their enemies, and they ruled over them: and they cried again to thee, and thou hearest them from heaven, and didst deliver them in thy great compassions.

28 And thou didst testify against them, to bring them back to thy law: but they hearkened not, but sinned against thy commandments, and they hardened their neck, and heard not. Yet thou didst bear long with them many years, and didst testify to them by thy Spirit by the hand of thy prophets: but they hearkened not; so thou gavest them into the hand of the nations of the land.

29 But thou in thy many mercies didst not appoint them to destruction, and didst not forsake them; for thou art strong, and merciful, and pitiful.

30 And now, O our God, the powerful, the great, the mighty, and the terrible, keeping thy covenant and thy mercy, let not all the trouble seem little in thy sight which hath come upon us, and our fathers, and our priests, and our kings, and our princes, and our priests, and our fathers, and upon all thy people, from the days of the kings of Assur even to this day.

31 But thou art righteous in all the things that come upon us; for thou hast wrought faithfully, but we have greatly sinned.

32 And our kings, and our princes, and our priests, and our fathers, have not performed thy law, and have not given heed to thy commandments, and have not kept thy testimonies which thou didst testify to them. And they did not serve thee in thy kingdom, and in thy great goodness which thou gavest to them, and in the large and fat land which thou didst furnish before them, and they turned not from their evil devices. Behold, we are servants this day, as for the land which thou gavest to our fathers to eat the fruit of it and the good things of it, behold, we are servants upon it: and its produce is abundant for the kings whom thou didst appoint over us, and our kings, and they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, as it pleaseth them, and we are in great affliction.

33 And in regard to all these circumstances we make a covenant, and write it, and our princes, our Levites, and our priests, set their seal to it.

34 Then Nehemiah the son of Hacaliah, wrote an covenant, and set a copy thereof between him and the rulers, and the priests, and the Levites.

35 And he made an end of all the words of this covenant, and wrote it in a book, according to all the words of the covenant. And Nehemiah the governor, and Zechariah the son of Shekaniah, andjamnia and the priests, sealed it.

36 And they blew the trumpets before the army, and said, The blessing of the Lord be upon our brethren, that set their heart to seek the Lord God of their fathers.

37 And when they blew the trumpets, they lifted up their voices with the sound of the trumpet, and said, The blessing of the Lord be upon our brethren.

38 And they said, Praise the Lord, the God of our fathers, and bow your heads with reverence before the sanctuary of the Lord.

39 Then the Levites gave the priests the tithes: and the Levites, having taken them, gave them to the priests, because the Levites had the charge of the tithes, because they were the keepers of the sanctuary, and had given them by the commandment of the Lord, the God of Israel.

40 And the Levites gave their tithes unto the children of Aaron the priests, unto the house of their fathers, by the commandment of the Lord, as it is written in the law.

41 And the commandment of the Lord was sure in the hand of Nehemiah, and in the hand of his brethren the priests, to seek the Lord God of their fathers, to do with zeal all the commandments of the Lord, and with joy.

42 For the Lord is good, and his mercy is everlasting: and his truth endureth from generation to generation.

And the priests of the Levites dwelt in Jerusalem: and the rest of the people cast lots, to bring one of every ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine parts in the other cities. And the people blessed all the men that volunteered to dwell in Jerusalem.

And the priests of the Levites dwelt in Jerusalem: and the children of Juda dwelt in Jerusalem and in the cities of Juda; every man dwelt in his possession in his cities; Israel, the priests, and the Levites, and the Nethinim, and the children of the servants of Solomon were in Jerusalem.

And there dwelt in Jerusalem some of the children of Juda, and of the children of Benjamin. Of the children of Juda; Athaia son of Azia, the son of Zacharia, the son of Samaria, the son of Saphatia, the son of Maleeel, and some of the sons of Phares; and Maasia son of Baruch, son of Chalaza, son of Ozia, son of Adaia, son of Joarib, son of Zacharias, son of Seloni. All the sons of Phares who dwelt in Jerusalem were four hundred and sixty-eight men of might.

And these were the children of Benjamin; Selo son of Mesulam, son of Joad, son of Phadaia, son of Colea, son of Maasias, son of Ofelia, son of Jasia. And after him Gebe, Selin, nine hundred and twenty-eight.

And Joel son of Zechri was overseer over them; and Juda son of Asana was second in the city.

Of the priests; both Jadia son of Joarib, and Jachin. Bariah, son of Elchiah, son of Mesulam, son of Saddeus, son of Maritch, son of Zeloth, was over the house of God.

And their brethren doing the work of the house were eight hundred and twenty-two: and Adaia son of Jerem, son of Phallaia, son of Amas, son of Zacharia, son of Phassur, son of Melchia, and his brethren, chiefs of families, two hundred and forty-two: and Amasia son of Esriel, son of Mesulm, son of Emmer, and his brethren, mighty men of war, a hundred and twenty-eight: and their overseer was Badiel son of one of the great men.

And of the Levites; Samia, son of Esricam, Matthinas son of Micha, and Jobeb son of Samul, two hundred and eighty-eight.

And the porters; Acub, Telam, and their brethren, a hundred and seventy-two.

And the overseer of the Levites was the son of Bani, son of Ozi, the son of Asabia,

| 1     | And Phatthai, son of Basea, was in attendance on the king in every matter of the people, and with ward to villages in their country district: and some of the children of Juda dwelt in Cariatharbo, and in Jesu, and in Bersabee: and their villages were Iachis and her lands: and they pitched their tents in Bersabee. And the children of Benjamin dwelt from Gabaa to Mechalath, and of the Levites there were divisions to Juda and to Benjamin. Now these are the priests and the Levites that went up with Zorobabel the son of Salathiel and Jesus; Saria, Jeremia, Esdra, Amaria, Maluch, Scehenia. These were the chiefs of the priests, and their brethren in the days of Jesus. And the Levites were, Jesus, Banni, Cadiuel, Saraib, Jodae, Mathania; he was over the 7 bands, and his brethren were appointed to the daily courses. And Jesus begot Joakim, and Joakim begot Eliaib, and Eliaib begot Jodae, and Jodae begot Jonathan, and Jonathan begot Jada. And in the days of Joakim, his brethren the priests and the heads of families were, belonging to Saria, Amaria, to Jeremia, Anania; to Esdra, Mesulam; to Amaria, Joan; to Almud, Jonathan; to Sechenia, Joseph; to Are, Mannas; to Mioth, Eliac; to Adai, Zacharia; to Ganathoth, Mesolam; to Abin, Zechar; to Minian, Majda; to Pheleti, one; to Balsag, Samue; to Semia, Jonathan; to Joarib, Matthias; to Edio, Ozie; to Salai, Callai; to Ame, Abed; to Elia, Assibias; to Jedei, Nathanael. The Levites in the days of Eliaib, Joada, and Joa, and Joanan, and Idua, were recorded heads of families: also the priests, in the reign of Darius the Persian. And the sons of Levi, heads of families, were written in the book of the 5 chronicles, even up to the days of the son of Eliac. And the heads of the Levites were, Asaph, and Sarabia, and Jesu: and the sons of Cadmuel, and their brethren over against them, were to sing hymns of praise, according to the commandment of David the man of God, course by course. When I gathered the porters, it was in the days of Joakim, son of Jesus, son of Josede, and in the days of Neemia: and Esdra, the priest was scribe. And at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites in their places, to bring them to Jerusalem, to keep a feast of dedication and gladness with thanksgiving, and they sounded cymbals with songs, and bad psalteries and harps.

And they brought up the princes of Juda on the wall, and they appointed two great companies for thanksgiving, and they passed on the right hand on the wall of the dunghole. And after they went Osaia, and half the princes of Juda, and Azarias, and Esdras, and Mesollam, and Juda, and Benjamin, and Samailas and Jeremiah. And some of the princes of the priests, Zacharias son of Jonathan, son of Samaila, son of Matthan, son of Michania, son of Zacchur, son of Asaph: and his brethren, Samaia, and Oziel, Geloe, Jana, Aia, Nathanael, and Juda, Anani, to praise with the hymns of David the man of God; and Esdras the scribe was before them, at the gate, to praise before them and they went up by the steps of the city of David, in the ascent of the wall, above the house of David, even to the water-gate of Ephraim, and to the fish-gate, and by the tower of Ana- meel, and as far as the sheep-gate. And the singers were heard, and were numbered. And in that day they offered great sacrifices, and rejoiced; for God had made them very joyful: and their wives and their children rejoiced: and the joy in Jerusalem was heard from afar off.

And in that day they appointed men over the treasuries, for the treasuries, the first-fruits, and the tithes, and for the chief of the cities who were assembled among them, to furnish portions for the priests and Levites: for there was joy in Juda over the priests and over the Levites that waited. And they kept the 5 charges of their God, and the charges of the purification, and ordered the singers and the porters, according to the commandements of David and his son Solomon. For in the days of David Asaph was originally first of the singers, and they sang hymns and praise to God. And all Israel in the days of Zorobabel, and in the days of Neemias, gave the portions of the singers and the porters, a daily rate; and consecrated them to the Levites: and the Levites consecrated them to the sons of Aaron. In the days of Nebucodonosor, the king of Babylon, he wrote the book of Moses in the ears of the people; and it was found written in it, that the Ammonites and Moabites should not enter into the congregation of God for ever; because they met not the children of Israel with bread and water, but hired Balaam against them to curse them: but our God turned the curse into a blessing. And it came to pass, when they heard the law, that they were separated, even every alien in Israel.

And before this time Eliasib the priest dwelt in the treasury of the house of our God, connected with Tobiah; and he made himself a great treasury, and there they were formerly in the habit of bestowing the offerings, and the frankincense and the wine, and the oil, the portioned order of the Levites, and singers, and porters; and the first-fruits of the priests. But in all this time I was not in Jerusalem; for in the thirty-second year of Arasstatua king of Babylon I came to the king, and after a certain time I made my request of the king; 7 and I came to Jerusalem, and I understood the mischief which Eliasib had in the case of Tobias, in making for him a treasury in the court of the house of God.

8. And it appeared very evil to me: so I cast forth all the furniture of the house of Tobias from the treasury. 9. And I gave orders, and they purified the treasures; and I restored thither the vessels of the house of God, and the offerings, and the frankincense.

10. And I understood that the portion of the Levites had not been given: and they had fled every one to his field, the Levites and the singers doing the work. 11. And I strove with the commanders, and said, Wherefore has the house of God been abandoned? and I assembled them, and set them in their place. 12. And all Judah brought a tithe of the wheat and the wine and the oil into the treasuries, 13. to the charge of Selemia the priest, and Sadoc the scribe, and Phadra of the Levites; and next to them was Anan the son of Zacchur, son of Matthanias; for they were accounted faithful; it was their office to distribute to their brethren.

15. Remember me, O God, in this, and let not my kindness be forgotten which I have wrought in regard to the house of the Lord God.

16. In those days I saw in Judah men treading wine-presses on the sabbath, and carrying sheaves, and loading asses with both wine and grapes, and figs, and every kind of burden, and bringing them into Jerusalem on the sabbath-day: and I testified in the day of their sale. Also there dwelt in it men bringing fish, and selling every kind of merchandise to the children of Juda and in Jerusalem on the sabbath. 17. And I strove with the free children of Juda, and said to them, What is this evil thing which ye do, and profane the sabbath-day? 18. Did not your fathers thus? and our God brought on them and upon us and upon this city all these evils? and do ye bring additional wrath upon Israel by profaning the sabbath?
19. And it came to pass, when the gates were set up in Jerusalem, before the sabbath, that I spoke, and they shut the gates;
and I gave orders that they should not be opened till after the sabbath: and I set some of my servants at the gates, that none should bring in burdens on the sabbath-day.
20. So all the merchants lodged, and carried on traffic without Jerusalem once or twice.
21. Then I testified against them, and said to them, Why do ye lodge in front of the wall? if ye do so again, I will stretch out my hand upon you. From that time they came not on the sabbath. 22. And I told the Levites who were purifying themselves, and came and kept the gates, that they should sanctify the sabbath-day.

Remember me, O God, for these things,

[In the second year of the reign of Artaxerxes the great king, on the first day of Nisan, Mordecai, the son of Jairus, the son of Semejas, a Jew dwelling in the city Susa, a great man, serving in the king's palace, saw a vision. Now he was of the captivity which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had carried captive from Jerusalem, with Jehonias the king of Judah.

And this was his dream: Behold, voices and a noise, thunders and earthquake, tumult upon the earth. And, behold, two great serpents came forth, both ready for conflict, and there came from them a great voice, and by their voice every nation was prepared for battle, even to fight against the nation of the just. And, behold, a day of darkness and blackness, tribulation and anguish, affliction and great tumult upon the earth. And all the righteous nation was troubled, fearing their own afflictions; and they prepared to die, and cried to God: and from their cry there came as it were a great river from a little fountain, even much water. And light and the sun arose, and the lowly were exalted, and devoured the honourable.

And Mardocheus who had seen this vision and what God designed to do, having awoke, kept it in his heart, and desired by all means to interpret it, even till night. And Mardocheus rested quiet in the palace with Gabatha and Tharrah the king’s two chamberlains, eunuchus who guarded the palace. And he heard their reasonings and searched out their plans, and learnt that they were preparing to lay hands on king Axtaxeres: and he informed the king concerning them. And the king examined the two chamberlains, and they confessed, and were executed. And the king wrote these things for a memorial; also Mardocheus wrote concerning these matters. And the king commanded Mardocheus to attend in the palace, and gave him gifts for this service. And Aman the son of Amadathes the Bugean was honourable in the sight of the king, and he endeavoured to hurt Mardocheus and his people, because of the two chamberlains of the king.

And it came to pass after these things in the days of Axtaxeres,—(this Axtaxeres ruled over a hundred and twenty-seven provinces,)—in those days, when king Axtaxeres was on the throne in the city of Susa, in the third year of his reign, he made a feast to his friends, and to the other nations, and to the nobles of the Persians and Medes, and the chief of the satraps.

And after this, after he had shewn to them the wealth of his kingdom, and the abundant glory of his wealth during a hundred and eighty days, then, I say, in the days of the marriage feast were completed, the king made a banquet to the nations who were present in the city six days, in the court of the king’s house, which was adorned with hangings of fine linen and flax on cords of fine linen and purple, fastened to golden and silver studs, on pillars of Parian marble and stone: there were golden and silver couches on a pavement of emerald stone, and of pearl, and of Parian stone, and open-worked coverings variously flowered, having roses worked round about; gold and silver cups, and a small cup of carbuncle set out of the value of thirty thousand talents, abundant and sweet wine, which the king himself drank. And this banquet was not according to the appointed law; but so the king would have it: and he charged the stewards to perform his will and that of the company. Also Astit the queen made a banquet for the women in the palace where king Axtaxeres dwelt.

Now on the seventh day the king, being merry, told Aman, and Bazan, and Tharrah, and Barazi, and Zetholha, and Abataza, and Tharaha, the seven chamberlains, servants of king Artaxerxes, to bring in the queen to him, to enthrone her, and crown her with the diadem, and to show her to the princes, and her beauty to the nations: for she was beautiful. But queen Astin hearkened not to him to come with the chamberlains: so the king was grieved and angered.

And he said to his friends, Thus has Astin spoken: pronounce therefore upon this case law and judgment. So Artaxerses, and Sarathen, and Malisara, the princes of the Persians and Medes, who were near the king, who sat chief in rank by the king, drew near to him, and reported to him according to the laws how it was proper to do to queen Astin, because she had not done the things commanded of the king by the chamberlains.

And Mucheus said to the king and to the princes, Queen Astin has not wronged the king only, but also all the king’s rulers and princes: for he has told them the words of the queen, and how she disobeyed the king. As then, said he, she refused to obey king Artaxerxes, so this day shall the other lords of the king and the Medes, having heard what she said to the king, dare in the same way to dishonour their husbands. If then it seem good to the king, let him make a royal decree, and let it be written according to the laws of the Medes and Persians, and let him not alter it: and let not the queen come in to him any more: and let the king give her royalty to a woman better than she. And let the law of the king which he shall have made, be widely proclaimed, in his kingdom: and so shall all the women give honour to their husbands, from the poor even to the rich.

And the king pleased the king and the princes; and the king did as Mucheus had said, and sent into all his kingdom through the several provinces, according to their language, in order that men might be feared in their own houses.

And after this the king’s anger was pacified, and he no more mentioned Astin, bearing in mind what she had said, and how he had condemned her. Then the servants of the king said, Let there be sought for the king chaste and beautiful young virgins.

And let the king appoint local governors in all the provinces of his kingdom, and let them select fair and chaste young damsel and bring them to the city Susa, into the women’s apartment, and let them be con- signed to the king’s chamberlain, the keeper of the women; and let things for purification and other attendance be given to them.

And let the woman who shall please the king be queen instead of Astin. And the things pleased the king; and he did so.

Now there was a Jew in the city Susa, and his name was Mardocheus, the son of Jairus, the son of Semeias, the son of Ciseus, of the tribe of Benjamin; who had been brought a prisoner from Jerusalem, which Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had carried into captivity. And he had a foster-child, daughter of Aminadab his father’s

And because the king's ordinance was published, many maids were gathered to the city Susa under the hand of Gai; and Esther was brought to Gai the keeper of the women. And the damsel pleased him, and she found favour in his sight; and he hastened to give her the things for purification, and her portion, and the seven maidens appointed her out of the palace: and he treated her and her maidens well in the women's apartment. But Esther discovered not her family nor her kindred: for Mardocheus had charged her not to tell.

But Mardocheus used to walk every day by the women's court, to see what would become of Esther. Now this was the time for a virgin to go in to the king, when she should have fulfilled twelve months; for so are the days of purification fulfilled, six months while they are anointing themselves with oil of myrrh, and six months with spices and women's purifications. And when the damsel goes in to the king, the officer who introduces her shall give the command, will bring her to come in with him from the women's apartment to the king's chamber. She enters in the evening, and in the morning she departs to the second women's apartment, where Gai the king's chamberlain is keeper of the women; and she goes not in to the king again, unless she should be called by name.

And when the time was fulfilled for Esther the daughter of Aminadab the brother of Mardocheus' father to go in to the king, she neglected nothing which the chamberlain, the women's keeper, commanded; for Esther found grace in the sight of all that looked upon her. So Esther went in to king Artaxeres in the twelfth month, which is Adar, in the seventh year of his reign. And the king loved Esther, and she found favour beyond all the other virgins: and he put on her the queen's crown. And the king made a banquet for all his friends and great men for seven days, and he highly celebrated the marriage of Esther; and he made a release to those who were under his dominion. But Mardocheus served in the palace. Now Esther had not discovered her kindred: for so Mardocheus commanded her, to fear God, and perform his commandments, as when she was with him; and Esther changed not her manner of life.

And two chamberlains of the king, the chiefs of the body-guard, were grieved, because Mardocheus was promoted; and they sought to kill king Artaxeres. And the matter was discovered to Mardocheus, and he made it known to Esther, and she declared to the king the matter of the conspiracy. And the king examined the two chamberlains, and hanged them; and the king gave orders to make a note for a memorial in the royal records of the good offices of Mardocheus, as a commendation.
And after this king Artaxerxes highly honoured Aman son of Amadashe, the Bugesan, and exalted him, and set his seat above all his friends. And all in the palace did him obeisance, for so the king had given orders to: but Mardocheus did not do him obeisance. And they in the king's palace said to Mardocheus, Mardocheus, why dost thou transgress the commands of the king?

Thus they spoke daily to him, but he hearkened not unto them; so they represented to Aman that Mardocheus resisted the commands of the king; and Mardocheus had shewn to them that he was a Jew. And when Aman understood that Mardocheus did not obeisance to him, he was greatly enraged, and took counsel to destroy utterly all the Jews who were under the rule of Artaxerxes.

And he made a decree in the twelfth year of the reign of Artaxerxes, and cast lots daily and monthly, to slay in one day the race of Mardocheus; and the lot fell on the fourteenth day of the month which is Adar. And he spoke to king Artaxerxes, saying, There is a nation scattered among the nations in all thy kingdom, and their laws differ from those of all the other nations; and they disobey the laws of the king; and it is not expedient for the king to let them alone. If it seem good to the king, let him make a decree to destroy them: and I will remit into the king's treasury ten thousand talents of silver. And the king took off his ring, and gave it into the hands of Aman, to seal the decrees against the Jews. And the king said to Aman, Keep the silver, and treat the nation as thou wilt.

So the king's recorders were called in the first month, on the thirteenth day, and they wrote as Aman commanded to the captains and governors in every province, from India even to Ethiopia, to a hundred and twenty-seven provinces; and to the rulers of the nations according to their several languages, in the name of king Artaxerxes. And the message was sent by posts throughout the kingdom of Artaxerxes, to destroy utterly the race of the Jews on the first day of the twelfth month, which is Adar, and to plunder their goods.

And the following is the copy of the letter: The great king Artaxerxes writes thus to the rulers and inferior governors, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, from India even to Ethiopia, who hold authority under him. Ruling over many nations, and having obtained dominion over the whole world, I was minded, (not elated by the confidence of power, but ever conducting myself with great moderation and with gentleness,) to make the lives of my subjects continually tranquil, desiring both to maintain the kingdom quiet and orderly to its utmost limits, and to restore the peace desired by all men. But when I had enquired of my counsellors how this should be brought to pass, Aman, who excels in sounding of judgment among us, and has been manifestly well inclined without wavering and with unshaken fidelity, and has obtained the second post in the kingdom, informed us that a certain ill-disposed people is mixed up with all the tribes throughout the world, opposed in their laws, and the king, neglecting the commands of the kings, so that the united government blamelessly administered by us is not quietly established. Having then conceived that this nation alone of all others is continually set in opposition to every man, introducing as a change a foreign code of laws, and injuriously plotting to accomplish the worst of evils against our interests, and against the happy establishment of the monarchy; we have accordingly appointed those who are signified to you in the letters written by Aman, who is set over the public affairs and is our second governor, to destroy them all utterly with their wives and children by the swords of the enemies, without pitying or sparing any, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month Adar, of the present year, that the people aforesaid and now ill-disposed to us having been violently consigned to death in one day, may hereafter secure to us continually a well constituted and quiet state of affairs.

And the copies of the letters were published in every province; and an order was given to all the nations to be ready against that day. And the business was hastened, and that at Susa: and the king and Aman began to drink; but the city was troubled.

But Mardochæus having perceived what was done, rent his garments, and put on sackcloth, and sprinkled dust upon himself; and having rushed forth through the open street of the city, he cried with a loud voice. A nation that has done no wrong is going to be destroyed. And he came to the king's gate, and stood; for it was not lawful for him to enter into the palace, wearing sackcloth and ashes. And in every province where the letters were published, there was crying and lamentation and great mourning on the part of the Jews: they spread for themselves sackcloth and ashes. And the king's maids and chamberlains went in and told her: and when she had heard what was done, she was disturbed; and she sent to clothe Mardochæus, and take away his sackcloth; but he consented not. So Esther called for her chamberlady Acharathæus, who waited upon her; and she sent to learn the truth from Mardochæus. And Mardochæus shewed him what was done, and the promise which Aman had made the king of ten thousand talents to be paid into the treasury, that he might destroy the Jews. And he gave him the copy of the writing that was published in Susa concerning their destruction, to shew to Esther; and told him to charge her to go in and interreat the king, and to beg him for the people, remembering, said he, the days of thy low estate, how thou wert esteemed by my hand; because Aman who holds the next place to the king has spoken against us for death. Do thou call upon the Lord, and speak to the king concerning us to deliver us from death.
9 So Acharathseus went in and told her all these words. 10 And Esther said to Acharathseus, Go to Mardocheus, and say, 11 All the nations of the empire know, that whoever, man or woman, shall go in to the inner court uncalled, that person cannot live: only to whomsoever the king shall stretch out his golden sceptre, he shall live: and I have not been called to go in to the king, for these thirty days. 12 And Acharathseus reported to Mardocheus all the words of Esther.

13 Then Mardocheus said to Acharathseus, Go, and say to her, Esther, say not to thyself that thou alone will escape in the kingdom, more than all the other Jews. 14 For if thou shalt refuse to hearken on this occasion, help and protection will be to the Jews from another quarter; but thou and thy father's house will perish: and who knows, if thou hast been made queen for this very occasion? 15 And Esther sent the man that came to her to Mardocheus, saying, Go and assemble the Jews that are in Susa, and fast ye for me, and eat not and drink not for three days, night and day: and I also and my maidens will fast; and then will I go in to the king, contrary to the law, even if I must die. 16 So Mardocheus went and did all that Esther commanded him.

β [And he besought the Lord, making mention of all the works of the Lord; and he said, Lord γ God, king ruling over all, for all things are in thy power, and there is no one that shall oppose thee in thy purpose to save Israel.—For thou hast made the heaven and the earth, and every wonderful thing in the world under heaven. And thou art Lord of all, and there is no one who shall resist thee the Lord. Thou knowest all things: thou knowest, Lord, that it is not in insolence, nor haughtiness, nor love of glory, that I have done this, to refuse obeisance to the haughty Aman. For I would gladly have kissed the soles of his feet for the safety of Israel. But I have done this, that I might not set the glory of man above the glory of God: and I will not worship any one except thee, my Lord, and I will not do these things in insolence. And now, O Lord God, the King, the God of Abram, spare thy people, for our enemies are looking upon us to our destruction, and they have desired to destroy thine ancient inheritance. Do not overlook thy peculiar people, whom thou hast redeemed for thyself out of the land of Egypt. Hearken to my prayer and be gracious to thine inheritance, and turn our mourning into gladness, that we may live and sing praise to thy name, O Lord; and do not utterly destroy the month of them that praise thee, O Lord.

And all Israel cried with all their might, for their death was before their eyes. And queen Esther betook herself for refuge to the Lord, being taken as it were in the agony of death. And having taken off her glorious apparel, she put on garments of distress and mourning; and instead of grand perfumes she filled her head with ashes and dung, and she greatly brought down her body, 5 “And it came to pass on the third day, when she had ceased praying, that she put off her morose dress, and put on her glorious apparel. And being splendidly arrayed, and having called upon God the Overseer and Preserver of all things, she took her two maids, and she leaned upon one, as a delicate female, and the other followed bearing her train. And she was blooming in the perfection of her beauty; and her face was cheerful, as it were benevolent, but her heart was straitened for fear. And having passed through all the doors, she stood and she filled every place of her glad adorning with the torn curls of her hair.

And she besought the Lord God of Israel, and said, O my Lord, though I art no king; help me who am destitute, and have no helper but thee, for my danger is near at hand. I have heard from my birth, in the tribe of my kindred, that thou, Lord, tookst Israel out of all the nations, and our fathers out of all their kindred for a perpetual inheritance, and hast wrought for them all that the Lord God said. And now we have sinned before the Lord, and he hath delivered us into the hands of our enemies, because we honoured their gods: thou art righteous, O Lord. But now they have not been content with the bitterness of our slavery, but have laid their hands on the hands of their idols, in order to abolish the decree of thy mouth, and utterly to destroy thine inheritance, and to stop the mouth of them that praise thee, and to extinguish the glory of thine house and thine altar, and to open the mouth of the Gentiles to speak the praise of vanities, and in order that a mortal king should be admired for ever.

O Lord, do not resign thy sceptre to them that are not, and let them not laugh at our fall, and drive us out of our kindred, and cast us ourselves, and make an example of him who has begun to injure us. Remember us, O Lord, manifest thyself in the time of our affliction, and encourage me, O king of gods, and ruler of all dominion. Put harmonious speech into my mouth before the lion, and turn his heart to hate him that fights against us, to the utter destruction of him and of them that consent with him. But deliver us by thine hand, and help me who am destitute, and have none but thee, O Lord. Thou knowest all things, and knowest that I hate the glory of transgressors, and that I abhor the couch of the unchaste, and of every stranger. Thou knowest my necessity, for I abhor the symbol of shame, which is upon my head in the days of my splendour: I abhor it as a menstruous cloth, and I wear it not in the days of my tranquillity. And thy handmaid has not eaten at the table of Aman, and I have not honoured the banquet of the king, neither have I drunk wine of libations. Neither has thy handmaid rejoiced since the day of my promotion until now, except in the days of God of Abraam. O God, who hast power over all, hearken to the voice of the desperate, and deliver us from the hand of them that devise mischief; and deliver me from my fear.

And it came to pass on the third day, when she had ceased praying, that she put off her morose dress, and put on her glorious apparel. And being splendidly arrayed, and having called upon God the Overseer and Preserver of all things, she took her two maids, and she leaned upon one, as a delicate female, and the other followed bearing her train. And she was blooming in the perfection of her beauty; and her face was cheerful, as it were benevolent, but her heart was straitened for fear. And having passed through all the doors, she stood before the king: and he was sitting upon his royal throne, and he had put on all his glorious apparel, covered all over with gold and precious stones, and was very terrible. And having raised his face resplendent with glory, he looked with intense anger: and the queen fell, and changed her countenance, and she fainted; and she bowed herself upon the head of the maid that went before her. But God changed the spirit of the king to gentleness, and in intense feeling he sprang from off his throne, and took her into his arms, until she recovered: and he comforted her with peaceable words and said to her, "What is this matter, Esther? I am thy brother; be of good cheer, thou shalt not die, for our command is openly declared to thee, Draw nigh.

And having raised the golden sceptre he laid it upon her neck, and embraced her, and said, Speak to me. And she said to him, I saw thee, my lord, as an angel of God, and my heart was troubled for fear of thy glory; for thou, my lord, art to be wondered at, and thy face is full of grace. And while she was speaking, she fainted and fell. Then the king was troubled, and all his servants comforted her.] *And the king said, What wilt thou, Esther, and what is thy request and what is the thing of which thou speakest?" And the king said to the half of my kingdom, and it shall be thine. *And Esther said, To-day is my great day: if then it seem good to the king, let both him and Aman come to the feast which I will prepare this day. *And the king said, Hasted Aman hither, that we may perform the word of Esther. So they both came to the feast of which Esther had spoken.

*And at the banquet the king said to Esther, What is thy request, queen Esther? speak, and thou shalt have all that thou requirest. *And she said, My request and my petition are: If I have found favour in the sight of the king, let the king and Aman come together to the feast which I shall prepare for them, and to-morrow I will do the same.

*So Aman went out from the king very glad and merry: but when Aman saw Mordecai the Jew in the court, he was greatly enraged. *And having gone into his own house, he called his friends, and his wife Zosara. *And he shewed them his wealth, and the glory with which the king had invested him, and how he had caused him to take precedence and bear chief rule in the kingdom. *And Aman said, The queen has called no one to the feast with the king but me, and I am invited to-morrow.

*But these things please me not, while I see Mordecai the Jew in the court. *And Zosara his wife and his friends said to him, Let there be a gallon made for thee of fifty cubits, and in the morning do thou speak to the king, and let Mordecai be hanged on the gallows: but do thou go in to the feast with the king, and be merry. And the saying pleased Aman, and the gallows was prepared.

And the king said, What honour or favour have we done to Mardocheus? And the king's servants said, Thou hast not done anything to him. 4 And while the king was enquiring about the kindness of Mardocheus, behold, Aman was in the court. 5 And the king said, Who is there in the court? Now Aman was come in to speak to the king, that he should hang Mardocheus on the gallows, which he had prepared. 6 And the king's servants said, Behold, Aman stands in the court. 7 And the king said, Call him.

And the king said to Aman, What shall I do to the man whom I wish to honour? And Aman said within himself, Whom would the king honour but myself? 2 and he said to the king, As for the man whom the king wishes to honour, let the king's servants bring the robe of fine linen which the king puts on, and the horse on which the king rides, 3 and let him give it to one of the king's noble friends, and let him array the man whom the king loves; and let him mount him on the horse, and proclaim through the street of the city, saying, Thus shall it be done to every man whom the king honours. 4 Then the king said to Aman, Thou hast well said: so do to Mardocheus the Jew, who waits in the palace, and let not a word of what thou hast spoken be neglected. 5 So Aman took the robe and the horse, and arrayed Mardocheus, and mounted him on the horse, and went through the street of the city, and proclaimed, saying, Thus shall it be to every man whom the king wishes to honour.

And Mardocheus returned to the palace; but Aman was set over the banquet which Esther had prepared. So the king and Aman went in to drink with the queen. 2 And the king said to Esther at the banquet on the second day, What is it, queen Esther? and what is thy request, and what is thy pet? 3 And it shall be done for thee, to the half of my kingdom. 4 And she answered and said, If I have found favour in the sight of the king, let my life be granted to my petition, and my people to my request. 5 For both I and my people are sold for destruction, and pillage, and slavery; both we and our children for bondmen and bondwomen: and I consented not to it, for the stranger is not worthy of the king's palace. And the king said, Who is this that has dared to do this thing? And Esther said, The Adversary is Aman, this wicked man. Then Aman was troubled before the king and the queen.

And the king rose up from the banquet to go into the garden; and Aman began to intreat the king for; for he saw that he was in an evil case.

And the king returned from the garden; and Aman had fallen upon the bed, intreating the queen. And the king said, Wilt thou even force my wife in my house? And when Aman heard it, he changed countenance.

And Bugash, one of the chamberlains, said to the king, Behold, Aman has also prepared a gallow for Mardocheus, who spoke concerning the king, and a gallow of forty cubits high has been set up in the premises of Aman. And the king said, Let him be hanged thereon. So Aman was hanged on the gallows that had been prepared for Mardocheus; and then the king's wrath was appeased.

And in that day king Artaxerxes gave to Esther all that belonged to Aman the slan- derer; and Mardocheus was called by the king; for Esther had shewn that he was related to her. And the king took the ring which he had taken away from Aman, and gave it to Mardocheus; and Esther appointed Mardocheus over all that had been Aman's.

And she spoke yet again to the king, and fell at his feet, and besought him to do away with the mischiefs of Aman, and all that he had done against the Jews. Then the king stretched out to Esther the golden sceptre; and Esther arose to stand near the king.

And Esther said, If it seem good to thee, and I have found favour in thy sight, let an order be sent that the letters sent by Aman may be reversed, that were written for the destruction of the Jews, who are in thy kingdom. For how shall I be able to look upon the affliction of my people, and how shall I be able to survive the destruction of my 5 kindred?

And the king said to Esther, If I have given and freely granted thee all that was Aman's, and hanged him on a gallow, because he laid his hands upon the Jews, what dost thou yet further seek? Write ye also in my name, as it seems good to you, and seal it with my ring: for whatever orders are written at the command of the king, and sealed with my ring, it is not lawful to gainsay them.

So the scribes were called in the first month, which is Nisan, on the three and twentieth day of the same year; and orders were written to the Jews, whatever the king had commanded to the local governors and chiefs of the satrapies, from India even to Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven satrapies, according to the several provinces, according to their dialects.

And they were written by order of the king, and sealed with his ring; and they sent the letters by the posts: wherein he charged them to use their own laws in every city, and to help each other, and to treat

12 And the following is the copy of the letter of the orders. [The great king Artaxerxes sends greeting to the rulers of provinces in a hundred and twenty-seven satrapies, from India to Ethiopia, even to those who are faithful to our interests. Many who have been frequently honoured by the most abundant kindness of their benefactors have conceived some desire to not only endeavour to hurt our subjects, but moreover, not being able to bear prosperity, they also endeavour to plot against their own benefactors. And they not only would utterly abolish gratefulness from among men, but also, elated by the boasings of men who are strangers to all that is good, they suppose that they shall escape the sin-hating vengeance of the ever-seeing God. And oftentimes evil exhortation has made partakers of the guilt of shedding innocent blood, and has involved in irreparable calamities, many of those who were appointed to offices of authority, who had been entrusted with the management of their friends’ affairs; while men, by the false solicitude of the kinsman, have received the simple cordon of the ruling powers. And it is possible to see this, not so much from more ancient traditionary accounts, as it is immediately in your power to see it by examining what things have been wickedly perpetrated by the baseness of men unworthily holding power. And it is right to take heed with regard to the future, that we may maintain the government in undisturbed peace for all men, adopting needful changes, and ever judging those cases which come under our notice, with truly equitable decision.

For whereas Aman, a Macedonian, the son of Amadathes, in reality an alien from the blood of the Persians, and differing widely from our mild course of government, having been hospitably entertained by us, obtained so large a share of our universal kindness, as to be called our father, and to continue the person next to the royal throne, reverenced of all; he, however, overcome by the pride of his station, endeavoured to deprive us of our dominion, and our life; having by various and subtle artifices demanded for destruction both Mardecheus our deliverer and perpetual benefactor, and Esther the blameless consort of our kingdom, with their whole nation. For by these methods he thought, having surprised us in a defenceless state, to transfer the dominion of the Persians to the Macedonians. But we find that the Jews, who have been consigned to destruction by the most abominable of men, are not malefactors, but living according to the justest laws, and being the sons of the living God, the most high and mighty, who maintains the kingdom, to us as well as to our forefathers, in the most excellent order.

Ye will therefore do well in refusing to their adversaries, and those who attacked them, as they pleased, on one day in all the kingdom of Artaxerxes, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is Adar.

13 "Ως γὰρ Ἀμαν Ἀμαδαθόν Μακεδῶν ταῖς αλληθείαις ἀλλότριος τοῦ τῶν Περσῶν αἴματος, καὶ πολὺ διεστάξας τῆς ἡμετέρας χρηστότητος ἐπέζησε ἡμῖν, ἐπηρεάσας ἐπὶ πᾶν τὸν σωτηρίας ἡμῶν πατέρα, καὶ προσκυνοῦμεν ὡς τῶν πατέρων τῶν Βασιλεοῦ θρόνου πρόσωπον διατείλειν. Esther IX. 14—13.

obey the letters sent by Aman the son of Amadathes, because he that has done these things, has been hanged with his whole family at the gates of Susa, Almighty God having swiftly returned to him a worthy recompense. We enjoin you then, having openly published a copy of this letter in every place, to give the Jews permission to use their own lawful customs, and to strengthen them, that on the thirteenth of the twelfth month Adar, on the selfsame day, they may defend themselves against those who attacked them in a time of affliction. For in the place of the destruction of the chosen race, Almighty God has granted them the remedy against this darkness.

Do ye therefore also, among your notable feasts, keep a distinct day with all festivity, that now and hereafter it may be a day of deliverance to us and those who are well disposed toward the Persians, but to those that plotted against us a memorial of destruction. And every city and province collectively, which shall not do accordingly, shall be consumed with vengeance by spear and fire: it shall be made not only inaccessable to men, but also most hateful to wild beasts and birds for ever.] And let the copies be posted in conspicuous places throughout the kingdom, and let all the Jews hear, and against this day, to fight against their enemies.

13 So the horsemen went forth with haste to perform the king's commands; and the ordinance was also published in Susa.

14 And Mardocheus went forth robed in the royal apparel, and wearing a golden crown, and of fine purpure and linen: and the people in Susa saw it and rejoiced.

15 And the Jews had light and gladness, in every city and province wherever the ordinance was published: wherever the proclamation took place, the Jews had joy and gladness, feasting and mirth: and many of the Gentiles were circumcised, and became Jews, for fear of the Jews.

16 In the twelfth month, on the thirteenth day of the month which is Adar, the letters written by the king arrived. In that day the adversaries of the Jews perished: not one resisted, through fear of them. For the chiefs of the satraps, and the princes and the royal scribes, honoured the Jews; for the fear of Mardocheus lay upon them. For the order of the king was in force, that he should be celebrated in all the kingdom. And in the city Susa the Jews slew five hundred men: both Pharsanthes, and Delphon and Phagias, and Pharamadis, and Baren, and Sarcas, and Marmosse, and Rupheas, and Armeus, and Zabutheus, ten sons of Aman the son of Amadathes the Bugean, the enemy of the Jews, and they plundered their property on the same day; and the number of them that perished in Susa was rendered to the king. And the king said to Esther, The Jews have slain five hundred men from the city Susa; and how, thoukest thou, have they used them in the rest of the country? What then dost thou yet ask, that it may be done for thee?

18 And Esther said to the king, Let it be granted to the Jews so to treat them tomorrow as to hang the ten sons of Amman.

14 And he permitted it to be so done; and he gave up to the Jews of the city the bodies of the sons of Aman to hang.

15 And the Jews assembled in Susa on the fourteenth day of Adar, and slew three hundred men, but plundered no property.

16 And the rest of the Jews who were in the kingdom assembled, and helped one another, and obtained rest from their enemies: for they destroyed fifteen thousand of them on the thirteenth day of Adar, but took no spoil. 17 And they rested on the fourteenth of the same month, and kept it as a day of rest with joy and gladness.

18 And the Jews in the city Susa assembled also on the fourteenth day and rested; and they kept also the fifteenth with joy and gladness.

19 On this account then it is that the Jews dispersed in every foreign land keep the fourteenth of Adar as a holy day with joy, sending portions each to his neighbour.

20 And Mor'dochæus wrote these things in a book, and sent them to the Jews, as many as were in the kingdom of Artaxerxes, both them that were near and them that were afar off, 21 to establish these as joyful days, and to keep the fourteenth and fifteenth of Adar; 22 for on these days the Jews obtained rest from their enemies; and as to the month, which was Adar, in which a change was made for them, from mourning to joy, and from sorrow to a good day, to spend the whole of it in good days of Yeasting and gladness, sending portions to their friends, and to the poor.

23 And the Jews consented to this accordingly as Mor'dochæus wrote to them, 24 shewing how Aman the son of Amadæus the Macedonian fought against them, how he made a decree and cast lots to destroy them utterly; 25 also how he went in to the king, telling him to hang Mor'dochæus: but all the calamities he tried to bring upon the Jews came upon himself, and he was hanged, and his children.

26 Therefore these days were called Ph'ruræ, because of the lots; (for in their language they are called Ph'ruræ:) because of the words of this letter, and because of all they suffered on this account, and all that happened to them.

27 And Mor'dochæus established it, and the Jews took upon themselves, and upon their seed, and upon those that were joined to them to observe it, neither would they on any account behave differently: but these days were to be a memorial kept in every generation, and city, and family, and province. 28 And these days of the Ph'ruræ, said they, shall be kept for all posterity, and their memorial shall not fail in any generation.

29 And queen Esther, the daughter of A'minadab, and Mor'dochæus the Jew, wrote all that they had done, and the confirmation of the letter of Ph'ruræ. 30 And Mor'dochæus and Esther the queen appointed a fast for themselves privately, even at that time also having formed their plan against their own health. 31 And Esther established it by a command for ever, and it was written for a memorial.
And the king levied a tax upon his kingdom both by land and sea. And as for his strength, and value out of all the wealth and glory of his kingdom, behold, they are written in the book of the Persians and Medes, for a memorial. And Mardochaeus was viceroy to king Artaxerxes, and was a great man in the kingdom, and honoured by the Jews, and passed his life beloved of all his nation.

[And Mardochaeus said, These things have been done of God. For I remember the dream which I had concerning these matters: for not one particular of them has failed. There was the little fountain, which became a river, and there was light, and the sun, and much water. The river is Esther, whom the king married, and made queen. And the two serpents are I and Aman. And the nations are those nations that combined to destroy the name of the Jews. But as for my nation, this is Israel, even they that cried to God, and were delivered: for the Lord delivered his people, and the Lord remembered his people, and God wrought such signs and great wonders as have not been done among the nations. Therefore did he ordain two lots, one for the people of God, and one for all the other nations. And these two lots came for an appointed season, and for a day of judgment, before God, and for all the nations. And God remembered his people, and vindicated his inheritance. And they shall observe these days, in the month Adar, on the fourteenth and on the fifteenth day of the month, with an assembly, and joy and gladness before God, throughout the generations for ever among his people Israel.

In the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemy and Cleopatra, Dositheus, who said that he was a priest and a Levite, and Ptolemy his son, brought in the published letter of Phurusa, which they said existed, and which Lysimachus the son of Ptolemy, who was in Jerusalem, had interpreted.

there was a certain man in the land of Auis, whose name was Job; and that man was true, blameless, righteous, and godly, abstaining from everything evil. 2 And he had seven sons and three daughters. 3 And his cattle consisted of seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred she-asses in the pastures, and a very great 5 household, and he had a great husbandry on the earth; and that man was most noble of the men of the cast.

4 And his sons visiting one another prepared a banquet every day, taking with them also their three sisters to eat and drink with them. 5 And when the days of the banquet were completed, Job sent and purified them, having risen up in the morning, and offered sacrifices for them, according to their number, and one calf for 7 a sin-offering for their souls; for Job said, Lent peradventure my sons have thought evil in their minds against God. Thus then Job did continua-ly.

6 And it came to pass on a day, that, behold, the angels of God came to stand before the Lord, and the devil came with them.
7 And the Lord said to the devil, Whence dost thou come? And the devil answered the Lord, and said, I am come from com-passing the earth, and walking up and down in the world. 8 And the Lord said to him,
Hast thou diligently considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a man blameless, true, godly, abstain-ing from everything evil? 9 Then the devil answered, and said before the Lord, Does Job worship the Lord for nothing? 10 Hast thou not made a hedge about him, and about his household, and all his possessions round about? and hast thou not blessed the works of his hands, and multiplied his cattle upon the land? 11 But put forth thine hand, and touch all that he has; verily he will bless thee to thy face. 12 Then the Lord said to the devil, Behold, I give into thine hand all that he has, but touch not himself. So the devil went out from the presence of the Lord.

13 And it came to pass on a certain day, that Job's sons and his daughters were drinking wine in the house of their elder brother. 14 And, behold, there came a messenger to Job, and said to him, The yokes of oxen were ploughing, and the she-asses were feeding near them; 14 and the spoilers came and took them for a prey, and slew the servants with the sword; and I having escaped alone am come to tell thee. 16 While he was yet speaking, there came another messenger, and said to Job, Fire has fallen from heaven, and burnt up the sheep, and devoured the shepherds likewise; and I having escaped alone am come to tell thee. 17 While he was yet speaking, there came another messenger, and said to Job, The horsemen formed three companies against us, and surrounded the camels, and took them for a prey, and slew the servants with the sword; and I only escaped, and am come to tell thee. While he is yet speaking, another messenger comes, saying to Job, While thy sons and thy daughters were eating and drinking with their elder brother, 18 suddenly a great wind came on from the desert, and caught the four corners of the house, and the house fell upon thy children, and they are dead; and I have escaped alone, and am come to tell thee.

20 So Job arose, and rent his garments, and shaved the hair of his head, and fell on the earth, and worshipped, 21 and said, I myself came forth naked from my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the Lord gave, the Lord has taken away; as it seemed good to the Lord, so has it come to pass; blessed be the name of the Lord. 22 In all these events that befell him Job sinned not at all before the Lord, and did not impute folly to God.

And it came to pass on a certain day, that the angels of God came to stand before the Lord, and the devil came among them to stand before the Lord. 2 And the Lord said to the devil, Whence comest thou? Then the devil said before the Lord, I come from going through the world, and walking about the whole earth. 3 And the Lord said to the devil, Hast thou then observed my servant Job, that there is none of men upon the earth like him, a harmless, true, blameless, godly man, abstaining from all evil? and he yet cleaves to innocencc, whereas thou hast told me to destroy his substance without cause? 4 And the devil answered and said to the Lord, Skin for skin, all that a man has will he give as a ransom for his life. 5 Nay, but put forth thine hand, and touch his bones and his flesh: verily he will bless thee to thy face. 6 And the Lord said to the devil, Behold, I deliver him up to thee; only save his life.

7 So the devil went out from the Lord, and smote Job with sore boils from his feet to his head. 8 And he took a potsherd to scrape away the discharge, and sat upon a dung-heap outside the city. 9 And when much time had passed, his wife said to him, How long wilt thou hold out, saying, Behold, I wait yet a little while, expecting the hope of my deliverance? for, behold, thy memorial is abolished from the earth, even thy sons and daughters, the pang and pains of my womb which I bore in vain with sorrow; and thou thyself sittest down to spend the nights in the open air among the corruption of worms, and I am a wanderer and a servant from place to place to house and house to wait for the setting of the sun, that I may rest from my labours and my pangs which now beset me: but say some word against the Lord, and die. 10 But he looked on her, and said to her, Thou hast spoken like one of the foolish women. If we have received good things of the hand of the Lord, shall we not endure evil things?

In all these things that happened to him, Job sinned not at all with his lips before God.
digging for it as for treasures; and would be very joyful if they should gain it. Death is rest to such a man, for God has hedged him in. For my groaning comes before me, and I weep before them. For the terror of which I meditated has come upon me, and that which I feared has befallen me. I was not at peace, nor quiet, nor had I rest; yet wrath came upon me.

Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said,

"Hast thou been often spoken to in distress? but who shall endure the force of thy words? For whereas thou hast instructed many, and hast strengthened the hands of the weak one, and hast supported the failing with words, and hast imparted courage to feeble knees. Yet now that pain has come upon thee, and touched thee, thou art troubled. Is not thy fear founded in folly, thy hope also, and the mischief of thy way? Remember then who has perished, being pure? or when were the true-hearted utterly destroyed? Accordingly as I have seen men ploughing barren places, and they that show them will rise up to possess them. They shall be punished by the command of the Lord, and shall be utterly consumed by the breath of his wrath.

The strength of the lion, and the voice of the lioness, and the exulting cry of serpents are quenched. The old lion has perished for want of food, and the lion's whelps have forsaken one another.

But if there had been any truth in thy words, none of these evils would have befallen thee. Shall not mine ear receive excellent revelations from him? But as when terror falls upon men, with dread and a sound in the night, horror and trembling seized me, and caused all my bones greatly to shake. And a spirit came before my face; and my hair and flesh quivered. I arose and perceived it not: I looked, and there was, no form before my eyes: but I only heard a breath and a voice, saying, What, shall a mortal be pure before the Lord? or a man be blameless in regard to his works? Whereas he trusts not in his servants, and perceives perverseness in his angels.

But as for them that dwell in houses of clay, of whom we also are formed of the same clay, he smites them like a moth. And from morning to evening they no longer exist: they have perished, because they cannot help themselves. For he blows upon them, and they are withered: they have perished for lack of wisdom.

But call, if any one will hearken to thee, or if thou shalt see any of the holy angels. For wrath destroys the foolish one, and envy slays him that has gone astray. And I have seen foolish ones taking root: but suddenly their habitation was devoted. Let their children be far from safety, and let them be bruised at the doors of vile men, and let there be no deliverer. For what they have collected, the just shall eat; but they shall not be delivered out of calamities: let their strength be utterly exhausted. For labour cannot by any means come out of the earth, nor shall trouble spring

7 And the hot anger of Koryn, Koryn.
8 For the hot anger of the people, the hot anger of the mountains.
9 Yet man is born to labour, and even so the vulture's young seek the high places.

Nevertheless I will beseech the Lord, and will call upon the Lord, the sovereign of all; who does great things and untraceable, glorious things also, and marvellous, of which there is no number: who gives rain upon the earth, sending water on the earth; who exalts the lowly, and raises them that are lost; frustrating the counsels of the crafty, and their hands shall not perform the truth: who takes the wise in their wisdom, and subverts the counsel of the crafty. In the day darkness shall come upon them, and let them grope in the noon-day even as in the night; and let them perish in war, and let the weak escape from the hand of the mighty.

But blessed is the man whom the Lord has reproved; and reject not thou the chastening of the Almighty. six times he shall deliver thee out of distresses: and in the seventh harm shall not touch thee. In famine he shall deliver thee from death: and in war he shall free thee from the power of the sword. He shall hide thee from the scourge of the tongue: and thou shalt not fear the pestilence of the night. If thou shalt come to the grave like ripe corn reaped in its season, or as a heap of the corn-flour collected in proper time.

Behold, we have thus sought out these matters: these are what we have heard: but do thou reflect with thyself, if thou hast done anything wrong.

But Job answered and said, Oh that one would indeed weigh the wrath that is upon me, and take up my griefs in a balance together! And verily they would be heavier than the sand by the seashore: but, as it seems, my words are vain. For the arrows of the Lord are in my body, whose violence drinks up my blood: whenever I am going to speak, they pierce me. What then? will the wild ass bray for nothing, if he is not seeking food? or again, will the ox low at the manger, when he has fodder? Shall bread be eaten without salt? or again, is there taste in empty words? For my wrath cannot cease; for I perceive my food as the smell of a lion to be loathsome.

For oh that he would grant my desire, and my petition might come, and the Lord would grant my hope. Let the Lord begin, and let him not utterly destroy me.

Let the grave be my city, upon the walls of which I have leaned: I will not shrink from it; for I have not denied the holy words of my God. For what is my strength, that I continue? what is my time, that my soul endures?

it rises not; and he seals up the stars. 8 Who alone has stretched out the heavens, and walks on the sea as on firm ground. 9 Who makes Pleias, and Hesperus, and Arcturus, and the chambers of the south. 10 Who does great and unsearchable things; glorious also and excellent things, innumerable.

11 If ever he should go beyond me, I shall not see him: if he should pass by me, neither thus have I known it. 12 If he would take away, who shall withstand him? or who shall be able to explain to him, What hast thou done? 13 For if he has turned away his anger, the whales under heaven have stood up under him.

14 Oh then that he would hearken to me, or judge my cause. 15 For though I be righteous, he will not hearken to me: I will intreat his judgment. 16 And if I should call and he should not hearken, I cannot believe that he has listened to my voice.

17 Let him not crush me with a dark storm: but he has made my bruises many without cause. 18 For he suffers me not to take breath, but he has filled me with bitterness. 19 For indeed he is strong in power; who then shall resist his judgment? 20 But, though I should seem to run nigh to the mouth of sheol; though I should seem blameless, I shall be proved perverse. 21 For even if I have sinned, I know it not in my soul: but my life is taken away.

22 Wherefore I said, Wrath slays the great and mighty man. 23 For the worthless die, but the righteous are laughed to scorn. For they are delivered into the hands of the unrighteous man: he covers the faces of the judges of the earth: but if it be not he, who is it? 24 But my life is swifter than a post: my days 9 have fled away, and they knew it not. 25 Or again, is there a trace of their path left by ships? or is there one of the flying eagle as it seeks its prey? 26 And if I should say, I will forget to speak, I will bow down my face and groan; 27 I quake in all my limbs, for I know that thou wilt not leave me alone as innocent.

28 But since I am ungodly, why have I not died? 29 For if I should wash myself with snow, and purge myself with pure hands, 30 thou hadst thoroughly plunged me in filth, and my garment had abhorred me. 31 For thou art not man like me, who should contend, that we might come together to judgment. 32 Would that he our mediator were present, and a reposer, and one who should hear the cause between both. 33 Let him remove his rod from me, and let not his fear terrify me: 34 so shall I not be afraid, but I will speak: for I am not thus conscious of guilt.

35 Weary in my soul, I will pour my words with groans upon him: I will speak being straitened in the bitterness of my soul. 36 And I will say to the Lord, Do not teach me to be impious; and wherefore hast thou thus judged me? 37 Is it good before thee if I be unrighteous? for thou hast disowned the work of thy hands, and attended to the counsel of the ungodly. 38 Or dost thou see as a mortal see; or wilt thou look as a man sees? 39 Or is thy life human, or thy years the years of a man, that thou hast enquired into mine iniquity, and searched out my sins? 40 For thou knowest that I have not committed iniquity; but who is he that can deliver out of the hands of thy kin...
Thy hands have formed me and made me; afterwards thou didst change thy mind, and smite me. Remember that thou hast made me as clay, and thou dost turn me again to earth. Hast thou not poured me out like milk, and curdled me like cheese? And thou didst clothe me with skin and flesh, and frame me with bones and sinews. And thou didst bless me above a man and praise my spirit. Having these things in thyself, I know that thou canst do all things; for nothing is impossible with thee.

And if I should sin, thou watchest me; and thou hast not cleared me from iniquity. Or if I should be ungodly, woe is me: and if I should be righteous, I cannot lift myself up, for I am full of dishonour. For I am hunted like a lion for slaughter; for again thou hast changed and art terribly destroying me; renewing against me my torture; and thou hast dealt with me in great wrath, and thou hast brought trials upon me.

Why then didst thou bring me out of the womb? and why did I not die, and no eye see me, and I become as if I had not been? for I should not have carried from the womb to the grave? Though life be long, is it not better that I should have my life? before I go whence I shall not return, to a land of darkness and gloominess; to a land of perpetual darkness, where there is no light, neither can any one see the life of mortals.

Then Sophar the Maimon answered and said, He that speaks much should also hear on the other side; or does the fluent speaker think himself to be righteous? blessed is he who labours for the short-lived offspring of woman. Be not a speaker of many words; for is there none to answer thee? For say not, I am pure in my works, and blameless before him.

But oh that the Lord would speak to thee, and open his lips with thee! Then shall he declare to thee the power of wisdom; for it shall be double of that which is with thee: and then shalt thou know, that a just recompence of thy sins has come to thee from the Lord.

Wilt thou find out the traces of the Lord? or hast thou come to the end of that which the Almighty has made? Heaven is high; and what wilt thou do? and there are deeper things than those in hell; what dost thou know? Or long is the measure of the earth, or the breadth of the sea.

And if he should overthrow all things, who will say to him, What hast thou done? For he knows the works of transgressors; and when he sees wickedness, he will not overlook it.

But man vainly buys himself up with words; and a mortal born of woman is like an ass of the desert.

For if thou hast made thine heart pure, and liftest up thine hands towards him; if there is any iniquity in thy hands, put it far from thee, and let not unrighteousness lodge in thy habitation. For thus shall thy countenance shine again, as pure water; and thou shalt diversify thyself of uncleanness, and shalt not fear. And thou shalt forget trouble, as a wave that has passed by; and thou shalt not be scared. And thy prayer shall be as the morning star, and life shall arise to thee as from the noonday. And thou shalt be confident, because thou hast hope; and peace shall dawn to thee from out of anxiety and care. 16 For thou shalt be at ease, and there shall be no one to fight against thee; and many shall charge, and make supplication to thee. But safety shall fall upon them; for their hope is destruction, and the eyes of the ungodly shall waste away.

And Job answered and said, 2 So then ye alone are men, and wisdom shall die with you? 3 But I also have a heart as well as you. 4 For a righteous and blameless man has become a subject for mockery. 5 For it is said to him that he should fall under others at the appointed time, and that his houses should be spoiled by transgressors; let not however any one trust that, being evil, he shall be held guiltless, 6 even as many as provoke the Lord, as if there were indeed to be no inquisition made of them. 7 But ask now the beasts, if they may speak to thee; and the birds of the air, if they may declare to thee. 8 Tell the earth, if it may speak to thee; and the fishes of the sea shall explain to thee. 9 Who then has not known in all these things, that the hand of the Lord has made them? 10 Whereas the life of all living things is in his hand, and the breath of every man.

11 For the ear tries words, and the palate tastes meats. 12 In length of time is wisdom, and in long life knowledge. 13 With him are wisdom and power, with him counsel and understanding. 14 If he should cast down, who will build up? If he should shut against men, who will open? 15 If he should withhold the water, the thing dried up; and if he should let it loose, overthrows and destroys it. 16 With him are strength and power; he has knowledge and understanding. 17 He leads counsellors away captive, and maddens the judges of the earth. 18 He seats kings upon thrones, and girds their loins with a girdle. 19 He sends away priests into captivity, and overthrows the mighty ones of the earth. 20 He changes the lips of the trusty, and he knows the understanding of the elders. 21 He pours dishonour upon princes, and heals the lowly. 22 Revealing deep things out of darkness; and he has brought into light the shadow of death. 23 Causing the nations to wander, and destroying them: overthrowing the nations, and leading them away. 24 Perplexing the minds of the princes of the earth: and he causes them to wander in a way they have not known, saying, 25 Let them grope in darkness, and let there be no light, and let them wander as a drunken man.

Behold, mine eyes have seen these things, and mine ear has heard them. 2 And I know all that ye too know; and I have not less understanding than them.

Nevertheless I will speak to the Lord, and I will reason before him, if he will. 4 But ye are all bad physicians, and healers of diseases. 5 But would that ye were silent, and it would be wisdom to you in the end.

8 But hear ye the reasoning of my mouth, and attend to the judgment of my lips. 2 Do ye not speak before the Lord, and utter deceit before him? 3 Or will ye draw back? nay, do ye yourselves be judges. 9 For it were well if he would thoroughly search you; for though doing all things in your power ye should attach yourselves to him, 10 he will not reprove you at all the less: but if moreover ye should secretly respect persons, 11 shall not his whirlpool sweep you round, and terror from him fall upon you? 12 And your glorying shall prove in the end to you like ashes, and your body like dry of clay.

13 Be silent, that I may speak, and cease from mine anger, 14 while I may take my dath in my teeth, and put my life in my hand.

15 Though the Mighty One should lay hand upon me, forasmuch as he has begun, verily I will speak, and plead before him. 16 And he shall turn to me for salvation; for fraud shall have no entrance before him. 17 Hear, hear ye my words, for I will declare in your hearing. 18 Behold, I am near my judgment: I know that I shall appear evidently just. 19 For who is he that shall plead with me, that I should now be silent, and expire?

20 But grant me two things: then I will not hide myself from thy face.

21 Withhold thine anger from me, and letest me go before my time.

22 Then shall thou call, and I will hearken to thee: or thou shalt speak, and I will give thee an answer. 23 How many are my sins and my transgressions? teach me what they are.

24 Wherefore hidest thou thyself from me, and dearest me thine enemy?

25 wilt thou be startled at me, as at a leaf shaken by the wind? or wilt thou set thyself against me as against grass borne upon the breeze? For thou hast written evil things against me, and thou hast compassed me with the sins of my youth. And thou hast placed my foot in the stocks; and thou hast watched all my works, and hast penetrated to my heels. I am as that which waxes old like a bottle, or like a moth-eaten garment.

For a mortal born of a woman is short-lived, and full of wrath. 2 Or he falls like a flower that has bloomed; and he departs like a shadow, and cannot continue. 3 Hast thou not taken account even of him, and caused him to enter into judgment before thee?

4 For who shall be pure from uncleanness? not even one; 5 if even his life should be but one day upon the earth: and his months are numbered by him: thou hast appointed him for a time, and he shall by no means exceed it.

6 Depart from him, that he may be quiet, and take pleasure in his life, though as a hirpling.

7 For there is hope for a tree, even if it should be cut down, that it shall blossom again, and its branch shall not fail. 8 For though its root should grow old in the earth, and its stem die in the rock: 9 it will blossom from the scent of water, and will produce a crop, as one newly planted. 10 But a man that has died is utterly gone; and when a mortal has fallen, he is no more. 11 For the sea wastes in length of time, and a river fails and is dried up. 12 And man that has lain down in death shall certainly not rise again till the heavens are dissolved, and they shall not awake from their sleep.

13 For oh that thou hadst kept me in the grave, and hadst hidden me until thy wrath should cease, and thou shouldst set me a time in which thou wouldest remember me! 14 For if a man should die, shall he live again, having accomplished the days of his life? I will wait.
till I exist again?  Then shalt thou call, and I will hearken to thee: but do not thou reject the work of thine hands.  But thou hast numbered my devices: and not one of my sins shall escape thee?  And thou hast sealed up my transgressions in a bag, and marked if I have been guilty of any transgression unawares.

And verily a mountain falling will utterly be destroyed, and a rock shall be worn out of its place.  The waters wear the stones, and waters falling headlong overflow a heap of the earth: and thou destroyest the hope of man.

Thou drivest him to an end, and he is gone: thou settest thy face against him, and sendest him away; and though his children be multiplied, he knoweth it not; and if they be few, he is not aware.  But his flesh is in pain, and his soul mourns.

Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said,

Will a wise man give for answer a mere breath of wisdom? and does he fill up the pain of his belly with words, saying, and with words wherein is no profit?  Hath not thou moreover cast off fear, and accomplished such words before the Lord?  Thou art guilty by the words of thy mouth, neither hast thou discerned the words of the mighty.  Let thine own mouth, and not me, reprove thee: and thy lips shall testify against thee.

What! art thou the first man that was born? or wert thou established before the hills?  Or hast thou heard the ordinance of the Lord? or has God used thee as his counsellor? and has wisdom come only to thee?  For what knowest thou, that we know not? or what understandest thou, which we do not also?  True among us are both the old and very aged man, more advanced in days than thy father.

Thou hast been scourged for but few of thy sins: thou hast spoken haughtily and extravagantly.

What hast thine heart dared? or what have thine eyes aimed at?  That thou hast vented thy rage before the Lord, that thou hast covered such words from thy mouth?  For who, being a mortal, is such that he shall be blameless? or, who that is born of a woman, that he should be just?  Forasmuch as he trusts not his saints; and the heaven is not pure before him.  Also then, abominable and unclean is man, drinking unrighteousness as a draught.

But I will tell thee, hearken to me: I will tell thee now what I have seen: things wise men say, and their fathers have not hidden.

To them alone the earth was given, and no stranger came upon them.  All the life of the ungodly is spent in care, and the years granted to the oppressor are numbered.

And his terror is in his ears: just when he seeks to be at peace, his overthrow will come.  Let him not trust that he shall return from darkness, for he has been already made over to the power of the sword.  And he has been appointed to be food for vultures; and he knows within himself that he is doomed to be a carcass: and a dark day shall carry him away as with a peal of thunder.

Distress also and anguish shall come upon him: he shall fall as a captain in the first rank.  For he has lifted his hands

...against the Lord, and he has hardened his neck against the Almighty Lord. And he has run against him with insolence, on the thickness of the back of his shield. For he has covered his face with his fat, and made 3 layers of fat upon his thighs. And let him lodge in desolate cities, and enter into houses without inhabitant: and what they have prepared, others shall carry away.

Neither shall he at all grow rich, nor shall his substance remain: he shall not cast a shadow upon the earth.

Ne, her shall he in any wise escape the darkness: let the wind blast his blossom, and let his flower fall off. And let him be cast upon the night, and let darkness overspread him.

And let his heart be as the unripe grape before the time, and his branch shall not flourish. And let him be gathered as the unripe grape before the time, and let him fall as the blossom of the olive. For death is the witness of an ungodly man, and fire shall burn the houses of them that receive gifts. And he shall conceive sorrows, and his end shall be vanity, and his belly shall bear deceit.

But Job answered and said.

1 I have heard many such things: poor comforters are ye all. 2 What! is there any reason in vain words? or what will hinder thee from answering? 3 I also will speak truth as ye do: if indeed your soul were in my soul's stead, then would I know his wisdom. And what would shake my head at you. And would there were strength in my mouth, and I would not spare the movement of my lips.

For if I should speak, I shall not feel the pain of my wound: and if I should be silent, how shall I be wounded the less? But now he has made me weary, and a worn-out fool; and thou hast laid hold of me. My falsehood has become a testimony, and has risen up against me: it has confronted me to my face.

In his anger he has cast me down; he has dashed his teeth upon me: the weapons of his grinders have passed upon me. He has attacked me with the keen glances of his eyes; with his sharp spear he has smitten me down upon my knees; and they have run upon me with one accord.

For the Lord has delivered me into the hands of unrighteous men, and thrown me upon the ungodly. When I was at peace he distracted me: he took me by the hair of the head, and plucked it out; he set me up as a mark. They surrounded me with spears, aiming at my reins: without sparing me they poured out my gall upon the ground. They overthrew me with fall upon fall: they ran upon me in their might. They sewed sackcloth upon my skin, and my strength has been spent on the ground. My belly has been mouched with wailing, and darkness is on my eyelids. Yet there was no injustice in my hands, and my prayer is pure.

Earth, cover not over the blood of my flesh, and let my cry have no place. And now, behold, my witness is in heaven, and my advocate is on high. Let my supplication come to the Lord, and let mine eye see before him. Oh that a man might plead before the Lord, even as the son of man with his neighbour! But my years are numbered and shall not return. I perish, carried away by the wind, and I seek for burial, and obtain it not. Weary I intreat; and what have I done? and strangers have stolen my goods. Who is this? let him join hands with me. For thou hast hid their heart from wisdom; therefore it shall not exalt them. He shall promise mischief to his children; but their eyes have failed for their children.

But thou hast made me a byword among the nations, and I am become a scorn to them. For my eyes are dimmed through pain; I have been grievously beset by all. Wonder has seized true men upon this; and let the just rise up against the transgressor. But let the faithful hold on his own way, and let him that is pure of hands take courage. Howbeit, do ye all strengthen yourselves and come now, for I do not find truth in you.

My days have passed in groaning, and my heartstrings are broken. I have turned the night into day: the light is short because of darkness. For if I remain, Hades is my habitation: and my bed has been made in darkness. My father, and corruption to be my mother and sister. Where then is your hope? or where shall I see my good? Will they go down with me to Hades, or shall we go down together to the tomb?

Then Balad the Sauchite answered and said, How long wilt thou continue? forbear, that we also may speak. For wherefore have we been silent before thee like brutes? Auger has possessed thee: for what if thou shouldst die; would the earth under heaven be desolate? or shall the mountains be overthrown from their foundations?

But the light of the ungodly shall be quenched, and their flame shall not go up.

His light shall be darkness in his habitation, and his lamp shall be put out with him.

The mearest of men spoil his goods, and let his counsel pass by him. His foot also has been caught in a snare, and let it be entangled in a net. And let snares come upon him: he shall strengthen those that thirst for his destruction.

His snare is hid in the earth, and that which shall take him is by the path. Let pains destroy him round about, and let many enemies come about him, see him with distressing longer: and a signal destruction has been prepared for him.

Let the soles of his feet be devoured: and death shall consume his beauty. And let health be utterly banished from his tabernacle, and let distress seize upon him with a charge from the king. It shall dwell in his habitation in his night: his cellency shall be sown with briomote.

His roots shall be dried up from beneath, and his crop shall fall away from above. Let his memorial perish out of the earth, and his name shall be publicly cast out. Let one drive him from light into darkness. He shall not be known among his people, nor his house preserved on the earth. But strangers shall dwell in his possessions: the last gleaned for him, and wonder seized the first.

21 These are the houses of the unrighteous, and this is the place of them that know not the Lord.

22 Then Job answered and said,

23 How long will ye vex my soul, and destroy me with words? only know that the Lord has dealt with me thus.

24 Ye speak against me; ye do not feel what is upon me.

25 Yea verily, I have erred in truth, (but the error abides with myself) in having spoken words which it was not right to speak; and my words err, and are unseasonable.

26 But alas! for ye magnify yourselves against me, and insult me with reproach.

27 Know then that it is the Lord that has troubled me, and has raised his bulwark against me. Behold, I laugh at reproach; I will not speak: or I will cry out, but there is nowhere judgment.

28 I am fenced round about, and can by no means escape: he has set darkness y before my face.

29 And he has stripped me of my glory, and has taken the crown from my head.

30 He has torn me round about, and I am gone: and he has cut off my hope like a tree.

31 And he has dreadfully handled me in anger, and has counted me for an enemy.

32 His troops also came upon me with one accord, liers in wait compassed my ways.

33 My brethren have stood aloof from me; they have recognised strangers rather than me: and my friends have become pitile.

34 My nearest of kin have not acknowledged me, and they that knew my name, have forgotten me.

35 As for my household, and my maid-servants, I was a stranger before them.

36 I called my servant, and he had not heard: and my mouth intreated him.

37 And I brought my wife, and she earnestly intreated the sons of my concubines.

38 But they rejected me for ever; whenever I rise up, they speak against me.

39 They that saw me abhorred me: the very persons whom I had loved, rose up against me.

40 My flesh is corrupt under my skin, and my bones are held in my teeth.

41 Pity me, pity me, O friends; for the hand of God has hardened me.

42 Wherefore do ye persecute me as also the Lord does, and are not satisfied with my flesh?

43 For oh that my words were written, and that they were recorded in a book for ever, 44 with an iron pen and lead, or graven in the rocks!

45 For I know that he is eternal who is about to deliver me,

46 and to raise up upon the earth my skin which endures these sufferings: for these things have been accomplished to me of the Lord;

47 which I am conscious of in myself, which mine eye has seen, and not another, but all have been fulfilled to me in my bosom.

48 But if ye shall also say, What shall we say before him? so find the root of the matter in him?

49 Do ye also beware of ye deceit: for wrath will come upon transgressors; and then shall they know where their substance is.

Then Sophar the Miziz replied and said,

2 I did not suppose that thou wouldst answer thus: neither do ye understand more than I.

3 I will hear my shameful reproach; and the spirit of my understanding answers me.

4 Hast thou not known these things of old, from the time that man was set upon the earth?

5 But the mirth of the ungody is a signal downfall, and the joy of transgressors is destruction: though his gifts should go up to heaven, and his sacrifice reach the clouds. 7 For when he shall seem to be new established, then he shall utterly perish: and they that knew him shall say, Where is he? 8 Like a dream that has fled away, he shall not be found; and he has fled, like a vision of the night. 9 The eye has looked upon him, but shall not see him again; and his place shall no longer perceive him. 10 Let his inferiors destroy his children, and let his hands be made blind, and his place be no more found. 11 His bones have been filled with vigour of his youth, and it shall lie down with him in the dust.

12 His wealth unjustly collected shall be vomited up; a messenger of wrath shall drag him out of his house. 13 And let him suck the poison of serpents, and let the serpent's tongue slay him, not in milk and honey. 14 He has laboured unprofitably and in vain, for wealth of which he shall not taste: it is as a lean thing, unfit for food, which he cannot swallow. 15 For he has broken down the houses of many mighty men: and he has plundered an habitation, though he built it not. 16 There is no security to his possessions; he shall not be saved by his desire. 17 There is nothing remaining of his provisions; therefore his goods shall not flourish. 18 But when he shall seem to be just satisfied, he shall be straitened; and all distress shall come upon him.

21 If by any means he would fill his belly, let God send upon him the fury of wrath; let him bring a torrent of pains upon him. 22 And he shall by no means escape from the power of the sword; let the brazen bow wound him. 23 And let the arrow pierce through his body; and let the stars be against his dwelling-place; let terrors come upon him. 24 And let all darkness wait for him: a fire that burns not shall stand up against him. 25 And let all darkness come upon him: and let a stranger plague his house. 26 And let the heaven reveal his iniquities, and the earth rise up against him. 27 Let destruction bring his house to an end; let a day of wrath come upon him. 28 This is the portion of an ungodly man from the Lord, and the possession of his goods appointed him by the all-seeing God.

But Job answered and said, 2 Hear ye, hear ye my words, that I may not have this consolation from you. 3 Raise me, and I will speak; then ye shall not laugh me to scorn. 4 What is my reprover of man? and why should I not be angry? 5 Look upon me, and wonder, laying your hand upon your cheek.

6 For even when I remember, I am amazed, and my alarm ceases not: 7 Wherefore do the ungodly live, and grow old even in wealth? 8 Their seed is according to their desire, and their children are in their sight. 9 Their houses are prosperous, neither have they any where cause for fear, neither is there a scourge from the Lord upon them. 10 Their cow does not

46. 38. Is he not the Lord that teaches understanding and knowledge? And does not he judge murders? One shall die in his perfect strength, and a great song in the tabernacles of the ungodly? 29 Ask those that go by the way, and do not disown their tokens. 30 For the wicked hastens to the day of destruction; they shall be led away for the day of his vengeance. 31 Who will tell him his way to his face, whereas he has done it? who shall recompense him? 32 And he has been led away to the tombs, and he has watched over the heaps. 33 The stores of the valley have been sweet to him, and every man shall depart after him, and there are innumerable ones before him. 34 How then do ye comfort me in vain? whereas I have no rest from your molestation. Then Eliphaz the Thesmanite answered and said: 35 Is it not the Lord that teaches understanding and knowledge? For what matters it to the Lord, if thou wast blameless in thy works? or is it profitable that thou shouldest perfect thy way? 41 Wilt thou maintain and plead thine own cause? and wilt he enter into judgment with thee?
46. 5 Is not thy wickedness abundant, and thy sins innumerable? 6 And thou hast taken security of thy brethren for nothing, and hast taken away the clothing of the naked. 7 Neither hast thou given water to the thirsty to drink, but hast taken away the morsel of the hungry. 8 And thou hast accepted the persons of some; and thou hast established those that were already settled on the earth. 9 But thou hast sent widows away empty, and hast afflicted orphans. 10 Therefore snares have compassed thee, and distressors have encompassed thee. 11 The light has covered thee on thy lying down.
Job XXII. 12—XXIII. 16.

12 Does not he that dwells in the high places observe? and has he not brought down the proud? 13 And thou hast said, What does the Mighty One know? does he judge in the dark? 14 A cloud is his hiding-place, and he shall not be seen; and he passes through the circle of heaven. 15 Wilt thou not mark the old way, which righteousness of men have trodden? who was before their time; their foundations are as an overflowing stream. 16 Who says, What will the Lord do to us? or what will the Almighty bring upon us? 17 Yet he filled their houses with good things: but the counsel of thine heart is against him. 18 The righteous have seen it, and laughed, and the blameless one has derided them. 19 Verily their substance has been utterly destroyed, and the fire shall devour what is left of their property.

Then Job answered and said, 27 Yea, I know that pleading is out of my reach; and his hand has been made heavy upon my groaning. 28 Who would then know that I might find him, and come to an end of the matter? 29 And I would plead my own cause, and he would fill my mouth with arguments. 30 And I would know the remedies which he would speak to me, and I would perceive what he would tell me. 31 Though he should come on me in his great strength, then he would not threaten me; for truth and reproof are from him; and he would bring forth my judgment to an end.

32 For if I shall go first, and exist no longer, still what do I know concerning the latter end? 33 When he wrougt on the left hand, then I observed it not: his right hand shall encompass me, which I know not; 34 For he knows already my way, and he has tried me before him; 35 And if too he has thus judged, who is he that has contradicted, for he has both willed a thing and done it. 36 Therefore am I troubled at him; and when I was reproved, I thought of him. 37 Therefore let me take good heed before him: I will consider, and be afraid of him.

38 But the Lord has softened my heart, and the Almighty has troubled me. 7 For I knew not that darkness would come upon me, and thick darkness has covered me before my face.

But why have the seasons been hidden from the Lord, 2 while the ungodly have passed over the bound, carrying off the flock with the shepherd? 3 They have led away the ass of the fatherless, and taken the pledge for plunder.

4 They have turned aside the weak from the right way; and the meek of the earth have hidden themselves together. 5 And they have departed like asss in the field, having gone forth on my account according to their own order: his bread is sweet to his little ones.

6 They have reaped a field that was not their own before the time; the poor have laboured in the vineyards of the ungodly without pay and without food. 7 They have caused many naked to sleep without clothes, and they have taken away the covering of their body. 8 They are wet with the drops of the mountains: they have embraced the rock, because they had no shelter.

9 They have smitten the fatherless from the breast, and the widow's son has perished. 10 And they have wrongfully caused others to sleep without clothing, and taken away the morsel of the hungry.

11 They have unrighteously laid wait in narrow places, and have not known the righteous way. 12 Who have cast forth the poor from the city, and their own houses, and the soul of the children has groaned aloud.

13 Why then has he not visited these? for much as they were upon the earth, and took no notice, and they knew not the way of righteousness, neither have they walked in their appointed paths? 14 But having known their works, he delivered them into darkness: and in the night one will be as a thief; 15 and the eye of the adulterer has watched for the darkness, saying, Eye shall not perceive me, and he puts a covering on his face. 16 In darkness he digs through houses: by day they conceal themselves securely: they know not the light. 17 For the morning is to them all as the shadow of death, for each will be conscious of the terror of the shadow of death. 18 He is swift on the face of the water: let his portion be cursed on the earth; and let his plants be laid bare. 19 Let them be withered upon the earth: for they have plundered the sheaves of the fatherless.

20 Then is his sin brought to remembrance, and he vanishes like a vapour of dew: but let what he has done be recompened to him, and let every unrighteous one be crushed like rotten wood.

21 For he has not treated the barren woman well, and has had no pity on a feeble woman. 22 And in wrath he has overthrown the helpless: therefore when he has arisen, a man will not feel secure of his own life. 23 When he has fallen sick, let him not hope to recover: but let him perish by disease. 24 For his exaltation has hurt many; but he has withered as swallows in the heat, or as an ear of corn falling off of itself from the stalk. 25 But if not, who is he that says I speak falsely, and will make my words of no account?

Then Baldad the Sauchite answered and said, 2 What beginning or fear is his—even he that makes all things in the highest? 3 For let none think that there is a respite for robbers: and upon whom will there not come a snare from him? 5 For how shall a mortal be just before the Lord? or who that is born of a woman shall purify himself? 6 If he gives an order to the moon, then it shines not; and the stars are not pure before him. 7 But alas! man is corruption, and the son of man a worm.

But Job answered and said,

2 To whom dost thou utter words? and whom art thou speaking? 3 Is it not he that has much strength, and he who has a strong arm? 4 To whom hast thou given counsel? is it not to him who has all wisdom? whom wilt thou follow? is it not one who has the greatest power? 5 To whom hast thou uttered words? and whose breath is it that has come forth from thee?

Shall giants be born from under the water and the inhabitants thereof? 6 Hell is naked before him, and destruction has no covering. He stretches out the north wind upon nothing, and he upon nothing hangs the earth; 7 binding water in his clouds, and the cloud is not rent under it. 8 He keeps back the face of his throne, his heel over the sea. 9 He has encompassed the face of the sea by an appointed ordinance, until the end of light and darkness. 10 The pillars of heaven are prostrate and astonished at his rebuke. 11 He has calmed the sea with his might, and by his wisdom the whale has been swallowed.

And the barriers of heaven fear him, and by a command he has slain the apostate dragon. 12 Behold, these are parts of his ways; and we will hearken to him at the least intimation of his word; but the strength of his thunder who knows, when he shall employ it?

And Job further continued and said in his parable,

As God lives, who has thus judged me; and the Almighty, who has emblazoned my soul; verily, while my breath is yet in me, and the breath of God which remains to me is in my nostrils, my lips shall not speak evil words, neither shall my mouth meditate unrighteous thoughts. 4 Far be it from me that I should justify you all! for I will not let go my iniquity, nor will I say my innocence. 5 For I would make my righteousness I will by no means let it go: for I am not conscious to myself of having done any thing amiss. 7 Nay rather, but let mine enemies be as the overthrow of the ungodly, and they that rise up against me, as the destruction of transgressors.

8 For what is the hope of the ungodly, that he holds to it? will he indeed trust in the Lord and be saved? 9 Will God hear his prayer? or, when distress has come upon him, 10 has he any confidence before him? or will God hear him as he calls upon him?

Yet now I will tell you what is in the hand of the Lord: I will not lie concerning the things that are with the Almighty. 12 Behold, ye all know that ye are adding vanity to vanity. 13 This is the portion of an ungodly man from the Lord, and the possession of oppressors shall come upon them from the Almighty. 14 And if their children be many, they shall be for slaughter; and if they grow up, they shall beg.

And they that survive of him shall utterly perish, and no one shall pity their widows. 16 Even if he should gather silver as earth, and 17 'End his bearing, his temerity: to what end doth man transgress limits?
18 To what end doth he stretch himself beyond his capacity, to walk on high?
19 He that buildeth his house in the air, and his DOJG in the net of the spider?
20 He that is afraid of thousands in the field, and of the beasts of the vali, whose way is in the midst of the sea.
21 He that lieth in wait at the place of dark places, and hideth himself in the secret places of the earth;
22 That saith to the snow, 'Cease;' to the shadow, 'Be not dark'; to the storm of the rain, 'Howl not!' to the south wind, 'Be not terrible.'
23 (For through the fear of the Lord come strong cords, and through his knowledge are wounds.
24 They that fear the Lord shall inherit the land, and they that do righteousness shall dwell therein."

Job XXVII. 17—XXIX. 2.

17 And Job answered and said, 18 "There is a conspiracy against me; my bowed leg is made weak. 19 He taketh away the secret away from me; and I have sinned no more than he. 20 He hath searched out all my ways, as a monster doth his prey. 21 Shall one chosen of God be reproached? and shall one cleave to the innocent? 22 Behold, then will I speak in the fear of God, and He shall be established in my lips. 23 Lo, I know my transgressions; and my sin is ever before me. 24 He hath numbered all my substance, and all my comings and goings have seen. 25 For Thou hast enquired of all my goods, and hast found out my iniquity. 26 Thou hast comprehended my crime, I sitm, and the hidden thing, which I did not know. 27 Thou hast made my neighbour strange before mine eyes, and I am abominable in his sight. 28 He hath made my companions strange, and mine acquaintances that knew me.

9 But he saith, "Man is of no bene. He knoweth not the way of things above, nor the path of the hidden things in the earth. 10 He is a tree which hath no form among the trees of the field; 11 Which yieldeth his fruit in his season, and his leaf falleth not; 12 Nor shall any evil prosper his branch. 13 The sun riseth and giveth him his heat; and the moon and stars give him light. 14 When he is in the thick of the sea, he is not afraid of the waves. 15 They hold the snare for him that is hidden, and they set him in a net; he is holden if he say not anything, or he shall declare that he sinneth. 16 He saith to the north, 'Give me rest,' and to the south, 'Be not weary.' 17 He taketh up the inhabitants of the city; he maketh the fortress his abode. 18 He saith, 'I have made a bed for myself upon the earth, and a nest upon the mountains.' 19 He lieth down, and企ci the battlement, and maketh his bed in the heavens. 20 He casteth up his gate, and spreadeth his way upon the towers. 21 He maketh darkness his habitation, and covereth himself with cloud; he walketh with the stars of the morning. 22 He saith, 'Who is this that saith, 'I am a man that maketh his way clear like the light? 23 Or, that saith, 'The earth gave birth to me, the world and it dominion also? 24 The secret things belong unto the Lord, but the kingdom is prepared by the power of men. 25 Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker! and, Woe unto him that maketh hard his heart against the Most High! 26 As for the righteous he shall possess the land, and he shall dwell in thedesired place. 27 He shall feed upon the wealth of the strong, and he shall possess the spoil of the wicked. 28 He soweth not, neither doth he reap; and his seed shall not wither in the earth.

Job XXXI. 1—XXIV.

1 And he said, 'The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and the knowledge of the holy is understanding. 2 A man should hearken, and should take heed; yea, he should turn his ear to understanding. 3 He should consider the path of the righteous, and his dwelling place is green. 4 But the way of the transgressors is hard; it is de cemented with stones, and it is strewed with nettles. 5 He that doeth wrong shall not stand in the presence of the Lord; but sinners shall be cut off from his land. 6 The words of the wise are as goads, and as nails driven in the head; they are also the health of the soul. 7 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; fools despise wisdom and instruction. 8 The counsel of the poor is despised; he that knoweth not how to shun reproach is destroyed. 9 He that is quickened by his riches shall be destroyed; and the zeal of the wicked shall come to nought. 10 The righteous shall see and fear, and shall laugh at the wicked. 11 Knowing that the Lord will answer him in the while, and that he shall be filled with good things. 12 But the transgressor shall perish in the lack of knowledge, and the wise shall look for light. 13 The sure word of the Lord abideth for ever; and the word of the Holy One is very sure. 14 He is despised, and abhorred of all men; but the Lord knoweth those that trust in him, and those that keep his covenant and commandments. 15 He shall call upon him, and he shall hear him; and he shall be saved from the snare of the wicked. 16 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; fools despise wisdom and instruction. 17 The counsel of the poor is despised; he that knoweth not how to shun reproach is destroyed. 18 He that is quickened by his riches shall be destroyed; and the zeal of the wicked shall come to nought. 19 The righteous shall see and fear, and shall laugh at the wicked. 20 Knowing that the Lord will answer him in the while, and that he shall be filled with good things. 21 But the transgressor shall perish in the lack of knowledge, and the wise shall look for light. 22 The sure word of the Lord abideth for ever; and the word of the Holy One is very sure. 23 He is despised, and abhorred of all men; but the Lord knoweth those that trust in him, and those that keep his covenant and commandments. 24 He shall call upon him, and he shall hear him; and he shall be saved from the snare of the wicked. 25 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and the knowledge of the holy is understanding. 26 A man should hearken, and should take heed; yea, he should turn his ear to understanding. 27 He should consider the path of the righteous, and his dwelling place is green. 28 But the way of the transgressors is hard; it is de cemented with stones, and it is strewed with nettles. 29 He that doeth wrong shall not stand in the presence of the Lord; but sinners shall be cut off from his land. 30 The words of the wise are as goads, and as nails driven in the head; they are also the health of the soul. 31 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; fools despise wisdom and instruction. 32 The counsel of the poor is despised; he that knoweth not how to shun reproach is destroyed. 33 He that is quickened by his riches shall be destroyed; and the zeal of the wicked shall come to nought. 34 The righteous shall see and fear, and shall laugh at the wicked. 35 Knowing that the Lord will answer him in the while, and that he shall be filled with good things. 36 But the transgressor shall perish in the lack of knowledge, and the wise shall look for light. 37 The sure word of the Lord abideth for ever; and the word of the Holy One is very sure. 38 He is despised, and abhorred of all men; but the Lord knoweth those that trust in him, and those that keep his covenant and commandments. 39 He shall call upon him, and he shall hear him; and he shall be saved from the snare of the wicked.'
God preserved me; 2 As when his lamp shone over my head; when by his light I walked through darkness. 3 As when I steadfastly pursued my ways, when God took care of my house. 4 When I was very fruitful, and my children were about me; 5 when my ways were moistened with butter, and the mountains flowed for me with milk.

7 When I went forth early in the city, and the seat was placed for me in the streets. 8 The young men saw me, and hid themselves; and all the old men stood up. 9 And the great men ceased speaking, and laid their fingers on their mouth. 10 And they that heard me blessed me, and their tongue clave to their throat. 11 For the ear heard, and blessed me; and the eye saw me, and turned aside. 12 For I saved the poor out of the hand of the oppressor, and helped the fatherless who had no helper. 13 Let the blessing of the perishing one come upon me; yea, the mouth of the widow has blessed me. 14 Also I put on righteousness, and clothed myself with judgment like a mantle. 15 I was the fear of the latter end of the lowly foot, and I was the father of the helpless. 16 And I searched out the cause which I knew not. 17 And I broke the jaw-teeth of the unrighteous; I plucked the spoil out of the midst of their teeth. 18 And I said, My age shall continue as the stem of a palm-tree; I shall live a long while. 19 My root was spread out by the water, and the dew would lodge on my crop. 20 My glory was fresh in me, and my bow prospered in his hand.

21 Men heard me, and gave heed, and they were silent at my counsel. 22 At my word they spoke not again, and they were very glad whenever I spoke to them. 23 As the thirsty earth expecting the rain, so they waited for my speech. 24 Were I to laugh on them, they would not believe it; and the light of my face has not failed. 25 I chose out their way, and set chief, and dwelt as a king in the midst of warriors, as one comforting mourners.

But now the youngest have laughed me to scorn, nay they reproved me in their turn, whose fathers I reproved not for nakedness, and whose fathers I did not deem worthy to be with my shepherd dogs. 26 Yea, why had I the strength of their hands? for them the full term of life was lost. 27 One is childless in want and famine, such as they that fed but lately the distress and misery of drought. 28 Who compass the salt places on the sounding shore, who had salt herbs for their food, and were dishonourable and of no repute, in want of every good thing; who also ate roots of trees by reason of great hunger.

5 Thieves have risen up against me, 6 whose houses were the caves of the rocks, who lived under the wild shrubs. 7 They will cry out among the rustling bushes. 8 They are sons of fools and vile men, whose name and glory are quenched from off the earth. 9 But now I am their music, and they have me for a by-word. 10 And they stood aloof and abhorred me, and spared not to spit in my face. 11 For he who has opened his quiver and afflicted me; they also have cast off the restraint of my presence.

12 They have risen up against me on the right hand of their offspring; they have stretched out their foot, and directed against me the ways of The God of Jacob, who made me, the Rock of my face, and my help from Fatherless; 13 whom I, 14 And these I saved, and gave them for food, and they were satisfied with the fatness of the field. 15 Whose seed is of many nations, and their destroyed men with their sons. 16 For the旌旗 of a man is the sum of his strength, and the crown of his splendour is the fear of a king. 17 Whose house is in the valleys of Zelah, and they go down to the squares thereof. 18 He that is not a great man is put to shame, and his name is not in the book of the living. 19 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 20 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 21 He that is not a great man is put to shame, and his name shall not be in the book of the living. 22 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 23 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 24 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 25 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 26 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 27 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance.

He that is not a great man is put to shame, and his name shall not be in the book of the living. 28 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 29 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 30 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 31 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 32 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 33 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 34 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 35 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 36 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 37 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance. 38 When he maketh a vow, he that is not so, he shall be destroyed, and theui king shall not be established. 39 There is none like a wise man in a city, and the way of a king he is; and there is no deliverance.

of their destruction. 13 My paths are ruined; for they have stripped off my raiment; he has shot at me with his weapons. 14 And he has pleaded against me as he will: I am overwhelmed with pains. 15 My pains return upon me; my hope is gone like the wind, and my safety as a cloud.

16 Even now my life shall be poured forth upon me; and days of anguish seize me. 17 And bring my bones are confounded; and my sinews are reared up. 18 With great force my disease has taken hold of me; it has compassed me as the collar of my coat. 19 And thou hast counted me as clay; my portion is in dust and ashes.

20 And I have cried to thee, but thou heardest me not; but they stood still, and observed me. 21 They attacked me also without mercy; thou hast scourged me with a strong hand. 22 And thou hast put me to grief, and hast cast me away from safety. 23 For I know that death will destroy me: for the earth is the house appointed for every mortal. 24 Oh then that I might lay hands upon myself, or at least ask another, and he should do this for me. 25 Yet I wept over every helpless man; I groaned when I saw a man in distress. 26 But I, when I waited for good things, behold, days of evil came the more upon me.

27 My belly boiled, and would not cease: the days of poverty prevented me. 28 I went mourning without restraint: and I have stood and cried out in the assembly. 29 I am become a brother of a monster, and a companion of ostriches. 30 And my skin has been greatly blackened, and my bones are burned with heat. 31 My harp also has been turned into mourning, and my song into my weeping.

I made a covenant with mine eyes, and I will not think upon a virgin. 2 Now what portion has God given from above; and is there an inheritance given of the Mighty One from the highest? 3 Alas! destruction to the unrighteous, and rejection to them that do iniquity. 4 Will he not see my way, and number all my steps? 5 By if I had walked with sorrows, and if too my foot has hasted to deceit: 6 (For I am weighed in a just balance, and the Lord knows my innocence!) 7 If my foot has turned aside out of the way, or if mine heart has followed mine eye, and if too I have touched gifts with my hands: 8 then let me sow, and let others eat; and let me be uprooted on the earth. 9 If my heart has gone forth after another man’s wife, and if I laid wait at her covert, and then let my wife also please another, and let my children be brought low. 10 For the rage of anger is not to be controlled, in the case of defiling another man’s wife. 11 For it is a fire burning on every side, and whomsoever it attacks, it utterly destroys.

And if too I despised the judgment of my servant or my handmaid, when they pleaded with me; 14 what then shall I do if the Lord should try me? and if also he should at all visit me, can I make an answer? 15 Were not they too formed as I also was formed in the womb? yea, we were formed in the same womb.

16 But the helpless missed not whatever need they had, and I did not cause the eye of the widow to fail. 17 And if too I ate my morsel alone, and did not impart of it to the orphan; for I nourished them as a father from my youth, and guided them from any mother's womb. And if too I overlooked the naked as he was perishing, and did not clothe him; and if the poor did not bless me, and their shoulders were not warmed with the fleece of my lambs; if I lifted my hand against an orphan, trusting that my strength was far superior to his; 20 let then my shoulder start from the blade-bone, and my arm be crushed off from the elbow. 21 For the fear of the Lord constrained me, and I cannot bear up by reason of his burden. 22 If I made gold my treasure, and if too I rejoiced when my wealth was abundant, and if too I laid my hand on innumerable treasures: 23 or do we not see the shining sun eclipsed, and the moon waning, for they have not power to continue? 24 and if my heart was secretly deceived, and if I have laid my hand upon my mouth and kissed it: let this also then be reckoned to me as the greatest iniquity: for I should have lied against the Lord Most High. And if too I was glad at the fall of mine enemies, and mine heart said, Aha! let then mine enemies shoot up, and let me be a byword among my people in my affliction. 27 And if too my handmaidens have often said, Oh that we might be satisfied with his flesh: (whereas I was very kind; for the stranger did not lodge without, and my door was opened to every one that came:) or if too having sinned unintentionally, I hid my sin; 28 for I did not stand in awe of a great multitude, so as not to declare boldly before them:) and if too I permitted a poor man to go out of my door with an empty bosom: 29 Oh that I had a hearer, and if I had not feared the hand of the Lord; and as to the written charge which I had against any one, 30 I would place it as a chaplet on my shoulders, and read it. 32 And if I did not read it and return it, having taken nothing from the debtor: 33 If at any time the land groaned against me, and if its furrows mowed together; and if I ate its strength alone without price, and if too I grieved the heart of the owner of the soil, by taking aught from him; 35 then let the nettle come up to me instead of wheat, and a bramble instead of barley. And Job ceased speaking. And his three friends also ceased any longer to answer Job: for Job was righteous before them. 2Then Elies the son of Barachel, the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram, of the country of Auis, was angered at him, and he went away from him, because he justified himself before the Lord. And he was also very angry with his three friends, because they were not able to return answers to Job, yet set him down for an unholy man. 4But Elies had forborne to give an answer to Job, because they were older than he. 5 And Elies saw that there was no answer in the mouths of the three men, and was angered in his wrath. 6 And Elies the Buzite the son of Barachel answered and said, I am younger in age, and ye are elder; wherefore I kept silence, fearing to declare to

12 And he shews him sickness and pain: the modelling of his bones is troubled.
13 When a dreadful alarm happens to fall upon the sons of men, in the midst of their going down into the dust, and the multitude of his bones is smitten: 14 And again, he chastens him with sickness, and suffereth him not to fall in war.

However, I have opened my mouth, and my tongue has spoken.

He shall be found pure by my words, and the understanding of my lips shall mediate purity. The Divine Spirit is that which formed me, and the breath of the Almighty that which teaches me. If thou canst, give me an answer: wait thereupon; stand against me, and I will stand against thee.

True, I have foretold all this, and I have heard the voice of the words: because thou sayest, I am pure, not having sinned; I am blameless, for I have not transgressed. Yet he has discovered a charge against me, and he has reckoned me as an adversary. And he has put my foot in the stocks, and has watched all my ways. For how sayest thou, I am righteous, yet he has not hearkened to me? for he that is above mortals is eternal.

But thou sayest, Why has he not heard every word of my cause? For when the Lord speaks once, or a second time, sending a dream, or in the meditation of the night; as when a dreadful alarm happens to fall upon men, in slumberings on the bed; then opens he the understanding of men: he scars them with such fearful visions, to turn a man from unrighteousness, and he delivers his body from a fall. He spares also his soul from death, and suffereth him not to fall in war.

And again, he chastens him with sickness on his bed, and the multitude of his bones is smitten. And he shall not be able to take any food, though his soul shall desire meat; until his flesh shall be consumed, and he shall shew his bones bare. His soul also draws nigh to death, and his life is in Hades.

32 Though there should be a thousand messages of death, not one of them shall wound him: if he should purpose in his heart to turn to the Lord, and declare to man his fault, and shew his folly: 33 he will support him, that he should not perish, and will restore his body as fresh plaster upon a wall; and he will fill his bones with marrow. 34 And he will make his flesh tender as that of a babe, and he will restore him among men in his full strength. 35 And he shall pray to the Lord, and pray, and he shall be acceptable of him; he shall enter with a cheerful countenance, with a full expression of praise: for he will render to men their due.

36 Even then a man shall blame himself, saying, What kind of things have I done? and he has not punished me according to the full amount of my sins.

37 Deliver my soul, that it may not so to destruction, and my life shall see the light.

38 Behold, all these things the Mighty One works in a threefold manner with a man. 39 And he has delivered my soul from death, that my life may praise him in the light.

40 Hearken, Job, and hear me: be silent, and I will speak. 41 If thou hast words, answer me: speak, for I desire thee to be justified. 42 If not, do thou hear me: be silent, and I will teach thee. 43 And Eliphaz continued, and said, 44 Hear me, ye wise men; hearken, ye that have knowledge. 45 For the ear tries words, and the mouth tastes meat. 46 Let us choose judgment to ourselves: let us know among ourselves what is right. 47 For Job has said, I am righteous: the Lord has removed my judgment. 48 And he has erred in my judgment: my wound is severe without righteousness of mine.

49 What man is as Job, drinking scorn like water? saying, I have not sinned, nor committed ungodliness, nor had fellowship with workers of iniquity, to go with the ungodly.

50 For thou shouldst not say, There shall be no visitation of a man, whereas there is a visitation on him from the Lord.

51 Wherefore hear me, ye young men: be wise in heart: hear me to the end before the Lord, and to pervert righteousness before the Almighty.

52 Yea, he renders to a man accordingly as each of them does, and in a man's path he will find him.

53 And thinkest thou that the Lord will do wrong, or will the Almighty who made the earth be the first judgment? 54 And who is he that made the earth whole, who shall bend it? and all things therein? 55 For if he would confine, and restrain his spirit with himself: 56 all flesh would die together, and every mortal would return to the earth, whence also he was formed.

57 Take heed lest he rebuke thee: hear this, hearken to the voice of words. 58 Behold then the one that hates iniquities, and that destroys the wicked, who is for ever just.

59 He is ungodly that says to a king, Thou art a transgressor, that says to princes, O most ungodly one. 60 Such a one as would not reverence the face of an honourable man, neither knows how to give honour to the great, so as that their persons should be respected. 61 But it shall turn out vanity to them, to cry and beseech a man; for they dealt unlawfully, the poor being...
21 And there was a man in the place where he dwelt, a poor man named Job; and he was blameless, and upright, a fearer of God, andTurned aside from their right.

22 For he surveys the works of men, and nothing of what they do has escaped him.

23 Neither shall there be a place for the workers of iniquity, nor for the accuser of the right.

24 For the Lord looks upon all men, who comprehends unsearchable things, glorious also and excellent things without number.

25 Who discovers their works, and will bring night about upon them, and they shall be brought low.

26 And he that esteems himself righteous among men, and condemneth his neighbors, and despiseth those that work their own business.

27 Then God answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said:

28 'If thou be pure who art thou that sheweth me sin?

29 If thou be perfect who art thou that sheweth me error?

30 Where art thou when I lay the foundations of the earth? Declare, if thou hast understanding, and know who is right; who art thou that canst reprove God, and instruct to him? Why dost thou to me as one of thy little ones, and dost not thy words seem a reasonable thing?''

31 'Hast thou an arm like God? or thy voce is like his? Canst thou make a thing like him? Or sayest thou things like him? But his words are the words of the wise.

32 In the greatness of God thou hast thought, and in the multitude of thine oppressions thou hast wished.

33 'Hast thou an arm like God? Or canst thou fathom the counsel of the Most High?\n
34 There is a voice, which thou dost not know;\n
35 To which thy voice was not joined;\n
36 One of a mighty one not of thine acquaintance;\n
37 To whom thou shalt hearken,\n
38 And say, 'Lo, I have sinned, I am wicked.'\n
39 It is in the greatness of God that thou sittest as one exalted, and art like a king in his strength;\n
40 Yet thou sayest that I am not unjust, and that I am not wicked.'

41 'Behold, I will answer thee, and ye shall understand wisdom.

42 For God hath spoken once, I have heard, and understood by hearing a voice of one 43 That uttereth his words by the multitude of his power.

44 ''Thee who gettest knowledge of things, and of the voice of his words that speaketh to man.'

45 For he knoweth not what he shall do in the morning; for that hath power over it.

46 And he said to Job, 'Behold, I will stand before thee as a accuser; and thou shalt be judged in thy own eyes.'

47 How shall I answer thee, for thou art a accuser to me? Yet I will answer thee in return; for God is greater than man.'
Having fetched my knowledge from afar, and according to my works, I will speak just things truly, and thou shalt not unjustly receive unjust words.

But know that the Lord will not cast off an innocent man; being mighty in strength of wisdom, he will not by any means save alive the ungodly: and he will grant the judgment of the poor. He will not turn away his eyes from the righteous, but they shall be with kings on the throne: and he will establish them in triumph, and they shall be exalted.

But the righteous shall be holden in cords of poverty. And he shall recount to them their works, and their transgressions, for such will act with violence. But he will hearken to the righteous; and he has said that they shall turn from unrighteousness. If they should hear and serve him, they shall spend their days in prosperity, and their years in honour. But he preserves not the ungodly; because they are not willing to know the Lord, and because when reproved they were disobedient.

And the hypocrites in heart will array wrath against themselves; they will not cry, because he has bound them. Therefore let their soul die in youth, and their life be wounded by messengers of death. Because they afflicted the weak and helpless: and he will vindicate the judgment of the meek.

And he has also enticed thee out of the mouth of the enemy: there is a deep gulf and a rushing stream beneath it, and thy table came down full of fatness. Judgment shall not fail from the righteous; but there shall be wrath upon the ungodly, by reason of the ungodliness of the bribes which they received for iniquities.

Let not thy mind willingly turn thee aside from the petition of the feeble that are in distress. And draw not forth all the mighty men by night, so that the people should go up instead of them. But take heed lest thou do that which is wrong; for of this thou hast made choice because of poverty.

Behold, the Mighty One shall prevail by his strength: for who is powerful as he is? And who is he that examines his works? or who can say, He has wrought injustice?

Remember that his works are great beyond those which men have attempted. Every man has seen in himself, how many mortals are wounded.

Behold, the Mighty One is great, and we shall not know him: the number of his years is even infinite. And the drops of rain are numbered by him, and shall be poured out in season to form a cloud. The ancient heavens shall flow, and the clouds overshadow innumerable mortals: he has fixed a time to cut off, and they know the order of rest. Yet by all these things thy understanding is not astonished, neither is thy mind disturbed in thy body.

And though one should understand the spreading of the clouds, or the measure of his tabernacle; he shall stretch his bow against him, and he covers the bottom of the sea. For by them he will judge the nations: he will give food to him that has strength.

He has hidden the light in his hands, and given charge... concerning it to the interposing cloud. 33 The Lord will declare concerning this to his friend: but there is a portion also for unrestrictiveness. At this also my heart is troubled, and moved out of its place. Hearken thou a report by the mouth of the earth, and a discourse shall come out of his mouth. His sound is under the whole heaven, and his light is at the extremities of the earth. After him shall be a cry with a loud voice: he shall thunder with the voice of his excellency, yet he shall not cause men to pass away, for one shall hear his voice. The Mighty One shall thunder worthily with a voice of command for he has done great things which we knew not. And he will send snow, Be thou upon the earth, and the stormy rain, and the storm of the showers of his might. He seals up the hand of every man, that every man may know his own weakness. And the wild beasts come in under the covert, and rest in their lair. Troubles come out of the secret chambers, and cold from the mountain-tops. And from the breath of the Mighty One he will send frost; and he guides the water in whatever way he pleases.

And if a cloud obscures what is precious to him, his light will disperse the cloud. And he will carry round 5 the encircling clouds by his governance, to perform their works: whatever he shall command them, 13 this has been appointed by him for the earth, whether for correction, or for his land, or if he shall find him an object for mercy.

Hearken to this, O Job: stand still, and be abashed of the power of the Lord. We know that God has disposed his works, having made light out of darkness. And he knows the divisions of the clouds, and the signal overthrows of the ungodly. But thy rod is warm, and there is quiet upon the land. Wilt thou establish with him foundations for the ancient heavens? They are strong as a molten mirror. Wherefore teach me, what shall we say to him? and let us cease from saying much. Have I a book or a scribe by me, that I may stand and put man to silence? But the visible things are made invisible, the things which are not seen are made manifest. And Job answered and said: How is wisdom known to thee? or who has been instructed of God?
...and swathed it in mist. And I set bounds to it, surrounding it with bars and gates. And I said to it, Hitherto shalt thou come, but thou shalt not go beyond, but thy waves shall be confined within thee. Or did I order the morning light in thy time; and did the morning star then first see his appointed place; to lay hold of the extremities of the earth, to cast out the ungodly out of it? Or didst thou take clay of the ground, and form a living creature, and set it with the power of speech upon the earth? And hast thou removed light from the ungodly, and crushed the arm of the proud? Or hast thou gone to the source of the sea, and walked in the tracks of the deep? And do the gates of death open to thee for fear; and did the porters of hell quake when they saw thee? And hast thou been instructed in the breadth of the whole earth under heaven? tell me now, what is the extent of it? And in what kind of a land does the light dwell? and of what kind is the place of darkness? If thou coudest bring me to their utmost boundaries, and if also thou knowest their paths; I know then that thou wert born at that time, and the number of thy days is great. But hast thou gone to the treasures of snow, and hast thou seen the treasures of hail? And is there a store of them, for thee against the time of thine enemies, for the day of wars and battle? And whence proceeds the frost, or whence is the south wind dispersed over the whole world under heaven? And who prepared a course for the violent rain, and a way for the thunderers, to rain upon the land where there is no man, the wilderness, where there is not a man in it; so as to feed the untrodden and uninhabited land, and cause it to send forth a crop of green herbs? Who is the rain's father, and who has generated the drops of dew? And out of whose womb comes the ice? and who has produced the fountain of the dry land? Whose way is like the way of the sea? Whose国道 does descent like flowing water? who has terrified the face of the ungodly? And dost thou understand the band of Pleias, and hast thou opened the barrier of Orion? Or wilt thou reveal Mazrautho in his season, and the evening star with his rays? Wilt thou guide them? And knowest thou the changes of heaven, or the events which take place together under heaven? And wilt thou call a cloud with thy voice, and will it obey thee with a violent shower of much rain? And wilt thou send lightnings, and they shall go? and shall they say to thee, What is thy pleasure? And who has given to women skill in weaving, or knowledge of embroidery? And who is he that has subdued the clouds in wisdom, and has bowed the heaven down to the earth? For it is spread out as dust on earth, and I have cemented it as one hewn stone to another. And wilt thou hunt a prey for the lions? and satisfy the desires of the serpents? For they fear in their lairs, and lying in wait couch in the webs. And who has prepared food for the raven? for its young ones wander and cry to the Lord, in search of food. Say if thou knowest the time of the bringing forth of the wild goats of the rock, and if thou...
And the Lord God answered Job, and said, 32 Will any one pervert judgment with the Mighty One? 33 And Job answered and said to the Lord, 34 Why do I yet plead? being rebufed even while reproving the Lord: hearing such things, whereas I am nothing: and what shall I answer to these arguments? I will lay my hand upon my mouth. 35 I have spoken once; but I will not do so a second time.
And the Lord yet again answered and spoke to Job out of the cloud, saying,

"Nay, gird up now thy loins like a man; and I will ask thee, and do thou answer me. 3 Do not set aside my judgment; and dost thou think that I have dealt with thee in any other way, than that thou mightest appear to be righteous? 4 Hast thou anointed thine own heart like the Lord? 5 Or dost thou thunder with a voice like his? 6 Assume now a lofty bearing and power; and clothe thyself with glory and honour. 7 And send forth messengers with wrath; and lay low every haughty one. 8 Bring down also the proud man; and consume at once the ungodly. 9 And hide them together in the earth; and fill their faces with shame. 10 Then will I confess that thy right hand can save thee.

11 But now look at the wild beasts with thee; they eat grass like oxen. 12 Behold now, his strength is in his loins, and his force is in the navel of his belly. 13 He sets up his tail like a cypress; and his nerves are wrapped together. 14 His sides are as brass, and his backbone is as cast iron. 15 This is the chief of the creation of the Lord; made to be played with by his angels. 16 And when he has gone up to a steep mountain, he causes joy to the quadrupeds in the deep. 17 He lies under trees of every kind, by the pyrus, and reed, and bulrush. 18 And makes a shadow over him, with his branches, and so do the bushes of the field. 19 If there should be a flood, he will not perceive it; he trusts that Jehovah will rush up into his mouth. 20 Yet one shall take him in his sight; one shall catch him with a cord, and pierce his nose.

21 But wilt thou catch the serpent with a hook, and put a halter about his nose? 22 Or wilt thou fasten a ring in his nostril, and bore his lip with a clasp? 23 Will he address thee with a petition softly, with the voice of a suppliant? 24 And will he make a covenant with thee? and wilt thou take him for a perpetual servant? 25 And wilt thou play with him as with thy bird? or be him as a sparrow for a child? 26 And do the beasts roar thy food upon him, and the nations of the Phoenicians share him? 27 And all the ships come together would not be able to bear the mere skin of his tail; neither shall they carry his head in fishing-vessels. 28 But thou shalt lay thy hand upon him once, remembering the war that is waged by his mouth; and let it not be done any more.

Hast thou not seen him? and hast thou not wondered at the things said of him? 1 Dost thou not fear because preparation has been made by me? for who is there that resists me? 2 Or who will resist me, and abide, since the whole world under heaven is mine?

3 I will not be silent because of him though because of his power one shall pity his antagonist. 4 Who will open the face of his garment, and who can enter within the fold of his breast-plate? 5 Who will open the doors of his face? terror is round about his teeth. 6 His inwards are as brazen plates, and the texture of his skin as a smyrste stone. 7 One part cleaves fast to another, and the air cannot come between them. 8 They will remain united each to the other: they are closely joined, and cannot be separated. 9 At his sneezing a light shines, and his eyes are as the appearance of the morning.

"He played with his oxen, and his oxen resists one another; he does not open his mouth to be silent.

Then Job answered and said to the Lord,

1 I know that thou canst do all things, and nothing is impossible with thee. 2 For who is he that hides counsel from thee? or who keeps back his words, and thinks that he is wise against thee? and who will tell me what I know not, great and wonderful things which I understand not?

3 But hear me, O Lord, that I also may speak: and I will ask thee, and do thou teach me. 4 I have heard the report of thee by the ear before; but now mine eye hath seen thee.

5 Wherefore I have counted all my steps, I have sat down to judge myself. 6 My flesh isbeholden to me as a garment that is changed; it shall be cut off, but shall not be found. 7 For my days are swifly spent, and shall not return.

6 And the Lord prospered Job: and when he prayed also for his friends, he forgave them their sin: and the Lord gave Job twice as much, even the double of what he had before.

7 And all his brethren, and all his sisters, that were left him, did eat bread with him in the land of Uz. 8 And his children multiplied, and it came to pass also that he had sons and daughters.

9 And this story of Job and all that happened to him, and they came to him, and so did all that had known him from the first; and they ate and drank with him, and comforted him, and wondered at all that the Lord had brought upon him: and each one gave him a lamb, and four drachms' weight of gold, even of unstamped gold.

And the Lord blessed the latter end of Job, more than the beginning; and his cattle were fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, a thousand she asses of the pastures. And there were born to him seven sons and three daughters. And he called the first, Jemel, and the second, Jobam, and the third, Amalthea's horn. And there were not found in comparison with the daughters of Job, fairer women than they in all the world: and their father gave them an inheritance among their brethren.

And Job lived after his affliction a hundred and seventy years: and all the years he lived were three hundred and forty: and Job saw his sons and his sons' sons, the fourth generation.

And Job died, an old man and full of days: and it is written that he will rise again with those whom the Lord raises up.

This man is described in the Syriac book as living in the land of Assis, on the borders of Idumea and Arabia: and his name before was Jobab; and having taken an Arabian wife, he begot a son whose name was Ennon. And he himself was the son of his father Zare, one of the sons of Esau, and of his mother Bosorrhia, so that he was the fifth from Abram. And these were the kings who reigned in Edom, which country he also ruled over: first, Balac, and the son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dannah: but after Balac, Jobab, who is called Job: and after him Asom, who was governor out of the country of Theeman: and after him Adad, the son of Barad, who destroyed Madiam in the plain of Mobb: and the name of his city was Gethaim. And his friends who came to him were Elihyz, of the children of Esau, king of the Theemanites, Baldad sovereign of the Saucheans, Sophar king of the Mineans.

And Job pretended that the Lord was the judge of the world, and he fell upon his face, and worshipped the Lord, saying, I have sinned, and I have done perversely: Behold, I am but dust and ashes.

And Job answered and said, Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord. Blessed be the name of the Lord from this time forth and for ever.
Blessed is the man who has not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, and has not stood in the way of sinners, and has not sat in the seat of evil men. 2 But his pleasure is in the law of the Lord; and in his law will he meditate day and night. 3 And he shall be as a tree planted by the brooks of waters, which shall yield its fruit in its season, and its leaf shall not fall off; and whatsoever he shall do shall be prospered.

4 Not so the ungodly,—not so: but rather as the chaff which the wind scatters away from the face of the earth. 5 Therefore the ungodly shall not rise in judgment, nor sinners in the council of the just. 6 For the Lord knows the way of the righteous; but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

7 Wherefore did the heathen rage, and the nations imagine vain things? 8 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers gathered themselves together, against the Lord, and against his Christ; 9 saying, Let us break through their bonds, and cast away their yoke from us.

10 He that dwells in the heavens shall laugh them to scorn, and the Lord shall mock them. 11 Then shall he speak to them in his anger, and trouble them in his fury. 12 But I have been made king by him on Sion his holy mountain, declaring the ordinance of the Lord: the Lord said to me, 13 Thou art my Son, to-day have I begotten thee. 14 Ask of me, and I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the ends of the earth for thy possession. 15 Thou shalt rule them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces as a potter's vessel.

16 Now therefore understand, ye kings: be instructed, all ye that judge the earth. 17 Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice in him with trembling. 18 Accept correction, lest at any time the Lord be angry, and ye should perish from the righteous way: whosoever his wrath shall be suddenly kindled, blessed are all they that trust in him.

A Psalm of David, when he fled from the presence of his son Abessalom.

O Lord, why are they that afflict me multiplied? many rise up against me. 2 Many say concerning my soul, There is no deliverance for him in his God. 3 Pause.
For the end, a Song of David among the Psalms.

When I called upon him, the God of my righteousness heard me; thou hast made room for me in tribulation; pity me, and hearken to my prayer. 2 Ye sons of men, how long shall ye be slow of heart? therefore do ye love vanity, and seek falsehood? 3 But know ye that the Lord has done wondrous things for his holy one: the Lord will hear me when I cry to him. 4 Ye angry, and sin not; feel copious upon your beds for what ye say in your hearts. 5 Offer the sacrifice of righteousness, and trust in the Lord.

Many say, Who shall shew us good things? the light of thy countenance, O Lord, has been manifest towards us. 6 Thou hast put gladness into my heart: they have been satisfied with the fruit of their command wine and oil. 7 I will both lie down in peace and sleep: for thou, Lord, only hast caused me to dwell securely.

For the end, a Psalm of David, concerning her that inherits.

Hearken to my words, O Lord, attend to my cry. 2 Attend to the voice of my supplication, my King, and my God: for to thee, O Lord, will I pray. 3 In the morning thou shalt hear my voice: in the morning will I wait upon thee; and will look upon thee. 4 For thou art not a God that desires iniquity; neither shall the worker of wickedness dwell with thee. 5 Neither shall the transgressors continue in thy sight: thou hast hasted, O Lord, all them that work iniquity. 6 Thou wilt destroy all that speak falsehood: the Lord abhors the bloody and deceitful man. 7 But I will enter into thine house in the multitude of thy mercy: I will worship in thy fear toward thy holy temple.

Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies: make my way plain before thy face. 2 For there is no truth in their mouth: their heart is vain; their throat is an open sepulchre: with their tongues they have used deceit. 3 Judge them, O God; let them fall the fruit of their counsels: cast them out according to the abundance of their ungodliness; for they have provoked thee, O Lord.

But let all that trust on thee be glad in thee: they shall exult for ever, and thou shalt dwell among them; and all that love thee.
Psalm 12, among the Hymns for the eighth.

O Lord, rebuke me not in thy wrath, neither chasten me in thine anger. 2 Pit me, O Lord; for I am weak; heal me, O Lord; for my bones are vexed. 3 My soul also is grievously vexed; but thou, O Lord, how long? 4 Return, O Lord, deliver my soul; save me for thy mercy's sake. 5 For in death no man remembereth thee: and who will give thee thanks in Hades? 6 I am wearied with my groaning; I shall wash my bed every night: I shall water my couch with my tears. 7 Mine eye is troubled because of all my enemies.

Depart from me, all ye that work iniquity; for the Lord hath heard the voice of my weeping. 8 The Lord hath hearkened to my petition; the Lord has accepted my prayer. 9 Let all mine enemies be put to shame and sore troubled; let them be turned back and grievously put to shame speedily.

A Psalm of David, which he sang to the Lord because of the words of Chusil the Benjamite.

O Lord my God, in thee have I trusted: save me from all that persecute me, and deliver me. 2 Let at any time the enemy seize my soul as a lion, while there is none to ransom, nor to save. 3 O Lord my God, if I have done this; (if there is unrighteousness in my hands;) 4 If I have required with evil those who required me with good; may I then perish empty by means of my enemies. 5 Let the enemy persecute my soul, and take it; and let him trample my life on the ground, and lay my glory in the dust. Pause.

Arise, O Lord, in thy wrath; be exalted in the utmost boundaries of mine enemies: awake, O Lord my God, according to the decree which thou didst command. 7 And the congregation of the nations shall compass thee: and for this cause do thou return on high. 8 The Lord shall judge the nations: judge me, O Lord, according to my righteousness, and according to my innocence that is in me. 9 Oh let the wickedness of sinners come to an end; and then thou shalt direct the righteous, O God that searcheth the heart, and the reins of the sons of men.

10 My help is righteous, coming from God who saves the upright in heart. 11 God is a righteous judge, and strong, and patient, not inflicting vengeance every day. 12 If ye will not repent, he will furnish his sword; he has bent his bow, and made it ready. 13 And on it he has fitted the instruments of death; he has completed his arrows for the 14 Raging ones.

Behold, he has travelled with unrighteousness, he has conceived trouble, and brought forth iniquity. 15 He has opened a pit, and dug it up, and he shall fall into the ditch which he has made. 16 His trouble
For the end, concerning the wine-presses, a Psalm of David.

O Lord, our Lord, how wonderful is thy name in all the earth! for thy magnificence is exalted above the heavens. For out of the mouth of babes and sucklings hast thou perfected praise, because of thine enemies; that thou mightest put down the enemy and avenger.

For I will regard the heavens, the work of thy fingers; the moon and stars, which thou hast established. What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visitest him? Thou madest him a little less than angels; thou hast crowned him with glory and honour; and thou hast set him over the works of thy hands: thou hast put all things under his feet: sheep and all oxen, yea, and the cattle of the field; the birds of the sky, and the fish of the sea, the creatures passing through the paths of the sea.

For the end, a Psalm of David, concerning the secrets of the Son.

I will give thanks to thee, O Lord, with my whole heart; I will recount all thy wonderful works. I will be glad and exult in thee; I will sing to thy name, O thou Most High.

When mine enemies are turned back, they shall be feeble and perish at thy presence. For thou hast maintained my cause and my right; thou satest on the throne, that judgest righteousness.

Thou hast rebuked the nations, and the ungodly one has perished; thou hast blotted out their name for ever, even for ever and ever.

The enemy hath prepared his mouth against me; he hath set himself in against me, as a very deep well. The enemy is swallowed up in his own net;

And let them that know thy name hope in thee; for thou, O Lord, hast not failed them that diligently seek thee.

Sing praises to the Lord, who dwells in Sion: declare his dealings among the nations.

For he remembered them, in making inquisition for blood: he has not forgotten the supplication of the poor.

Have mercy upon me, O Lord; look upon my affliction which I suffer of mine enemies, thou that livest up me from the gates of death: that I may declare all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of Sion: I will exult in thy salvation.

708 Psalms IX. 16—X. 4.

16 Why didst thou at last, O Lord? why didst thou overlook us in times of need, in affliction? 2 While the ungodly one acts proudly, the poor is hotly pursued: the wicked are taken in the crafty counsels which they imagine. 3 Because the sinner praises himself for the desires of his heart, and the unjust one blesses himself. 4 The sinner has provoked the Lord: according to the abundance of his pride he will not seek after him; God is not before him. 5 His ways are 6 profane at all times; thy judgments are removed from before him: he will gain the mastery over all his enemies. 6 For he has said in his heart, I shall not be moved, continuing without evil from generation to generation. 7 Whose mouth is full of cursing, and bitterness, and fraud: under his tongue are trouble and pain. 8 He lies in wait with rich men in secret places, in order to slay the innocent: his eyes are set against the poor. 9 He lies in wait in secret as a lion in his den: he lies in wait to ravish the poor, to ravish the poor when he draws him after him; he will bring him down in his snare. 10 He will bow down and fall when he has mastered the poor. 11 For he has said in his heart, God has forgotten him: he has turned away his face so as never to look. 12 Arise, O Lord God; let thy hand be lifted up: forget not the poor. 13 Wherefore has the wicked provoked God? for he has said in his heart, He will not require it. 14 Thou seest it; for thou dost observe trouble and to deliver them into thy hands: the poor has been left to thee; thou wast a helper to the orphan. 15 Break thou the arm of the sinner and wicked man: his sin shall be sought for, and shall not be found.

16 The Lord shall reign for ever, even for ever and ever: ye Gentiles shall perish out of his land. 17 The Lord has heard the desire of the poor; thine ear has inclined to the preparation of their heart; 18 to plead for the orphan and afflicted, that man may no more boast upon the earth.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

In the Lord I have put my trust: how will ye say to my soul, 2 Flee to the mountains as a sparrow? 3 For behold the sinners have bent their bow, they have prepared their arrows for the quiver, to shoot a privily at the upright in heart. 4 For they have pulled down what thou didst frame, but what has the righteous done?

Note.—Here begins a change of numbers as compared with the Heb. which continues to Ps. 146, this psalm having no number, and the eleventh being called the tenth. 7 Gr. inflamed, as in a fever. ῥαυκ, anger. 9 Gr. profaned. 8 Rom. 8. 14. 8 Gr. look. μασ, in dark moon, or little moonlight, q. d. luce maligna.
The Lord is in his holy temple, as for the Lord, his throne is in heaven: his eyes look upon the proud; his eyelids try the sons of men. 6 The Lord tries the righteous and the ungodly: and he that loves unrighteousness hates his own soul. 7 He shall rain upon sinners snares, fire, and brimstone; and a stormy blast shall be the portion of their cup. 8 For the Lord is righteous, and loves righteousness; his face beholds uprightness.

For the end, a Psalm of David, upon the eighth.

Save me, O Lord; for the godly man has failed; for truth is diminished from among the children of men. 2 Every one has spoken vanity to his neighbour: their lips are deceitful, they have spoken with a double heart. 3 Let the Lord destroy all the deceitful lips, and the tongue that speaks great words: 4 who have said, We will magnify our tongue: our lips are our own: who is Lord of us?

5 Because of the misery of the poor, and because of the sighing of the needy, now will I arise, saith the Lord, I will set them in safety; I will speak to them thereof openly. 6 The oracles of the Lord are pure oracles; as silver tried in the fire, proved in a furnace of earth, purified seven times. 7 Thou, O Lord, shalt keep us, and shalt preserve us, from this generation, and forever. 8 The ungodly walk around: according to thy greatness thou hast greatly exalted the sons of men.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

How long, O Lord, wilt thou forget me? for ever? how long wilt thou turn away thy face from me? 2 How long shall I take counsel in my soul, having sorrows in my heart daily? how long shall my enemy be exalted over me? 3 Look on me, hearken to me, O Lord my God: lighten mine eyes, lest I sleep in death; lest at any time mine enemy say, I have prevailed against him: my persecutors will exult if ever I should be moved.

4 But I have hoped in thy mercy; my heart shall exult in thy salvation. 5 I will sing to the Lord who has dealt bountifully with me, and I will sing psalms to the name of the Lord most high.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

The fool has said in his heart, There is no God. They have corrupted themselves, and become abominable in their devices; there is none that does goodness, there is not even so much as one. 2 The Lord looked down from heaven upon the sons of men, to see if there were any that understood, or sought after God. 3 They are all gone out of the way, they are together become good for nothing, there is none that does good, no not one. Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; the poison of asps is under their lips: whose mouth is full of cursing and bitter.

let mine eyes behold righteousness. 4Thou hast proved mine heart; thou hast visited me by night; thou hast tried me as with fire, and unrighteousness has not been found in me: I am purposed that my mouth shall not speak amiss. 5As for the works of men, by the words of thy lips I have guarded myself from hard ways. 6Direct my steps in thy paths, that my steps slip not.

6 I have cried, for thou heardest me, O God: incline thine ear to me, and hearken to my words. 7Shew the marvels of thy mercies, thou that savest them that hope in thee. 8Keep me as the apple of the eye from those that resist thy right hand; thou shalt screen me by the covering of thy wings, 9from the face of the ungodly that have afflicted me: mine enemies have compassed about my soul. 10They have enclosed themselves with their own fat: their mouth has spoken pride. 11They have now cast me out and compassed me round about: they have set their eyes so as to bow them down to the ground. 12They laid wait for me as a lion ready for prey, and like a lion's whelp dwelling in secret places. 13Arise, O Lord, prevent them, and cast them down: deliver my soul from the ungodly: draw thy sword, 14for those that breathe iniquity compassed about me: they have been satisfied with uncleanness, and have left the remnant of their possessions to their babes. 15But I shall appear in righteousness before thy face: I shall be satisfied when thy glory appears.

For the end, a Psalm of David the servant of the Lord; the words which he spoke to the Lord, even the words of this Song, in the day in which the Lord delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul: and he said:

I will love thee, O Lord, my strength.

The Lord is my firm support, and my refuge, and my deliverer; my God is my helper, I will hope in him; he is my defender, and the horn of my salvation, and my helper. 11I will call upon the Lord with praise, and I shall be saved from mine enemies. 12The pangs of death compassed me, and the torrents of ungodliness troubled me exceedingly. 13The pangs of hell came round about me; the snares of death prevented me. 14And when I was afflicted I called upon the Lord, and cried to my God: he heard my voice out of his holy temple, and my cry shall enter before him, even into his ears. 15Then the earth shook and quaked, and the foundations of the mountains were disturbed, and were shaken, because God was angry with them. 16There went up a smoke in his wrath, and fire burst into a flame at his presence: coals werekindled at it. 17And he bowed the heaven, and came down: and thick darkness was under his feet. 18And he mounted on cherubs and flew: he flew on the wings of winds. 19And he made darkness his secret place: round

Psalm XVII. 12—41.

12 "And the brightness before him the clouds passed, hail and coals of fire. 13 The Lord also thundered from heaven, and the Highest uttered his voice. 14 And he sent forth his ministers, and scattered them; and multiplied lightnings, and routed them. 15 And the springs of waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were exposed, at thy rebuke, O Lord, at the blasting of thy wrath.

16 "He sent from on high and took me, he drew me to himself out of many waters. 17 He will deliver me from my mighty enemies, and from them that hate me; for they are stronger than I. 18 They prevented me in the day of mine affliction: but the Lord was my stay against them. 19 And he brought me out into a wide place: he will deliver me, because he has pleasure in me. 20 And the Lord will recompense me according to my righteousness; even according to the unupright will he render recompense to mine enemies.

21 "For I have kept the ways of the Lord and have not wickedly departed from my God. 22 For all his judgments were before me, and his ordinances departed not from me. 23 And I shall be blameless with him, and shall keep myself from mine iniquity. 24 And the Lord shall recompense me according to my righteousness, and according to the purity of my hands before his eyes.

25 "With the holy thou wilt be holy; and with the innocent man thou wilt be innocent. 26 And with the excellent man thou wilt be excellent; and with the perverse thou wilt shew frowardness. 27 For thou wilt save the lowly people, and wilt humble the eyes of the proud. 28 For thou, O Lord, wilt light my lamp: my God, thou wilt lighten my darkness.

29 "For by thee shall I be delivered from a troop; and by my God I will pass over a wall. 30 As for my God, his way is perfect: the oracles of the Lord are tried in the fire; he is a protector of all them that hope in him. 31 For who is God but the Lord? and who is a God except our God? 32 It is God that girds me with strength, and has made my way blameless: who strengthens my feet as hart’s feet, and sets me upon high places. 33 He instructs my hands for war; and thou hast made my arms as a brazen bow. 34 And thou hast made me secure in my salvation: and thy right hand has upheld me; and thy loving kindness has upheld me to the end; yea, thy correction itself shall instruct me.

35 Thou hast made room for my going under me, and my footsteps did not fail. 36 I will pursue mine enemies, and overtake them; and I will not turn back until they are consumed. 37 I will dash them to pieces, and they shall not be able to stand; and they shall fall under my feet. 38 For thou hast girded me with strength for war: thou hast beaten down under me all that rose up against me.

39 And thou hast made mine enemies turn their backs before me; and thou hast destroyed them that hated me. 40 They cried, about him was his tabernacle, even dark water in the clouds of the air. 41
but there was no deliverer: even to the Lord, but he hearkened not to them. 4 I will grind them as the mud of the streets: and I will beat them small as dust before the wind. 41 Deliver me from the gainsayings of the people: thou shalt make me head of the Gentiles: a people whom I knew not served me, 4 At the hearing of the ear they obeyed me: the strange children betrothed to me. 4 The strange children waxed old, and fell away from their paths through lameness. 45 The Lord lives; and blessed be my God; and let the God of my salvation be exalted. 46 It is God that avenges me, and has subdued the nations under me; 4 my deliverer from angry enemies: thou shalt set me on high above them that rise up against me: thou shalt deliver me from the unrighteous man. 49 Therefore will I confess to thee, O Lord, among the Gentiles, and sing to thy name. 50 For thou art my strength, and thy name shall I praise. 51 Therefore will I sing praises to thee, O Lord, among the Gentiles, I will magnify thy name among the Gentiles. 52 For ye have delivered me from death, and my feet from falling. 53 For I have seen many afflictions: thou didst set all their treasures in the midst of them. 54 They were filled with rage: they had no rest in their sleep: they had set all their treasures in the midst of them. 55 But thou, O Lord, art a God pitying: and merciful, slow to anger, and plentiful in kindness and truth. 56 The Lord is good to all: and his tender mercy is on all his works. 57 All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord: and thy saints shall bless thee. 58 They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom: and tell of thy power. 59 To make known to the generation that is to come the remembrance of thy wondrous works. 60 The Lord is righteous in all his works: and faithful in all his counsels. 61 The Lord is a stronghold for the man that is righteous: a refuge for the man that is upright in spirit. 62 Deliverance to the upright in heart: gladness to the upright in spirit. 63 Let the righteous shout for joy at this: yea, let them be exceeding glad. 64 Let the sinner be confounded, and be cut off: let them that persecute the just be ashamed and perish. 65 Let the righteous be glad in the Lord: and let them be exceeding glad. 66 Let all the enemies of the Lord be confounded and perished: and let them that delight in mischief be taken in their own device. 67 Let the heart of them that are true to my name exult in glory: let the剩下 of the children of Jacob be joyous. 68 For Jacob shall not be confounded, nor Israel: for I am with them: and I am with them for ever. 69 For I will deliver them from the hand of their oppressors: and I will redeem them from the hand of them that hate them. 70 For I know the counsels of the Lord: sure is the work of the Lord, and shall prosper. 71 For God is my helper: I will not be ashamed: yea, he hath helped me: therefore shall I be glad. 72 Lord, how many are they that say to me, Where is his God? but mine eye seeth the Lord, for he shall hear me in the day of my trouble. 73 The Lord shall hear my voice, and understand my cause. 74 The Lord is a refuge to the poor: a stay and preserver to the needy. 75 The Lord shall redeem my soul, and shall execute his judgment: he shall execute judgment and justice for his people. 76 Sing the praises of the Lord, ye saints of his: praise the name of the Lord. 77 Blessed be the Lord, for he hath vouchsafed his salvation to the humble. 78 Let the sacrifice of the righteous be offered: and the incense of the upright be spoken of. 79 The Lord is a refuge for the oppressed: a stay and preserver for the cause of the poor. 80 God shall give strength to his people: and shall bless the work of his hands. 81 Eisi to telos, psalmos to Davi. 18 (19) Oi ouvanoi dechountai doxan Theou, poinston de xarow aitou anaguchelle to streroma. 21 (22) Eis to telos, ὑπὲρ τῆς ἀντιλήψεως τῆς ἐσωθηνύς, ψαλμός τοῦ Δαυίδ.

'Ο Θεός ὁ Θεός μου, προσέχει μοι, ἵνα ἐγκατελίθητε με; μικρὰν ἀπὸ τῆς σωτηρίας μου οἱ λόγοι τῶν παραπτωμάτων μου. Ὅτι Θεός μου, κεκράζομαι ἡμέρας πρὸς σέ καὶ οὐκ εἰσακούσῃ, καὶ νυκτὸς καὶ οὐκ εἰς ἀνοιάς ἔμοι.

3, 4 Σὺ δὲ ἐν ἀγίῳ κατοικεῖς, ὁ ἐπαυξομαι τοῦ Ἰσραήλ. Ἐπὶ σοὶ ἤλπισαν οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν, ἤλπισαν καὶ εὗρον αὐτοὺς. Πρὸς σέ ἐκείσαν, καὶ ἐσώθησαν, ἐπί σοι ἠλπίσαν καὶ ὡς καταρχυνθήσαν. Ἐγὼ δὲ εἰμὶ σκόλις καὶ οὐκ ἀνθρώπος, οὐκ οὕτως ἀνθρώποι καὶ εὐσεβεία λαοῦ. Πάντες οἱ θεωροῦντες με ἐξερευνῶ τηροῦν με, ἐλάλησαν ἐν χείλεσιν, ἐκάτωσαν κεφαλήν, ἔπισεν ἐπὶ Κύριον, ρυθμόθω αὐτῶν, σωσάτω αὐτῶν, ὅτι θέλει αὐτῶν.

9 Ὅτι σὺ εἶ ὁ ἐκτάσας με ἐκ γαστρός, ἡ ἐλπίς μου ἀπὸ μαστῶν τῆς μητρὸς μου, ἐπὶ σε ἐπερίβλητεν ἐκ μητρῶν: ἐκ κοιλίας μητρῶς μου Θεός μου εἰ σύ.
Psalm 22

11 Stand not aloof from me; for affliction is near; for there is no longer life. 12 Many bulls have compassed me; fat bulls have beset me round. 13 They have opened their mouth against me, as a ravening and roaring lion. 14 I am poured out like water, and all my bones are loosened: my heart in the midst of my belly is become like melting wax. 15 My strength is dried up like a parched bud, and my tongue is glued to my throat; and thou hast brought me down to the dust of death. 16 For many dogs have compassed me; the assembly of the wicked doers has beset me round; they pierced me with their hands and my feet. 17 They counted all my bones; and they observed and looked upon me. 18 They parted my garments among themselves, and cast lots upon my ransom.

19 But thou, O Lord, remove not my help afar off: be ready for mine aid. 20 Deliver my soul from the sword; my only-begotten from the power of the dog. 21 Save me out of the lion's mouth; and regard my lowliness from the horns of the unicorns.

22 I will declare thy name to my brethren; in the midst of the church will I sing praise to thee. 23 They shall know that I am thy servant: all ye seed of Jacob, glorify him; let all the seed of Israel fear him. 24 For he has not despised nor been angry at the supplication of the poor; nor turned away his face from me; but when I cried to him, he heard me. 25 My praise is of thee in the great congregation: I will pay my vows before them that fear him.

26 The poor shall eat and be satisfied; and they shall praise the Lord that seek him: their heart shall live for ever. 27 All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn to the Lord: and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before him. 28 For the kingdom is the Lord's; and he is the governor of the nations. 29 All the fat ones of the earth have eaten and are filled; all that go down to the earth shall fall down before him: my soul also lives to him. 30 And my seed shall serve him: the generation that is coming shall be reported to the Lord. 31 And they shall report his righteousness to the people that shall be born, whom the Lord has made.

A Psalm of David.

The Lord tends me as a shepherd, and I shall want nothing. 2 In a place of green grass, there he has made me dwell; he has nourished me by the water of rest. 3 He has restored my soul; he has guided me into the paths of righteousness, for his name's sake. 4 Yea, even if I should walk in the midst of the valley of death, I will not be afraid of evils: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff, these have comforted me. 5 Thou hast prepared a table before me in presence of them that afflict me; thou hast thoroughly anointed my head with oil; and thy cup cheers me like the best wine. 6 Thy mercy also shall follow me all the days of my life: and my dwelling shall be in the house of the Lord for a very long time.

A Psalm for David on the first day of the week.

The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof; the world, and all that dwell in it.
2 He has founded it upon the seas, and prepared it for the inhabitants thereof.
3 Who shall go up to the mountain of the Lord, and who shall stand in his holy place?
4 He that is innocent in his hands and pure in his heart; who has not lifted up his soul to vanity, nor sworn deceitfully to his neighbour.
5 He shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and mercy from God his Saviour. This is the generation of them that seek the face of the God of Jacob. Praise.

7 Lift up your gates, ye princes, and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors; and the king of glory shall come in.
8 Who is this king of glory? the Lord strong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battle. 9 Lift up your gates, ye princes; and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; and the king of glory shall come in.
10 Who is this king of glory? The Lord of hosts, he is this king of glory.

A Psalm of David.

To thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul. 2 O my God, I have trusted in thee; let me not be confounded, neither let mine enemies laugh me to scorn.
3 For none of them that wait on thee shall in any wise be ashamed: let them be ashamed that transgress without cause.
4 Show me thy ways, O Lord; and teach me thy paths. 5 Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art my Saviour; and I have wasted on thee all the day.
6 Remember thy compassion, O Lord, and thy mercies, for they are from everlasting.
7 Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my sins of ignorance: remember me according to thy mercy, for thy goodnesse sake, O Lord.
8 Good and upright is the Lord: therefore will he instruct sinners in the way. 9 The meek will he teach his ways: all the ways of the Lord are mercy and truth to them that seek his covenant and his testimonies.
10 For thy name's sake, O Lord, do thou also be merciful to my sin; for it is great.
11 Who is the man that fears the Lord? he shall instruct him in the way which he has chosen.
12 His soul shall dwell in prosperity; and his seed shall inherit the earth.
13 The Lord is the strength of them that fear him; and his covenant is to manifest truth to them.
14 Mine eyes are continually unto the Lord; for he shall draw my feet out of the snare.
15 Look upon me, and have mercy upon me; for I am an only child and poor. 16 The afflictions of my heart have been multiplied; deliver me from my distresses. 17 Look upon mine affliction, and my trouble, and forgive all my sins. 18 Look upon mine enemies; for they have been multiplied; and they have hated me with unjust hatred.
19 Keep my soul, and deliver me; let me not be ashamed; for I have hoped in thee.
A Psalm of David.

Judge me, O Lord: for I have walked in my innocence; and hoping in the Lord I shall not be moved. 2 Pray for me, O Lord, and try me; and let your fire try my reins and my heart.

6 For thy mercy is before mine eyes: and I am well pleased with thy truth. I have not sat with the council of vanity, and will in nowise enter in with transgressors. 7 I have hated the assembly of wicked doers: and will not sit with ungodly men. 8 O Lord, I have loved the beauty of thy house, and the place of the tabernacle of thy glory.

10 Destroy not my soul, nor my life with bloody men: in whose hands are iniquities, and compass thin altar, O Lord: 12 My foot stands in an even place: in the congregations will I bless thee, O Lord.

And I said, I will wash my hands in innocence, and compass thin altar, O Lord: 7 to hear the voice of the works, and to declare all thy wonderful works. 8 O Lord, I have loved the beauty of thy house, and the place of the tabernacle of thy glory.

10 Destroy not my soul, nor my life with bloody men: in whose hands are iniquities, and compass thin altar, O Lord: 12 My foot stands in an even place: in the congregations will I bless thee, O Lord.

A Psalm of David, before he was anointed.

The Lord is my light and my Saviour; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the defender of my life: of whom shall I be afraid? 2 When evil-doers drew nigh against me to eat up my flesh, my persecutors and mine enemies, they fainted and fell. 3 Though an army should set itself in array against me, my heart shall not be afraid: though war should rise up against me, in this am I confident. 4 One thing have I asked of the Lord, this will I earnestly seek: that I should dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, that I should behold the fair beauty of the Lord, and survey his temple. 5 For in the day of mine afflictions he hid me in his tabernacle: he sheltered me in the secret of his tabernacle; he set me up on a rock. 6 And now, behold, I have lifted up mine head over mine enemies: I went round and offered in his tabernacle the sacrifice of joy; I will sing, even singing psalms to the Lord.

Hear, O Lord, my voice which I have uttered aloud: pity me, and hearken to me. 9 My heart said to thee, I have diligently sought thy face: thy face, O Lord, I will seek. 10 Turn not thy face away from me, turn not thou away from thy servant in anger: be thou my helper, forsake me not; and, O God my Saviour, overlook me not.

12 For my father and my mother have forsaken me, but the Lord has taken me to himself. 13 I cried to him in my distress: and he led me in a right path, because of mine enemies.

14 Deliver me not over to the desire of them that afflict me; for unjust witnesses have risen up against me, and injustice has lied within herself. 15 I believe that I shall see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living.
Psalms XXVI. 14—XXIX. 2.

To thee, O Lord, have I cried; my God, be not silent toward me: lest thou be silent toward me, and so I should be likened to them that go down to the pit. 2 Hearken to the voice of my supplication, when I pray to thee, when I lift up my hands toward thy holy temple. 3 Draw not away my soul with sinners, and destroy me not with the workers of iniquity, who speak peace with their neighbours, but evil are in their hearts. 4 Give them according to their works, and according to the wickedness of their devices; give them according to the works of their hands; render their recompence unto them. 5 Because they have not attended to the works of the Lord, even to the works of his hands, thou shalt pull them down, and shalt not build them up.

6 Blessed be the Lord, for he has hearkened to the voice of my petition. 7 The Lord is my helper and my defender; my heart has hoped in him, and I am helped: my flesh has revived, and willingly will I give praise to him. 8 The Lord is the strength of his people, and the saving defender of his anointed.

9 Save thy people, and bless thine inheritance: and take care of them, and lift them up for ever.

Bring to the Lord, ye sons of God, bring to the Lord young rams; bring to the Lord glory and honour. Bring to the Lord glory, due to his name; worship the Lord in his holy court.

3 The voice of the Lord is upon the waters: the God of glory has thundered: the Lord is upon many waters. 4 The voice of the Lord is mighty; the voice of the Lord is full of majesty. 5 There is the voice of the Lord who breaks the cedars; the Lord will break the cedars of Libanus. 6 And he will beat them small, even Libanus itself, like a calf; and the beloved one is as a young unicorn. 7 There is a voice of the Lord who divides a flame of fire. 8 A voice of the Lord who shakes the wilderness; the Lord will shake the wilderness of Cades. 9 The voice of the Lord strengthens the thicket, and will uncover the thickets; and in his temple every one speaks of his glory. 10 The Lord will dwell on the waterflood: and the Lord will sit a king for ever. 11 The Lord will give strength to his people; the Lord will bless his people with peace.

For the end, a Psalm 5 and Song at the dedication of the house of David.

I will exalt thee, O Lord; for thou hast lifted me up, and not caused mine enemies to rejoice over me. 2 O Lord my God,
For the end, a Psalm of David, an utterance of 8 extreme fear.

O Lord, I have hoped in thee; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness and rescue me. 2 Incline thine ear to me; make haste to rescue me: be thou to me for a protecting God, and for a house of refuge to save me. 3 For thou art my strength and my refuge; and thou shalt guide me for thy name's sake, and maintain me. 4 Thou shalt bring me out of the snare which they have hidden for me; for thou, O Lord, art my defender. 5 Into thine hands I will commit my spirit: thou hast redeemed me, O Lord God of truth. 6 Thou hast hated them that idly persist in vanities: but I have hoped in the Lord. 7 I will exult and be glad in thy mercy: for thou hast looked upon mine affliction; thou hast saved my soul from distresses. 8 And thou hast not shut me up into the hands of the enemy: thou hast set my feet in a wide place.

Pity me, O Lord, for I am afflicted: my eye is troubled with indignation, my soul and my belly. 10 For my life is spent with grief, and my years with groanings: my strength has been weakened through poverty, and my bones are troubled. 11 Become a reproach among all mine enemies, but exceedingly so to my neighbours, and a fear to mine acquaintance: they that saw me without fled from me. 12 I have been forgotten as a dead man out of mind: I am become as a broken vessel. 13 For I heard the slander of many that dwelt round about: when they were gathered together against me, they took counsel to destroy my life.

But I hoped in thee, O Lord: I said, Thou art my God. 15 My lots are in thy hands: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, 16 and from them that persecute 6 Blessed are they whose transgressions are forgiven, and whose sins are covered.

7 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin, and in whose mouth there is no guile.
8 Because I kept silence, my bones waxed old, from my crying all the day.
9 For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me: I became thoroughly miserable while a thorn was fastened in me.
10 I acknowledged my sin, and hid not mine iniquity: I said, I will confess mine iniquity to the Lord against myself; and thou forgavest the ungodliness of my heart.
11 Therefore shall every holy one pray to thee in a fit time: only in the deluge of many waters they shall not come nigh to him.
12 Thou art my refuge from the affliction that encompasseth me; my joy, to deliver me from them that have compassed me.
13 I will instruct thee and guide thee in this way wherein thou shalt go: I will fix mine eyes upon thee.
14 Be ye not as horse and mule, which have no understanding: but thou must constrain their jaws with bit and curb, lest they should come nigh to thee.
15 Many are the scourgings of the sinner: but him that hopes in the Lord mercy shall compass about.
16 Be glad in the Lord, and exult, ye righteous: and glory, all ye that are upright in heart.

A Psalm of instruction by David.

Rejoice in the Lord, ye righteous; praise becomes the upright.
2 Praise the Lord on the harp; play to him on a psaltery of ten strings.
3 Sing to him a new song; play skilfully with a loud noise.
4 For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are faithful.
5 He loves mercy; and judgment: the earth is full of the 5 mercy of the Lord. 6 By the word of 6 the Lord the heavens were established; and 6 all the host of them by the breath of his 6 mouth. 7 Who gathers the waters of the 7 sea as in a bottle; who lays up the deeps 7 in treasuries. 8 Let all the earth fear 8 the Lord, and let all that dwell in the 8 world be moved because of him. 9 For he 9 spoke, and they were made; he commanded, 9 and they were created. 10 The Lord 10 frustrates the counsels of the nations; he 10 brings to nought also the reasonings of 10 the peoples, and brings to nought the 10 counsels of princes. 11 But the counsel of 11 the Lord endures for ever, the thoughts of 11 his heart from generation to generation. 12 Blessed is the nation 12 whose God is the Lord; the people 12 whom he has chosen for his own inheritance. 13
The Lord looks out of heaven; he beholds 13 all the sons of men. 14 He looks from his 14 prepared habitation on all the dwellers on 14 the earth, who fashioned their hearts 15 alone, who understands all their works. 16 A 15 king is not saved by reason of a great host; 15 and a giant shall not be delivered by the 16 greatness of his strength. 17 A horse is vain 16 for safety; neither shall he be delivered by 17 the greatness of his power.

Behold, the eyes of the Lord are on 18 them that fear him, those that hope in 18 his mercy; 19 to deliver their souls from death, 19 and to keep them alive in famine. 20 Our 20 soul waits on the Lord; for he is our 21 healer and defender. 21 For our heart shall 21 rejoice in him, and we have hoped in his 21 name. 22 Let thy mercy, O Lord, be upon 22 us, according as we have hoped in thee.

A Psalm of David, when he changed his 22 countenance before Abimelech; and he 22
let him go, and he departed.

I will bless the Lord at all times: his 22 praise shall be continually in my mouth. 23
My soul shall boast herself in the Lord: 23
let the meek hear, and rejoice. 24 Magnify 24 the Lord with me, and let us exalt his 24 name together.

1 I sought the Lord diligently, and he 25
hearkened to me, and delivered me from 25 all my sojournings. 2 Draw near to him, and 26 be enlightened: and your faces shall not 26 by any be ashamed. 3 This poor man 27 sighed, and the Lord hearkened to him, and 27 delivered him out of all his afflictions. 4
The angel of the Lord will encamp round 28 about them that fear him, and will deliver 28 them. 5 Taste and see that the Lord is 29 good: blessed is the man who hopes in 29
him. 6 Fear the Lord, all ye his saints: for 30
there is no want to them that fear him. 7
The rich have become poor and hungry: but 30 that they seek the Lord diligently shall not 31 want any good thing. Pause.

Come, ye children, hear me: I will teach 31 you the fear of the Lord. 2 What man is 32
there that desires life, loving to see good 32 days? 3 Keep thy tongue from evil, and 32 thy lips from speaking guile. 4 Turn away 33 from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pur- 33 sue it.

Psalm 38

The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open to their prayer;
but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil, to destroy their memory from the earth.
The righteous cry, and the Lord hearkeneth them, and delivereth them out of all their afflications.
The Lord is near to them that are of a contrite heart; and will save the lowly in spirit.
Many are the afflictions of the righteous; but out of them all the Lord will deliver them.
He keepeth all their bones: not one of them shall be broken.
The death of sinners is evil; and they that hate righteousness will go wrong.
The Lord will redeem the souls of his servants; and none of those that hope in him shall go wrong.

A Psalm of David.

Judge thou, O Lord, them that injure me, fight against them that fight against me.
Take hold of shield and buckler, and arise for my help. Bring forth a sword, and stop the way against them that persecute me: say to my soul, I am thy salvation.
Let them that seek my soul be ashamed and confounded: let them that devise evils against me be turned back and put to shame.
Let them be as dust before the wind, and an angel of the Lord afflicting them. Let their way be dark and slippery, and an anger of the Lord pursuing them.
For without cause they have hid for me their destructive snare: without a cause they have reproached my soul.
Let a snare which they know not come upon them; and the gin which they hid take them: and let them fall into the same snare.
But my soul shall exult in the Lord: it shall delight in his salvation. All my bones shall say, O Lord, who is like to thee? delivering the poor out of the hand of them that are stronger than he, yea, the poor and needy one from them that spoil him.
Unjust witnesses arose, and asked me of things I knew not. They rewarded me evil for good, and bereavement to my soul.
But I, when they troubled me, put on sackcloth, and humbled my soul with fasting: and my prayer returned to my own bosom. I behaved agreeably towards them as if it had been our neighbour or brother: I humbled myself as one mourning and sad of countenance. Yet they rejoiced against me, and plagues were plentifully brought against me, and I knew if not: they were scattered, but repented not. They tempted me, they smote me at me most contemptuously, they grasped their teeth upon me.
O Lord, when wilt thou look upon me? Deliver my soul from their mischief, mine only-begotten one from the lions. I will give thanks to thee even in a great congregation: in an abundant people I will praise thee. Let not them that are mine enemies without a cause rejoice against me; who hate me for nothing and wink with their eyes. For to me they spoke peaceably, but imagined deceits in their anger. And they opened wide their mouth upon me; they said, Aha, aha, our eyes have seen it.
For, and he shall not die. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light.

Psalm XXXIV. 22—XXXVI. 7. 178

Let them not say in their hearts, Aha, aha, if is pleasing to our soul: neither let them say, We have devised him. Let them not rejoice in my righteousness, but be glad: and let them say continually, The Lord be magnified, who desire the peace of his servant. And my tongue shall meditate on thy righteousness, and on thy praise all the day.

For the end, by David the servant of the Lord.

The transgressor, that he may sin, says within himself, that there is no fear of God before his eyes. For he has dealt craftily before him, to discover his iniquity and hate it. The words of his mouth are transgression and deceit: he is not inclined to understand how to do good. He devises iniquity on his bed; he gives himself to every evil way; and does not abhor evil.

O Lord, thy mercy is in the heaven; and thy truth reaches to the clouds. Thy righteousness is as the mountains of God, thy judgments are as a great deep: O Lord, thou wilt preserve men and beasts. How hast thou multiplied thy mercy, O Lord! so the children of men shall trust in the shelter of thy wings. They shall be fully satisfied with the fatness of thine house; and thou shalt cause them to drink of the full stream of thy delights. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light.

Extend thy mercy to them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the upright, in heart. Let not the foot of pride come against me, and let not the hand of sinners move me.

There have all the workers of iniquity fallen: they are cast out, and shall not be able to stand.

A Psalm of David.

Fret not thyself because of evil-doers, neither be curious of them that do iniquity. For they shall be withered as the grass, and shall soon fall away as the green herbs. Hope in the Lord, and do good; and dwell on the land, and thou shalt be fed with the wealth of it. Delight thyself in the Lord; and he shall grant thee the requests of thine heart. Disclose thy way to the Lord, and hope in him; and he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy judgment as the noon-day.

Submit thyself to the Lord, and suppli-Psalm XXXVI. 8—37.

The sinner will watch for the righteous, and crush his teeth upon him. But the Lord shall laugh at him: for he foressest that his day will come. Sinners have drawn their swords, they have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy one, and to slay the upright in heart. Let their sword enter into their own heart, and their bows be broken.

A little is better to the righteous than abundant wealth of sinners. For the arms of sinners shall be broken; but the Lord supports the righteous.

The Lord knows the ways of the perfect; and their inheritance shall be for ever. They shall not be ashamed in an evil time; in days of famine they shall be satisfied. For the sinners shall perish: and the enemies of the Lord at the moment of their being honoured and exalted have utterly vanished like smoke. The sinner borrows, and will not pay again: but the righteous has compassion, and gives. For they that bless him shall inherit the earth; and they that curse him shall be utterly destroyed.

The steps of a man are rightly ordered by the Lord: and he will take pleasure in his way. When he falls, he shall not be bruised: for the Lord supports his hand. I was once young, indeed I am now old; yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed seeking bread. He is merciful, and lends continually; and his seed shall be blessed.

Turn aside from evil, and do good; and dwell for ever. For the Lord loves judgment, and will not forsake his saints: they shall be preserved for ever: the blameless shall be avenged, but the seed of the ungodly shall be utterly destroyed. But the righteous shall inherit the earth, and dwell upon it for ever.

The mouth of the righteous will meditate wisdom, and his tongue will speak of judgment. The law of his God is in his heart; and his steps shall not slide. The sinner watches the righteous, and seeks to slay him. But the Lord will not leave him in his hands, nor by any means condemn him when he is judged. Wait on the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee to inherit the land; when the wicked are destroyed, thou shalt see it.

I saw the ungodly very highly exalting himself, and lifting himself up like the cedars of Libanus. Yet I passed by, and lo! he was not; and I sought him, but his place was not found. Maintain innocence and behold uprightness: for there is remnant to the peaceable man. 38 But the transgressors shall be utterly destroyed together; the remnant of the ungodly shall be utterly destroyed. 39 But the salvation of the righteous is of the Lord; and he is their defender in the time of affliction. 40 And the Lord shall help them, and deliver them; and he shall rescue them from sinners, and save them, because they have hoped in him.

O Lord, rebuke me not in thy wrath, neither chasten me in thine anger. 2 For thy weapons are fixed in me, and thou hast pressed thy hand heavily upon me. 3 For there is no health in my flesh because of thine anger; there is no peace to my bones because of my sins. 4 For my transgressions have gone over mine head: they have pressed heavily upon me like a mighty burden. 5 My bruises have become noiseless, and corrupt, because of my foolishness. 6 I have been wretched and bowed down continually: I went with a mourning countenance all the day. 7 For my soul is filled with mockings; and there is no health in my flesh. 8 I have been afflicted and brought down exceedingly; I have roared for the groaning of my heart.

9 But all my desire is before thee; and my groaning is not hidden from thee. 10 My heart is troubled, my strength has failed me; and the light of mine eyes is not with me. 11 My friends and my neighbours drew near before me, and stood still; and my nearest of kin stood afar off. 12 While they pressed hard upon me that sought my soul: and they that sought my hurt spoke vanity, and devised deceits all the day. 13 But I, as a deaf man, heard not; and was as a dumb man not opening his mouth. 14 And I was as a man that hears not, and who has no reproofs in his mouth.

15 For I hoped in thee, O Lord: thou wilt hear, O Lord my God. 16 For I said, Let mine enemies rejoice against me: for when my feet were moved, they spoke boasting against me. 17 For I am ready for thy plagues, and my grief is continually before me. 18 For I will declare mine iniquity, and be distressed for my sin. 19 But mine enemies live, and are mightier than I; and that they hate me unjustly are multiplied. 20 They that reward evil for good slandered me; because I followed righteousness. 21 Forsake me not, O Lord my God: depart not from me. 22 Draw nigh to my help, O Lord of my salvation.

I said, I will take heed to my ways, that I sin not with my tongue: I set a guard on my mouth, while the sinner stood in my presence. 2 I was dumb, and humbled myself, and kept silence from good words; and my grief was renewed. 3 My heart grew hot

...Lord, I will sing of thy mercies in the morning, and will sing of thy faithfulness throughout all the day. 11 For thou hast magnified thy word above all thy name. 12 I have said, ‘I will not know weakness;’ but the Holy One of Israel has justified me. 13 I will not know weakness; for thy name is with me. 14 He will hear me and help me. 15 He is my God, and I will declare his works to all generations. 16 I will glory in the Lord; I will be glad in the God of my salvation. 17 He is the rock and refuge of my life; a strong tower, in whom I trust. 18 The Lord is the God who justifies me; he will magnify his name; he will regard my suppliant. 19 He will hear my prayer and help me. 20 Let all the people say, ‘Blessed is the Lord!’ 21 And let all the people say, ‘Praise the Lord!’ 22 The Lord will live forever. 23 Praise the Lord!”

The Psalms

I waited patiently for the Lord, and he attended to me, and hearkened to my supplication. And he brought me up out of a pit of misery, and from miry clay: and he set my feet on a rock, and ordered my goings aright. And he put a new song into my mouth, even a hymn to our God; many shall see it, and fear, and shall hope in the Lord. Blessed is the man whose hope is the name of the Lord, and who has not regarded vanities and false frenzies.

O Lord my God, thou hast multiplied thy wonderful works, and in thy thoughts there is none who shall be likened to thee: I declared and spoke of them: they exceeded number. Sacrifice and offering thou wouldst not: but a body hast thou prepared me: whole-burnt-offering and sacrifice for sin thou didst not require. Then I said, Behold, I come: in the volume of the book it is written concerning me, I have desired to do thy will, O my God, and thy law in the midst of my heart. I have preached righteousness in the great congregation; lo! I will not refrain my lips; O Lord, thou knowest my righteousness. I have not hid thy truth within my heart, and I have declared thy salvation: I have not hid thy mercy and thy truth from the great congregation.

But thou, Lord, remove not thy compassion far from me: thy mercy and thy truth have helped me continually. For innumerable evils have encompassed me; my transgressions have taken hold of me, and I could not see; they are multiplied... more than the hairs of my head; and my heart has failed me. 8Be pleased, O Lord, to deliver me; O Lord, draw nigh to help me. 9Let those that seek my soul, to destroy it, be ashamed and confounded together; let those that wish me evil be turned backward and put to shame. 10Let all those that say to me, Aha, aha, quickly receive shame for their regard. 11Let all those that seek thee, O Lord, exult and rejoice in thee; and let them that love thy salvation say continually, The Lord be magnified. 12But I am poor and needy; the Lord will take care of me; thou art my helper, and my defender, O my God, delay not.

Blessed is the man who thinks on the poor and needy: the Lord shall deliver him in an evil day. 2May the Lord preserve him and keep him alive, and bless him on the earth, and not deliver him into the hands of his enemy. 3May the Lord help him upon the bed of his pain; thou hast made all his bed in his sickness. 4I said, O Lord, have mercy upon me; heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee. 5Mine enemies have spoken evil against me, saying, When shall he die, and his name perish? 6And if he came to see me, his heart spoke vainly; he gathered iniquity to himself; he went forth and spoke in like manner. 7All my enemies whispered against me; against me they devised my hurt. 8They denounced a wicked word against me, saying, Now that he lies, shall he not rise up again? 9For even the man of my peace, in whom I trusted, who ate my bread, lifted up his heel against me.

But thou, O Lord, have compassion upon me, and raise me up, and I shall requite them. 11By this I know that thou hast delighted in me, because mine enemy shall not rejoice over me. 12But thou didst help me because of mine innocence, and hast established me before thee for ever. 13Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting, and to everlasting. So be it, so be it.

As the hart earnestly desires the fountains of water, so my soul earnestly longs for thee, O God. 2My soul is thirsted for the living God; when shall I come and appear before God? 3My tears have been bread to me day and night, while they daily said to me, Where is thy God? 4I remembered these things, and poured out my soul in me, for I will go to the place of the many tabernacles, even to the house of God, with a voice of exultation and thanksgiving and of the sound of those who keep festival. 5Therefore art thou very sad, O my soul? For thou art troubled within me: therefore will I remember thee.

A psalm of David. More than the hairs of my head, and my heart has failed me. 8Be pleased, O Lord, to deliver me; O Lord, draw nigh to help me. 9Let those that seek my soul, to destroy it, be ashamed and confounded together; let those that wish me evil be turned backward and put to shame. 10Let all those that say to me, Aha, aha, quickly receive shame for their regard. 11Let all those that seek thee, O Lord, exult and rejoice in thee; and let them that love thy salvation say continually, The Lord be magnified. 12But I am poor and needy; the Lord will take care of me; thou art my helper, and my defender, O my God, delay not.

from the land of Jordan, and of the Ermonites, from the little hill. 7 Deep calls to depth at the voice of thy cataracts: all thy billows and all thy waves have gone over me. 8 By day the Lord will command his mercy, and shall manifest it by night: with me is prayer to the God of my life. 9 I will say to God, Thou art my helper; why hast thou forgotten me? wherefore dost thou trouble me? hope in God; for I will give thanks to him; he is the health of my countenance, and my God.

A Psalm of David.

Judge me, O God, and plead my cause, against an ungodly nation: deliver me from the unjust and crafty man. 3 For thou, O God, art my strength: wherefore hast thou cast me off? and why do I go sad of countenance, while the enemy oppressed me?

Send forth thy light and thy truth: they have led me, and brought me to thy holy mountain, and to thy tabernacles. 4 And I will go in to the altar of God, to God who gladdens my youth: I will give thanks to thee on the harp, O God, my God.

5 Wherefore art thou very sad, O my soul? and wherefore dost thou trouble me?
Hope in God; for I will give thanks to him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

For the end, a Psalm for instruction, for the sons of Core.

God, we have heard with our ears, our fathers have told us, the work which thou wroughtest in their days, in the days of old. 2 Thine hand utterly destroyed the heathen, and they didst plant them: thou didst afflict the nations, and cast them out. 3 For they inherited not the land by their own sword, and their own arm did not deliver them: but thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, because thou wert well pleased in them.

4 Thou art indeed my King and my God, who commundest deliverances for Jacob.
5 In thee will we push down our enemies, and in thy name will we bring to nought them that rise up against us. 6 For I will not trust in my bow, and my sword shall not save me. 7 For thou hast saved us from them that afflicted us, and hast put to shame them that hated us. 8 In God will we make our boast all the day, and to thy name will we give thanks for ever. Pause.

5 But now thou hast cast off, and put us to shame; and thou wilt not go forth with our hosts. 9 Thou hast turned us back before our enemies; and they that hated us spoiled for themselves. 10 Thou madest us as sheep for meat; and thou scatteredst us among the nations. 12 Thou hast sold thy people without price, and there was no profit by their exchange.

made us a reproach to our neighbours, a scorn and derision to them that are round about us. 14 Thou hast made us a proverb among the Gentiles, a shaking of the head among the nations. 15 All the day my shame is before me, and the confusion of my face do cover me. 16 For thou hast laid us low in a place of affliction, and the shadow of death has covered us. 17 If we have forgotten the name of our God, and if we have spread out our hands to a strange god; shall not God search these things out? for he knows the secrets of the heart. 18 For, for thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are counted as sheep for slaughter.

For the end, for alternate strains by the sons of Core; for instruction, a Song concerning the beloved.

My heart has uttered a good matter: I declare my works to the king: my tongue is the pen of a quick writer. 2 Thou art more beautiful than all men; grace has shed forth on thy lips: therefore God has blessed thee for ever. 3 Gird thy sword upon thy thigh, O Mighty One, in thy comeliness, and in thy beauty; and bend thy bow, and prosper, and reign, because of truth and meekness and righteousness; and thy right hand shall guide thee wonderfully. 4 Thy weapons are sharpened, Mighty One, (the nations shall fall under thee) they are in the heart of the king's enemies.

5 Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdom is a sceptre of righteousness. 6 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, thy God, has anointed thee with the oil of gladness beyond thy fellows. 7 Myrrh, and aloes, and cassia are laid out before thee: it is the anointing oil of the young men; before thee burn myrrh, aloes, and cassia. 8 The king shall rejoice in thy beauty; for he is clothed with strength. 9 He shall be clothed with the beauty of the sun, and the dew of young men shall be upon him. 10 His lips shall be most precious; and whatsoever falls out of his mouth is right. 11 Be wise now, therefore; for so it is. 12 Forsake her not, and she will go far from thee, and will greatly despise thy glory.

God is our refuge and strength, a help in the afflictions that have come heavily upon us. 2 Therefore will we not fear when the earth is trodden, and the mountains are removed into the depths of the seas. 3 Their waters have roared and been troubled, the mountains have been troubled by his might. 4 Pause. 5 The流的s of the river gladden the city of God: the Most High has sanctified his tabernacle. 6 God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved; God shall help her and with her countenance. 7 The nations were troubled, the kingdoms tottered: he uttered his voice, the earth shook. 8 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our helper. Pause.

Come, and behold the works of the Lord, what great things he has accomplished on earth. 9 Putting an end to wars as for the ends of the earth; he will crush the bow, and break in pieces the weapon, and burn the bucklers with fire. 10 Be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the nations, I will be exalted in the earth. 11 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our helper.

For the end, a Psalm for the sons of Core.

Clap your hands, all ye nations; shout to God with a voice of exultation. 2 For the Lord most high is terrible; he is a great king over all the earth. 3 He has subdued the peoples under us, and the nations under our feet. 4 He has chosen out his inheritance for us, the beauty of Jacob which he loved. Pause.

God is gone up with a shout, the Lord with a sound of a trumpet. 5 Sing praises to our God, sing praises: sing praises to our King, sing praises. 6 For God is king of all the earth: sing praises with understanding. 7 God reigns over the nations; God sits upon the throne of his holiness. 8 The rulers of the people are assembled with the God of Abram: for God's mighty ones the earth have been greatly exalted.

A Psalm of 5 praise for the sons of Core on the second day of the week.

Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised in the city of our God, in his holy mountain. 2 They shall be brought with gladness and exultation: they shall be led into the king's temple. 3 Instead of thy fathers children are born to thee: thou shalt make them princes over all the earth. 4 They shall make mention of thy name from generation to generation; therefore shall the nations give thanks to thee for ever, even for ever and ever.
Psalms XLVII. 3—XLVIII. 16.

unto his name, 3 God is known in her palaces, when he undertakes to help her.

4 For, behold, the kings of the earth were assembled, they came together. 5 They saw, and so they wondered: they were troubled, they were moved. 6 Trembling took hold on them: there were the pangs as of a woman in travail. 7 Thou wilt break the ships of Tharsis with a vehement wind.

8 As we have heard, so have we also seen, in the city of the Lord of hosts, in the city of our God: God has founded it for ever. Pause.

9 We have thought of thy mercy, O God, in the midst of thy people. 10 According to thy name, O God, so is also thy praise to the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of righteousness. 11 Let mount Sion rejoice, let the daughters of Judaea exult, because of thy judgments, O Lord.

12 Go round about Sion, and encompass her: tell ye her towers. 13 Mark ye well her strength, and observe her palaces: that ye may tell the next generation. 14 For this is our God for ever and ever: he will be our guide for evermore.

Hear these words, all ye nations, hearken, all ye that dwell upon the earth: 2 both the sons of mean men, and sons of great men; the rich and poor man together. 3 My mouth shall speak of wisdom; and the meditation of my heart shall bring forth understanding. 4 I will incline mine ear to a parable: I will open my riddle on the harp.

5 Wherefore should I fear in the evil day? the iniquity of my heel shall compass me. 6 They that trust in their strength, and boast themselves in the multitude of their wealth — A brother does not redeem, shall a man redeem? he shall not give to God a ransom for himself, 8 or the price of the redemption of his soul, though he labour for ever, and live to the end, so that he should not see corruption.

8 When he shall see wise men dying, the fool and the senseless one shall perish together; and they shall leave their wealth to strangers. 9 And their sepulchres are their houses for ever, even their tabernacles to all generations; they have called them to their lands after their own names. 12 And man being in honour, understands not: he is compared to the senseless cattle, and is like to them. 13 This their way is an offence to them: yet afterwards men will commend their sayings. Pause. 14 They have laid them as shields in Hades: death shall feed on them; and the upright shall have dominion over them in the morning, and their help shall fail in Hades from their glory. 15 But God shall deliver my soul from the power of Hades, when he shall receive me. Pause.

16 Fear not when a man is enriched, and
The God of gods, the Lord, has spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the sun to the going down thereof. Out of Sion comes the excellence of his beauty. God, our God, shall come manifestly, and shall not keep silence: a fire shall be kindled before him, and round about him there shall be a very great tempest. He shall summon the heaven above, and the earth, that he may judge his people. Assembly ye his saints, those that have engaged in a covenant with him upon sacrifices. And the heavens shall declare his righteousness for God is judge. Pause. Hear, my people, and I will speak to thee, O Israel: and I will testify to thee: I am God, thy God. I will not reprove thee on account of thy sacrifices; for thy whole-burnt-offerings are before me continually. I will take no bullocks out of thine house nor he-goats out of thy flocks. For all the wild beasts of the thicket are mine, the cattle on the mountains, and oxen. I know all the birds of the sky; and the beauty of the field is mine. If I should be hungry, I will not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fulness of it. Will I eat the flesh of bulls, or drink the blood of goats? Offer to God the sacrifice of praise; and pay thy vows to the Most High. And call upon me in the day of affliction; and I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me. Pause. But to the sinner God has said, Why dost thou declare my ordinances, and take up my covenant in thy mouth? Whereas thou hast hated instruction, and hast cast my words behind thee. If thou savest a thief, thou seluest along with him, and hast cast in thy lot with adulterers. Thy mouth has multiplied wickedness, and thy tongue has framed deceit. Thou didst sit and speak against thy brother, and didst scandalise thy mother's son. These things thou didst, and I kept silence: thou thoughtest wickedly that I should be like thee; but I will reprove thee, and set thee before thee. Consider these things, ye that forget God lest he rend you, and there be no deliverer. The sacrifice of praise will glorify me, and that is the way wherein I will shew to him the salvation of God.

For the end, a Psalm of David, when Nathan the prophet came to him, when he had gone in to Bersabee.

Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy great mercy; and according to the multitude of thy compassions blot out my transgression. 2 Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.

3 For I am conscious of mine iniquity; and my sin is continually before me. 4 Against thee only have I sinned, and done evil before thee; that thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and mightiest overcome when thou art judged. 5 For, behold, I was conceived in iniquities, and in sins did my mother conceive me.

6 For, behold, thou lovest truth: thou hast manifested to me the secret and hidden things of thy wisdom. 7 Thou shalt sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be purified: thou shalt wash me, and I shall be made whiter than snow. 8 Thou shalt cause me to hear gladness and joy: the afflicted bones shall rejoice. 9 Turn away thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities. 10 Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit in my inward parts. 11 Cast me not away from thy presence; and remove not thy holy Spirit from me. 12 Restore to me the joy of thy salvation: establish me with thy ² directing Spirit.

13 Then will I teach transgressors thy ways: and ungodly men shall turn to thee. 14 Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O God, the God of my salvation: and my tongue shall joyfully declare thy righteousness. 15 O Lord, thou shalt open my lips; and my mouth shall declare thy praise. 16 For if thou desiredst sacrifice, I would have given it: thou wilt not take pleasure in whole-burnt-offerings. 17 Sacrifice to God is a broken spirit: a broken and humbled heart God will not despise.

18 Do good, O Lord, to Sion in thy good pleasure; and let the walls of Jerusalem be built. 19 Then shalt thou be pleased with a sacrifice of righteousness, ² offering, and whole-burnt-sacrifices: then shall they offer calves upon thine altar.

For the end, a Psalm of ¹ instruction by David, when Doeg the Eduman came and told Saul, and said to him, David is gone to the house of Abimelech.

Why dost thou, O mighty man, boast of iniquity in thy mishief? All the day ² thy tongue has devised unrighteousness; like a sharpened razor thou hast wrought deceit. ³ Thou hast loved wickedness more than goodness; unrighteousness better than to speak righteousness. Pause. ⁴ Thou hast loved all words of destruction, and a deceitful tongue.

Therefore may God destroy thee for ever, may he pluck thee up and utterly remove thee from thy dwelling, and thy root from the land of the living. Pause. ⁵ And the righteous shall see, and fear, and shall laugh at him, and say, ⁶ Behold the man who made not God his help; but trusted in the abundance of his wealth, and strengthened himself in his vanity.

But I am as a fruitful olive in the house of God: I have trusted in the mercy of God.
For the end, a Psalm of David upon Maceleth, of instruction.

The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. They have corrupted themselves, and become abominable in iniquities; there is none that does good. God looked down from heaven upon the sons of men, to see if there were any that understood, or sought after God. They have all gone aside, every one to his own way; they are together become unprofitable; there is none that does good, there is not even one.

4 Will none of the workers of iniquity know, who devour my people as they would eat bread? they have not called upon God. There they greatly afraid, where there was no fear: for God has scattered the bones of the men-pleasers; they were ashamed, for God despised them. Who will bring the salvation of Israel out of Sion? When the Lord turns the captivity of his people, Jacob shall exult, and Israel shall be glad.

For the end, among the Hymns of instruction by David, when the Ziphites came and said to Saul, Lo, is not David hid with us?

Save me, O God, by thy name, and judge me by thy might. O God, hear my prayer; hearken to the words of my mouth. For strangers have risen up against me, and mighty men have sought my life: they have not set God before them. Pause.

4 For lo! God assists me; and the Lord is the helper of my soul. He shall return evil to mine enemies; utterly destroy them in thy truth. I will willingly sacrifice to thee: I will give thanks to thy name, O Lord; for it is good. For thou hast delivered me out of all affliction, and mine eye has seen my desire upon mine enemies.

For the end, among Hymns of instruction by David.

Hearken, O God, to my prayer; and disregard not my supplication. Attend to me, and hearken to me: I was grieved in my meditation, and troubled; because of the voice of the enemy, and because of the oppression of the sinner: for they brought iniquity against me, and were wrathfully angry against me.

4 My heart was troubled within me; and the fear of death fell upon me. Fear and trembling came upon me, and darkness covered me. And I said, O that I had wings as those of a dove! then would I flee away, and be at rest. I lo! I have fled afar off, and lodged in the wilderness. Pause.

I waited for him that should deliver me from distress of spirit and tempest.

2 Destroy, O Lord, and divide their tongues: for I have seen iniquity and gain saying in the city. 16 Day and night 3 he shall go round about it upon its walls: iniquity and sorrow and unrighteousness are in the midst of it; 4 and usury and craft have not failed from its streets.

17 For an enemy had reproached me, I would have endured it; and if one who hated me had spoken vauntingly against me, I would have hid myself from him. 18 But thou, O man likeminded, my guide, and my acquaintance, 5 who in companionship with me sweetened our food: we were as the image of God in concord. 19 Let death come upon them, and let them go down alive into Hades, for iniquity is in their dwellings, in the midst of them.

20 I cried to God, and the Lord heartened me. 21 Evening, and morning, and at noon I will declare and make known my 22 Cast thy care upon the Lord, and he shall sustain thee; he shall never suffer the righteous to be moved. 23 But thou, O God, shalt bring them down to the pit of destruction; bloody and crafty men shall not live out half their days; but I will hope in thee, O Lord.

Have mercy upon me, O God; for man has trodden me down; all the day long he warring has afflicted me. 2 Mine enemies have trodden me down all the day from the dawning of the day; for there are many warring against me. 3 They shall be afraid, but I will trust in thee. 4 In God I will praise my words; all the day have I hoped in God; I will not fear what flesh shall do to me. 5 All the day long they have abominated my words; all their devices are against me for evil. 6 They will dwell near and hide themselves; they will watch my steps, accordingly as I have waited patiently in my soul. 7 Thou wilt on no account save them; thou wilt bring down the people in wrath. 8 O God, I have declared my life to thee; thou hast set my tears before thee, even according to thy promise. 9 Mine enemies shall be turned back, in the day wherein I shall call upon thee; behold, I know that thou art my God. 10 In God will I praise his word; in the Lord will I praise his saying. 11 I have hoped in God; I will not be afraid of what man shall do to me. 12 The vows of thy praise, 13 that I did not anamnai and antilogian en tis poleis. 14 Hmepas kai 10 vukto tou kuklousei autin eti ta teichy autis, anamia kai ponos en meues autis kai adikia, kai oux ezelepton k tei planein 11 autis tokos kai dolos.

O God, which I will pay, are upon me.

For thou hast delivered my soul from death, and my feet from sliding, that I should be well-pleasing before God in the land of the living.

For the end. Destroy not: by David, for a memorial, when he fled from the presence of Saul to the cave.

Have mercy, upon me, O God, have mercy upon me: for my soul has trusted in thee: and in the shadow of thy wings will I hope, until the iniquity have passed away.

I will cry to God most high; the God who has benefited me. Pause. He sent from heaven and saved me; he gave to reproach them that trampled on me: God has sent forth his mercy and his truth: and he has delivered my soul from the midst of lions' whelps: I lay down to sleep, though troubled. As for the sons of men, their teeth are arms and missile weapons, and their tongue a sharp sword.

Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; and thy glory above all the earth.

They have prepared snares for my feet, and have bowed down my soul: they have dug a pit before my face, and fallen into it themselves. Pause. My heart, O God, is ready: my heart is ready; I will sing, you will sing psalms. Awake, my glory; awake, psaltery and harp: I will awake early. O Lord, I will give thanks to thee among the nations: I will sing to thee among the Gentiles. For thy mercy has been magnified even to the heavens, and thy truth to the clouds. Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; and thy glory above all the earth.

For the end. Destroy not: by David, for a memorial.

If ye do indeed speak righteousness, then do ye judge rightly, ye sons of men. For ye work iniquities in your hearts in the earth: your hands plot unrighteousness.

Sinners have gone astray from the womb: they go astray from the belly: they speak lies. Their venom is like that of a serpent: as that of a deaf asp, and that stops her ears: which will not hear the voice of charmers, nor heed the charm prepared skilfully by the wise.

God has crushed their teeth in their mouth: God has broken the cheek-teeth of the lions. They shall utterly pass away like water running through: he shall bend his bow till they shall fail. They shall be destroyed as melted wax: the fire has fallen and they have not seen the sun. Before your thorns feel the white thorn, he shall swallow you up as living, as in his wrath.

The righteous shall rejoice when he sees the vengeance of the ungodly: he shall wash his hands in the blood of the sinner.

And a man shall say, Verily there is a reward for the righteous: verily there is a God that judges them in the earth.
For the end. Destroy not: by David for a memorial, when Saul sent, and watched his house to kill him.

Deliver me from mine enemies, O God; and ransom me from those that rise up against me. 2 Deliver me from the workers of iniquity, and save me from bloody men.

3 For, behold, they have hunted after my soul; violent men have set upon me; neither is it my iniquity, nor my sin, O Lord. 4 Without iniquity I ran and directed my course aright: awake to help me, and behold. 5 And thou, Lord God of hosts, the God of Israel, draw nigh to visit all the heathen; pity not any that work iniquity. Pause. 6 They shall return at evening, and hunger like a dog, and go round about the city.

7 Behold, they shall utter a voice with their mouth, and a sword is in their lips; for who, say they, has heard? 8 But thou, Lord, wilt laugh them to scorn; thou wilt utterly set at nought all the heathen. 9 I will keep my strength, looking to thee; for thou, O God, art my helper. 10 As for my God, his mercy shall go before me: my God will shew me vengeance on mine enemies.

11 Slay them not, lest they forget thy law; scatter them by thy power; and bring them down, O Lord, my defender. 12 For the sin of their mouth, and the word of their lips, let them be even taken in their pride. 13 And for their cursing and falsehood shall utter destruction be pronounced: they shall fall by the wrath of utter destruction, and shall not be; so shall they know that the God of Jacob is Lord of the ends of the earth. Pause. 14 They shall return at evening, and be hungry as a dog, and go round about the city. 15 They shall be scattered hither and thither for meat; and if they be not satisfied, they shall even murmur.

16 But I will sing to thy strength, and in the morning will I exult in thy mercy; for thou hast been my supporter, and my refuge in the day of mine affliction. 17 Thou art my helper; to thee, my God, will I sing; thou art my supporter, O my God, and my mercy.

For the end, for them that shall yet be changed; for an inscription by David for instruction, when he had burned Mesopotamia of Syria, and Syria Sobal, and Joab had returned and smitten in the valley of salt twelve thousand.

O God, thou hast rejected and destroyed us; thou hast been angry, yet hast pitied us. 2 Thou hast shaken the earth, and troubled it; heal its breaches, for it has been shaken. 3 Thou hast shewn thy people hard things; thou hast made us drink the wine of astonishment. 4 Thou hast given a token to them that fear thee, that they might flee from the bow. Pause. 5 That thy beloved ones may be delivered; save with thy right hand, and hear me.

6 God has spoken in his holiness; I will rejoice, and divide Scicima, and measure out the valley of tents. 7 Galad is mine, and Manasse is mine; and Eglon is the strength of my head. 8 Judas is my king; Moab is the caldron of my hope; over Idumea will I stretch out my shoe; the Philistines have been subjected to me.

9 Who will lead me into the fortified city? who will guide me as far as Idumea? 10 Wilt not thou, O God, who hast cast us off? and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our forces? 11 Give us help from trouble: for vain is the deliverance of man.

12 In God will we not; and he shall bring to nought them that harass us.

For the end, among the Hymns of David.

O God, hearken to my petition; attend to my prayer. 2 From the ends of the earth have I cried to thee, when my heart was in trouble; thou liftest me up on a rock, thou dost guide me; 3 because thou wert my hope, a tower of strength from the face of the enemy. 4 I will dwell in thy tabernacle for ever; I will shelter myself under the shadow of thy wings. Pause.

5 For thou, O God, hast heard my prayers; thou hast given an inheritance to them that fear thy name. 6 Thou shalt add days to the days of the king: thou shalt lengthen his years to all generations. 7 He shall endure for ever and God: which of them shall seek out his mercy and truth? 8 So will I sing to thy name for ever and ever, that I may daily perform my vows.

Shall not my soul be subjected to God? for of him is my salvation. 2 For he is my God and my Saviour; my helper, I shall not be moved 4 very much. 3 How long will ye assail a man? ye are all slaughtering as with a bowed wall and a broken hedge. 4 They only took counsel to set at nought mine honour: I ran in thirst: with their mouth they blessed, but with their heart they cursed. Pause.

5 Nevertheless do thou, my soul, be subjected to God; for of him is my patient hope. 6 For he is my God and my Saviour: my helper, I shall not be moved. 7 In God is my salvation and my glory: he is the God of my help, and my hope is in God. 8 Hope in him, all ye congregation of the people; pour out your hearts before him, for God is our helper. Pause.

9 But the sons of men are vain; the sons of men are false, so as to be deceitful in the balances; they are all alike formed out of vanity. 10 Trust not in unrighteousness, and lust not after robberies: if wealth should flow in, set not your heart upon it. 11 God has spoken once, and I have heard these two things, that power is of God; 12 and mercy is thine, O Lord; for thou wilt recompense every one according to his works.

O God, my God, I cry to thee early; my soul has thirsted for thee: how often has my flesh lusted after thee, in a barren and trackless and dry land! 2 Thus have I appeared before thee in the sanctuary, that I might see thy power and thy glory. 3 For thy mercy is better than life: my lips shall praise thee. 4 Thus will I bless thee during my life: I will lift up my hands in thy name. 5 Let my soul be filled as with marrow and fatness; and my joyful lips shall praise thy name.

6 Forasmuch as I have remembered thee on my bed: in the early seasons I have meditated on thee. 7 Thou hast been my helper, and in the shelter of thy wings will I rejoice. 8 My soul has kept very close behind thee: thy right hand has upheld me. 9 But they vainly sought after my soul: they shall go into the lowest parts of the earth. 10 They shall be delivered up to the power of the sword: they shall be portions for foxes. 11 But the king shall rejoice in God; every one that swears by him shall be praised; for the mouth of them that speak unjust things has been stopped.

For the end, a Psalm and Song of David.

Hear my prayer, O God, when I make my petition to thee; deliver my soul from fear of the enemy. 2 Thou hast sheltered me from the conspiracy of them that do wickedly; from the multitude of them that work iniquity; 3 who have sharpened their tongues as a sword; they have bent their bow maliciously; 4 to shoot in secret at the blameless; they will shoot him suddenly, and will not fear. 5 They have set up for themselves an evil matter, they have given counsel to hide snares; they have said, Who shall see them? 6 They have searched out iniquity; they have wornied themselves with searching diligently, a man shall approach and the heart is deep, and God shall be exalted, their wounds were caused by the weapon of the foolish children, 7 and their tongues have set him at nought, all that saw them were troubled; 8 and every man was alarmed, and they related the works of God, and understood his deeds.

10 The righteous shall rejoice in the Lord, and hope on him, and all the upright in heart shall be praised.

For the end, a Psalm and Song of David.

Praise becomes thee, O God, in Sion; and to thee shall the vow be performed. 2 Hear my prayer: to thee all flesh shall come. 3 The words of transgressors have overpowered us; but do thou pardon our sins. 4 Blessed is he whom thou hast chosen and adopted; he shall dwell in thy courts; we shall be filled with the good things of thy house; thy temple is holy. 5 Thou art wonderful in righteousness. Hearken to us, O God our Saviour: the hope of all the ends of the earth, and of them that are on the sea afar off: 6 who dost establish the Psalms LXVII. 19—LXVIII. 9.

Blessed be the Lord God, blessed be the Lord daily; and the God of our salvation shall prosper us.

20 Our God is the God of salvation; and to the Lord belong the issues from death.

21 But God shall crush the heads of his enemies; and to the Lord again through the depths of the sea.

22 That thy foot may be dipped in blood, and the tongue of thy dogs be stained with that of thine enemies.

23 Thy goings, O God, have been seen; the goings of my God, the king, in the sanctuary.

24 The princes went first, next before the players on instruments, in the midst of damseels playing on timbrels.

25 Praise God in the congregations, the Lord from the fountains of Israel.

26 There is Benjamin the younger one in ecasty, the princes of Juda, their rulers, the princes of Zabulon, the princes of Nephtali.

27 O God, command thou thy strength: strengthen, O God, this which thou hast wrought in us.

28 Because of thy temple at Jerusalem shall kings bring presents to thee.

29 Rebuke the nations, which rise up against thee; let the crowd of bulls with the heifers of the nations be rebuked, so that they who have been proved with silver may not be shut out: scatter thou the nations that wish for wars.

30 Ambassadors shall arrive out of Egypt; Ethiopia shall hasten to stretch out her hand readily to God.

31 Sing to God, ye kingdoms of the earth; sing psalms to the Lord.

32 Sing to God that rides on the heaven of heaven, eastward: lo, he will utter a mighty sound with his voice.

33 Give ye glory to God: his excellency is over Israel, and his power is in the clouds.

34 God is wonderful in his holy places, the God of Israel: he will give power and strength to his people: blessed be God.

For the end, a Psalm of David, for alternate strains.

Save me, O God; for the waters have come in to my soul.

I am stuck fast in deep mire, and there is no standing: I am come in to the depths of the sea, and a storm has overwhelmed me.

I am weary of crying, my throat has become hoarse; mine eyes have failed by my waiting on my God.

Let not them that wait on thee, O God, be ashamed that look out on account; let not them that seek thee, be ashamed on my account, O God of Israel.

For I have suffered reproach for thy sake; shame has covered my face.

I became strange to my brethren, and a stranger to my mother's children.

For the zeal of thine house has eaten me up; and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me. 10 And I bowed down my soul with fasting, and that was made my reproach.

And I put on sackcloth for my covering; and I was made despised, and I did not love. 12 They that sat in the gate talked against me, and they that drank wine sang against me.

But I will cry to thee, O Lord, in my prayer; O God, it is a propitious time; in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy salvation. 14 Save me from the mire, that I stick not in it; let me be delivered from them that hate me, and from the deep waters. 15 Let not the water flood drown me, nor let the deep swallow me up; neither let the well shut its mouth upon me. 16 Hear me, O Lord; for thy mercy is good; according to the multitude of thy compassions look upon me. 17 And turn not away thy face from thy servant; for I am afflicted, I am hurt speedily. 18 Draw nigh to my soul and redeem it; deliver me because of mine enemies.

For thou knowest my reproach, and my shame, and my confusion; all that afflict me are before thee. 19 My soul has waited for reproach and misery; and I waited for one to grieve with me, but there was none; and for one to comfort me, but I found none. 20 They gave me also gall for my food, and made me drink vinegar for my thirst. 21 Let their table before them be for a snare, and for a trap, and for a stumbling-block. 22 Let their eyes be darkened that they should not see; and bow down their back continually. 23 Pour out thy wrath upon them, and let the fury of thine anger take hold on them. 24 Let their habitation be made desolate; and let there be no inhabitant in their tents: because they persecuted him whom thou hast smitten; and they have added to the grief of my wounds. 25 Add iniquity to their iniquity; and let them not come into thy righteousness. 26 Let them be blotted out of the book of the living, and let them not be written with the righteous.

I am poor and sorrowful; but the salvation of thy countenance has helped me. 27 I will praise the name of my God with a song, I will magnify him with praise; and this shall please God more than a young calf having horns and hoofs. 28 Let the poor see and rejoice; seek the Lord diligently, and ye shall live. 29 For the Lord hears the poor, and does not set at nought his fettered ones. 30 Let the heavens and the earth praise him, the sea, and all things moving in them. 31 For God will save Sion, and the cities of Judea shall be built; and men shall dwell there, and inherit it. 32 And the seed of his servants shall possess it, and they that love his name shall dwell therein.

For the end, by David for a remembrance, that the Lord may save me.

Draw nigh, O God, to my help. 2 Let them be ashamed and confounded that seek my soul; let them be turned backward

Elisha, the son of Shaphat, 7 who raised the young man from the dead, 8 said to the elders of Israel: "Why have you turned back to the king? 9 Look, a heavy burden is on you. 10 And the king said, "Say, there is peace."

The word of the Lord came to me, saying: 11 "What is this heavy burden that you have laid upon the king's heart?" 12 And I said, "The burden is that he has gone down to the sea to die, and he is in deep mourning." 13 And the Lord said to me, "Before you prophesy, there will come the word of the Lord to Shaphat of Rabbath, saying: 14 "Has not the Lord poured upon you a very great burden? 15 But now you must add to it. 16 Is this an easy thing? 17 Who ever heard of such a thing as this before?''

O Lord, I have hoped in thee; let me never be put to shame.

For I am in the hands of God, and a strong hold to save me: for thou art my fortress and my refuge.

Deliver me, O my God, from the hand of the sinner, from the hand of the transgressor and unjust man.

For thou art my support, O Lord; O Lord, thou art my hope from my youth.

On thee have I been stayed from the womb: from the belly of my mother thou didst art my protector: of thee is my praise continually.

I am become as it were a wonder to many; but thou art my strong helper.

Let my mouth be filled with praise, that I may hymn thy glory, and thy majesty all the day.

Cast me not off at the time of old age; forsake me not when my strength fails.

For mine enemies have spoken against me; and they that lay wait for my soul have taken counsel together, saying, God has forsaken him: persecute ye and take him: for there is no deliverer.

O God, go not far from me, O my God, draw nigh to my help.

Let those that plot against my soul be ashamed and utterly fail: let those that seek my hurt be clothed with shame and dishonour.

But I will hope continually, and will praise thee more and more.

My mouth shall declare thy righteousness openly, and thy salvation all the day: for I am not acquainted with the affairs of men.

I will go on in the might of the Lord: O Lord, will make the mention of thy righteousness only.

O God, thou hast taught me from my youth, and until now will I declare thy wonders; even until I am old and advanced in years.

O God, forsake me not: until I shall have declared thine arm to all the generation that is to come: even thy power and thy righteousness, O God, up to the highest heaven, even the mighty works which thou hast done: O God, who is like to thee?

What afflictions many and sore hast thou shewed me? yet thou didst turn and quicken me, and broughtest me again from the depths of the earth.

Thou didst multiply thy righteousness, and didst turn and comfort me, and broughtest me again out of the depths of the earth.

I will also therefore give thanks to thee, O God, because of thy truth, on an instrument of psalmody: I will sing psalms to thee on the Psalm LXX. 23—LXXII. 6.

A Psalm for Asaph.

How good is God to Israel, to the upright in heart! 2 But my feet were almost overthrown; my goings very nearly slipped. 3 For I was jealous of the transgressors, beholding the tranquillity of sinners. 4 For there is no sign of reluctance in their death; and they have firmness under their afflictions. 5 They are not in the troubles of other men; and they shall not be scourged with other men. 6 Therefore pride has possessed them; they have clothed

Psalmos tò 'Asáf. 72 (73)

'Ως ἀγάθος ὁ Θεὸς τοῦ Ἰσραήλ, ὁ ποιῶν βασιλείαν 18 μῶν, καὶ εὐλογηθηνὸς τὸ ὄνομα τῆς δόξης αὐτοῦ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα · καὶ εἰς αἰῶνα τοῦ αἰώνος· καὶ πληρωθήσεται τῆς δόξης αὐτοῦ πᾶσα ἡ γῆ. Ἐξέλειπτον οἱ γυναικείοι τοῦ 20 νυφὸς Ἰσραήλ.
741. 741.

When I would hearken, my heart didthunder.

Behold, I will cause to understand, and his understanding shall be quickened.

He said, I will speak of thy understanding: I will open thy lips with knowledge.

Surely thou hast appointed judgments to them because of their crafty dealings: thou hast cast them down when they were lifted up.

How have they become desolate! suddenly they have failed: they have perished because of their iniquity.

As the dream of one awakening, O Lord, in thy city thou wilt despise their image.

For my heart has rejoiced, and my reins have been gladdened. But I was vile and knew not: I became brutish before thee.

Yet I am continually with thee: thou hast holden my right hand.

Thou hast guided me by thy counsel, and thou hast taken me to thyself with glory.

For what have I in heaven but thee? and what have I desired upon the earth beside thee?

My heart and my flesh have failed: but God is the strength of my heart, and God is my portion for ever.

For, behold, they that remove themselves far from thee shall perish: thou hast destroyed every one that goes a whoring from thee.

But it is good for me to cleave close to God, to put my trust in the Lord; that I may proclaim all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of Zion.

A Psalm of instruction for Asaph.

Wherefore hast thou rejected es, O God, for ever? wherefore is thy wrath kindled against the sheep of thy pasture?

Remember thy congregation which thou hast purchased from the beginning; thou didst ransom the rod of thine inheritance; this mount Sion wherein thou hast dwelt.

Lift up thine hands against their pride continually; because of all that the enemy has done wickedly in thy holy places.

And they that hate thee have boasted in the midst of thy feast; they have set up their standards for signs, ignorantly as it were in the entrance above; they cut down its doors at once with axes as in a wood of trees; they have broken it down with hatchet and stone cutter. They have burnt thy sanctuary with fire to the ground;
they have profaned the habitation of thy name. They have said in their heart, even all their kindred together, Come, let us abolish the feasts of the Lord from the earth. We have not seen our signs; there is no longer a prophet; and God will not know us any more.

10 How long, O God, shall the enemy reproach? shall the enemy provoke thy name for ever? 11 Wherefore turnest thou away thine hand, and thine right hand from the midst of thy bosom for ever? But God is our King forever; he has wrought salvation in the midst of the earth. 12 Thou didst establish the sea, in thy might, thou didst break to pieces the heads of the dragons in the water. 13 Thou didst break to pieces the heads of the dragon; thou didst give him for meat to the Ethiopian nations. 14 Thou didst make cleft fountains and torrents; thou didst dry up 5 mighty rivers. 15 The day is thine, and the night is thine; thou hast prepared the sun and the moon. 16 Thou hast made all the borders of the earth; thou hast made summer and spring.

18 Remember this thy creation: an enemy has reproached the Lord, and a foolish people has provoked thy name. 19 Deliver not to the wild beasts a soul that gives praise to thee: forget not for ever the souls of thy poor. 20 Look upon thy covenant: for the dark places of the earth are filled with the habitations of iniquity. 21 Let not the afflicted and shamed one be rejected: the poor and needy shall praise thy name. 22 Arise, O God, plead thy cause: remember thy reproaches that come from the foolish one all the day. 23 Forget not the voice of thy suppliants: let the pride of them that hate thee continually ascend before thee.

We will give thanks to thee, O God, we will give thanks, and call upon thy name; I will declare all thy wonderful works. When I shall take a set time, I will judge righteously. 3 The earth is dissolved, and all that dwell in it: I have strengthened its pillars. Pause.

4 I said unto the transgressors, Do not transgress; and to the sinners, Lift not up the horn. Lift not up your horn on high; speak not unrighteousness against God. 5 For good comes neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the south nor from the desert mountains. 6 For God is the judge; he puts down one, and raises up another. 7 For there is a cup in the hand of the Lord, full of unmingled wine; and he has turned it from side to side, but its dregs have not been wholly poured out; all the sinners of the earth shall drink them.

8 But I will exalt for ever; I will sing praises to the God of Jacob. 10 And I will break all the horns of sinners; but the horns of the righteous one shall be exalted.

For the end, among the Hymns, a Psalm for Asaph; a Song for the Assyrian.

God is known in Judah; his name is great in Israel. 2 And his place has been in peace, and his dwelling-place in Sion.

There he broke the power of the bows, the shield, and the sword, and the battle. Pause.

4 Thou dost wonderfully shine forth from the everlasting mountains. All the simple ones in heart were troubled; all the men of wealth have slept their sleep, and have found nothing in their hands. 6 At thy rebuke, O God of Jacob, the riders on horses slumbered. Thou art terrible; and who shall withstand thee, because of thine anger?

8 Thou didst cause judgment to be heard from heaven; the earth feared, and was still, when God arose to judgment, to save all the meek in heart. Pause.

10 For the inward thought of man shall give thanks to thee: and the memorial of his inward thought shall keep a feast to thee. 11 Vow, and pay your vow to the Lord our God; all that are round about him shall bring gifts, even to him that is terrible, and that takes away the spirits of princes; to him that is terrible among the kings of the earth.

For the end, for Idithun, a Psalm of Asaph.

I cried to the Lord with my voice, yea, my voice was addressed to God; and he gave heed to me. 2 In the day of my affliction I earnestly sought the Lord; even with my hands by night before him, and I was not deceived; my soul refused to be comforted. 3 I remembered God, and rejoiced; I poured out my complaint, and my soul fainted. Pause. 4 All mine enemies set a watch against me: I was troubled, and spoke not.

5 I considered the days of old, and remembered ancient years. 6 And I meditated; I communed with my heart by night, and diligently searched my spirit, saying, Will the Lord cast off for ever? and will he be well pleased no more? 8 Will he cut off his mercy for ever, even for ever and ever? 9 Will God forget to pity? or will he shut up his compassions in his wrath? Pause.

10 And I said, Now I have begun; this is the change of the right hand of the Most High. 11 I remembered the works of the Lord; for I will remember thy wonders from the beginning. 12 And I will meditate on all thy works, and will consider thy doings.

13 O God, thy way is in the sanctuary; who is a great God as our God? 14 Thou art the God that dost wonders; thou hast made known thy power among the nations.

15 Thou hast with thine arm redeemed thy people, the sons of Jacob and Joseph. Pause.

16 The waters saw thee, O God, the waters saw thee, and feared; and the depths were troubled. 17 There was an abundant sound of waters: the clouds uttered a voice; for thine arrows went abroad. 18 The voice of thy thunder was abroad, and around thy lightnings appeared to the world; the earth trembled and quaked. 19 Thy way is in the sea, and thy paths in many waters, and thy footsteps cannot be known. 20 Thou didst guide thy people as sheep by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

A Psalm of Instruction for Asaph.

Give heed, O my people, to my law:
incline your ear to the words of my mouth.
2 I will open my mouth in parables; I will utter dark saying, which have been from the beginning. 3 All which we have heard and known, and our fathers have declared to us.
4 They were not hid from their children to a second generation; the fathers declaring the praises of the Lord, and his mighty acts, and his wonders which he wrought.
5 And he raised up a testimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers, to make it known to their children: 6 that another generation might know, even the sons which should be born; and they should arise and declare them to their children. 7 That they might set their hope on God, and not forget the works of God, but diligently seek his commandments. 8 That they should not be as their fathers, a perverse and provoking generation; a generation which set not his heart aright, and his spirit was not 5 steadfast with God.
9 The children of Ephraim, bending and shooting with the bow, turned back in the day of battle. 10 They kept not the covenant of God, and would not walk in his law.
11 And they forgot his benefits, and his miracles which he had shewed them, 12 the miracles which he wrought before their fathers, in the land of Egypt, in the plain of Tanes. 13 He clave the sea, and led them through: he made the waters to stand as in a bottle. 14 And he guided them with a cloud by day, and all the night with a light of fire. 15 He clave a rock in the wilderness, and made them drink as in a great deep.
16 And he brought water out of the rock, and caused waters to flow down as rivers.
17 And they sinned yet more against him;
they provoked the Most High in the wilderness.
18 And they tempted God in their hearts, in asking meat for the desire of their souls.
19 They spoke also against God, and said, Will God be able to prepare a table in the wilderness? 20 Forasmuch as he smote the rock, and the waters flowed, and the torrents ran abundantly; will he be able also to give bread, or prepare a table for his people?
21 Therefore the Lord heard, and was provoked: and fire was kindled in Jacob, and wrath went up against Israel. 22 Because they believed not in God, and trusted not in his salvation. 23 Yet he commanded the clouds from above, and opened the doors of heaven, 24 and rained upon them manna to eat, and gave them the bread of heaven.
25 Man ate angels' bread; 26 he sent them provision to the full.
27 He removed the south wind from heaven; and by his might he brought in the most high God, and kept not his testimonies. 56 And they turned back, and broke covenant, even as also their fathers: they became like a crooked bow. 57 And they provoked him with their high places, and moved him to jealousy with their graven images.

58 God heard and was greatly despaired of Israel. 59 And he rejected the tabernacle of Selom, his tent where he dwelt among men. 60 And he gave their strength into captivity, and their beauty into the enemy's hand. 61 And he gave his people to the sword; and disdained his inheritance. 62 Fire devoured their young men; and their virgins were burnt not. 63 Their priests fell by the sword; and their widows shall not be wept for.

64 So the Lord awoke as one out of sleep, and as a mighty man who has been heated with wine. 65 And he smote his enemies in the hinder parts: he brought on them a perpetual reproach.

66 And he rejected the tabernacle of Joseph, and chose not the tribe of Ephraim; 67 but chose the tribe of Juda, the mount of Sion which he loved. 68 And he built his sanctuary as the place of unicorns; he founded it for ever on the earth. 69 He chose David also his servant, and took him up from the flocks of sheep. 70 He took him from following the ewes great with young, to be the shepherd of Jacob his servant, and Israel his inheritance. 71 So he tended them in the innocency of his heart; and guided them by the skilfulness of his hands.

A Psalm for Asaph.

O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance; they have polluted thy holy temple: they have made Jerusalem a storehouse of fruits.

2 They have given the dead bodies of thy servants to be food for the birds of the sky, the flesh of thy holy ones for the wild beasts of the earth. 3 They have shed their blood as water, round about Jerusalem; and there was none to bury them. 4 We are become a reproach to our neighbours, a scorn and derision to them that are round about us.

5 How long, O Lord? wilt thou be angry for ever? shall thy jealousy burn like fire? 6 Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen that have not known thee, and upon the kingdoms which have not called upon thy name. 7 For they have devoured Jacob, and laid his place waste.

8 Remember not our old transgressions; let thy tender mercies speedily prevent us; for we are greatly impoverished. 9 Help us, O God our Saviour; for the glory of thy name, O Lord, deliver us; and be merciful to our sins, for thy name's sake. 10 Lest haply they should say among the heathen, Where is their God? and let the avenging of thy servants' blood that has been shed be known among the heathen before our eyes.

Let the groaning of the prisoners come in before thee; according to the greatness of thine arm preserve the sons of the slain ones.

2 Repay to our neighbours sevenfold into their bosom their reproach, with which they have reproached thee, O Lord.

3 For we are thy people and the sheep of thy pasture; we will give thee thanks for ever; we will declare thy praise throughout all generations.

For the end, for alternate strains, a testimony for Asaph, a Psalm concerning the Assyrian.

Attend, O Shepherd of Israel, who guidest Joseph like a flock; thou who sittest upon the cherubims, manifest thyself; before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasse, stir up thy power, and come to deliver us. Turn us, O Lord, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be delivered.

5 O Lord God of hosts, how long art thou angry with the prayer of thy servant? Thou wilt feed us with bread of tears; and wilt cause us to drink tears by measure.

6 Thou hast made us a strife to our neighbours; and our enemies have mocked at us. Turn us, O Lord God of hosts, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved. Pause.

8 Thou hast transplanted a vine out of Egypt; thou hast cast out the heathen, and planted it. Thou madest a way before it, and didst cause its roots to strike, and the land was filled with it. Its shadow covered the mountains, and its shoots equalled the goodly cedars. It sent forth its branches to the sea and its shoots to the river.

9 Wherefore hast thou broken down its hedge, while all that pass by the way pluck it? The boar out of the wood has laid it waste, and the wild beast has devoured it.

10 O God of hosts, turn, we pray thee; look on us from heaven, and behold and visit this vine, and restore that which thou hast broken down; and let thy hand be upon the son of man whom thou didst strengthen for thyself. It is burnt with fire and dug up; they shall perish at the rebuke of thy presence. Let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand, and upon the son of man whom thou didst strengthen for thyself.

12 So will we not depart from thee; thou shalt quicken us, and we will call upon thy name. Turn us, O Lord God of hosts, and make thy face to shine; and we shall be saved.

For the end, a Psalm for Asaph, concerning the winepresses.

Rejoice ye in God our helper; shout aloud to the God of Jacob. Take a psalm, and produce the timbrel, the pleasant psaltery with the harp. Blow the trumpet at the new moon, in the glorious day of your feast.

4 For this is an ordinance for Israel, and a statute of the God of Jacob. He made it to be a testimony in Joseph, when he came forth out of the land of Egypt; he heard a language of the land which he understood not.
A Psalm for Asaph.

How long will ye judge unrighteously, and accept the persons of sinners? Pause.

2 Judge the orphan and poor: do justice to the low and needy. Rescue the needy, and deliver the poor out of the hand of the sinner.

4 Arise, O God, judge the earth: for thou shalt inherit all nations.

A Song of a Psalm for Asaph.

O God, who shall be compared to thee? be not silent, neither be still, O God.

2 For behold, thine enemies have made a noise; and they that hate thee have lifted up the head.

3 Against thy people they have craftily imagined a device; and have taken counsel against thy saints. They have said, Come, and let us utterly destroy them out of the nation; and let the name of Israel be remembered no more at all.

4 For they have taken counsel together with one consent: they have made a confederacy against thee; even the tents of the Idumæans, and the Ismaelites; Moab, and the Agarenæs; Gebal, and Ammon, and Amalec; the Philistines also, with them that dwell at Tyre; Yea, Assur too is come with them; they have become a help to the children of Lot. Pause.

For the end, a Psalm for the sons of Core, concerning the wine-presses.

How amiable are thy tabernacles, O Lord, of hosts! 2 My soul longs, and faints for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh have exulted in the living God. 3 Yes, the sparrow has found himself a home, and the turtle-dove a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, even thine altars, O Lord of hosts, my King, and my God.

8 Blessed are they that dwell in thy house:

they will praise thee evermore. Pause.
8 Blessed is the man whose help is of thee, O

Lord; in his heart he has purposed to go up the valley of weeping, to the place where he has appointed, for there the law-giver will grant blessings. They shall go from strength to strength: the God of gods shall be seen in Sion.

8 O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer:

hearken, O God of Jacob. Pause. 9 Behold,

O God our defender, and look upon the face of thine anointed. 10 For one day in thy courts is better than thousands. I would rather be an abject in the house of God, than dwell in the tents of sinners. 11 For the Lord loves mercy and truth: God will give grace and glory: the Lord will not withhold good things from them that walk in innocence. 12 O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusts in thee.

For the end, a Psalm for the sons of Core.

O Lord, thou hast taken pleasure in thy land: thou hast turned back the captivity of Jacob. 4 Thou hast forgiven thy people their transgressions; thou hast covered all their sins. Pause. 5 Thou hast caused all thy wrath to cease: thou hast turned from thy fierce anger.

4 Turn us, O God of our salvation, and turn thine anger away from us. 5 Wouldest thou be angry with us for ever? or wilt thou continue thy wrath from generation to generation? 6 O God, thou wilt turn and quicken us; and thy people shall rejoice in thee. 7 Shew us thy mercy, O Lord, and grant us thy salvation.

8 I will hear what the Lord God will say concerning me: for he shall speak peace to his people, and to his saints, and to those that turn their heart toward him. 9 Moreover his salvation is near them that fear him; that glory may dwell in our land.

10 Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other.
11 Truth has sprung out of the earth; and righteousness has looked down from heaven.
12 For the Lord will give goodness; and our land shall yield her fruit. 13 Righteousness shall go before him; and shall set his steps in the way.

A Prayer of David.
O Lord, incline thine ear, and hearken to me; for I am poor and needy. 2 Preserve my soul, for I am holy; save thy servant, O God, who hopes in thee. 3 Pity me, O Lord; for to thee will I cry all the day. 4 Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for to thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul. 5 For thou, O Lord, art kind, and gentle; and plenteous in mercy to all that call upon thee. 6 Give ear to my prayer, O Lord, and attend to the voice of my supplication. 7 In the day of my trouble I cried to thee: for thou didst hear me.
8 There is none like thee, O Lord, among the gods; and there are no works like thy works. 9 All nations whom thou hast made shall worship thee, and shall worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. 10 For thou art great, and dost wonders: thou art the only and the great God. 11 Guide me, O Lord, in thy way, and I will walk in thy truth: let my heart rejoice, that I may fear thy name. 12 I will give thee thanks, O Lord my God, with all my heart; and I will glorify thy name for ever. 13 For thy mercy is great toward me; and thou hast delivered my soul from the lowest hell.
14 O God, transgressors have risen up against me, and an assembly of violent men have sought my life; and have not set thee before them. 15 But thou, O Lord God, art compassed about with mercy and truth: neither hast thou forsaken those who seek thee. 16 Look thou upon me, and have mercy upon me: give thy strength to thy servant, and save the son of thine handmaid. 17 Establish with me a token for good; and let them that hate me see it and be ashamed: because thou, O Lord, hast helped me, and comforted me.

A Psalm of a Song for the sons of Core.
His foundations are in the holy mountains. 2 The Lord loves the gates of Zion, more than all the tabernacles of Jacob. 3 Glorious things have been spoken of thee, O city of God. Pause. 4 I will make mention of Reab and Babylon to them that know me: behold also the Philistines, and Tyre, and the people of the Ethiopians: these were born before me. 5 A man shall say, Sion is my mother; and such a man was born in her; and the Highest himself has founded her. 6 The Lord shall recount it in the writing of the people, and of these princes that were born in her. Pause. 7 The dwelling of all within thee is as the dwelling of those that rejoice.
A song of a Psalm for the sons of Core for the end, upon Maeleth for responsive strains, of an instruction for Ethan the Israelite.

O Lord God of my salvation, I have cried by day and in the night before thee. Let my prayer come in before thee; incline thine ear to my supplication, O Lord.

For my soul is filled with troubles, and my life has drawn nigh to Hades. I have been reckoned with them that go down to the pit; I became as a man without help; free among the dead, as the slain ones cast out, who sleep in the tomb; whom thou rememberest no more; and they are rejected from thy hand. They laid me in the lowest pit, in dark places, and in the shadow of death. Thy wrath has pressed heavily upon me, and thou hast brought upon me all thy billows. Pause. Thou hast removed my acquaintance far from me; they have made me an abomination to themselves; I have been delivered up, and have not gone forth. Mine eyes are dimmed from poverty; but I cried to thee, O Lord, all the day; I spread forth my hands to thee.

Wilt thou work wonders for the dead? or shall physicians raise them up, that they shall praise thee? Shall any one declare thy mercy in the tomb? and thy truth in destruction? Shall thy wonders be known in darkness? and thy righteousness in a forgotten land? But I cried to thee, O Lord, in the morning shall my prayer prevent thee.

Wherefore, O Lord, dost thou reject my prayer, and turn thy face away from me? I am poor and in troubles from my youth; and having been exalted, I was brought low and into despair. Thy wrath has passed over me; and thy terrors have greatly disquieted me. They compassed me like water; all the day they beset me together. Thou hast put far from me every friend, and mine acquaintances because of my wretchedness.

A Psalm of instruction for Ethan the Israelite.

I will sing of thy mercies, O Lord, for ever: I will declare thy truth with my mouth to all generations. For thou hast said, Mercy shall be built up for ever: thy truth shall be established in the heavens. I made a covenant with my chosen ones, I sware unto David my servant: If I will establish thy seed for ever, and build up thy throne to all generations. Pause.

The heavens shall declare thy wonders O Lord; and thy truth in the assembly of the saints. Whatward in the heavens shall be compared to the Lord? and who shall be likened to the Lord among the sons of God? God is glorified in the council of the saints; great and terrible toward all that are round about him. O Lord God of hosts, who is like to thee? thou art mighty, O Lord, and thy truth is round about thee. Thou rulest the power of the sea, and thou calmest the tumult of its waves.
Thou hast brought down the proud as one that is slain; and with the arm of thy power thou hast scattered thine enemies. 10 The heavens are thine, and the earth is thine: thou hast founded the world, and the fulness of it. 11 Thou hast created the north and the west: Thabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy name. 12 Thine is the mightiest of power: thy wisdom is much better than gold. 13 For by strength thy right hand shall be strengthened. 14 Justice and judgment are the establishment of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face.

Blessed is the people that knows the joyful sound: they shall walk, O Lord, in the light of thy countenance. 16 And in thy name shall they rejoice all the day: and in thy righteousness shall they be exalted. 17 For thou art the boast of their strength; and in thy good pleasure shall our horn be exalted.

But I will hew down his foes before him, and put to flight those that hate him. 21 But my truth and my mercy shall be with him; and in my name shall his horn be exalted. 22 And I will set his hand in the sea, and his right hand in the rivers. 23 He shall call upon me, saying, Father, my Father, my God, and the helper of my salvation. 24 And I will make him my first-born, higher than the kings of the earth. 25 I will keep my mercy for him for ever, and my covenant shall be firm with him. 26 And I will establish his seed for ever and ever, and his throne as the days of heaven.

If his children should forsake my law, and walk not in my judgments; 31 if they should profane my ordinances, and not keep my commandments; 32 I will visit their transgressions with a rod, and their sins with scourges. 33 But my mercy I will not utterly remove from him, nor wrong my truth. 34 Neither will I by any means profane my covenant; and I will not make void the things that proceed out of my lips. 35 Once have I sworn by my holiness, that I will not lie to David. 36 His seed shall endure for ever, and his throne as the sun before me; and as the moon that is established for ever, and as the faithful witness in heaven. 37 But thou hast cast off and set at nought, thou hast rejected thine anointed. 38 Thou hast overthrown the covenant of thy servant; thou hast profaned his sanctuary, casting it to the ground. 39 Thou hast broken down all his hedges; thou hast made his strongholds a terror. 40 All that go by the way have spoiled him: he is become a reproach to his neighbours. 41 Thou hast exalted the right hand of his enemies;
Psalm LXXXVIII. 43—XC. 1.

A Prayer of Moses the man of God.

Lord, thou hast been our refuge in all generations. 2 Before the mountains existed, and before the earth and the world were formed, even from age to age, Thou art. 3 Turn not man back to his low place, whereas thou saidst, Return, ye sons of men? 4 For a thousand years in thy sight are as the yesterday which is past, and as a watch in the night. 5 Years shall be be intreated concerning thy servants. 6 We have been satisfied in the morning with thy mercies; and in the night with thy song, and with our hearts in the mid-night. 7 And let us rejoice in all our days, in return for the days wherein thou didst afflict us, the years wherein we saw evil. 8 And look upon thy servants, and upon thy works; and guide their children. 9 And let the brightness of the Lord our God be upon us: and do thou direct for us the works of our hands.

He that dwells in the help of the Highest, shall sojourn under the shelter of the God of heaven. 2 He shall say to the Lord, Thou art my helper and my refuge: my God; I will hope in him. 3 He shall deliver me from the snare of the hunter from every troublesome matter. 4 He shall overshadow thee with his shoulders, and thou shalt trust under his wings: his truth shall cover thee with a shield. 5 Thou shalt not be afraid of terror by night; nor of the arrow flying by day; 6 nor of the evil thing that walketh in darkness; nor of the evil spirit at noonday. 7 A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. 8 Only with thine eyes shalt thou observe and see the reward of sinners.

9 For thou, O Lord, art my hope: thou, my soul, hast made the Most High thy refuge. 10 No evil shall come upon thee, and no scourge shall dwell nigh to thee dwelling. 11 For he shall give his angels charge concerning thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. 12 They shall bear thee up on their hands, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone. 13 Thou shalt tread on the asp and basilisk: and thou shalt trample on the lion and dragon.

A Psalm of a Song for the Sabbath-day.

It is a good thing to give thanks to the Lord, and to sing praises to thy name, O thou Most High; 2 to proclaim thy mercy in the morning, and thy truth by night, 3 on a psaltery of ten strings, with a song on the harp. 4 For thou, O Lord, hast made me glad with thy work: and in the operations of thy hands will I exult.

5 How have thy works been magnified, O Lord! thy thoughts are very deep. 6 A foolish man will not know, and a senseless man will not understand this. 7 When the sinner spring up as the grass, and all the workers of iniquity shall be scattered. 8 But thou, O Lord, art most high for ever.

9 For, behold, thine enemies shall perish; and all the workers of iniquity shall be scattered. 10 But my horn shall be exalted as the horn of a unicorn; and mine old age with righteousness. 11 And mine eye has seen mine enemies, and mine ear shall hear the wicked that rise up against me.

12 The righteous shall flourish as a palm-tree: he shall be increased as the cedar in Libanus. 13 They that are planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God. 14 Then shall they be increased in a fine old age: and they shall be prosperous, and they may declare that the Lord my God is righteous, and there is no iniquity in him.
For the day before the Sabbath, when the land was first inhabited, the praise of a Song by David.

The Lord reigns; he has clothed himself with honour: the Lord has clothed and girded himself with strength; for he has established the world, which shall not be moved. 2 Thy throne is prepared of old: thou art art from everlasting: 3 The rivers have lifted up, O Lord, the rivers have lifted up their voices, 4 at the voices of many waters: the billows of the sea are wonderful: the Lord is wonderful in high places. 5 Thy testimonies are made very sure; holiness becomes thine house, O Lord, for ever.

A Psalm of David for the fourth day of the week.

The Lord is a God of vengeance; the God of vengeance has declared himself. 2 Be thou exalted, thou that judgest the earth: render a reward to the proud.

How long shall sinners, O Lord, how long shall sinners boast? 3 They will utter and speak unrighteousness; all the workers of iniquity will speak so. 4 They have appointed thine people, O Lord, and have taught them to perceive.

He that planted the ear, does he not hear? or he that formed the eye, does he not see? 6 He that is blind can judge the sightless? or he that is crooked can reprove? 7 Lord, answer me these things: 8 For even a fool is reared up with knowledge; and the stiff necked is filled with madness.

The Lord reigns; he has clothed himself with honour: the Lord has clothed and girded himself with strength; for he has established the world, which shall not be moved. 2 Thy throne is prepared of old: thou art from everlasting: 3 The rivers have lifted up, O Lord, the rivers have lifted up their voices, 4 at the voices of many waters: the billows of the sea are wonderful: the Lord is wonderful in high places. 5 Thy testimonies are made very sure; holiness becomes thine house, O Lord, for ever.
make a joyful noise to God our Saviour.  Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise to him with psalms.  For the Lord is a great God, and a great king over all gods:  for the Lord will not cast off his people.  For the ends of the earth are in his hands; and the heights of the mountains are his.  For the sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land.

Come, let us worship and fall down before him; and weep before the Lord that made us.  For he is our God: and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand.  To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, according to the day of the test in the wilderness:  where your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works.  Forty years was I grieved with this generation, and said, They do always err in their heart, and they have not known my ways.  So I sware in my wrath, They shall not enter into my rest.

When the house was built after the Captivity, a Song by David.

Sing to the Lord a new song; sing to the Lord, all the earth.  Sing to the Lord, bless his name; proclaim his salvation from day to day.  Publish his glory among the Gentiles, his wonderful works among all people.

For the Lord is great, and greatly to be praised: he is terrible above all gods.  For all the gods of the heathen are devils: but the Lord made the heavens.  Thanksgiving and beauty are before him: holiness and majesty are in his sanctuary.

Bring to the Lord, ye families of the Gentiles, bring to the Lord glory and honour.  Bring to the Lord the glory becoming his name: take offerings, and go into his courts.  Worship the Lord in his holy court: let all the earth tremble before him.  Say among the heathen, The Lord reigns: for he has established the world so that it shall not be moved: he shall judge the people in righteousness.  Let the heavens rejoice, and the earth exult; let the sea be moved, and the fulness of it.  The plains shall rejoice, and all things in them: then shall all the trees of the wood exult before the presence of the Lord:  for he comes, for he comes to judge the earth; he shall judge the world in righteousness, and the people with his truth.

For David, when his land is established.

The Lord reigns, let the earth exult, let many islands rejoice.

Cloud and darkness are round about him; righteousness and judgment are the establishment of his throne.  Fire shall go before him, and burn up his enemies round

God, thou hast exalted his right hand, and his holy arm.

12 Ye that love the Lord, hate evil; the Lord preserveth the souls of his saints; he shall deliver them from the hand of sinners.

9 Light is sprung up for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart.

10 The Lord is exalted among the nations; he is exalted in the earth.

11 He has remembered his mercy, and his truth toward his people Jacob.

12 All his ordinances are faithful and righteous.

13 Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and his great beauty shall not be slain.

14 As the mountains bring forth the sea and the hills dew the earth, so the Lord giveth righteousness and power to his king, and showeth mercy and faithfulness to them that walk before him.

15 I have waited for thy salvation, O Lord, and will serve thee for ever.

16 Saying, The Lord shall appear in flaming fire unto the sons of men, and shall admirable and marvellous things; and the Lord shall be exalted in thy strength, and in thy salvation shall the kingdom of God be established.

17 The Lord will establish his king in the greatness of his glory; and the Lord shall reign over everlastingly.

18 He shall have judgment unto the ends of the earth.

19 He shall put down the enemy in the greatness of his strength; he shall put down the pride of them that rise up against him, and the houses of them that hate him.

20 He shall save his king in the greatness of his salvation; and he shall show mercy and truth to all them that call upon his name.

21 For his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom; and his righteousness is as the heavens.

22 Let him be exalted in glory; and let his horn be exalted with the horn of the Lord our God.

23 The Lord is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth; he shall not grow old, neither shall his strength fail.

24 He is the Ruler of the ends of the earth; and his righteousness shall be unto truth.

25 The Lord shall speak all the words of his righteousness, and the Lord shall be feared in his strength.

26 The Lord shall be feared in his strength; the whole earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the Lord's glory.

27 Let the Lord be praised in the greatness of his strength; and let he exalt the Lord in his strength.

28 The Lord is his name; the Lord is his strength; the Lord is his salvation; and he shall bless his people, and shall exalt his name for ever.

29 The Lord shall judge the world with righteousness, and the Gentiles with his truth.
Psalm 118 was written as a Thanksgiving psalm. It is one of the most popular psalms in the Bible, celebrated in many religious traditions. The text is a prayer of praise and thanksgiving for the protection and guidance of the psalmist.

The first verse of the psalm begins with the words, "I will sing to the Lord, for He has done wonderful things for me."

The psalmist then goes on to list several reasons for gratitude, such as being safe from the man of violence, and being protected from the evil poet. The psalm concludes with a call to praise the Lord, who has given the psalmist victory over his enemies.

The psalm is a celebration of faith and trust in God, and a reminder of the importance of praise and thanksgiving in our lives.

For the Lord shall build up Sion, and shall appear in his glory. He has had regard to the prayer of the lowly, and has not despised their petition. Let this be written for another generation; and the people that shall be created shall praise the Lord. For he has looked out from the height of his sanctuary; the Lord looked upon the earth from heaven; to hear the groaning of the fettered ones, to loosen the sons of the slain; to proclaim the name of the Lord in Sion, and his praise in Jerusalem; when the people are gathered together, and the kings, to serve the Lord.

He answered him in the way of his strength; he told me the fewness of my days. Take me not away in the midst of my days; thy years are written through all generations. In the beginning thou, O Lord, didst lay the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands. They shall perish, but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as a garment; and as a garment shalt thou fold them, and they shall be changed.

But thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail. The children of thy servants shall dwell securely, and their seed shall prosper for ever.

A Psalm of David.

Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his praises: who forgives all thy transgressions, who heals all thy diseases; who redeems thy life from destruction; who crowns thee with mercy and compassion; who satisfies thy desire with good things: so that thy youth shall be renewed like that of the eagle.

The Lord executes mercy and judgment for all that are injured. He made known his ways to Moses, his will to the children of Israel. The Lord is compassionate and pitiful, long-suffering, and full of mercy. He will not be always angry; neither will he be wrathful for ever. He has not dealt with us according to our sins, nor compensated us according to our iniquities. For as the heavens are high above the earth, the Lord has so increased his mercy toward them that fear him. As the east is from the west, so far has he removed our transgressions from us.

As a father pities his children, the Lord pities them that fear him. For he knows our frame: remember that we are dust. As for man, his days are as grass; as a flower of the field, so shall he flourish.

For the wind passes over it, and it shall not be; and it shall know its place no more.

But the mercy of the Lord is from generation to generation upon them that fear him.
Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God, thou art very great; thou hast clothed thyself with praise and honour: 2 who dost robe thyself with light as with a garment; spreading out the heaven as a curtain. 3 Who covers his chambers with waters; who makes the clouds his chariot; who walks on the wings of the wind. 4 Who makes his angels spirits, and his ministers a flaming fire. 5 Who establishes the earth on her sure foundation: it shall not be moved for ever. 6 The deep, as it were a garment, is his covering: the waters shall stand upon the hills. 7 At thy rebuke they shall flee; at the voice of thy thunder they shall be alarmed. 8 They go up to the mountains, and down to the plains, to the place which thou hast founded for them. 9 Thou hast set a bound which they shall not pass, neither shall they turn again to cover the earth. 10 He sendeth forth his fountain among the valleys; the waters shall run between the mountains. 11 They shall give drink to all the wild beasts of the field: the wild ass shall take them to water, quenching their thirst. 12 By the heave of the earth and the deep he shall set a bound which they shall not pass, nor shall they return and cover the earth: 13 He waters the mountains from his chambers: the earth shall be satisfied with the fruit of thy works. 14 He makes grass to grow for the cattle, and green herb for the service of men, to bring bread out of the earth: 15 and wine makes glad the heart of man, to make his face cheerful with oil: and bread strengtheneth man's heart. 16 The trees of the plain shall be full of sap; even the cedars of Lebanon which he has planted. 17 There the sparrows will build their nests; and the house of the heron takes the lead among them. 18 The high mountains are a refuge for the stags, and the rock for the rabbits. 19 He appointed the moon for seasons: the sun knows his going down. 20 Thou didst make darkness, and it was night; in it all the wild beasts of the forest will be abroad: even young lions roaring for prey, and to seek meat for themselves from God. 21 The sun arises, and they shall be gathered together, and shall lie down in their dens. 22 Man shall go forth to his work, and to his labour till evening. 23 How great are thy works, O Lord! in wisdom hast thou wrought them all: the earth is filled with thy creation. 20 So is this great and wide sea: there are things creeping innumerable, small animals and great. 21 There go the ships; and this dragon whom thou hast made to play in it. 22 All wait upon thee, to give them their food in due season. 23 When thou hast given it them, they will gather it; and when thou hast opened thine hand, they shall all�件, and nothing shall fail. 24 But ye did not so: when thou hast turned away thy face, they shall be troubled: thou wilt take away their breath, and they shall fall, and return to their dust. 25 Thou shalt send forth thy Spirit, and they shall be created; and thou shalt renew the face of the earth.

31 Let the glory of the Lord be for ever: the Lord shall rejoice in his works; 32 who looks upon the earth, and makes it tremble; who touches the mountains, and they smoke. 33 I will sing to the Lord while I live; I will sing praise to my God while I exist. 34 Let my meditation be sweet to him; and I will rejoice in the Lord. 35 Let the sinners fall from off the earth, and transgressors, so that they shall be no more. Bless the Lord, O my soul.

Give thanks to the Lord, and call upon his name; declare his works among the heathen, 2 and tell of his praises among the nations. 3 Glory in his holy name: let the heart of them that seek the Lord rejoice. 4 Seek ye the Lord, and be strengthened; seek his face continually. 5 Remember his wonderful works that he has done; his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth; 6 ye seed of Abraam, his servants, ye children of Jacob, his chosen ones.

7 He is the Lord our God; his judgments are in all the earth. 8 He has remembered his covenant for ever, the covenant which he commanded for a thousand generations; 9 which he established as a covenant to Abraam, and he remembered his oath to Isaac. 10 And he established it to Jacob for an ordinance, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant: 11 saying, To thee will I give the land of Chanaan, the line of your inheritance; 12 when they were few in number, very few, and sojourners in it. 13 And they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people. 14 He suffered no man to wrong them; and he rebuked kings for their sakes: 15 saying, Touch not my anointed ones; and do my prophets no harm. 16 Moreover he called for a famine upon the land; he broke the whole support of bread.

17 He sent a man before them; Joseph was sold for a slave. 18 They sold him, yet his feet with fetters; 19 his soul passed into iron, until the time that his cause came on; the word of the Lord tried him as fire. 20 The king sent and loosed him; even the prince of the people, and let him go free. 21 He made him Lord over his house, and ruler of all his substance; 22 to chastise his rulers at his pleasure, and to teach his elders wisdom.

23 Israel also came into Egypt, and Jacob sojourned in the land of Cham. 24 And he increased his people greatly, and made them stronger than their enemies. 25 And he turned their heart to hate his people, to deal craftily with his servants. 26 He sent forth Moses his servant, and Aaron whom he had chosen.

27 He established among them his signs, and his wonders in the land of Cham. 28 He sent forth darkness, and made it dark; yet they rebelled against his words. 29 He turned their waters into blood, and slew their fish. 30 Their land produced frogs abundantly, in the chambers of their kings. 31 He spoke, and the dog-fly came, and lice in all their coasts. 32 He turned their rain into hail, and sent flaming fire in their land. 33 And he smote their vines and their fig-trees; and broke every tree of their coast. 34 He spoke, and the locust came, and caterpillars innumerable, 35 and devoured all the grass in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground. 36 He smote also every first-born of their land, the first-fruits of all their labour. 37 And he brought them out with silver and gold; and there was not a feeble one among their tribes. 38 Egypt rejoice at their departing; for the fear of them fell upon them. 39 He spread a cloud over them, and fire to give them light by night. 40 They asked, and the quail came, and he satisfied them with the bread of heaven. 41 He clave the rock, and the waters flowed; rivers ran in dry places.

42 For he remembered his holy word, which he promised to Abraham his servant. 43 And he brought out his people with exultation, and his chosen with joy; 44 and gave them the lands of the heathen; and they inherited the labours of the people; 45 that they might keep his ordinances, and diligently seek his law.

Alleluia.

Give thanks to the Lord; for he is good: for his mercy endures for ever. 2 Who shall tell the mighty acts of the Lord? who shall cause all his praises to be heard? 3 Blessed are they that keep judgment, and do righteousness at all times.

4 Remember us, O Lord, with the favour thou hast to thy people; visit us with thy saluation; 5 that we may behold the good of thine elect, that we may rejoice in the gladness of thy nation, that we may pray with thine inheritance.

6 We have sinned with our fathers, we have transgressed, we have done unrighteously. 7 Our fathers in Egypt understood not thy wonders, and remembered not the multitude of thy mercy; but provoked him as they went up by the Red Sea. 8 Yet he saved them for his name's sake, that he
9 And they provoked Moses in the camp, and Aaron the holy one of the Lord.

10 Then Moses was very angry, and he spoke to the people, and they...
their enemies; and they that hated them ruled over them. 4 And their enemies oppressed them, and they were brought down into their hands. 5 Many a time he delivered them; but they provoked him by their counsel, and they were brought low by their iniquities. 6 Yet the Lord looked upon their affliction, when he heard their petition. 7 And he remembered his covenant, and repented according to the multitude of his mercy. 8 And he causeth them to be pitted in the sight of all who carried them captive.

42. Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the heathen, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, that we may glory in thy praise. 43. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting and to everlasting; and all the people shall say, Amen, Amen.

Alleluia.

Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good; for his mercy endures for ever. 2 Let them say so who have been redeemed by the Lord, whom he has redeemed from the hand of the enemy; 3 and gathered them out of the countries, from the east, and west, and north, and south. 4 They wandered in the wilderness in a dry land; they found no way to a city of habitation. 5 Hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them. 6 Then they cried to the Lord in their affliction, and he delivered them out of their distresses. 7 And he guideth them into a straight path, that they might go to a city of habitation.

8 Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonderful works to the children of men. 9 For he satisfieth the empty soul, and fills the hungry soul with good things, 10 even them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death, fettered in poverty and iron; 11 because they rebelled against the words of God, and provoked the counsel of the Most High. 12 So their heart was brought low with troubles; they were weak, and there was no helper. 13 Then they cried to the Lord in their affliction, and he saved them out of their distresses. 14 And he brought them out of darkness and the shadow of death, and broke their bonds asunder.

15 Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonders to the children of men. 16 For he broke to pieces the brazen gates, and crushed the iron bars.

17 He helped them out of the way of their iniquity; for they were brought low because of their iniquities. 18 Their soul abhorred all meat; and they drew near to the gates of death. 19 Then they cried to the Lord in their affliction, and he saved them out of their distresses. 20 He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them out of their destructions.

21 Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonderful works to the children of men. 22 And let them offer to him the sacrifice of praise, and proclaim his works with exultation.

Ps. 106, 1. 1. Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever. 2. Let them say so who have been redeemed by the Lord, whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy; 3. And gathered them out of the countries, from the east, and west, and north, and south. 4. They wandered in the wilderness in a dry land: they found no way to a city of habitation. 5. Hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them. 6. Then they cried to the Lord in their affliction, and he delivered them out of their distresses. 7. And he guideth them into a straight path, that they might go to a city of habitation.

8. Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonderful works to the children of men. 9. For he satisfieth the empty soul, and fills the hungry soul with good things, 10. Even them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death, fettered in poverty and iron; 11. Because they rebelled against the words of God, and provoked the counsel of the Most High. 12. So their heart was brought low with troubles; they were weak, and there was no helper. 13. Then they cried to the Lord in their affliction, and he saved them out of their distresses. 14. And he brought them out of darkness and the shadow of death, and broke their bonds asunder.

15. Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonders to the children of men. 16. For he broke to pieces the brazen gates, and crushed the iron bars.
They that go down to the sea in ships, doing business in many waters; 24 these men have seen the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep. 25 He speaks, and the stormy wind arises, and its waves are lifted up. 26 They go up to the heavens, and go down to the depths; their soul melts because of troubles. 27 They are troubled, they stagger as a drunkard, and all their wisdom is swallowed up. 28 Then they cry to the Lord in their affliction, and he brings them out of their distresses. 29 And he commands the storm, and it is calmed into a gentle breeze, and its waves are still. 30 And they are glad, because they are quiet; and he guides them to their desired haven.
31 Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonderful works to the children of men. 32 Let them extol him in the congregation of the people, and praise him in the seat of the elders.
33 He turns rivers into a desert, and streams of water into a dry land; 34 a fruitful land into saltiness, for the wickedness of them that dwell in it. 35 He turns a wilderness into pools of water, and a dry land into streams of water. 36 And there he causes the hungry to dwell, and they establish for themselves cities of habitation.
37 And they sow fields, and plant vineyards, and they yield fruit of increase. 38 And he blesses them, and they multiply exceedingly, and he diminishes not the number of their cattle. 39 Again they become few, and are brought low, by the pressure of evils and pain. 40 Contempt is poured upon their princes, and he causes them to wander in a desert and trackless land. 41 But he helps the poor out of poverty, and makes his families as a flock. 42 The upright shall see and rejoice; and all iniquity shall stop her mouth. 43 Who is wise, and will observe these things, and understand the mercies of the Lord?

Song of a Psalm by David.

O God, my heart is ready, my heart is ready; I will sing and sing psalms with my glory. 2 Awake, psaltery and harp; I will awake early. 3 I will give thanks to thee, O Lord, among the people; I will sing praise to thee among the Gentiles. 4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy truth reaches to the clouds. 5 Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; and thy glory above all the earth. 6 That thy beloved ones may be delivered, save with thy right hand, and hear me. God has spoken in his sanctuary; 7 I will be exalted, and will divide Sicima, and will measure out the valley of tents. 8 Galaad is mine; and Manasses is mine; and Ephraim is the help of mine head; Judas is my king; 9 Moab is the caldron of my hope; over Idumea will cast my sword; the Philippines are made subject to me.
10 Who will bring me into the fortified city? or who will guide me to Idumea? 11 Wilt thou not, O God, who hast rejected us? and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our hosts? 12 Give us help from tribulation; for vain is the help of man. 13 Through God we shall do valiantly; and he will bring to nought our enemies.

O God, pass not over my praise in silence; 2 for the mouth of the sinner and the mouth of the crafty man have been opened against me: they have spoken against me with a crafty tongue. 3 And they have compassed me with words of hatred; and fought against me without a cause. 4 Instead of loving me, they falsely accused me: but I continued to pray. 5 And they rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my love.

Set thou a sinner against him; and let the devil stand at his right hand. 7 When he is judged, let him go forth condemned: and let his prayer become sin. 8 Let his days be few: and let another take his office of overseer. 9 Let his children be orphans, and his wife a widow. 10 Let his children wander without a dwelling-place, and beg; let them be cast out of their habitations. 11 Let his creditor exact all that belongs to him: and let strangers spoil his labours. 12 Let him have no helper; neither let there be any one to have compassion on his fatherless children. 13 Let his children be given up to utter destruction: in one generation let his name be blotted out. 14 Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered before the Lord; and let not the sin of his mother be blotted out. 15 Let them be before the Lord continually; and let their memorial be blotted out from the earth.

Because he remembered not to shew mercy, but persecuted the needy and poor man, and that to slay him that was pricked in the heart. 17 He loved cursing also, and it shall come upon him; and he took not pleasure in blessing, so it shall be removed far from him. 18 Yea, he put on cursing as a garment, and it is come as water into his bowels, and as oil into his bones. 19 Let it be to him as a garment which he puts on, and as a girdle with which he girds himself continually. 20 This is the dealing of the Lord with those who falsely accuse me, and of them that speak evil against my soul.

But thou, O Lord, Lord, deal mercifully with me, for thy name's sake: for thy mercy is good. 22 Deliver me, for I am poor and needy, and my heart is troubled within me. 23 I am removed as a shadow in its going down: I am tossed up and down like locusts. 24 My knees are weakened through fasting, and my flesh is changed by reason of the want of oil. 25 I became also a reproach to them: when they saw me they shook their heads.

Help me, O Lord my God; and save me according to thy mercy. 27 And let them know that this is thy hand; and that thou, Lord, hast wrought it. 28 Let them curse, but thou shalt bless: let them that rise up against me be ashamed, but let thy servant rejoice. 29 Let those that falsely accuse me be clothed with shame, and let them cover Psalms CVIII. 30—CXI. 8.

A Psalm of David.

The Lord said to my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool. 2 The Lord shall send out a rod of power for thee out of Sion: rule thou in the midst of thine enemies. 3 With thee is dominion in the day of thy power, in the splendours of thy saints: I have begotten thee from the womb before the morning. 4 The Lord sware, and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec. 5 The Lord at thy right hand has dashed in pieces kings in the day of his wrath. 6 He shall judge among the nations, he shall fill up the number of corpses, he shall crush the heads of many on the earth. 7 He shall drink of the brook in the way; therefore shall he lift up the head.

'Alleluia.

I will give thee thanks, O Lord, with my whole heart, in the council of the upright, and in the congregation. 2 The works of the Lord are great, sought out 3 according to all his will. 4 His work is worthy of thanksgiving and honour; and his righteousness endures for ever and ever. 5 He has caused his wonderful works to be remembered: 6 The Lord is merciful and compassionate. 7 He has given good and sufficient reasons to praise him: he will remember his covenant for ever. 8 He has declared to his people the power of his works, to give them the inheritance of the heathen. 9 The works of his hands are truth and judgment; all his commandments are sure: 10 established for ever and ever, done in truth and uprightness. 11 He sent redemption to his people; he commanded his covenant for ever: holy and fearful is his name. 12 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and all that act accordingly have a good understanding; his praise endures for ever and ever.

Alleluia.

Blessed is the man that fears the Lord; he will delight greatly in his commandments. 2 His seed shall be mighty in the earth: the generation of the upright shall be blessed. 3 Glory and riches shall be in his house; and his righteousness endures for evermore. 4 To the upright light has sprung up in darkness: he is pitiful, and merciful, and righteous. 5 The good man is he that pities and lends: he will direct his affairs with judgment. 6 For he shall not be moved for ever; the righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance. 7 He shall not be afraid of any evil report, his heart is ready to trust in the Lord. 8 His heart is established, he shall not fear, till he shall see his desire upon his enemies. 9 He has dispersed abroad; he has given to the poor; his righteousness endures for evermore: his horn shall be exalted with honour. 10 The sinner shall see and be angry, he shall gnash his teeth, and consume away: the desire of the sinner shall perish.

Alleluia.

Praise the Lord, ye servants of his, praise the name of the Lord. 2 Let the name of the Lord be blessed, from this present time and for ever. 3 From the rising of the sun to his setting, the name of the Lord is to be praised. 4 The Lord is high above all the nations; his glory is above the heavens.

Who is as the Lord our God? who dwells in the high places, and yea looks upon the low things in heaven, and on the earth: 7 who lifts up the poor from the earth, and raises up the needy from the dunghill; 8 to set him with princes, even with the princes of his people: 9 who settles the barren woman in a house, as a mother rejoicing over children.

Not to us, O Lord, not to us, but to thy name give glory, because of thy mercy and thy truth. 7 But as for thy mercy and thy truth; let them exceed all things. Blessed be the name of thy glory, evermore. Amen.

The idols of the nations are silver and gold, the works of men's hands. 4 They have a mouth, but they speak not; they have eyes, but they see not; 6 they have ears, but they hear not; they have noses, but they cannot smell; 7 they have hands, but they cannot handle; they have feet, but they cannot walk: they cannot speak through their throat. 8 Let those that make them become like to them, and all who trust in them.

The house of Israel trusts in the Lord; he is their helper and defender. 10 The house of Aaron trusts in the Lord: he is their helper and defender. 11 They that fear the Lord trust in the Lord: he is their helper and defender.

The Lord has remembered us, and blessed us: he has blessed the house of Israel; he has blessed the house of Aaron. 13 He has blessed them that fear the Lord, both small and great. 14 The Lord add blessings to you and to your children, and to your fathers; to the days of eternity. The Lord will increase you and bless you in the land which he has given to your fathers, to the days of eternity.

Amen, Amen.

118 (119)

1. The Lord is my helper; and I will not fear what man shall do to me.
2. The Lord is my helper; and I shall see my desire upon mine enemies.
3. It is better to trust in the Lord than to trust in man.
4. All nations compassed me about: but in the name of the Lord I repulsed them.
5. They compassed me about as bees do a honeycomb, and they are burned like fire among thorns: but in the name of the Lord I repulsed them.
6. I was thrust, and sorely shaken, that I might fall: but the Lord helped me.
7. The Lord is my strength and my song, and is become my salvation.
8. The voice of exultation and salvation is in the tabernacles of the righteous: the right hand of the Lord has wrought mightily.
9. The right hand of the Lord has exalted me: the right hand of the Lord has wrought powerfully.
10. I shall not die, but live, and recount the works of the Lord.
11. The Lord has chastened me sore: but he has not given me up to death.
12. Open to me the gates of righteousness; I will go into them, and give praise to the Lord.
13. This is the gate of the righteous: the righteous shall enter by it.
14. I will give thanks to thee: because thou hast heard me, and art become my salvation.
15. The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner.
16. This has been done of the Lord; and it is wonderful in our eyes.
17. This is the day which the Lord has made: let us exult and rejoice in it.
18. O Lord, save now: O Lord, send now prosperity.
19. Blessed is he that comes in the name of the Lord: we have blessed you out of the house of the Lord.
20. God is the Lord, and he has hallowed us: celebrate the feast with thick branches, binding the victims even to the horns of the altar.
21. Thou art my God, and I will give thee thanks: thou art my God, and I will exalt thee.
22. I will give thanks to thee, for thou hast heard me, and art become my salvation.
23. Give thanks to the Lord; for he is good: for his mercy endures for ever.

Alleluia.

Blessed are the blameless in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord.
2. Blessed are they that search out his testimonies: they shall diligently seek him with the whole heart.
3. For they that work iniquity have not walked in his ways.
4. Thou hast commanded us diligently to keep thy precepts.
5. O that my ways were directed to keep thine ordinances.
6. Then shall I not be ashamed, when I have respect to all thy commandments.
7. I will give thee thanks with uprightness of heart, when I have learnt the judgments of thy righteousness.
8. I will keep thine ordinances: O forsake me not greatly.
9. Wherewith shall a young man direct his way? by keeping thy words.
10. With my whole heart have I diligently sought thee.

Psalm CXVIII. 85—119.

85 Of thy servant? when wilt thou execute judgment, for me on them that persecute me? 86 Transgressors told me idle tales; but not according to thy law, O Lord.

87 All thy commandments are truth; they persecuted me unjustly; help thou me. 88 They nearly made an end of me in the earth; but I forsook not thy commandments. 89 Quicken me according to thy mercy; so shall I keep the testimonies of thy mouth.

90 Thy word, O Lord, abides in heaven for ever. 91 Thy truth endures to all generations; thou hast founded the earth, and it abides. 92 The day continues by thy arrangement; for all things are thy servants.

93 Were it not that thy law is my meditation, then should I have perished in mine affliction. 94 I will never forget thine ordinances; for with them thou hast quickened me. 95 I am thine, save me; for I have sought out thine ordinances. 96 Thee will I wait to destroy me; but I understood thy testimonies. 97 I have seen an end of all perfection; but thy commandment is very broad.

98 How I have loved thy law, O Lord! it is my meditation all the day. 99 Thou hast made me wiser than mine enemies by thy commandments; for it is mine for ever.

100 I have more understanding than all my teachers; for thy testimonies are my meditation. 101 I understand more than the aged; because I have sought out thy commandments. 102 I have kept back my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy words. 103 I have not declined from thy judgments; for thou hast instructed me.

104 How sweet are thine oracles to my throat! more so than honey to my mouth! 105 I gain understanding by thy commandments; therefore I have hated every way of unrighteousness.

106 Thy law is a lamp to my feet, and a light to my paths. 107 I have sworn and determined to keep the judgments of thy righteousness.

108 I have been very greatly afflicted, O Lord; quicken me, according to thy word. 109 Accept I pray thee, O Lord, the freewill-offerings of my mouth, and teach me thy judgments. 109 My soul is continually in thy hands; and I have not forgotten thy law. 110 Sinners spread a snare for me; but I erred not from thy commandments.

111 I have inherited thy testimonies for ever; for they are the joy of my heart. 112 I have inclined my heart; to perform thine ordinances for ever, in return for thy mercies.

113 I have hated transgressors; but I have loved thy law. 114 Thou art my helper and my support; I have hoped in thy words. 115 Depart from me, ye evildoers; for I will search out the commandments of my God. 116 Uphold me according to thy word, and quicken me; and make me not ashamed of my expectation. 117 Help me, and I shall be saved; and I will meditate in thine ordinances continually. 118 Thou hast brought to nought all that depart from thine ordinances; for their inward thought is unrighteous. 119 I have reckoned all the sinner of the earth as transgressors: therefore have I loved thy testimonies, 131 Penetrate my flesh with thy fear; for I am afraid of thy judgments.

132 I have done judgment and justice; deliver me not up to them that injure me. 133 Receive thy servant for good: let not the proud accuse me falsely. 134 Mine eyes have failed for thy salvation, and for the word of thy righteousness.
135 Deal with thy servant according to thy mercy, and teach me thine ordinances. 136 It is time for the Lord to work: they have utterly broken thy law. 137 Therefore have I loved thy commandments more than gold, or the topaz.
138 I directed myself according to all thy commandments: I have hated every unjust way.
139 Thy testimonies are wonderful: therefore my soul hath sought them. 140 The manifest acts of thy words will enlighten, and instruct the simple. 141 I opened my mouth, and drew breath: for I earnestly longed after thy commandments. 142 Look upon me and have mercy upon me, after the manner of them that love thy name. 143 Order my steps according to thy word: and let not any iniquity have dominion over me. 144 Deliver me from the false accusation of men: so will I keep thy commandments. 145 Cause thy face to shine upon thy servant: and teach me thine ordinances. 146 Mine eyes have been bathed in streams of water, because I kept not thy law.
147 Righteous art thou, O Lord, and upright are thy judgments, as thy testimonies. 148 Thy zeal has quite wasted me: because mine enemies have forgotten thy words. 149 Thy word has been very fully tried; and thy servant loves it. 150 I am young and despaired: yet I have not forgotten thine ordinances: for thy righteous commandments are everlasting righteousness, and thy law is truth. 151 Afflictions and distresses found me: but thy commandments were my meditation. 152 Thy testimonies are an everlasting righteousness: instruct me, and I shall live.
153 I cried with my whole heart: hear me, O Lord: I will search out thine ordinances. 154 I cried to thee; save me, and I will keep thy testimonies. 155 I arose before the dawn, and cried: I hoped in thy words. 156 Mine eyes prevented the dawn, that I might meditate on thine oracles. 157 Hear my voice, O Lord, according to thy mercy: quicken me according to thy judgment. 158 They have drawn nigh who persecuted me unlawfully: and they are far removed from thy law. 159 Thou art near, O Lord; and all thy ways are truth. 160 I have known of old concerning thy testimonies, that thou hast founded them for ever.
161 Look upon mine affliction, and rescue me: for I have not forgotten thy law. 162 Plead my cause, and ransom me: quicken me because of thy word. 163 Salvation is far from sinners: for they have not searched out thine ordinances. 156 Thy mercies, O Lord, are many; quicken me according to thy judgment. 157 Many are they that persecute me and oppress me: but I have not declined from thy testimonies. 158 I beheld men acting foolishly, and I pined away; for they kept not thine oracles. 159 Behold, I have loved thy commandments, O Lord: quicken me in thy mercy. 160 The beginning of thy words is truth; and all the judgments of thy righteousness endure for ever.

161 Princes persecuted me without a cause, but my heart feared because of thy words. 162 I will exult because of thine oracles, as one that finds much spoil. 163 I hate and abhor unrighteousness; but I love thy law. 164 Seven times in a day have I praised thee because of the judgments of thy righteousness. 165 Great peace have they that love thy law: and there is no stumbling-block to them. 166 I waited for thy salvation, O Lord, and have kept thy commandments. 167 My soul has kept thy testimonies, and loved them exceedingly. 168 I have kept thy commandments and thy testimonies; for all my ways are before thee, O Lord.

169 Let my supplication come near before thee, O Lord; instruct me according to thine oracle. 170 Let my petition come in before thee, O Lord; deliver me according to thine oracle. 171 Let my lips utter a hymn, when thou shalt have taught me thy ordinances. 172 Let my tongue utter thine oracles, for all thy commandments are righteous. 173 Let thine hand be prompt to save me; for I have chosen thy commandments. 174 I have longed after thy salvation, O Lord; and thy law is my meditation. 175 My soul shall live, and shall praise thee; and thy judgments shall help me. 176 I have gone astray like a lost sheep; seek thy servant; for I have not forgotten thy commandments.

A Song of Degrees.

In mine affliction I cried to the Lord, and he hearkened to me. 2 Deliver my soul, O Lord, from unjust lips, and from a deceitful tongue.

3 What should be given to thee, and what should be added to thee, for thy crafty tongue? 4 Sharpened weapons of the mighty, with coals of the desert.

5 Woe is me, that my sojournings is protracted, and I have tabernacled among the tents of Kedar. 6 My soul has been a sojourner; 7 I was peaceable among them that hated peace; when I spoke to them, they warred against me without a cause.

A Song of Degrees.

I lifted up mine eyes to the mountains, whence my help shall come. 2 My help shall come from the Lord, who made the heaven and the earth. 3 Let not thy foot be moved; and let not thy keeper slumber.

4 Behold, he that keeps Israel shall not slumber nor sleep. 5 The Lord shall keep thee: the Lord is thy shelter upon thy right hand. The sun shall not burn thee by day, neither the moon by night. May the Lord preserve thee from all evil: the Lord shall keep thy soul. The Lord shall keep thy coming in, and thy going out, from henceforth and even for ever.

A Song of Degrees.
I was glad when they said to me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. Our feet stood in thy courts, O Jerusalem. Jerusalem is built as a city whose foundation is complete. For thither the tribes went up, the tribes of the Lord, as a testimony for Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the Lord. For there are set thrones for judgment, even thrones for the house of David.

Pray now for the peace of Jerusalem: and let there be prosperity to them that love thee. Let peace, I pray, be within thine host, and prosperity in thy palaces. For the sake of my brethren, and of my neighbours, I have incense spoken peace concerning thee. Because of the house of the Lord our God, I have diligently sought thy good.

A Song of Degrees.
Unto thee who dwellest in heaven have I lifted up mine eyes. Behold, as the eyes of servants are directed to the hands of their masters, and as the eyes of a maid servant to the hands of her mistress; so our eyes are directed to the Lord our God, until he have mercy upon us. Have pity upon us, O Lord, have pity upon us: for we are exceedingly filled with contempt. Yea, our soul has been exceedingly filled with it: let the reproach be to them that are at ease, and contempt to the proud.

A Song of Degrees.
If it had not been that the Lord was among us, we should have been as the fish out of water. Verily they would have swallowed us up alive, when their wrath was kindled against us: verily the water would have drowned us, our soul would have gone under the torrent. Yea, our soul would have gone under the overwhelming water.

Blessed be the Lord, who has not given us for a prey to their teeth. Our soul has been delivered as a sparrow from the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are delivered. Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

A Song of Degrees.
They that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Sion: he that dwells in Jerusalem shall never be moved. The mountains are round about her, and the Lord is round about his people, from henceforth and even for ever. For the Lord will not allow the rod of sinners to be upon the lot of the righteous; lest the righteous should stretch forth their hands to iniquity.

Or, ask Jerusalem how it is with her. Or, we are the reproach of them that are at ease.

4 Do good, O Lord, to them that are good and to them that are upright in heart.
5 But them that turn aside to crooked ways the Lord will lead away with the workers of iniquity: *Out peace shall be upon Israel.

A Song of Degrees.

When the Lord turned the captivity of Sion, we became as comforted ones. 2 Then was our mouth filled with joy, and our tongue with exultation: then would they say among the Gentiles, 3 The Lord has done great things among them. The Lord has done great things for us, we became joyful.

4 Turn, O Lord, our captivity, as the streams in the south. 5 They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. 6 They went on and wept as they cast their seeds; but they shall surely come with exultation, bringing their sheaves with them.

A Song of Degrees.

Except the Lord build the house, they that build labour in vain: except the Lord keep the city, the watchman watches in vain. 2 It is vain for you to rise early: ye rise up after resting, ye that eat the bread of grief; while he gives sleep to his beloved.

3 Behold, the inheritance of the Lord, children, the reward of the fruit of the womb. 4 As arrows in the hand of a mighty man; so are the children of those who were outcasts. 5 Blessed is the man who shall satisfy his desire with them: they shall not be ashamed when they shall speak to their enemies in the gates.

A Song of Degrees.

Blessed are all they that fear the Lord; who walk in his ways. 2 Thou shalt eat the labours of thy hands; blessed art thou, and it shall be well with thee. 3 Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine on the sides of thy house: thy children as young olive-plants round about thy table.

4 Behold, thus shall the man be blessed that fears the Lord. 5 May the Lord bless thee out of Sion; and mayest thou see the prosperity of Jerusalem all the days of thy life. 6 And mayest thou see thy children's children. Peace be upon Israel.

A Song of Degrees.

Many a time have they warred against me from my youth, let Israel now say: 2 Many a time have they warred against me from my youth: and yet they prevailed not against me. 3 The sinners wrought upon my back: they prolonged their 3 iniquity. 4 The righteous Lord has cut asunder the necks of sinners.

6 Let all that hate Sion be put to shame and turned back. 6 Let them be as the grass of the house-tops, which withers before it is plucked up. 7 Wherewith the
A Song of Degrees.

Out of the depths have I cried to thee, O Lord. 2 O Lord, hearken to my voice; let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication. 3 If thou, O Lord, shouldst mark iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand? 4 For with thee is forgiveness; for thy name's sake, 5 have I waited for thy word. 6 My soul has hoped in the Lord; from the morning watch till night.

7 Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord is mercy, and with him is plentiful redemption. 8 And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

A Song of Degrees.

O Lord, my heart is not exalted, neither have mine eyes been haughtily raised: neither have I exercised myself in great matters, nor in things too wonderful for me. I shall have sinned if I have not been humble, but have exalted my soul: according to the relation of a weaned child to his mother, so wilt thou recompense my soul. 2 Let Israel hope in the Lord, from henceforth and for ever.

A Song of Degrees.

Lord, remember David, and all his meekness: how he spake to the Lord, and vowed to the God of Jacob, saying, 3 I will not go into the tabernacle of my house; I will not go up to the couch of my bed; 4 I will not give sleep to mine eyes, nor slumber to mine eyelids, nor rest to my temples, until I find a place for the Lord, a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. 5 Behold, we heard of it in Ephrata; we found it in the fields of the wood. 6 Let us enter into his tabernacles: let us worship at the place where the feet stood.

7 Arise, O Lord, into thy rest; thou, and the ark of thine holiness. Thy priests shall clothe themselves with righteousness; and thy saints shall exult. 8 For the sake of thy servant David turn not away the face of thine anointed.

The Lord spake in truth to David, and he will not annul it, saying, Of the fruit of thy body will I set a king upon thy throne. 2 If thy children will keep my covenant, and these my testimonies which I shall teach them, their children also shall sit upon thy throne for ever. 3 For the Lord has elected Sion, he has chosen her for a habitation for himself, saying, This is my rest for ever; here will I dwell; for I have chosen it. 4 I will surely bless her provision: I will satisfy her poor with bread. 5 I will clothe her priests with salvation; and her saints shall greatly exult. 6 There will I cause to spring up a horn to David: I have prepared a lamp for mine anointed.

By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat; and wept when we remembered Sion. 2We hung our harps on the willows in the midst of it. 3For there they that had taken captive asked of us the words of a song; and that they had carried us away asked a hymn, saying, Sing us one of the songs of Sion.

How should we sing the Lord's song in a strange land? 5If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget its skill.

May my tongue cleave to my throat, if I do not remember thee; if I do not prefer Jerusalem as the chief of my joy.

ψ Aloxe. omits. 7 Gr. organs, or, instruments. 8 Gr. on.
7 Remember, O Lord, the children of Edom in the day of Jerusalem, who said,
8 Rise it, rise it, even to its foundations.
9 Wretched daughter of Babylon! blessed shall he be who shall reward thee as thou hast rewarded us. 10 Blessed shall he be who shall seize and dash thine infants against the rock.

A Psalm for David, of Aggæus and Zacharias.

I will give thee thanks, O Lord, with my whole heart; and I will sing psalms to thee before the angels; for thou hast heard all the words of my mouth. 2 I will worship toward thy holy temple, and give thanks to thy name, on account of thy mercy and thy truth; for thou hast magnified thy holy name above every thing. 3 In whatsoever day I shall call upon thee, hear me speedily; thou shalt abundantly provide me with thy power in my soul. 4 Let all the kings of the earth, O Lord, give thanks unto thee; for they have heard all the words of thy mouth. 5 And let them sing in the ways of the Lord; for great is the glory of the Lord.

For the Lord is high, and yet regards the lowly, and he knows high things from afar off. 7 Though I art journeying in the midst of affliction, thou wilt quicken me; thou hast stretched forth thine hands against the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand has saved me. 8 O Lord, thou shalt recompense them on my behalf: thy mercy, O Lord, endures for ever: overlook not the works of thine hands.

O Lord, thou hast proved me, and known me. 2 Thou knowest my down-sitting and mine up-rising: thou understandest my thoughts long before. 3 Thou hast traced my path and my 4 bed, and hast foreseen all my ways. 4 For there is no unrighteous word in my tongue: behold, O Lord, thou hast known all things, the last and the first: thou hast fashioned me, and laid thine hand upon me. 5 The knowledge of thee is too wonderful for me; it is very difficult, I cannot attain to it. 7 Whither shall I go from thy Spirit? and whither shall I flee from thy presence? 8 If I should go up to heaven, thou art there: if I should go down to hell, thou art present.

If I should spread my wings to fly straight upward, and sojourn at the extremity of the sea, it would be vain, for even there thy hand would guide me, and thy right hand would hold me. 10 When I said, Surely the darkness will cover me; even the night was light in my 11 luxury.

For darkness will not be darkness with thee; but night will be light as day: as its darkness, so shall its light be to thee. 12 For thou, O Lord, hast possessed my reins; thou hast helped me of my mother's womb. 13 I will give thee thanks; for thou art fearfully wondrous; wondrous are thy works; and my soul knows it well. 14 My bones which thou madest in secret were not hidden from thee, nor my substance, in the lowest parts of the earth. 16 Thine eyes saw my unwrought substance, and all men shall be written in thy book; they shall be formed by day, though there should for a time be no one among them.

But thy friends, O God, have been greatly honoured by me; their rule has been lengthened. 13 I will number them, and they shall be multiplied beyond the sand; I awake, and am still with thee.

Oh that thou wouldest slay the wicked, O God; depart from me, ye men of blood. 20 For thou wilt say concerning their thought, that they shall take thy cities in vain. 1 Have I not hated them, O Lord, that hate thee? and wasted away because of thine enemies? 2 I have hated them with perfect hatred; they were counted my enemies. 22 Prove, O God, and know my heart; examine, and know my path; and see if there is any way of iniquity in me, and lead me in an everlasting way.

For the end, a Psalm of David. Rescue me, O Lord, from the evil man; deliver me from the unjust man. Who have devised injustice in their hearts; all the day they prepared war. They have sharpened their tongue as the tongue of a serpent; the poison of asps is under their lips. Pause. Keep me, O Lord, from the hand of the sinner; rescue me from unjust men; who have purposed to overthrow my goings. The proud have hid a snare for me, and have stretched out ropes for snares for my feet; they set a stumbling-block for me near the path. Pause.

I said to the Lord, Thou art my God; hearken, O Lord, to the voice of my supplication. O Lord God, the strength of my salvation; thou hast screened my head in the day of battle. Deliver me not, O Lord, to the sinner, according to my desire; they have devised mischief against me; forsake me not, lest they should be exalted. Pause.

As for the head of them that compass me, the mischief of their lips shall cover them. Coals of fire shall fall upon them on the earth; and thou shalt cast them down in afflictions: they shall not bear up under them. A talkative man shall not prosper on the earth: evils shall hunt the unredeemed man to destruction. 23 know that the Lord will maintain the cause of the poor, and the right of the needy ones. Surely the righteous shall give thanks to thy name: the upright shall dwell in thy presence.

A Psalm of David.

O Lord, I have cried to thee; hear me: attend to the voice of my supplication, when I cry to thee. Let my prayer be set forth before thee as incense; the lifting up of my hands as an evening sacrifice. Set a watch, O Lord, on my mouth, and a strong door about my lips. Incline not my heart to evil things, to employ pretences.
for sins, with men who work iniquity: and let me not unite with their choice ones.

The righteous shall chasten me with mercy, and reprove me: but let not the oil of the sinner anoint my head: for yet shall my prayer also be in their pleasures.

Their mighty ones have been swallowed up near the rock; they shall hear my words, for they are sweet. 10 A lump of earth is crushed upon the ground, our bones have been scattered by the mouth of the grave. 11 For mine eyes are to thee, O Lord God: I have hoped in thee; take not away my life. 12 Keep me from the snare which they have set for me, and from the stumbling-blocks of them that work iniquity. 13 Sinners shall fall by their own net: I am alone until I shall escape.

A Psalm of instruction for David, when he was in the cave,—A Prayer.

I cried to the Lord with my voice; with my voice I made supplication to the Lord. 2 I will pour out before him my supplication: I will declare before him mine affliction.

When my spirit was fainting within me, then thou knowest my paths: in the very way wherein I went, they hid a snare for me. 4 I looked on my right hand, and behold, for there was none that noticed me; refuge failed me; and there was none that cared for my soul. 5 I cried unto thee, O Lord, and said, Thou art my hope, my portion in the land of the living.

Attend to my supplication, for I am brought very low; deliver me from them that persecute me: for they are stronger than I. 6 Bring my soul out of prison, that I may give thanks to thy name, O Lord; the righteous shall wait for me, until thou recompense me.

A Psalm of David, when his son pursued him.

O Lord, attend to my prayer: hearken to my supplication in thy truth; hear me in thy righteousness. 2 And enter not into judgment with thy servant, for in thy sight shall no man living be justified.

3 For the enemy has persecuted my soul; he has brought my life down to the ground; he has made me to dwell in a dark place, as those that have been long dead. 4 Therefore my spirit was grievous in me; my heart was troubled within me. 5 I remembered the days of old, I meditated on all thy doings: yea, I meditated on the works of thine hands. 6 I spread forth my hands to thee; my soul thirsts for thee, as a dry land. Pause.

7 Hear me speedily, O Lord; my spirit has failed; turn not away thy face from me, else I shall be like to them that go down to the pit. 8 O Lord, I heard thy mercy in the morning: for I have hoped in thee, make known to me, O Lord, the way wherein I should walk; for I have lifted up my soul to thee. 9 Deliver me from mine enemies, O Lord; for I have fled to thee for refuge.

10 Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy good Spirit shall guide me in the Psalms CXLI. 11—CXLIV. 9.

The Lord shall quicken me, O Lord, for thy name's sake; in thy righteousness shalt thou bring my soul out of affliction. And in thy mercy thou wilt destroy mine enemies, and wilt destroy all those that afflict my soul; for I am thy servant.

A Psalm of David concerning Goliad.

Blessed be the Lord my God, who instructs my hands for battle, and my fingers for war. My mercy, and my refuge; my helper, and my deliverer; my protector, in whom I have trusted; who subdues my people under me.

Lord, what is man, that thou art made known to him? or the son of man, that thou takest account of him? Man is like to vanity: his days pass as a shadow.

O Lord, bow thy heavens, and come down: touch the mountains, and they shall smoke. Send lightning, and thou shalt scatter them: send forth thine arrows, and thou shalt discomfit them. Send forth thine hand from on high; rescue me out of great waters, out of the hand of strange children; whose mouth has spoken vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of iniquity.

O God, I will sing a new song to thee: I will play to thee on a psaltery of ten strings. Even to him who gives salvation to kings: who redeems his servant David from the hurtful sword. Deliver me, and rescue me from the hand of strange children, whose mouth has spoken vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of iniquity; whose children are as plants, strengthened in their youth: their daughters are beautiful, sumptuously adorned after the similitude of a temple. Their garners are full, and bursting with one kind of store after another; their sheep are prolific, multiplying in their streets. Their oxen are fat: there is no falling down of a hedge, nor going out, nor cry in their folds.

Men bless the people to whom this lot belongs, but blessed is the people whose God is the Lord.

David's Psalm of praise.

I will extoll thee, my God, my king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Every day will I bless thee, and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. The Lord is great, and greatly to be praised; and there is no end of his greatness. Generation after generation shall praise thy works, and tell of thy power. And they shall speak of the glorious majesty of thy holiness, and recount thy wonders. And they shall speak of the power of thy terrible acts; and recount thy greatness. They shall utter the memory of the abundance of thy goodness, and shall exult in thy righteousness.

The Lord is compassionate, and merciful; long-suffering, and abundant in mercy. The Lord is good to those that wait on him; and his compassions are over all his

Praise ye the Lord from the heavens; praise him in the highest. 2 Praise ye him, all his angels; praise ye him, all his hosts.

Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem; praise thy God, O Sion. 3 For he hath strengthened the bars of thy gates; he hath blessed thy children within thee. 4 He maketh thy borders peaceable, and filleth thee with the pleasantness of his presence. 5 He sendeth his word to the earth; his word will run swiftly. 6 He giveth snow like wool: he scattereth the mist like ashes. 7 Casting forth his ice like morsels: who shall stand before his cold. 8 He shall send out his word, and melt them; he shall blow with his wind, and the waters shall flow. 9 He sendeth his word to Jacob, his ordinances and judgments to Israel. 10 He has not done so to any other nation; and he has not shewn them his judgments.

Praise the Lord from the earth, ye serpents, and all deeps. 5 Fire, hail, snow, ice, stormy wind; the things that perform his word. 6 Mountains, and all hills; fruitful trees, and all cedars: 7 wild beasts, and all cattle; reptiles, and winged birds: 8 kings of the earth, and all peoples; princes, and all judges of the earth: 9 young men and virginis, old men with youths: 10 let them praise the name of the Lord: for his name only is exalted; his praise is above the earth and heaven. 11 He shall exalt the horn of his people, there is a hymn for all his saints, even of the children of Israel, a people who draw near to him.

Psalm CXLI. 2—CL.

Psalm CXLI. 2—CL.

I. Alleluia.

Praise God in his holy places; praise him in the firmament of his power. 2 Praise him on account of his mighty acts; praise him according to his abundant greatness. 3 Praise him with the sound of a trumpet; praise him with psaltery and harp. 4 Praise him with timbrel and dance; praise him with stringed instruments and the organ. 5 Praise him with melodious cymbals; praise him with loud cymbals. Let every thing that has breath praise the Lord.

This Psalm is a genuine one of David, though supernumerary, composed when he fought in single combat with 5 Goliad.

I was small among my brethren, and youngest in my father's house: I tended my father's sheep. 2 My hands formed a musical instrument, and my fingers tuned a psaltery. 3 And who shall tell my Lord? the Lord himself, he himself hears. 4 He sent forth his angel, and took me from my father's sheep, and he anointed me with the oil of his anointing. 5 My brothers were handsome and tall; but the Lord did not take pleasure in them. 6 I went forth to meet the Philistine; and he cursed me by his idols. 7 But I drew his own sword, and beheaded him, and removed reproach from the children of Israel.

The Proverbs of Solomon son of David, who reigned in Israel; 2 to know wisdom and instruction, and to perceive words of understanding; 3 to receive also 4 hard sayings, and to understand true justice, and how to direct judgment; 5 that he might give subtlety to the simple, and to the young man discretion and understanding. 6 For by the hearing of these a wise man will be wiser, and the man of understanding will gain direction; 7 and will understand a parable, and a dark speech; the sayings of the wise also, and riddles.

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and there is good understanding to all that practise it; and piety toward God is the beginning of discretion; but the ungodly will set at nought wisdom and instruction. 8 Hear, my son, the instruction of thy father, and reject not the rules of thy mother. 9 For thou shalt receive for thine head a crown of graces, and a chain of gold round thy neck.

10 My son, let not ungodly men lead thee astray, neither consent thou to them. 11 If they should exhort thee, saying, Come with us, partake in blood, and let us unjustly hide the just man in the earth; 12 and let us swallow him alive, as Hades would, and remove the memorial of him from the earth. 13 Let us seize on his valuable property, and let us fill our houses with spoils; 14 but do thou cast in thy lot with us, and let us all provide a common purse, and let us have one pouch: 15 go not in the way with them, but turn aside thy foot from their paths: 16 for nets are not without cause spread for birds. 17 For they that are concerned in murder store up evils for themselves; and the overthrow of transgressors is evil. 18 These are the ways of all that perform lawless deeds; for by ungodliness they destroy their own life.

24 "Sow to thyself in the morning and do not withhold it until evening, for the fear of the Lord; and the knowledge of God is wisdom, and in the way of righteousness is understanding. 25 For an idle way is an abomination to the Lord, and a good ear is a blessing in his presence. 26 A little [goodness] is better than a great gift [without it]; and the remembrance of [it] is better than the [wealth of] silver and gold.

27 For the [wise] man will hear and increase in learning, but the [foolish] man [will] give ear to their [own] [wisdom]. 28 For even though thou mayest apply wise counsel and give thyself to instruction, and though thou mayest be wise in thy [own] eyes, yet [the] Lord will not give effect to thy wisdom.

29 When thou goest, it shall be given to thee; and when thou sleepest, it shall keep thee; and when thou wakest, it shall keep thy soul. 30 There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, that it is right with God to [test] even men that they have no choice of their own ways; 31 For that which he hath done will undo him; and this is the [reproof] of the one before the other, as every man will be beaten for his iniquity.

32 He that is far from the city will see wickedness. 33 The words of a man are a [counsel] of life to him that hath understanding, but the speech of fools is as [waste] plowed in the earth.

34 The [wise] man will understand the [scornful] and will be afraid, and will rebuke him, 35 But the foolish will mock at knowledge, and will scoff at the [wisdom of] the prudent, and in a lawful [case] will not apply his hand to judgment. 36 Mine is a natural [condition] this: but that which is overthrown will come upon the [disgraced].

37 He that is diligent will seek knowledge, but he that is a [wasteful] soul will [be] [reproached]. 38 The wise in heart will receive commandments, but a [stupid] soul will he rebuke. 39 He that understandeth knowledge will see the sun and [the] sky, and the beauty of the earth. 40 Wisdom is a tree of life to them that have understanding, and he that hath [wisdom] shall find good.
earth, and the holy shall be left behind in it. The paths of the ungodly shall perish out of the earth, and transgressors shall be driven away from it. My son, forget not my laws; but let thine heart keep my words: for length of existence, and years of life, and peace, shall they add to thee. Let not mercy and truth forsake thee; but bind them about thy neck: so shalt thou find favour: and do thou provide things honest in the sight of the Lord, and of men. Trust in God with all thine heart; and be not exalted in thine own wisdom. In all thy ways acquaint thyself with her, that she may rightly direct thy paths. Be not wise in thine own conceit; but fear God, and depart from all evil. Then shall there be health to thy body, and good keeping to thy bones. Honour the Lord with thy just labours, and give him the first of thy fruits of righteousness: that thy storehouses may be filled with corn, and that thy presses may burst forth with wine. My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; nor faint when thou art rebuked of him: for whom the Lord loves, he rebukes, and scourges every son whom he receives. Blessed is the man who has found wisdom, and the mortal who knows prudence. For it is better to be righteous than for treasures of gold and silver. And she is more valuable than precious stones: no evil thing shall resist her: she is well known to all that approach her, and no precious thing is equal to her in value. For length of existence and years of life are in her right hand; and in her left hand are wealth and glory: out of her mouth proceeds righteousness, and she carries law and mercy upon her tongue. Her ways are good ways, and all her paths are peaceful. She is a tree of life to all that lay hold upon her; and she is a secure help to all that stay themselves on her, as on the Lord. God by wisdom founded the earth, and by prudence he prepared the heavens. By understanding were the depths broken up, and the clouds dropped water. My son, let them not pass from thee, but keep my counsel and understanding: that thy soul may live, and that there may be health to thy flesh, and safety to thy bones: that thou mayest go confidently in peace in all thy ways, and that thy foot may not stumble. For if thou rest, thou shalt be undismayed; and if thou sleepest, thou shalt slumber sweetly. And thou shalt not be afraid of alarm coming upon thee, neither of approaching attacks of ungodly men. For the Lord shall be over all thy ways, and shall establish thy foot that thou be not moved. Forbear not to do good to the poor, whensoever thy hand may have power to help him. Say not, Come back another time, to-morrow I will give; while thou art able to do him good: for thou knowest not left are crooked: 1 and he will make thy ways straight, and will guide thy steps in peace.

My son, attend to my wisdom, and apply thine ear to my words; 2 that thou mayest keep good understanding, and the discretion of my lips gives thee a charge.

Give no heed to a worthless woman;
for honey drops from the lips of a harlot, who for a season please thy palate: 4 but afterwards thou wilt find her 5 more bitter than gall, and sharper than a two-edged sword. 5 For the feet of folly lead those who deal with her down to the grave with death; and her steps are not established.

For she goes not upon the paths of life;
but her ways are slippery, and not easily known.

Now then, my son, hear me, and make not thy words of none effect. 8 Remove thy way far from her; draw not near to the doors of her house: 9 lest thou give away thy life to others, and thy substance to the miserable: 10 lest strangers be filled with thy strength, and thy labours come into the house of strangers; 11 and thou repent at last, when the flesh of thy body is consumed, and thou shalt say, How have I hated instruction, and my heart avoided reproofs!

I heard not the voice of him that instructed me, and taught me, neither did I apply mine ear. 14 I was almost in all evil in the midst of the congregation and assembly.

Drink waters out of thine own vessels, and out of thine own springing wells. 15 Let not waters out of thy fountain be split by thee, but let thy waters go into thy streets. 16 Let them be only thine own, and let no stranger partake with thee.

Let thy fountain of water be truly thine own; and rejoice with the wife of thy youth. 17 Let thy loving heart and thy graceful colt company with thee, and let her be considered thine own, and be with thee at all times; for ravished with her love thou shalt be greatly increased. 20 Be not intimate with a strange woman, neither fold the arms of a woman not thine own. 21 For the ways of a man are before the eyes of God, and he looks on all his paths. 22 Iniquities ensnare a man, and every one is bound in the chains of his own sins.

Such a man dies with the unstructured; and he is cast forth from the abundance of his own substance, and has perished through folly.

My son, if thou become surety for thy friend, thou shalt deliver thine hand to an enemy. 2 For a man's own lips become a strong snare to him, and he is caught with the lips of his own mouth. 3 My son, do what I command thee, and deliver thyself; for on thy friend's account thou art come into the power of evil men: faint not, but stir up even thy friend for whom thou art become surety.

Give not sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber with thine eyelids; 5 that thou mayest deliver thyself as a doe out of the toils, and as a bird out of a snare.

Go to the ant, O sluggard; and see, and emulate his ways, and become wiser

Not the desire of beauty overcome thee, neither be thou caught by thine eyes, neither be captivated with her eyelids.
23 For the value of a harlot is as much as of one loaf; and a woman hunts for his precious souls of men. 24 Shall any one bind fire in his bosom, and not burn his garments? 25 or will any one walk on coals of fire, and not burn his feet? 26 So is he that goes in to a married woman; he shall not be held guiltless, neither any one that touches her. 27 It is not to be wondered at if one should be; and a man searches for the thieves that when hungry he may satisfy his soul: 28 but if he should be taken, he shall repay sevensfold, and shall deliver himself by giving all his goods. 29 But the adulterer through want of sense procures destruction to his soul. 30 He endures both pain and disgrace, and his reproach shall never be wiped off. 31 For the soul of her husband is full of jealousy: he will not spare in the day of vengeance. 35 He will not forego his enmity for any ransom; neither will he be reconciled for many gifts.

My son, keep my words, and hide with thee my commandments. 2 My son, honour the Lord, and thou shalt be strong; and fear none but him: keep my commandments, and thou shalt live; and keep my words as the pupils of thine eyes. 3 And bind them on thy fingers, and write them on the table of thine heart.

4 Say that wisdom is thy sister, and gain prudence as an acquaintance for thyself; that she may keep thee from the strange and wicked woman, if she should assail thee with flattering words.

5 For she looks from a window out of her house into the streets, at one whom she may see of the senseless ones, a young man void of understanding, 6 passing by the corner in the passages near her house, and speaking, in the dark of the evening, when there happens to be the stillness of night and of darkness: 7 and the woman meets him having the appearance of a harlot, and the lips of her speech deceitful, and her voice pleasant.

8 And she is sickle, and debauched, and her feet abide not at home. 9 For at one time she wanders without, and at another time she lies in wait in the streets, at every corner. 10 Then she caught him, and kissed him, and with an impudent face said to him, 11 I have a peace-offering to-day, nay my vows: 12 therefore I came forth to meet thee, desiring thy face; and I have found thee. 13 I have spread my bed with sheets, and I have covered it with double tapestry from Egypt. 14 I have sprinkled my couch with saffron, and my house with cinnamon.

15 Come, and let us enjoy love until the morning; come, and let us embrace in love. 16 For my husband is not at home, but is gone on a long journey; 17 having taken in his hand a bundle of money: after many days he will return to his house.

18 So with much converse she prevailed on him to go astray, and with the snares of her lips she lured him from the right path.

19 And he followed her, being gently led on, and that as an ox is led to the slaughter, and as a dog to bonds, or as a hart shot in the liver with an arrow: 20 and he hastens as a bird into a snare, not knowing that he is running for his life.

21 Now then, my son, hearken to me, and attend to the words of my mouth: 22 for she has wounded and cast down many, and those whom she has slain are innumerable. 23 Her house is the way of hell, leading down to the chambers of death.

Thou shalt proclaim wisdom, that understanding may be obeyed to thee. 2 For she is on lofty eminences, and stands in the midst of the ways. 3 For she sits by the gates of princes, and sings in the entrances, saying, 4 You, O men, I exhort; and utter my voice to the sons of men. 5 O ye simple, understand subtlety, and ye that are untutored, imbibe knowledge. 6 Hearken

84 The heart of the wise is in the house of wisdom, and the mouth of the learned speaks knowledge.

85 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and knowledge is the 86 wealth of skill. 87 The lips of the righteous speak wisdom, and his tongue delivers 88 grace. 89 The heart of the wise is in the house of wisdom, and the mouth of the learned speaks knowledge.

beasts; she has mingled her wine in a bowl, and prepared her table. She has sent forth her servants, calling with a loud proclamation to the feast, saying, Whoso is foolish, let him turn aside to me; and to them that want understanding she says, Come, eat of my bread, and drink wine which I have mingled for you.

6 Leave folly, that ye may reign for ever; and seek wisdom, and improve understanding by knowledge. He that reproves evil renews his own honour; and he that rebukes an ungodly man shall disgrace himself. 7 Rebuke not evil men, lest they should hate thee: rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee. 8 Give an opportunity to a wise man, and he will be wiser: instruct a just man, and he will receive more instruction. 9 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and the counsel of saints is understanding: for to know the law is the character of a sound mind.

10 For in this way thou shalt live long, and years of thy life shall be added to thee.

11 Son, if thou be wise for thyself, thou shalt also be wise for thy neighbours; and if thou shouldest prove wicked, thou alone will bear the evil. 12 He that stays himself upon falsehoods, attempts to rule the winds, and the same will pursue birds in their flight; for he has forsaken the ways of his own vineyard, and he has caused the axles of his own husbandry to go astray; and he goes through a dry desert, and a land appointed to drought, and he gathers barrenness with his hands.

13 A foolish and bold woman, who knows not modesty, comes to want a morsel. 14 She sits at the doors of her house, on a seat openly in the streets, calling to passers by, and to those that are going right on their ways; saying, Whoso is wise, let him understand; and let him that receives understanding, say, I exhort thee to understand.

15 Take and enjoy secret bread, and the sweet water of theft.

16 But he knows that mighty men die by her; and he falls in with a snare of hell. But hearken thou, delay not in the place, neither fix thine eye upon her: for thus shalt thou go through strange water; but do thou abstain from strange water, and drink not of a strange fountain, that thou mayest live long, and years of life may be added to thee.

A wise son makes his father glad; but a fool's son is a grief to his mother. 2 Treasures shall not profit the lawless; but righteousness shall deliver from death. The Lord will not famish a righteous soul; but he will overthrive the life of the ungodly.

4 Poverty brings a man low: but the hands of the vigorous make rich. A son who is instructed shall be wise, and shall use the fool for a servant. 5 A wise son is saved from heat: but a lawless son is blighted of the winds in harvest.

6 The blessing of the Lord is upon the head of the just: but untimely grief shall cover the mounth of the ungodly. 7 The memory of the just is praised; but the name of the ungodly man is extinguished. 8 A wise man in heart will receive commandments; but he that is unguarded in his lips shall be overthrown in his perverseness. 9 He that walks simply, walks confidently; but he that pursues ways of his own shall be known. 10 He that winks with his eyes deceitfully, procures griefs for men; but he that reproves boldly is a peacemaker. 11 There is a fountain of life in the hand of a righteous man; but destruction shall cover the mouth of the ungodly. 12 Hatred stirrith up strife; but affection covers all that do not love strife. 13 He that brings forth wisdom from his lips smites the fool with a rod. 14 The wise will hide discretion; but the mouth of the hasty draws near to ruin. 15 The wealth of rich men is a strong city; but poverty is the ruin of the ungodly. 16 The works of the righteous produce life; but the fruits of the ungodly produce sin. 17 Instruction keeps the right ways of life; but instruction unchastened goes astray.

18 Righteous lips cover enmity; but they that utter railings are most foolish. 19 By a multitude of words thou shalt not escape sin; but if thou refrain thy lips, thou wilt be prudent. The tongue of the just is a well of silver, but the heart of the ungodly shall fail. 20 The lips of the righteous know sublime truths: but the foolish die in want. 21 The blessing of the Lord is upon the head of the righteous; it enriches him, and grief of heart shall not be added to it. 22 A fool does mischief in sport; but wisdom brings forth prudence for a man.

23 The ungodly is engulfed in destruction; but the desire of the righteous is acceptable. 24 When the storm passes by, the ungodly vanishes away; but the righteous turns aside and escapes for ever. 25 As a sour grape is hurtful to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes, so iniquity hurtes those that practise it. 26 The fear of the Lord adds length of days: but the years of the ungodly are shortened. 27 Joy rests long with the righteous: but the hope of the ungodly shall perish. 28 The fear of the Lord is a strong hold of the saints: but ruin comes to them that work wickedness. 29 The righteous shall never fail: but the ungodly shall not dwell in the earth. 30 The mouth of the righteous drops wisdom: but the tongue of the unjust shall perish. 31 The lips of just men drop grace: but the mouth of the ungodly is perverse.

False balances are an abomination before the Lord: but a just weight is acceptable unto him. 2 Wherever pride enters, there will be also disgrace: but the mouth of the lowly meditates wisdom. 3 When a just man dies he leaves regret: but the destruction of the ungodly is speedy, and causes joy. 4 Righteousness traces out blameless paths: but ungodliness encounters unjust dealing.

5 The righteousness of upright men delivers them: but transgressors are caught in their own destruction. 6 At the death of a just man his hope does not perish: but the boast of the ungodly perishes.
A righteous man escapes from a snare, and the ungodly man is delivered up in his place. In the mouth of the ungodly man is a snare to citizens: but the understanding of righteous men is prosperous. In the prosperity of righteous men a city prospereth; but by the mouths of ungodly men it is overthrown.

A man void of understanding sneers at his fellow citizens: but a sensible man is quiet. A double-tongued man discloses the secret counsels of an assembly: but he that is faithful in spirit conceals matters. They that have no guidance fall like leaves: but in much counsel there is safety. A bad man does harm wherever he meets a just man: and he hates the sound of safety. A gracious wife brings glory to her husband: but a woman hating righteousness is a theme of dishonour. The slothful come to want: but the diligent support themselves with wealth. A merciful man does good to his own soul: but the merciless destroys his own body.

An ungodly man performs unrighteous works: but the seed of the righteous is a reward of truth. A righteous son is born for life: but the persecution of the ungodly ends in death. Perverse ways are an abomination to the Lord: but all they that are blameless in their ways are acceptable to him. He that unjustly strikes hands shall not be unpunished: but he that sows righteousness shall receive a faithful reward. As an ornament in a swine's snout, so is beauty to an ill-minded woman. All the desire of the righteous is good: but the hope of the ungodly shall perish. There are some who scatter their own: and make it more: and there are some also who gather, yet have less. Every sincere soul is blessed: but a passionate man is not graceful. May he that harks corn leave it to the nation: but blessing be on the head of him that gives it. He that devises good counsels seeks food: but the man who seeks after evil, evil shall overtake him. He that trusts in wealth shall fall: but he that trusts in the Lord shall rise. He that deals not.graciously with his own house shall inherit the wind; and the fool shall be servant to the wise man. Out of the fruit of righteousness grows a tree of life: but the souls of transgressors are cut off before their time.

If the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? He that loves instruction loves sense, but he that hates reproofs is a fool. He that has found favour with the Lord is made better: but a transgressor shall be passed over in silence. A man shall not prosper by wickedness: but the roots of the righteous shall not be taken up. A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband; but as a worm in wood, so a bad woman destroys her husband.

The thoughts of the righteous are true judgments: but ungodly men devise deceit. The words of ungodly men are crooked: but the mouth of the upright shall deliver righteous acts, and he that walks uprightly shall inherit.

ness is great strength: but the ungodly shall utterly perish from the earth.

6 In the houses of the righteous is much strength: but the fruits of the ungodly shall perish.

7 The lips of the wise are bound by discretion: but the hearts of the foolish are not safe.

8 The sacrifices of the ungodly are an abomination to the Lord; but the prayers of them that walk honestly are acceptable with him.

9 The ways of an ungodly man are an abomination to the Lord; but he loves those that follow after righteousness.

10 The instruction of the simple is known by them that pass by; but they that hate reproofs die disgracefully.

11 Hell and destruction are manifest to the Lord; how shall not also be the hearts of men?

12 An uninstructed person will not love those that reprove him; neither will he associate with the wise.

13 When the heart rejoices the countenance is cheerful; but when it is in sorrow, the countenance is sad.

14 An upright heart seeks discretion; but the mouth of the uninstructed will experience evils.

15 The eyes of the wicked are always looking for evil things: but the good are always quiet.

16 Better is a small portion with the fear of the Lord, than great treasures without the fear of the Lord.

17 Better is an entertainment of herbs with friendliness and kindness, than a feast of calves, with enmity.

18 A passionate man stirs up strife: but he that is slow to anger appeases every quarrel.

19 A man slow to anger will extinguish quarrels: but an ungodly man rather stirs them up.

20 The ways of sluggards are strewed with thorns: but those of the diligent are made smooth.

21 A wise son gladdens his father; but a foolish son sneers at his mother.

22 The ways of a foolish man are very crooked: but a wise man proceeds on his way aright.

23 They that honour not counsels put off deliberation: but counsel abides in the hearts of counsellors.

24 A bad man will by no means attend to counsel; neither will he say anything seasonable, or good for the common weal.

25 The thoughts of the ungodly are ways of life, that he may turn aside and escape from hell.

26 The Lord pulls down the houses of scarers: but he establishes the border of the widow.

27 An unrighteous thought is abomination to the Lord; but the sayings of the pure are held in honour.

28 A receiver of bribes destroys himself; but he that hates the receiving of bribes is safe. [By alms and by faithful dealings 5 sins are purged away;] but by the fear of the Lord every one departs from evil.

29 The hearts of the righteous meditate faithfulness; but the mouth of the ungodly answers evil things. The ways of righteous men are acceptable with the Lord; and through them their enemies become friends.

30 God is far from the ungodly: but he hearkens to the prayers of the righteous. Better are small receipts with righteousness, than abundant fruits with unrighteousness.

Let the heart of a man think justly, that his steps may be rightly ordered of God. 30 The eye that sees rightly rejoices the heart; and a good report fattens the bones. 31 He that rejects instruction hates himself; but he that minds reproofs loves his soul. The fear of the Lord is instruction and wisdom; and the highest honour will he that respond therewith. All the works of the humble man are manifest with God; but the ungodly shall perish in an evil day. 35 Every one that is proud in heart is unclean before God, and he that unjustly strikes hands with hand shall not be held guiltless. The beginning of a good way is to do justly; and it is more acceptable with God than to offer sacrifices. He that seeks the Lord shall find knowledge with righteousness: and they that rightly seek him shall find peace. All the works of the Lord are done with righteousness; and the ungodly man is kept for the evil day.

Oú μὴ υπακούσῃς δὲ κακός αὐτῆς, οἶδε μὴ εἴπῃ καίρον τι καὶ 23 καλόν τῷ κοινῷ.

Καρδίας αὐτῶν μελέτησαι πρῶτον, στόμα δὲ ἀσέβων ἀπόκριται κακά· δεκται παρὰ Κυρίῳ ὁδοὶ ἀσεβῶν, διότι τινί καὶ οἱ ἐξήρθοι φιλοί γίνονται. Μάκραν ἀπέχει 28 ο Θεὸς ἀπὸ ἀσέβων, εὐχαί δὲ δικαιῶν ἐπικοινώνει· κρατεῖται ὁλόγραμμα τοῖς μετὰ ἁμαρτιῶν ἀδικίας.

39 There is an oracle upon the lips of a king; and his mouth shall not err in judgment. 41 The poise of the balance is righteousness with the Lord; and his works are righteous measures. 42 An evil-doer is an abomination to a king; for the throne of rule is established by righteousness. 43 Righteous lips are acceptable to a king; and he loves right words. The anger of a king is a messenger of death; but a wise man will pacify him. 45 The son of a king is in the light of life; and they that are in favour with him are as a cloud of latter rain. 46 The y'brood of wisdom is more to be chosen than gold, and the brood of prudence more to be chosen than silver. 47 The paths of life turn aside from evil; and the ways of righteousness are length of life. He that receives instruction shall be in prosperity; and he that regards reproofs shall be made wise. He that keeps his ways, preserves his own soul; and he that loves his life will spare his mouth.

49 Pride goes before destruction, and folly before a fall. 50 Better is a meek-spirited man with lowliness, than one who divides spoils with the proud. 51 He who is skilful in his business finds that trust in God is most blessed. 52 Men call the wise and understanding evil; but they that are pleasing in speech shall hear more. 53 Understanding is a fountain of life to its possessors; but the instruction of fools is evil. 54 The heart of the wise will discern the things which proceed from his own mouth; and on his lips he will wear knowledge. 55 Good words are honeycombs, and the sweetness thereof is a healing of the soul. 56 There are ways that seem to be right to a man, but the end of them looks to the depth of hell. 57 A man who labours, labours for himself, and drives from him his own ruin. 58 But the perverse bears destruction upon his own mouth: a foolish man digs up evil for himself, and troubles the soul of his own; 59 A perverse man spreads mischief, and will kindle a torch of deceit with mischiefs; and he separates friends. 60 A transgressor tries to ensnare friends, and leads them in ways that are not good. 61 And the man that fixes his eyes devise.
Perverse things, and marks out with his lips all evils: he is a furnace of wickedness. 31 Old age is a crown of glory, but it is found in the ways of rig-teousness. 32 A man slow to anger is better than a strong man; and he that governs his temper better than he that takes a city. 33 All evils come upon the ungodly into their bosoms; but all righteous things come of the Lord.

Better is a morsel with pleasure in peace, than a house full of many things and unjust sacrifices, with strife. 2 A wise servant shall have rule over foolish masters, and shall divide portions among brethren. 3 As silver and gold are tried in a furnace, so are choice hearts with the Lord. 4 A bad man hearkens to the tongue of transgressors: but a righteous man attends not to false lips. 5 He that laughs at the poor provokes him that made him; and he that rejoices at the destruction of another shall not be held guiltless: but he that has compassion shall find mercy.

Children's children are the crown of old men; and their fathers the glory of child, and a fruitful world full of wealth; but the faithless not even a farthing. 7 Faithful lips will not suit a fool; nor lying lips a just man. 8 Instruction is to them that use it a gracious reward: and whithersoever it may turn, it shall prosper. 9 He that conceals injuries seeks love; but he that hates to hide them separates friends and kin. 10 A threat breaks down the heart of a wise man; but a fool, though scourged, understands not. 11 Every bad man stirs up strifes: but the Lord will send out against him an unmerciful messenger.

Care may befall a man of understanding; but fools will meditate evils. 12 Whoso rewards evil for good, evil shall not be removed from his house. 13 Rightful rule gives power to words; but sedition and strife precede poverty. 14 He that pronounces the unjust just, and the just unjust, is unclean and abominable with God. 15 Why has the fool wealth? for a senseless man will not be able to purchase wisdom. He that exalts his heart seeks ruin; and he that sets aside from instruction shall fall into miscalculations. 16 Have thou a friend for every time, and let brethern be useful in distress; for on this account are they born.

A foolish man applauds and rejoices over himself, as he also that becomes surety would make himself responsible for his own friends. 18 A lover of sin rejoices in strifes; 19 and the hard-hearted man comes not in for good. A man of a changeful tongue will fall into miscalculations; 20 and the heart of a fool is grief to its possessor. A father rejoices not over an uninstructed son; but a wise son gladdens his mother. 21 A glad heart promotes health; but the bones of a sorrowful man dry up. 22 The ways of a man who unjustly receives gifts in his bosom do not prosper; and an ungodly man perverts the ways of righteousness. 23 The countenance of a wise man is sensible; but the eyes of a fool go to the ends of the earth. 24 A foolish son is a cause of anger to his father, and grief to her that bore him.

It is not right to punish a righteous man, nor is it holy to plot against righteous princes. 27 He that forbesareth his word is discreet, and a patient man is wise. 28 Wisdom shall be imputed to a fool who asks after wisdom: and he who holds his peace shall seem to be sensible.

A man who wishes to separate from friends seeks excuses; but at all times he will be liable to relatives. A senseless man feels no need of wisdom, for he is rather misled by folly. 3 When an ungodly man comes into a depth of evils, he despises them; but dishonour and reproach come upon him. 4 A word in the heart of a man is a deep water, and a river and fountain of life spring forth. 5 It is not good to accept the person of the ungodly, nor is it holy to pervert justice in judgment. 6 The lips of a fool bring him into troubles and his bold mouth calls for death. 7 A fool's mouth is ruin to him, and his lips are a snare to his soul. 8 Fear casts down the slothful; and the souls of the effeminates shall hunger. 9 A man who helps not him self by his labour is brother of him that ruins himself. 10 The name of the Lord is great among great; and his praise shall be exalted to the ends of the earth.

When God changes the heart of a man, he acquits the unjust, and gives grace to the lowly. 5 A man will humble himself and the Lord will exalt him; but he that will exalt himself will be abased.

A man who is great in his own eyes is despised by the Lord, and his spirits shall be battered. 7 The one who mocks the穷人 and his words are not spaced, but the mouth of the poor speaketh wisdom.

A man is not able to make riches in a day, nor shall the poor be able to make his goods. 4 When he enquires of me, and the mouth of the poor speaketh wisdom.

7 The threatening of a king is like the roaring of a lion; but as dews on the grass, so is his favour.

8 A foolish son is a disgrace to his father; vows paid out of the hire of a harlot are not pure.

9 Fathers divide house and substance to their children: but a wife is suited to a man in the Lord. 10 Cowardice possesseth the effeminate man; and the soul of the sluggard shall hunger. 11 He that keeps the commandment keeps his own soul; but he that despises his ways shall perish. 12 He that has pity on the poor lends to the Lord; and he will recompense to him according to his gift.

better to dwell in a wilderness than with a quarrelsome and talkative and passionate woman. A desirable treasure will rest on the mouth of the wise; but foolish men will swallow it up. The way of righteousness and virtue will find life and glory. A wise man assaults strong cities, and demolishes the fortress in which the ungodly trusted. He that keeps his mouth and his tongue keeps his soul from trouble.

A bold and self-willed and insolent man is called a pest; and he that remembers injury desires the sluggard; for his hands do not choose to do anything. An ungodly man entertains evil desires all the day: but the righteous is unsparingly merciful and compassionate. The sacrifices of the ungodly are abomination to the Lord, for they offer them wickedly. A false witness shall perish; but an obedient man will speak cautiously. An ungodly man impudently withstands with his face; but the upright man understands his ways. There is no wisdom, there is no courage, there is no counsel against the ungodly. A horse is prepared for the day of battle; but help is of the Lord.

A fair name is better than much wealth, and good favour is above silver and gold. The rich and the poor meet together; but the Lord made them both. An intelligent man seeing a bad man severely punished is himself instructed, but fools pass by and despise. The fear of the Lord is the spring of wisdom, and wealth, and glory, and life. Thistles and snares are in perverse ways; but he that keeps his soul will refrain from them. The rich will rule over the poor, and servants will lend to their own masters.

He that sows wickedness shall reap troubles; and shall fully receive the punishment of his deeds. God loves a cheerful and liberal man; but a man shall fully prove the folly of his works. He that has pity on the poor shall himself be maintained; for he has given of his own bread to the poor. He that gives liberally secures victory in his hour; but he takes away the life of them that possess them. Cast out a pestilent person from the council, and strife shall go out with him; for when he sits in the council he dishonours all.

The Lord loves holy hearts, and all blameless persons are acceptable with him: a king rules with his lips. But the eyes of the Lord preserve discretion; but the transgressor despises wise words. The sluggard makes excuses, and says, There is a lion in the ways, and murderers in the streets. The mouth of a transgressor is a deep pit; and he that is hated of the Lord shall fall into it. Evil ways are before a man, and he does not like to turn away from them; but it is needful to turn aside from a perverse and bad way. Folly is attached to the heart of a child, but the rod and instruction are then far from him.

He that oppresses the poor, increases his own substance, yet gives to the rich so as to make it less.
Incline thine ear to the words of wise men; heart, and also my word, and apply thine heart.

That thou mayest know that thy children are good: and if thou lay them to heart, they shall also gladden thee on thy lips.

That thy hope may be in the Lord, and he may make thy way known to thee. And do thou too repeatedly record them for thyself on the table of thine heart, for counsel and knowledge.

I therefore teach thee truth, and knowledge good: that thou mayest answer words of truth to them that question thee.

Do no violence to the poor, for he is needy: neither dishonour the helpless man in the gates. For the Lord will plead his cause, and thou shalt deliver thy soul in safety.

Be not companion to a furious man; neither lodge with a passionate man: lest thou learn of his ways, and get snares to thy soul.

Become not surety from respect of a man's person. For if those have not whence to give compensation, they will take the bed that is under thee. Remove not the old landmarks, which thy fathers placed.

It is fit that an observant man and one diligent in his business should attend on kings, and not attend on slothful men.

If thou sit to sup at the table of a prince, consider attentively the things set before thee: and apply thine hand, knowing that it behoves thee to prepare such meals: but if thou art very insatiable, desire not his provisions: for these belong to a false life.

If thou art poor, measure not thyself with a rich man; but refrain thyself in thy wisdom. If thou shouldst fix thine eye upon him, he will disappear; for wings like an eagle's are prepared for him, and he returns to the house of his master.

Sup not with an envious man, neither desire thou his meats: so he eats and drinks as if anyone should swallow a hair, and do not bring him in to thyself, nor eat thy morel with him: for he will vomit it up, and spoil thine fair words.

Say nothing in the ears of a fool, lest at any time he sneer at thy wise words. Remove not the ancient landmarks; and enter not upon the possession of the fatherless: for the Lord is their redeemer; he is mighty, and will plead their cause with thee. Apply thine heart to instruction, and prepare thine ears for words of discretion.

Refrain not from chastening a child: for if thou beat him with the rod, he shall not die. For thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from death.

Son, if thy heart be wise, thou shalt also gladden my heart; and thy lips shall converse with my lips, if they be right. Let not thine heart envy sinners: but be thou in the fear of the Lord all the day. For if thou shouldst keep these things, thou shalt have posterity; and thine hope shall not be removed.

sweetened. 14 Thus shalt thou perceive wisdom in thy soul: for if thou find it, thine end shall be good, and hope shall not fail thee.

15 Bring not an ungodly man into the dwelling of the righteous: neither be deceived by the feeding of the belly. 16 For a righteous man will fall seven times, and rise again: but the ungodly shall be without strength in troubles. 17 If thine enemy should fall, rejoice not over him, neither be elated at his overthrow: 18 For the Lord will see it, and it will not please him, and he will turn away his wrath from him. 19 Rejoice not in evil-doers, neither be envious of sinners. 20 For the evil man shall have no posterity: and the light of the wicked shall be put out.

21 My son, fear God and the king; and do not disobey either of them. 22 For they will suddenly punish the ungodly, and who can know the vengeance inflicted by both?

23 A son that keeps the commandment shall escape destruction; for such an one has fully received it. Let no falsehood be spoken by the king from the tongue; yea, let no falsehood proceed from his tongue. The king's tongue is a sword, and not one of flesh; and whosoever shall be given up to it shall be destroyed: for if his wrath should be provoked, he destroys men with cords, and devours men's bones, and burns them up as a flame, so that they are not even fit to be eaten by the young eagles. My son, reverence my words, and receive them, and repent.

These things says the man to them that trust in God; and I cease.

2 For I am the most simple of all men, and there is not in me the wisdom of men.

3 God has taught me wisdom, and I know the knowledge of the holy. 4 Who has gone up to heaven, and come down? who has gathered the winds in his bosom? who has wrapped up the waters in a garment? 5 Who has compassed all the ends of the earth? what is his name? or what is the name of his children? 6 For all the words of God are tried in the fire, and he defends those that reverence him. 7 Add not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be made a liar.

8 Two things I ask of thee; take not favour from me before I die. 9 Remove far from me vanity and falsehood: and give me not wealth or poverty; but appoint me what is needful and sufficient: 10 lest I be filled and become false, and say, Who sees me? or be poor and steal, and swear vainly by the name of God.

11 Deliver not a servant into the hands of his master, lest he curse thee, and thou be utterly destroyed. 12 A wicked generation curse their father, and do not bless their mother. 13 A wicked generation judge themselves to be just, but do not cleanse their way. 14 A wicked generation have lofty eyes, and exalt themselves with their eyelids.

15 A wicked generation have swords for teeth and jaw-teeth as knives, so as to destroy and devour the lowly from the earth, and the poor of them from among men.
But the things that are good, that ye yourselves know; be beware of them. Then he said, Hast thou considered my words? and wilt thou render me a judgment?
I am innocent; break me not off:
For I have not transgressed thy judgments.
As for me, I am full of wisdom; I shall not err.
Though I be not perfect, I shall be careful to observe thy precepts.
I will speak of the manner of thy words: and I acknowledge that thou art holy, every one that speaketh evil of thee is cursed.
And we will speak of thy justice, and the remembrance of thy righteousness shall go before me.
Thou hast planted them, and they grow; thou dost multiply them, and they increase.
They also exalt thy name in this generation, and in the next generation shall they be spoken of.
They shall come, and shall declare thy worships: they shall tell of thy strength.
And I will be towards thee for a temple, my bowels shall be towards thee.
And my soul shall be joyful in the strength of thy salvation: and in the joy of thy salvation shall my heart be exalted.
And I will praise thee, who hath saved me out of great fear: and I will render thanks unto thee in the highest heavens.
I will sing of the mercies of the Lord, for thou hast many excellencies; and the thoughts of thine heart are full of wisdom.
With the fruit of my mouth will I make known to thee the righteousness which is mine: for I may have knowledge of thee.
I have not eaten of the things that cost money, nor of flesh which I have bought.
I will not eat of my bread for money, nor of my meat for reward: for I have loved doing righteousness, more than to eat bread.
Thou art my fortress, my strong tower; where shall the wicked compass me?
For they purpose a mischief, and devise a lie: they hatch war without a cause.
He will not come before God: for he is a hypocrite; he shall perish in the place where he hath made vows.
He will not fear God: for he will not offer an offering, nor vow: for God is not in his heart.
They regard not the persons of the just; nor do they consider the wisdom of the righteous.
For he despiseth riches and honours: and he sail not count money.
Yea, he regardeth not the reproof of the wise: neither doth he regard them, because they are not with him.
But God shall stretch out his hand, and do mighty things among them; and things wonders of great magnitude he shall do.
And God shall Trumpet in the heavens: and the voice of the Lord shall roll round among them.
And God shall judge all the heathen: and the kings of the earth shall speak of him; even all this shall praise God for his righteousness: for he shall render to every man according to his works.
If thou abandon thyself to mirth, and stretch forth thine hand in a quarrel, thou shalt be disgraced. Milk out milk, and there shall be batter, and if thou wring one's nostrils there shall come out blood: so if thou extort words, there will come forth quarrels and strifes.

My words have been spoken by God—the oracular answer of a king, whom his mother instructed.

What wilt thou keep, my son, what? the words of God. My firstborn son, I speak to thee: what? son of my womb? what? son of my vows? Give not thy wealth to women, nor thy mind and living to remorse. Do all things with counsel: drink wine with counsel. Princes are prone to anger: let them then not drink wine: lest they drink, and forget wisdom, and be not able to judge the poor rightly. Give strong drink to those that are in sorrow, and the wine to drink to those in pain: that they may forget their poverty, and may not remember their trouble anymore. Open thy mouth with the word of God, and judge all fairly. Open thy mouth and judge justly, and plead the cause of the poor and weak.

These are the miscellaneous instructions of Solomon, which the friends of Ezekiel, king of Judea copied out.

The glory of God conceals a matter: but the glory of a king honoureth business. Heaven is high, and earth is deep, and a king's heart is unsearchable. Beat the drossy silver, and it shall be made entirely pure. Slay the ungodly from before the king, and his throne shall prosper in righteousness.

Be not boastful in the presence of the king, and remain not in the places of princes; for it is better for thee that it should be said, Come up to me, than that one should humble thee in the presence of the prince; speak of that which thine eyes have seen.

Get not suddenly into a quarrel, lest thou repent at last. Whenever thy friend shall reproach thee, retreat backward, despise him not; lest thy friend continue to reproach thee, so thy quarrel and enmity shall not depart, but shall be to thee like death. Favor of friends is a man free, which do thou keep for thyself, lest thou be made liable to reproach; but take heed to thy ways peaceably.

As a golden apple in a necklace of sardius, so is it to speak a wise word. In an ear-ring of gold a precious sardius is also set; so is a wise word to an obedient ear.

As a fall of snow in the time of harvest is good against heat, so a faithful messenger refreshes those that send him; for he helps the souls of his employers.

As winds and clouds and rains are most evident objects, so is he that boasts of a false gift. In long-suffering is prosperity to kings, and a soft tongue breaks the bones.

Having found honey, eat only what is enough to make thee full, and omit it up. Enter sparingly into thy friend's house, lest he be satiated with thy company, and hate thee. As a club, and a dagger, and a pointed arrow, so also is a man who bears false witness against his friend.
The way of the wicked and the foot of the transgressor shall perish in an evil day.

As vinegar is bad for a sore, so trouble befailing the body afflicts the heart. As a moth in a garment, and a worm in wood, so the grief of a man hurts the heart.

If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink; for so doing shalt thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head, and the Lord shall reward thee with good.

The north wind raises clouds; so an impudent face provokes the tongue.

It is better to dwell on a corner of the roof, than with a railing woman in an open house. As cold water is agreeable to a thirsting soul, so is a good message from a land far off. As if one should stop a well, and corrupt a spring of water, so is it unseemly to a righteous man to fall before an ungodly man.

It is not good to eat much honey; but it is right to honour venerable sayings. As a city whose walls are broken down, and which is unfortified, so is a man who does anything without counsel.

As dew in harvest, and as rain in summer, so honour is not seemly for a fool. As birds and sparrows fly, so a curse shall not come upon any one without a cause. As a whip for a horse, and a goad for an ass, so is a rod for a simple nation.

Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest thou become like him. Yet answer a fool according to his folly, lest he seem wise in his own conceit.

He that sends a message by a foolish messenger procures for himself a reproach from his own ways. As well take away the motion of the legs, as transgression from the mouth of fools. He that binds up a stone in a sling, is like one that gives glory to a fool.

Thorns grow in the hand of a drunkard, and servitude in the hand of fools.

All the flesh of fools endures much hardship; for their fury is brought to nought.

As when a dog goes to his own vomit, and becomes abominable, so is a fool who returns in his wickedness to his own sin. [There is a shame that brings sin; and there is a shame that is glory and grace.]

I have seen a man who seemed to himself to be wise; but a fool had more hope than he.

A sluggard when sent on a journey says, There is a lion in the ways, and there are murderers in the streets.

As a door turns on the hinge, so does a sluggard on his bed. A sluggard having hid his hand in his bosom, will not be able to bring it up to his mouth. A sluggard seems to himself wiser than one who is most satisfactorily brings back a message.

As he that lays hold of a dog's tail, so is he that makes himself the champion of another's cause.

As those who need correction put forth fair words to men, and he that first fall in with the proposal will be overcome.

All are that lay wait for their own friends, and when they are discovered, say, I did it in jest. With much wood fire increases; but where there is not a double-minded man, strife ceases.

Do thou thoroughly know the number of thy flock, and pay attention to thine herds. 24 For a man has not strength and power for ever; neither does he transmit it from generation to generation. 25 Take care of the herbage in the field, and thou shalt cut grass, and gather the mountain hay; 26 thou mayest have wool of sheep for clothing; pay attention to the land, that thou mayest have lambs. 27 My son, thou hast that words very useful for thy life, and for the life of thy servants.

The ungodly man flees when no one pursues: but the righteous is confident as a lion. 2 By reason of the sins of ungodly men quarrels arise; but a wise man will quell them. 3 A bold man oppresses the poor by ungodly deeds. As an impetuous and unprofitable rain, 4 so that they forsake the law praise ungodliness; but they that love the law fortify themselves with a wall. 5 Evil men will not understand judgment: but they that seek the Lord will understand everything.

A poor man walking in truth is better than a rich liar. 6 A wise son keeps the law: but he that keeps up debauchery dishonours his father. 7 He that increases his wealth by usuries and unjust gains, gathers it for him that pities the poor. 8 He that turns away his ear from hearing the law, even he has made his prayer abominable.

He that contemns his own ungodliness shall not prosper: but he that blames himself shall be loved. 11 Blessed is the man who religiously fears always: but the hard of heart shall fall into mischief. 12 A hungry lion and a thirsty wolf is he, who, being poor, rules over a poor nation. 13 A king in need of revenues is a great oppressor: but he that hates injustice shall live a long time.

He that becomes surety for a man charged with murder shall be an exile, and not in safety. Chasten thy son, and he shall love thee, and give honour to thy soul: he shall not obey a sinful nation. 14 He that walks justly is assisted: but he that walks in crooked ways shall be entangled therein. 15 He that tills his own land shall be satisfied with bread: but he that follows idleness shall have plenty of poverty.

A man worthy of credit shall be much blessed: but the wicked shall not be punished. 16 He that reverence not not the persons of the just is numbered among the good: such a one will sell a man for a morsel of bread. 17 An anxious man makes haste to be rich, and knows not that the merciful man will have the mastery over him.

23 A reprover is better than a stiff-necked man:
for when the latter is suddenly set on fire, there shall be no remedy. 2 When the righteous are praised, the people will rejoice: but when the ungodly rule, men mourn. 3 When a man loves wisdom, his father rejoices; but he that keeps harlots will waste wealth. 4 A righteous king establishes a country, but a sinner destroys it. 5 He that prepares a net in the way of his own friend, entangles his own feet in it. 6 A great snare is spread for a sinner: but the righteous shall be in joy and gladness. 7 A righteous man knows how to judge for the poor: but the ungodly understands not knowledge; and the poor man has not an understanding mind.

8 Lawless men burn down a city: but wise men turn away wrath. 9 A wise man shall judge nations: but a worthless man being angry laughs and fears not. 10 Bloody men hate a holy person, but the upright will seek his soul. 11 A fool utters all his mind: but the wise reserves his in part. 12 When a king hearkens to unjust language, all his subjects are transgressors. 13 When the creditor and debtor meet together, the Lord oversees them both. 14 When a king judges the poor in truth, his throne shall be established for a testimony. 15 Stripes and reproofs give wisdom: but an erring child disgraces his parents. 16 When the ungodly abound, sins abound: but when they fall, the righteous are warned.

17 Честен ли ти, и онъ shall give thee rest; and he shall give honour to thy soul. 18 There shall be no interpreter to a sinful nation: but he that observes the law is blessed. 19 A stubborn servant will not be reproved by words: for even if he understand, still he will not obey. 20 If thou see a man hasty in his words, know that the fool has hope rather than he. 21 He that lives wantonly from a child, shall have a servant, and in the end shall grieve over himself. 22 A furious man stirs up strife, and a passionate man digs up sin. 23 Pride brings a man low, but the Lord upholdeth the humble-minded with honour.

24 He that shares with a thief, hates his own soul: and if any having heard an oath uttered fall not of it, they fearing and reverencing men unreasonably have been overthrown, but he that trusts in the Lord shall rejoice. Ungodliness causes a man to stumble: but he that trusts in his master shall be safe. 25 Many wait on the favour of rulers; but justice comes to a man from the Lord. 27 A righteous man is an abomination to an unrighteous man, and the direct way is an abomination to the sinner.

Who shall find a virtuous woman? for such a one is more valuable than precious stones. 11 The heart of her husband trusts in her; such a one shall stand in no need of fine spoils. 12 For she employs all her living for her husband's good. 13 Gathering wool and flax, she makes it serviceable with her hands. 14 She is like a ship trading from a distance; so she procures her livelihood.

And she rises by night, and gives food to her household, and appointed tasks to her maids. 15 She views a farm, and buys it; and with the fruit of her hands she plants a possession. 16 She strongly girds her loins, and strengthens her arms for work. 17 And she finds by experience that working is good; and her candle goes not out all night. 18 She reaches forth her arms to needful works, and applies her hands to the spindles.

And she opens her hands to the needy, and reaches out fruit to the poor.

Her husband is not anxious about those at home, for they are abroad; for all her household are clothed. 19 She makes for her husband velour of double texture, and garments for herself of fine linen and scarlet. 20 And her husband becomes a distinguished person in the gates, when he sits in council with the old inhabitants of the land. 21 She makes fine linen, and sells girdles to the Chananites: she opens her mouth heedfully and with propriety, and controls her tongue. 22 She puts on strength and honour; and rejoices in the last days.

The ways of her household are careful, and she eats not the bread of idleness. 23 But she opens her mouth wisely, and according to law. 24 And her kindness to them sets up her children for them, and they grow rich, and her husband praises her.

Many daughters have obtained wealth, many have wrought valiantly; but thou hast exceeded, thou hast surpassed all.

Charm is false, and woman's beauty is vain: for it is a wise woman that is blessed, and let her praise the fear of the Lord.

Give her of the fruit of her lips; and let her husband be praised in the gates.

The words of the Preacher, the son of David, king of Israel in Jerusalem. 2 Vanity of vanities, said the Preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity.

3 What advantage is there to a man in all his labour that he takes under the sun? 4 A generation goes, and a generation comes: but the earth stands for ever. 5 And the sun arises, and the sun goes down and draws toward its place; 6 arising there it proceeds southward, and goes round toward the north. The wind goes round and round, and the wind returns to its circuits. 7 All the rivers run into the sea; and yet the sea is not filled: to the place whence the rivers come, thither they return again. 8 All things are full of labour; a man will not be able to speak of them: neither shall the eye be satisfied with seeing, neither shall the ear be filled with hearing.

9 What is that which has been? the very thing which shall be: and what is that which has been done? the very thing which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun. 10 Who is he that speaks and says, Behold, this is new? it has already been in the ages that have passed before us. 11 There is no memorial to the first things; neither to the things that have been last shall their memorial be with them that shall be at the last time.

12 I the Preacher was king over Israel in Jerusalem. 13 And I applied my heart to seek out and examine by wisdom concerning all things that are done under heaven, for God has given to the sons of men an evil trouble to be troubled therewith.

14 I beheld all the works that were wrought under the sun; and, behold, all were vanity and waywardness of spirit. 15 That which is crooked cannot be made straight: and deficiency cannot be numbered. 16 I spoke in my heart, saying, Behold, I am increased, and have acquired wisdom beyond all who were before me in Jerusalem: also I applied my heart to know wisdom and knowledge. 17 And my heart knew much—wisdom, and knowledge, parables and understanding: I perceived that this also is waywardness of spirit. 18 For in the abundance of wisdom is abundance of knowledge; and he that increases knowledge will increase sorrow.

I said in my heart, Come now, I will prove thee with mirth, and behold thou...
Ecclesiastes II. 2—20.

good: and, behold, this is also vanity. 2 I said to laughter, Madness: and to mirth, Why dost thou this?

And I examined whether my heart would excite my flesh as with wine, (though my heart guided me in wisdom,) and I desired to lay hold of mirth, until I should see of what kind is the good to the sons of men, which they should do under the sun all the days of their life. 4 I enlarged my work; 5 but the houses: I planted me vineyards, 6 I made me pools of water, to water them the timber-bearing wood. 7 I got servants and maidens, and servants were born to me in the house: also I had abundant possession of flocks and herds, beyond all who were before me in Jerusalem. Moreover I collected for myself both silver and gold also, and the peculiar treasures of kings and provinces: I procured me singing men and singing women, and delights of the sons of men, a butler and female cupbearers.

So I became great, and advanced beyond all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom was established to me. 10 And whatever mine eyes desired, I withheld not from them, I withheld not my heart from all my mirth: for my heart rejoiced in all my labour; and this was my portion of all my labour. 11 And I looked on all my works which my hands had wrought, and on my labour which I laboured to perform: and, behold, all was vanity and waywardness of spirit, and there is no advantage under the sun.

Then I looked on to see wisdom, and madness, and folly: for who is the man who will follow after counsel, in all things wherein he employs it? 13 And I saw that wisdom excels folly, as much as much light excels darkness. 14 The wise man's eyes are in his head; but the fool walks in darkness: and I perceived, even I, that one event shall happen to them all.

And I said in my heart, As the event of the fool is, so shall it be to me, even to me; and to what purpose have I gained wisdom? I said moreover in my heart, This is also vanity, because the fool speaks of his abundance. 16 For there is no remembrance of the wise man with the fool for ever; forasmuch as now in the coming days all things are forgotten: and how shall the wise man die with the fool?

So I hated life; because the work that was wrought under the sun was evil 18 before me: for all is vanity and waywardness of spirit. 18 And I hated the whole of my labour which I took under the sun; because I must leave it to the man who will come after me. 18 And who knows whether he will be a wise man or a fool? and whether he will have power over all my labour in which I laboured, and wherein I grew wise under the sun? this is also vanity. 18 So I went about to dismiss from my heart all
To all things there is a time, and a season for every matter under heaven.

1 A time of birth, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what has been planted; 2 a time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to pull down, and a time to build up; 3 a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to lament, and a time to dance; 4 a time to throw stones, and a time to gather stones together; 5 a time to embrace, and a time to abhor; 6 a time to seek, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away; 7 a time to rend, and a time to sew; 8 a time to speak; 9 a time to love, and a time to hate; 10 a time of war, and a time of peace.

What advantage has he that works in those things wherein he labours?

I have seen all the trouble, which God has given to the sons of men to be troubled with. All the things which he has made are beautiful in his time; he has also set the whole world in their heart, that man might not find out the work which God has wrought from the beginning even to the end. I know that there is no good in them, except for a man to rejoice, and to do good in his life.

Also, in the case of every man who shall eat and drink, and see good in all his labour, this is a gift of God. I know that whatsoever things God has done, they shall be for ever: it is impossible to add to it, and it is impossible to take away from it: and God has done it, that man may fear before him. That which has been is now; and whatever things are appointed to be have already been; and God will seek out that which is past.

And moreover I saw under the sun the place of judgment, there was the ungodly one; and the place of righteousness, there was the godly one. And I said in my heart, God will judge the righteous and the ungodly: for there is a time there for every action and for every work.

24 A man has nothing really good to eat, and to drink, and to shew his soul as good in his trouble. This also I saw, that it is from the hand of God. For who shall eat, or who shall drink, without him? For God has given to the man who is good in his sight, wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but he has given to the sinner trouble, to add and to heap up, that he may give to him that is good before God; for this is also vanity and waywardness of spirit.
3 I said in my heart, concerning the speech of the sons of man, God will judge them, and show that they are beasts. 4 Also to them is the event of the sons of man, and the event of the brute; one event befals them: as is the death of the one, so also the death of the other; and there is one breath to all: and what has the man more than the brute? nothing; for all is vanity of vanity. 5 And I saw that there was no good, but that wherein a man shall rejoice in his works, for he shall bring him to see any thing of which shall be after him.

6 So I returned, and saw all the oppressions that were done under the sun; and beheld the tears of all vanity that oppressed them was power; but they had no comforter: and on the side of them that oppressed them was power; but they had no comforter: and I praised all the dead that had already died more than the living, as many as are alive until now. 7 Better also than both these is he who has not yet been, who has not seen all the evil work that is done under the sun.

8 And I saw all labour, and all the diligence of work, that this is a man's envy from his neighbour. This is also vanity of vanity. 9 The fool folds his hands together, and eats his own flesh. 10 Better is a hand of rest than two handfuls of trouble and waywardness of spirit.

11 So I returned, and saw vanity under the sun. 12 There is one alone, and there is not a second; yea, he has neither son nor brother: yet there is no end to all his labour; neither is his eye satisfied with wealth; and for whom do I labour, and deprive my soul of good? this is also vanity of vanity. 13 Two are better than one, seeing they have a good reward. 14 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falls, and there is not a second to lift him up. 15 Also if two should lie together, they also get heat: but how shall one be warmed alone? 16 And if one should prevail against him, the two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord shall not be broken.

17 Better is a poor and wise child than an old and foolish king, who knows not how to take heed any longer. 18 For he shall come forth out of the house of the prisoners to reign, because he also that was in his kingdom has become poor. 19 I beheld all the living who were walking under the sun, with the second youth, who shall stand up in each one's place. 20 There is no end to all the people, to all who were before them: and the last shall not rejoice in him: for this also is vanity of waywardness of spirit.

19 Also I saw under the sun, that in the place of justice there is vanity, and in the place of righteousness, that is great vanity.

20 For I saw that the seething of brass is better than all costly stones; and the ringing of cymbals than all sweet sounding cymbals. 21 For the body is more precious than the soul: the wisdom is better than the learning. 22 Wisdom and understanding, which is also the fear of the Lord, is better than silver and gold. 23 Theeld of the wise is a tower of brass, that is better than gold. 24 The wise son sees the evil of the way, and stops his feet: he who keeps his way averteth his feet from evil. 25 Unto him that has wisdom and understanding, who has also knowledge of the way, it is given to know the fear of the Lord. 26 Wisdom is better than rubies; and all other precious stones. 27 Wisdom is the principal thing: therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding. 28 Pray, and it shall be given thee; seek and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

29 For by wisdom is goodness, and righteousness, and equity, until men come to knowledge with wisdom. 30 Wisdom is the principal thing: therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding. 31 He that fears the Lord is instruction, and an honeycomb is sweetness. 32 A wise son makes a good father, and an hireling makes rash words.

33 Keep thy soul with wine, and with strong drink; and God shall cheer thy heart with joyful songs. 34 Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: he that is deceived thereby shall not be wise.

35 The wise shall inherit glory: but the foolish shall dwell in shame.
ECCLESIASTES V. 1—VI. 2.

the house of God; and when thou art near to hear, let thy sacrifice be better than the gift of fools: for they know not that they are doing.

Be not lusty with thy mouth, and let not thine heart be swift to utter anything before God; for God is in heaven above, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few. 2 For through the multitude of trial a dream comes; and a fool's voice is with a multitude of words.

Whenever thou shalt give a vow to God, defer not to pay it; for he has no pleasure in fools: pay thou therefore whatsoever thou shalt have vowed. 4 It is better that thou shouldst not vow, than that thou shouldst vow and not pay. 5 Suffer not thy mouth to lead thy flesh to sin; and say not in the presence of God, It was an error: lest God be angry at thy voice, and destroy the works of thy hands. 6 For there is evil in a multitude of dreams and vanities and many words: but fear thou God.

If thou shouldst see the oppression of the poor, and the wresting of judgment and of justice in the land, wonder not at the matter: for there is a high one to watch over him that is high, and high ones over them. 8 Also the abundance of the earth is for every one: the king is dependent on the tilled field.

He that loves silver shall not be satisfied with silver: and who has loved gain, in the abundance thereof? this is also vanity. 10 In the multitude of good they are increased that eat it; and what virtue has the owner, but the right of beholding it with his eyes? 11 The sleep of a servant is sweet, whether he eat little or much: but to one who is satiated with wealth, there is none that suffers him to sleep.

There is an infirmity which I have seen under the sun, namely, wealth kept for its owner to his hurt. 12 And that wealth shall perish in an evil trouble: and the man begets a son, and there is nothing in his hand.

As he came forth naked from his mother's womb, he shall return back as he came, and he shall receive nothing for his labour, that it should go with him in his hand. 14 And this is also an evil infirmity: for as he came, so also shall he return: and what is his gain, for which he vainly labours? 16 Yes, all his days are in darkness, and in mourning, and much sorrow, and infirmity, and wrath.

Behold, I have seen good, that it is a fine thing for a man to eat and to drink, and to see good in all his labour wherein he may labour under the sun, all the number of the days of his life which God has given him: for it is his portion. 18 Yes, and as for every man to whom God has given wealth and possessions, and has given him power to eat thereof, and to receive his portion, and to rejoice in his labour; this is the gift of God. 19 For he shall not much remember the days of his life: for God troubles him in the mirth of his heart.

There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is abundant: a man to whom God shall give wealth, and substance, and honour, and he wants nothing for his soul of all things that he shall desire, yet God shall not give him power to eat of it, for a stranger shall devour it: this is vanity, and an evil infirmity.

If a man beget a hundred children, and live many years, yea, however abundant the days of his years be, yet if his soul shall not be satisfied with good, and also he have no burial: I said, An untimely birth is better than a timely one. For he came in vanity, and departs in darkness, and his name shall be covered in darkness. Moreover he has not seen the sun, nor known rest: there is no more rest to this one than another.

Though he has lived to the return of a thousand years, yet he has seen no good: do not all go to one place?

All the labour of a man is for his mouth, and yet the appetite shall not be satisfied.

What advantage has a man? for who knows what is good for a man in his life, during the number of the life of the days of his vanity? and he has spent them as a shadow; for who shall tell a man what shall be after him under the sun?

A good name is better than good oil; and the day of death than the day of birth.

It is better to go to the house of mourning, than to go to the banquet house: since this is the end of every man: and the living man will apply good warning to his heart.

Sorrow is better than laughter: for by the sadness of the countenance the heart will be made better.

The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning; but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.

It is better to bear a reproof of a wise man, than for a man to hear the song of fools. As the sound of thorns under a caldron, so is the laughter of fools: this is also vanity.

For oppression makes a wise man mad, and destroys his noble heart. The end of a matter is better than the beginning thereof: the patient is better than the hasty.

Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry: for anger will rest in the bosom of fools. Say not, What has happened, that the former days were better than these? for thou dost not enquire in wisdom concerning this.

Wisdom is good with an inheritance: and there is an advantage by it to them that see the sun. For wisdom in its shadow is as the shadow of silver: and the excellence of the knowledge of wisdom will give life to him that has it.

Behold the works of God: for who shall be able to straighten him whom God has made crooked? In the day of prosperity live joyfully, and consider in the day of adversity: consider, I say, God also has caused the one to agree with the other β for this reason, that man should find nothing after him.

The text is a translation of the Greek work Ecclesiastes 3-7, discussing the vanity of life and the lack of lasting satisfaction in worldly pursuits. It touches on themes of wisdom, the fleeting nature of life, and the moral impermanence.

16 I have seen all things in the days of my vanity: there is a just man perishing in his justice, and there is an ungodly man remaining in his wickedness. Be not very just; neither be very wise: lest thou be confounded. Be not very wicked; and be not stubborn: lest thou shouldest die before thy time. It is well for thee to hold fast by this; also by this debile not thine hand; for γ to them that fear God all things shall come forth well.

20 Wisdom will help the wise man more than ten mighty men which are in the city. For there is not a righteous man in the earth, who will do good, and not sin. Also take no heed to all the words which ungodly men shall speak; lest thou hear thy servant cursing thee.

For many times he shall press upon that thing, and repeatedly shall he afflict thine heart; for thus also hast thou cursed others. All these things have I proved in wisdom: I said, I will be wise; but it was far from me. That which is far beyond what was, and a great depth, who shall find it out?

23 I and my heart went round about to know, and to examine, and to seek wisdom, and the account of things, and to know the folly and trouble and madness of the ungodly man.

24 And I find her to be, and I will pronounce to be more bitter than death the woman which is a snare, and her heart nets, who has a band in her hands: he that is good in the sight of God shall be delivered from her; but the sinner shall be caught by her. Behold, this have I found, said the Preacher, seeking by one at a time to find out the account, which my soul sought after, but I found not: for I have found one man of a thousand; but a woman in all these I have not found. But, behold, this have I found, that God made man upright; but they have sought out many devices. Who knows the wise? and who knows the interpretation of a saying?

A man's wisdom will lighten his countenance; but a man of shameless countenance will be hated.

26 Observe the commandment of the king, and that because of the word of the oath of God. Be not hasty; thou shalt go forth out of his presence: stand not in an evil matter; for he will do whatsoever he shall please, even as a king having power: and who will say to him, What dost thou?

He that keeps the commandment shall not know an evil thing: and the heart of the wise knows the time of judgment. For to every thing there is time and judgment; for the knowledge of the holy is great to him. For there is no one that is wise, or that knoweth what is going to be: for who shall tell him how it shall be?

29 There is no man that has power over the spirit to retain the spirit; and there is no power in the day of death: and there is no discharge in the day of battle; neither shall ungodliness save her votary.

So I saw all this, and I applied my heart to every work that has been done under the sun; all the things wherein the man has power, over man to afflict him. 10 And then I saw the ungodly carried into the tombs, and that out of the holy place: and they departed, and were praised in the city, because they had done thus: this also is vanity.

Because there is no contradiction made on the part of those who do evil quickly, therefore the heart of the children of men, is fully determined in them to do evil.

He that has sinned has done evil from that time, and long from beforehand: nevertheless I know, that it is well with them that fear God, that they may fear before him: 12 but it shall not be well with the ungodly, and he shall not prolong his days, which are as a shadow; forasmuch as he fears not before God.

There is a vanity which is done upon the earth; that there are righteous persons to whom it happens according to the doing of the ungodly; and there are ungodly men, to whom it happens according to the doing of the righteous. This also is vanity.

Then I praised mirth, because there is no good for a man under the sun, but to eat, and drink, and be merry; and this shall attend him in his labour all the days of his life, which God has given him under the sun.

Whereupon I set my heart to know wisdom, and to perceive the trouble that was wrought upon the earth: for there is that neither by day nor night sees sleep with his eyes.
perished; yea, there is no portion for them any more for ever in all that is done under the sun.

7 Go, eat thy bread with mirth, and drink thy wine with a joyful heart; for now God has favourably accepted thy works. 8 Let thy garments be always white; and let not oil be wanting on thine head. 9 And see life with the wife whom thou lovest all the days of the life of thy vanity, which are given thee under the sun: for that is thy portion in thy life, and in thy labour wherein thou labourest under the sun.

10 Whosoever thineth shall find for himself; do all the things that he might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the dust whither thou goest.

11 I returned, and saw under the sun, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor yet wealth to men of understanding, nor yet favour to men of knowledge; for time and chance will happen to them all. 12 For surely man also knoweth not his own former days; which is that is before him; and his heart judgeth not, that which is after him.

13 This I also saw to be wisdom under the sun, and it is great before me: 14 suppose there were a city, and few men in it; and there should come against it a great king, and surround it, and build great mounds against it; 15 and should find in it a poor wise man, and he should save the city through his wisdom: yet no man would remember that poor man. 16 And I said, Wisdom is better than power: yet the wisdom of the poor man is set at nought, and his words are not listened to.

17 The words of the wise are heard in quiet more than the cry of them that rule in folly. 18 Wisdom is better than weapons of war: and one sinner will destroy much good. 19 Pestilent flies will corrupt a preparation of sweet ointment: and a little wisdom is more precious than great glory of folly.

20 A wise man’s heart is at his right hand; but a fool’s heart is at his left. 21 Yea, and whenever a fool walks by the way, his heart will fail him, and all that he thinketh of is folly.

22 If the spirit of the ruler rise up against thee, leave not thy place; for soothing will put an end to great offences. 23 There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, wherein an error has proceeded from the ruler. 24 The fool has been set in very high places, while rich men would sit in a low one. 25 I have seen servants upon horses, and princes walking as servants on the earth.

26 He that digs a pit shall fall into it; and him that breaks down a hedge a serpent shall bite.

27 He that removes stones shall be troubled thereby; he that cleaves wood shall be endangered thereby.
If the sxe-head should fall off, then the man troubles his countenance, and he must put forth more strength; and in that case skill is of no advantage to a man.\(^a\)

If a serpent bite when there is no charmer's whisper, then there is no advantage to the charmer.\(^b\) The words of a wise mouth are gracious: but the lips of a fool will swallow him up.\(^c\) The beginning of the words of the wise is a matter of life; and the end of his talk mischievous madness.\(^d\) A fool moreover multiplies words: man knows not what has been, nor what will be: who shall tell him what will come after him?\(^e\) The labour of fools will afflict them, as that of one who knows not to go to the city.

Woe to thee, O city, whose king is young, and thy princes eat in the morning!\(^f\) Blessed art thou, O land, whose king is a son of nobles, and whose princes shall eat seasonably, for strength, and shall not be ashamed.

By slothful neglect a building will be brought low: and by idleness of the hands the house will fall to pieces.\(^g\) Men prepare bread for laughter, and wine and oil that the living should rejoice: but it to money things will humbly yield obedience.

Even in thy conscience, curse not the king; and curse not the rich in thy bed-chamber: for a bird of the air shall carry thy voice, and that which has wings shall report thy speech.

Send forth thy bread upon the face of the water: for thou shalt find it after many days.\(^h\) Give a portion to seven, and also to eight; for thou knowest not what evil there shall be upon the earth.\(^i\) If the clouds be filled with rain, they pour it out upon the earth: and if a tree fall southward, or if it fall northward, in the place where the tree shall fall, there it shall be.\(^j\) He that observes the wind sows not; and he that looks at the clouds will not reap.\(^k\) Among whom none knows what is the way of the wind: as the bones are hid in the womb of a pregnant woman, so thou knowest not the works of God, even all things whatsoever he shall do.\(^l\) In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening let not thine hand be slack: for thou knowest not what sort shall prosper, whether this or that, or whether both shall be good alike.

Moreover the light is sweet, and it is good for men to see the sun.\(^m\) For even if a man should live many years, and rejoice in them all; yet let him remember the days of darkness; for they shall be many. All that comes is vanity.

Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart blameless, but not in the sight of thine eyes: yet know that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.\(^n\) Therefore remove sorrow from thy heart, and put away evil from thy flesh: for youth and folly are vanity. And remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth, before the days of evil come, and the years overtake thee in which thou shalt

2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth; for thy breasts are better than wine.
3 And the smell of thine ointments is better than all spices: thy name is ointment poured forth; therefore do the young maidens love thee.
4 They have drawn thee; we will run after thee, for the smell of thine ointments: the king has brought me into his closet: let us rejoice and be glad in thee; we will love thy breasts more than wine: righteousness loves thee.

5 I am black, but beautiful, ye daughters of Jerusalem, as the tents of Kedar, as the curtains of Solomon.
6 Look not upon me, because I am dark, because the sun has looked unfavourably upon me: my mother’s sons strove with me; they made me keeper in the vineyards; I have not kept my own vineyard.

7 Tell me, thou whom my soul loves, where thou tendest thy flock, where thou causest them to rest at noon, lest I become as one that is veiled by the flocks of thy companions.

8 If thou know not thyself, thou fair one among women, go thou forth by the footsteps of the flocks, and feed thy kids by the shepherds’ tents.
9 I have likened thee, my companion, to my horses in the chariots of Pharaoh.
10 How are thy cheeks beautiful as those of a dove, thy neck as chains!
11 We will make thee figures of gold with studs of silver.

12 So long as the king was at table, my spikeourd gave forth its smell.
13 My kinsman is to me a cluster of myrrh; he shall lie between my breasts.
14 My kinsman is to me a cluster of camphir in the vineyards of Engaddi.

15 Behold, thou art fair, my companion; behold, thou art fair; thine eyes are doves.
16 Behold, thou art fair, my kinsman, yea, beautiful, overshadowing our bed.
17 The beams of our house are cedars, our ceilings are of cypress.

I am a flower of the plain, a lily of the valleys.
2 As a lily among thorns, so is my companion among the daughters.

3 As the apple among the trees of the wood, so is my kinsman among the sons.
4 I desired his shadow, and sat down, and his fruit was sweet in my throat.
5 Bring me into the wine house; set love before me.

The Song II. 5—III. 9.

8 Strengthen me with perfumes, stay me with apples: for I am wounded with love.
9 His left hand shall be under my head, and his right hand shall embrace me.

7 I have enlarged you, ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the powers and by the virtues of the field, that ye do not rouse or wake my love, until he please.

6 My kinsman is like a roe or a young hart on the mountains of Bethel: behold, he is behind our wall, looking through the windows, peeping through the lattices.

5 My kinsman answers, and says to me, Rise up, come, my companion, my fair one, my dove. For, behold, the winter is past, the rain is gone, it has departed. The flowers are seen in the land; the time of junge has arrived; the voice of the turtle-dove has been heard in our land.

4 Thou art my dove, in the shelter of the rock, near the wall: shew me thy face, and cause me to hear thy voice; for thy voice is sweet, and thy countenance is beautiful.

3 Take us the little foxes that spoil the vines: for our vines put forth tender grapes.

2 Until the day dawn, and the shadows depart, turn, my kinsman, be thou like to a roe or young hart on the mountains of the ravines.

1 By night on my bed I sought him whom my soul loves: I sought him, but found him not; I called him, but he hearkened not to me. I will rise now, and go about in the city, in the market-places, and in the streets, and I will seek him whom my soul loves: I sought him, but I found him not. The watchmen who go their rounds in the city found me. I said, Have ye seen him whom my soul loves? It was as a little while after I parted from them, that I found him whom my soul loves: I held him, and did not let him go, until I brought him into my mother’s house, and into the chamber of her that conceived me.

5 I have charged you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the 9 powers and by the virtues of the field, that ye rouse not nor awake my love, until he please.

Who is this that comes up from the wilderness as pillars of smoke, perfumed with myrrh and frankincense, with all powders of the perfumer? Behold, Solomon’s bed; sixty mighty men of the mighty ones of Israel are round about it. They all hold a sword, being expert in war: every man has his sword upon his thigh because of fear by night.

9 King Solomon made himself a litter of... woods of Lebanon. He made the pillars of it silver, the bottom of it gold, the covering of it scarlet, in the midst of it a pavement of love, for the daughters of Jerusalem.

Go forth, ye daughters of Zion, and behold king Solomon, with the crown wherewith his mother crowned him, in the day of his espousals, and in the day of the gladness of his heart.

Behold, thou art fair, my companion; behold, thou art fair; thine eyes are doves, beside thy veil: thy hair is as flocks of goats, that have appeared from Galaad.

Thy locks are as the sides of the tower of David, that was built for an armoury: a thousand shields hang upon it, and all darts of mighty men.

Thy two breasts are as two twin fawns, that feed among the lilies.

Until the day dawn, and the shadows depart, I will betake me to the mountain of myrrh, and to the hill of frankincense.

Thou art all fair, my companion, and there is no spot in thee.

Come from Libanus, my bride, come from Libanus: thou shalt come and pass from the top of γαλαγία, from the top of Sanir and Hermon, from the lions' dens, from the mountains of the leopards.

My sister, my spouse, thou hast ravished my heart; thou hast ravished my heart with one of thine eyes, with one chain of thy neck.

How beautiful are thy breasts, my sister, my spouse! how much more beautiful are thy breasts than wine, and the smell of thy garments than all spices!

Thy lips drop honeycomb, my spouse; honey and milk are under thy tongue; and the smell of thy garments is as the smell of Lebanon.

My sister, my spouse, a garden walled up; a garden walled in, a garden sealed.

Thy shoots are a garden of pomegranates, with the fruit of choice berries; camphor, with spikenard; spikenard and saffron, calamus and cinnamon; with all woods of Libanus, myrrh, aloes, with all chief spices; a fountain of a garden, and a well of water springing and gurgling from Libanus.

Awake, O north wind; and come, O south; and blow through my garden, and let my spices flow out.

Let my kinsman come down into his garden, and eat the fruit of his choice berries. I am come into my garden, my sister, my spouse: I have gathered my myrrh with my spices; I have eaten my bread with my honey; I have drunk my wine with my milk. Eat, O friends, and drink; yea, brethren, drink abundantly.

I sleep, but my heart is awake; the voice of my kinsman knocks at the door, saying, Open, open to me, my companion, my sister, my dove, my perfect one: for my head is filled with dew, and my locks with the drops of the night.

I have put off my coat; how shall I put it on? I have washed my feet, to my Lord.

how shall I defile them? My kinsman put forth his hand by the hole of the door, and my belly was moved for him. I rose up to open to my kinsman; my hands dropped myrrh, my fingers choice myrrh, on the handles of the lock. I opened to my kinsman; my kinsman was gone; my soul failed at his speech: I sought him, but found him not; I called him, but he answered me not. The watchmen that go their rounds in the city found me, they smote me, they wounded me; the keepers of the walls took away my veil from me. I have charged you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the powers and the virtues of the field: if ye should find my kinsman, what are ye to say to him? That I am wounded with love.

What is thy kinsman more than another kinsman, O thou beautiful among women? what is thy kinsman more than another kinsman, that thou hast so charged us?

My kinsman is white and ruddy, chosen out from the earth. His head is as very fine gold; his locks are flowing, black as a raven. His eyes are as doves, by the pools of waters, washed with milk, sitting by the pools. His cheeks are as bowls of spices pouring forth perfumes: his lips are lilies, dropping choice myrrh. His hands are as γυναικός: I am thy kinsman, and this is my companion, O daughters of Jerusalem.

Whither is thy kinsman gone, thou beautiful among women? whither has thy kinsman turned aside? tell us, and we will seek him with thee.

My kinsman is gone down to his garden, to the beds of spice, to feed his flock in the gardens, and to gather lilies. I am my kinsman’s, and my kinsman is mine, who feeds among the lilies.

Thou art fair, my companion, as Pleasure, beautiful as Jerusalem, terrible as armies set in array. Turn away thine eyes from before me, for they have ravished me: thy hair is as flocks of goats which have appeared from Galad. Thy teeth are as flocks of shrub sheep, that have gone up from the washing, all of them bearing twins, and there is none barren among them: thy lips are as a thread of scarlet, and thy speech is comely. Thy cheek is like the rind of a pomegranate, being seen without thy veil.

There are sixty queens, and eighty concubines, and maidens without number. My dove, my perfect one is one; she is the only one of her mother. she is the choice of her that bare her. The daughters saw her, and the queens will pronounce her blessed, yea, and the concubines, and they will praise her. Who is this that looks forth as the morning, fair as the moon, choice as the sun, terrible as armies set in array?

I went down to the garden of nuts, to look at the fruits of the valley, to see if the wine flowered, if the pomegranates blossomed. 11 There I will give thee my breasts; my soul knew it not: it made me as the chariots of Aminadab.

12 Return, return, O Sunamite; return, return, and we will look at thee.

What will ye see in the Sunamite? She comes as bands of armies.

Thy steps are beautiful in shoes, O daughter of the prince: the joints of thy thighs are like chains, the work of the craftsman. 2 Thy navel is as a turned bowl, not wanting liquor; thy belly is as a heap of wheat set about with lilies. 3 Thy two breasts are as two twin fawns. 4 Thy neck is as an ivory tower; thine eyes are as pools in Esebon, by the gates of the daughter of many: thy nose is as the tower of Libanus, looking toward Damascus. 5 Thy head upon thee is as Carmel, and the curls of thy hair like scarlet; the king is bound in the 6 galleries. 7 How beautiful art thou, my love, and how sweet art thou, my daughter! 8 This is thy greatness in thy delights: thou wast made like a palm tree, and thy breasts to clusters. 9 I said, I will go up to the palm tree, and I will take hold of its high boughs: and now shall thy breasts be as clusters of the vine, and the smell of thy nose as apples; 10 and thy throat as good wine, going well with my kinsman, sating my lips and teeth.

11 I am my kinsman's, and his desire is toward me. 12 Come, my kinsman, let us go forth into the field; let us lodge in the villages. 13 Let us go early into the vineyards; let us see if the vine has flowered, if the blossoms have appeared, if the pomegranates have blossomed; there will I give thee my breasts. 14 The mandrakes have given a smell, and at our doors are all kinds of choice fruits, new and old. O my kinsman, I have kept them for thee.

15 I would that thou, O my kinsman, went he that sucked the breasts of my mother; when I found thee without, I would kiss thee; yes, they should not despise me. 16 I would take thee, I would bring thee into my mother's house, and into the chamber of her that conceived me; I would make thee to drink of spiced wine, of the juice of my pomegranates.

17 His left hand should be under my head, and his right hand should embrace me. 18 I have charged you, ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the virtues of the field, that ye stir not up, nor awake my love, until he please.

19 Who is this that comes up all white, leaning on her kinsman? I raised thee up under an apple-tree; there thy mother brought thee forth; there she that bore thee brought thee forth.

20 Set me as a seal upon thy heart, as a seal upon thine arm; for love is strong as death; jealousy is cruel as the grave, her shafts are shafts of fire, even the flames thereof.

21 Much water will not be able to quench love, and rivers shall not drown it; if a man would give all his substance for love, men would utterly despise it.
8 Our sister is little, and has no breasts; what shall we do for our sister, in the day wherein she shall be spoken for? 9 If she is a wall, let us build upon her silver bulwarks; and if she is a door, let us carve for her cedar panels. 10 I am a wall, and my breasts are as towers; I was in their eyes as one that found peace.

Solomon had a vineyard in Beelamôn; he let his vineyard to keepers; every one was to bring for its fruit a thousand pieces of silver. My vineyard, even mine, is before me; Solomon shall have a thousand, and they that keep its fruit two hundred.

13 Thou that dwellest in the gardens, the companions hearken to thy voice: make me hear it.

14 Away, my kinsman, and be like a doe or a fawn on the mountains of spices.

HΣAIAS.

The vision which Esaias the son of Amos saw, which he saw against Judea and against Jerusalem, in the reign of Ozias, and Joatham, and Achaz, and Zeekias, who reigned over Judea.

Hear, O heaven, and hearken, O earth: for the Lord has spoken, saying, I have forgotten and reared up children, but they have rebelled against me. The ox knows his owner, and the ass his master's crib: but Israel does not know me, and the people has not regarded me.

Ah sinful nation, a people full of sins, an evil seed, lawless children; ye have forsaken the Lord, and provoked the Holy One of Israel. Why should ye be smitten any more, transgressing more and more? the whole head is pained, and the whole heart sad. From the feet to the head, there is no soundness in them; neither wound, nor bruise, nor festering ulcer are healed; it is not possible to apply a plaister, nor oil, nor bandages. Your land is desolate, your cities burned with fire: your land, strangers devour it in your presence, and it is made desolate, overthrown by strange nations.

The daughter of Sion shall be deserted as a tent in a vineyard, and as a storehouse of fruits in a garden of cucumbers, as a besieged city. And if the Lord of Sabaoth had not left us a seed, we should have been as Sodom, and we should have made like to Gomorrah.

10 Hear the word of the Lord, ye rulers of Sodom; attend to the law of God, thou people of Gomorrah. 11 Of what value to me is the abundance of your sacrifices? saith the Lord: I am full of whole-burnt-offerings of rams; and I delight not in the fat of lambs, and the blood of bulls and goats: 12 neither shall ye come with these to appear before me; for who has required these things at your hands? Ye shall no more tread my court. 13 Though ye bring fine flour, if is vain; incense is an abomination to me; I cannot bear your new moons, and your sabbaths, and the great day; 14 your fasting, and the rest from your work; your new moons also, and your feasts my soul hates: ye have become loathsome to me; I will no more pardon your sins. 15 When ye stretch forth your hands, I will turn away mine eyes from you: and though ye make many supplications, I will not hearken to you; for your hands are full of blood.

16 Wash you, be clean; remove your iniquities from your souls before mine eyes; cease from your iniquities; 17 learn to do well; diligently seek judgment, deliver him that is suffering wrong, plead for the orphan, and obtain justice for the widow.

18 And come, let us reason together, saith the Lord: and though your sins be as purple, I will make them white as snow; and though they be as scarlet, I will make them white as wool. 19 And if ye be willing, and hearken to me, ye shall eat the good of the land; 20 but if ye be not willing, nor hearken to me, a sword shall devour you: for the mouth of the Lord has spoken this.

21 How has the faithful city Sion, once full of judgment, became a harlot! wherein righteousness lodged, but now murderers.

22 Your silver is worthless, thy wine merchants mix the wine with water.

23 Thy princes are rebellious, companions of thieves, loving bribes, seeking after rewards; not pleading for orphans, and not heeding the cause of widows.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord, the Lord of hosts, Woe to the mighty men of Israel; for my wrath shall not cease against mine adversaries, and I will execute judgment on mine enemies. 25 And I will bring my hand upon thee, and purge thee completely, and I will destroy the rebellious, and will take away from thee all transgressors. 26 And I will establish thy judges as before, and thy counsellors as at the beginning; and afterward thou shalt be called the city of righteousness, the faithful mother-city, Sion.

27 For her captives shall be saved with judgment, and with mercy. 28 And the transgressors and the sinners shall be crushed together, and they that forsake the Lord shall be utterly consumed. 29 For they shall be ashamed of their idols, which they delighted in, and they are made ashamed of the gardens which they coveted. 30 For they shall be as a turpentine tree that has cast its leaves, and as a garden that has no water. 31 And their strength shall be as a thread of tow, and their works as spars and the transgressors and the sinners shall be burnt up together, and there shall be none to quench them.

The word which came to Esaias the son of Amos concerning Judea, and concerning Jerusalem.

2 For in the last days the mountain of the Lord shall be 2 glorious, and the house of God shall be on the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall come to it. 3 And many nations shall go and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will tell us his way, and we will walk in it: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord out of Jerusalem.

4 And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plough-shares, and their spears into sickles: and nation shall not take up sword against nation, neither shall they learn to war any more.

5 Now therefore enter ye into the rocks, and hide yourselves in the earth, for fear of the Lord, and by reason of the glory of his might, when he shall arise to strike terribly the earth. 6 For the eyes of the Lord are high, but man is low; and the haughtiness of men shall be brought low, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day.

7 For the day of the Lord of hosts shall be upon every one that is proud and haughty, and upon every one that is high and towering, and they shall be brought down; and upon every cedar of Libanus, of them that are high and towering, and upon every oak of Bashan, and upon every high mountain, and upon every high hill, and upon every high tower, and upon every hill of the sea, and upon every height of the land, and upon every cleft of the rock. And every man shall be brought low, and the pride of men shall fall: and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day. And they shall hide all idols made with hands, having carried them into the caves, and into the clefts of the rocks, and into the caverns of the earth, for fear of the Lord, and by reason of the glory of his might, when he shall arise to strike terribly the earth. For in that day a man shall cast forth his silver and gold abominations, which they made in order to worship vanities and bats; to enter into behold the Lord, the Lord of hosts, will take away from Jerusalem and from Judah the male and the female, the医治 and the old, the son and the daughter, he will eat in peace on every stony hill and on every high mountain in the wilderness, and on all the mountains that are lifted up, for the Lord is强烈的, and his highway is holiness.

Thus saith the Lord, the Lord of hosts, he shall utterly destroy the vial of Samaria, and he shall utterly burn Jerusalem with fire.

And it shall come to pass, after they have taken you away into exile, and shall have emptied you into the multitude, that he shall give you up in haste for a little moment, and in anger, and in wrath, and with much slaughter, even till the end, because the Heart of the Lord is high, and his ways are unsearchable.

For thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and the Saviour thereof, I am in very truth the First, and the Last, and the Great King.

For thus saith the Lord, who createth the earth, who formaeth the fowl of the air; he saith, The Bonds are broken, and the prisoners are released, the good Man is released from prison, and he saith, the Holy One of Israel, and his Saviour, saith, Be hold the Lord shall come with fire, and his Angels with the torch.

And he shall stretch out his hand over the sea, and his right hand shall move over the rivers.

And he shall gather together the waters of the sea, and the floods shall be dried up: and he shall make bare from the depths of the earth, and the valleys shall be dry.

And the dung shall be dried up at the sight of them; and all beasts of the field shall die for fear of them.

And the earth shall be arid, and fertile, and a new world shall be created.

And the Lord shall be king over all the Earth; in that day shall there be one Lord, and his name shall be One.

And the Lord shall be king over all the Earth; in that day shall there be one Lord, and his name shall be One.

And the Lord shall be king over all the Earth; in that day shall there be one Lord, and his name shall be One.

And seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and wear our own raiment: only let thy name be called upon us, and take away our reproach.

And in that day God shall shine gloriously in counsel on the earth, to exalt and glorify the remnant of Israel. And it shall be, that the remnant left in Sion, and the remnant left in Jerusalem, even all that are appointed to life in Jerusalem, shall be called holy. For the Lord shall wash away the filth of the sons and daughters of Sion, and shall purge out the blood from the midst of them, with the spirit of judgment, and the spirit of burning. And he shall come, and it shall be with regard to every place of mount Sion, yea, all the region round about it shall a cloud over-shadow by day, and there shall be as it were the smoke and light of fire burning by night: and upon all the glory shall be a defence. And it shall be for a shadow from the heat, and as a shelter and a hiding-place from inclemency of weather and from rain.

Now I will sing to my beloved a song of my beloved concerning my vineyard.

My beloved had a vineyard on a high hill in a fertile place. And I made a hedge round it, and dug a trench, and planted a choice vine, and built a tower in the midst of it, and dug a place for the wine-vat in it: and I waited for it to bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild thorns. And now, ye dwellers in Jerusalem, and every man of Judah, judge between me and my vineyard. What shall I do any more to my vineyard, that I have not done to it? Whereas I expected it to bring forth grapes, but it has brought forth thorns. And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away its hedge, and it shall be for a spoil; and I will pull down its walls, and it shall be left to be trodden down. And I will forsake my vineyard; and it shall not be pruned, nor dug, and thorns shall come up upon it as on barren land; and I will command the clouds to rain no rain upon it.

For the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah his beloved plant: I expected it to bring forth judgment, and it brought forth iniquity; and not righteousness, but a cry.

8 Woe to them that join house to house, and add field to field, that they may take away something of their neighbour's: will ye dwell alone upon the land? 9 For these things have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts: for though many houses should be built, many and fair houses shall be desolate, and there shall be no inhabitants in them. 10 For the bed of oxen ploughed the land shall yield one chaff-full, and he that sows six homers shall produce three measures.

11 Woe to them that rise up in the morning, and follow strong drink; who wait at it till the evening: for the wine shall inflame them, and they shall stagger to the east gate.

12 For the wine shall be as the water of life unto them that drink it; but the liquor thereof shall be as the saul of Hades; and they shall be exalted in judgment, and the holy God shall be glorified in righteousness.

13 And they that were spoiled shall be fed as bulls, and lambs shall feed on the waste places of them that are taken away.

14 Woe to them that draw sins to themselves, with a thong of the heifer's yoke: 15 who say, Let him speedily hasten what he will do, that we may see it: and let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel come, that we may know it.

16 Woe to them that call evil good, and good evil; who make darkness light, and light darkness; who make bitter sweet, and sweet bitter.

17 Woe to the strong ones of you that drink wine, and the mighty ones that mingle strong drink: 18 who justify the ungodly for rewards, and take away the righteousness of the righteous.

19 Therefore as stubble shall be burnt by a coal of fire, and shall be consumed by a violent flame, their root shall be as chalk, and their flower shall go up as dust: for they rejected the law of the Lord of hosts, and insulted the word of the Holy One of Israel.

20 Therefore the Lord of hosts was greatly angered against his people, and he reached forth his hand upon them, and smote them: and the mountains were troubled, and their carcases were as dung in the midst of the way: yet for all this his anger has not been turned away, but his hand is yet raised.

Therefore shall he lift up a signal to the nations that are afar, and shall have for them from the end of the earth; and behold, they are coming very quickly.

25 Whose arrows are sharp, and their bows bent; their horses' hoofs are as a hart, and the king's chariots as a lion's whelps: and he shall seize, and roar as a wild beast, and he shall cast them forth, and there shall be none to deliver them. 26 And he shall roar on account of them in that day, as the sound of the swarming of bees: and they shall fall, as light as a roe, and as heavy as the hart; and the land and, behold, there shall be thick darkness in their perplexity.

And it came to pass in the year in which king Oziias died, that I saw the Lord sitting on a high and exalted throne, and the house was full of his glory. And seraphim stood round about him: each one had six wings: and with two they covered their face, and with two they covered their feet, and with two they flew. 3 And one cried to the other, and they said, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of his glory.

And the lintel shook at the voice they uttered, and the house was filled with smoke. And I said, Woe is me, for I am undone; because I am a man, and having unclean lips, I dwell in the midst of a people having unclean lips; and I have seen with mine eyes the King, the Lord of hosts. And there was sent to me one of the seraphim, and he had in his hand a coal, which he had taken off the altar with the tongs; and he touched my mouth, and said, Behold, this has touched thy lips, and will take away thine iniquities, and will purge off thy sins.

And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go to this people? And I said, Here am I; send me. And he said, Go, and say to this people, Ye shall hear indeed, but ye shall not understand; and ye shall see indeed, but ye shall not perceive. For the heart of this people has become gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them. And I said, How long, O Lord? And he said, Until the cities be deserted, and the houses be broken down for the men of the land who are not inhabited, and the houses by reason of there being no men, and the land shall be left desolate. And after this God shall remove the men far off, and they that are left upon the land shall be multiplied. And yet there shall be a tenth upon it, and again it shall be for a spoil, as a turpentine tree, and as an acorn when it falls out of its bough.

And it came to pass in the days of Achaz the son of Jotham, the son of Oziias, king of Juda, there came up Rasim king of Aram, and Phakee son of Romeliaus, king of Israel, against Jerusalem to war against it, but they could not take it. And a message was brought to the house of David, saying, Aram has conspired with Ephraim. And his soul was amazed, and the soul of his people, as in a wood a tree is moved by the wind. And the Lord said to Esajas, go forth to meet Achaz, thou, and thy son Jasub who is left, to the pool of the upper way of the fuller's field. And thou shalt say to him, Take care to be quiet, and fear not, neither let thy soul be disheartened because of two smoking brands; for when my fierce anger is over, I will heal again. And as for the son of Aram, and the son of Romelas, forasmuch as they have devised an evil counsel, saying, We will go up against Judea, and having conferred with them we will turn them away to our side, and we will make the son of Tabecel king of it; thus said the Lord of hosts. This counsel shall not abide, nor come to pass. But the head of Aram is Damascus, and the head of Damascus, Rasis; and yet within sixty and five years the kingdom of Ephraim shall cease from being a people.

And the head of Ephraim is Sameron, and the head of Somoron the son of Romelas; but if ye believe not, neither will ye at all understand.

And the Lord again spoke to Achaz, saying, Ask for thyself a sign of the Lord thy God, in the depth or in the height. And Achaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord. And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David, is it a little thing for you to contend with men? and how do ye contend against the Lord? Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; behold, a virgin shall conceive in the womb, and shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Emmanuel.

Butter and honey shall he eat, before he knows either to prefer evil, or choose the good. For before the child shall know good or evil, he refuses evil, to choose the good; and the land shall be forsaken which thou art afraid of because of the two kings. But God shall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon the house of thy father, days which have never come, from the day that Ephraim took away from Judah the king of the Assyrians. And it shall come to pass in that day that the Lord shall hiss for the flies, which shall pass over a part of the river of Egypt, and for the bee which is in the land of the Assyrians. And they shall all enter into the cliffs of the land, and into the holes of the rocks, and into the caves, and into every ravine. In that day the Lord shall shave with the hird razor of the king of Assyria beyond the river the head, and the hairs of the feet, and will remove the beard. And it shall come to pass in that day, that a man shall rear a heifer, and two sheep. And it shall come to pass from their drinking an abundance of milk, that every one that is left on the land shall eat butter and honey. And it shall come to pass in that day, for every place where there shall be a thousand vines at a thousand shekels, they shall become barren land and thorns. Men shall enter thither with arrow and bow; for all the land shall be barren ground

And the Lord said to me, Take to thyself a volume of a great new book, and write in it with a man's pen concerning the making of a rapid plunder of spoils; for it is near at hand.

And make the addresses of faithful men, Urias, and Zacharias the son of Barachias. And I went in to the prophethood; and she conceived, and bore a son. And the Lord said to me, Call his name, Spoil quickly, plunder speedily. For before the child shall know how to call this father or his mother, one shall take the power of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria before the king of the Assyrians.

And the Lord spoke to me yet again, saying, Because this people chooses not the water of Siloam that goes softly, but wills to have Rassin, and the son of Romelias to be king over you, therefore, behold, the Lord brings up upon you the water of the river, strong and abundant, even the king of the Assyrians, and his glory: and he shall come up over every valley of yours, and shall walk over every wall of yours: and he shall take away from Juda every man who shall be able to lift up his head, and every one able to accomplish anything; and his camp shall fill the breadth of thy land. O ye of God with us.

Know, ye Gentiles, and be conquered: hearken ye, even to the extremity of the earth: be conquered, after ye have strengthened yourselves; for even if ye should again strengthen yourselves, ye shall again be conquered. And whatsoever counsel ye shall take, the Lord shall bring it to nought: and whatsoever word ye shall speak, it shall not stand among you: for God is with us. Thus saith the Lord, With a strong hand they shall revolt from the course of the way of this people, saying, Let them not say, It is hard, for whatsoever this people says, is hard: but fear not ye their fear, neither be thou dismayed, when ye the Lord himself; and he shall be thy fear: And if thou shalt trust in him, he shall be to thee for a sanctuary; and ye shall not come against him as against a stumbling-stone, neither as against the falling of a rock: but the houses of Jacob are in a snare, and the dwellers in Jerusalem in a pit.

Therefore many among them shall be weak, and fall, and be crushed: and they shall draw nigh, and men shall be taken securely. Then shall those who seal themselves that they may not learn the law be made manifest. And one shall say, I will wait for God, who has turned away his face from the house of Jacob, and I will trust in him.
Drink this first. 6 Act quickly, 5 O land of Zabulon, land of Nephthali, and the rest inhabiting the sea-coast, and the land beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles.

O people walking in darkness, behold a great light: ye that dwell in the region and shadow of death, a light shall shine upon you. 7 The multitude of people which were scattered abroad shall be gathered together, and they that were divided shall return. 8 The first place of his feet shall be of the region of Zabulon, and the last place shall be of the region of Nephthali; 9 and the Gentiles shall bring their gifts to the Lord, and his people shall be known among the nations. 10 The firstborn of Zabulon shall be the head and tail, great and small, in one day: 11 the old man, and them that have turned not their anger towards the Lord. 12 So the Lord took away from Israel the head and tail, great and small, in one day: 13 And I said, I have set my face against the sons of Israel, to take vengeance and punishment upon them; and they have continued this iniquity. 14 And it shall come to pass, that when they be turned away from me, they shall be broken, and be broken; and I will turn again, and build them up. 15 Then said the Lord, Go down to the father of the people, to Samaria; and there shall I give thee power that the people may hear. 16 And I went down to the father of the people, and came to Samaria; and when I had spoken unto the people, they possessed this power, and they have possessed it still.

The text appears to be a corrupted version of Isaiah 8-10, discussing the Lord's judgment on the nations and the Assyrians. The text is difficult to decipher due to the quality of the image and the handwriting. The content refers to the Assyrians, who are esteemed by some, but are despised by others. The text warns against relying on military strength and praises the steadfastness of those who trust in the Lord. It also contains warnings against the false peace brought by those who promise safety but are ultimately unfaithful. The text concludes with a promise of salvation through the Lord's faithful servant, Jesus Christ, who will bring ultimate peace and salvation to the world.

even take them as eggs that have been left; and there is none that shall escape me, or contrive it. 12Shall the axe glory itself without him that hews with it? or shall the saw lift itself up without him that uses it, as if one should lift a rod or staff? but it shall not be so; but the Lord of hosts shall send dishonour upon thine honour, and burning fire shall be kindled upon thy glory. 13And the light of Israel shall be for a fire, and he shall sanctify it with burning fire, and it shall devour the wood as grass. 14In that day the mountains shall be consumed, and the hills, and the forests, and fire shall devour both soul and body: and he that flees shall be as one fleeing from burning flame. 15And they that are left of them shall be a small number, and a child shall write them.

20And it shall come to pass in that day that the remnant of Israel shall no more join themselves with, and the saved of Jacob shall no more trust in, them that injured them; but they shall trust in the Holy God of Israel, in truth. 21And the remnant of Jacob shall be for the Lord upon the mighty God. 22And though the people of Israel be as the sand of the sea, a remnant of them shall be saved. 23He will finish the work, and cut it short in righteousness: because the Lord will make a short work in all the world.

Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Be not afraid, my people who dwell in Sion, of the Assyrians, because he shall smite thee with a rod: for I am bringing a stroke upon thee, that thou mayest see the way of Egypt. 25For yet a little while, and the indignation shall cease; but my wrath shall be against their council. And God will stir up enemies against them, according to the stroke of Madim in the place of affliction: and his wrath shall be by the way of the sea, even to the way that leads to Egypt. 27And it shall come to pass in that day, that his yoke shall be taken away from thy shoulder, and his fear from thee, and the yoke shall be destroyed from off your shoulders.

Behold, the Lord, the Lord of hosts, will mightily confound the glorious ones; and the haughty in pride shall be crushed, and the lofty shall be brought low: 34and the lofty ones shall fall by the sword, and Libanus shall fall with his lofty ones.

And there shall come forth a rod out of the root of Jesse, and a blossom shall come up from his root: and the Spirit of God shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom even upon the spirit of a man filled with the Spirit.
and understanding, the spirit of counsel and strength, the spirit of knowledge and godliness shall fill him; 3 the spirit of the fear of God. He shall not judge according to appearance, nor reprove according to report; 4 but he shall judge the cause of the lowly, and shall reprove theقوي of the earth: and he shall smite the earth with the word of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he destroy the ungodly one. 5 And he shall have his in a right with righteousness, and his sides clothed with truth. 6 And the wolf shall feed with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the young cow and the lion shall feed together; and a little child shall lead them. 7 And the ox and the bear shall feed together; and their young shall be together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. 8 And an infant shall put his hand on the holes of asps, and on the nest of young asps. 9 And they shall not hurt, nor shall they at all be able to destroy any one on my holy mountain, for the whole world is filled with the knowledge of the Lord, as much water covers the seas. 10 And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, and that shall arise to rule over the Gentiles; in him shall the Gentiles trust, and his rest shall be glorious. 11 And it shall be in that day, that the Lord shall again shew his hand, to be zealous for the remnant that is left of the people, which shall be left by the Assyrians, and that from Egypt, and from the country of Babylon, and from Ethiopia, and from the Elamites, and from the rising of the sun, and out of Arabia. 12 And he shall lift up a standard for the nations, and he shall gather the lost ones of Israel, and he shall gather the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth. 13 And the envy of Ephraim shall be taken away, and the enemies of Juda shall perish: Ephraim shall not envy Juda, and Juda shall not afflict Ephraim. 14 And they shall fly in the ships of the Philistines: they shall at the same time spoil the sea, and them that come from the east, and Idumes: and they shall lay their hands on Moab first; but the children of Ammon shall first obey them. 15 And the Lord shall make desolate the sea of Egypt; and he shall lay his hand on the river with a strong wind, and he shall smite the seven channels, so that men shall pass through it dry-shod. 16 And there shall be a passage for my people that is left in Egypt; and it shall be to Israel as the day when he came forth out of the land of Egypt. 17 And in that day thou shalt say, I will bless thee, O Lord; for thou wast angry with me, but thou hast turned aside thy wrath, and hast pitied me. 18 Behold, my God is my Saviour; I will trust in him, and will not be afraid: for the Lord is my glory and my praise, and is become my salvation. 19 Draw ye therefore water with joy out of the wells of salvation. 20 And in that day thou shalt say, Sing to the Lord, call aloud upon his name, proclaim his glorious deeds among the Gentiles; make mention that his name is exalted. Sing praise to the name of the Lord; for he has done great things; declare this in all the earth. Exalt and rejoice, ye that dwell in Sion: for the Holy One of Israel is exalted in the midst of her.

Lift up a standard on the mountain of the plain, exalt the voice to them, beckon with the hand, open the gates, ye rulers. I give command, and I bring them; giants are coming to fulfill my wrath, rejoicing at the time and insulting. A voice of many nations on the mountains, even like that of many nations; a voice of kings and nations gathered together: the Lord of hosts has given command to a war-like nation, to come from a land afar off, from the utmost foundation of heaven; the Lord and his warriors are coming to destroy all the world.

Howl ye, for the day of the Lord is near, and destruction from God shall arrive. Therefore every hand shall become powerless, and every soul of man shall be dismayed. The elders shall be troubled, and pangs shall seize them, as of a woman in travail: and they shall mourn one to another, and shall be amazed, and shall change their countenance like a flame. For behold! the day of the Lord is coming which cannot be escaped, a day of wrath and anger, to make the world desolate, and to destroy sinners out of it. For the stars of heaven, and Orion, and all the host of heaven, shall not give their light; and it shall be dark at sunrise, and the moon shall not give her light. And I will command evils for the whole world, and will visit their sins on the ungodly: and I will destroy the pride of transgressors, and will bring low the pride of the haughty. And they that are left shall be more precious than gold tried in the fire; and a man shall be more precious than the stone that is in Siphir. For the heavens shall be enwrapt, and the earth shall be shaken from her foundation, because of the fierce anger of the Lord of hosts, in the day in which his wrath shall come on. And they that are left shall be as a fleeing fawn, and as a strayed sheep, and there shall be none to gather them: so that a man shall turn back to his people, and a man shall flee to his own land. For whosoever shall be taken shall be overcome; and they that are gathered together shall fall by the sword. And they shall dash their children before their eyes; and they shall spoil their houses, and shall take their wives.

Behold, I will stir up against you the Medes, who do not regard silver, neither have they need of gold. They shall break the bows of the young men; and they shall have no mercy on your children; nor shall their eyes spare thy children. And Babylon, which is called glorious by the king of the Chaldeans, shall be as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah. It shall never be inhabited, neither shall any enter to the oracle of a town. 'Ye.mightate the oracle of Yahweh, that my eyes are on you, and I will bring judgment on you. Thus saith the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel: I am the Lord thy God, I will cause thee to return, and will restore thy tents as at the first; and will set up thy ruins as in the beginning. Thine iniquities shall be remembered no more; I will cast away thine graven images from thee; thou shalt no more worship the work of thine hands. I will make thee also a little help in the days to come: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt be saved, and shalt proclaim the name of the Lord. Blessed be the land of thy birth, the place where thou wast born, and the church which taught thee to know the Lord. It shall come to pass in those days that I will make a song for thee; I will create for thee a name that shall be remembered in all generations.

14 And he shall set up a standard for the nations, and shall gather the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the midst of the people.

15 As in the days of old, so shall the children of mercy be gathered; one man shall be gathered from the end of the earth to the other end of it.

16 And I will rebuke the heathen, and renew the nations; and they shall be planted in the land that I have given unto your fathers, and to your forefathers, from the days of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob.

17 And I will make them one nation, and they shall be strong and powerful; and I will set them over many nations, and I will give them for kings over all the earth.

18 And they shall obey my voice, and I will make them a covenant for an everlasting covenant with them; and I will put my law in their minds, and write it upon their hearts.

19 And they shall be my people, and I will be their God; and I will forgive their iniquities, and remember their sins no more."
thou hast destroyed my land, and hast slain my people: thou shalt not endure for ever, —thou an evil seed. 2 Prepare thy children to be slain for the sins of their father: that they arise not, and inherit the earth, nor fill the earth with wars. 3 And I will rise up against them, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will destroy their name, and remnant, and seed: thus saith the Lord. 4 And I will make the region of Babylon desert, so that hedgehogs shall dwell there, and it shall come to nothing: and I will make it a pit of clay for destruction. 5 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, As I have said, so it shall be: and as I have purposed, so the matter shall remain: 6 even to destroy the Assyrians upon my land, and upon my mountains: and they shall be for trampling; and their yoke shall be taken away from them, and their glory shall be taken away from their shoulders. 7 This is the purpose which the Lord has purposed upon the whole earth: and this the hand that is uplifted against all the nations. 8 For what the Hittites has purposed, who shall frustrate? and who shall turn back his uplifted hand? 9 In the year in which king Achaæ died this word came. 10 Rejoice not, all ye Philistines, because the yoke of him that smote you is broken: for out of the seed of the serpent shall come forth the young of serpents, and their young shall come forth flying serpents. 11 And the poor shall be fed by him, and poor men shall rest in peace: but he shall destroy thy seed with hunger, and shall destroy thy remnant. 12 Howl, ye gates of cities; let the cities be troubled and cry, even all the Philistines: for smoke is coming from the north, and there is no possibility of living. 13 And what shall the kings of the nations answer? That the Lord has founded Sion, and by him the poor of the people shall be saved.

The Word against the Land of Moab.

By night the land of Moab shall be destroyed; for by night the wall of the land of Moab shall be destroyed. 2 Grieve for yourselves; for even Debôn, where your altar is, shall be destroyed: thither shall ye go up to weep, over Nabôb of the land of Moab: howl ye: baldness shall be on every head, and all arms shall be girded. 3 Gird yourselves with sackcloth in her streets; and lament upon her roofs, and in her streets, and in her ways; howl all of you with weeping. 4 For Esôn and Eleaâ shall be heard to Jassâ: therefore the loins of the region of Moab cry aloud; her soul shall know. 5 The heart of the region of Moab cries within her to Segôr; for it is as a heifer of three years old: and on the ascent of Lûth they shall go up to thee weeping by the way of Arûm: she crieth, Destruction, and trembling. 6 The voice of Nômin shall be desolate, and the grass thereof shall fail: for there shall be no green grass. 7 Shall Moab even thus be delivered? for I will 8 Bas, and lift up an iniquity. Sing ye, O daughter of Moab, for Moab... is as far as the well of Elim. 9 And the water of Dimon shall be filled with blood: for I will bring Arameans upon Dimon, and I will take away the seed of Moab, and Arie, and the remnant of Adama.

10 Therefore will I weep as with the weeping of Jazer for the vine of Sefom: Sefom shall be planted, and he shall bring the Arabians upon the valley, and they shall take it. For the cry has reached the border of the region of Moab even of Amelech; and her border shall be as far as the well of Elim.

For the cry has reached the border of the region of Moab even of Amelech; and her border shall be as far as the well of Elim.

25 And the water of Dimon shall be filled with blood: for I will bring Arameans upon Dimon, and I will take away the seed of Moab, and Arie, and the remnant of Adama.
there shall no longer be a kingdom in Damascus, or a remnant of Syrians; for thou art no better than the children of Israel, even than their glory; thus saith the Lord of hosts. 4 There shall be in that day a failure of the glory of Jacob, and the riches of his glory shall be shaken. 5 And it shall be as it were the berries of an olive tree, two or three on the topmost bough, or as if four or five should be left on their branches; thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel.

7 In that day a man shall trust in him that made him, and his eyes shall have respect to the Holy One of Israel. 8 And they shall not at all trust in their altars, nor in the works of their hands, which their fingers made; and they shall not look to the trees, nor to their abominations.

9 In that day thy cities shall be desolate, as the Amorites and the Ewans deserted their, because of the children of Israel; and they shall be desolate. 10 Because thou hast forsaken God thy Saviour, and hast not been mindful of the Lord thy helper, therefore shall thou plant a false plant, and a false seed.

11 In the day wherein thou shalt plant thou shall be deceived; but if thou sow in the morning, the seed shall spring up for a crop in the day wherein thou shalt obtain an inheritance, and as a man's father, thou shalt obtain an inheritance for thy sons.

12 The multitude of many nations, as the swelling sea, so shall ye be confounded; and the force of many nations shall sound like water; many nations like much water, as when much water rushes violently; and they shall drive him away, and pursue him afar, as the dust of chaff, when men winnow before the wind, and as a storm whirling with the dust of the whirlwind.

13 Toward evening, and there shall be grief; before the morning, and he shall not be. This is the portion of them that spoiled you, and the inheritance to them that robbed you of your inheritance.

Woe to you, ye wings of the land of ships, beyond the rivers of Ethiopia. 14 He sends messengers by the sea, and paper letters on the water: for swift messengers shall go to a lofty nation, and to a strange and harsh people. Who is beyond it? a nation not looked for, and trodden down. 15 Now all the rivers of the land shall be inhabited as an inhabited country; their land shall be as when a signal is raised from a mountaintop; it shall be audible as the sound of a trumpet.

For thus said the Lord to me, There shall be security in my city, as the light of noonday heat, and it shall be as a cloud of dew in the day of harvest. 17 Before the reaping time, when the flower has been completely formed, and the signal is raised from a mountaintop, its flower and blossomed, then shall he take away the little clusters with pruning-hooks, and shall take away the small branches, and cut them off; and he shall leave them together to the birds of the sky, and to the wild beasts of the earth: and the fowls of the sky shall be gathered upon them, and all the beasts of the land shall come upon him. 7 In that time shall presents be brought to the Lord of hosts from a people afflicted and peeled, and from a people great from henceforth and for ever; a nation hoping and doing that Lord is in a part of a river of his land, to the place where is the name of the Lord of hosts, the mount Sion.

The Vision of Egypt.

Behold, the Lord sits on a swift cloud, and shall come to Egypt: and the idols of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and their heart shall faint within them. 2 And the Egyptians shall be stirred up against the Egyptians: and a man shall fight against his brother, and a man against his neighbour, city against city, and \* law against law. 3 And the great sea shall be troubled within them; and I will frustrate their counsel: and they shall enquire of their gods, and their images that speak out of the earth, and 7 them that have in them a divining spirit. 4 And I will deliver Egypt into the hands of men, of cruel lords; and cruel kings shall rule over them: thus saith the Lord of hosts. 5 And the Egyptians shall drink the water that is by the sea, but the river shall fail, and be dried up. 6 And the streams shall fail, and the canals of the river; and every reservoir of water shall be dried up, in every marsh also of reed and paperus. 7 And all the green herbage round about the river, and everything sown by the side of the river, shall be blasted with the wind and dried up. 8 And the fishermen shall groan, and all that cast a hook into the river shall groan; they also that cast nets, and the anglers shall mourn. 9 And shame shall come upon them that work fine flax, and them that 5 make fine linen. 10 And they that work at them shall be in pain, and all that make beer shall be grieved, and be pained in their souls. 11 And the princes of Tanis shall be fools: as for the king's wise counsellors, their counsel shall be turned into folly: how will ye say to the king, We are sons of wise men, sons of ancient kings? 12 Where are now thy wise men? and let them declare to thee, and say, What has the Lord of hosts purposed upon Egypt? 13 The princes of Tanis have failed, and the princes of Memphis are lifted up with pride, and they shall cause Egypt to wander by tribes. 14 For the Lord has prepared for them a spirit of error, and they have caused Egypt to err in all their works, as one staggerer who is drunken and vomits also. 15 And there shall be no work to the Egyptians, which shall make head or tail, or beginning or end.

16 But in that day the Egyptians shall be as women, in fear and in trembling because of the hand of the Lord of hosts, which he shall bring upon them. 17 And the land of the Jews shall be for a terror to the Egyptians:
The Vision of the Desert.

As though a whirlwind should pass through the desert, coming from a desert, even from such a land, so a fearful and a grievous vision was declared to me: he that is treacherous deals treacherously, the transgressor transgresses. The Elamites are upon me, and the ambassadors of the Persians come against me: now will I groan and comfort myself. Therefore are my loins filled with feebleness, and pangs have seized me as a travelling woman: I dealt wrongfully that I might not hear; I hasted

The Vision of Idumea.
11 Call to me out of Seir; guard ye the bulwarks. 12 I watch in the morning and the night: if thou wouldst enquire, enquire, and dwell by me. 13 Thou mayest lodge in the forest in the evening, or in the way of Dedan.
14 Ye that dwell in the country of Theeman, bring water to meet him that is thirsty: meet the fugitives with bread, because of the multitude of the slain, and because of the multitude of them that lose their way, and because of the multitude of swords, and because of the multitude of bent bows, and because of the multitude of them that have fallen in war. 15 For thus said the Lord to me, Yet a year, as the year of an hireling, and the glory of the sons of Kedar shall fail: and the remnant of the strong bows of the sons of Kedar shall be small: for the Lord God of Israel has spoken it.

The Word of the Valley of Sion.
What has happened to thee, that now ye are all gone up to the housetops which help you not? The city is filled with shouting men, thy shout is not heard with swords, nor are thy dead those who have died in battle. 3 All thy princes have fled, and thy captives are tightly bound, and the mighty men in thee have fled far away. 4 Therefore I said, Let me alone, I will weep bitterly: labour not to comfort me for the breach of the daughter of my people. 5 For it is a day of trouble and of destruction, and of treading down, and there is perplexity sent from the Lord of hosts: they wander in the valley of Sion; they wander from the least to the greatest on the mountains. 6 And the Elamites took their quivers, and there were men mounted on horses, and there was a gathering for battle. 7 And it shall be that thy choice valleys shall be filled with chariots, and horsemen shall block up thy gates. 8 And they shall uncover the gates of Juda, and they shall look in that day on the choice houses of the city. 9 And they shall uncover the secret places of the houses of the citadel of David:

and they saw that they were many, and that one had turned the water of the old pool into the city; and that they had pulled down the houses of Jerusalem, to fortify the wall of the city. And ye procured to yourselves water between the two walls within the ancient pool: but ye looked not to him that made it from the beginning, and regarded not him that created it.

And the Lord, the Lord of hosts, called in that day for weeping, and for mourning, and for nakedness, and for baldness, and for girding with sackcloth; but they were in joy and gladness, slaying calves, and killing sheep, so as to eat flesh, and drink wine; saying, Let us eat and drink; for to-morrow we die. And these things are revealed in the ears of the Lord of hosts: for this sin shall not be forgiven you, until ye die.

Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Go into the chamber, to Somnas the steward, and say to him, Why art thou here? and what hast thou to do here, that thou hast here hewn thyself a sepulchre, and madest thyself a sepulchre on high, and hast graven for thyself a dwelling in the rock?

Behold now, the Lord of hosts casteth forth and will utterly destroy such a man, and will take away thy robe and thy glory of thine eyes, and will cast thee into a great and unmeasured land, and there thou shalt die: and he will bring thy fair chariot to shame, and the house of thy prince to be trodden down.

And, thou shalt be removed from thy stewardship, and from thy place.

And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will call my servant Eliakim the son of Hilkiah; and I will put him on thy robe, and I will grant him thy crown with power, and I will give thy stewardship into his hands: and he shall be as a father to them that dwell in Jerusalem, and to them that dwell in Judah.

And I will give him the glory of David; and he shall rule, and there shall be none to speak against him, and I will give him the key of the house of David upon his shoulder; and he shall open, and there shall be none to shut; and he shall shut, and there shall be none to open.

And I will make him a ruler in a sure place, and he shall be for a glorious throne of his father's house. And every one that is glorious in the house of his father shall trust in him, from the least to the greatest; and they shall depend upon him in that day.

Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The man that is fastened in the sure place shall be removed and taken away, and shall fall; and the glory that is upon him shall be utterly destroyed: for the Lord has spoken it.

The Word concerning Tyre.

Howl, ye ships of Carthage; for she has perished, and men no longer arrive from the land of the Citians: she is led captive. To whom are the dwellers in the island become like, the merchants of Phenice, passing over the sea? In great waters, a generation of merchants? as when the harvest is gathered in, so are these traders gathered in.
with the nations. 4 Be ashamed, O Sidon; the sea has said, yea, the strength of the sea has said, I have not travailed, nor brought forth, nor haye I brought up young men, nor reared virgins. 5 Moreover when it shall be heard in Egypt, sorrow shall seize them for Tyre. 6 Depart ye to Carthage; bow, ye shall dwell in this island. 7 Was not this thy pride from the beginning, before she was given up? 8 Who has devised this counsel against Tyre? Is she inferior? or has she no strength? her merchants were the glorious princes of the earth.

9 The Lord of hosts has purposed to bring down all the pride of the glorious ones, and to disgrace every glorious thing on the earth. 10 Till thy land; for ships no more come out of Carthage. 11 And thy hand prevails no more by sea, which troubled kings: the Lord of hosts has given a command concerning Chanaan, to destroy the strength thereof. 12 And men shall say, Ye shall no longer at all continue this island, and Tyre shall be given to the daughter of Sidon: and if thou depart to the land of the Chaldeans, this also is laid waste by the Assyrians, for her wall is fallen. 13 Howl, ye ships of Carthage: for your strong hold is destroyed.

And it shall come to pass in that day, that Tyre shall be left seventy years, as the time of a king: and it shall come to pass after seventy years, Tyre shall be as the song of a harlot.

16 Take a harp, go about, 0 city, thou harlot that hast been forgotten; play well on the harp, sing many songs, that thou mayest be remembered. 17 And it shall come to pass after the seventy years, that God will visit Tyre, and she shall be again restored to her primitive state, and she shall be a mart for all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth. 18 And her trade and her gain shall be holiness to the Lord: it shall not be gathered for them, but for those that dwell before the Lord, even all her trade, to eat and drink and be filled, and for a covenant and a memorial before the Lord.

Behold, the Lord is about to lay waste the world, and will make it desolate, and will lay bare the surface of it, and scatter them that dwell therein. 2 And the people shall be as the priest, and the servant as the lord, and the maid as the mistress; the buyer shall be as the seller, the lender as the borrower, and the debtor as his creditor. 3 The earth shall be completely laid waste, and the earth shall be utterly spoiled: for the mouth of the Lord has spoken these things. 4 The earth mourns, and the world is ruined, the lofty ones of the earth are mourning. 5 And she has sinned by reason of her inhabitants; because they have transgressed the law, and changed the ordinances, even the everlasting covenant. 6 Therefore a curse shall consume the earth, because the inhabitants thereof have sinned; therefore the dwellers in the earth shall be poor, and few men shall be left. 7 The wine shall mourn, the vine shall mourn, all the merry-hearted shall sigh. The mirth of timbrels has ceased, the sound of the harp has ceased. They are ashamed, they have not drunk wine; strong drink has become bitter to them that drink it. All the city has become desolate: one shall shut his house so that none shall enter. 11 There is a howling for the wine everywhere; all the mirth of the land is perished, all the mirth of the land has departed. 12 And cities shall be left desolate, and houses being left shall fall to ruin. 13 All this shall be in the land in the midst of the nations, as if one should strip an olive tree, so shall they strip them; but when the vintage is done, 14 these shall cry aloud; and they that are left on the land shall rejoice together in the glory of the Lord: the water of the sea shall be troubled. 15 Therefore shall the glory of the Lord be in the isles of the sea; the name of the Lord shall be glorious. 16 O Lord God of Israel, from the ends of the earth we have heard wonderful things, and our heart rejoiced: but they which say, Woe to the despisers, despise the law. 17 Fear, and a pit, and a snare, are upon you that dwell on the earth. 18 And it shall come to pass, that he that flees from the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that comes up out of the pit shall be caught by the snare: for windows have been opened in heaven, and the foundations of the earth shall be shaken, 19 the earth shall be utterly confounded, and the earth shall be completely perplexed. 20 It reals as a drunkard and one oppressed with wine, and the earth shall be shaken as a storehouse of fruits; for iniquity has prevailed upon it, and it shall fall, and shall not be able to rise. 21 And God shall bring his hand upon the host of heaven, and upon the kings of the earth. 22 And they shall gather the multitude thereof into prisons, and they shall shut them into a strong hold: after many generations they shall be visited. 23 And the brick shall decay, and the wall shall fall; for the hammer of the prudent shall be turned to ransom the poor, and the needy in Sion, and out of Jerusalem, and shall be glorified before his elders. 24 O Lord God, I will glorify thee, I will sing to thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things, even an ancient and faithful one. So be it. 25 For thou hast made cities a heap, even cities made strong that their foundations should not fall: the city of ungodly men shall not be built for ever. 26 Therefore shall the poor people bless thee, and cities of injured men shall bless thee. For thou hast been a helper to every lowly city, and a shelter to them that were disheartened by reason of poverty: thou shalt deliver them from wicked men; thou hast been a shelter of them that they should not thirst, and a refreshing air to injured men.

We were as faint-hearted men thirsting in Sion, by reason of ungodly men to whom thou didst deliver us. 6 And the Lord of hosts shall make a feast for all the nations: on this mount they shall drink gladness, they shall drink wine: 7 they shall dance themselves with ointment in this mountain. Impart thou all these things to the nations; for

They shall be astonished, and shall see the path of the saints: for thou shalt be exalted for ever. 8 For, lo, the lions doth each man the paths of the valley, and the famine shall be their meat. 9 20 And they shall roar against them in that day like lions: for they shall cry against them as they roared. 21 And they shall shake the mountains, and fill the valleys, and break them together, and the stones shall cover the mountains. 22 And they shall shake the earth for fear of them, and the mountains shall quake in the presence of them. 23 They shall sit every one upon the high hill, and upon the mountain tops, and all the sinners of the nations shall howl. 24 For, lo, the Lord will come forth as a strong man to visit vengeance; and his sword shall be against them that are against him. 25 For his slothfulness shall be according to the strangling of a child, and as unoiled flint shall he stir up anger against the nations. D 26 Therefore will I show thy greatness among the heathen, and will set thy name as terrible, and all the kingdoms of the earth shall know that I the Lord am he that buildeth the earth. 27 20 And the heathen shall know that I the Lord, that I have built the earth, and created it to be a inhabitant. For this be cause clipstu be the Lord God of hosts: 28 for those who are mighty be called to my holy mountain, and all the heathen shall walk in thy strength. 29 20 And they shall bring all your brethren, 2 the heathen, unto thy name, and to thy holy temple shall they bring the glory of the nations. 30 And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall send them a messenger that shall not return.

11 Lord, for He has taken away every tear from every face. He has taken away the reproach of his people from all the earth: for the mouth of the Lord has spoken it. And in that day they shall say, Behold our God in whom we have trusted, and he shall save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, and we have exulted, and will rejoice in our salvation.

12 God will give rest on this mountain, and the country of Moab shall be trodden down, and they shall tread upon the floor with wagons.

13 And he shall spread forth his hands, even as he also brings down man to destroy him:
and he shall bring low his pride in regard to the thing on which he has laid his hands.

14 And he shall bring down the height of the refuge of the wall, and it shall come down even to the ground.

In that day they shall sing this song in the land of Judea: Behold a strong city; and he shall make salvation its wall and bulwark. 2 Open ye the gates, let the nation enter that keeps righteousness, and keeps truth, supporting truth, and keeping peace: for on thee, O Lord, they have tested with confidence for ever, the great, the eternal, whom none can know or brought down them that dwell on high thou shalt cast down strong cities, and bring them to the ground. 6 And the feet of the meek and lowly shall trample them.

7 The way of the godly is made straight:
the way of the godly is also prepared. 3 For the way of the Lord is judgment: we have hoped in thy name, and on the remembrance of thee, 8 which our soul longs for: my spirit seeks thee very early in the morning.
O Lord, for thy commandments are a light on the earth: learn righteousness, ye that dwell upon the earth. 9 For the ungodly one is put down: no one who will not learn righteousness on the earth, shall be able to do the truth: but he shall be taken away, that he see not the glory of the Lord.

10 O Lord, thine arm is exalted, yet they knew it not: but when they know they shall be ashamed: jealousy shall seize upon an untaught nation, and now fire shall devour the adversaries. 11 O Lord our God, give us peace: for thou hast rendered to us all things. 12 O Lord our God, take possession of us: O Lord, we know not any other beside thee: we name thy name.

13 But the dead shall not see life, neither shall physicians by any means raise them up: therefore thou hast brought wrath upon them, and slain them, and hast taken away every male of them. Bring more evils upon the Lord, and bring more evils on the glorious ones of the earth.

14 Lord, in affliction I remembered thee;
y thy chastening was to us with small afflic-tion. 15 And as a woman in travail draws nigh to be delivered, and cries out in her pain; so have we been to thy beloved.

16 We have brought, O Lord, because of thy fear, and have been in pain, and have brought forth the breath of thy salvation, which we have wrought upon the earth:
we shall not fail, but all that dwell upon the land shall fall. 9 The dead shall rise, and they that are in the tombs shall be raised, and they that are in the earth shall rejoice: for the dew from thee is healing to them: but the land of the ungodly shall perish. 10 The people, enter into thy closest, shut thy door, hide thyself for a little season, until the anger of the Lord have passed away. 11 For, behold, the Lord is bringing wrath from his holy place upon the dwellers on the earth: the earth also shall disclose her blood, and shall not cover her slain.

In that day God shall bring his holy and great and strong sword upon the dragon, even the serpent that flees, upon the dragon, the crooked serpent: he shall destroy the dragon. 2 In that day there shall be a fair vineyard, and a desire to commence a song concerning it. 3 I am a strong city, a city in a siege: in vain shall I water it; for it shall be taken by night, and by day the wall shall fall. 4 There is no woman that has not taken hold of it; who will set me to watch stubble in the field? because of this enemy I have set her aside: therefore on this account the Lord has done all that he appointed. 5 I am burnt up; they that dwell in the cities let us make peace, they that are coming are the children of Jacob. Israel shall bud and blossom, and the world shall be filled with his fruit.

Shall he himself be thus smitten, even as he smote? and as he slew, shall he be thus slain? 6 Fighting and reproaching he will dismiss them; didst thou not meditate with a harsh spirit, to slay them with a wrathful spirit? 7 Therefore shall the iniquity of Jacob be taken away; and this is his blessing, when I shall have taken away his sin; when they have broken to pieces all the stones of the altars as fine dust, and cast them into the dust of the earth, and their idols shall be cut off as a thick grass after off. 8 The flock that dwelt there shall be left, as a desert felled; and the ground shall be for a long time for pasture, and there shall flocks lie down to rest. 9 And after a time there shall be in it no green thing because of the grass being parched. Come hither, ye women that come up from a sight; for it is a people of no understanding; therefore he that made them shall have no pity upon them, and he that formed them shall have no mercy upon them.

And it shall come to pass in that day God shall fence men off from the channel of the river as far as Rhinoceros: but do ye gather one by one the children of Israel. 11 And it shall come to pass in that day, that they shall blow the great trumpet, and the lost ones in the land of the Assyrians shall come, and the lost ones in Egypt, and shall worship the Lord on the holy mountain in Jerusalem.

Woe to the crown of pride, the hirelings of Ephraim, the flower that has fallen from the glory of the top of the fertile mountain, they that are drunken without wine. 2 Be hold, the anger of the Lord is strong and
The crown of pride, the hirelings of Ephraim, shall be beaten down with the hands and with the feet. And the fading flower of the glorious hope on the top of the high mountain shall be as the early fig; he that sees it, before he takes it into his hand, will desire to swallow it down.

In that day the Lord of hosts shall be the crown of hope, the woven crown of glory, to the remnant of the people. They shall be left in the spirit of judgment for judgment, and for the strength of them that hinder slaying. For these have trespassed through wine; they have erred through strong drink: the priest and the prophet are mad through strong drink, they are swallowed up by reason of wine, they have staggered through drunkenness; they have erred: this is their vision. A curse shall devour this counsel, for this is their counsel for the sake of covetousness. To whom have we reported evils? and to whom have we reported a message? even to those that are weaned from milk, who are drawn from the breast. Expectation on affliction, hope upon hope: yet a little, and yet a little, by reason of the contemptuous words of the lips, by means of another language: for they shall speak to this people, saying to them, This is the rest to him that is hungry, and this is the calamity but they would not hear.

Therefore the oracle of God shall be to them affliction, and to them affliction, hope on hope, yet a little, and yet a little, that they may go and fall backward; and they shall be crushed and shall be in danger, and shall be taken.

Therefore hear ye the word of the Lord, ye afflicted men, and ye princes of this people that is in Jerusalem. Because ye have said, We have made a covenant with Hades, and agreements with death; if the rushing storm should pass, it shall not come upon us; we have hankered for falsehood our hope, and by falsehood shall we be protected: therefore thus saith the Lord, even the Lord.

Behold, I lay for the foundations of Sion a costly stone, a choice, a corner-stone, a precious stone, for its foundations; and he that believes on him shall by no means be ashamed. And I will cause judgment to be for hope, and my compassion shall be for just measures, and ye that trust vainly in falsehood shall fall: for the storm shall by no means pass from you, except it also take away your covenant of灭亡. And they that trust in Hades shall by no means stand: if the rushing storm should come upon you, ye shall be beaten down by it. Whenever it shall pass by, it shall take you; morning by morning it shall pass by in the day, and in the night there shall be an evil hope.

Learn to hear, ye that are distressed; we cannot fight, but we are ourselves too weak for you to be gathered. The Lord shall rise up as a mountain of ungodly men, and shall be in the valley of Gathsb; he shall severe, as descending hail where there is no shelter, violently descending; as a great body of water sweeping away the soil, he shall make rest for the land.
perform his works with wrath, even a work of bitterness, and his wrath shall deal strangely, and his destruction shall be strange. Therefore do not ye rejoice, neither let your hands be made strong; for I have heard of works finished and cut short by the Lord of hosts, which he will execute upon all the earth.

Hearken, and hear my voice; attend, and hear my words. Will the ploughman plough all the day? or will he prepare the seed beforehand, before he tills the ground? Does he not, when he has levelled the surface thereof, then sow the small black poppy, or cumin, and afterward sow wheat, and barley, and millet, and bread-corn on borders? So thou shalt be chastened by the judgment of thy God, and shalt rejoice. For the black poppy is not cleansed with harsh treatment, nor will a waggon-wheel pass over the cumin; but the black poppy is threshed with a rod, and the cumin shall be eaten with bread; for I will not be wroth with you for ever, neither shall the voice of my anger crush you. And these signs came forth from the Lord of hosts. Take counsel, exult vain comfort.

Alas for the city Ariel, which David besieged. Gather ye fruits year by year, eat ye at pleasant times; for I will grievously afflict Ariel; and her strength and her wealth shall be mine. And I will compass thee about like David, and will raise a mound about thee, and set up towers round thee. And thy words shall be brought down to the earth, and thy words shall sink down to the earth, Thy voice shall be as the voice that thine hearer is as the voice of one that喝eth water without aught; or as the voice of one that drinketh water in the deserts; and the voice shall be lowered to the ground. But the wealth of the ungodly shall be as dust from a wheel, and the multitude of them that oppress thee as flying chaff, and it shall be suddenly as a moment from the Lord of hosts: for there shall be a visitation with trouble, and earth shall be divided; and the haughty shall be as the grasshopper. And the sound of noise, and rushing tempest, and devouring flame of fire. And the wealth of all the nations together, as many as have fought against Ariel, and all they that war against Jerusalem, and all who are gathered against her, and they that distress her, shall be as one that dreams in sleep by night. And as men drink and are in sleep, and when they have arisen, the dream is vain; and as a thirsty man dreams as if he drank, and having arisen is still thirsty, and his soul has desired in vain: so shall be the wealth of all the nations, as many as have fought against the mount Zion.

Faint ye, and be amazed, and be overpowered, not with strong drink nor with wine. For the Lord has made you to drink a spirit of deep sleep; and he shall close their eyes, and the eyes of their prophets and of their rulers, who see secret things. And all these things shall be to you as the words of this sealed book, which, if they shall give to a learned man, saying, Read this, he shall then say, I cannot read it, for it is sealed. And this book shall be given into the hands of a man that is met with the ungodly as a thorn bush in their midst, and shall pluck them.

unlearned, and one shall say to him, Read this; and he shall say, I am not learned.

23 And the Lord has said, This people draw nigh to me with their mouth, and they honour me with their lips, but their heart is far from me: but in vain do they worship me, teaching the commandments and doctrines of men. Therefore behold I will proceed to remove this people, and I will remove them: and I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will hide the understanding of the prudent. 24 Woe to them that deepen their counsel, and not by the Lord. Woe to them that take secret counsel, and works are in darkness, and they say, Who has seen us? and who shall know us, or what we do? 25 Shall ye not be counted as clay of the potter? 26 Shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Thou didst not form me? or the work to the maker, Thou hast not made me wisely? 27 Is it not yet a little while, and Libanus shall be as the mountain of Carmel, and Parnassus, and the high mountains of Ephraim, and the height of Carmel? 28 And in that day the deaf shall hear the words of the book, and the poor shall rejoice with joy because of the Lord, and they that had no hope among men shall be filled with joy. 29 The lawless man has come to nought, and the proud man has perished, and they that transgress mischievously have been utterly destroyed: 30 and they that cause men to sin by a word: and men shall make all that reprove in the gates an offence, because they have unjustly turned aside the righteous.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning the house of Jacob, whom he set apart from Abraham, Jacob shall not now be ashamed, neither shall he now change countenance. 23 But when their children shall have seen my works, they shall sanctify my name for my sake, and they shall sanctify the Holy One of Jacob, and shall fear the God of Israel. 24 And they that err in spirit shall know understanding, and the murmurers shall learn obedience, and the stammerers shall learn to speak peaceable words.

Woe to the apostate children, saith the Lord: ye have framed counsel, not by me, and covenants not by my Spirit, to add sins to sins: even they that proceed to go down into Egypt, but they have not enquired of me, that they might be helped by Pharao, and protected by the Egyptians. For the protection of the Lord shall be reprobate to you a disgrace, and there shall be a reproach to them that trust in Egypt. For there are princes in Tanes, evil messengers. In vain shall they labour in seeking to a people, which shall not profit them for help, but shall be for a shame and reproach.

6 THE VISION OF THE QUADRUPEDS IN THE DESERT.

In affliction and distress, where are the lion and lion's whelp, thence come also asps, and the young of flying asps, there shall they be who bore their wealth on asses and camels to a nation which shall not profit them. 7 The Egyptians shall help you utterly in vain: tell them, This your consolation is vain.

8 Now then sit down and write these words on a tablet, and in a book; for these things shall be for many long days, and even for ever. 9 For the people is disobedient, false children, who would not hear the law of God, who would not say to the prophets, Report not to us; and to them that see visions, Speak them not to us, but speak and report to us another error; 10 and turn us aside from this way; remove from us this path, and remove from us the oracle of Israel.

11 Therefore thus saith the Holy One of Israel, Because ye have refused to obey these words, and have trusted in falsehood; and because thou hast murmured, and been confident in this respect: 12 therefore shall this sin be to you as a wall suddenly falling when a strong city has been taken, of which the fall is very near at hand. 13 And all shall be as the breaking of an earthen vessel, as small fragments of a pitcher, so that thou shalt not find among them a sherd, with which thou mightest take up fire, and with which thou shouldst draw a little water.

14 Thus saith the Lord, the Holy Lord of Israel. When thou shalt turn and mourn, then thou shalt be saved; and thou shalt know where thou wast, when thou didst trust in vanities: then thy strength became vain, yet ye would not hearken: 15 but ye said, We will fly upon horses; therefore shall ye flee: and, We will be aided by swift riders: therefore shall they that pursue you be swift. 16 A thousand shall flee because of the voice of one, and many shall flee on account of the voice of five; until ye be left as a signal-post upon a mountain, and as one bearing an ensign upon a hill.

17 And the Lord will again wait, that he may pity you, and will therefor be exalted that he may have mercy upon you: because the Lord your God is a judge: blessed are they that trust, and stay themselves upon him.

18 For the holy people shall dwell in Sion: and whereas Jerusalem has 5 wept bitterly, saying, Pity me: he shall pity thee: when he perceived the voice of thy cry, he hearkened to thee. 19 And though the Lord shall give you the bread of affliction and scant water, yet they that cause thee to err shall no more at all draw nigh to thee; for thine eyes shall see those that cause thee to err. 20 And thine ears shall hear the words of them that went after thee to lead thee astray, who say, This is the way, let us walk in it, whether to the right or to the left. 21 And thou shalt pollute the plated idols, and thou shalt grind to powder the gilt ones, and shall scatter them as the water of a removed woman, and thou shalt thrust them forth as dung. 22 Then shall there be rain to the seed of thy land; and the bread of the fruit of thy land shall be plenteous and rich: and thy cattle shall feed in that day in a fertile and spacious place.

Behold, the name of the Lord comes after a long time, burning wrath; the word of his lips is with glory, a word full of anger, and the anger of his wrath shall devour as fire. And his breath, as rushing water in a valley, shall reach as far as the neck, and be divided, to confound the nations for their vain error: error also shall pursue them, and overtake them. Must ye always rejoice, and go into my holy places continually, as they that keep a feast? and must ye go with a pipe, as those that rejoice, into the mountain of the Lord, to the God of Israel? And the Lord shall make his glorious voice to be heard, and the wrath of his arm, to make a display with wrath and anger and the fiery flame of devouring, and his wrath shall be as waster, and violent hail. For by the voice of the Lord the Assyrians shall be overcome, even by the stroke wherewith he shall smite them. And it shall happen to him from every side, that they from whom their hope of assistance was, in which they trusted, themselves shall stand against him in turn with drums and with harp. For thou shalt be required before thy time: has it been prepared for thee also to reign? Nay, God has prepared for thee a deep trench, wood piled, fire and much wood: the wrath of the Lord shall be as a trench kindled with sulphur.

Woe to them that go down to Egypt for help, who trust in horses and chariots, for they are senseless, and are in blindness; and are senseless, and are in blindness. And the Assyrians shall be overthrown, and the sword shall lick the earth.
sword of a mean man shall devour him; neither shall he flee from the face of the sword: but the young men shall be overthrown: 9 for they shall be compassed with rocks as with a trench, and shall be wounded; and he that flees shall be taken. Thus saith the Lord, as he that has a seed in Sion, and household friends in Jerusalem.

5 For, behold, a righteous king shall reign, and princes shall govern with judgment. 6.5 And a man shall hide his words, and be hidden, as from rushing water, and shall appear in Sion as a rushing river, glorious in a thirsty land. 7 And they shall no more make trust in men, but they shall incline their ears to hear. 8 And the heart of the weak ones shall attend to hear, and the stammering tongues shall soon learn to speak peace. 9 And they shall no more at all tell a fool to rule, and thy servants shall no more at all say, Be silent. 10 For the fool shall speak foolishness, and his heart shall meditate vanity, and to perform lawless deeds and to speak error against the Lord, to scatter hungry souls, and he will cause the thirsty souls to be empty. 11 For the counsel of the wicked will devise iniquity, to destroy the poor with unjust words, and ruin the cause of the poor in judgment. 12 But the godly have devised wise measures, and this counsel shall stand.

9 Rise up, ye rich women, and hear my voice; ye confident daughters, hearken to my words. 10 Remember for a full year in pain, yet with hope; the vintage has been cut off, it has ceased, it shall by no means come again. Be amazed, be pained, ye confident ones: strip you, bare yourselves, gird your loins; 11 and beat on your breasts, because of the pleasant field, and the fruit of the vine. 12 As for the land of my people, the thorn and grass shall come upon it, and joy shall be removed from every house. 13 As for the rich city, the houses are deserted, the wealth of the city, and the pleasant houses: and the villages shall be coves for ever, the joy of wild asses, shepherds' pastures; 14 until the Spirit shall come upon you from on high, and Carmel shall be desert, and Carmel shall be counted for a forest. 15 Then judgment shall abide in the wilderness, and righteousness shall dwell in Carmel. 16 And the works of righteousness shall be peace; and righteousness shall ensure rest, and the righteous shall be confident for ever. 17 And his people shall inhabit a city of peace, and dwell in it in confidence, and they shall rest with wealth. 18 And if the hail should come down, it shall not come upon you; and the swell of the waves in the forests shall be in confidence, as those in the plain country. Blessed are they that sow by every water, where the ox and ass tread.

Woe to them that afflict you; but no one makes you miserable: and he that deals perfidiously with you does not deal perfidiously: thereby that deal perfidiously shall be taken and given up, and as a moth on a garment, so shall they be spoiled.

Lord, have mercy upon us: for we have trusted in thee: the seed of the rebellious is gone to destruction, but our deliverance was in a time of affliction. By reason of the terrible sound the nations were dismayed for fear of thee, and the heathen were scattered.

And now shall the spoils of your small and great be gathered: as if one should gather locusts, so shall they mock you. The God who dwells on high is holy: Sion is filled with judgment and righteousness.

They shall be delivered up to the law: our salvation is near: there are wisdom and knowledge and piety toward the Lord; these are the treasures of righteousness.

Behold now, these shall be terrified with fear of you: those whom ye feared shall cry out because of you: messengers shall be sent, bitterly weeping, entreating for peace.

For the ways of these shall be made desolate: the terror of the nations has been made to cease, and the covenant with these is taken away, and ye shall by no means deem them men. The land mourns; Libanus is ashamed: Saron is become marshes; Galilee shall be laid bare, and Chorann.

Now will I arise, saith the Lord, now will I be glorified: now will I be exalted.

Now shall ye see, now shall ye perceive; the strength of your breath shall be vain; fire shall devour you. And the nations shall be burnt up; as a thorn in the field cast out and burnt up.

They that are afar off shall hear what I have done; they that draw nigh shall know my strength. The sinners in Sion have departed; trembling shall seize the ungodly. Who will tell you that a fire is kindled? Who will tell you of the eternal place?

He that walks in righteousness, speaking rightly, hating transgression and iniquity, and shaking his hands from gifts, stopping his ears that he should not hear the judgment of blood, shutting his eyes that he should not see injustice; he shall dwell in a high place of the rock; bread shall be given him, and his water shall be sure.

Ye shall see a king with glory: your eyes shall behold a land from afar. Your soul shall meditate: where are the scribes? where are the counsellors, where is he that numbers them that are growing up, even the small and great people? with whom he took not counsel, neither did he understand a people of deep speech, so that a despised people should not hear, and there is no understanding to him that hears.

Behold the city Sion, our refuge: thine eyes shall behold Jerusalem, a rich city, tabernacles which shall not be shaken, neither shall the pins of her tabernacle be moved for ever, neither shall her cords be at all broken: for the name of the Lord is great to you: ye shall have a place, even rivers and wide and spacious channels: thou shalt not go this way, neither a vessel with oars go thereby. For my God is great: the Lord our judge shall not pass by: the Lord is our prince, the Lord is our king, the Lord, he shall save us.

Thy cords are broken, for they had no strength: thy mast has given way, it shall not spread the sails, it shall not bear a signal, until it be given up for plunder; therefore shall many lame men take spoil.
34 And the people dwelling among them shall by no means say, I am in pain: for their sin shall be forgiven them.

Draw near, ye nations, and hearken: let the earth hear, and they that are in it: the world, and the people that are therein.

For the wrath of the Lord is upon all nations, and his anger upon the number of them, to destroy them, and give them up to slaughter. And their slain shall be cast forth, and their corpses; and their ill savour shall come up, and the mountains shall be made wet with their blood. And all the powers of the heavens shall melt, and the sky shall be rolled up like a scroll; and all the stars shall fall like leaves from a vine, and as leaves fall from a fig-tree.

My sword has been made drunk in heaven: behold, it shall come down upon Idumen, and with judgment upon the people doomed to destruction.

The sword of the Lord is filled with blood, it is glutted with fat, with the blood of goats and lambs, and with the fat of goats and rams: for the Lord has a sacrifice in Bozor, and a great slaughter in Idumen. And the mighty ones shall fall with them, and the rams and the bulls; and the land shall be y soaked with blood, and shall be filled with their fat.

For it is the day of the judgment of the Lord, and the year of the recompence of Sion in judgment. And her valleys shall be turned into pitch, and her land into sulphur; and her land shall be as pitch burning night and day: and it shall never be quenched, and her smoke shall go up: it shall be made desolate throughout her generations, and for a long time birds and hedgehogs, and ibises and ravens shall dwell in it: and the burning line of desolation shall be cast over it, and satyrs shall dwell in it. Her princes shall be no more, for her kings and her great men shall be destroyed.

And thorns shall spring up in their cities, and in her strong holds: and they shall be habitations of 5 monsters, and a court for ostriches. And devils shall meet with satyrs, and they shall cry one to the other: there shall satyrs rest, having found for themselves a place of rest. There has the hedgehog made its nest, and the earth has safely preserved its young: there have the deer met, and seen one another's faces. They passed, a number, and not one of them perished: they sought not one another; for the Lord commanded them, and his Spirit gathered them. And he shall cast lots for them, and his hand has portioned out their pasture, saying, Ye shall inherit the land for ever: they shall rest on it through all generations.

Be glad, thou thirsty desert: let the wilderness exult, and flower as the lily. And the desert places of Jordan shall blossom and rejoice: the glory of Libanus has been given to it, and the honour of Carmel; and hearted; be strong, fear not; behold, our God renders judgment, and he will render it; he will come and save us. 4 Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall hear. 5 Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the stammerers shall speak plainly; 6 Comfort thou the poor in the desert, and a channel of water in a thirsty land. 7 And the dry land shall become pools, and a fountain of water shall be poured into the thirsty land; there shall there be a joy of birds, ready habitations and marshes. 8 There shall be there a pure way, and it shall be called a holy way; and there shall not pass by there an unclean person, neither shall there be there an unclean way; but the dispersed shall walk on it, and they shall not go astray. 9 And there shall be no lion there, neither shall any evil beast go up upon it, nor at all be found there; but the redeemed and gathered upon the Lord's behalf, shall walk in it, and shall rest and be satisfied, with joy, peace and everlasting joy shall be over their head; for on their head shall be praise and exultation, and joy shall take possession of them: sorrow and pain, and groaning have fled away.

Now it came to pass in the fourteenth year of the reign of Ezekins, that Senna-cherim, king of the Assyrians, came up against the strong cities of Judah, and took them. 2 And the king of the Assyrians sent Rabsaces out of Laches to Jerusalem to king Ezekias with a large force: and he stood y by the conduit of the upper pool in the way of the fuller's field. 3 And there went forth to him Heliakim the steward, the son of Checles, and Somnas the scribe, and Jouch the son of Asaph, the recorder.

4 And Rabsaces said to them, Say to Ezekias, Thus says the great king, the king of the Assyrians, Why art thou secure? Is war carried on with counsel and mere words of the lips? and now on whom dost thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

5 Behold, thou trustest on this bruised staff of reed, on Egypt: as soon as a man leans upon it, it shall go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh king of Egypt and all that trust in him. 6 But if ye say, We trust in the Lord our God; 7 yet now make an agreement with my lord the king of the Assyrians, and I will give you two thousand horses, if ye shall be able to set riders upon them. 8 And how can ye then turn to the face of the Syrian king? They that trust on the Egyptians for horse and rider are our servants. 9 And now, Have we come up against this land to fight against it without the Lord? The Lord said to me, Go up against this land, and destroy it.

10 Then Eliakim and Somnas and Jouch said to him, Speak to thy servants in the Syrian tongue; for we understand it: and speak not to us in the Jewish tongue: and wherefore speakest thou in the ears of the men on the wall? 12 And Rabsaces said to them, Has my lord sent me to your lord or to you, to speak these words? has he not sent me to the men that sit on the wall, that they may eat dung, and drink their water together with you? 13 And Rabsaces stood, and cried with a loud voice in the Gothic language, and said, Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of the Assyrians: 14 thus says the king, Let not Ezekias deceive you with words: he will not be able to deliver you. 15 And let not Ezekias say to you, That God will deliver you, and this city will not be delivered into the hand of the Assyrians. 16 Hearken not to Ezekias: thus says the king of the Assyrians, If ye wish to be blessed, come out to me; and ye shall eat every one of his vine and his fig-trees, and ye shall drink water out of your own cisterns; 17 until I come and take you to a land, like your own land, a land of corn and wine, and bread and vineyards. 18 Let not Ezekias deceive you, saying, God will deliver you. Have the gods of the nations delivered each one his own land out of the hand of the king of the Assyrians? 19 Where is the god of Emath, and Arphad? and where is the god of the Amorites? have they been able to deliver Babel out of my hand? 20 Which is the god of all these nations, that has delivered his land out of my hand, that God should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand? 21 And they were silent, and none answered him a word; because the king had commanded that none should answer.

22 And Isaiah, the son of Heliakim, the steward, and Somnas the military scribe, and Joach the son of Asaph, the recorder, came in to Ezekias, having their garments rent, and they reported to him the words of Rabsaces.

And it came to pass, when king Ezekias heard it, that he rent his clothes, and put on sackcloth, and went up to the house of the Lord. 2 And he sent Isaiah the steward, and Somnas the scribe, and the elders of the priests clothed with sackcloth, to Esais the son of Amos, the prophet. And they said to him, Thus says Ezekias, To-day is a day of affliction, and reproach, and rebuke, and anger: for the pangs are come upon the travailing woman, but she has not strength to bring forth. 3 May the Lord thy God hear the words of Rabsaces, which the king of the Assyrians has sent, to reproach the living God, even to reproach with the words which the Lord thy God has heard: therefore shall the king shall pray to thy Lord for these that are left.

So the servants of king Ezekias came to Esais. 6 And Esais said to them, Thus shall ye say to your master, Thus saith the Lord, Be not thou afraid at the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the ambassador of the king of the Assyrians have reproached me. 7 Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a report, and return to his own country, and he shall fall by the sword in his own land. 8 So Rabsaces returned, and found the king of the Assyrians besieging Lobna: for he had heard that he had departed from the towns of the Assyrians over the river; and he came again to the king of the Assyrians, and spoke these words to him. 9 So the king of the Assyrians sent against him, and all his mighty men of war, and came into all his land.

And Ezekias sent to him, saying, Thus saith the king, 11 Sir, I beseech thee, let not my life be laid open among the nations, where my fathers are laid at rest; and let not my glory be humbled in the eyes of the nations which are present.

And the king of the Assyrians answered, and said, What have I transgressed thee, that thou dost not depart from me?

12 But Ezekias besought the Lord his God, and cried with a loud voice, and prayed, saying, 13 Hearken, 0 Lord God, the prayer of thy servant, and his supplication, and cause thy face to be good towards thy servant, whom thou hast set over a great people, like as thou hast spoken.

And the Lord heard the prayer of Ezekias, and had mercy on him, and answered him.

14 So the Lord moved the heart of the king of the Assyrians, and the heart of the captain over the host of the king of the Assyrians, to forsake the road of the Lord. 15 And he returned to his own land; and it was told him, saying, Ezekias is not died.

16 And the king of the Assyrians sent, and spake to the king of Babylon, saying, What answer shall I return to the great king of the Assyrians, which have sent to me? 17 And the king of the Babylon answered, and said, Return and answer to the great king of the Assyrians, Thus saith the king of the Babylon, according to all that thou hast sent to me. For the Lord thy God, he will add to thee strength, and success in all thy ways. 18 0 Lord, send thy strength, and let thine aid be done in the name of thy servant Ezekias, and in the name of all thy people Israel, and make him as strong, as he was before.

And the Lord answered, and said, I will deliver thee this day in the hand of thine enemies, and in the hand of the son of them that reproach thee: 19 And many shall fall of thine own city, and thou shalt be driven out of thine own land, and shalt be slain by thine enemies. 20 And I will deliver thee, and this city, and the country of thine fathers, into the hand of thine enemies, and they shall smite thee with the sword. 21 And thine eyes shall see it, and thine heart shall grieve, and thou shalt become mighty in thine heart against thine enemies. 22 And the Lord shall add to thee strength, and success in all thy ways. This is the word which the Lord hath spoken.

And Ezekias shall say, 23 The words of the Lord, good words, and this God shall add, and he shall give thee success in all thy ways. This is the word which the Lord hath spoken.

And the king of the Assyrians sent to his master, saying, Thus saith the king of the Assyrians, what answer shall I return to the great king of the Assyrians, which have sent to me? And the king of the Babylon answered, and said, Return and answer to the king of the Assyrians, 24 Thus saith the king of the Babylon, according to all that thou hast sent to me. For the Lord thy God, he will add to thee strength, and success in all thy ways.

And the Lord added to thine enemies, 25 And many shall fall of thine city, and thou shalt be driven out of thine land. 26 And the Lord will add to thee strength, and success in all thy ways. This is the word which the Lord hath spoken.

And Ezekias shall say, 27 The words of the Lord, good words, and this God shall add, and he shall give thee success in all thy ways. This is the word which the Lord hath spoken.

Lachis. 9 And Tharaca king of the Ethiopians went forth to attack him. And when he heard it, he turned aside, and sent messengers to Ezekias, saying, Thus shall ye say to Ezekias king of Judea, Let thy God, in whom thou trustest, deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the land of the king of the Assyrians. 11 Hast thou not heard what the kings of the Assyrians have done, how they have destroyed the whole earth? and shalt thou be delivered? 12 Have the gods of the nations which were before thee, God, in whom thou trustest, delivered them, both Gozan, and Ob, and Terach, and the Liver which are in the land of Togarmah? 13 Where are the kings of Emath? and where is the king of Arphath? and where is the king of the city of Esterphon, and of Anaguanum? 14 And Ezekias received the letter from the messengers, and read it, and went up to the house of the Lord, and opened it before the Lord. 15 And Ezekias prayed to the Lord, saying, 16 O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, who sittest upon the cherubs, thou alone art the God of every kingdom of the world: thou hast made heaven and earth. 17 Incline thine ear, O Lord, hearken, O Lord; open thine eyes, O Lord, and behold the words of Sennacherim, which he hath sent to reproach the living God. 18 For of a truth, Lord, the kings of the Assyrians have laid waste the whole world, and the countries thereof, and have cast their idols into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone; and they have cast them away. 19 But now, O Lord our God, deliver us from his hands, that every kingdom of the earth may know that thou art God alone. 20 And Esais the son of Amos was sent to Ezekias, and said to him, Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel, I have heard thy prayer to me concerning Sennacherim king of the Assyrians. This is the word which God hath spoken concerning him: The virgin daughter of Sion has despised thee, and mocked thee; the daughter of Jerusalem has shaken her head at thee. 21 Whom hast thou reproached and provoked? and against whom hast thou lifted up thine eyes on high against the Holy One of Israel? 22 For thou hast reproached the Lord by messengers; for thou hast said, With the multitude of chariots have I ascended to the height of mountains, and to the sides of Libanus; and I have cropped the height of his cedars and the beauty of his cypresses; and I entered into the height of the forest region: 23 and I have made a bridge, and dried up the waters, and every pool of water. 24 Hast thou not heard of these things which I did of old? I appointed them from ancient times; but now have I manifested my purpose of desolating nations in their strong holds, and them that dwell in strong cities. 25 I weakened their hands, and they withered; and they became as dry grass on the house-tops, and as grass. 26 But now I know thy rest, and thy going out, and thy
And thy wrath wherewith thou hast been enraged, and thy rancour has come up to me; therefore I will put a hook in thy nose, and a bit in thy lips, and will turn thee back by the way by which thou camest.

And this shall be a sign to thee. Eat this year what thou hast sown; and the second year that which is left: and the third year sow, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. And they that are left in Judea shall take root downward: 21 so out of Jerusalem there shall be a remnant and the saved ones out of mount Zion: the zeal of the Lord of hosts shall perform this. Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning the king of the Assyrians, He shall not enter into this city, nor cast a weapon against it, nor bring a shield against it, nor make a rampart round it. But by the way by which he came, by it shall he return, and shall not enter into this city: thus saith the Lord. 23 I will protect this city to save it for my own sake, and for my servant David's sake.

And the angel of the Lord went forth, and stood out of the camp of the Assyrians a hundred and eighty-five thousand: and they arose in the morning and found all these bodies dead. And Sennacherim king of the Assyrians turned and departed, and dwelt in Nineve. And while he was worshipping Nasarach his country's god in the house, Adrammelech and Sarsear his sons smote him with swords; and they escaped into Armenia: and Asordan his son reigned in his stead.

And it came to pass at that time, that Ezekias was sick even to death. And Esaias the prophet the son of Amos came to him, and said to him, Thus saith the Lord, Give orders concerning thy house: for thou shalt die, and not live. And Ezekias turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the Lord, saying, Remember, O Lord, how I have walked before thee in truth, with a true heart, and have done that which was pleasing in thy sight. And Ezekias wept bitterly.

And the word of the Lord came to Esaias, saying, Go, and say to Ezekias, Thus saith the Lord, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, and seen thy tears: behold, I will add to thy time fifteen years. And I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of the Assyrians: and I will defend this city. And this shall be a sign to thee from the Lord, that God will do this thing: 8 behold, I will turn back the shadow of the dial by which ten degrees on the house of thy father the sun has gone down—I will turn back the sun the ten degrees; so the sun went back the ten degrees by which the shadow had gone down.

β Gr. was.
to Esaias, Good is the word of the Lord, which he hath spoken: let there, I pray, be peace and righteousness in my days.

8 For peace and joy is in mine house: and I have comfort, ye my people, saith God. 9 Speak, ye priests, to the heart of Jerusalem: comfort her, for her humiliation is accomplished, her sin is put away: for she has received of the Lord's hand double the amount of her sins.

10 The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight the paths of our God. 11 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low: yea all the crooked ways shall become straight, and the rough places plain. 12 And the glory of the Lord shall appear, and all flesh shall see the salvation of God: for the Lord hath spoken it.

13 The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Say to the people, Behold your God! 14 Behold, the Lord! The Lord is coming with strength, and his arm is with power: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him.

15 He shall tend his flock as a shepherd, and he shall gather the lambs of his arm, and shall feed them that are with young. 16 Who has measured the water in his hand, and the heaven with a span, and all the earth in a hand? Who has weighed the mountains in scales, and the forests in a balance?

17 Who has known the mind of the Lord? and who has been his counsellor, to instruct him? 18 Or who has given him the counsel? and he has instructed him? or who has taught him judgment, or who has taught him the way of understanding?

19 Since all the nations are numbered as a drop from a bucket, and as the turning of a balance, and shall be counted as spittle. 20 And Libanus is not enough to burn, nor all beasts enough for an offering, nor all nations together worth the least as a burnt offering.

21 To whom have ye compared the Lord? and with what likeness have ye compared him? 22 Has not the artificer made an image, and the goldsmith has melted it, and it is nothing, and made it a simulacrum?

23 For the artificer chooses out a work that will not rot, and will wisely enquire how he shall set up his image, and that so that it should not be moved. 24 Will ye not know? will ye not hear? has it not been told you of old? Have ye not known the foundations of the earth?

25 It is he that comprehends the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants in it are as grasshoppers: he that set up the heaven as a chamber, and stretched it out as a tent to dwell in:

26 he that appoints princes to rule as nothing, and has made the earth as nothing. 27 For they shall not plant, neither shall they sow, neither shall their root be fixed in the ground: he has blown upon them, and they are withered, and a storm shall carry them away like sticks.
25 No not in my sight, nor in the sight of my Messiah, shall they have power to lead me astray, or to make me turn aside. For lo, the day is coming, and thou shalt say, My strength is the Lord, I will make his word manifest against...}

11 Ἰδοὺ αἱμαχθήσονται καὶ ἐνταπήσονται πάντες οἱ ἀντικείμενοι σου, ἐστων γὰρ ως οὐκ ὀντες, καὶ ἀπολύσονται πάντες οἱ ἀντικείμενοι σου. Ἐρρίπεται αὐτοὺς, καὶ οὐ μὴ εὑρήστηι τῶν ἀνθρώπων αὐτῶν, καὶ ἐκπαρασοῦνται εἰς σε ἐστων γὰρ ως οὐκ ὀντες, καὶ οὐκ ἐστων οἱ ἀντικελεμένουτες σε. Οτι ἔγω ὁ Θεός σου 14 σου, ὁ κράτων τῆς δεξιάς σου, ὁ λέγων σοι, μὴ φοβοῦ Ἰακώβ ὁ λαγοῦστος Ἰσραήλ· έγὼ ἐβοηθήσα σοι, λέγει ὁ Θεός σου, thy God, that he that redeemeth thee, O Israel. 15 Behold, I have made thee as new saw-shaped threshing wheels of a wagon; and thou shalt thresh the mountains, and beat the hills to powder, and make them as chaff: 16 and thou shalt winnow them, and the wind shall carry them away, and a tempest shall scatter them: but thou shalt rejoice in the holy ones of Israel.

And the poor and the needy shall exult: for when they shall seek water, and there shall be none, and their torments shall be parched with thirst: I the Lord God of Israel will hear, and will not forsake them: 18 but I will open rivers on the mountains, and fountains in the midst of plains: I will make the desert pools of water, and a thirsty land watercourses. 19 I will plant in the dry land the cedar and box, the myrtle and cypress, and white poplar: 20 that they may see and know, and perceive, and understand together, that the hand of the Lord has wrought these works, and the Holy One of Israel has displayed them.

Your judgment draws nigh, saith the Lord God: your counsels have drawn nigh, saith the King of Jacob. Let them draw near: let them come near; bring them all to the mountain, and make them as chaff: 22 and let the wind take them away, and scatter them: 23 and as a reward for the whole land, saith the Lord God, will I scatter them in all the heathen for an inheritance among all the nations for a name, saith the Lord God.

But I have raised up him that comes from the north, and him that comes from the rising of the sun: they shall be called by my name: let the princes come, and as potter's clay, and as a potter treading clay, so shall ye be trodden down. 25 For who will declare the things from the beginning, that we may know also the former things, And we will say, That are true? there is no one that speaks beforehand, nor any one that hears your words. 27 I will give dominion to Sion, and will comfort Jerusalem by the way. 28 For from among the nations, behold, there was no one; and of their idols there was none to declare anything: and if I should ask them, Whence are ye? they could not answer me. 29 For these are your makers, as ye think, and they that cause you to err in vain.

Jacob is my servant, I will help him: Israel my chosen, my soul has accepted him; I have put my Spirit upon him; he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles. 2 He shall not cry, nor lift up his voice, nor shall his voice be heard without. 3 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench; but he shall bring forth judgment to truth. 4 He shall shine out, and shall not be repressed, until he have set judgment on the earth: and in his name shall the Gentiles trust.

Thus saith the Lord God, who made the heaven, and established it; who settled the earth, and the things in it, and gives breath to his spirit in man: 5 who makes the floods of the sea, and calls forth rivers of blood, and fire, and smoke, and masses of stones, in the midst of the sea. 6 who formeth the north, and nameth the south; and sealeth up the north, and lets loose the south; and maketh his wind to blow from the south unto the north, and maketh measts to come down from above to meet the earth; 7 who breaketh the horns of the north, and maketh the nations to know that I am the Lord; and that the Holy One of Israel is their Redeemer, to sanctify and to praise his name, upon the earth which he made.

to the people on it, and spirit to them that tread on it: 6 I the Lord God have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thee hand, and will strengthen thee; and I have given thee for the covenant of a race, for a light of the Gentiles; 7 to open the eyes of the blind, to bring the bound and them that sit in darkness out of bonds and the prison-house.
8 I am the Lord God: that is my name: I will not give my glory to another, nor my praises to graven images. 9 Behold, the ancient things have come to pass, and so will the new things which I tell you: yea, before I tell them they are made known to you.
10 Sing a new hymn to the Lord: ye who are his dominion, glorify his name from the end of the earth: ye that go down to the sea, and sail upon it: the islands, and they that dwell in them. 11 Rejoice, thou wilderness, and the villages thereof, the hamlets, and the dwellers in Kedar: the inhabitants of the rock shall rejoice: the shall shout from the top of the mountains. 12 They shall give glory to God, and shall proclaim his praises in the islands.
14 I have been silent: shall I also always be silent and forbear? I have endured like a travelling woman, I will now amaze and wither at once. 15 I will make desolate mountains and hills, and will dry up all their grass; and I will make the rivers islands, and dry up the pools. 16 And I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not, and I will cause them to tread paths which they have not known: I will turn darkness into light for them, and crooked things into straight. These things will I do, and will not forsake them. 17 But they are turned back: be ye utterly ashamed that trust in graven images, who say to the molten images, Ye are our gods.
18 Hear, ye deaf, and look up, ye blind, to see. 19 And who is blind, but my servants? and deaf, but they that rule over them? yea, the servants of God have been made blind. 20 Ye have often seen, and have not taken heed; your ears have been opened, and ye have not heard. 21 The Lord God has taken counsel that he might be justified, and might magnify his praise. 22 And I beheld, and the people were spoiled and plundered: for there is a snare in the secret chambers everywhere, and in the houses also, where they have hidden them: they became a spoil, and there was no one that delivered the prey, and there was none who said, Restore.
23 Who is there among you that will give ear to these things? hearken ye to the things which I will speak to you. 24 For what did he give Jacob up to spoil, and Israel to them that plundered him? Did not God do it against whom they sinned? and they would not walk in his ways, nor hearken to his law. 25 So he brought upon them the fury of his wrath; and the war, and those that burnt round about them, prevailed against them; yet no one of them knew it, neither did they lay it to heart.

And now thus saith the Lord God that made thee, O Jacob, and formed thee, O Israel. Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine. 2 And if thou pass through water, I am with thee; and the rivers shall not overflow thee; and if thou go through fire, thou shalt not be burned; the flame shall not burn thee. 3 For I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel, that saves thee; I have made Egypt and Ethiopia thy ransom, and given Sion for thee. 4 Since thou wast precious in my sight, thou hast become glorious, and I have loved thee: and I will give men for thee, and princes for thy life. 5 Fear not; for I am with thee: I will bring thy seed from the east, and will gather thee from the west. 6 I will say to the north, Bring; and to the south, Keep not back; bring my sons from the land afar off, and my daughters from the ends of the earth; 7 Even all who are called by my name; for I have prepared him for my glory, and I have formed him, and have made him: 8 And I have brought forth the blind people; for their eyes are alike blind, and the ears that have ears are deaf. 9 All the nations are gathered together, and princes shall be gathered out of them; who will declare these things? or who will declare to you things of the beginning? let them bring forth their witnesses, and be justified; and let them hear, and declare the truth.
10 Be ye my witnesses, and I too am a witness, saith the Lord God, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know, and believe, and understand that I am he: before me there was no other God, and after me there shall be none. 11 I am God, and beside me there is no Saviour. 12 I have declared, and have saved; I have reproached, and there was no strange God among you: ye are my witnesses, and I am the Lord God, even from the beginning; and there is none that can deliver out of my hands: I will work, and who shall turn it back?
13 Thus saith the Lord God that redeemeth you, the Holy One of Israel: For your sakes will I send to Babylon, and I will stir up all that flee, and the Chaldeans shall be bound in ships. 14 I am the Lord God, your Holy One, who have appointed for Israel your king.
15 Thus saith the Lord, who makes a way in the sea, and a path in the mighty water; 16 who brought forth chariots and horse, and their riders down into a deep, and they fell; they lay down, and shall not rise: they are extinct, as quenched flax. 17 Remember ye not the former things, and consider not the ancient things. 18 Behold, I will do new things, which shall presently spring forth, and ye shall know them: and I will make a way in the wilderness, and rivers in the dry land; 19 the beasts of the field shall bless me, the owls and young ostriches: for I have given water in the wilderness, and rivers in the dry land, to give

With, upon XT am "I am" will together; do thou first confess thy transgressions, that thou mayest be justified. 2 Thou fathers first, and your princes have transgressed against me. 23 And the princes have defiled my sanctuaries: so I gave Jacob to enemies to destroy, and Israel to reproach.

But now art, Jacob my servant; and Israel, whom I have chosen. 2 Thus saith the Lord God that made thee, and he that formed thee from the womb; Thou shalt yet be helped: fear not, my servant Jacob; and beloved Israel, whom I have chosen.

For I will give water to the thirsty that walk in a dry land: I will put my Spirit upon thy seed, and my blessings upon thy children: and they shall spring up as grass between brooks, and as willows on the banks of running water. 5 One shall say, I am God's; and another shall call himself by the name of Jacob; and another shall write with his hand, I am God's, and shall call himself by the name of Israel.

Thus saith God the King of Israel, and the God of hosts that delivered him; I am the first, and I am hereafter: beside me there is no God. 7 Who is like me? let him stand, and call, and declare, and prepare for me from the time that I made man for ever; and let them tell you the things that are coming before they arrive. 8 Hide not yourselves, nor go astray: have ye not heard from the beginning, and have ye not understood? 9 For a living voice saith ye are witnesses if there is a God beside me.

But they that framed false gods did not then hearken; and they that graved images are all vain, performing their own desires, which shall not profit them, but they shall be ashamed that form a god, and all that grave worthless things: 11 and all by whom they were made were withered: yet let all the deaf be gathered from among men, and let them stand together; and let them be ashamed and confounded together:

For the artificer sharpens the iron; he fashions the idol with an axe, and fixes it with an awl, and fashions it with the strength of his arm: and he will be hungry and weak, and will drink no water. 13 The artificer having chosen a piece of wood, marks it out with a rule, and fits it with glue, and makes it as the form of a man, and as the beauty of a man, to set it up in the house. 14 He cuts wood out of the forest, which the Lord planted, even a pine tree, and the rain made it grow; 18 that it might be for men to burn: and having taken part of it he warms himself; 19 ye, they burn part of it, and bake loaves thereon; and of the rest they make for themselves gods, and they worship them. 20 Half thereof he burns in the fire, and with half of it he bakes loaves on the coals; and having roasted flesh on it he eats, and is satisfied, and having warmed himself he says, I am comfortable, for I have warmed myself, and have seen the fire. 21 And the rest he makes a graven god, and worships, and prays, saying, Deliver me; for thou art my God.

15 They have no understanding to perceive; for they have been blinded so that they should not see with their eyes, nor perceive with their heart. 16 And one has not considered in his mind, nor known in his understanding, that he has burnt up half of it in the fire, and baked loaves on the coals thereof and has roasted and eaten flesh, and of the rest of it he has made an abomination, and they worship it. 17 Know thou that my heart is ashes, and they are, and no one is able to deliver his soul: see, ye will not say, There is a lie in my right hand.

21 Remember these things, O Jacob, and Israel; for thou art my servant; I have formed thee to be my servant: and do thou, Israel, not forget me. 22 For behold, I have blotted out as a cloud thy transgressions, and thy sin as darkness; turn to me, and I will redeem thee.

23 Rejoice, ye heavens; for God has had mercy upon Israel; sound the trumpet, ye foundations of the earth: ye mountains, shout with joy, ye hills, and all the trees therein; for God has redeemed Jacob, and Israel shall be glorified.

24 Thus saith the Lord that redeems thee, and who formed thee from the womb, I am the Lord that performs all things: I stretched out the heaven alone, and established the earth. 25 Who else will frustrate the tokens those that have divine spirits, and prophecies: ye from the heart of man? turning the wise back, and making their counsel foolishness; and confirming the word of his servant, and verifying the counsel of his messengers: who says to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be inhabited; and to the cities of Idumea, Ye shall be built, and her desert places shall spring forth. 26 Who says to the deep, Thou shalt be dried up, and I will dry up the rivers. 27 Who bids Cyrus be wise, and he shall perform all my will: who says to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built, and I will lay the foundation of my holy house.

Thus saith the Lord God to my anointed Cyrus, whose right hand I have held, that nations might be obedient before him; and I will break through the strength of kings; and I will open doors before him, and gates shall not be closed. 2 I will go before thee, and will level mountains; I will break to pieces brazen doors, and will burst iron bars. 3 And I will give thee the treasures of darkness, I will open to thee hidden, unseen treasures, that thou mayest know that I, the Lord thy God, that call thee by name.
4 so the law is the end of the world, (2a) the sign of the end, the seal of the word. For in it all things are fulfilled.

5 Or, Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you are like nothing but a beard of hairs and a false form of wisdom.

6 For every one who exalts himself shall be humbled, and he who humbles himself shall be exalted.

7 And when Jesus had spoken these words, the Pharisees and teachers of the law, who had come out to him, sought from him a false thing.

8 Yet he, the sect of the Pharisees, blasphemed against him.

9 And they sought to lay hands upon him, and feared, lest he should speak upon them.

10 And the Pharisees and Sadducees came and tested him, asking for a sign to see from heaven.

11 But he answered them, saying: Every kingdom that shall come into existence, will first of all have a hearing of the good news.

12 And heaven and earth will perish, before they pass from the world, before there be one stone upon another.

13 And when the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then he shall sit on the throne of his glory.

14 And before him shall be the beggar's spy, and he shall come to his heart, and shall make known to him all the secrets of his heart.

15 And then shall I declare to thee, whether thou hast in fashioning the heart of the land, this is the good news which I have come to declare, and the kingdom which shall come.

16 For as the light of the sun which is in the heaven, is apparent, so also shall the son of man be in his glory.

17 And it shall come to pass, that the Pharisees and teachers of the law, who had come out to him, and seeing a very great multitude of people, 18 Said to one of his disciples, Our master, what shall we tell the people who have come out to us, for they have forgotten to offer sacrifice?

19 Or, What shall we say about the two sons who went abroad, and one returned and the other did not?

20 Or, When the son of man shall come in his glory, and in the glory of his Father, and of the holy angels, shall he not sit upon the throne of his glory,

21 And shall gather together in the kingdom of heaven all the children of Adam,

23 Then shall the righteous hear, and shall glory, and the righteous shall be confounded, and the righteous shall be made great.

24 Then shall he say to them: I tell you the truth, I did not know you, but you spoke about me to the King.

25 But he answered them, saying: Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!

26 For ye build the tombs of the prophets, and ye suffer the blood of the prophets shed by them.

27 Ye witnesses of the blood of the prophets, and ye have built their tombs.

28 Ye fill up the measure of your fathers.

29 You behold the city, which is surrounded by walls, which is inhabited, and I tell you, that ye shall not see it again until the days of vengeance.

30 When the days of vengeance shall come, it shall be said, three generations have perished since the days of Tobias.

31 As it was in the days of Noé, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.

32 Therefore, the Lord said, The days shall come, when the apostate shall fall, and the dust of the great shall be dried up.

33 And the stars of heaven, which shall fall, and the powers of heaven, which shall be taken from the heaven, shall be cast into the waters below.

34 And the men, who shall have fallen from the stars above, shall be cast into the eternal fire: just as there was fire to the wicked in the days of Noé.

35 And thus also shall it be in the days of the Son of man.

36 But as the days are, so also shall the coming of the Son of man be.

37 And after the days being completed, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light.

38 And the stars of heaven shall fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven shall be taken from the heaven, and the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven.

39 And I will declare before all his sepulchres, the law, and the testament, 40 And his apostles shall gather together in heaven, and the eyes of all the kingdoms shall see, that the law is the sign of the end, and the testament is the seal of the word.

41 And heaven and earth shall perish, before they pass from the world, before there be one stone upon another.

42 And when the Son of man shall come in his glory, and in the glory of his Father, and of the holy angels, shall he not sit upon the throne of his glory,

43 And shall gather together in the kingdom of heaven all the children of Adam,

45 Then shall the righteous hear, and shall glory, and the righteous shall be confounded, and the righteous shall be made great.

46 Then shall he say to them: I tell you the truth, I did not know you, but you spoke about me to the King.

47 But he answered them, saying: Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!

48 For ye build the tombs of the prophets, and ye suffer the blood of the prophets shed by them.

who pray to gods that do not save. If they will declare, let them draw nigh, that they may know together, who has caused these things to be heard from the beginning: them was it told you. I am God, and there is no other beside me; a just God and a Saviour; there is none but me. 2 Turn ye to me, and ye shall be saved, ye that come from the end of the earth: I am God, and there is none other. 3 By myself I swear, righteousness shall surely proceed out of my mouth: for I am God, and there is none beside me; I am God, and there is none other besides me. 4 Hear me, O house of Jacob, and all the remnant of Israel, who are borne by me from the womb, and taught by me from infancy, even to old age: I am he; and until ye have grown old, I am he: I bear you, I have made, and I will preserve, I will take up and save you. 5 To whom have ye compared me? see, consider, ye that go astray. They that furnish gold out of a purse, and silver by weight, will weigh it in a scale, and they hire a goldsmith and make idol, and bow down, and worship them. They bear it upon the shoulder, and go; and if they put it upon its place, it remains, it cannot move: and whosoever shall cry to it, it cannot hear; it cannot save him from trouble. 6 Remember ye these things, and groan: repent, ye that have gone astray, return in your heart; and remember the former things that were of old: for I am God, and there is none other beside me; I am telling beforehand the latter events before they come to pass, and they are accomplished together: and I said, All my counsel shall stand, and I will do all things that I have planned: calling a bird from the east, and from a land afar off, for the things which I have planned: I have spoken, and brought him; I have created and made him; I have brought him, and prospered his way. 7 Hearken to me, ye senseless ones, that are far from righteousness: I have brought near my righteousness, and I will not be slow with the salvation that is from me: I have given salvation in Sion to Israel for glory. 8 Come down, sit on the ground, O virgin daughter of Babylon: sit on the ground, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou shalt no more be called tender and luxurious. 9 Take a millstone, grind meal: remove thy veil, uncover thy white hairs, make bare the leg, pass through the rivers.

Thy shame shall be uncovered, thy reproaches shall be brought to light: I will exact of thee due vengeance, I will no longer deliver thee to men.

Sit thou down pierced with woe, go into darkness, O daughter of the Chaldeans: thou shalt no more be called the strength of a kingdom.

I have provoked my people; thou hast defiled mine inheritance: I gave them into thy hand, but thou didst not extend mercy to them: thou madest the yoke of the aged man very heavy, and saidst, I shall be a princess for ever: thou didst not perceive these things in thine heart, nor didst thou remember the latter end.

But now hear these words, thou luxurious one, who art the one that sits at ease, that is secure, that says in her heart, I am, and there is not another; I shall not sit a widow, neither shall I know bereavement.

But now these two things shall come upon thee suddenly in one day, the loss of children and widowhood shall come suddenly upon thee, for thy soreness, for the strength of thine enchantments, for thy trusting in wickedness: for thou saidst, I am, and there is not another: know thou, the understanding of these things and thy harlotry shall be thy shame; for thou saidst in thy heart, I am, and there is not another.

And destruction shall come upon thee, and thou shalt not be aware; there shall be a pit, and thou shalt fall into it: and grief shall come upon thee, and thou shalt not be able to grieve; and destruction shall come suddenly upon thee, and thou shalt not know.

Stand now with thine enchantments, and with the abundance of thy soresness, which thou hast learned from thy youth: if thou castest profited. Thou hast wearied in thy counsels. Let now the astrologers of the heaven stand and deliver thee, let them that see the stars tell thee what is about to come upon thee. Behold, they all shall be burnt up as sticks in the fire; neither shall they at all deliver their life from the flame. Because thou hast cast off the fire of the poor, and thou shalt be ashamed now, and none shall be thy help. Thou hast wearied thyself with traffic from thy youth: every man has wandered to his own house, but thou hast no deliverance.

Hear these words, ye house of Jacob, who are called by the name of Israel, and have come forth out of Juda, who swear by the name of the Lord God of Israel, making mention of it, but not with truth, nor with righteousness; maintaining also the name of the holy city, and standing themselves on the God of Israel: the Lord of hosts is his name. The former things I have already declared; and they have proceeded out of my mouth, and it became well known; I wrought suddenly, and the events came to pass.
idols have done it for me; and shouldest say, My graven and molten images have commanded me. Ye have heard all this, but ye have not known: yet I have made known to thee the new things from henceforth, which are coming to pass, and thou saidst not, Now they come to pass, and not so saidst thou. 5 For mine own sake will I shew thee my wraith, and will bring before thee my glorious acts, that I may not utterly destroy thee. 6 Behold, I have sold thee, but not for silver; but I have rescued thee from the furnace of affliction. 7 For mine own sake will I do this for thee, because my name is great, saith the Lord, and I will not give my glory to another.

12 Hear me, O Jacob, and Israel whom I call; I am the first, and I am the last, saith the Lord. 13 My hand also has founded the earth, and my right hand has fixed the sky: I will call them, and they shall stand together. 14 And all the kings of the nations shall be assembled and shall hear, who has told them these things? Out of love to thee have I fulfilled thy desire on Babylon, to abolish the seed of the Chaldeans. 15 I have spoken, I have called, I have brought him, and made his way prosperous.

16 Draw nigh to me, and hear ye these words; I have not spoken in secret from the beginning; when it took place, there was I, and now the Lord, even the Lord, and his Spirit, hath sent me. 17 Thus saith the Lord that delivered thee, the Holy One of Israel; and my God, I have shewn thee how thou shouldst find the way wherein thou shouldst walk. 18 And if thou hast hearkened to my commandments, thou needst not so much fear them. 19 Thy seed also shall have been as the sand, and the offspring of thy belly as the dust of the sea: neither now shalt thou by any means be utterly destroyed, neither shall thy name perish before me.

20 Go forth of Babylon, thou that fleest from the Chaldeans: utter aloud a voice of joy, and let this be made known, proclaim it to the end of the earth; say ye, The Lord hath delivered his servant Jacob. 21 And if they shall thirst, he shall lead them through the desert: he shall bring forth water to them out of the rock: the rock shall be cloven, and the water shall flow forth, and my people shall drink. 22 There is no joy, saith the Lord, to the ungodly.

Hearken to me, ye islands; and attend, ye Gentiles; after a long time it shall come to pass, saith the Lord: from my mother's womb he has called my name: and he has made my mouth as a sharp sword, and he has hid me under the shadow of his hand; he has made me as a choice shaft, and he has hid me in his quiver; and said to me, Thou art my servant, O Israel, and in thee I will

8 Or, audible. 7 Gr. am.
4 Then I said, I have laboured in vain, I have given my strength for vanity and for nothing: therefore is my judgment with the Lord, and my labour before my God.

5 And now, thus saith the Lord that formed me from the womb to be his own servant, to gather Jacob unto himself, and Israel: I shall be gathered and glorified before the Lord, and my God shall be my strength.

6 And he said to me, It is a great thing for thee to be called my servant, to establish the tribes of Jacob, and to recover the dispersion of Israel: behold, I have given thee for the covenant of a race, for a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst be for salvation to the end of the earth.

7 Thus saith the Lord that delivered thee, the God of Israel, Sanctify him that despises his life, him that is abhorred by the nations that are the servants of princes: kings shall behold him, and princes shall arise, and shall worship him, for the Lord's sake: for the Holy One of Israel is faithful, and I have chosen thee.

8 Thus saith the Lord, In an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I succoured thee: and I have formed thee, and given thee for a covenant of the nations, to establish the earth, and to cause to inherit the desert heritages: saying to them that are in desert, go forth; and bidding them that are in darkness shew themselves. They shall be fed in all the ways, and in all the paths shall be their pasture. 9 They shall not hunger, neither shall they thirst; neither shall the heat nor the sun smite them; but he that has mercy on them shall comfort them, and by fountains of waters shall he lead them. And I will make every mountain a way, and every path a pasture to them. Behold, these shall come from far: and these from the north and the west, and others from the land of the Persians.

10 Rejoice, ye heavens; and let the earth be glad: and the mountains shall break forth with joy; for the Lord has had mercy on his people, and has comforted the lowly ones of his people.

11 But Sion said, The Lord has forsaken me, and, The Lord has forgotten me. 12 Will a woman forget her child, so as not to have compassion upon the offspring of her womb? but if a woman should even forget these, yet I will not forget thee, saith the Lord. 13 Behold, I have painted thy walls on my hands, and thou art continually before me. 14 And thou shalt soon be built by those by whom thou wert destroyed, and they that made thee desolate shall go forth of thee.

15 Lift up thine eyes round about, and look on them all; behold, they are gathered together, and are come to thee. As I live, saith the Lord, thou shalt clothe thyself with them all as with an ornament, and put them on as a bride her attire. 16 For thy desert shall be made marred and ruined places shall now be too narrow by reason of the inhabitants, and they that devoured thee shall be removed far from thee. 17 For thy sons shall come from whom thou hast lost, and shall say in thine ears, The place is too narrow for me; make room.
for me that I may dwell. 21 And thou shalt say in thine heart, Who has begotten me these? whereas I was childless, and a widow; but who has brought up these for me? and I was left alone; but whence came these to me?

22 Thus saith the Lord, even the Lord, Behold, I lift up mine hand to the nations, and I will lift up my signal to the islands: and they shall bring thy sons in their bosom, and shall bear thy daughters on their shoulders. 23 And kings shall be thy nursing fathers, and their princesses thy nurses, they shall bow down to thee on the face of the earth, and shall lick the dust of thy feet; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, and that they that wait on me shall not be ashamed.

24 Will any one take spoils from a giant? and if one should take a man captive unjustly, shall he be delivered? 25 For thus saith the Lord, If one should take a giant captive, he shall take spoils, and he who takes them from a mighty man shall be delivered: for I will plead thy cause, and I will deliver thy children. 26 And they that afflicted thee shall eat their own flesh; and they shall drink their own blood as new wine, and shall be drunken: and all flesh shall perceive that I am the Lord that delivers thee, and that upholds the strength of Jacob.

27 Thus saith the Lord, Of what kind is your mother's bill of divorce, by which I put her away? or to which debtor have I sold you? Behold, ye are sold for your sins, and for your iniquities have I put your mother away. 2 Why did I come, and there was no man? why did I call, and there was none to hearken? Is not my hand strong to redeem? or can I not deliver? behold, by my rebuke I will dry up the sea, and make rivers of blood: and their fish shall be dried up because there is no water, and shall die for thirst. 3 I will clothe the sky with darkness, and will make its covering as sackcloth.

4 The Lord even God gives me the tongue of instruction, to know when it is fit to speak a word: he has appointed for me an ear to hear: 5 and the instruction of the Lord, even the Lord, opens mine ears, and I do not disobey, nor dispute. 6 I gave my back to scourges, and my cheeks to blows; and I turned not away my face from the shame of spitting: 7 but the Lord God became my helper; therefore I was not ashamed, but I set my face as a solid rock; and I knew that I shall never be ashamed, 8 for he that has justified me draws near; who is he that pleads with me? let him stand up against me at the same time: yea, who is he that pleads with me? let him draw nigh to me. 9 Behold, the Lord, the Lord, will help me; who will hurt me? all ye shall wax old as a garment, and a moth shall devour you.

10 Who is among you that fears the Lord? let him hearken to the voice of his servant: ye that walk in darkness, and have no light, trust in the name of the Lord, and stay upon God. 11 Behold, ye all kindle a fire, and feed a flame: walk in the light of your fire, and in the flame which ye have kindled. This has happened to you for my sake; ye shall lie down in sorrow.

Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, and seek the Lord: look to the solid rock, which ye have hewn, and to the hole of the pit, which ye have dug. Look to Abraham your father, and to Sarah that bore thee: for he was alone when I called him, and blessed him, and loved him, and multiplied him. And now I will comfort thee, O Sion: and I have comforted all her desert places; and I will make her desert places as a garden, and her

6 Hear me, hear me, my people; and ye kings, hearken to me: for a law shall proceed from me, and my judgment shall be for a light of the nations. My righteousness speedily draws nigh, and my salvation shall go forth as light, and on mine arm shall the Gentiles trust: the isles shall wait for me, and on mine arm shall they trust. Lift up your eyes to the sky, and look on the earth: for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and the inhabitants shall die in like manner: but my righteousness shall not fail.

7 Hear me, ye that know judgment, the people in whose heart is my law: fear not the reproach of men, and be not overcome by their contempt. For as a garment will be devoured by time, and as wool will be devoured by a moth, so shall they be consumed: but my righteousness shall be for ever, and my salvation for all generations.

9 Awake, awake, O Jerusalem, and put on the strength of thine arm: awake as in the early time, as the ancient generation. Art thou not he that dried the sea, the water, even the abundance of the deep; that made the depths of the sea a way of passage for the delivered and redeemed? For by the help of the Lord they shall return, and come to Sion with joy and everlasting exultation, for praise and joy shall come upon their head: pain, and grief, and groaning, have fled away.

12 I, even I, am he that comforteth thee: consider who thou art, that thou wast afraid of mortal man, and of the son of man, who are withered as grass. And thou hast forgotten God who made thee, who made the sky and founded the earth; and thou wert continually afraid because of the wrath of him that afflicted thee: for whereas he counselled to take thee away, yet now where is the wrath of him that afflicted thee? In thy deliverance he shall not halt, nor tarry; for I am thy God, that troubles the sea, and causes the waves thereof to roar: the Lord of hosts is my name. I will put my words into thy mouth, and I will shelter thee under the
A shade of mine hand, with which I fixed the sky, and founded the earth: and the Lord shall say to Sion, Thou art my people.

Awake, awake, stand up, O Jerusalem, that hast drunk at the hand of the Lord the cup of his fury; thou hast drunk all the cup of wrath; and there was none to comfort thee of all the children whom thou borest; and there was none to take hold of thine hand, not even of all the children whom thou hast reared. Wherefore these things are against thee; who shall sympathise with thee in thine ills, downfall, and destruction, famine, and sword: who shall comfort thee? Thy sons are the perplexed ones, that sleep at the top of every street as a half-boiled beet; they that are full of the anger of the Lord, caused to flint by the Lord God.

Therefore hear, thou afflicted one, and drunken, but not with wine; thus saith the Lord God that judges his people. Behold, I have taken out of thine hand the cup of calamity, the cup of my wrath; and thou shalt not drink it any more. And I will give it into the hands of them that injured thee, and them that afflicted thee, who said to thy soul, Bow down, that we may take over; and thou didst let thy body with the ground to them passing by without.

Awake, awake, Sion; put on thy strength, O Sion; and do thou put on thy glory, Jerusalem the holy city: there shall no more pass through thee the uncircumcised and unclean. Shake off the dust and arise; sit down, Jerusalem: put off the band of thy neck, captive daughter of Sion.

For thus saith the Lord, Ye have been sold for nought; and ye shall not be ransomed with silver. Thus saith the Lord, My people went down before to Egypt to sojourn there; and were carried away forcibly to the Assyrians. And now why are ye hale? Thus saith the Lord, Because my people was taken for nothing, wonder ye and howl. Thus saith the Lord, On account of you my name is continually blasphemed among the Gentiles. Therefore shall my people know my name in that day, for I am he that speaks: I am present, as a season of beauty upon the mountains, as the feet of one preaching glad tidings of peace, as one preaching good news: for I will publish thy salvation, saying, O Sion, thy God shall reign.

For the voice of them that guard thee is exalted, and with the voice together they shall rejoice: for eyes shall look to eyes, when the Lord shall have mercy upon Sion. Let the waste places of Jerusalem break forth into joy together, because the Lord has had mercy upon her, and has delivered Jerusalem. And the Lord shall reveal his holy arm in the sight of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation that comes from our God.

Depart ye, depart, go out from thence, and touch not the unclean thing; go ye out from the midst of her; separate yourselves, ye that bear the vessels of the Lord. For ye shall not go forth with tumult, neither

6 Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that dost not travail: for more are the children of the desolate than of her that has a husband: for the Lord has said, 2 Enlarge the place of thy tent, and of thy curtains: fix the pins, spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy pins; 3 spread forth thy tent yet to the right and the left: for thy seed shall inherit the Gentiles, and thou shalt make the desolate cities to be inhabited. Fear not, because thou hast been put to shame, neither be

goy by flight: for the Lord shall go first in advance of you; and the God of Israel shall be he that brings up your rear.

6 Or, 5 who has believed our report? and to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed? 7 We brought a report as of a child before him: he is as a root in a thirsty land: he has no form nor comeliness; and we saw him, but he had no form nor beauty. 8 But his form was ignoble, and inferior to that of the children of men; he was a man in suffering, and acquainted with the bearing of sickness, for his face is turned from us; he was despised, and not esteemed.

9 He bears our sins, and is punished for us: yet we accounted him to be in trouble, and in suffering, and in affliction. 10 But he was wounded on account of our sins, and was bruised because of our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and by his bruises we were healed. 11 All we as sheep have gone astray; every one has gone astray in his way; and the Lord gave him up for our sins.

12 And he, because of his affliction, opens not his mouth: as he was led as a sheep to the slaughter, and as a lamb before the shearer is dumb, so he opens not his mouth.

13 In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken away from the earth: because of the iniquities of my people he was led to death. 14 And I will give the wicked for his burial, and the rich for his death; § for he practised no iniquity, nor craft with his mouth. 15 The Lord also is pleased to be gracious to him, and to exalt his stroke. If ye can give an offering for sin, your soul shall see a long-lived seed: 16 the Lord also is pleased to take away from the travail of his soul, to shew him light, and to form him with understanding; to justify the just one who serves many well; and he shall bear their sins. 17 Therefore he shall inherit many, and he shall divide the spoils of the mighty; because his soul was delivered to death: and he was numbered among the transgressors; and he bore the sins of many, and was delivered because of their iniquities.
confounded, because thou wast reprooved: for thou shalt forget thy former shame, and shall no more at all remember the reproach of thy widowhood. For it is the Lord that made thee; the Lord of hosts is his name; and he that delivered thee, he is the God of Israel, and shall be called so by the whole earth. The Lord has not called thee as a deserted and faint-hearted woman, nor as a woman hated from her youth, saith thy God. For a little while I let thee; but with great ado, and with compassion upon thee. In a little wrath I turned away my face from thee; but with everlasting mercy will I have compassion upon thee, saith the Lord that delivers thee.

From the time of the water of Noe this is my purpose: as I swarmed to him at that time, saying of the earth, I will no more be wroth with thee, neither when thou art threatened. shall the mountains depart, nor shall thy hills be removed: so neither shall your mercy fail thee, nor shall the covenant of thy peace be at all removed: for the Lord who is gracious to thee has spoken it.

Allighted and outcast thou hast not been comforted: behold, I will prepare carbuncle for thy stones, and sapphire for thy foundations; and I will make thy buttresses jasper, and thy gates crystal, and thy border precious stones. And I will cause all thy sons to be taught of God, and thy children to be in great peace. And thou shalt be built in righteousness, as a strength from henceforth, and thou shalt not fear; and trembling shall not come nigh thee. Behold, strangers shall come to thee by me, and shall sojourn with thee, and shall run to thee for refuge.

Behold, I have created thee, not as the coppersmith blowing coals, and bringing out a vessel fit for work; but I have created thee, not for ruin, that I should destroy thee. I will not suffer any sword formed against thee to prosper; and every voice that shall rise up against thee for judgment, thou shalt vanquish them all; and thine adversaries shall be condemned thereby. There is an inheritance to them that serve the Lord, and ye shall be righteous before me, saith the Lord.

Ye that thirst, go to the water, and all that have no money, go and buy; and eat and drink wine and fat without money or price. Wherefore do ye value at the price of money, and give your labour for that which is not sown? hearken to me, and ye shall eat that which is good, and your soul shall feast itself on good things.

Give heed with your ears, and follow my ways: hearken to me, and your soul shall live in prosperity; and I will make with you an everlasting covenant, the sure mercies of David. Behold, I have made him a testimony among the Gentiles, a prince and commander to the Gentiles. Nations which know thee not, shall call upon thee, and peoples which are not acquainted with thee, shall flee to thee for refuge, for the sake of the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel; for he has glorified thee.

6 Seek ye the Lord, and when ye find him, call upon him; and when he shall draw nigh to thee, let the ungodly leave his ways, and the transgressor his counsels: and let him return to the Lord, and he shall find mercy: for he shall abundantly pardon your sins.

7 For my counsels are not as your counsels, nor are my ways as your ways, saith the Lord. 8 But as the heaven is distant from the earth, so is my way distant from your ways, and your thoughts from my mind. 9 For as rain shall come down, and not return until it have saturated the earth, and it bring forth, and bud, and give seed to the sower, and bread for food: so shall my word be, whatever shall proceed out of my mouth, it shall by no means turn back, until all the things which I willed shall have been accomplished; and I will make thy ways prosperous, and will effect my commands. 10 For ye shall go forth with joy, and shall be taught with gladness: for the mountains and the hills shall exult to welcome you with joy, and all the trees of the field shall applaud with their branches. 11 And instead of the bramble shall come up the cypress, and instead of the nettle shall come up the myrtle: and the Lord shall be for a name, and for an everlasting sign, and shall not fail.

Thus saith the Lord, Keep ye judgment, and do justice: for my salvation is near to come, and my mercy to be revealed. 2 Blessed is the man that does these things, and the man that holds by them, and keeps the sabbaths from profaning them, and keeps his hands from doing unrighteousness.

3 Let not the stranger who attaches himself to the Lord, say, Surely the Lord will separate me from his people: and let not the eunuch say, I will dry tre.

4 Thus saith the Lord to the eunuchs, as many as shall keep my sabbaths, and choose the things which I take pleasure in, and take hold of my covenant; 5 I will give them in my house and within my walls an honourable place, better than sons and daughters: I will give them an everlasting name, and it shall not be cut off. 6 And I will give it to the strangers that attach themselves to the Lord, to serve him, and to love the name of the Lord, to be to him servants and handmaids; and as for all that keep my sabbaths from profaning them, and that take hold of my covenant; 7 I will bring them to my holy mountain, and gladden them in my house of prayer: 8 And I will give it to the priests instead of the stranger that attach themselves to the Lord, serving him, and loving the name of the Lord, to be to him servants and handmaids.

9 All ye beasts of the field, come, devour, all ye beasts of the forest. 10 See how they are all blinded: they have not known; 11 They are dull dogs that did not return to the rest, longing to slumber. 12 Yea, they are insatiable dogs, that know not what it is to be filled, and they are wicked, having no understanding: all have followed their own ways, each according to his own will.

See how the just man has perished, and no one lays it to heart: and righteous men are taken away, and no one considers: for the righteous has been removed out of thy way of injustice. 2 His burial shall be in peace: he has been removed out of the way.

But draw ye near hither, ye lawless children, the seed of adulterers and the harlot. Wherein have ye been rioting? and against whom have ye opened your mouth, and against whom have ye loosed your tongue? are ye not children of perdition? a lawless seed? 3 who call upon idols under the leafy trees, slaying your children in the valleys among the rocks? 4 That is thy portion, this is thy lot: and to them hast thou poured forth drink-offerings, and to these hast thou offered meat-offerings. Shall I not therefore be angry for these things?

On a lofty and high mountain, there is thy bed, and thither thou carriedst up thy meat-offerings: 8 and behind the posts of thy door thou didst place thy memorials. Didst thou think that if thou shouldest depart from me, thou wouldest gain? thou hast loved those that lay with thee; 9 and thou hast multiplied thy whoredom with them, and thou hast increased the number of them that are far from thee, and hast sent ambassadors beyond thy borders, and hast been debased even to hell. 10 Thou hast wearied thyself with thy many ways; yet thou saidst not, I will cease to strengthen myself: for thou hast done these things; therefore thou hast not supplicated me.

Through dread of whom hast thou feared, and lied against me, and hast not remembered, nor considered me, nor regarded me, yea, though when I see thee I pass thee by, yet thou hast not feared me. 12 And I will declare thy righteousness, and thy sins, which shall not profit thee. 13 When thou criest out, let them deliver thee in thine affliction: for all these the wind shall take, and that shall be no more known: but they that cleave to me shall possess the land, and shall inherit my holy mountain. 14 And they shall say, 15 Clear the ways before him, and take up the stumbling-blocks out of the way of my people.

Thus saith the Most High, who dwells on high for ever, 5 Holy in the holies, is his name, the Most High resting in the holies, and giving patience to the faint-hearted, and giving life to the broken-hearted: 15 I will not take vengeance on you for ever, neither will I be always angry with you: for my Spirit shall go forth from me, and I have created all breath. 17 On account of sin for a little while I grievèd him, and smote him, and turned away my face from him; and he was grievèd, and he went on sorrowful in his ways. 18 I have seen his ways, and healed him, and comforted him, and given him true comfort: 19 peace upon peace to them that are far off, and to them that are nigh: and the Lord has said, I will heal them.

save? or has he made his ear heavy, so that he should not hear? 2 Nay, your iniquities separate between you and God, and because of your sins has he turned away his face from you, so as not to have mercy upon you. 3 For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with sins; your lips also have spoken iniquity, and your tongue meditates unrighteousness.

4 None seeketh justly, neither is there true judgment; they trust in vanities, and speak empty words; for they conceal trouble, and bring forth iniquity. 5 They have hatched asps' eggs, and weaved a spider's web; and he that is going to eat of their eggs, having crushed an added egg, has found also in it a basilisk. Their web shall not become a garment, nor shall they clothe themselves with their works; for their works are works of iniquity. And their feet run to wickedness, swift to shed blood; their thoughts also are thoughts of murder; destruction and misery are in their ways; 6 and the way of peace they know not, neither is there judgment in their ways by which they go, and they know not peace.

7 Therefore has judgment departed from them, and righteousness shall not overtake them; while they waited for light, darkness came upon them; while they waited for brightness, they walked in perplexity. 8 They shall feel for the wall as blind men, and shall feel for it as if they had no eyes; and they shall feel at noon day as at midnight; they shall groan as dying men. 9 They shall proceed together as a bear and as a dove: we have waited for judgment, and there is no salvation, it is gone far from us.

For our iniquity is great before thee, and our sins have risen up against us: for our iniquities are in us, and we know our unrighteous deeds. 11 We have sinned, and dealt falsely, and revolted from our God: we have spoken unrighteous words, and have been disobedient; we have conceived and uttered from our heart unrighteous words. 12 And we have turned judgment back, and the right way is far from us; 13 and the truth is far from our paths, and we have turned aside their mind from understanding.

And the Lord saw it, and it pleased him not that there was no judgment. And he looked, and there was no man, and he observed, and there was none to help: so he defended them with his arm, and established them with his mercy. 15 And he put on righteousness as a breast-plate, and placed the helmet of salvation on his head; and he clothed himself with the garment of vengeance, and with his cloak, 16 as one about to reprove a reprobate, even reprove to his adversaries. 17 So shall they of the west fear the name of the Lord, and they that come from the rising of the sun his glorious name; for the wrath of the Lord shall come as a mighty river, it shall come with fury.

And the deliverer shall come for Sion's sake, and shall turn away ungodliness from our souls, and shall perform toward our God everlasting righteousness, and shall obtain glory for his anointed. 19" 21 *And Jacob. 22 And this shall be my covenant with them, said the Lord; My Spirit which is upon thee, and the words which I have put in thy mouth, shall never fail from thy mouth, nor from the mouth of thy seed, for the Lord has spoken it, henceforth and ever.

8 Be enlightened, be enlightened, O Jerusalem, for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. 2 Behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and there shall be gross darkness on the nations: but on the Lord shall appear his glory, and his light shall be seen upon thee. 3 And kings shall walk in thy light, and nations in thy brightness.

4 Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold thy children gathered; all thy sons have come from far, and thy daughters shall be born on men's shoulders. 5 Then shalt thou see, and fear, and be amazed in thine heart; for the wealth of the sea shall come round to thee, and of nations and peoples; and herds of camels shall come to thee, and the camels of Madiam and Gæpha shall cover thee: all from Saba shall come bearing gold, and shall bring frankincense, and they shall publish the salvation of the Lord. 6 And all the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered together, and the rams of Napoth shall come; and acceptable sacrifices shall be offered on my altar, and my house of prayer shall be glorified.

7 Who are these that fly as clouds, and as doves with young ones to me? 8 The isles have waited for me, and the ships of Tharsis among the first, to bring thy children from afar, and their silver and their gold with them, and that for the sake of the holy name of the Lord, and because the Holy One of Israel is glorified. 9 And strangers shall build thy walls, and their kings shall wait upon thee: for by reason of my wrath I smote thee, and by reason of mercy I loved thee. 10 And thy gates shall be opened continually; they shall not be shut day nor night; 11 to bring to thee the, the king of the Gentiles, and their kings as captives. 12 For the nations and the kings which will not serve thee shall perish; and those nations shall be made utterly desolate.

13 And the glory of Libanus shall come to thee, with the cypress, and pine, and cedar together, to glorify my holy place. 14 And the sons of them that afflicted thee, and of them that provoked thee, shall come to thee in fear; and thou shalt be called Sion, the city of the holy One of Israel. 15 Because thou hast become desolate and hated, and there was no helper, therefore I will make thee a perpetual gladness, a joy of many generations.

16 And thou shalt suck the milk of the Gentiles, and shalt eat the wealth of kings: and shalt know that I am the Lord that saveth thee and delivers thee, the Holy One of Israel. 17 And for brass I will bring thee gold, and for iron I will bring thee silver, and instead of wood I will bring thee brass, and instead of stones, iron; and I will make thy princes peaceable, and thine overseers righteous. 18 And injustice shall no more be heard in th' land, nor destruction nor misery in th' coasts; but th' walls shall be called Salvation, and th' gates Sculptured Work. 19 And thou shalt no more have the sun for a light by day, nor shalt the rising of th' moon lighten thy night; but th' Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and God thy glory. 20 For th' sun shall no more set, nor shall th' moon be eclipsed; for th' Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and th' days of th' mourning shall be completed. 21 Thy people also shall be all righteous; they shall inherit th' land for ever, preserving that which they have planted, even the works of th'ir hands, for glory. 22 The little one shall become thousands, and th' least a great nation; I th' Lord will gather them in due time.

The Spirit of th' Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me; he has sent me to preach glad tidings to the poor, to heal th' broken in heart, to proclaim liberty to th' captives, and recovery of sight to th' blind; 2 to declare th' acceptable year of th' Lord, and th' day of recompence; to comfort all th' that mourn; 3 that there should be given to them that mourn in Sion glory instead of ashes, th' oil of joy instead of mourning, th' garment of glory for th' spirit of heaviness; and they shall be called generations of righteousness, th' planting of th' Lord for glory.

And th' shall build th' old waste places, they shall raise up those that were before made desolate, and shall renew th' desert cities, even those that had been desolate for many generations. 5 And strangers shall come and feed thy flocks, and aliens shall be thy ploughmen and vine-dressers. 6 But ye shall be called priests of th' Lord, th' ministers of God: ye shall eat th' strength of nations, and shall be admired because of th'ir wealth. 7 Thus shall th' Lorp inherit th' land a second time, and everlasting joy shall be upon th'ir hand. 8 For I am th' Lorp who love righteousness, and hate robberies of injustice; and I will give their labour to th' just, and will make an everlasting covenant with them. And th' righteous shall be known among th' Gentiles, and th'ir offspring in th' midst of peoples: every one that sees them shall take notice of th'ir steps, that th' are a seed blessed of God; 9 and th' shall greatly rejoice in th' Lord.

Let my soul rejoice in th' Lord; for he has clothed me with th' robe of salvation, and th' garments of joy: he has put a mitre on me as on a bridgeway, and adorned me with ornaments as a bride.

And as th' earth putting forth th'ir flowers, and as a garden its seed; so shall th' Lord, even th' Lord, cause righteousness to spring forth, and exultation before all nations.

For Sion's sake I will not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until her righteousness go forth as light, and my salvation burn as a torch. 2 And th' Gentiles shall see th'ir righteousness, and th'ir kings th'ir glory: and one shall call thee by a new name, which th' Lord shall name. And thou shalt be a crown of beauty in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God. 4And thou shalt no more be called Forsaken; and thy land shall no more be called Desert; for thou shalt be called My Pleasure, and thy land Inhabited: for the Lord has taken pleasure in thee, and thy land shall be inhabited.

8 And as a young man lives with a virgin, so shall thy sons dwell in thee: and it shall come to pass that as a bridegroom will rejoice over a bride, so will the Lord rejoice over thee.

6 And on thy walls, O Jerusalem, have I set watchmen all day and all night, who shall never cease making mention of the Lord. 7 For there is none like you, when he shall have established, and made Jerusalem a praise on the earth. 8 For the Lord has sworn by his glory, and by the might of his arm, I will no more give thy corn and thy provisions to thine enemies; nor shall strangers any more drink thy wine, for which thou hast laboured. 9 But they that have gathered them shall eat them, and they shall praise the Lord; and they that have gathered the grapes shall drink thereof in my holy courts.

10 Go through my gates, and make a way for my people; and cast the stones out of the way; lift up a standard for the Gentiles.

11 For behold, the Lord has proclaimed to the end of the earth, say ye to the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy Saviour has come to thee, having his reward and his work before his face. 12 And one shall call them the holy people, the redeemed of the Lord: and thou shalt be called a city sought out, and not forsaken.

Who is this that is come from Edom, with red garments from Bozor; who is this that is come from mount Moab, translated in garments of purple? 2 Wherefore are thy garments red, and thy raiment as if fresh from a trodden wine-press? 3 I am full of trodden grape, and of the nations there is not a man with me; and I trampled them in my fury, and dashed them down in my wrath, and made them a dross to the earth, and of the land made it a Desolate.

4 For the day of recompence has come upon them, and the year of redemption is at hand. 5 And I looked, and there was no helper; and I observed, and none upheld: therefore my arm delivered them, and mine anger drew nigh. 6 And I trampled them in mine anger, and brought down their blood to the earth. 7 I remembered the mercy of the Lord, the praises of the Lord in all things where-in he recompenses us. The Lord is a good judge to the house of Israel; he deals with us according to his mercy, and according to the abundance of his righteousness.

8 And he said, Is it not my people? the children surely will not be rebellious: and he became to them deliverance out of all their affliction: not an ambassador, nor a messenger, but himself saved them, because he loved them, and spared them: he himself redeemed them, and took them up, and lifted them up out of all the days of old.

10 But they disobeyed, and provoked his Holy Spirit: so he turned to be an enemy to himself, and contended against them. 11 Then he remembered the ancient days, saying, Where is he that brought up from the sea the shepherd of the sheep? where is he that put his Holy Spirit in them? 12 Who led Moses with his right hand, the arm of his glory? he forced the water to separate from before him, and made him an everlasting blessing. 13 He led them through the deep, as a horse through the wilderness, and they faint not, 14 and as cattle through a plain: the Spirit came down from the Lord, and guided them: thus thou leddest thy people, to make thyself a glorious name.

15 Turn from heaven, and look from thy holy habitation and from thy glory: where is thy zeal and thy strength? where is the abundance of thy mercy and of thy compassions, that thou hast withholden thyself from us? 16 For thou art our Father: for though Abraham knew us not, and Israel did not acknowledge us, yet do thou, O Lord, our Father, deliver us: thy name has been upon us from the beginning.

17 Why hast thou caused us to err, O Lord, from thy way? and hath hardened our hearts, that we should not fear thee? Return for thy servants’ sake, for the sake of the tribes of thine inheritance, 18 that we may inherit a small part of thy holy mountain.

19 We are become as at the beginning, when thou didst not rule over us, and thy name was called upon us.

20 If thou wouldest open the heaven, trembling will take hold upon the mountains from thee, and they shall melt, 21 as wax melts before the fire; and fire shall burn up the enemies, and thy name shall be manifest among the adversaries: at thy presence the nations shall be troubled, 22 whenever thou shalt work gloriously; trembling from thee shall take hold upon the mountains.

23 From of old we have not heard, neither have our eyes seen; a God beside thee, and thy works which thou wilt perform to them that sat in darkness. 24 For thy blessing shall happen to them that work righteousness; and they shall remember thy ways: behold, thou wast angry and we have sinned: therefore we have erred, 25 and we are all become as unclean, and all our righteousness as a filthy rag: and we have fallen as leaves because of our iniquities; thus the wind shall carry us away. 26 And there is none that calls upon thy name, or that remembers to take hold on thee: for thou hast turned thy face away from us, and hast delivered us up because of our sins.

27 And now, O Lord, thou art our Father, and we are clay, all of us the work of thine hands. 28 Be not very wroth with us, and remember not iniquity; neither cast us away, 29 but cause us to return, and guide us according to thy compassion and mercy. 30 The city of thy holiness has become desolate, Sion has become as a wilderness, Jerusalem a curse. 31 The house, our sanctuary, and the glory which our fathers blessed, has been burnt with fire: and all our glorious things have gone to ruin.

32 And for all things, our adversaries have trodden down thy sanctuary, 33 and paraded themselves over thy inheritance; they have burnt and melted thy name, as with fire.

34 And they shall look to thee and say, Where is thy ordinance, where is thy covenant of the day? 35 For the tabernacle of the congregation is spoiled, and the covenant of the people is broken. 36 He said, They have cast out my people, and they have sold their inheritance. 37 They have sold it, they have cast it out for nothing: they have looked upon the nations, and have taken their price, as if it had not been for me.

38 Therefore say, Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will punish all that exact tribute, and all that impose heavy burdens upon my people. 39 And they shall say, Where is the God of Sion, that bare their burdens? Where is the Lord of Sion, that saved them? 40 The Spirit of the Lord shall rise upon me, and his breath shall quicken me: and he shall lead me to the overshadowing of the children of the people, and I will cause the heathen to hear me: 41 the things that I have kept hid in my bosom from the beginning, that my people should know them.

42 The Lord has given me his right hand: and he shall assist me, and shall strengthen me like a mighty hero: and I shall smite many nations, and destroy many gentiles: 43 I shall turn my hand against the East, and lead them to the people, and I will set them, as the sun rises, and as the signs rise in his right hand.

44 They shall not be able to hold a candle for me: they shall sing songs of joy, and be glad. 45 The Lord is my strength, and my song: he shall become my praise.

46 The Lord is my strength, and he is my song: he shall become my praise. 47 The Lord is my strength, and he is my song: he shall become my praise.

these things thou, O Lord, hast withholden thyself, and been silent, and hast brought us very low.

1 I became manifest to them that asked not for me; I was found of them that sought me not: I said, Behold, I am here, to a nation, who called not on my name.

2 have stretched out all day to a disobedient and gain-saying people, to them that walked in a way that was not good, but after their sins. 3 This is the people that provokes me continually in my presence; they offer sacrifices in gardens, and burn incense on bricks to devils, which exist not. 4 They lie down to sleep in the tombs and in the caves for the sake of dreams, even that they eat swine's flesh, and the broth of their sacrifices: all their vessels are defiled:
5 who say, Depart from me, draw not nigh to me, for I am pure.

This is the smoke of my wrath, a fire burns with it continually. 6 Behold, it is written before me: I will not be silent until I have recompensed into their bosom, 7 their sins and the sins of their fathers; they have burned incense to other gods, the Lord, who have burdened the mountains, and reproached me on the hills: I will recompense their works into their bosom.

8 Thus saith the Lord, As a grape-stone shall be found in the cluster, and they shall say, Destroy it not; for a blessing is in it: so will I do for the sake of him that serves me, for his sake I will not destroy them all.

9 And I will lead forth the seed that came of Jacob and of Judah, and they shall inherit my holy mountain: and mine elect and my servants shall inherit it, and shall dwell there. 10 And there shall be in the forest folds of flocks, and the valley of Achor shall be for a resting-place of herds for my people, who have sought me.

11 But ye are they that have left me, and forget my holy mountain, and prepare a table for the devil, and fill up the ydrinking-offering to Fortune.

12 I will deliver you up to the sword, ye shall all fall by slaughter: for I called you, and ye heartened not; I spoke, and ye refused to hear; and ye did evil in my sight, and chose the things which I delights not.

2 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, my servants shall eat, but ye shall hunger: behold, my servants shall drink, but ye shall thirst: behold, my servants shall rejoice, but ye shall be ashamed: 14 behold, my servants shall exult with joy, but ye shall cry for the sorrow of your heart, and shall howl for the vexation of your spirit. 15 For ye shall leave your name for a loathing to my chosen, and the Lord shall destroy you: but my servants shall be called by a new name, which shall be blessed on the earth; for they shall bless the true God: and they that swear upon the earth shall swear by the true God; for they shall forget the former affliction, and it shall not be remembered.

17 For there shall be a new heaven and a new earth: and they shall not at all remember the former, neither shall they at all come into their mind. 18 But they shall find in her joy and exultation; for, behol,
I make Jerusalem a rejoicing, and my people a joy. 13 And I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and will be glad in my people: and there shall be no more be heard in her the voice of weeping, or the voice of crying. 14 Neither shall there be there any more a child that dies untimely, or an old man that shall not complete his time; 15 for the youth shall be a hundred years old, and the sinner who dies at a hundred years old shall also be accursed; 16 and they shall build houses, and they shall inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and themselves shall eat the fruit thereof. 22 They shall by no means build, and others inhabit; and they shall by no means plant, and others eat: for as the days of the tree of life shall be the days of my people, they shall long enjoy the fruits of their labours. 23 My chosen shall not toil in vain, neither shall they beget children to be cursed; for they are a seed blessed of God, and their offspring with them. 24 And it shall come to pass, that before they call, I will hearken to them; while they are yet speaking, I will say, What is it? 25 Then wolves and lambs shall feed together, and the lion shall eat the serpent as the ox, and the child shall dwell with a serpent. They shall not injure nor destroy in my holy mountain, saith the Lord. Thus saith the Lord, 3 Heavens is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: what kind of a house will ye build me? and of what kind is to be the place of my rest? 4 For all these things are mine, saith the Lord: and to whom will I respect, but to the humble and meek, and the man that trembles at my words? 5 But the transgressor that sacrifices a calf to me, is as he that kills a dog; and he that offers fine flour, as one that offers swine's blood; he that gives frankincense for a memorial, is as a blasphemerc. Yet thou hast chosen thy own ways, and their soul has delighted in their abominations. 6 I also will choose their mockeries, and will recompense their sins upon them; because I called them, and they did not hearken to me; I spoke, and they heard not: and they did evil before me, and chose the thing wherein I delighted not. 7 Hear the words of the Lord, ye that tremble at his word; speak ye, our brethren, to them that hate you and abominate you, that the name of the Lord may be glorified, and may appear their joy; but they shall be ashamed. 8 A voice of a cry from the city, a voice from the temple, a voice of the Lord rendering recompence to his adversaries. 7 Before she that travailed brought forth, before the travail-pain came on, she escaped it and brought forth a male. 8 Who has heard such a thing? and who has seen after this manner? Has the earth travailed in one day? or has even a nation been born at once, that Sion has travailed, and brought forth her children? 9 But I have raised this expectation, yet thou hast not remembered me, saith the Lord: behold, have not I made the bearing and barren woman? saith thy God.

I E R E M I A S.

THE word of God, which came to Jeremias the son of Oheleias, of the priests, who dwelt in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin: 2 according as the word of God came to him in the days of Josias son of Amos king of Juda, in the thirteenth year of his reign. 3 And it was in the days of Josias son of Josias king of Juda, even until the captivity of Jerusalem in the fifth month. 4 And the word of the Lord came to him, saying, 5 Before I formed thee in the belly, I knew thee; and before thou camest forth from the womb, I sanctified thee; I appointed thee a prophet to the nations. 6 And I said, O Lord, thou art the Supreme Lord, behold, I know not how to speak, for I am a child. 7 And the Lord said to me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all whomsoever I shall send thee, and according to all the words that I shall command thee, thou shalt speak. 8 Be not afraid before them: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord. 9 And the Lord stretched forth his hand to me, and touched my mouth: and the Lord said to me, Behold, I have put my words into thy mouth. 10 Behold, I have appointed thee this day over nations and over kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to build, and to plant. 11 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, What seest thou? And I said, A rod of a chythar tree. 12 And the Lord said to me, Thou hast well seen: for I have watched over my words to perform them. 13 And the word of the Lord came to me a second time, saying, What seest thou? And I said, A caldron on the fire; and the face of it is toward the north. 14 And the Lord said to me, From the north shall flame forth evils upon all the inhabitants of the land. 15 For, behold, I call together all the kingdoms of the earth from the north, saith the Lord; and they shall come, and shall set each one his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, and against all the walls round about her, and against all the cities of Juda. 16 And I will speak to them in judgment, concerning all their iniquity, forasmuch as they have forsaken me, and sacrificed to strange gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands. 17 And do thou gird up thy loins, and stand up, and speak all the words that I shall command thee: be not afraid of their face, neither be thou alarmed before them; for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord. 10 Behold, I have made thee this day as a stately city, and as a bait against all the kings of Judah, and the princes thereof, and the people of the land. And they shall fight against thee; but they shall by no means prevail against thee; because I am with thee, to deliver thee, saith the Lord.

And he said, Thus saith the Lord, 11 I remember the kindness of thy youth, and the love of thine espousals, 12 in following the Holy One of Israel, saith the Lord. Israel was the holy people to the Lord, and the first-fruits of his increase: all that devoured him shall offend; evils shall come upon them, saith the Lord.

Hear the word of the Lord O house of Jacob, and every family of the house of Israel. Thus saith the Lord, What trespass have your fathers found in me, that they have revolted far from me, and gone after vanities, and become vain? 2 And they said not, Where is the Lord? and they that held by the law knew me not: the shepherds also sinned against me, and the prophets prophesied by Baal, and went after that which profited not.

Therefore I will yet plead with you, and will plead with your children's children.

For go to the isles of the Chettians, and see; and send to Kedar, and observe accurately, and see if such things have been done; 4 if the nations will change their gods, though they are not gods: but my people shall dwell in their land, and all that forsake them shall be devoured; 5 their name shall not be remembered among men.

The heaven is amazed at this, and is very exceedingly horror-struck, saith the Lord. 6 For my people hath committed two faults, and evil ones: they have forsaken me, the fountain of water of life, and hewn out for themselves broken cisterns, which will not be able to hold water.

Is Israel a servant, or a home-born slave? why has he become a spoil? 8 The lions roared upon him, and uttered their voice, which have made his land a wilderness: and his cities are broken down, that they should not be inhabited. 9 Also the children of Memphis and Taphnas have known thee, and mocked thee. 10 Has not thy foresworn one of these things upon thee, saith the Lord thy God?

And now what hast thou to do with the way of Egypt, to drink the water of Geon? and what hast thou to do with the way of the Assyrians, to drink the water of rivers? 11 Thine apostasy shall correct thee, and thy wickedness shall reprove thee: know then, and see, that thy forsaking me has been bitter to thee, saith the Lord thy God; and I have taken no pleasure in thee, saith the Lord thy God. 2 For of old thou hast broken thy yoke, and plucked asunder thy bands; and thou hast said, I will not serve, but will go upon every high thing under heaven; none shall rule thee. Yet I planted thee a fruitful vine, rentirely of the right sort: how art thou a strange vine turned to bitterness? 22 Though thou shouldst cast thyself with nitre, and multiply to thyself soap, still thou art stained by thine impieties before me, saith the Lord. 23 How say, I am not polluted, and have not gone after Baal? behold thy ways in the burial-ground, and know what thou hast done; her voice has howled in the evening; 24 she has extended her ways over the waters of the desert; she was hurried along by the lusts of her soul; she is given up to them, who will burn and undo her? none that should be saved will be saved; at the time of her humiliation they shall find her. 25 Withdraw thy foot from a rough way, and thy throat from thist: but she said, I will strengthen myself: for she loved strangers, and went after them. 26 As is the shame of a thief when he is caught, so shall the children of Israel be ashamed: they, and their kings, and their princes, and their priests, and their prophets. 27 They said to a stock, Thou art my father; and to a stone, Thou hast begotten me; and they have turned their backs to me, and not to their faces; yet in the time of their afflictions they will say, Arise, and save us. 28 And where are thy gods, which thou madest for thyself? will they arise and save in the time of thin eaffliction? for according to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Judah; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem they sacrificed to Baal. 29 Wherefore do ye speak unto me? ye all have been ungodly, and ye all have transgressed against me, saith the Lord. 30 In vain have I smitten your children; ye have not received correction: a sword has devoured your prophets as a destroying lion; yet ye feared not. 31 Hear ye the word of the Lord; thus saith the Lord, Have I been a wilderness or a dry land to Israel? wherefore has my people said, We will not be ruled over, and will not come to thee any more? 32 Will a bride forget her ornaments, or a virgin her girdle? but my people has forgotten me days without number. 33 What fair device wilt thou yet employ in thy ways, so as to seek love? it shall not be so; moreover thou hast done wickedly in corrupting thy ways; and in the hands thereof has been shed the blood of innocent souls; I have not found them in holes, but on every oak. 34 Yet thou saidst, I am innocent: only let his wrath be turned away from me. Behold, I will plead with thee, whereas thou sayest, I have not sinned. 35 For thou has been so exceedingly intemperate as to repeat thy ways; but thou shalt be ashamed of Egypt, as thou wast ashamed of Kairion, as I have said, and I will give I will destroy and I will turn my hand against thee, and I will scatter thee among the nations, and will hand thee over to the enemies of the earth. 36 Thou that hast not been polluted, and hast not gone after Baal, I will scatter thee among the heathen, and will hand thee over to the enemies of the earth, and I will take thee out of the land which I gave to thy fathers, and will destroy thee, saith the Lord.

Assur. 3For thou shalt go forth thence also with thine hands upon thine head; for the Lord has rejected thine hope, and thou shalt not prosper in it.

If a man put away his wife, and she depart from him, and become another man's, shall she return to him any more at all? shall not that woman be utterly defiled? yet thou hast gone a-whoring with many shepherds, and hast returned to me, saith the Lord. 2Lift up thine eyes to look straight forward, and see where thou hast not been utterly defiled. Thou hast sat for them by the wayside, as a crooked bow; and hast defiled the land with thy fornications and thy wickedness. 3And thou didst retain many shepherds for a stumbling-block to thyself: thou hast a whore's face, thou didst become shameless toward all.

4Hast thou not called me as it were a home, and the father and guide of thy virgin-time? 5Will God's anger continue for ever, or be preserved to the end? Behold, thou hast spoken and done these bad things, and hast power to do them.

6And the Lord said to me in the days of Josias the king, Hast thou seen what things the house of Israel has done to me? they have gone on every high mountain, and under every shady tree, and have committed fornication there. 7And I said after she had committed all these acts of fornication, Turn again to me. Yet she returned not. And faithless Juda saw her faithlessness. 8And I saw that (for all the sins of which she was convicted, wherein the house of Israel committed adultery, and I put her away, and gave into her hands a bill of divorce,) yet faithless Juda feared not, but went and herself also committed fornication. 9And her fornication was nothing accounted of; and she committed adultery with wood and stone. 10And for all these things faithless Juda turned not to me with all her heart, but falsely.

11And the Lord said to me, Israel has justified himself more than faithless Juda. 12Go and read these words toward the north, and thou shalt say, Return to me. O house of Israel, saith the Lord; and I will not set my face against you: for I am merciful, saith the Lord, and I will not be angry with you for ever. 13Nevertheless, know thine iniquity, that thou hast sinned against the Lord thy God, and hast scattered thy ways to strangers under every shady tree, but thou didst not hearken to my voice, saith the Lord. 14Turn, ye children that have revolted, saith the Lord; for I will rule over you: and I will take you one of a city, and two of a family, and I will bring you in to Sion: 15and I will give you shepherds after my heart, and they shall certainly tend you with knowledge.

16And it shall come to pass that when ye are multiplied and increased upon the land, saith the Lord, in those days they shall say no more, The ark of the covenant of the Lord of Israel: it shall not come to mind; it shall not be named; neither shall it be visited; nor shall this be done.

8 See Heb. also other similar passages. 9 Gr. if. any more. 17 In those days and at that time they shall call Jerusalem the throne of the Lord; and all the nations shall be gathered to it: and they shall no more walk after the imaginations of their evil heart.

18 In those days the house of Judah shall come together to the house of Israel, and they shall come, together, from the land of the north, and from all the countries, to the land, which I caused their fathers to inherit. And I said, So be it, Lord, for thou saidst, I will set thee among children, and will give thee a choice land, the inheritance of the Almighty God of the Gentiles: and I said, Yea shall call me Father; and ye shall not turn away from me. 20 But as a wife acts treacherously against her husband, so has the house of Israel dealt treacherously against me, saith the Lord.

A voice from the lips was heard, even of weeping and supplication of the children of Israel: for they have dealt unrighteously in their ways, they have forgotten God their Holy One. 2 Turn, ye children that are given to turning, and I will heal your bruises. Behold, we will be thy servants; for thou art the Lord our God. 21 Truly the hills and the strength of the mountains were a lying refuge: but by the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel. 22 But shame has consumed the labours of our fathers from our youth; their sheep and their calves, and their sons and their daughters. We have lain down in our shame, and our disgrace has covered us: because we and our fathers have sinned before our God, from our youth until this day; and we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God.

If Israel will return to me, saith the Lord, he shall return: and if he will remove his abominations out of his mouth, and fear before me, and swear, 2 The Lord lives, with truth, in judgment and righteousness, then shall nations bless by him, and by him they shall praise God in Jerusalem. 3 For thus saith the Lord to the men of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Break up fresh ground for yourselves, and sow not among thorns. Circumcise yourselves to your God, and circumcise your hardness of heart, ye men of Juda, and inhabitants of Jerusalem: lest my wrath go forth as fire, and burn, and there be none to quench it, because of the evil of your devices.

Declare ye in Juda, and let it be heard in Jerusalem: say ye, Sound the trumpet in the land: cry ye aloud: say ye, Gather yourselves together, and let us enter into the fortified cities. Gather up your vases and flee to Sion: hasten, stay not; for I will bring evils from the north, and great destruction. The lion is gone up from his lair, he has roused himself to the destruction of the nations, and has gone forth out of his place, to make the land desolate; and the cities shall be destroyed, so as to be without inhabitant. For these things gird yourselves with sackclothes, and lament, and howl: for the anger of the Lord is not and have hidden themselves in the groves, and have gone up upon the rocks: every city was abandoned, no man dwelt in them. 30 And what wilt thou do? Though thou clothe thyself with scarlet, and adorn thyself with gold ornaments; though thou adorn thine eyes with stibium, thy beauty will be in vain: thy lovers have rejected thee, they seek thy life.

31 For I have heard thy groaning as the voice of a woman in travail; as of her that brings forth her first child; the voice of the daughter of Zion shall fall through weakness, and she shall lose the strength of her hands, saying, Woe is me! for my soul faints because of the slain.

Run ye about in the streets of Jerusalem, and see, and know, and seek in her broad places, if ye can find one, if there is any one that does judgment, and seeks faithfulness; and I will pardon them, saith the Lord. 2 The Lord lives, they say; do they not therefore swear falsely? 3 O Lord, thine eyes are upon faithfulness: thou hast scourged them, but they have not grieved; thou hast laid bare their faults, but they would not receive correction: they have made their faces harder than a rock; and they would not return. 4 Then I said, It may be they are poor; for they are weak, for they know not the way of the Lord, or the judgment of God. 5 I will go to the rich men, and will speak to them; for they have known the way of the Lord, and the judgment of God: but, behold, with one consent they have broken the yoke, they have burst the bonds.

6 Therefore has a lion out of the forest smitten them, and a wolf has destroyed them even to their houses, and a leopard has watched against their cities: all that go forth from them shall be hunted: for they have multiplied their Ungodliness, they have strengthened themselves in their revolting. 7 In what way shall I forgive thee for these things? Thy sons have forsaken me, and sworn by them that are no gods; and I fed them to the full, and they commited whoredoms, and lodged in harlots' houses. 8 They became as wanton horses: they neighed each one after his neighbour's wife. 9 Shall I not visit for these things? saith the Lord: and shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this.

10 Go up upon her battlements, and break them down; but make not a full end, leave her buttresses: for they are the Lord's. 11 For the house of Israel have indeed dealt treacherously against me, saith the Lord; the house of Juda also have lied to their Lord, and they have said, These things are not so: no evils shall come upon us; and we shall not see sword or famine. 12 Our prophets became wind, and the word of the Lord was not in them. 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord Almighty. Because ye have spoken this word, behold, I have made my words in thy mouth fire, and this people wood, and it shall devour them. 14 Behold, I will bring upon you a nation from far, O house of Israel, saith the Lord; a nation the sound of whose language

The page contains a translation of Scripture, specifically from the Book of Jeremiah chapter 16, verses 16 through 21. The text is in Greek, followed by a corresponding English translation. The Greek text is numbered and appears to be part of a larger scriptural passage. The English translation includes commentary or analysis of the Greek text. The content deals with themes of judgment, destruction, and repentance, typical of prophetic literature.
noon. Woe to us! for the day has gone down, for the shadows of the day fail.
* Rise, and let us go up against her by night, and destroy her foundations.
* For thus saith the Lord, Hew down her trees, 3array a numerous force against Jerusalem. O false city; there is all oppression in her. 7 As a cistern cools water, so her wickedness and iniquity shall be heard in her, as continually before her. 8 Thou shalt be chastened, O Jerusalem, with pain and the scourge, lest my soul depart from thee; lest I make thee a desert land, which shall not be inhabited.
* For thus saith the Lord, Go down to Gath, and stand by it no more: for I have destroyed it.
* The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works.
* He turneth the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, that I may turn their hearts to the Lord their God, and they may be saved.
* For thus saith the Lord, Go down to theenk, and stand in the breach, and hearken, and I shall give thee ears to hear.
* I have hear the voice of mine adversaries, and the voice of them that rose up against me: but I am not afraid of their fury, neither shall I take it to heart.
* Hearken and hearken, O house of Jacob; I am not a God of vengeance, I am a God of mercy.
* Hearken, O house of Jacob, and all the house of Israel, that the Lord, your God, the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saith: Take heed to yourselves for what manner of things ye shall do.
* For thus saith the Lord of hosts: Return unto me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of hosts.
* As in the days and the years of the kings of Judah, so shall they be unto the place which I have chosen to set my name there.
* Thus saith the Lord, As the chaff is driven with the winnowing-fan out of the wheat, so have I driven it out of my house; and there shall be no more the oppressor any more, nor any oppressor any more.
* Hear, O house of David, and all Judah and Israel, and Ephraim and Manasseh, that I brought back out of captivity; for I have ransomed them, I have ransomed them from all places where they were cast away.
* Thus saith the Lord, I will restore the captivity of Judah and the captivity of Israel, and I will build them, as in the days of old.
* Thus saith the Lord: For the sake of my servant David, and for the sake of Jerusalem my city, I will not cause the name of my city to be removed any more out of the heart of my people for ever.
* Therefore saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evil upon this people, even the fruit of their revolutions; for they have not heeded my words, and they have rejected my law.
* Wherefore do ye bring me frankincense, and cumin, and myrrh, from a land afar off? your whole-burnt-offerings are not acceptable, and your sacrifices have not been pleasant to me.
* Therefore saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring weakness upon this people, and the fathers and sons shall be weak together; the neighbour and his friend shall perish.
* Thus saith the Lord, Behold, a people comes from the north, and nations shall be stirred up from the end of the earth.
23 They shall lay hold on bow and spear; the people is fierce, and will have no mercy; their voice is as the roaring sea; they shall array themselves for war against thee as fire on horses and chariots, O daughter of Sion.$

24 We have heard the report of them: our hands are weakened: anguish hath seized us, the pangs as of a woman in travail. 25 Go not forth into the field, and walk not in the ways; for the sword of the enemy lingers round about. 26 O daughter of my people, gird thyself with sackcloth: sprinkle thyself with ashes, make for thyself pitiable lamentation, as the mourning for a beloved son: for misery will come suddenly upon you.

27 I have caused thee to be tried among tried nations, and thou shalt know me when I have tried their way. 28 They are all disobedient, walking perversely: they are brass and iron; they are all corrupted. 29 The bowels that were failed from the fire, the lead has failed: the silversmith works at his trade in vain; their wickedness is not consumed. 30 Cell ye them reprobate silver because the Lord has rejected them.

29 Hear ye the word of the Lord, all Judæa. 30 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Correct your ways and your devices, and I will cause you to dwell in this place. 31 Trust not in yourselves with lying words, for they shall not profit you at all, saying, It is the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord.

32 For if ye thoroughly correct your ways and your practices, and do indeed execute judgment between a man and his neighbour: 33 and oppress not the stranger, the orphan, and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, and go not after strange gods to your hurt; 34 then will I cause you to dwell in this place, in the land which I gave to your fathers of old and for ever.

35 But whereas ye have trusted in lying words, whereby ye shall not be profited; 36 and ye murder, and commit adultery, and steal, and swear falsely, and burn incense to Baal, and are gone after strange gods whom ye know not, 37 so that it is evil with you; yet have ye come, and stood before me in the house, wherein my name is called, and ye have said, We have refrained from doing all these abominations. 38 Is my house, wherein my name is called, yea, den of robbers in your eyes? And, behold, I have seen it, saith the Lord. 39 For go ye to my place which is in Selo, where I caused my name to dwell before, and see what I did it to because of the wickedness of my people Israel.

40 And now, because ye have done all these deeds, and I spoke to you, but ye hearkened not to me; and I called you, but ye answered not; therefore also I will do to the house wherein my name is called, wherein ye trust, and to the place which I gave to you and to your fathers, as I did to Selo. 41 And I will cast you out of my sight, as I cast away your brethren, all the seed of Epheraim.
16 Therefore pray not thou for this people, and intercede not for them to be pitied, yea, pray not, and approach me not for them: for I will not hearken unto thee.
17 Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem? Their children gather wood, and their fathers kindle a fire, and their women knead dough, to make cakes to the host of heaven; and they have poured out drink-offerings to strange gods, that they might provoke me to anger.
18 Do they provoke me to anger? saith the Lord; do they not provoke themselves, that their faces may be ashamed?
19 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, my anger and wrath shall be poured out upon this place, and upon the men, and upon the cattle, and upon every tree of their field, and upon the fruits of the land; and it shall burn, and not be quenched.
20 Thus saith the Lord, Gather your whole-burnt-offerings with your meat-offerings, and eat flesh.
21 For I spoke not to your fathers, nor did they hear when I commanded them by the hand of my servants the prophets, day by day and early in the morning: as I have sent you to all your servants the prophets, so have I not hearkened to me, and their ears waxed dull, and their eyes were blinded.
22 For I spake not with these people, neither did I speak to them in the sight of my servants the prophets, whom I sent to them again and again; but they hearkened not to me, and their ears waxed dull, and they made their neck harder than their fathers.
23 Therefore shalt thou speak this word to them; This is the nation which has not hearkened to the voice of the Lord, nor received correction: truth has failed from under their mouth.
24 Cut off thine hair, and cast it away, and take up a lamentation on thy lips; for the Lord has reproved and rejected the generation that does these things.
25 For the children of Juda have wrought evil before me, saith the Lord; they have set their abominations in the house on which my name is called, to defile it.
26 And they have built the altar of Taphath, which is in the valley of the son of Ennom, to burn their sons and their daughters with fire; which I did not command them to do, neither did I design it in my heart.
27 Therefore behold, the Lord, when they shall no more say, The altar of Taphath, and the valley of the son of Ennom; and they shall bury in Taphath, for want of room.
28 And the dead bodies of this people shall be for food to the birds of the sky, and to the wild beasts of the earth; and there shall be none to drive them away.

17.15-27 Is a warning to the people to not provoke the Lord further by continuing their evil ways.

20.1-2 Is a command to gather offerings and eat flesh, indicating the severity of the situation.

23.1-27 Describes the consequences for the nation if they continue to reject God's commands.

27.1-27 Is a prophetic statement about the future judgment of the people.
will destroy out of the cities of Juda, and the streets of Jerusalem, the voice of them that make merry, and the voice of them that rejoice, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride; for the whole land shall become a desolation.

At that time, saith the Lord, they shall bring out the bones of the kings of Juda, and the bones of his princes, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of their graves; and they shall spread them out to the sun, and the moon, and to all the stars, and to all the host of heaven, which they have loved, and which they have served, and after which they have walked, and to which they have held, and which they have worshipped; they shall not be mourned for, neither shall they be buried; but they shall be for an example on the face of the earth, because they chose death rather than life, even to all the remnant that are left of that family, in every place whither I shall drive them out.

For thus saith the Lord, Shall not he that was turned away, turn again? And shall he not that is driven away, be driven again? Wherefore has this my people turned away with a shameless revolting, and strengthened themselves in their wilfulness, and refused to return? 6 Hearken, I pray you, and hear; will they not speak thus, There is no man that repenteth of his wickedness, saying, What have I done? the runner has flailed from his course, as a tired horse in his bearing.

7 Yea, the stork in the heaven knows her time, also the turtle-dove and wild swallow the sparrows observe the times of their coming in; but this my people knows not the judgments of the Lord.

8 How will ye say, We are wise, and the law of the Lord is with us? In vain have the scribes used a false pen. 9 The wise men are ashamed, and alarmed, and taken; because they have rejected the word of the Lord; what wisdom is there in them?

10 Therefore will I give their wives to others, and their fields to new inheritors; and they shall gather their fruits, saith the Lord. 11 There are no grapes on the vines, and there are no figs on the fig-trees, and the leaves are withered off, and the fruits are withered off.

12 Why do we sit still? assemble yourselves, and let us enter into the strong cities, and let us be cast out there; for God has cast us out, and made us drink water of gall, because we have sinned before him. 13 We assembled for peace, but there was no prosperity; for a time of healing, but behold anxiety.

14 We shall hear the neighing of his swift horses out of Dan; the whole land quaked at the sound of the neighing of his horses; and he shall come, and devour the land and the fulness of it; the city, and them that dwell in it. 15 For, behold, I send forth against you deadly serpents, which cannot be charmed, and they shall bite you mortally with the pangs of an extremest heart.

16 Behold, there is a sound of the cry of the daughter of my people from a land afar off: Is not the Lord in Sion? Is there not...
Jeremias VIII. 20—I X. 16.

And in the eighth year of their captivity, in the second month, on the twenty-fourth day, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

A king there? because they have provoked me with their graven images, and with strange vanities. 2 The summer is gone, the harvest is past, and we are not saved.

3 For the breach of the daughter of my people I have been saddened: in my plague pangs have seized upon me as of a woman in travail. 4 And is there no balm in Galalad, or is there no physician there? why has not the healing of the daughter of my people taken place?

5 Who will give water to my head, and a fountain of tears to my eyes? then would I weep on my people day and night, even for the slain of the daughter of my people.

6 Who would give me a most distant lodge in the wilderness, that I might leave my people, and depart from them? for they all commit adultery, an assembly of treacherous men. 7 And they have bent their tongue like a bow: falsehood and not faithfulness has prevailed upon the earth; for they have gone on from evil to evil, and have not known me, saith the Lord. 8 Beware ye each of his neighbour, and trust ye not in your brethren: for every one will surely supplant, and every friend will walk craftily. 9 Every one will mock his friend; they will not speak truth: their tongue has learned to speak falsehoods; they have committed iniquity; they ceased not, so as to return. 10 There is usury upon usury, and deceit upon deceit: they would not know me, saith the Lord.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will try them with fire, and prove them; for I will do thus because of the wickedness of the daughter of my people. 12 Their tongue is a wounded arrow; the words of their mouth are deceitful: one speaks peaceably to his neighbour, but in himself retains enmity. 13 Shall I not visit for these things? saith the Lord, and shall not my soul be avenged on such a people as this? 14 Take up a lamentation for the mountains, and a mourning song for the hills, and let them hear the way that they have gone, and the mourning of the daughters of Judah, which they have not known. 15 For they went as Farao had gone; they were desolate for want of men; they heard not the sound of life from the birds of the sky, nor the cattle: they were amazed, they are gone. 16 And I will remove the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and make it a dwelling-place of dragons; and I will utterly waste the cities of Juda, so that they shall not be inhabited.

17 Who is the wise man, that he may understand this? and he who has the word of the mouth of the Lord addressed to him, let him tell you wherefore the land has been destroyed, has been ravaged by fire like a desert, so that no one passes through it. 18 And the Lord said to me, Because they have sown among the nations, and I set before them, and have not hearkened to my voice; 19 but went after the lusts of their evil heart, and after the idols which their fathers taught them to worship: 20 therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I will feed them with trouble and will cause them to drink water of gall, and I will scatter them among the nations, to whom neither they nor their fathers knew; and I will send a sword upon them, until I have consumed them with it.

21 'Epi suntríymata thýgaros laóv mou ékotóthén: en átopria kátasxúmatan me Ædións ós tiktóthén. Kaire, mi jíthén ouk èstivn én Galalado, 1 wvrotos ouk éstivn ékei; dia to ouk ávēthi saías thýgaros laóv mou;

23 Their falsehood and their deceit, their words, and their sight, and their subversion, and their speech, are with them, and they shall not be inhabited. 24 For I will bring the day of evil upon the inhabitants of the earth: and they shall ask me for water, and I will give them the river of tears for the drinking.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give over the princes of Juda to the king of Babylon; and he shall slay with his sword their blood, from the city to the city, and from the house to the house. 26 Moreover he shall slay with the sword the women and children of the inhabitants of the land, and destroy it from the midst of it, and give it for a spoil of exultation to them: 27 and they shall spread out their scaffoldings in white, and shoot arrows of fire: and he shall slay with the sword the inhabitants of the land from the city to the city, and from the house to the house, and from the field to the field; and he shall make a spoil of all that they have: 28 and every one that heleth shall utter a lamentation, and weep bitterly, and rend his soul with sorrow, and cut his hair: and every one shall languish for his pleasant things, and regard not his pleasant things; 29 and behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will send a famine upon the land, not a famine of food, neither a famine of water, but a famine of hearing the word of the Lord; 30 and they shall stagger from side to side, as a drunkard staggereth: and the law shall perish from the mouth, and there shall be no more a doctrine in the earth.
17 Thus saith the Lord, Call ye the mourning women, and let them come; and send to the wise women, and let them utter their voice; and let them take up a lamentation for you, and let your ears pour down tears, and your eyelids drop water.

18 For a voice of lamentation has been heard in Sion, How are we become wretched! we are greatly ashamed, for we have forsaken the land, and have abandoned our tabernacles!

19 Hear now, ye women, the word of God, and let your ears receive the words of his mouth, and teach your daughters lamentation, and every woman her neighbour a dirge.

20 For death has come up through your windows, it has entered into our land, to destroy the infants without, and the young men from the streets. And the carcases of the men shall be for an example on the face of the field of your land, like grass after the mower, and there shall be none to gather them.

21 Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man boast in his wisdom, and let not the strong man boast in his strength, and let not the rich man boast in his wealth;

22 but let him that boasts boast in this, the understanding and knowing that I am the Lord the wise, and judgment, and righteousness, upon the earth; for in these things is my pleasure, saith the Lord.

23 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will visit upon all the circumcised their uncircumcision; upon Egypt, and on Idumea, and on Edom, and on the children of Ammon, and on the children of Moab, and on every one that shaves his face round about, even them that dwell in the wilderness; for all the Gentiles are uncircumcised in flesh, and all the house of Israel are uncircumcised in their hearts.

24 Hear ye the word of the Lord, which he has spoken to you, O house of Israel.

25 Thus saith the Lord, Learn ye not the ways of the heathen, and be not alarmed at the signs of heaven, and at the works of the earth; for even at these times, saith the Lord, the Lord thy God shall make the signs and the wonders, in the heaven, and in the earth; but they shall not befall thee.

26 Thus saith the Lord, Am I not the God that stretched out the heavens, and laid the foundations thereof; is my hand shortened, that I cannot restore you, says the Lord, your creator, and maker of all things? does the Lord rest, saith he, will he not destroy it? can he be wearied, that he should not make it? and will he not determine it? saith the Lord.

27 Thus shall ye say to them, Let the gods which have not made heaven and earth perish from off the earth, and from under this sky.

28 It is the Lord that made the earth by his strength, who set up the world by his wisdom, and by his understanding stretched out the sky, and set abundance of waters in the sky, and brought up clouds from the ends of the earth; he made lightnings for the rain, and brought forth light.
out of his treasures. Everyone is deprived of knowledge, every goldsmith is confounded because of his graven images; for he has cast false gods, there is no breath in them. They are vain works, wrought in mockery; in the time of their visitation they shall perish. Such is not the portion of Jacob; for he has formed all things, he is his inheritance; the Lord is his name.

He has gathered thy substance from without that lodged in choice vessels. For thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will overthrow the inhabitants of this land with affliction, that thy plague may be discovered. Ahas for thy ruin! thy plague is grievous; and I said, Surely this is thy wound, and it has overtaken thee. Thy tabernacle is in a ruinous state, it has perished; and all thy curtains have been torn asunder: my children and my cattle are no more: there is no more any place for my tabernacle, nor place for my curtains. For the shepherds have become foolish, and have not sought the Lord; therefore the whole pasture has failed, and the sheep have been scattered. Behold, there comes a sound of a noise, and a great earthquake from the land of the north, to make the cities of Judah a desolation, and a resting-place for ostriches.

I know, O Lord, that man's way is not his own; neither shall a man go, and direct his going. Chasten us, O Lord, but with judgment; and not in wrath, lest thou make us few. Pour out thy wrath upon the nations that have not known thee, and upon the families that have not called upon thy name: for they have devoured Jacob, and consumed him, and have made his pasture desolate.

The word that came to Jeremias from the Lord, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and thou shalt speak to the men of Judah, and to the dwellers in Jerusalem; and thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Cursed is the man, who shall not hearken to the words of this covenant, which I commanded your fathers, in the day wherein I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, out of the iron furnace, saying, Hearken to my voice, and do all things that I shall command you; so shall ye be to me a people, and I will be to you a God; that I may confirm mine oath, which I sware to your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is this day. Then I answered and said, So be it, O Lord. And the Lord said to me, Read these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them. But they did them not.

And the Lord said to me, A conspiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the dwellers in Jerusalem. They are turned aside to the iniquities of their fathers that were of old, who would not hearken to my words: and, behold, they go after strange gods, to serve them: and the 11 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I bring evils upon this people, out of which they shall not be able to come forth; and they shall protest, and cry to me, but I will not hearken to them.

12 And the cities of Judah and the dwellers in Jerusalem shall go, and cry to the gods to whom they burn incense; which shall not deliver them in the time of their troubles. For according to the number of the thy cities were thy gods, O Judah; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem have ye set up altars to burn incense to Baal.

14 And thou, pray not for this people, and intercede not for them in supplication and prayer: for I will not hear in the day in which they call upon me, in the day of their affliction.

15 Why has my beloved wrought abomination in my house? will prayers and holy offerings take away thy wickedness from thee, or shall thou escape by these things?

16 The Lord called by these names a fair olive tree, of a goodly shade in appearance, at the noise of its being lopped, fire was kindled against it; great is the affliction coming upon thee: her branches are become good for nothing. And the Lord that planted thee has pronounced evils against thee, because of the iniquity of the house of Israel and the house of Judah, whatsoever they have done against themselves to provoke me to anger by burning incense to Baal.

18 O Lord, teach me, and I shall know: then I saw their practices. But I as an innocent lamb led to the slaughter, knew not: against me they devised an evil device, saying, Come and let us put wood into his bread, and let us utterly destroy him from off the land of the living, and let his name not be remembered any more. O Lord, that judgest righteously, trying the reins and hearts, let me see thy vengeance taken upon them, for to thee I have declared my cause.

21 Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning the men of Anathoth, that seek my life, that say, Thou shalt not prophesy at all in the name of the Lord, but if thou dost, thou shall die by our hands: Behold, I will visit them: their young men shall die by the sword; and their sons and their daughters shall die of famine: and there shall be no remnant of them; for I will bring evil upon the dwellers in Anathoth, in the year of their visitation.

Righteous art thou, O Lord, that I may make my defence to thee, yea, I will speak to thee of judgments. Why is it that the way of ungodly men prosperous? that all that deal very treacherously are flourishing? The Lord hath planted them, and they have taken root; they have begotten children, and become fruitful; thou art near to their mouth, and far from their reins. But thou, Lord, knowest me; thou hast proved my heart before thee; purify them for the day of their slaughter. How long shall the land mourn, and the grass of the field with, for the wickedness of them that dwell in it? the beasts and birds are utterly destroyed; because the people said, God shall not see our ways.

9 Thy feet run, and they cause thee to faint; how wilt thou prepare to ride upon horses? and thou hast been confounded in the land of thy peace? how wilt thou do in the roasting of Jordan? 8 For even thy brethren and the house of thy father, even these have dealt treacherously with thee; and they have cried out, they are gathered together in pursuit of thee; trust not thou in them, though they speak fair words to thee. 7 I have forsaken mine house, I have left mine heritage; I have given my beloved one into the hands of her enemies. 8 My inheritance has become to me as a lion in a forest; she has uttered her voice against me; therefore have I hated her. 9 Is not my inheritance to me a Syræa, or a cave round about her? Go ye, gather together all the wild beasts of the field, and let them come to devour her.

10 Many shepherds have destroyed my vineyard, they have defiled my portion, they have made my desirable portion a trackless wilderness; 11 it is made a complete ruin; the whole land has been utterly ruined, because there is none that lays the matter to heart. 12 The ravagers are come to every passage in the wilderness: for the sword of the Lord will devour from one end of the land to the other; no flesh has any peace. 13 Sow wheat, and reap thorns; their portions shall not profit them; be ashamed of your boasting, because of reproach before the Lord.

14 For thus saith the Lord concerning all the evil neighbours that touch mine inheritance, which I have divided to my people Israel; Behold, I will draw them away from their land, and I will cast out Judah from the midst of them.

15 I will come to pass, after I have cast them out, that I will return, and have mercy upon them, and will cause them to dwell every one in his inheritance, and every one in his land. 16 And it shall be, if they will indeed learn the way of my people, to swear by my name, saying, The Lord lives; as they taught my people to swear by Baal; then shall that nation be built in the midst of my people. 17 But if they will not return, then will I cut off that nation with utter ruin and destruction.

Thus saith the Lord, Go and procure for thyself a linen girdle, and put it about thy loins, and let it not be put in water. 2 So I procured the girdle according to the word of the Lord, and put it about my loins. 3 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 4 Take the girdle that is upon thy loins, and arise, and go to the Euphrates, and hide it there in a hole of the rock. 5 So I went, and hid it by the Euphrates, as the Lord commanded me. 6 And it came to pass after many days, that the Lord said to me, Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take thence the girdle, which I commanded thee to hide there. 7 So I went to the river Euphrates, and dug, and took the girdle.

8, 9 For the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Thus saith the Lord, 10 Thus will I mar the pride of Juda, and the pride of Jerusalem; even this great pride of the men that will not hearken to my words, and have gone after strange gods, to serve them, and to worship them; and they shall be as this girdle which cannot be used for nothing.
11 For as a girdle cleaves about the loins of a man, so have I caused to cleave to myself the house of Israel, and the whole house of Judah; that they might be to me a famous people, and a praise, and a glory: but they did not hearken to me.
12 And thou shalt say to this people, Every bottle shall be filled with wine: and it shall come to pass, if they shall say to thee, Shall we not certainly know that every bottle shall be filled with wine? then say thou to them, Go, buy you provisions for the time that I shall tell you.
13 Then shall they hearken to thee; but if they will not hearken to the voice of thee, then shall they hearken to the voice of the king; for the king will not hearken to the voice of the prophet.
14 And after that the king of Babylon shall come, and he shall set his throne at the entrance of the gate of the inner court; and he shall say to him that is escaped into thee, Say, Thus saith the king, Thus saith the Lord, I came not up against this land, to destroy it; but they despised me, and would not hearken to me:
15 Therefore I will deliver this people into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall destroy this land, and answer unto the king of Babylonia, according to this word; and he shall say, Thus saith the king, Thus saith the Lord, I came not up against this land to destroy it; but thy fathers have not hearkened to me, and have not done according to my commandments; therefore I have brought upon them all the word of the Lord, which I commanded them, but they have not hearkened to them.
16 Therefore stand thou before the king of Babylon, and speak these words to him, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall destroy it;
17 And I will stretch out my hand upon it; I will scatter it among all the nations, and will cause thee to be abased among all the kingdoms of the earth;
18 And thy dead bodies shall be as fillings in the earth by the sword of the enemy, and thine eyes shall see the dead bodies of thy fathers, and thine eyes shall see the dead bodies of the prophets, and thine eyes shall see the dead bodies of all the servants of the Lord; and they shall go into captivity from thence:
19 And thine eyes shall see that I smite all the men that walk after this king of Babylon, and that go into captivity from thence; and I will make thee abased among all the nations:
20 And thou shalt remove thine endowment, and thy girdle, and thy shoes, and shalt put off thy vesture; and shall go unto the king of Babylon, and shalt be removed out of thine own land.
21 And thou shalt speak thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall destroy it;
22 And I will stretch out my hand upon it; I will scatter it among all the nations, and will cause thee to be abased among all the kingdoms of the earth;
23 And thy dead bodies shall be as fillings in the earth by the sword of the enemy, and thine eyes shall see the dead bodies of thy fathers, and thine eyes shall see the dead bodies of the prophets, and thine eyes shall see the dead bodies of all the servants of the Lord; and they shall go into captivity from thence:
24 And thou shalt remove thine endowment, and thy girdle, and thy shoes, and shalt put off thy vesture; and shall go unto the king of Babylon, and shalt be removed out of thine own land.

be seen; 7 thine adultery also, and thy neighing, and the looseness of thy fornication: on the hills and in the fields I have seen thine abominations. Woe to thee, O Jerusalem, for thou hast not been purified; so as to follow me; how long yet shall it be?

And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah concerning the drought.

7 Judea has mourned, and her gates are emptied, and are darkened upon the earth; and the glory of Jerusalem is gone up. 8 And her nobles have sent their little ones to the water: they came to the wells, and found no water: and brought back their vessels empty. 9 And the labours of the land failed, because there was no rain: the husbandmen were ashamed, they covered their heads. 10 And hind calves in the field, and forsook . , because there was no grass. 6 The wild ass stood by the forests, and snuffed up the wind; their eyes failed, because there was no grass.

7 Our sins have risen up against us: O Lord, do thou for us thine own sake; for our sins are many before thee; for we have sinned against thee. 8 O Lord, the art the host of Israel, and deliver us in time of troubles; why art thou become as a sojourner upon the land, or as one born in the land, yet turning aside for a resting-place? 9 Wilt thou be as a man asleep, or as a strong man that cannot save? yet thou art among us, O Lord, and thy name is called upon us. 10 Thus saith the Lord to this people, They have loved 8 to wander, and they have not spared, therefore God has not prospered them; now will he remember their iniquity. 11 And the Lord said to me, Pray not for this people for their good: 12 for though they fast, I will not hear their supplication; and though they offer wholeburnt-offerings and 8 sacrifices, I will take no pleasure in them: for I will consume them with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence.

13 And I said, O ever living Lord! behold, their prophets prophesy, and say, Ye shall not see a sword, nor shall famine be among you; for I will give truth and peace on the land, and in this place.

14 Then the Lord said to me, The prophets prophesy lies in my name: I sent them not, and I commanded them not, and I spoke not to them: for they prophesy to you false visions, and divinations, and auguries, and deceiv on of 8 own heart. 15 Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning the prophets that prophesy lies in my name, and I sent them not, who say, Sword and famine shall not be upon this land: they shall die by a grievous death, and the prophets shall be consumed by famine. 16 And the people to whom they prophesy, they also shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, because of the sword and famine; and there shall be none to bury them: their wives also, and their sons, and their daughters shall die thus: and I will pour out their wickedness upon them. 17 And the Lord said to me, Go down to the king's house, and speak these words to him, saying, 18 Thus saith the Lord,絶 impetuous Spirit, as I have sent it to them, so will I torment them: and I will bring them down before their enemies, upon whom they have laboured; and they shall be cast away by their enemies.

19 For the Son of man is come to destroy the strongholds, and the mighty men, and the little ones, and the young, and the children, in those days. 20 And I am come to speak my words in mine own name: and he that gathered the wood, and he that cutteth it, come together, and all they that spoil the vine, and they that tread it, come and all they that handle the spoils.

21 And I will make Jerusalem a heap, and a astonishment, and a hissing; and all who are round about her shall be astonishment, and an hissing among the heathen.

22 I will also make Jerusalem a astonishment, a hissing, and a proverb, and a curse among all nations, among all kingdoms, and among all languages.

23 And I will say to Jerusalem, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will set up a stone for a memorial in the midst of her, and place an everlasting sign in the midst of her; and I will make the two tribes of Judah, and the house of Israel, one stone, and I will make them a name, and a place of praise among the heathen.

24 And I will plant them upon their land, and they shall not Depart thence any more, neither shall the children of wickedness return to sin against me; for I will have mercy upon them, and will not again raise up their sin upon them; when I have delivered them from all their sins. 25 And as the Lord took away all the iniquity of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all the lands thereof, and made them everlasting desolation, and made the towns thereof astonishment, and a hissing for ever and ever, 26 even so will I do to Zebulon and to Naphtali, and to all the islands of the nations, wherein I cast them.
17 And thou shalt speak this word to them; Let your eyes shed tears day and night, and let them not cease; for the daughter of my people has been sorely troubled, and her plague is very grievous.

18 If I go forth into the plain, then behold the slain by the sword! and if I enter into the city, then behold the distress of famine; for priest and prophet have gone to a land which they knew not.

19 Hast thou utterly rejected Juda? and has thy soul departed from Sion? wherefore hast thou smitten us, and not for our good? When shall we bring again our prosperity?

20 Refrain for thy name’s sake, destroy not the throne of thy glory: remember, break not thy covenant with us.

21 Is there any among the idols of the Gentiles that can give rain? and will the sky yield his fulness at their bidding? Art not thou he? we will even wait on thee, O Lord: for thou hast made all these things.

And the Lord said to me, Though Moses and Samuel stood before my face, my soul could not be toward them; dismis this people, and let them go forth. And let us be, if they say to thee, Whither shall we go forth? then thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord; As many as are for death, to death; and as many as are for famine, to famine; and as many as are for the sword, to the sword; and as many as are for captivity, to captivity. And I will punish them with four kinds of death, saith the Lord, the sword, to slay, and the dogs to tear, and the wild beasts of the earth, and the birds of the sky to devour and destroy. And I will deliver them up for distress to all the kingdoms of the earth, because of Manasseh son of Ezekias king of Juda, for all that he did in Jerusalem.

5 Who will spare thee, O Jerusalem? and who will turn back to the 2 ask for thy welfare? Thou hast turned away from me, saith the Lord, thou wilt go back: therefore will I stretch out my hand, and will destroy thee, and will no more spare them. And I will completely scatter them; in the gates of my people they are bereaved of children; they have destroyed my people because of their iniquities.

Their widows have been multiplied more than the sand of the sea: I have brought young men against the mother, even distress at noon-day: I have suddenly cast upon her trembling and anxiety. She that bore seven is yspent; her soul has fainted under trouble; her sun is gone down while it is yet noon; she is ashamed and disgraced: I will give the remnant of them to the sword before their enemies.

Woe is me, my mother! thou hast born me as some man of strife, and at variance with the whole earth; I have not helped others, nor has any one helped me; my strength has failed among them that curse me. Be it so, Lord, in their prosperity; surely I stood before thee in the time of their calamities, and in the time of their affliction, for their good against the enemy. 12 Will iron be known? whereas thy strength is a brazen covering. 13 Yea, I will give thy treasures for a spoil as a compensation, because of all thy sins, and that in all thy borders. 14 And I will enslave thee to thine enemies round about, in a land which thou hast not known; for a fire has been kindled out of my wrath; it shall burn upon you. 15 O Lord, remember me, and visit me, and vindicate me before them that persecute me; do not bear long with them, know how I keep thy commandments. 16 I have kept thy precepts; and my heart is whole to thee, my eye and my soul. I am not guilty of them of all those that hate thee. 17 Why do they that have the name of thee evil tear me, and if I am treading thy name among the Gentiles, they are shut up in their own calamity. 18 Therefore thus saith the Lord, If thou wilt return, thou will not restore thee, and thou shalt stand before my face: and if thou wilt bring forth the precious from the worthless, thou shalt be as my mouth: and they shall return to thee; but thou shalt not return to them. 20 For I will make thee to this people as a strong brazen wall; and they shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail against thee. 21 For I am with thee to save thee, and to deliver thee out of the hand of wicked men; and I will ransom thee out of the hand of pestilent men.

And thou shalt not take a wife, saith the Lord God of Israel: 1 and there shall be no son born to thee, nor daughter in this place. 2 For thus saith the Lord concerning the sons and concerning the daughters that are born in this place, and concerning their mothers that have born them, and concerning their fathers that have begotten them in this land: 3 They shall die of grievous death; they shall not be lamented, nor buried; they shall be for an example on the face of the earth; and they shall be for the wild beasts of the land, and for the birds of the sky: they shall fall by the sword, and shall be consumed with famine.

Thus saith the Lord, Enter not into their mourning feast, and go not to lament, and mourn not for them: for I have removed my peace from this people. 6 They shall not bewail them, nor make cuttings for them, and they shall not share themselves for them: 7 and there shall be no bread broken in mourning for them, for consolation over the dead: they shall not give one to drink a cup for consolation over his father or his mother.

 Thou shalt not enter into the banquet-house, to sit with them to eat and to drink. 8 For thus saith the Lord God of Israel; Behold, I will make to cease out of this place before your eyes, and in your days, the voice of joy, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride.

10 And it shall come to pass, when thou shalt report to this people all these words, and they shall say to thee, Wherefore has the Lord pronounced against us all these evils? what is our unrighteousness? and what is our sin which we have sinned before the Lord our God? 11 Then thou shalt say to them, Because your fathers forsook me, saith the Lord, and went after strange gods, and served them, and worshipped them, and forsook me, and kept not my law; 12 (and ye sinned worse than your fathers; for, behold, ye walk every one after the lusts of your own evil heart, so as not to hearken to me); 13 therefore I will cast you off from this good land into a land which neither ye nor your fathers have known; and ye shall serve there other gods, who shall have no mercy upon you.

14 Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when they shall no more say, The Lord lives, that brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt; 15 but, The Lord lives, who brought up the house of Israel from the land of the north, and from all the countries whither they were thrust out; and I will restore them to their own land, which I gave to their fathers.

16 Behold, I will send many fishers, saith the Lord, and they shall fish them; and afterward I will send many hunters, and they shall hunt them upon every mountain, and upon every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks. 17 For mine eyes are upon all their ways; and their iniquities have not been hidden from mine eyes.

18 And I will recompense their mischiefs doubly, and their sins, whereby they have profaned my land with the carcases of their abominations, and with their iniquities, whereby they have trespassed against mine inheritance.

19 O Lord, thou art my strength, and mine help, and my refuge in days of evil: to thee the Gentiles shall come from the end of the earth, and shall say, How vain were the idols which our fathers procured to themselves, and there is no help in them.

20 Will a man make gods for himself, whereas these are no gods? 21 Therefore, behold, I will at this time manifest my hand to them, and will make known to them my power; and they shall know that my name is the Lord.

5 Cursed is the man who trusts in man, and will lean his arm of flesh upon him, while his heart departs from the Lord.

6 And he shall be as the wild tamarisk in the desert: he shall not see when good comes; but he shall dwell in a barren place, and in the wilderness, in a salt land which is not inhabited. 7 But blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord shall be. 8 And he shall be as a thriving tree by the waters, and he shall cast forth his root toward a moist place; he shall not fear when heat comes, and there shall be upon him shady branches; he shall not fear in a year of drought, and he shall not fail to bear fruit.
The heart is deep beyond all things, and it is the man, and who can know him? 11 If I the Lord try the hearts, and prove the reins, to give to every one according to his ways, and according to the fruits of his devices.

12 The partridge utters her voice, she gathers eggs which she did not lay; so is a man reaping the fruits of his unrighteousness; in the midst of his days his riches shall leave him, and at his latter end he will be a fool.

13 An exalted throne of glory is our sanctuary. 14 O Lord, the hope of Israel, let all that have left thee be ashamed, let them that have revolted be written on the earth, because they have forsaken the fountain of life, the Lord.

15 Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved; for thou art my boast.

16 Behold, they say to me, Where is the word of the Lord? let it come. 17 But I have not been weary of following thee, nor have I desired the day of man; thou knowest; the words that proceed out of my lips are before thy face. 18 Be not to me a stranger, but spare me in the evil day.

19 Let them that persecute me be ashamed, but let me not be ashamed: let them be confounded, but let me not be alarmed: bring upon them the evil day, crush them with two-fold destruction.

20 Thus saith the Lord; Go and stand in the gates of the children of thy people, by which the kings of Juda enter, and by which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem: 21 and thou shalt say to them, Hears the word of the Lord, ye kings of Juda, and all Juda, and all Jerusalem, all who go in at these gates: 22 thus saith the Lord; Take heed to your souls, and take up no burdens on the sabbath-day, and go not forth through the gates of Jerusalem; 23 and carry forth no burdens out of your houses on the sabbath-day, and ye shall do no work: sanctify the sabbath-day as I commanded your fathers. 24 But they hearkened not, and inclined not their ear, but stiffened their neck more than their fathers did, so as not to hear me, and not to receive instruction.

25 And it shall come to pass, if ye will hearken to me, saith the Lord, to carry in no burdens through the gates of this city on the sabbath-day, and to sanctify the sabbath-day, as so to do no work upon it, 26 that there shall enter through the gates of this city kings and princes sitting on the throne of David, and riding on their chariots and horses, they, and their princes, the men of Juda, and the dwellers in Jerusalem: and this city shall be inhabited for ever.

27 And men shall come out of the cities of Juda, and from round about Jerusalem, and out of the land of Benjamin, and out of the plain country, and from the hill country, and from the south country, burnt-offerings, and sacrifices, and incense, and manna, and frankincense, bringing praise to the house of the Lord.

28 But it shall come to pass, if ye will not
The word that came from the Lord to Jeremias, saying, Arise, and go down to the potter's house, and there thou shalt hear my words. 2 So I went down to the potter's house, and behold, he was making a vessel on the stones. 3 And the vessel which he was making with his hands fell: so he made it again another vessel, as it seemed good to him to make it. 4 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 5 Shall I not be able, O house of Israel, to do to you as this potter? behold, as the clay of the potter are ye in my hands. 6 If I shall pronounce a decree upon a nation, or upon a kingdom, to cut them off, and to destroy them; 7 and that nation turn from all their ways, and will be repentant, and turn from his fierce and evil ways, I will repent of the evil which I purposed to do to them. 8 And if I shall pronounce a decree upon a nation and kingdom, to rebuild and to plant it; 9 and they do evil before me, so as not to hearken to my voice, then will I repent of the good which I spoke of, to do it to them.
their sons to famine, and gather them to the power of the sword: let their women be childless and widows; and let their men be cut off by death, and their young men fall by the sword. 23 Let there be a cry in their houses: thou shalt bring upon them suddenly: for they have formed a plan to take me, and have hidden snares for me.

And thou, Lord, knowest all their deadly counsel against me: account not their iniquities guiltless, and blot not out their sins from before thee: let their weakness come before thee; deal with them in the time of thy wrath.

Then said the Lord to me, Go and get an earthen bottle, the work of the potter, and thou shalt bring some of the elders of the people, and of the priests; 2 and thou shalt go forth to the burial-place of the sons of the children, which is at the entrance of the gate of Charisith; and do thou read there before the words which I shall speak to thee: 3 and thou shalt say to them, Hear ye the word of the Lord, ye kings of Juda, and men of Juda, and the dwellers in Jerusalem, and they that enter in by these gates; thus saith the Lord God of Israel: Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, so that the ears of every one that hears it shall tingle. 4 Because they forsook me, and profaned this place, and burnt incense in it, to strange gods, which they and their fathers knew not; and the kings of Juda have filled this place with innocent blood, 5 and built high places for Baal, to burn their children in the fire, which things I commanded not, y neither did I design them in my heart:

Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when this place shall no more be called, The fall and burial-place of the son of Ennom, but, The burial-place of slaughter. 6 And I will destroy the counsel of Juda and the counsel of Jerusalem in this place; and I will cast them down with the sword before their enemies, and by the hands of them that seek their lives: and I will give their dead bodies for food to the birds of the air, and to the beasts of the earth. 7 And I will bring this city to desolation and make it a hissing; every one that passes by it shall scowl, and hiss because of all her plague. 8 And they shall eat the flesh of their sons, and the flesh of their daughters, and they shall eat every one the flesh of his neighbour in the blockade, and in the siege wherewith their enemies shall besiege them.

And thou shalt break the bottle in the sight of the men that go forth with thee, 9 and thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord, Thus will I break in pieces this people, and this city, even as an earthen vessel is broken in pieces which cannot be mended again. 10 Thus will I do, saith the Lord, to this place, and to the inhabitants of it, that this city may be given up, as one that is falling to ruin. 11 And the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Juda shall be as a ruinous place, because of their unharmful manner, eis cheiras machairas: gaenathousan ai gukaites aitovn ateikovn kai xapairai, kai oi andres aitovn genetousan anartimenos thansen, kai oi nevanikoi aitovn petepokoiyin macairai eit poleio. 14. And Jere−mi−as came from the place of the Fall, whither the Lord had sent him to prophesy; and he stood in the court of the Lord's house; and said to all the people. Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I bring upon this city, and upon all the cities belonging to it, all the evils which I have spoken against it, because they have hardened their neck, that they might not hearken to my commands.

Now Paschor the son of Emmer, the priest, who also had been appointed chief of the house of the Lord, heard Jere−mi−as prophesying these words. And he smote him, and cast him into the dungeon which was by the gate of the upper house that was set apart, which was by the house of the Lord.

And Paschor brought Jere−mi−as out of the dungeon; and Jere−mi−as said to him, The Lord has not called thy name Paschor, but Exile. For thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give thee up to captivity with all thy friends: and they shall fall by the sword of their enemies, and thine eyes shall see it: and I will give thee and all Juda into the hands of the king of Babylon, and they shall carry them captives, and cut them in pieces with swords. And I will give all the strength of this city, and all the labours of it, and all the treasures of the king of Juda, into the hands of his enemies, and they shall bring them to Babylon. And thou and all the dwellers in thine house shall go into captivity: and thou shalt die in Babylon, and there thou and all thy friends shall be buried, to whom thou hast prophesied lies.

7 Thou hast deceived me, O Lord, and I have been deceived: thou hast been strong, and hast prevailed: I am become a laughing-stock; I am continually mocked every day. For I will laugh with my bitter speech, I will call upon rebellion and misery: for the word of the Lord is become a reproach to me, and a mockery all my days.

Then I said, I will by no means name the name of the Lord, and I will no more at all speak in his name. But it was as burning fire flaming in my bones, and I am utterly weakened on all sides, and cannot bear up.

Then I said, I will by no means name the Lord, and I will no more at all speak in his name. But it was as burning fire flaming in my bones, and I am utterly weakened on all sides, and cannot bear up.

Then I said, I will by no means name the Lord, and I will no more at all speak in his name. But it was as burning fire flaming in my bones, and I am utterly weakened on all sides, and cannot bear up.

11 But the Lord was with me as a mighty man of war: therefore they persecuted me, but could not perceive anything against me; they were greatly confounded, for they perceived not their disgrace, which shall never be forgotten.

12 O Lord, that provest just deeds, understanding the reins and hearts, let me see thy vengeance upon them: for to thee
I have revealed my β cause. Sing ye to the Lord, sing praise to him: for he has rescued the soul of the poor from the hand of evil-doers.

11 Curset be the day wherein I was born: the day wherein my mother brought me forth, let it not be blessed. 12 Curset be the man who brought the glad tidings to my father, saying, A male child is born to thee.

16 Let that man rejoice as the cities which the Lord overthrew in wrath, and repented not: let him hear crying in the morning, and loud lamentation at noon; because he slew me not in the day of my fast, and to morn his burn became not my tomb, and her womb was always great with me. 18 Why is it that I came forth of the womb to see troubles and distresses, and my days are spent in shame?

The Word that came from the Lord to Jeremiah, when king Sedekias sent to him Paschon the son of Melchias, and Sophonias son of Basclus, the priest, saying,

2 Enquire of the Lord for us; for the king of Babylon has risen up against us; if the Lord will do according to all his wonderful works, and the king shall depart from us.

3 And Jeremiah said to them, Thus shall ye say to Sedekias king of Juda, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war wherewith ye fight against the Chaldeans that have besieged you from the north, and I will gather them into the midst of this city. 4 And I will fight against you with an outstretched hand, and with a strong arm, with wrath and great anger.

5 And I will smite all the dwellers in this city, both men and cattle, with grievous pestilence: and they shall die. 6 And after this, thus saith the Lord; I will give Sedekias king of Juda, and his servants, and the people that is left in this city from the pestilence, and from the famine, and from the sword, into the hands of their enemies, that seek their lives: and they shall cut them in pieces with the edge of the sword: I will not spare them, and I will not have compassion upon them.

9 And thou shalt say to this people, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I have set before you the way of life, and the way of death. 9 He that remains in this city shall die by the sword, and by famine: but he that goes forth to the Chaldeans that have besieged you, shall live, and his life shall be to him for a spoil, and he shall live.

10 For I have set my face against this city for evil, and not for good: it shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall consume it with fire.

11 O house of the king of Juda, hear ye the word of the Lord. O house of David, thus saith the Lord; Judge judgment in the midst, for in the midst I have set light against the spoiled one from the hand of him that wrongs him, lest mine anger be kindled like fire, and it shall consume, and there be none to quench it. 11 Behold, I am against thee that dwellest in the valley of Sor; in the

The Lord would not cleans his mark. 21 Sing ye to the Lord, sing praises to the name of the Lord, extol him in his sanctuary, bless his name for ever:

The Word from the Lord to Jeremiah, thus saith the Lord; I will set me against thee, and against thy father's house, according to the evil which they have done, when they despised me, and were not afraid to reject me.

15 Thus will I break also the Assyrians, as I have broken the Babylonians, which I have broken before thee. 16 For all the men of the earth are consumed by the anger of the Lord.

17 Thus saith the Lord; Alas for the day! for the day of the Lord is near: as the destruction of mountains which are brought down, even so shall the men be brought down.

The Word from the Lord to Jeremiah, thus saith the Lord; Take these grapes, and eat them; if ye eat them, then shall ye know the end of the evil, and of the rebellion of Israel.

12 For they will lie down among the dead men, and their worm shall not rise, and their fire shall not be quenched, and they shall not have rest day or night. 13 Thus saith the Lord; Thus shall it be done to them, and to all the people of Babylon, and to all that dwell in the midst of Babylon: for they will not come to the land of Israel.

14 Thus saith the Lord; All they who are found among the children of Babylon, that are come forth among you from the children of Israel are not for you, neither are they for your children: they shall be put to death with the sword.

15 Thus saith the Lord; All they among you that are found among the children of Israel, and the men that are come forth among you from the children of the children of Jerusalem, shall go into captivity.

16 Thus saith the Lord; All you that are left of the house of this king, who are not carried away captive, they shall return to their houses in the land of Judah.

17 Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Except ye remain humble, ye shall be broken with a rod of iron, and shall be slain with the sword:

18 Thus saith the Lord; I will give the city into the hand of the king of Babylon, he shall take it, and burn it with fire.

19 Thus saith the Lord; I will take thee, and give thee unto the king of Babylon; he shall deal with thee as he shall deal with the sons of Jeremias, whom I have delivered unto him, he dealt with them:

20 The Lord said to me; Mine anger and jealousy shall be kindled against this city, and shall burn with fire, and shall not be quenched.

The Word from the Lord to Jeremiah, thus saith the Lord; Go up to Bethel, and proclaim there in the temple of the Lord, and say to them,

21 Thus saith the Lord; If ye will not listen to me, to Jeremias, thus saith the Lord; I have set against this house, and against this city all my evil, and all the judgments that have come upon it:

22 Because they have forsaken me, and have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in my sight, and to keep my sabbaths, and to walk in my ordinances, and to know my commandments, and to do them.

23 And the Lord said to me; Write thou all the evil that I shall show thee against this place.

24 For the Lord has spoken; The house of Judah shall utterly go out of my sight; I will not see any more the glory of the house of the Lord, nor the altars of Jerusalem, neither the kings of Judah any more, nor the princes, nor the priests, nor the people of the land.

25 For they have forsaken me, and have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in my sight, and to keep my sabbaths, and to walk in my ordinances, and to know my commandments, and to do them.

26 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon; he shall take it, and burn it with fire.

27 Thus saith the Lord; I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, he shall take it, and burn it with fire.

28 Thus saith the Lord; If ye will not hear to me, to Jeremias, thus saith the Lord; I have set against this house, and against this city all my evil, and all the judgments that have come upon it:

29 For they have forsaken me, and have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in my sight, and to keep my sabbaths, and to walk in my ordinances, and to know my commandments, and to do them.

30 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, he shall take it, and burn it with fire.

31 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, he shall take it, and burn it with fire.
I REAPMIA.

22 Thus saith the Lord; Go thou, and go down to the house of the king of Judah, and thou shalt speak there this word, 23 and thou shalt say, 24 Hear the word of the Lord, O king of Judah, that sitteth upon the throne of David, thou, and thy house, and thy people, and that giveth at these gates: 25 thus saith the Lord; Execute judgment and justice, and rescue the spoiled out of the hand of him that wrongs him: and oppress not the stranger, and orphian, and widow, and sin not, and shed no innocent blood in this place. 26 For if ye will indeed perform this word, then shall there enter in by the gates of this house kings sitting upon the throne of David, and riding upon horses, and they, and their servants, and their people. 27 But if ye will not perform these words, by myself have I sworn, saith the Lord, that this house shall be brought to desolation. 28 For thus saith the Lord β concerning the house of the king of Judah; Thou art Galad to me, and the head of Libanus: get surely I will make thee a desert, even cities that shall not be inhabited: 29 and will bring upon thee a destroying man, and his axe: and they shall choose the cedars, and cast them into the fire. 30 And nations shall pass through this city, and each shall say to his neighbour, Why has the Lord done thus to this great city? 31 And they shall say, Because they forsook the covenant of the Lord their God, and worshipped strange gods, and served them. 32 Woe not for the dead, nor lament for him, weep bitterly for him that goes away: for he shall return no more, neither see his native land. 33 For thus saith the Lord β concerning Sellem the son of Josias, who reigns in the place of Josias his father, who has gone forth out of this place: He shall not return thither any more: but in that place whither I have carried him captive, there shall he die, and shall see this land no more. 34 He that builds his house not with justice, and his upper chambers not with judgment, y who works by means of his neighbour for nothing, and will by no means give him his reward. 35 Thou hast built for thyself a well-proportioned house, airy chambers, fitted with windows, and wainscoted with cedar, and painted with vermillion. 36 Shalt thou reign, because thou art provoked with thy father Achaz? they shall not eat, and they shall not drink: it is better for thee to execute judgment and justice. 37 They understood not, they judged not the cause of the afflicted, nor the cause of the poor: is not this thy not knowing me? saith the Lord. 38 Behold, thine eyes are not good, nor thine heart, but they go after the house of the dead, and choose innocent blood to shed it, and after acts of injustice and slaughter, to commit them.
Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, even concerning this man; they shall not bewail him, saying, Ah brother! neither shall they at all weep for him, saying, Alas Lord. He shall be buried with the burial of an ass; he shall be dragged roughly along and cast outside the gate of Jerusalem.

Go up to Libanus, and cry; and utter thy voice to Basan, and cry aloud to the extremity of the sea: for all thy lovers are destroyed. I spoke to thee on occasion of thy trespass, but thou saidst, I will not hearken. This has been thy way from thy youth, thou hast not hearkened to my voice. The wind shall tend all thy shepherds, and thy lovers shall go into captivity; for then shalt thou be ashamed and disgraced because of all thy lovers.

O thou that dwellest in Libanus, making thy nest in the cedars, thou shalt groan heavily, when pangs as of a travailing woman are come upon thee. As I live, saith the Lord, though Jehonias son of Joakim king of Juda were indeed the chief among my people, whom I pluck thee, and I will deliver thee into the hands of them that seek thy life, before whom thou art afraid, into the hands of the Chaldeans. And I will cast forth thee, and thy mother that bore thee, into a land where thou wast not born; and there ye shall die. But they shall by no means return unto the land which they longed for in their souls. Jehonias is discomfited as a good-for-nothing vessel; for he is thrown out and cast forth into a land which he knew not.

Land, land, hear the word of the Lord. Write ye this man an outcast: for there shall none of his seed at all grow up to sit on the throne of David, or as a prince yet in Juda.

Woe to the shepherds that destroy and scatter the sheep of their pasture! Therefore thus saith the Lord against them that tend my people: Ye have scattered my sheep, and driven them out, and ye have not visited them: behold, I will take vengeance upon you according to your evil practice. And I will gather in the remnant of my people in every land, whither I have driven them out, and will set them in their pasture; and they shall increase and be multiplied. And I will raise up shepherds to them, who shall feed them: and they shall fear no more, nor be alarmed, saith the Lord.

Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will raise up to David a righteous branch, and a king shall reign and understand, and shall execute judgment and righteousness on the earth. In his days both Juda shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell securely: and this is his name, which the Lord shall call him, Josedee among the prophets.

My heart is broken within me; all my bones are shaken: I become as a broken-down man, and as a man overcome with wine, because of the Lord, and because of...
I have heard the excellence of his glory. 16 For because of these things the land mourns; the pastures of the wilderness are dried up; and their course is become evil, and yea also their strength. 17 For priest and prophet are defiled; and I have seen their iniquities in my house. 18 Therefore let their way be to them slippery and dark: and they shall be tripped up and fall in it: for I will bring evils upon them, in the year of their visitation.

19 And in the prophets of Samaria I have seen lawless deeds; they prophesied by Baal, and led my people Israel astray. 20 Also in the prophets of Jerusalem I have seen horrible things: as they committad adultery, and walked in lies, and strengthened the hands of many, that they should not return each from his evil way: they are all become to me as Sodom, and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorrha. 21 Therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold, I will feed them with pain, and give them bitter water to drink: for from the prophets of Jerusalem has delusion gone forth into all the land.

22 Thus saith the Lord Almighty, Hearken not to the words of the prophets: for they frame a vain vision for themselves; they speak from their own heart, and not from the mouth of the Lord. 23 They say to them that reject the word of the Lord, There shall be peace to you: and to all the走 after their own lusts, and to every one that walks in the error of his heart, they have said, No evil shall come upon thee. 24 For who has stood in the counsel of the Lord, and seen his word? who has hearkened, and heard? 25 Behold, there is an earthquake from the Lord, and anger proceeds to a convulsion, it shall come violently upon the ungodly. 26 And the Lord's wrath shall return no more, until he has accomplished it, and until he has established it, according to the purpose of his heart: at the end of the days they shall understand it.

27 I sent not the prophets, yet they ran: neither spoke I to them, yet they prophesied. 28 But if they had stood in my counsel, and if they had hearkened to my words, then would they have turned my people from their evil practices. 29 I am a God nigh at hand, saith the Lord, and not a God afar off. 30 Shall any one hide himself in secret places, and I not see him? Do I not fill heaven and earth? saith the Lord.

31 I have heard what the prophets say, what they prophesy in my name, saying falsely, I have seen a night vision. 32 How long shall these things be in the heart of the prophets? that they prophesy lies, when they prophesy the purposes of their own heart? 33 who devise that men may forget my law by their dreams, which they have told every one to his neighbour, as their fathers forgot my name in the worship of Baal. 34 The prophet who has a dream, let him tell his dream; and he in whom is my word spoken to him, let him tell my word truly: what is the chaff to the corn? so are my words, saith the Lord. 21 Behold, are not my words as fire? saith the Lord; and as an axe cutting the rock?

22 Behold, I am therefore against the prophets, saith the Lord God, that steal my words from his neighbour. 23 Behold, I am against the prophets that put forth prophecies of mere words, and slumber their sleep. 24 Therefore, behold, I am against the prophets that prophesy false dreams, and have caused my people to err by their lies, and by their errors; yea, I will send them into the land of their neighbours, and into the land of their enemy; and there they shall be for a mark against them.

And if this people, or the priest, or the prophet, should ask, What is the burden of the Lord? then thou shalt say to them, Ye are the burden, and I will dash you down, saith the Lord. 25 As for the prophet, and the priest, and the priest, and the people, who shall say, The burden of the Lord, I will even take vengeance on that man, and on his house.

26 Thus shall ye say every one to his neighbour, and every one to his brother, What has the Lord answered? and, What has the Lord said? 27 And do ye name no more the burden of the Lord; for his own word shall be a man's burden. 28 By the word of the Lord shall ye have this word spoken. 29 Therefore thus saith the Lord our God: Because ye have spoken this word, The burden of the Lord, and I sent to you, saying, Ye shall not say, The burden of the Lord; therefore, behold, I will seize, and dash down you and the city which I gave to you and your fathers. 30 And I will bring upon you an everlasting reproach, and everlasting disgrace, which shall not be forgotten.

31 Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when they shall no more say, The Lord lives, who brought up the house of Israel out of the land of Egypt; 8 but The Lord lives, who has gathered the whole seed of Israel from the north land, and from all the countries whither I had driven them out, and has restored them into their own land.

The Lord shewed me two baskets of figs, lying in front of the temple of the Lord, after Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had carried captive Jechonias son of Josiam king of Juda, and the princes, and the artificers, and the prisoners, and the rich men out of Jerusalem, and had brought them to Babylon. 2 The one basket was full of very good figs, as the early figs; and the other basket was full of very bad figs, which could not be eaten, for their badness. 3 And the Lord said to me, What seest thou, Jeremias? and I said, Figs; the good figs, very good; and the bad, very bad, which cannot be eaten, for their badness.

4 Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel; As these good figs, so will I acknowledge the Jews that have been carried away captive, whom I have sent forth out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans for good. 5 And I will fix mine eyes upon them for good, and I will restore them into this land for good: and I will build them up,
And I will give them a heart to know me, that I am the Lord: and they shall be my people, and I will be to them a God, for they shall turn to me with all their heart.

And as the bad figs, which cannot be eaten, for their badness; thus saith the Lord, So will I deliver Sedeekias king of Judea, and his nobles, and the remnant of Jerusalem, them that are left in this land, and the dwellers in Egypt. And I will cause them to be dispersed into all the kingdoms of the earth, and they shall be for a reproach, and a proverb, and an object of hatred, and a curse, in every place whither I have driven them out. And I will send against them famine, and pestilence, and the sword, until they are consumed from off the land which I gave them.

The Word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judea in the fourth year of Josiam, son of Josias, king of Judea; which he spoke to all the people of Judea, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying.

In the thirteenth year of Josias, son of Amos, king of Judea, even until this day for three and twenty years, I have both spoken to you, rising early and speaking; and I sent to you my servants the prophets, sending them early; (but ye hearkened not, and listened not with your ears;) saying, Turn ye every one from his evil way, and from your evil doings, and begin to do good, and to work in the land, which I gave you and your fathers, of old and for ever. Go ye not after strange gods, to serve them, and to worship them, that ye provoke me not by the works of your hands, to do you hurt. But ye hearkened not to me.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Since ye believed not my words, behold, I will send and take a family from the north, and will bring them against this land, and against the inhabitants of it, and against all the nations round about it, and I will make them utter a desolation, and a hissing, and an everlasting reproach. And I will destroy from among them the voice of joy, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the scent of ointment, and the light of a candle. And all the land shall be a desolation; and they shall serve among the Gentiles seventy years.

And when the seventy years are fulfilled, I will take vengeance on that nation, and will make them a perpetual desolation. And I will bring upon that land all my words which I have spoken against it.

The Prophecies of Jeremiah against the Nations of Edom.

Thus saith the Lord, The bow of Edom is broken, even the chief of their power. And I will bring upon Edom the four winds from the four corners of heaven, and I will disperse them toward all these winds; and there shall be no nation to which they shall not come—even the outcasts of Zelam. 36 And I will put them in fear before their enemies that seek their life; for I will deliver them up into their hand, according to my great anger; and I will send forth my sword after them, until I have utterly destroyed them. 37 And I will set my throne in Zelam, and will send forth thence king and rulers. 38 But it shall come to pass at the end of days, that I will turn the captivity of Zelam, saith the Lord.

In the beginning of the reign of king Sedecias, there came this word concerning Zelam.

2 For Egypt, against the power of Pharaoh Necho, king of Egypt, was made a war by the river Euphrates in Charmis, whom Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon smote in the fourth year of Joakim king of Juda.

3 Take up arms and spears, and draw night to battle; and harness the horses: mount, ye horsemen, and stand ready in your helmets; advance the spears, and put on your breast-plates.

4 Why do they fear, and turn back? even because their mighty men shall be slain: they have utterly fled, and being hemmed in they have not spoiled, saith the Lord.

5 Let not the swift flee, and let not the mighty man escape to the north: the forces at Euphrates are become feeble, and they have fallen.

6 Who is this that shall come up as a river, and as rivers roll their waves? 7 The waters of Egypt shall come up like a river: and he said, I will go up, and will cover the earth, and will destroy the dwellers in it.

8 Mount ye the horses, prepare the chariots; go forth, ye warriors of the Ethiopians, and Libyans armed with shields; and mount, ye Lydians, bend the bow. 9 And that day shall be to the Lord our God a day of vengeance, to take vengeance on his enemies and his foes, the spoiler of the world shall devour, and be glutted, and be drunken with their blood: for the Lord has a sacrifice from the land of the north at the river Euphrates.

10 Go up to Galad, and take a balm for the virgin daughter of Egypt: in vain hast thou multiplied thy medicines; there is no help in thee. 11 The nations have heard thy voice, and the land has been filled with thy cry: for the warriors have fainting fighting one against another, and both are fallen together.

12 The words which the Lord spoke by Jeremias, concerning the coming of the king of Babylon to smite the land of Egypt.

13 Proclaim it at Magdol, and declare it at Memphis; say ye, Stand up, and prepare; for the sword shall devour, as a devourer.

14 What therefore has Apis fled from thee? thy choice calf has not remained; for the Lord has utterly weakened him. 15 And thy multitude has fainting and fallen; and each one said to his neighbour, Let us arise, to the ten thousand of which thou art of the earth, and of the waters, and of the rivers.

16 For Egypt, against the power of Pharaoh Necho, king of Egypt, was made a war by the river Euphrates in Charmis, whom Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon smote in the fourth year of Joakim king of Juda.
and return into our country to our people, from the Grecian sword. \(^{16}\) Call ye the name of Pharao Necho, king of Egypt. \(^{17}\) Saon esbeie moed. \(^{18}\) As I live, saith the Lord God, he shall come as Itabyrion among the mountains, and as Carmel that is on the sea. \(^{19}\) O daughter of Egypt dwelling at home, prepare thee stuff for removing; for Memphis shall be utterly desolate, and shall be called Woe, because there are no inhabitants in it.

22 Egypt is a fair heifer, but destruction from the north is come upon her. \(^{20}\) Also her hired soldiers in the midst of her are as fattened calves fed in her; for they also have turned, and fled with one accord; they stood not, for the day of destruction was come upon them, and the time of their retribution. \(^{21}\) Their voice is as that of a hissing serpent, for they go upon the sand; they shall come upon Egypt with axes, as men that cut wood. \(^{22}\) They shall cut down her forest, saith the Lord, for their number cannot at all be conjectured, for it exceeds the locust in multitude, and they are innumerable. \(^{23}\) The daughter of Egypt is confounded; she is delivered into the hands of a people from beyond the rivers.

23 Behold, I will avenge Amnon her son upon Pharao, and upon them that trust in him.

But fear not thou, my servant Jacob, neither be thou alarmed, Israel: for, behold, I will save thee from afar, and thy seed from their captivity; and Jacob shall return, and be at ease, and sleep, and there shall be no one to trouble him. \(^{24}\) Fear not thou, my servant Jacob, saith the Lord; for I am with thee; she that was without fear and in luxury, has been delivered up: for I will make a full end of every nation among whom I have thrust thee forth; but I will not cause thee to fail; yet will I chastise thee in the way of judgment, and will not hold thee entirely guiltless.

24 The Word of the Lord which He spake against Babylon.

25 Proclaim ye among the Gentiles, and cause the tidings to be heard, and suppress them not: say ye, Babylon is taken, Belus is confounded; the fearless, the luxurious Merodach is delivered up. \(^{4}\) For a nation has come up against her from the north, he shall utterly ravage her land, and there shall be none to dwell in it, neither man nor beast.

4 In those days, and at that time, the children of Israel shall come, they and the children of Juda together; they shall proceed, weeping as they go, seeking the Lord their God. \(^{5}\) They shall ask the way till they come to Sion, for that way shall they set their face; and they shall come and flee for refuge to the Lord their God; for the everlasting covenant shall not be forgotten.

not leave them alone, because they have sinned against the Lord: he that gathered their fathers had a pasture of righteousness.

Flee ye out of the midst of Babylon, and from the land of the Chaldeans, and be ye as serpents by night.

For behold, I stir up against Babylon the gathering of nations out of the land of the north; and they shall set themselves in array against her: thence shall she be taken, as the dart of an expert warrior shall not return: and Chaldea shall be spoiled; all that spoil her shall be satisfied.

Because ye rejoiced, and boasted, while plundering mine heritage; because ye exulted as calves in the grass, and pushed with the horn as bulls.

Your mother is greatly ashamed; your mother that bore you for prosperity is confounded: she is the last of the nations, desolate, by reason of the Lord's anger: it shall not be inhabited, but it shall be all a desolation; and every one that passes through Babylon shall sde, and they shall hiss at all her plague.

Set yourselves in array against Babylon round about, ye all ye that bend the bow; shoot at her, every arrow; let her hands be weakened, her bulwarks are fallen, and her wall is broken down: for it is vengeance from God, take vengeance upon her: as she has done, do to her. Utterly destroy seed out of Babylon, and him that holds a sickle in time of harvest: for fear of the Grecian sword, they shall return every one to his people, and every one shall flee to his own land.

Israel is a wandering sheep; the lions have driven him out: the king of Assyria first devoured him, and afterward this king of Babylon has gnawed his bones.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will take vengeance on the king of Babylon, and on all his land, as I took vengeance on the king of Assyria.

And I will restore Israel to his pasture, and he shall feed on Carmel and on mount Ephraim and in Galad, and his soul shall be satisfied.

In those days, and at that time,5 they shall seek for the iniquity of Israel, and there shall be no iniquity; and for the sins of Juda, and they shall not be found; for I will be merciful to them that are left on the land, saith the Lord.

Go up against it6 roughly, and against them that dwell on it: avenge, O sword, and destroy utterly, saith the Lord, do according to all that I commanded thee.

A sound of war, and great destruction in the land of the Chaldeans.

How is Babylon become a desolation among the nations!

They shall come upon thee, and thou shalt not know it, Babylon, that thou wilt even be taken captive; thou art found and taken, because thou didst resist the Lord.

The Lord has opened his treasury, and brought forth the weapons of his anger: for the Lord God has a work in the land of the Chaldeans. For her times are come: open ye her storehouses: search her as a cave, and utterly destroy her: let there be no remnant 6 Or, be ye estranged. 7 See 2 Kings (2 Sam.) 1. 22. 8 Or, look sad. 9 Alex. + 'saith the Lord.' 6 Gr. bitterly.

27 and he answered me: and they shall go down to Gehenna, into the pit of destruction, into the pit that is in captivity:

28 who are of you shall pass into the fire, and into Gehenna; in the midst of it shall be the end of you, says the Lord of hosts.

29 Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the great and dreadful day of the Lord;

30 and he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to the fathers; lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

 graphene: 937

31 And I perceived that this was the Lord's word: and I said: Who is this man that speaks so?

32 To whom I answered: This is the word of the Lord; let him say: Holy be the Lord's name forever.

33 And the Lord said unto me: Go, say: Thus saith the Lord: Behold, I will take away the voice of thy children, which thou artęning, and I will not hear thy prayers, nor will I answer thee.

34 And I said: Why, Lord? and he answered me: For I will send a fire upon the land, which shall devour the children and the young men; and I will not spare them that are bowed down, nor the strong that stand up.

35 And I said: Then will not the children of Israel, by whom the name of the Lord is called, fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the plague?

36 To whom the Lord answered: If they will not hearken unto me in these things, neither in these days, then shall they hear in the days of their mourning, in the days of their captivity, and in the days of the exile, saith the Lord: if they will not hear my words.

37 Behold, I will send a sword, to smite the children of the young men, and he shall not spare the young men, nor the young women, nor any old man, that standeth in the midst of the land.

38 And I said: Then shall I not be able to bear such a sight? and he answered me: Look at the children of men, who are rebellious against thee, and they shall fall by the sword, and by famine, and by the pestilence; and none of them shall escape the sword.

39 And I said: For whom shall I speak, if I shall not hear the words of the Lord?

40 To whom the Lord answered: Prophesy not, prophesy not, prophesy not any more, prophesy not longer, for I have spoken to thee: prophesy not longer, prophesy not any more, prophesy not any more.

41 For I will send a sword upon the land, and a pestilence, and famine; and it shall destroy from the north the young men and the young men, and from the south the young men and the young men.

42 And I said: For whom shall I prophesy, and for whom shall I speak, if I speak not in the name of the Lord?

43 And he answered me: Whose mouth is it that speaketh these words? for I have not sent my words unto thee.

44 And I said: Whence came these words? and he answered me: They came from the Lord of hosts: and I have spoken to thee, and I have prophesied in the name of the Lord of hosts.

45 Therefore have I prophesied as it was given me; that I might speak; and I have not hid my words from you.

Lord, which he has taken against Babylon; and his devices, which he has devised upon the Chaldeans inhabiting it: surely lambs of their flock shall be destroyed: surely pasture shall be cut off from them. 6 For at the sound of the taking of Babylon the earth shall quake, and a cry shall be heard among the nations.

Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I stir up against Babylon, and against the Chaldeans dwelling therein, a deadly burning wind. 2 And I will send forth against Babylon spoilers, and they shall spoil her, and shall ravage her land. 3 Woe to Babylon! round about her in the day of her affliction. 4 Let the archer bend his bow, and him that has armour put it on: and spare ye not her young men, but destroy ye all her host. 5 And slain men shall fall in the land of the Chaldeans, and men pierced through shall fall without it.

6 For Israel and Japheth have not been forsaken of their God, of the Lord Almighty; whereas their land was filled with iniquity against the holy things of Israel. 6 Flee ye out of the midst of Babylon, and deliver every one his soul: and be not overlaid in her iniquity; for it is the time of her retribution from the Lord; he is rendering to her the works of her hands. 7 Babylon has been a golden cup in the Lord’s hand, causing all the earth to be drunken: the nations have drunk of her wine; therefore they were shaken. 8 And Babylon is fallen suddenly, and is broken to pieces: lament for her; take balm for her deadly wound, if by any means she may be healed. 9 We tried to heal Babylon, but she was not healed; let us forsake her, and depart every one to his own country: for her judgment has reached to the heavens, it has mounted up to the stars. 10 The Lord has brought forth his judgment: come, and let us declare in Sion the works of the Lord our God.

11 Prepare the arrows; fill the quivers: the Lord has stirred up the spirit of the king of the Medes: for his wrath is against Babylon, to destroy it utterly: for it is the Lord’s vengeance, it is the vengeance of his people. 12 Lift up a standard on the walls of Babylon, prepare the quivers, rouse the guards, prepare the weapons: for the Lord has taken the work in hand, and will execute what he has spoken against the inhabitants of Babylon, dwelling on many waters, and amidst the abundance of her treasures; thine end is come verily into thy bowels. 14 For the Lord has sworn by his arm, saying, I will fill thee with men as with locusts; and they that come down shall cry against thee.

15 The Lord made the earth by his power, preparing the world by his wisdom, by his understanding he stretched out the heavens. 16 At his voice he makes a sound of water in the heaven, and brings up clouds from the extremity of the earth; he makes lightnings for rain, and brings light out of his treasures. 7 Every man has y completely lost understanding; every goldsmith is confounded because of his graven images: for they have cast false gods, there is no breath

Babylon shall be a desolation, and shall not be inhabited. 38 For they rose up together as lions, and as lions' whelps. 39 In their heat I will give them a draught, and make them drunk, that they may be stuffed, and sleep, and not awake, with the Lord. 40 And bring thou them down as lambs to the slaughter, and rams with kids.

41 How has the boast of all the earth been taken and caught in a snare! how has Babylon become a desolation among the nations! 42 The sea has come up upon Babylon with her waves, and is covered. Her cities are become like a dry and trackless land; not so much as one man shall dwell in it, neither shall a son of man lodge in it. 43 And I will take vengeance on Babylon, and bring forth out of her mouth what she has swallowed down, and the nations shall no more be gathered to her; 44 and in Babylon the slain men of all the earth shall fall. 45 Go forth of the land, ye that escape, and stay not; ye that are afar off, remember the Lord, and let Jerusalem come into your mind. 46 We are ashamed, because we have heard our reproach; disgrace has covered our face; aliens are come into the sanctuary of the Lord.

Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will take vengeance upon her graven images: and slain men shall fall in all her land. 48 For though Babylon should go up as the heaven, and though she should strengthen her walls with her power, from me shall come they that shall destroy her, saith the Lord. 49 A sound of a cry in Babylon, and great destruction in the land of the Chaldeans: 50 for the Lord has utterly destroyed Babylon, and cut off from her the great voice sounding as many waters: he has consigned her voice to destruction. 51 For distress has come upon Babylon, her warriors are taken, their bows are useless: for God recompenses them. 52 The Lord recompenses, and will make her leaders and her wise men and her captains completely drunk, saith the King, the Lord Almighty is his name.

53 Thus saith the Lord, The wall of Babylon was made broad, but it shall be completely broken down, and her high gates shall be burned with fire; and the peoples shall not labour in vain, nor the nations fail in their rule.

The Word which the Lord commanded the Prophet Jeremias to say to Sarseas son of Nerias, son of Maaseas, when he went from Setiekias king of Juda to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign. And Sarseas was over the bounties. And Jeremias wrote in a book all the evils which should come upon Babylon, even all these words that are written against Babylon. And Jeremias said to Sarseas, When thou art come to Babylon, and shalt see and read all these words; 54 then shalt thou say, O Lord God, thou hast spoken against this place, to destroy it, and that there should be none to dwell in it, neither man nor beast; for it shall be a desolation for ever. 55 And it shall come to pass, when thou shalt cease from reading this book, that thou shalt bind a stone upon it, and cast it into the midst of Euphrates; 6 and shalt say, Thus shall Babylon sink, and not rise, because of the evils which I bring upon it.

Thus saith the Lord against the Philistines:

 Behold, waters come up from the north, and shall become a sweeping torrent, and it shall sweep away the land, and its fulness; the city, and them that dwell in it: and men shall cry and all that dwell in the land shall howl; at the sound of his rushing, at the sound of his hoofs, and at the rattling of his chariots; at the noise of his wheels: the fathers turned not to their children because of the weakness of their hands, in the day that is coming to destroy all the Philistines: and I will utterly destroy Tyre and Sidon, and all the rest of their allies; for the Lord shall destroy the remaining inhabitants of the islands. Baldness is come upon Gaza; Ascalon is cast away, and the remnant of the Enakim.

How long wilt thou smite, O sword of the Lord? how long will it be ere thou art quiet? return into thy sheath, rest, and be removed.

How shall it be quiet, whereas the Lord has given it a commission against Ascalon, and against the regions on the sea-coast, to awake against the remaining countries?

Concerning Idumea, thus saith the Lord; There is no longer wisdom in Theban, counsel has perished from the wise ones, their wisdom is gone, their place has been received. Dig deep for a dwelling, ye that inhabit Dædam, for he has wrought grievously: I brought trouble upon him in the time at which I visited him. For grape-gatherers are come, who shall not leave thee a remnant; as thieves by night, they shall lay their hand upon thy possessions.

For I have stripped Esau, I have uncovered their secret places; they shall have no power to hide themselves, they have perished each by the hand of his brother, my neighbour, and it is impossible for thy fatherless one to be left to live, but I shall live, and the worm shall not destroy me.

For thus saith the Lord; They who were not appointed to drink the cup have drunk it; and thou shalt by no means be cleared; for by myself I have sworn, saith the Lord, that thou shalt be in the midst of her an impassable land, and a reproach, and a curse; and all her cities shall be desert for ever.

I have heard a report from the Lord, and he has sent messengers to the nations, saying, Assemble yourselves, and come against her; rise ye up to war. I have made thee small among the nations, utterly contemptible among men. Thine insolence has risen up against thee, the fierceness of thy heart has burst the holes of the rocks, it has seized upon the strength of a lofty hill; for as an eagle he set his nest on high: thence will I bring thee down.

And Idumea shall be a desert; every one that passes by shall hiss at it. As Sodom was overthrown and Gomorrah and they that sojourne in her, saith the Lord Almighty, no man shall dwell there, nor shall any son of man inhabit there. \(^{18}\) Behold, he shall come up as a lion out of the midst of Jordan to the place of \(f\) Azetham: for I will speedily drive them from it, and do ye set the young men against her; for who is like me? and who will withstand me?
and who is this shepherd, who shall overcome me?

\(^{20}\) Therefore hear ye the counsel of the Lord, which he has framed against Idumea; and his device, which he has devised against the inhabitants of Teman: surely the least of the sheep shall be swept off; surely their dwelling shall be made desolate for them.

\(^{21}\) For at the sound of their fall the earth was scared, and the cry of the sea was not heard.

\(^{22}\) Behold, he shall look upon her as an eagle, and spread forth his wings over her strongholds; and the heart of the mighty men of Idumea shall be in that day as the heart of a woman in her pangs.

CONCERNING THE SONS OF AMMON thus saith the Lord, Are there no sons in Israel? or has he no children? wherefore has Melchol inherited Galaad, and why shall their people dwell in their cities?

\(^{2} \) Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will cause to be heard yin Rabbath a tumult of wars; and they shall become a waste and ruined place, and her altars shall be burned with fire; then shall Israel succeed to his dominion.

\(^{3}\) Howl, O Esebon, for Gai has perished; cry, ye daughters of Rabbath, gird yourselves with sackclothes, and lament; for Melchol shall go into banishment, his priests and his princes together.

\(^{4}\) Why do ye exult in the Enakim, thou haughty daughter, that trustest in thy treasures, that sayest, Who shall come in to me? \(^{5}\) Behold, I will bring terror upon thee, saith the Lord, from all the country round about thee; and ye shall be scattered every one right before him, and there is none to gather you.

CONCERNING KEDAR THE QUEEN OF THE PALACE, WHOSE NAUCHODOSOR KING OF BABYLON SMOTE, thus saith the Lord:

Arise ye, and go up to Kedar, and fill all the sons of Kemed. \(^{29}\) They shall take their tents and their sheep, they shall take for themselves their garments, and all their baggage and their camels; and summon ye destruction against them from every side.

\(^{30}\) Plee ye, dig very deep for a dwelling-place, ye that dwell in the palace; for the king of Babylon has framed a counsel, and devised a device against you.

\(^{31}\) Rise up, and go up against a nation settled and dwelling at ease, who have no doors, nor bolts, nor bars, who dwell alone. \(^{32}\) And their camels shall be a spoil, and the multitude of their cattle shall be destroyed: and I will scatter them as chaff with every wind, having their hair cut about their foreheads, I will bring on their overthrow from all sides, saith the Lord. \(^{33}\) And the palace shall be a resting-place for ostriches, and desolate for ever: no man shall abide there, and no son of man shall dwell there.

Jeremias XXX. 23—XXXI. 19.

23 Concerning Damascus. Emath is brought to shame, and Arphath: for they have heard an evil report: they are amazed, they are angry, they shall be utterly unable to rest. 24 Damascus is utterly weakened, she is put to flight; trembling has seized upon her. How has she not left my city, they have loved the village?

26 Therefore shall the young men fall in thy streets, and all thy warriors shall fall, saith the Lord. 27 And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus, and it shall devour the streets of the son of Ader.

Thus has the Lord said concerning Moab. Woe to Nabath! for he has plundered: Caraimath is taken: Amath and Agath are put to shame. 29 There is no longer any healing for Moab, nor glorying in Esebon: he has devised evils against her: we have cut her off from being a nation, and she shall be completely still: after thee shall go a sword; 30 for there is a voice of men crying out of Oronaim, destruction and great ruin. 31 Moab is ruined, proclaim it to Zogora: for Alath is filled with weeping: one shall go up weeping by the way of Oronaim: ye have heard a cry of destruction.

32 Flee ye, and save your lives, and ye shall be as a wild ass in the desert. 33 Since thou hast trusted in thy strong hold, therefore thou shalt be taken: and Chamos shall go forth into captivity, and his priests, and his princes together. 34 And destruction shall come upon every city, it shall by no means escape; the valley also shall perish, and the plain country shall be completely destroyed, as the Lord has said. 35 Set marks upon Moab, for she shall be touched with a plague-spot, and all her cities shall become desolate: whence shall there be an inhabitant for her? 36 Cursed is the man that does the works of the Lord carelessly, keeping back his sword from blood.

37 Moab has been at ease from a child, and trusted in his glory; he has not poured out his liquor from vessel to vessel, and has not come into the heart of the nations; he has remained in him, and his small departed not. 38 Therefore, behold, his days come, saith the Lord, when I shall send upon him bad leaders, and they shall lead him astray, and they shall utterly break in pieces his possessions, and shall cut his horns asunder. 39 And Moab shall be ashamed of Chamos, as the house of Israel was ashamed of the head of Bethel their hope, having trusted in them.

40 How will ye say, We are strong, and men strong for war? 41 Moab is ruined, even his city, and his choice young men have gone down to slaughter. 42 The day of Moab is near at hand, and his iniquity moves swiftly to vengeance. 43 Shake the head at him, all ye that are round about him; all of you utter his name; say ye, How is the glorious staff broken to pieces, the rod of magnificence!

44 Come down from thy glory, and sit down in a damp place: Dabon shall be broken, because Moab is destroyed: there has gone up against thee one to ravage thy strong-hold. 45 Stand by the way, and look, thou that dwellest in Arer; and ask me.
that is fleeing, and him that escapes, and say, What has happened? 23 Moab is put to shame, because he is broken; howl and cry; proclaim in Armon, that Moab has perished. 24 And judgment is coming against the land of Misor, upon Chelen, and Rephas, and Mophas, 22 and upon Dubon, and upon Nabah, and upon the house of Daathlathaim, 23 and upon Caristhaim, and upon the house of Gasmol, and upon the house of Moon, 24 and upon Carioth, and upon Bosor, and upon all the cities of Moab, far and near. 25 The horn of Moab is broken, and his arm is crushed. 26 Make ye him drunk; for he has magnified himself against the Lord; and Moab shall clap with his hand, and shall be also himself a laughing-stock. 27 For surely Israel was to thee a laughing-stock, and was found among thy thefts, because thou didst fight against him. 28 The inhabitants of Moab have left the cities, and dwelt in rocks; they have become as doves nesting in rocks, at the mouth of a cave. 29 And I have heard of the pride of Moab, how he has greatly heightened his pride and his haughtiness, and his heart has been lifted up. 30 But I know his works; is it not enough for him? has he not done thus? 31 Therefore how ye for Moab on all sides; cry out against the shorn men in a gloomy place. I will weep for thee, 32 O vine of Aserema, as with the weeping of Jazer: thy branches are gone over the sea, they reached the cities of Jazer: destruction has come upon thy y fruits, and upon thy grape-gatherers. 33 Joy and gladness have been utterly swept off the land of Moab: and though there was wine in thy presses, in the morning they trod it not, neither in the evening did they raise the cry of joy. 34 From the cry of Ezebon even to 35 Etsam their cities uttered their voice, from Zogor to Oronsim, and their tiding as a heifer of three years old, for the water also of Nebrin shall be dried up. 36 And I will destroy Moab, saith the Lord, as he comes up to the altar, and burns incense to his gods. 37 Therefore the heart of Moab, as sound as pipes, my heart shall sound as a pipe for the shorn men; forasmuch as what every man has gained has perished from him. 38 They shall all have their heads shaved in every place, and every beard shall be shaved; and all hands shall 39 beat the breasts, and on all loins shall be sackcloth. 40 And on all the housetops of Moab, in and his streets shall be mourning, for I have broken him, saith the Lord, as a vessel, which is useless. 41 How has he 42 changed! how has Moab turned his back! Moab is put to shame, and become a laughing-stock, and an object of anger to all that are round about 43 him. 44 For thus said the Lord; 45 Carioth is taken, and the strong-holds have been taken together. 46 And Moab shall perish from being a multitude, because he has magnified himself against the Lord. 47 A snare, and fear, and the pit, are upon thee, I inhabitant of Moab. 48 He that flies from the terror shall fall into the pit, and he that comes up out of the pit shall even be taken in the snare; for I will bring these things upon Moab in the year of their visitation.

15 Thus saith the Lord God of Hosts: I will take the cup of this unmixed wine from mine hand, and thou shalt cause all the nations to drink, to whom I send thee. 16 And they shall drink, and vomit, and be mad, because of the sword which I send among them.

17 So I took the cup out of the Lord's hand, and caused the nations to whom the Lord sent me to drink; the cities of Judah, and the kings of Judah, and his princes, to make them a desert place, a desolation, and a hissing; 18 and Pharaoh king of Egypt, and his servants, and his nobles, and all his people; and all the mingled people, and all the kings of the Philistines, and Ascalon, and Gaza, and Accaron, and the remnant of Azotus, and Idumea, and the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and the kings of Tyre, and the kings of Sidon, and the kings in the country beyond the sea, and Daedan, andThemman, and Ros, and every one that is shaven round about the face, 19 and all the mingled people lodging in the desert, and all the kings of the Persians, and all the kings from the north, the far and the near, each one with his brother, and all the kingdoms which are on the face of the earth.

20 And thou shalt say to them, Thus said the Lord Almighty: Drink ye, and be ye drunken; and ye shall vomit, and shall fall, and shall in no wise rise, because of the sword which I send among you. 21 And it shall come to pass, when they refuse to take the cup out of thine hand, to drink it, that thou shalt say, Thus said the Lord; Ye shall surely drink.

22 For I am beginning to afflict the city whereon my name is called, and ye shall by no means be held guiltless: for I am calling a sword upon all that dwell upon the earth.

23 And thou shalt prophesy against them these words, and shalt say, The Lord shall speak from on high, from his sanctuary he will utter his voice; he will pronounce a declaration on his place; and these shall answer like men gathering grapes: and destruction shall go forth from the Lord upon the face of the earth, even upon the extreme part of the earth; for the Lord has a controversy with the nations, he is pleading with all flesh, and the ungodly are given to the sword, saith the Lord.

24 Thus said the Lord; Behold, evils are proceeding from nation to nation, and a great whirlwind shall come out of the end of the earth. 25 And the slain of the Lord shall be in the day of the Lord from one end of the earth even to the other end of the earth; they shall not be buried; they shall be as dung on the face of the earth. 26 Howl, ye shepherds, and cry; and lament, ye rams of the flock; for your days have been completed for slaughter, and ye shall fall as the choice rams. 27 And flight shall perish from the shepherds, and safety from the rams of the flock. 28 A voice of the crying of the shepherds, and a mourning of the sheep and in the beginning of the reign of King Joakim son of Josias there came this word from the Lord:

Thus said the Lord; Stand in the court of the Lord's house, and thou shalt declare to all the Jews, and to all that come to worship in the house of the Lord, all the words which I commanded thee to speak to them; abate not one word. Peradventure they will hear, and turn every one from his evil way: then will I cease from the evils which I purpose to do to them, because of their evil practices. And thou shalt say, Thus said the Lord; If ye will not hearken to me, to walk in my statutes which I set before you, 8 to hearken to the words of my servants the prophets, whom I sent to you early in the morning; yea, I sent them, but ye hearkened not to me; 9 then will I make this house as Selo, and I will make this city a curse to all the nations of the earth.

And the priests, and the false prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the Lord.

And it came to pass, when Jeremiah had ceased speaking all that the Lord had ordered him to speak to all the people, that the priests and the false prophets and all the people took him, saying, Thou shalt surely die, because thou hast prophesied in the name of the Lord, saying, This house shall be as Selo, and this city shall be made quite desolate of inhabitants.

And all the people assembled against Jeremiah in the house of the Lord. 10 And the princes of Judah heard this word, and they went up out of the house of the king to the house of the Lord, and sat in the entrance of the new gate. 11 Then the priests and the false prophets said to the princes and to all the people, The judgment of death is due to this man; because he has prophesied against this city, as ye have heard with your ears.

Then Jeremiah spoke to the princes, and to all the people, saying, The Lord sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city, all the words which ye have heard.

And now amend your ways and your works, and hearken to the voice of the Lord; and the Lord shall cease from the evils which he has pronounced against you. 14 And behold, I am in your hands; do to me as is expedient, and as it is best for you.

But know for a certainty, that if ye slay me, ye bring innocent blood upon yourselves, and upon this city, and upon them that dwell in it; for in truth the Lord has sent me to you to speak in your ears all these words.

Then the princes and all the people said to the priests and to the false prophets; Judgment of death is not due to this man; for he has spoken to us in the name of the 17 And there rose up men of the elders of the land, and said to all the assembly of the people,

18 And there was another man prophesying in the name of the Lord, Urias the son of Samaes of Cariathiarim; and he prophesied concerning this land according to all the words of Jeremiah.

19 And king Johim and all the princes heard all his words, and sought to slay him; and Urias heard it and went into Egypt.

20 And the king sent men into Egypt; and they brought him thence, and brought him in to the king; and he smote him with the sword, and cast him into the sepulchre of them of his people.

21 Nevertheless the hand of Achiam son of Saphan was with Jeremiah, to prevent his being delivered into the hands of the people, or being killed.

22 Thus said the Lord; Make to thyself bonds and yokes, and put them about thy neck, and thou shalt send them to the king of Idumea, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the children of Ammon, and to the king of Tyre, and to the king of Sidon, by the hands of their messengers that come to meet them at Jerusalem to Sedeckian king of Judah.

23 And thou shalt commission them to say to their lords, Thus said the Lord God of Israel; Thus shall ye say to your lords: I have made the earth by my great power, and with my high arm, and I will give it to whomsoever it shall seem good in mine eyes.

24 I gave the earth to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon to possess it, and to the wild beasts of the field to labour for him.

25 And the nation and kingdom, all that shall not put their neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, with sword and famine will I visit them, saith the Lord, until they are consumed by his hand.

26 And hearken ye not to your false prophets, nor to them that divine to you, nor to them that foretell events by dreams to you, nor to your auguries, nor to your soothsayers, that say, Ye shall by no means work for the king of Babylon: for they prophesy lies to you, to remove you far from your land.

27 But the nation which shall put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, I will even leave it upon its land, and it shall serve him, and dwell in it.

28 I spoke also to Sedeckian king of Judah according to all these words, saying, Put your neck into the yoke, and serve the king of Babylon. For they prophesy unrighteous words to you, for I sent them not, saith the Lord; and they prophesy in my name unjustly, that I might destroy you, and ye should perish, and your prophets, who unrighteously prophesy lies to you.

14 Thou, and to all this people, and to the priests, saying, Thus said the Lord; Hearken not to the words of the prophets that prophesy to you, saying, Behold, the vessels of the Lord's house shall return from Babylon: for they prophesy to you unrighteous words. 15 I sent them not. 16 If they are prophets, and if the word of the Lord is in them, let them meet me, for thus has the Lord said.

17 And as for the remaining vessels, which the king of Babylon took not, when he carried Jechonias prisoner out of Jerusalem, 18 they shall go into the hand of the king of Babylon.

And it came to pass in the fourth year of Sedeekias king of Judah, in the fifth month, that Ananias the false prophet, the son of Azor, from Gabaon, spoke to me in the house of the Lord, in the sight of the priests and all the people, saying, Thus said the Lord; I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. 20 Yet two full years, and I will return into this place the vessels of the house of the Lord, and the captivity of Judah: for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon.

Then Jeremias spoke to Ananias in the sight of all the people, and in the sight of the priests that stood in the house of the Lord, and Jeremias said, May the Lord indeed do thus; may he confirm this word which thou hast prophesied, to return the vessels of the house of the Lord, and all the captivity, out of Babylon to this place.

Nevertheless hear ye the word of the Lord, which I speak in your ears, and in the ears of all the people. The prophets that were before me and before you of old, also prophesied over much country, and against great kings, concerning war. As for the prophet that has prophesied for peace, when the word has come to pass, they shall know the prophet whom the Lord has sent them in truth.

Then Ananias took the yokes from the neck of Jeremias in the sight of all the people, and broke them in pieces. And Ananias spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, Thus said the Lord; Thus will I break the yoke of the king of Babylon from the necks of all the nations. And Jeremias went his way.

And the word of the Lord came to Jeremias, after that Ananias had broken the yokes off his neck, saying, Go, and speak to Ananias, saying, Thus said the Lord; Thou hast broken the yokes of wood; but I will make instead of them yokes of iron. For thus said the Lord, I have put a yoke of iron on the neck of all the nations, that they may serve the king of Babylon.

And Jeremias said to Ananias, The Lord has not sent thee; and thou hast caused this people to trust in unrighteousness. Therefore, thus said the Lord; Behold, I will cast thee off from the face of the earth; this year shalt thou die. So he died in the seventh month.
And these are the words of the book which Jeremias sent from Jerusalem to the elders of the captivity, and to the false prophets, even an epistle to Babylon for the captivity, and to all the people; 2 after the departure of Jehonias the king and the queen, and the eunuchs, and every freeman, and bondman, and artificer, out of Jerusalem; 3 by the hand of Eleasar son of Saphan, and Gamarias son of Cluechias (whom Jehoadas king of Juda sent to the king of Babylon to Babylon) saying.

Thus said the Lord God of Israel concerning the captivity which I caused to be carried away from Jerusalem; 4 Build ye houses, and inhabit them; and plant gardens, and eat the fruits thereof; 5 and take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters; and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, and be multiplied, and be not diminished. 6 And seek the peace of the land into which I have carried you captive, and ye shall pray to the Lord for it, and ye shall find peace.

And thus saith the Lord; Let not the false prophets that are among you persuade you, and let not your diviners persuade you, and hearken not to your dreams which ye dream. 7 For they prophesy to you unhonourable words in my name; and I sent them not. 8 For thus said the Lord: When seventy years shall be on the point, I being accomplished at Babylon, I will visit you, and will confirm my words to you, to bring back your people to this place: 9 And I will devise for you a device of peace, and not evil, to bestow upon you these good things. 10 And do ye pray to me, and I will hearken to you: and do ye earnestly seek me, and ye shall find me; 11 for ye shall seek me with your whole heart. 12 And I will appear to you: whereas ye said, The Lord has appointed for us prophets in Babylon: 13 Thus saith the Lord concerning Achiab, and concerning Sedekias; Behold, I will deliver them into the hands of the king of Babylon; and he shall smite them in your sight. 14 And they shall make of them a curse in all the captivity of Juda in Babylon; and he shall smite them in your sight. 15 And the captivity of Juda, and the captivity of Jerusalem, which is among all the kingdoms of the earth for iniquity which they wrought in Israel, and because they committed adultery with the wives of their fellow-citizens, and spoke a word in my name, which I did not command them to speak, and I am witness, saith the Lord.

And to Sansias the Amelethite thou shalt say, 16 I sent thee not in my name: and to Sophonias the priest the son of Masaeus say thou, 17 The Lord has made thee priest in the place of Jodae the priest, to be ruler in the house of the Lord over every prophet, and to every madman, and thou shalt put them in prison, and into the dungeon of the house of the Lord. 18 And now wherefore have ye related together Jeremias of Anathoth, who prophesied to you? 19 Did he not send for this purpose? for in the course of this month
The Word that Came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, 4Thus speaks the Lord God of Israel, saying, Write all the words which I have spoken to thee in a book. For, behold, the days come, that I will bring back the captivity of my people Israel and Judah, said the Lord: and I will bring them back to the land which I gave to their fathers, and they shall be lords of it.

And these are the words which the Lord spake concerning Israel and Judah:

Thus said the Lord: Ye shall hear a sound of fear, there is fear, and there is not peace. Enquire, and see if a man has born a child? and ask concerning the fear, where-in they shall hold their loins, and look for safety: for I have seen every man, and his hands are upon his loins; their faces are turned to paleness. For that day is great, and there is not such another; and it is a time of straitness to Jacob; but he shall be saved out of it. Thus said the Lord, I will break the yoke off their neck, and will burst their bonds, and they shall no longer serve strangers: but they shall serve the Lord their God; and I will raise up to them David their king.

Thus said the Lord: I have brought on thee destruction; thy stroke is painful. 7 There are none to judge thee; they have been punished for thee: they have not asked about thee at all, for I have smitten thee with the stroke of an enemy, even severe correction; thy sins have abounded above all thine iniquities. Therefore all that devour thee shall eat all their own flesh. Thy sins have abounded beyond the multitude of thine iniquities, therefore they have done these things to thee.

And they that spoil thee shall become a spoil, and I will give up 17 to be plundered all that have plundered thee. For I will bring about thy healing, I will heal thee of thy grievous wounds, saith the Lord; for thou art called Dispersed: she is your prey, for no one seeks after her.

Thus said the Lord: Behold, I will turn the captivity of Jacob, and will have pity upon his prisoners; and the city shall be built upon her hill, and the people shall settle after the name of the children. And there shall go up from them singers, even the sound of men making merry; and I will multiply them, and they shall not at all be diminished. And their sons shall go in as before, and their testimonies shall be established before me, and I will visit them that afflict them. And their mighty ones shall be over them, and their princes shall proceed of themselves; and I will gather them, and they shall return to me: for who is this that has set his heart to return to me? saith the Lord.

For the wrathful anger of the Lord has gone forth, even a whirlwind of anger has gone forth: it shall come upon the ungodly. The fierce anger of the Lord shall not return, until he shall execute it, and until he shall establish the purpose of his heart: in the latter days ye shall know these things.

At that time, saith the Lord, I will be a God to the family of Israel, and they shall be to me a people. Thus saith the Lord, I found him as a warm in the wilderness with them that were slain with the sword: go ye and destroy not Israel. The Lord appeared to him from afar, saying, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore have I drawn thee as a mother away: I will build thee, and thou shalt be built, O virgin of Israel: thou shalt yet take thy timbrel, and go forth with the party of them that make merry. For ye have planted vineyards on the mountains of Samaria: plant ye, and praise. For it is a day when those that plead on the mountains of Ephraim shall call, saying, Arise, ye, and go up to Sion to the Lord your God.

For thus saith the Lord to Jacob: Rejoice ye, and exult over the head of the nations: make proclamation, and praise ye: say, The Lord has delivered his people, the remnant of Israel. Behold, I bring them from the north, and will gather them from the end of the earth to the feast of the passover; and the people shall beget a great multitude, and they shall return hither. They went forth with weeping, and they will bring them back with consolation, causing them to lodge by the channels of waters in a straight way, and they shall not err in it: for I am become a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my first-born.

Hear the words of the Lord, ye nations, and proclaim them to the islands afar off; say, He that scattered Israel will also gather him, and keep him as one that feeds his flock. For the Lord has ransomed Jacob, he has rescued him out of the hand of them that were stronger than he. And they shall come, and shall rejoice in the mount of Sion, and shall come to the good things of the Lord, even to a land of corn, and wine, and fruits, and cattle, and sheep: and their soul shall be as a fruitful fig-tree, and they shall hunger no more. Then shall the virgins rejoice in the assembly of youth, and the old men shall rejoice; and I will turn their mourning into joy, and will make them merry.
and cheer with wine the soul of the priests the sons of Levi, and my people shall be satisfied, with my good things: thus saith the Lord.

15 A voice was heard in Rama, of lamentation, and of weeping, and wailing: Rachel would not cease weeping for her children, because they are not.

16 Thus saith the Lord; Let thy voice cease from weeping, and thine eyes from thine tears; for there is a reward for thy works; and they shall return from the land of thine enemies. There shall be an abiding home for thy child-teen.

17 I have heard the sound of Ephraim lamenting, and saying, Thou hast chastened me, and I was chastened; I as a calf was not willingly taught: turn thou me, and I shall turn; for thou art the Lord my God.

18 For after my captivity I repented; and after I knew, I groaned for the day of shame, and shewed thee that I bear reproach from my youth. 20 Ephraim is a beloved son, a pleasing child to me: for as to all my words are in him, I will surely remember him: therefore I made haste to help him; I will surely have mercy upon him, saith the Lord.

19 Prepare thyself, O Sion; execute vengeance: look to thy ways, return, O virgin of Israel, by the way which thou wentest, return mourning to thy cities. 21 How long, O disgraced daughter, wilt thou turn away? for the Lord has created safety for a new plantation: men shall go about in safety.

22 For thus saith the Lord; They shall yet speak this word in the land of Juda, and in the cities thereof, when I shall turn his captivity; blessed be the Lord on his righteous holy mountain!

23 And there shall be dwellers in the cities of Juda, and in all his land, together with the husbandman, and the shepherd shall go forth with the flock. 25 For I have saturated every thirsting soul, and every hungry soul. Therefore I awaked, and beheld, and my sleep was sweet to me.

26 Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Juda with the seed of man, and the seed of beast. 27 And it shall come to pass, that as I watched over them, to pull down, and to afflict, so will I watch over them, to build, and to plant, saith the Lord. 28 In those days they shall certainly not say, The fathers ate a sour grape, and the children's teeth were set on edge. 29 But every one shall die in his own sin; and the teeth of him that eats a sour grape shall be set on edge.

30 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Juda: not according to the covenant which I made with their fathers in the day when I took hold of their hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; for they abode not in my covenant, and I disregarded them, saith the Lord. 31 For this is my covenant which I will make with the house of Israel; after those days, saith the Lord, I will surely put my laws into their mind, and write and the family of Israel, saith the Lord, for all that they have done.

35 Thus saith the Lord, who gives the sun for a light by day, the moon and the stars for a light by night, and makes a roaring in the sea, so that the waves thereof roar; the Lord Almighty is his name: if these ordinances cease from before me, saith the Lord, then shall the family of Israel cease to be a nation before me for ever.

36 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when the city shall be built to the Lord from the tower of Anameel to the gate of the corner. And the measurement of it shall proceed in front of them as far as the hills of Gareb, and it shall be compassed with a circular wall of choice stones.

37 And all the Asaremoth even to Nachal Kethron, as far as the corner of the horse-gate eastward, shall be holiness to the Lord; and it shall not fail any more, and shall not be destroyed for ever.

The word that came from the Lord to Jeremiah in the tenth year of king Sedekias, this is the eighteenth year of king Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon.

2 And the host of the king of Babylon had made a rampart against Jerusalem: and Jeremiah was kept in the court of the prison, which is in the king's house; in which king Sedecias had shut him up, saying, Wherefore dost thou prophesy, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it; and Sedecias shall by no means be delivered out of the hand of the Chaldeans, for he shall certainly be given up into the hands of the king of Babylon, and his mouth shall speak to his mouth, and his eyes shall look upon his eyes: and Sedecias shall go into Babylon, and dwell there.

And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah saying, Behold, Anameel the son of Salom thy father's brother is coming to thee, saying, Buy thee my field that is in Anathoth: for thou hast the right to take it as a purchase.

So Anameel the son of Salom my father's brother came to me into the court of the prison, and said, Buy thee my field that is in the land of Benjamin, in Anathoth: for thou hast a right to buy it, and thou art the elder. So I knew that it was the word of the Lord. And I bought the field of Anameel the son of my father's brother, and I weighed him seventeen shekels of silver. And I wrote it in a book, and sealed it, and took the testimony of witnesses, and them on their hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people.

weighed the money in the balance. 11 And I took the book of the purchase that was sealed; 12 and I gave it to Baruch son of Neria, son of Maaseas, in the sight of Améeel my father's brother's son, and in the sight of the men that stood by and wrote in the book of the purchase, and in the sight of the Jews that were in the court of the prison. 13 And I charged Baruch in their presence, saying, Thus saith the Lord Almighty, Take this book of the purchase and the book that has been read; and thou shalt put it into an earthen vessel, that it may remain many days. 14 For thus saith the Lord; There shall yet be brought fields and houses and vineyards in this land.

And I prayed to the Lord after I had given the book of the purchase to Baruch the son of Neria, saying,

O ever living Lord! thou hast made the heaven and the earth by thy great power, and with thy high and lofty arm: nothing can be hidden from thee. 15 Granting mercy to thousands, and recompensing the sins of the fathers into the bosoms of their children; and the great, the strong God; 16 the Lord of great counsel, and mighty in deeds, the great Almighty God, and Lord of great name: thine eyes are upon the ways of the children of men, to give to every one according to his way: 17 who hast wrought signs and wonders in the land of Egypt even to this day, and among the inhabitants of the earth; and thou didst make for thyself a name, as at this day; 18 and thou didst bring out thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs, and with wonders, with a mighty hand, and with a high arm, and with great sights; 19 and thou gavest them this land, which thou didst swear to give to their fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey; 20 and they went in, and took it; but they hearkened not to thy voice, and walked not in thine ordinances; they did none of the things which thou didst command them, and they caused all these calamities to happen to them. 21 Behold, a collection of the aged is come aged, the hands of the Chaldeans that fight against it, by the power of the sword, and the famine: as thou hast spoken, so has it happened. 22 And thou sayest to me, Buy thee the field for money; and I wrote a book, and sealed it, and took the testimony of witnesses: and the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans. 23 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

I am the Lord, the God of all flesh: shall anything be hidden from me! 24 Therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel; This city shall certainly be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it: 25 and the Chaldeans shall come to war against this city, and they shall burn this city with fire, and shall burn down the houses wherein they burnt incense on the roofs thereof to Baal, and poured drink-offerings to other gods, to provoke me.
Jeremiah XXXIX. 30—XL. 4.

For the children of Israel and the children of Judah alone did evil in my sight from their youth. 2 For this city was obnoxious to my anger and my wrath, from the day that they built it even to this day; that I should remove it from before mine eyes, because of all the wickedness of the children of Israel and Judah, which they wrought to provoke me, they and their kings, and their princes, and their priests, and their prophets, the men of Judah, and the dwellers in Jerusalem. And they turned the back to me, and not the face; whereas I taught them early in my teaching, and they have no more to receive instruction. And they set their pollutions in the house, on which my name was called, by their uncleannesses. And they built to Baal the altars that are in the valley of the son of Ennom, to offer their sons and their daughters to king Moloch; which things I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind that they should do this abomination, to cause Judah to sin.

And now thus has the Lord God of Israel said concerning this city, of which thou sayest, It shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon by the sword, and by famine, and by the sword; Behold I will gather them out of all the places where I have scattered them in my anger, and my wrath, and great fury; and I will bring them back into this place, and will cause them to dwell safely: and they shall be to me a people, and I will be to them a God. And I will give them another way, and another heart, to fear me continually, and that for good to them and their children after them. And I will make with them an everlasting covenant, which I will by no means turn away from them, and I will put my fear into their heart, that they may not depart from me. And I will visit them to do them good, and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, and with all my heart, and with all my soul.

For thus saith the Lord; As I have brought upon this people all these great evils, so will I bring upon them all the good things which I pronounced upon them. And there shall yet be fields bought in the land, of which thou sayest, It shall be destitute of man and beast; and they are delivered into the hands of the Chaldeans. And they shall buy fields for money, and thou shalt write a book, and seal it, and shalt take the testimony of witnesses in the land of Benjamin, and round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, and in the cities of the mountain, and in the cities of the plain, and in the cities of the south: for I will turn their captivity.

And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the second time, when he was yet bound in the court of the prison, saying, Thus saith the Lord, who made the earth and formed it, to establish it; the Lord is his name; Cry to me, and I will answer thee, and I will declare to thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not. For thus saith the Lord concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the king of Judah, which have been pulled down for mounds and fortifications, to fight against the Chaldeans, and to fill it with the corpses of men, whom I smote in mine anger and my wrath, and turned away my face from them, for all their wickedness: 4 Behold, I bring upon her her law of service, and they shall have to themselves, and I will heal her, and make both peace and security.
7 And I will turn the captivity of Judah, and the captivity of Israel, and will build them, even as before. 8 And I will cleanse them from all their iniquities, whereby they have sinned against me, and will not remember their sins, whereby they have sinned against me, and revolted from me.
9 And it shall be for joy and praise, and for glory to all the people of the earth, who shall hear all the good that I will do: and they shall fear and be provoked for all the good things and for all the peace which I will bring upon them.
10 Thus saith the Lord; There shall yet be heard in this place, of which ye say, It is destitute of men and cattle, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, the places that have been made desolate for want of men and cattle, the voice of gladness, and the voice of joy, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the voice of men saying, Give thanks to the Lord Almighty: for the Lord is good; for his mercy endureth for ever: and they shall bring gifts into the house of the Lord; for I will turn all the captivity of that land as before, said the Lord. 11 Thus saith the Lord of hosts; There shall yet be in this place, that is desert for want of man and beast, in all the cities thereof, resting-places for shepherds causing their flocks to lie down. 12 In the cities of the hill country, and in the cities of the valley, and in the cities of the south, and in the land of Benjamin, and in the cities round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, flocks shall yet pass under the hand of him that numbers them, saith the Lord.

The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, (now Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and all his army, and all the country of his dominion, were warring against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah, saying:
3 Thus has the Lord said; Go to Sedeckia
king of Judah, and thou shalt say to him, Thus has the Lord said. This city shall certainly be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it, and shall burn it with fire: 4 and thou shalt not escape out of his hand, but shalt certainly be taken, and shall be given into his hands; and thine eyes shall see his eyes, and thou shalt enter into Babylon.
4 But hear the word of the Lord, O Sede-kiasia king of Judah; Thus saith the Lord, Thou shalt die in peace: and as they wept for thy fathers that reigned before thee, they shall weep also for thee, saying, Allord! and they shall lament for thee down to the grave: for I have spoken the word, said the Lord.

And Jeremias spoke to king Sedecias all these words in Jerusalem. 8 And the host of the king of Babylon warred against Jerusalem, and against the cities of Judah, 9 and against the kings of the land and the princes, and against Azeca: for these strongcities were left among the exiles of Judah.

The word that came from the Lord to Jeremias, after king Sedecias had concluded a covenant with the people, to proclaim a release; 2 that every one should set at liberty his servant, and every one his handmaid, the Hebrew man and Hebrew woman, whom no man of Judah should be, and every one, 3 then all the nobles, and all the people who had entered into the covenant, engaging to set free every one his man-servant, and every one his maid, turned, 4 and gave them over to be men-servants and maid-servants.

And the word of the Lord came to Jeremias, saying, 5 Thus saith the Lord; I made a covenant with your fathers in the day wherein I took them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, saying, 6 When six years are accomplished, thou shalt set free thy brother the Hebrew, who shall be sold to thee: for he shall serve thee six years, and then thou shalt let him go free: 7 but his servitor shall not work with thee, and shall not be with thee in all the years of his servitude; 8 from the morning of his servitude until the evening of the year of his servicie, he shall be free. 9 And he commandeth them saying, 10 I will make the princes, and the nobles, and the handmaids, and all the people, to be as this man's servants, whom I have set free from all servitude: 11 and it shall be, if he will set him free, then he shall let him go free, without sale and without hire. 12 And he commandeth them saying, 13 If a man of the princes or of a nobles, or of the handmaids, and of the people, that may work with thee, shall say, I will not go out of servitude for thee, 14 then thou shalt say to him, 15 I called thee to serve me six years: and if thou shalt not serve me for six years, how canst thou serve me? And he shall not serve thee free. 16 And he commandeth them saying, 17 If a man of the princes or of a nobles, or of the handmaids, or of the people, that may work with thee, shall say, I will not go out of servitude for thee, 18 then thou shalt say to him, 19 I called thee to serve me six years: and if thou shalt not serve me for six years, how canst thou serve me? And he shall not serve thee free. 20 And he commandeth them saying, 21 If a man of the princes or of a nobles, or of the handmaids, or of the people, that may work with thee, shall say, I will not go out of servitude for thee, 22 then thou shalt say to him, 23 I called thee to serve me six years: and if thou shalt not serve me for six years, how canst thou serve me? And he shall not serve thee free.
Behold, Ammonias the son of Joaan, the son of Amasket, and the son of Archababbin: and I brought them into the house of the Lord, into the chamber of the sons of Joaan, the son of Amasket, the son of Godias, a man of God, who dwelleth near the house of the princes that are over the house of Maaseas the son of Selom, who kept the court. And I set before them a jar of wine, and cups, and I said, Drink ye wine.

And they said, We will on no account drink wine, for our father Jonadab the son of Rechab commanded us, saying, Ye shall on no account drink wine: neither ye, nor your sons for ever: nor shall ye at all build houses, nor sow any seed, nor shall ye have a vineyard: for ye shall dwell in tents all your days; that ye may live many days upon the land, in which ye sojourn. And we hearkened to the voice of Jonadab our father, so as to drink no wine all our days, we, and our wives, and our sons, and our daughters; and so as to build no houses to dwell in: and we have had no vineyard, nor field, nor seed: but we have dwelt in tents, and have hearkened, and done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us. And it came to pass, when Nabuchodonosor came up against the land, that we said we would come in; and we entered into Jerusalem, for fear of the host of the Chaldeans, and for fear of the host of the Assyrians: and we dwelt there. And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Go, and say to the men of Juda, and to them that dwell in Jerusalem, Will ye not receive correction to hearken to my words? The sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have kept the word which he commanded his children, that they should drink no wine; and they have not drunk it: but I spake to you and to your fathers, and ye have not hearkened. And I sent to you my servants the prophets, saying, Turn ye every one from his evil way, and amend your practices, and go not after other gods to serve them, and ye shall dwell upon the land which I gave to you and to your fathers: but ye inclined not your ears, and hearkened not. But the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have kept the command of their father; but this people has not hearkened to me. Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will bring upon Juda and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the words which I pronounced against them.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Since the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have hearkened to the command of their father, to do as their father commanded them: there shall never wanting a man of the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab to stand before my face while the earth remains.

In the fourth year of Joakin son of Josias king of Juda, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Take thee a roll of a book, and write upon it all the words which I spoke to thee.
against Jerusalem, and against Juda, and against all the nations, from the day when I spoke to thee, from the days of Joas king of Juda, even to this day. 4 Perhaps the house of Juda will hear all the evils which I purpose to do to them; that they may turn from their evil way; and so I will be merciful to their iniquities and their sins.

5 So Jeremias called Baruch the son of Nerias: and he wrote from the mouth of Jeremias all the words of the Lord, which he had spoken to him, on a roll of a book.

6 And Jeremias commanded Baruch, saying, I am in prison; I cannot enter into the house of the Lord: 7 so thou shalt read in this roll in the ears of the people in the house of the Lord, on the fast day; and in the ears of all Juda that come out of their cities, thou shalt read to them. 8 For aventure their supplication will come before the Lord, and they will turn from their evil way: for great is the wrath and the anger of the Lord, which he has pronounced against this people.

9 And Baruch did according to all that Jeremias commanded him—reading in the book the words of the Lord in the Lord's house. 10 And it came to pass in the eighth year of king Joakim, in the ninth month, all the people in Jerusalem, and the house of Juda, proclaimed a fast before the Lord.

11 And Baruch read in the book the words of Jeremias in the house of the Lord, in the house of Gamarias son of Saphan the scribe, in the upper court, in the entrance of the new gate of the house of the Lord, and in the ears of all the people.

12 And Michæas the son of Gamarias the son of Saphan heard all the words of the Lord, out of the book. 13 And he went down to the king's house, into the house of the scribe: and, behold, there were sitting there all the princes, Elisama the scribe, and Dalaas the son of Selemais, and Joel the son of Aschobor, and Gamarias the son of Saphan, and Sedekias the son of Ananius, and all the princes. 14 And Michæas reported to them all the words which he had heard Baruch reading in the ears of the people.
And they went in to the king into the court, and gave the roll to one to keep in the house of Elisamas, and they told the king all these words. And the king sent Judin to fetch the roll: and he took it out of the house of Elisamas: and Judin read in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes who stood round the king. Now the king was sitting in the winter house: and there was a fire on the hearth before him. And it came to pass when Judin had read three or four leaves, he cut them off with a penknife, and cast them into the fire that was on the hearth, until the whole roll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth. And the king and his servants that heard all these words sought not the Lord, and rent not their garments.

But Elnathan and Godolias 8 suggested to the king that he should burn the roll.

And the king commanded Jeremeele the king's son, and Sargus the son of Eseriel, to take Baruch and Jeremias: but they were hidden.

Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremias, after the king had burnt the roll, even all the words which Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremias, saying, Again take thou another roll, and write all the words that were on the roll, which king Joakim has burnt. And thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord; Thou hast burnt this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, The king of Babylon shall certainly come in, and destroy this land, and man and cattle shall fail from off it?

Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning Joakim king of Jud: He shall not have a man to sit on the throne of David: and his carcase shall be cast forth in the heat by day, and in the frost by night. And I will visit him, and his family, and his servants: and I will bring upon him, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the land of Jud, all the evils which I spoke of to them: and they hearkened not.

And Baruch took another roll, and wrote upon it from the mouth of Jeremias all the words of the book which Joakim had burnt: and there were yet more words added to it like the former.

And Sedekias, the son of Josias reigned instead of Joakim, whom Nabuchodonosor appointed to reign over Jud. 2 And he and his servants and the people of the land hearkened not to the words of the Lord, which he spoke by Jeremias.

And king Sedekias sent Joachal son of Selemias and Sophonias the priest son of Maaseas to Jeremias, saying, Pray now for us to the Lord. 4 Now Jeremias 7 came and went through the midst of the city: for they had not put him into the house of the prison. And the host of Pharaoh was come forth out of Egypt; and the Chaldaens heard the report of them, and they went up from Jerusalem.

6, 7 Thus said the Lord, Thus said the Lord, saying: I cried, saying: I "and the word of the Lord came to Jeremias, saying, Thus said the Lord; Thus shalt thou say to the king of Judah who sent to thee, to seek me; Behold, the army of Pharaoh which is come forth to help you: they shall return to the land of Egypt; and the Chaldeans themselves shall burn again, and fight against this city, and take it, and burn it with fire. For thus saith the Lord; Suppose not in your hearts, saying, The Chaldeans will certainly depart from us: for they shall not depart. And though ye should smite the whole host of the Chaldeans that fight against you, and there should be left a few wounded men, these should rise up each in his place, and burn this city with fire. And it came to pass, when the host of the Chaldeans had gone up from Jerusalem for fear of the host of Pharaoh, that Jeremias went forth from Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin, to buy thence a property in the midst of the people. And he was in the gate of Benjamin, and there was there a man with whom he lodged, Sarua the son of Selemias, the son of Ananias; and he caused Jeremias, saying, Thou art fleeing to the Chaldeans. And he said, It is false; I do not flee to the Chaldeans. But he hearkened not to him; and Sarua caused Jeremias, and brought him to the princes. And the princes were very angry with Jeremias, and smote him, and sent him into the house of Jonathan the scribe: for they had made this a prison.

6 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremias, saying, Thus said the Lord; Thus shalt thou say to the king of Judah who sent to thee, to seek me; Behold, the army of Pharaoh which is come forth to help you: they shall return to the land of Egypt; and the Chaldeans themselves shall burn again, and fight against this city, and take it, and burn it with fire. For thus saith the Lord; Suppose not in your hearts, saying, The Chaldeans will certainly depart from us: for they shall not depart. And though ye should smite the whole host of the Chaldeans that fight against you, and there should be left a few wounded men, these should rise up each in his place, and burn this city with fire.

And it came to pass, when the host of the Chaldeans had gone up from Jerusalem for fear of the host of Pharaoh, that Jeremias went forth from Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin, to buy thence a property in the midst of the people. And he was in the gate of Benjamin, and there was there a man with whom he lodged, Sarua the son of Selemias, the son of Ananias; and he caused Jeremias, saying, Thou art fleeing to the Chaldeans. And he said, It is false; I do not flee to the Chaldeans. But he hearkened not to him; and Sarua caused Jeremias, and brought him to the princes. And the princes were very angry with Jeremias, and smote him, and sent him into the house of Jonathan the scribe: for they had made this a prison.

So Jeremias came into the dungeon, and into the cells, and he remained there many days. Then Sedekias sent, and called him; and the king asked him secretly, saying, Is there a word from the Lord? And he said, There is: thou shalt be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon. And Jeremias said to the king, Wherein have I wronged thee, or thy servants, or this people, that thou puttest me in prison? And where are your prophets who prophesied to you saying, The king of Babylon shall not come against this land? Now therefore, my lord the king, let my supplication come before thy face: and why dost thou send me back to the house of Jonathan the scribe? and let me not on any account die there. Then the king commanded, and they cast him into the prison, and gave him a loaf a day out of the place where they bake, until the bread failed out of the city. So Jeremias continued in the court of the prison.

And Saphanias the son of Nathan, and Godolias the son of Paschor, and Joachal the son of Semelias, heard the words which Jeremias spoke to the people, saying, Thus said the Lord; He that remaineth in this city shall die by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence; but he that goeth out to the Chaldeans shall live; and his soul shall be given him for a found treasure, and he shall live. For thus saith the Lord; This city shall certainly be delivered into the hands of the host of the king of Babylon, and they shall take it. And they said to the king. Let that man, we pray thee, be slain, for he weakens the hands of the fighting men that are left in the city, and the hands of all the people, speaking to them according to these words: for this man does not prophesy peace to this people, but evil.

Then the king said, Behold, he is in your hands. For the king could not resist them.

And they cast him into the dungeon of Melchias the king's son, which was in the court of the prison; and they let him down into the pit; and there was no water in the pit, but mire: and he was in the mire.

And Abdemelech the Ethiopian heard, (now he was in the king's household,) that they had put Jeremias into the dungeon; and the king was in the gate of Benjamin:

And he went forth to him, and spoke to the king and said, Thou hast done evil in what thou hast done to slay this man with hunger: for there is no more bread in the city. And the king commanded Abdemelech, saying, Take with thee hence thirty men, and lift him up out of the dungeon: and Jeremias remained in the court of the prison.

Then the king sent, and called him to himself into the house of Asisel, which was in the house of the Lord: and the king said to him, I will ask thee a question, and I pray thee hide nothing from me.

And Jeremias said to the king, If I tell thee, wilt thou not certainly put me to death? and if I give thee counsel, thou wilt not at all hearken to me. And the king swore to him, saying, As the Lord liveth who gave us this soul, I will not slay thee, neither will I give thee into the hands of these men.

And Jeremias said to him, Thus saith the Lord; If thou wilt indeed go forth to the captains of the king of Babylon, thy soul shall live, and this city shall certainly not be burnt with fire, and thou shalt live, and thy house. But if thou wilt not go forth, this city shall be delivered into the hands of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and thou shalt by no means escape.

And the king said to Jeremias, I consider the Jews that have gone over to the Chaldeans, lest they deliver me into their hands, and they mock me.

And Jeremias said, They shall in no wise deliver thee up. Hear the word of the Lord which I speak to thee; and it shall be better for thee, and thy soul shall live. But if thou wilt not go forth, this is the word which the Lord has shewed me. And behold, all the words that are left in the house of the king of Judah were brought forth to the princes of the king of Babylon; and they said, The men who were at peace with thee have received thee, and will "And they shall bring forth thy wives and thy children to the Chaldeans: and thou shalt by no means escape, for thou shalt be taken by the hand of the king of Babylon, and this city shall be burnt.

Then the king said to him, Let no man know any of these words, and certainly thou shalt not die. And if the princes shall hear that I have spoken to thee, and they come to thee, and say to thee, Tell us, what said the king to thee? shall it be well to thee? and what said the king to thee? Then thou shalt say to them, I brought my supplication before the presence of the king, that he would not send me back into the house of Jonathan, that I should die there.

And all the princes came to Jeremiah, and asked him; and he told them according to all these words, which the king had commanded him. And they were silent, because the word of the Lord was not heard.

And Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison, until the time when Jerusalem was taken.

And it came to pass in the ninth month of Sedekias king of Juda, that Nabuchodo-

And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in the court of the prison, saying, Go and say to Abdemoelch the Ethiopian, Thus said the Lord God of Israel; Behold, I will bring my words upon this city for evil, and not for good. But I will save thee in that day, and I will by no means deliver thee into the hands of the men before whom thou art afraid. For I will surely save thee, and thou shalt by no means fall by the sword; and thou shalt find thy life, because thou didst trust in me, saith the Lord.

The word that came from the Lord to Jeremiah, after that Nabuzardan the captain of the guard had let him go out of Rama, when he had taken him in manacles in the midst of the captivity of Juda, even those who were carried to Babylon.

And the chief captain of the guard took him, and said to him, The God of Juda hath pronounced all these evils upon this place; and the Lord has done it; because ye sinned against him, and hearkened not to his voice. Behold, I have loosed thee from the manacles that were upon thine hands. If it seem good to thee to go with me to Babylon, then will I set mine eyes upon thee. 5 But if not, 6 depart; return to Godolias the son of Achiam, the son of Saphan, whom the king of Babylon has appointed governor in the land of Juda, and dwell with him in the midst of the people in the land of Judah: to whatsoever places it seems good in thine eyes to go, do thou even go. And the captain of the guard made him presents, and let him go. 6 And he came to Godolias in Massepha, and dwelt in the midst of his people that was left in the land.

2 And all the leaders of the host that was in the country, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Godolias governor in the land, and they committed to him the men and their wives, whom Nabuchodonosor had not removed to Babylon. 6 And there came to Godolias to Massepha Ismael the son of Nathaniels, and Joanan son of Carea, and Sarseas the son of Thanameeth, and the sons of Jophhe the Netophathite, and Ezionias son of the Moachtite, they and their men.

9 And Godolias swore to them and to their men, saying, Be not afraid before the children of the Chaldeans: dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be better for you. 10 And, behold, I dwell in your presence at Massepha, to stand before the Chaldeans who shall come against you: and do ye gather grapes, and fruits, and oil, and put them into your vessels, and dwell in the cities which ye have obtained possession of.

11 And all the Jews that were in Moab, and among the children of Ammon, and those that were in Idumea, and those that were in all the rest of the country, heard that the king of Babylon had granted a remnant to Juda, and that he had appointed over them Godolias the son of Achiam. 12 And they came to Godolias into the land of Juda, to Massepha, and gathered grapes, and very much summer fruit, and oil.

13 And Joanan the son of Carea, and all the leaders of the host, who were in the fields, came to Godolias to Massepha, and said to him, Doth thou indeed know that king Belieas of Ammon has sent Ismael to thee to slay thee? But Godolias believed them not. 14 And Joanan said to Godolias secretly in Massepha, I will go now and smite Ismael, and let no man know it; lest he slay thee, and all the Jews that are gathered to thee be dispersed, and the remnant of Juda perish. 15 But Godolias said to Joanan, Do not the thing, for thou speakest lies concerning Ismael.

Now it came to pass in the seventh month that Ismael the son of Nathaniels the son of Eleasar of the seed royal, came, and ten men with him, to Godolias to Massepha: and they ate bread there together. 2 And Ismael rose up, and the ten men that were with him, and smote Godolias, whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor over the land, and all the Jews that were with him in Massepha, and all the Chaldeans that were found there.
And it came to pass on the second day after he had smitten Godolias, and no man knew of it, 5 that there came men from Sycoch, and from Salem, and from Samaria, even eighty men, having their beards shaven, and their clothes rent, and beating their breasts, and they had manna and frankincense in their hands, to bring them into the house of the Lord. 6 And Ismael went out to meet them, and they were empty, and he said to them, Come in to Godolias. 7 And it came to pass, when they had entered into the midst of the city, that he slew them and cast them into a pit. 8 But ten men were found there, and they said to Ismael, Slay us not: for we have treasures in the field, wheat and barley, honey and oil. So he passed by, and slew them not in the midst of their brethren.

9 Now the pit into which Ismael cast all whom he smote, 9 is the great pit, which king Asa had made for fear of Baasha king of Israel: even this Ismael filled with slain men.

10 And Ismael brought back all the people that were left in Massepeh, and the king's daughter, whom the captain of the guard had committed in charge to Godolias the son of Achiam: and he went away beyond the children of Ammon.

11 And Joanan the son of Carea, and all the leaders of the host that were with him, heard of all the evil deeds which Ismael had done. 12 And they brought all their army, and went to fight against him, and found him near 6 much water in Gabaon. 13 And it came to pass, when all the people that was with Ismael saw Joanan, and the leaders of the host that was with him, that they returned to Joanan. 15 But Ismael escaped with eight men and went to the children of Ammon.

16 And Joanan, and all the leaders of the host that were with him, took all the remnant of the people, whom he had brought back from Ismael, mighty men in war, and the women, and the men, and all the property, and the eunuchs, whom they had brought back from Gabaon: 17 and they departed, and dwelt in Gaberoh-amaa, that is by Beth-leem, to go into Egypt, for fear of the Chaldeans: 18 for they were afraid of them, because Ismael had smitten Godolias, whom the king of Babylon made governor in the land.

Then came all the leaders of the host, and Joanan, and Azarias the son of Massaes, and all the people great and small, 2 to Jeremiah the prophet, and said to him, Let now our supplication come before thy face, and pray thou to the Lord thy God for this remnant; for we are left few out of many, as thine eyes see. 3 And let the Lord thy God declare to us the way wherein we should walk, and the thing which we should do.

4 And Jeremiah said to them, I have heard you: behold, I will pray for you to the Lord our God, according to your words; and it shall come to pass, that whatsoever word the Lord God shall answer, I will declare it to you; I will not hide anything from you.

6 And they said to Jeremiah, Let the Lord be between us for a just and faithful witness, if we do not according to every word which the Lord shall send to us. And whether it be good, or whether it be evil, we will hearken to the voice of the Lord our God, to whom we send thee; that it may be well with us, because we shall hearken to the voice of the Lord our God.

8 And he called Johanan, and the leaders of the host, and all the people from the least even to the greatest, and he said to them, Thus saith the Lord: If ye will indeed dwell in this land, I will build you, and will not pull you down, but will plant you, and in no wise pluck you up; for I have ceased from the calamities which I brought upon you. Be not afraid of the king of Babylon, of whom ye are afraid; be not afraid of him, saith the Lord: for I am with you, to deliver you, and save you out of their hand. And I will grant you mercy and pity you, and will restore you to your land.

9 But if ye say, We will not dwell in this land, that we may not hearken to the voice of the Lord; 10 for we will go into the land of Egypt, and we shall see no war, and shall not hear the sound of a trumpet, and we shall dwell in Egypt for hire; and there we will dwell: 11 then hear the word of the Lord; thus saith the Lord: If ye set your face toward Egypt, and go in there to dwell; then it shall be, that the sword which ye fear shall find you in the land of Egypt, and the famine to which ye have regard, shall overtake you, coming after you in Egypt; and there ye shall die. 12 And all the men, and all the strangers who have set their face toward the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine: and there shall not be one of them escape from the evils which I bring upon them.

13 For thus saith the Lord: As my wrath has dropped upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so shall my wrath drop upon you, when ye have entered into Egypt: and ye shall be a desolation, and under the power of others, and a curse and a reproach: and ye shall no more see this place.

14 These are the words which the Lord has spoken concerning thee, the remnant of Judah; Enter ye not into Egypt: and ye shall be a desolation, and under the power of others, and a curse and a reproach: and ye shall no more see this place.

15 And these are the words which the Lord has spoken concerning Judah; Enter ye not into Egypt: and now know ye for a certainty, that ye have wrought wickedness in your hearts, when ye sent me, saying, Pray thou for us to the Lord; and according to all that the Lord shall speak to thee we will do. And ye have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord, with which he sent me to you. Now therefore ye shall perish by sword and by famine, in the place which ye desire to go into to dwell there.

16 And it came to pass, when Jeremiah ceased speaking to the people all the words
2 As for other, the hidden, and the deceptive, their language is deceitful.
3 All the nations have seen them, and they were afraid; all the nations were cut off.
4 All of them have become as workers of falsehoods.
5 I have spoken, said the Lord; my counsel shall stand; and who can抗拒 them?
6 I have known you, and I have seen you; therefore you shall become, and you shall be cut off, and be sought from under heaven.

7 And they were gathered together, those who went to Babylon, to enter into the city of Jerusalem; but they brought the captivity, and carried away the captive, and built the city, and settled there.
8 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in Babylon, saying:
9 Take thee great stones, and hide them in the entrance, at the gate of the house of Pharaoh in Babylon, in the sight of the men of Babylon; and thou shalt say, Thus hath the Lord said: Behold, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he shall place his throne upon these stones which thou hast hidden, and he shall lift up weapons against them. And he shall enter in, and smite the land of Egypt, delivering some for death to death; and some for captivity to captivity; and some for the sword. And he shall kindle a fire in the houses of their gods, and shall burn them, and shall carry them away captives: and shall search the land of Egypt, as a shepherd searches his garment; and he shall go forth in peace. And he shall break to pieces the pillars of Heliopolis that are in On, and shall burn their houses with fire.

The Word that came to Jeremiah for all the cities of Judah, and for the land of Egypt, and for those settled in Madgol and in Taphnas, and in the land of Pathura, saying:

Thus has the Lord God of Israel said; Ye have seen all the evils which I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon the cities of Judah; and, behold, they are desolate without a inhabitant, because of their wickedness, which they have wrought to provoke me, by going to burn incense to other gods, whom ye knew not. Yet I sent to you my servants the prophets early in the morning, and I sent, saying, Do not ye this abominable thing which I hate. But they hearkened not to me, and inclined not their ear to turn from their wickedness, so as not to burn incense to strange gods. So mine anger and my wrath dropped upon them, and was kindled in the gates of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they became a desolation and a waste, as at this day.
And now thus has the Lord Almighty said, Wherefore do ye commit these great evils against your souls? to cut off man and woman of you, infant and suckling from the midst of Judah, to the end that not one of you should be left; 8 by provoking me with the works of your hands, to burn incense in the fire thereof. 9 For Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, and the God of the spirits of the prophets, and of his spirit which dwelleth in me, 10 And have not ceased even to this day, and they have not kept to my ordinances, which I set before their fathers.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I do set my face against you 12 to destroy all the remnant that are in Egypt; and they shall fall by the sword, and by famine, and shall be smitten with a pestilence; and they shall be for reproach, and for destruction, and for a curse. 13 And I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have visited Jerusalem, with sword and with famine; 14 and there shall not be one be preserved of the remnant of Judah that sojourn in the land of Egypt, to return to the land of Judah, to which they hope in their hearts to return; they shall not return, but only they that escape.

Then all the men that knew that their wives burned incense, and all the women, a great multitude, and all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt, in Pathmar, answered Jeremiah, saying, 15 Then the word which thou hast spoken to us in the name of the Lord, we will not hearken to thee. 17 For we will surely perform every word that shall proceed out of our mouth, to burn incense to the queen of heaven, and to pour drink-offerings to her, as we and our fathers have done, and our kings and princes, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem; 18 so we were filled with bread, and well, and were free from evil. 19 But, since we left off to burn incense to the queen of heaven, we have all been brought low, and have been consumed by sword and by famine. 19 And whereas we burned incense to the queen of heaven, and poured drink-offerings to her, did we make cakes to her, and pour drink-offerings to her, with our husbands? 20 Then Jeremiah answered all the people, the mighty men, and the women, and all the people that returned him these words for answer, saying, 21 Did not the Lord remember the incense which ye burned in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye, and your fathers, and your kings, and your princes, and the land of Egypt, and the land? and came it not into his heart? 22 And the Lord could no longer bear you, because of the wickedness of your doings, and because of your abominations which ye wrought; and so your land became a desolation and a waste, and a curse, as at 23 and even in the days of young men, when I spoke freely, and when I called this nation to repent, I was answering them, and when I cried out to them, they would not hear. Behold, they have committed great sins and will not repent. 24 Because of your burning incense and because of the things wherein ye sinned against the Lord: and ye have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord, and have not walked in his ordinances, and in his law, and in his testimonies; and so these evils have come upon you.

25 And Jeremias said to the people, and to the priests, and to the Levites, and to all to whom the word of the Lord came: 26 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: Behold, I have sworn by the Lord, the God of Israel, that never yet was there a nation or a people that I should have delivered from my hand as these the Jews whom I delivered from all the kingdoms of the earth, and brought them to Babylon. 27 But they did not serve the Lord their God, but they set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 28 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 29 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 30 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 31 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 32 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 33 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 34 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 35 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 36 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 37 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 38 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 39 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 40 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 41 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 42 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 43 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 44 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 45 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 46 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 47 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 48 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 49 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 50 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 51 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 52 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 53 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 54 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 55 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 56 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 57 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel. 58 But the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent them his prophets, and brought them back from Babylon, and rejoiced as a man rejoices when he finds his way. 59 And they did not listen to their prophets, but set up for themselves a wooden image and a metal idol, and laid down an image for all Israel.
eleventh year of king Sedekias, 8 on the ninth day of the month, and then the famine was severe in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land. 9 And the city was broken up, and all the men of war went out by night by the way of the gate, between the wall and the outworks, which were by the king's garden; and the Chaldeans were by the city round about; and they went by the way leading to the wilderness. 10 But the host of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and overtook him in the country beyond Jericho; and all his servants were dispersed from about him. 11 And they took the king, and brought him to the king of Babylon to Deblatha, and he judged him. 12 And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Sedekias before his eyes; and he slew all the princes of Judah in Deblatha. 13 And he put out the eyes of Sedekias, and bound him in fetters; and the king of Babylon brought him to Babylon, and put him into the grinding-house, until the day when he died.

14 And in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, Nabuzardan the captain of the guard, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, sent to Jerusalem; 15 and he burnt the house of the Lord, and the king's house, and all the houses of the city, and every great house he burnt with fire. 16 And the host of the Chaldeans that was with the captain of the guard pulled down all the wall of Jerusalem round about. 17 But the captain of the guard left the remnant of the people to be vine-dressers and husbandmen.

18 And the Chaldeans broke in pieces the brazen pillars that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the brazen sea that was in the house of the Lord, and they took the brass thereof, and carried it away to Babylon. 19 Also the rim, and the bowls, and the flesh hooks, and all the brazen vessels, wherewith they ministered; 20 and the candlesticks, and the censers, and the cups, the golden, of gold, and the silver, of silver, the captain of the guard took away. 21 And the two pillars, and the one sea, and the twelve brazen oxen under the sea, which things king Solomon made for the house of the Lord; the brass of which articles was without weight.

22 And as for the pillars, the height of one pillar was thirty-five cubits; and a line of twelve cubits compassed it round; and the thickness of it all round was four fingers. 23 And there was a network and pomegranates, all of brass; and correspondingly the second pillar had eight pomegranates to a cubit for the twelve cubits. 24 And the pomegranates were ninety-six on a s sil and round all the pomegranates on the network round about were a hundred.

25 And the captain of the guard took the chief priest, and the second priest, and those that kept the way; 26 and one eunuch, who was over the men of war, and seven men

ΑΛΕΦ. Πῶς ἐγνώκανεν ἐν ὀργῇ αὐτοῦ Κύριος τὴν θυγατέρα Σιών; κατέβαλεν δὲ οὐρανοῦ εἰς γῆν δοξάσα κἀγαλῆν, καὶ οὐκ ἐκείνης ὑποδοχοῦ πιδῶν αὐτοῦ.

ΒΘΟ. Ἐν ἡμέρᾳ ὀργῆς αὐτοῦ καταπόνησε Κύριος, οὐ τοῖς πάντας τὰ ὀργαὶ Ἰακώβ καθέλεν ἐν θυμῷ αὐτοῦ, τὰ ὀργαίωμα τῆς θυγατρὸς Παλαιστίνη ἔκλεψαν εἰς τὴν γῆν, ἐβεβηλίσα τις βασιλεία αὐτῆς, καὶ ἀρχάριον αὐτῆς.

ΓΙΜΕΛ. Συνέκλασεν ἐν ὀργῇ θυμοῦ αὐτοῦ πάν τὸν κλάσαν 3 Ἰσραήλ, ἀπετρέφεν ὁ τόσα δεείχιν αὐτοῦ ἀπὸ προσόπου ἔχθροι, καὶ ἀγνύσιν ἐν Ἰακώβ ὡς πῦρ φλόγω, καὶ καταφέρει πάντα τὰ κύκλωπ.

ΔΑΛΕΘ. Ἐνεύρεσεν τόξον αὐτοῦ ὡς ἔχθρος ὑπεναντίος, ἐστερέωσε δεείχιν αὐτοῦ ὡς ὑπεναντίοις, καὶ ἀκέτασεν πάντα τὰ ἑπτανήματα τῶν ὀφθαλμῶν μου ἐν σκηνῇ θυγατρὸς Σιών, ἐξέευν ὡς πῦρ ὑπὸ τὸν θυμὸν αὐτοῦ.

Η. Ἐγεννήθη Κύριος ὡς ἔχθρος, καταπόνησεν Ἰσραήλ, 5 καταπόνησε τὰς βαραίς αὐτῆς, διεφθορά τὰ ὀργαίωμα αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἐπλήθυνε τῇ θυγατρὶ Παλαιστίνη ἀπανυμένην καὶ τεταπενυμένην.

ΟΥΑΥ. Καὶ διεστάσαν ὡς ἀμπελόν τὸ σκήνωμα αὐτοῦ, 6 διεφθορά ἐρήμου αὐτοῦ ἐπέλαβαν Κύριος ἐποίησεν ἐν Σιών ἔρημος καὶ σαββάτω, καὶ παρώσιν ἐμβρύμματι ὀργής αὐτοῦ βασιλεία καὶ ιερα καὶ ἀρχαία.

ΖΑΙΝ. Ἀπόσημο Ἰσραήλ θυσιαστήριον αὐτοῦ, ἀπετίναξεν 7 ἀγίασμα αὐτοῦ, συντρίψεν εἰς χειρὶ ἔχθρον τείχος βάρεων αὐτῆς: φωνὴν ἔδωκαν ἐν ὀκῷ Κύριον ὡς ἐν ἡμέρᾳ ἐρήμου.

ΘΘ. Καὶ ἐπέτρεψε διαφθορά τείχος θυγατρὸς Σιών, 8 εξέευν μέτρον, οὐκ ἀπετρέψε χειρα αὐτοῦ ἀπὸ καταπατήματος, καὶ ἐπένθησε τὸ προπετήσιμο, καὶ τείχος ὄμοιομαδόν ἔχεθαν.

ΘΗ. Ἐνεύρηκαν εἰς τὴν γῆν, ἀποκάλεσα καὶ 9 συντρίψαν μοχλοὺς αὐτῆς, βασιλεία αὐτῆς καὶ ἀρχαία αὐτῆς εἰς τοὺς ἐθνεῖς οὐκ ἔστι νόμος, καὶ γε προφήται αὐτῆς οὐκ ἔδωκαν δραμαν παρὰ Κύριον.

ΙΩΔ. Ἐκάθισαν εἰς τὴν γῆν, ἐσώπησαν πρεσβύτεροι 10 θυγατρὸς Σιών, ἀνεβιβάσαν χοῦν ἐπὶ τὴν κεφαλήν αὐτῶν, περιεζώσατο σάκκος, κατίγαγον εἰς τὴν ἀρχήνας παρθένοις ἐν Ιερουσαλήμ.

ΧΑΦ. Ἐξελίπθην ἐν δάκρυσιν οἱ ὀφθαλμοὶ μου, ἔταράξθη 11 ἡ καρδία μου, ἐξευθύνα εἰς τὴν γῆν ἡ ὄξα μου, ἐπὶ τὸ σύντριμμα τῆς θυγατρὸς λαοῦ μου, εἰς τὸ ἐκλείπειν νῆπιον καὶ θηλαζόντως ἐν πλατείαις πόλεως.

ΛΑΜΕΔ. Ταῖς μητράσιν αὐτῶν ἐτάν, ποῦ οἴκοι, καὶ 12 οἶνοι; ἐν τῷ ἐκλείπειν αὐτῶν ῥαμαται ἐν πλατείαις πόλεως, ἐν τῷ ἐκχείλειθαι ψυχὰς αὐτῶν εἰς κόλπον μητρών αὐτῶν.

ΜΗΜ. Τῷ μαρτυρήσῳ σοι, ἤ τῷ ὄρομωσο σοι, θυγατέρα of Jerusalem? who shall save and comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Zion? for the cup of thy destruction is enlarged: who shall heal thee?

14 Nun. Thy prophets have seen for thee vanities and folly: and they have not discovered thine iniquity, to turn back thy captivity; but they have seen for thee vain burdens, and worthless visions.

15 All that go by the way have clapped their hands at thee; they have hissed and shaken their head at the daughter of Jerusalem. Is this the city, they say the crown of joy of all the earth?

16 All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they have hissed and gnashed their teeth, and said, We have swallowed her up: moreover this is the day which we looked for; we have found it, we have seen it.

17 The Lord has done that which he purposed; he has accomplished his word, even the things which he commanded from the ancient days: he has thrown down, and has not spared: and he has caused the enemy to rejoice over thee, he has exalted the horn of him that afflicted thee.

18 Their heart cried to the Lord, Ye walls of Sion, pour down tears like torrents day and night: give thyself no rest; let not the garment of thine eyes cease.

19 Arise, rejoice in the night at the beginning of thy watch: pour out thy heart as water before the face of the Lord; lift up thy hands to him for the life of thine infants, who faint for hunger at the top of all the streets.

20 Behold, O Lord, and see for whom thou hast gathered thus. Shall the women eat the fruit of their womb? the cook has made a gathering: shall the infants sucking at the breasts be slain? wilt thou slay the priest and prophet in the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 The child and old man have lain down in the street: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity: thou hast slain them with the sword and with famine; in the day of thy wrath thou hast mangled them, thou hast not spared.

22 He has called my sojourners round about to a solemn day, and there was not in the day of the wrath of the Lord any one that escaped or was left; whereas I have strengthened and multiplied all mine enemies.

23 I am the man that sees poverty, through the rod of his wrath upon me. He has taken me, and led me away into darkness, and not to light. Nay, against me he has turned his hand all the day. He has made old my flesh and my skin; he has broken my bones.

24 He has built against me, and compassed my head, and brought travail upon me. He has set me in dark places, as them that have long been dead. He has builded against me, and I cannot come forth: he has made my soul heavy.

25 Though I cry and shout, he shuts out my prayer.
has hedged my paths; 10 he has troubled me, as a she-bear lying in wait: he is to me as a lion in secret places. 11 He pursued me after I departed, and brought me to a stand; he has utterly ruined me.

12 He. He has bent his bow, and set me as a mark for the arrow. 13 He has caused the arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins. 14 I became a laughing-stock to all my people; and their song all the day.

15 VAI. He has filled me with bitterness, he has drenched me with gall. 16 And he has dashed out my teeth with gravel, he has fed me with ashes. 17 He has also removed my soul from peace: I forgot prosperity. 18 Therefore my success has perished, and I have no hope from the Lord.

19 ZAIN. I remembered by reason of my poverty, and because of persecution my bitterness and gall shall be remembered; and my soul shall meditate with me. 20 This will I lay up in my heart, therefore will I endure.

21 HETH. It is the mercies of the Lord, that he has not failed me, because his compassions are not exhausted. Pity us, O Lord, early every month: for we are not brought to an end, because his compassions are not exhausted. 22 They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness. The Lord is my portion, says my soul; therefore will I wait for him.

25 TETH. The Lord is good to them that wait for him: the soul which shall seek him is good, and shall wait for, and quietly expect salvation of the Lord.

27 TETH. It is good for a man when he bears a yoke in his youth. 28 He will sit alone, and be silent, because he has borne it upon him.

30 JOD. He will give his cheek to him that smites him: he will be filled full with reproaches. 31 For the Lord will not reject for ever.

32 CHAP. For he that has brought down will pity, and that according to the abundance of his mercy.

33 He has not answered in anger, though he has brought low the children of men.

34 LAMED. To bring down under his feet all the prisoners of the earth, to turn aside the judgment of a man before the face of the Most High, to condemn a man unjustly in his judgment, the Lord has not given commandment.

35 Who has thus spoken, and it has come to pass? the Lord has not commanded it. 36 Out of the mouth of the Most High there shall not come forth evil and good.

39 MEM. Why should a living man complain, a man concerning his sin?

40 NUN. Our way has been searched out and examined, and we will turn to the Lord. 41 We have sinned, we have transgressed; and thou hast not pardoned.

43 SAMECH. Thou hast visited us in wrath, and driven us away: thou hast slain, thou hast not pitied. 44 Thou hast veiled thyself with a cloud because of prayer, that I might be blind, and be cast off. AIN. Thou black than smoke: they are not known in the streets: their skin has cleaved to their bones; they are withered, they are become as a stick.

9. The skin of the sword were better than they that were slain with hunger: they plied their mills for lack of meal.

10. The hands of tender-hearted women have soiled their own children: they became meat for them in the destruction of the daughter of my people.

11. The Lord has accomplished his wrath: he has poured out his fierce anger, and has kindled a fire in Sion, and it has devoured her foundations.

12. The kings of the earth, even all that dwell in the world, believed not that an enemy and oppressor would enter through the gates of Jerusalem.

13. For the sins of her prophets, and iniquities of her priests, who shed righteous blood in the midst of her.

14. Her watchmen staggered in the streets, they were defiled with blood in their weakness, they touched their raiment with it.

15. Depart ye from the unclean ones: call ye them: depart, depart, touch them not: for they are on fire, yes, they stagger: say ye among the nations, they shall no more sojourn there.

16. The presence of the Lord was their portion: but he will not again look upon them: they regarded not the person of the priests, they pitied not the prophets.

17. While we yet lived your eyes failed, while we looked in vain for your help. Taste. We looked to a nation that could not save. We have hunted for our little ones, that they should not walk in our streets.

18. Our time has drawn nigh, our days are fulfilled, our time is come.

19. Our pursuers were swifter than the eagles of the sky, they flew on the mountains, in the wilderness they laid wait for us.

20. The breath of our nostrils, our anointed Lord, was taken in their destructive snares, of whom we said, In his shadow we shall live among the Gentiles.

21. Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Jerusalem, that dwellest in the land: yet the cup of the Lord shall pass through to thee: thou shalt be drunken, and pour forth.

22. A daughter of Sion, thine iniquity has come to an end: she shall no more carry thee captive: he has visited thine iniquities, O daughter of Edom; he has discovered thy sins.

Remember, O Lord, what has happened to us: behold, and look on our reproach.

2. Our inheritance has been turned away to aliens, our houses to strangers: we are become orphans, we have no father, our mothers are as widows. We have drunk our water for money; our wood is sold to us for a burden on our neck: we have been persecuted, we have laboured, we have had no rest.

Now it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, that I was in the midst of the captivity by the river of Chobar; and the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. On the fifth day of the month; this was the fifth year of the captivity of king Josiah. And the word of the Lord came to Jezekel: the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river of Chobar; and the hand of the Lord was upon me. And I looked, and behold, a sweeping wind came from the north, and a great cloud on it, and there was brightness round about it, and gleaming fire, and in the midst of it as it were the appearance of amber in the midst of the fire, and brightness in it.

@ See Heb. 7 Or, psalms, or, songs. 8 See Heb. 9 Heb. and Alex. + there. 10 Gr. part.

And in the midst as it were the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance; the likeness of a man was upon them. 6 And each one had four faces, and each one had four wings. 7 And their legs were straight; and their feet were winged, and there were sparks, like gleaming brass, and their wings were light. 8 And the hand of a man was under their wings on their four sides. 9 And the faces of them four turned not when they went; they went every one straight forward.

And the likeness of their faces was the face of a man, and the face of a lion on the right to the four; and the face of a calf on the left to the four; and the face of an eagle to the four. 10 And the four had their wings spread out above; each one had two joined to one another, and two covered their bodies. 12 And each one went straight forward: wherever the spirit was going they went, and turned not back.

And in the midst of the living creatures there was an appearance as of burning coals of fire, as an appearance of lamps, turning among the living creatures; and the brightness of fire, and out of the fire came forth lightning.

And I looked, and beheld, the four had each one wheel on the ground near the living creatures. 16 And the appearance of the wheels was as the appearance of beryl: and the four had one likeness: and their work was as it were a wheel in a wheel.

They went on their four sides: they turned not as they went: 18 neither did their backs turn: and they were high: and I beheld them, and the backs of them four were full of eyes round about.

And when the living creatures went, the wheels went by them: and when the living creature lifted his wing, then the wheel lifted off the earth: and when it returned, the wheel returned to the earth, the wheels were lifted off. 20 Wherever the cloud happened to be, there was the spirit ready to go: the wheels went and were lifted up with them; because the spirit of life was in the wheels. 21 When those went, the wheels went: and when those stood, the wheels stood: and when those lifted themselves off the earth, they were lifted off with them: for the spirit of life was in the wheels.

And the likeness over the heads of the living creatures was as a firmament, as the appearance of crystal, spread out over their wings above. 23 And their wings were spread out under the firmament, 24 reaching one to the other, two wings to each, covering their bodies. 25 And I heard the sound of their wings when they went, as the sound of much water: and when they stood, their wings were let down.

And lo! a voice from above the firmament 26 that was over their head, there was as the appearance of a sapphire stone, and

Gr. parts. 7 Alex. + and their faces and the wings of them four were joined one to another. 9 Lit. over their body. 11 i.e. revolving 13 Or, with power. 15 Or, clapping or making a noise. Lit. + supine with, joined with 17 Alex. + as the sound of the Mighty One, when they went there was the sound of speech as the sound of an army, nearly according to the N. 26 Or, when they stood their wings were let down.
the likeness of a throne upon it: and upon the likeness of the throne was the likeness as an appearance of a man above. 2 And I saw as it were the resemblance of amber from the appearance of the loins and upwards, and from the appearance of the loins and under and I saw an appearance of fire, and the brightness thereof round about. 3 As the appearance of the bow when it is in the cloud in days of rain, so was the yform of the brightness round about.

This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And I saw and fell upon my face, and heard the voice of one speaking: and he said to me, Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak to thee. 2 And the Spirit came upon me, and took me up, and raised me, and set me on my feet: and I heard him speaking to me. 3 And he said to me, Son of man, I sent thee forth to the house of Israel, that thou provoketh me; who have provoked me, they and their fathers, to this day. 4 And thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord God; Whether then indeed they shall hear or fear, (for it is a provoking house,) yet they shall know that thou art a prophet in the midst of them.

5 And thou, son of man, hear him that speaks to thee; be not thou provoking, as the provoking house: open thy mouth, and eat what I give thee. 6 And I looked, and beheld, a hand stretched out to me, and in it a volume of a book. 7 And he unrolled it before me: and in it the front and the back were written upon: and there was written in it Lamentation, and mournful song, and lamentation.

8 And he said to me, Son of man, eat this volume, and go and speak to the children of Israel. 9 So he opened my mouth, and caused me to eat the volume.

And he said to me, Son of man, 3 thy mouth shall eat, and thy belly shall be filled with this volume that is given to thee. So I ate it: and it was in my mouth as sweet honey.

4 And he said to me, Son of man, go thy way, and go in to the house of Israel, and speak my words to them. 5 For thou art not sent to a people of hard speech, but to the house of Israel; neither to many nations of other speech and other tongues, nor of harsh language, whose words thou wouldest not understand: although if I had sent thee to such, they would have hearkened to thee. 6 But the house of Israel will not be willing to hearken to thee; for they will not hearken to me: for all the house of Israel are stubborn and hard-hearted. 8 And, behold, I have made thy face strong against their faces, and I will strengthen thy power against their power. 9 And it shall be continually stronger than a rock: be not afraid of them, neither be dismayed at their faces, because it is a provoking house.

And he said to me, Son of man, receive into the heart all the words that I have spoken to thee, and hear them with thine ears. 11 And go thy way, go in to the captivity, to the children of thy people, and thou shalt speak to them, and say to them, Thus saith the Lord; whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear.

Then the Spirit took me up, and I heard behind me the voice as of a great earthquake, saying, Blessed be the glory of the Lord from his place. 13 And I perceived the sound of the wings of the living creatures clapping one to the other, and the sound of the wheels near them, and the sound of the earthquake. 14 And the Spirit lifted me, and took me up, and I went in the midst of my spirit; and the hand of the Lord was mighty upon me.

Then I passed through the air and came into the captivity, and went round to them that dwelt by the river of Chobar who were there; and I sat there seven days, conversant in the midst of them.

And after the seven days the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, 17 I have made thee a watchman to the house of Israel; and thou shalt hear a word of my mouth, and shalt threaten them from me. When I say to the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou hast not warned him, to give warning to the wicked, to turn from his ways, that he should live; that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thy hand. 19 But if thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedness, and from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, and thou shalt deliver thy soul.

And when the righteous turns away from his righteousness, and commits a trespass, and I shall bring punishment before him, albeit he did not warn him; he shall even die in his sins, because his righteousness shall not be remembered; but his blood will I require at thine hand. 21 But if thou warn the righteous not to sin, and he sin not, the righteous shall surely live, because thou hast warned him; and thou shalt deliver thine own soul.

And the hand of the Lord came upon me; and he said to me, Arise, and go forth into the plain, and there shalt thou be spoken to.

And I arose, and went forth to the plain: and, behold, the glory of the Lord stood there, according to the vision, and according to the glory of the Lord, which I saw by the river of Chobar: and I fell on my face. 24 Then the Spirit came upon me, and set me on my feet, and spoke to me, and said to me, Go in, and shut thyself up in the midst of thine house. And thou, son of man, behold, bonds are prepared for thee.
26 And ye shall make dishes from meal, and full measure of fine flour, and full wineskins.

And thou shalt bind them with thee, and thou shalt not come forth of the midst of them, for seven sabbaths. 27 And all in the days of thy captivity shall thy dress be upon thee, and thou shalt eat thy bread which is cheated, and thou shalt be a reprover; because it is a provoking house.

But when I speak to thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord; He that hears, let him hear; and he that is disobedient, let him be disobedient; because it is a provoking house.

And thou, son of man, take thee a brick, and thou shalt set it before thy face, and shalt portray on it the city, even Jerusalem. 2 And thou shalt besiege it, and build works against it, and throw up a mound round about it, and pitch camps against it, and set up engines round about it.

And take thou to thyself an iron pan, and thou shalt set it for an iron wall between thee and the city: and thou shalt set thy face against it, and it shall be in a siege, and thou shalt besiege it. This is a sign to the children of Israel. 4 And thou shalt lie upon thy left side, and lay the iniquities of the house of Israel upon it, according to the number of the hundred and fifty shekels.

And fifty shekels shalt thou bear upon the right side of the house of the children of Jacob, according to the iniquities of Israel; which fall short one hundred and thirty; twenty shekels being a day: and thou shalt bear the iniquities of the house of Jacob forty days: I have appointed thee a day for a year. 7 So thou shalt set thy face to the siege of Jerusalem, and shalt strengthen thine heart, and shalt prophesy against it.

And, behold, I have prepared bonds for thee, and thou mayest not turn from thy one side to the other, until the days of thy siege shall be accomplished.

Take thou also to thee wheats, and barley, and beans, and lentilles, and millet, and ybread-corn; and thou shalt cast them into one earthen vessel, and shalt make them into loaves for thyself; and thou shalt eat them a hundred and ninety days, according to the days, during which thou shalt lie upon it: and thou shalt bear their iniquities.

For I have appointed thee their iniquities for a number of days, for a hundred and ninety days: so thou shalt bear the iniquities of the house of Judah forty days: I have appointed thee a day for a year.

So thou shalt set thy face to the siege of Jerusalem, and shalt strengthen thine heart, and shalt prophesy against it. And, behold, I have prepared bonds for thee, and thou mayest not turn from thy one side to the other, until the days of thy siege shall be accomplished.

And thou shalt eat thy bread by weight, twenty shekels a day: from time to time shalt thou eat them.

And thou shalt drink water by measure, even from time to time shalt thou drink the sixth part of a hin. And thou shalt eat them as a barley cake: thou shalt bake them before their eyes in man's dung.

And thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel; Thus shall the children of Israel eat unclean things among the Gentiles. Then I said, Not so, Lord God of Israel: surely my soul has not been defiled with uncleanness; nor have I eaten that which died of itself or was torn of beasts from my birth until now; neither has any corrupt flesh entered into my mouth.

And he said to me, Behold, I have given thee dung instead of man's dung, and thou shalt prepare that loaves upon it.

And he said to me, Son of man, behold,
I break the support of bread in Jerusalem: and they shall eat bread by weight and in want; and shall drink water by measure, and in a state of ruin: that they may want bread and water; and a man and his brother shall be brought to ruin, and they shall pine away in their iniquities.

And thou, son of man, take thee a sword sharper than a barber's razor; thou shalt procure it for thyself, and shalt bring it upon thine head, and upon thy beard: and thou shalt take a pair of scales, and shall separate the hair. A fourth part thou shalt burn in the fire in the midst of the city, at the fulfilling of the days of the siege; and thou shalt take a fourth part, and burn it up in the midst of it: and a fourth part thou shalt cut with a sword round about it: and a fourth part thou shalt scatter to the wind; and I will draw out a sword after them.

And thou shalt take thence a few in number, and shalt wrap them in the fold of thy garment. And thou shalt take of these again, and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them up with fire: from thence shall come forth fire; and thou shalt say to thy house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord: This is Jerusalem: I have set her and the countries round about her in the midst of the nations. And thou shalt declare mine ordinances to the lawless one from out of the nations; and my statutes to the sinful one of the countries round about her: because they have rejected mine ordinances, and have not walked in my statutes.

Therefore thus saith the Lord: Because your occasion for sin has been taken from the nations round about you, and ye have not walked in my statutes, nor kept mine ordinances, nay, ye have not even done according to the ordinances of the nations round about you; therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold, I am against thee, and I will execute judgments in thee, and I will scatter all that are left of thee to every wind.

Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord; surely, because thou hast defiled my holy things with all thine abominations, I also will reject thee; mine eye shall not spare, and I will have no mercy. A fourth part of thee shall be cut off by pestilence, and a fourth part of thee shall be consumed in the midst of thee with famine: and as for another fourth part of thee, I will scatter them to every wind; and a fourth part of thee shall fall by the sword round about thee, and I will draw out a sword after them.

And my wrath and mine anger shall be accomplished upon them: and thou shalt know that I the Lord have spoken in my jealousy, when I have accomplished mine anger upon them.

14 And I will make thee desolate, and thy daughters round about thee, in the sight of every one that passeth through.

15 And thou shalt be mourned over and miserable among the nations round about thee, when I have executed judgment upon thee in the vengeance of my wrath. I the Lord have spoken.

16 And when I have sent against them shafts of famine, then they shall be consumed, and I will break the strength of thy bread.

17 So I will send forth against thee famine and evil beasts, and I will take vengeance upon thee; and pestilence and blood shall pass through upon thee; and I will bring a sword upon thee round about. I the Lord have spoken.

18 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 8Son of man, set thy face against the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them;

9 and thou shalt say, Ye mountains of Israel, thus saith the Lord; thus saith the Lord to the mountains, and to the hills, and to the valleys, and to the forests; Behold, I bring a sword upon you, and your high places shall be utterly destroyed.

10 And your altars shall be broken to pieces, and your consecrated plats; and I will cast down your slain men before your idols.

11 And I will scatter your bones round about your altars, and in all your habitations; the cities shall be made desolate, and the high places utterly laid waste; that your altars may be destroyed, and your idols be broken to pieces, and your consecrated plats be abolished.

12 And slain men shall fall in the midst of you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

13 When there are some of you escaping from the sword among the Gentiles, and when ye are scattered in the countries; 9 then they of you that escape shall escape; and they of you that shall be taken captive shall I remember me; (I have sworn an oath against their heart that goes a-whoring from me, and their eyes that go a-whoring after their practices;) and they shall mourn over them for all their abominations.

14 And they shall know that I the Lord have spoken.

15 Thus saith the Lord; 8Clap with thy hand, and stamp with thy foot and say, 5Aha, aha! for all the abominations of the house of Israel: they shall fall by the sword, and by pestilence, and by famine. 12 He that is near shall fall by the sword; and he that is far off shall die by the pestilence;

16 and he that is in the siege shall be consumed with famine: and I will accomplish mine anger upon them.

17 Then ye shall know that I am the Lord, when your slaine are in the midst of your idols round about your altars, on every high hill, and under every shady tree, where your fathers offered sweet savour to all their idols. 14 And I will stretch out my hand against them, and I will make the land derelict and ruined from the wilderness of Deblaitha, in all their habitations: and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Also, thou, son of man, say, 7Thus saith the Lord;

8 Or, their faces, or, persons. 7 Heb. and Alex. 8 and they shall know that I the Lord have not said in vain that I would do all this evil to them. 9 Or, make a noise. 8 See Psalm 34, 20 (33) 21.
An end is come to the land of Israel, the end is come on the four corners of the land. 2 The end is come on thee, 3 the inhabitant of the land: and the time is come, the day has drawn nigh, not with tumult, nor with pangs.

Now I will pour out mine anger upon thee near at hand, and I will accomplish my wrath on thee: and I will judge thee for thy ways, and recompence upon thee all thine abominations. 4 Mine eye shall not spare, nor will I have any mercy: for I will recompense thy ways upon thee, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord that smite thee. 5 Now the end is come to thee, and I will send judgment upon thee: and I will take vengeance on thy ways, and will recompense all thine abominations upon thee. 6 Mine eye shall not spare, nor will I have any mercy: for I will recompense thy ways upon thee, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord that smite thee.

For thus saith the Lord; Behold, the end is come. 10 Behold, the day of the Lord! although the rod has blossomed, 11 pride has sprang up, and will break the staff of the wicked one, and that not with tumult, nor with haste. 12 The time is come, behold the day: let not the buyer rejoice, and let not the seller mourn. 13 For the buyer shall never again return to the seller, neither shall a man cleave with the eye of hope to his life. 14 Sound ye the trumpet, and pass sentence on all together. 15 There shall be war with the sword without, and famine and pestilence within: he that is in the field shall die by the sword; and famine and pestilence shall destroy them that are in the city.

But they that escape of them shall be delivered, and shall be upon the mountains: and I will slay all the rest, every one for his iniquities. 18 All hands shall be completely weakened, and all thighs shall be defiled with moisture. 19 And they shall gird themselves with sackcloth, and amazement shall cover them; and shame shall be upon them, eyes upon every face, and baldness upon every head. 20 Their silver shall be cast forth in the streets, and their gold shall be despised: their souls shall not be satisfied, and their bellies shall not be filled: for it was the punishment of their iniquities. 21 As for their choice ornaments, they employed them for pride, and they made of them images of their abominations, and profane them. They have made them uncleanness to them. And I will deliver them into the hands of strangers to make them a prey, and to the pests of the earth for a spoil; and they shall profane them. 23 And I will turn away my face from them, and they shall defile my charge, and shall go in to them ungodly, and profane them. And they shall work uncleanness: because the land is full of strange nations, and the city is full of iniquity. 24 And I will turn back the boasting of their strength; and their holy things shall be defiled. 25 And though propitiation shall come, and one shall seek peace, yet there shall be none.
And he said to me, Son of man, lift up thy eyes, and look toward the north. So I lifted up mine eyes toward the north, and behold, I looked from the north toward the eastern gate.

And he said to me, Son of man, hast thou seen what these do? They commit great abominations here so that I should keep away from my sanctuary: and thou shalt see yet greater iniquities.

And he brought me to the porch of the court. And he said to me, Son of man, dig: so I dug, and behold a door.

And he said to me, Go in, and behold the iniquities which they practise here.

So I went in and looked; and beheld rain abominations, and all the idols of the house of Israel, portrayed upon them round about. And twenty men of the elders of the house of Israel, and the scribe, and the scribe of the book of the covenant, stand in their presence in the midst of them, and each one held his censer in his hand; and the smoke of the incense went up.

And he said to me, Thou hast seen, son of man, what the elders of the house of Israel do, each one of them in their secret chamber; because they have said, The Lord sees not; and the Lord has forsaken the earth.

And he said to me, Thou shalt see yet greater iniquities which these do. And he brought me in to the porch of the house of the Lord that looks to the north; and behold, there were women sitting there lamenting for Thammuz.

And he said to me, Son of man, thou hast seen; but thou shalt yet see evil practices greater than these.

And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the Lord, and at the entrance of the temple of the Lord between the porch and the altar, there were about twenty men, with their back parts toward the temple of the Lord, and their faces turned the opposite way; and these were worshipping the sun. And he said to me, Son of man,
Is it a little thing to the house of Judah to practise the iniquities which they have practised here? for they have filled the land with iniquity, and, behold, there be none to search: Therefore will I deal with them in wrath: mine eye shall not spare, nor will I have any mercy.

And he cried in mine ears with a loud voice, saying, The judgment of the city has drawn nigh; and each had the weapons of destruction in his hand. And, behold, six men filled all the circumference of the way which looks toward the north, and each one's axe was in his hand; and there was one man in the midst of them clothed with a long robe down to the feet, and a sapphire girdle was on his loins; and they came in and stood near the brazen altar.

And the glory of the God of Israel, that was upon them, went up from the cherubims to the porch of the house.

And he called the man that was clothed with the long robe, who had the girdle on his loins; and said to him, Go through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a mark on the forehead of the men that gird and that grieve the iniquity which they have done; and thou shalt be their stirrer up again among them. And he said to the first in my hearing, Go after him into the city, and smite: and let not thy eyes spare, and have no mercy.

Slay utterly old man and youth, and virgins, and infants, and women: but go ye not nigh any one whom is the mark: begin at my sanctuary.

So they began with the elder men who were within in the house. And he said to them, Defile the house, and go out and fill the ways with dead bodies, and smite.

And it came to pass as they were smiting, that I fell upon my face, and cried out, and said, Alas, O Lord! wilt thou destroy the remnant of Israel, in pouring out thy wrath upon Jerusalem? Then said he to me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is become very exceedingly great: for the land is filled with many nations, and the city is filled with iniquity and uncleanness: because they have said, The Lord has forsaken the earth, The Lord looks not upon it. Therefore mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have any mercy: I have recompensed their ways upon their heads.

And, behold, the man clothed with the long robe, and girt with the girdle about his loins, answered and said, I have done as thou didst command me.

Then I looked, and, behold, over the firmament that was above the head of the cherubims there was a likeness of a throne over them, as a sapphire stone. And he said to the man clothed with the long robe, Go in between the wheels that are under the cherubims, and fill thine hands with coal of fire from between the cherubims, and scatter them over the city. And he went in in my sight.

And the cherubims stood on the right hand of the house, as the man went in; and the cloud filled the inner court. Then the glory of the Lord departed from the cherubims to the porch of the house: and the cloud filled the house, and the court was filled.
to the brightness of the glory of the Lord.
And the sound of the cherubs' wings was heard as far as the outer court, as the voice of the Almighty God speaking.

And it came to pass, when he gave a charge to the man clothed with the sacred robe, saying, Take fire from between the wheels, and between the cherubs, that he went in, and stood near me. And he stretched forth his hand into the midst of the fire that was between the cherubs, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of the man clothed with the sacred robe: and he took it, and went out.

And I saw the cherubs having the likeness of men's hands under their wings.
And I saw, and beheld, four wheels stood by the cherubs, one wheel by each cherub: and the appearance of the wheels was as the appearance of a carbuncle stone.
And as for their appearance, there was one likeness to the four, as if there should be a wheel in the midst of a wheel.

When they went, they went on their four sides; they turned not when they went, for whichever way the first went, the second went; and the third, and the fourth; and the second followed the first, and the third followed the second, and the fourth followed the third; and the wheels were full of eyes round about the four wheels.

And these wheels were called Gégel in my hearing.
And the cherubs were the same living creature which I saw by the river of Chobar.

And when the cherubs went, the wheels went, and they were close to them: and when the cherubs lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, their wheels turned not.
When they stood, the wheels stood; and when they mounted up, the wheels mounted up with them: because the spirit of life was in them.

Then the glory of the Lord departed from the house, and went up on the cherubs.
And the cherubs lifted up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight: when they went forth, the wheels were also five besides the cherub, and stood at the entrance of the front gate of the house of the Lord; and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them above.

This is the living creature which I saw under the God of Israel by the river of Chobar; and I knew that they were cherubs.
Each one had four faces, and each one had eight wings; and under their wings was the likeness of men's hands.
And as for the likeness of their faces, these are the same faces which I saw under the glory of the God of Israel by the river of Chobar; and they went each straight forward.

Moreover the Spirit took me up, and brought me to the front gate of the house of the Lord, that looks eastward: and behold at the entrance of the gate were about five and twenty men; and I saw in the midst of them Jeconiah the son of Ezer, and Phaltiah the son of Banneas, the leaders of the people.

And the Lord said to me, Son of man, these are the men that devise vanities, and... take evil counsel in this city; 3 who say, 'Have not the houses been newly built?' This is the calf, and we are the flesh. 4 Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, son of man. 5 And the Spirit of the Lord fell upon me, and said to me, say:

Thus saith the Lord; Thus have ye said, O house of Israel: and I know the devices of your spirit. 6 Ye have multiplied your dead in this city, and ye have filled 8 your ways with slain men. 7 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Your dead whom ye have smitten in the midst of it, these are the flesh, and this city is the calf. But I will bring you forth out of the midst of it. 8 Ye fear the sword; and I will bring a sword upon you, saith the Lord. 9 And I will bring you forth out of the midst of it, and will deliver you into the hands of strangers, and will execute judgments among you. 10 Ye shall fall by the sword; I will judge you on the mountains of Israel; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

And it came to pass, while I was prophesi- ing, that Phalldas the son of Bananas died. 11 And I fell upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and said, Alas, O Lord! wilt thou utterly destroy the remnant of Israel? 12 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 13 Son of man, thy brethren, and the men of thy captivity, and all the house of Israel are come to the full, to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem said, Keep ye far away from the Lord: the land is given to us for an inheritance. 14 Therefore say thou. Thus saith the Lord; I will cast them off among the nations, and will disperse them into every land, yet will I be to them for a little sanctuary in the countries which they shall enter. 15 Therefore say thou, Thus saith the Lord; I will also take them from the heathen, and gather them out of the lands wherein I have scattered them, and will give them the land of Israel.

And they shall enter in there, and shall remove all the abominations of it, and all its iniquities from it. 16 And I will give them another heart, and will put a new spirit within them; and will extract the heart of stone from their flesh, and give them a heart of flesh: 17 that they may walk in my commandments, and keep mine ordinances, and do them: and they shall be to me a people, and I will be to them a God.

And as for the heart set upon their abominations and their iniquities, as their heart went after them, I have recompensed their ways on their heads, saith the Lord. 18 Then the cherubs lifted up their wings, and the wheels beside them; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above the man. 19 And the glory of the Lord went up from the midst of the city, and stood on the mountain which was in front of the city.

And the Spirit took me up, and brought me to the land of the Chaldeans, to the captivity, in a vision by the Spirit of God: and I went up after the vision which I saw. 1 And I spoke to the captivity all the words of the Lord which he had shewed me.

8 Gr. their, but Alex. αὐτῶν, sc. the city, αὐτῶν perhaps for ὑμῶν αὐτῶν.
12 And the word of the Lord came to me saying, 2 Son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of the iniquities of those, who have eyes to see, and see not; and have ears to hear, and hear not: because it is a provoking house.

3 Thou therefore, son of man, prepare thyself baggage for going into captivity by day in their sight; and thou shalt be led into captivity from thy place into another place in their sight; that they may see that it is a provoking house. 4 And thou shalt carry forth thy baggage, baggage for captivity, by day before their eyes: and thou shalt go forth at even, as a captive goes forth, in their sight. 5 Dig for thyself into the wall of the house, and thou shalt pass through it in their sight; 6 thou shalt be lifted up on men's shoulders, and shalt go forth in secret: thou shalt cover thy face, and shalt not see the ground: because I have made thee a sign to the house of Israel.

7 And I did thus according to all that he commanded me; and I carried forth my baggage for captivity by day, and in the evening I dug through the wall for myself, and went out secretly; I was taken up on men's shoulders before them. 8 And the word of the Lord came to me in the morning, saying, 9 Son of man, have not the house of Israel, the provoking house, said to thee, What doest thou? 10 Say to them, Thus saith the Lord God, the Prince and the Ruler in Israel, even to all the house of Israel who are in the midst of them: 11 say, I am performing signs: as I have done, so shall it be to him: they shall go into banishment and captivity. 12 And the prince in the midst of them shall be borne upon shoulders, and shall go forth in secret through the wall, and shall dig so that he may go forth thereby: he shall cover his face, that he may not be seen by any eye, and he himself shall not see the ground. 13 And I will spread out my net upon him, and he shall be caught in my сети; and I will bring him to Babylon to the land of the Chaldeans himself, but he shall not see it; though he shall die there. 14 And I will scatter to every wind all his assistants round about him, and all that help him; and I will draw out a sword after them 15 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have scattered them among the nations; and I will disperse them in the countries.

16 And I will leave of them a few men in number spared from the sword, and from famine, and from pestilence; that they may declare all their iniquities among the nations whither they have gone; and they shall know that I am the Lord. 17 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 18 Son of man, eat thy bread with sorrow, and drink thy water with lamentation and affliction. 19 And thou shalt say to the people of the land, Thus saith the Lord to the inhabitants of Jerusalem on the land of Israel: They shall eat their bread in scarcity, and shall drink their water in desolation, that the land may be desolate with all that it contains: for all that dwell in it are 8 ungodly. 20 And their inhabited cities shall be laid utterly waste, and the land shall be desolate; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

21 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 22 Son of man, what is your parable on the land of Israel, that ye say, The days are long; the vision has perished? 23 Therefore say to them, Thus saith the Lord; I will even set aside this parable, and the house of Israel shall no more at all use this parable: for thou shalt say, The days are at hand, and the import of every vision. 24 For there shall no more be any false vision, nor any one prophesying flattery in the midst of the children of Israel. 25 For I the Lord will speak my words; I will speak and perform them, and will no more delay, for in your days, O provoking house, I will speak the word, and will perform it, saith the Lord.

26 Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 27 Son of man, prophesy against the prophet of Israel, 28 and prophesy against him, and shall say, Thus saith the Lord, Hear ye the word of the Lord:

3 Thus saith the Lord, Woe to them that prophesy out of their own heart, and who see nothing at all. 4 Thy prophets, O Israel, are like foxes in the deserts. 5 They have not continued steadfast, and they have gathered flocks against the house of Israel, they that say, 6 In the day of the Lord, have not stood, seeing false visions, prophesying vanities, who say, The Lord saith, and the Lord has not sent them, and they began to try to confirm the word. 7 Have ye not seen a false vision? and spoken vain prophecies? 8 And therefore say,

Thus saith the Lord; Because your words are false, and your prophecies are vain, therefore, behold, I am against you, saith the Lord. 9 And I will stretch forth my hand against the prophets that see false visions, and those that utter vanities: they shall not partake of the instruction of my people, neither shall they be written in the roll of the house of Israel, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel; and they shall know that I am the Lord. 10 Because they have caused my people to err, saying, Peace; and there is no peace; and one builds a wall, and they plaster it,—it shall fall. 11 Say to them that plaster it, It shall fall; and there shall be a flooding rain; and I will send great stones upon their joinings, and they shall fall; and there shall be a sweeping wind, and it shall be broken. 12 And lo! the wall has fallen; and will they not say to you, Where is your plaster
13 Even ye that feared me will I profane, saith the Lord; and them which swears by my name, and says, I profess to know me, I will bring them even into the land of their heart, and there shall they be profaned. 14 Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah, and the kings thereof, and the princes thereof, and the priests thereof, and the people thereof, shall I bring again, and they shall inhabit it; yea, I will do it: and I will plant them upon their land, and they shall be his people, and I will be their God in their land, saith the Lord. 15 And I will make them of the desert a fruitful field, and of salt卤 Thảo a spring of water: and I will pour upon the house of Jacob a Spirit of knowledge, and upon the house of Joseph a Spirit of righteousness. 16 And I will make them of the people a people, and of the inheritance of the people a inheritance, and I will place them with the children of Israel. 17 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house ofIsrael, and with the house of Judah. 18 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to bring them forth out of the land of Egypt; which my covenant they brake, although I was a husband unto them, saith the Lord. 19 But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people. 20 And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more. 21 In those days, saith the Lord, I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah: 22 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; which my covenant they brake, although I was a husband unto them, saith the Lord: but this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; 23 And I will say unto the house of Israel, Ye shall know me, that I am the Lord; and they shall know the Lord, and his servant, and his殉道者, and his chosen ones, in that day. 24 I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit in the inward parts of all my people: for I will take away the heart of stone out of their flesh, and will give them a heart of flesh: 25 That they may walk in my statutes, and keep my ordinances, and do them: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God. 26 These are the words that the Lord spake concerning Israel. 27 And the Lord said unto me, Jeremiah, what seest thou? And I said, I see a branch cut off from the vine. 28 Then he said unto me, Set thee before my face the vineyard that is before me, and I will tell thee what I have done to it. 29 For the vineyard of the Lord is very precious in the midst of a land full of ruins: the precious things are perished from the vineyard, and there is not a place found, where they may be found. 30 And the vineyard was forsaken, and left: but its brambles and briers took hold of it, and it was filled with thorns. 31 Moreover the wine-presses thereof flowed not out wine, and there came no萌芽 of grapes; for the vine was not pruned, nor keeps the tender shoot, nor did any stand there to watch it. 32 Therefore is the curse of the Lord upon the vineyards of the wilderness, and upon the hills that run toward east, and upon all the fruitful fields, which the sword of the Lord has made desolate.
Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Be converted, and turn from your evil practices, and from all your sins, and turn your faces back again. For any man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn in Israel, who shall separate himself from me, and conceive his imaginations in his heart, and set before his face the punishment of his iniquity, and come to the prophet to enquire of him concerning me; I the Lord will answer him, according to the things wherein he is entangled. And I will set my face against that man, and will make him desolate and ruined, and will cut him off from the midst of my people; and ye shall know that I am the Lord. And if a prophet should cause to err and should speak, I the Lord have caused that prophet to err, and will stretch out my hand upon him, and will utterly destroy him from the midst of my people Israel. And they shall bear their iniquity according to the trespass of that which they have done, and it shall be in like manner to the prophet according to the trespass: that the house of Israel may no more go astray from me, and that they may no more defile themselves with any of their transgressions; so shall they be my people, and I will be their God, saith the Lord. And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, if a land shall sin against me by committing a trespass, then will I stretch out my hand upon it, and will break its staff of bread, and will send forth famine upon it, and cut off from it man and beast: And though these three men were in the midst of it, as I live, saith the Lord, they shall not deliver sons or daughters, but they only shall be saved themselves. If again I send pestilence upon that land, and pour out my wrath upon it in blood, to destroy from off it man and beast; and should Noe, and Daniel, and Job, be in the midst of it, as I live, saith the Lord, there shall be left them neither sons nor daughters; only they by their righteousness shall deliver their souls. Thus saith the Lord, And if I send upon Jerusalem my four sore judgments, sword, and famine, and evil beasts, and pestilence, to destroy from out of it man and beast; yet, behold, there shall be men left in it, the remnant thereof, who shall lead forth of it sons and daughters: behold, they shall go forth to you, and ye shall see.
And thou, son of man—of all the wood of the branches that are among the trees of the forest, what shall be made of the wood of the vine? Will they take wood of it to make it a peg for work? Will it be taken out of the vine to hang any vessel upon it? It is only given to the fire to be consumed; the fire consumes that which is yearly pruned of it, and it is utterly gone. Will it be useful for any work? Not even while it is yet whole will it be useful for any work: if the fire shall have utterly consumed it, will it still be useful for any work? Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord, As the vine-trees among the trees of the forest, which I have given up to the fire to be consumed, so have I given up the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

And I will set my face against them; they shall go forth of the fire, and yet fire shall devour them; and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have set my face against them. And I will give up my face against them, and they shall know that I am the Lord, whereupon I use to do transgress, saith the Lord.

Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, testify to Jerusalem of her iniquities; and thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord to Jerusalem: Thy root and thy birth are of the land of Chanaan; thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother a Chettite. And as for thy birth in the day wherein thou wast born, thou didst not bind thy breasts, and thou wast not washed in water, neither wast thou salted with salt, neither wast thou swathed in swaddling-bands. Nor did mine eye pity thee, to do for thee one of all these things, to feel at all for thee; but thou wast cast out of the land, because of the deformity of thy person, in the day wherein thou wast born.

And I passed by thee, and saw thee polluted in thy blood; and I said to thee, Let there be life out of thy blood; increase; I have made thee as the springing grass of the field. So thou didst increase and grow, and didst enter into great cities; thy breasts were set, and thy hair grew whereas thou wast naked and bare.

And I passed by thee, and saw thee, and beheld, it was thy time and a time of resting; and I spread my wings over thee, and covered thy shame, and swered to thee; and I entered into covenant with thee, saith the Lord, and thou becamest mine. And I washed thee in water, and washed thy blood from thee, and anointed thee with oil. And I clothed thee with embroidered garments, and clothed thee beneath with purple, and girded thee with fine linen, and clothed thee with silk, and decked thee also with ornaments, and put bracelets on their ways and their thoughts; and ye shall mourn over the evils which I have brought upon Jerusalem, even all the evils which I have brought upon it. And they shall comfort you, because ye shall see their ways and their thoughts; and ye shall know that I have not done all the things that I have done in it, saith the Lord.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, thine hands, and a necklace on thy neck. 12 And I put a pendant on thy nostril, and rings in thine ears, and a crown of glory on thine head. 13 So thou wast adorned with gold and silver; and thy raiment was of fine linen, and silk, and variegated work: thou didst eat fine flour, and oil, and honey, and didst become extremely beautiful. 14 And thy name went forth among the nations for thy beauty: because it was perfected with elegance, and in the comeliness which I put upon thee, saith the Lord. 15 Thou didst trust in thy beauty, and didst go a-whoring because of thy renown, and didst pour out thy fornication on every passer by. 16 And thou didst take of thy garments, and make to thyself idols of needlework, and didst go a-whoring after them; therefore thou shalt never come in, nor shall the like take place. 17 And thou tookest thy fair ornaments of my gold and of my silver, of what I gave thee, and thou madest to thyself male images, and thou didst make thyself whoredom with them. 18 And thou didst take thy variegated apparel and didst clothe them, and thou didst set before them mine oil and mine incense. 19 And thou tookest my bread which I gave thee, (yea I fed thee with fine flour and oil and honey) and didst set them before thee for a sweet-smelling savour: yea, it was so, saith the Lord. 20 And thou tookest thy sons and thy daughters, whom thou bearest, and didst sacrifice these to them to be destroyed. 21 Thou didst go a-whoring as if that were little, 22 and didst slay thy children, and gavest them up in offering them to them for an expiation. 23 This is beyond all thy fornication, and thou didst not remember thine infancy, when thou wast naked and bare, and didst live though defiled in thy blood. 24 And it came to pass after all thy wickedness, saith the Lord, 25 that thou didst build thyself a house of fornication, and didst make thyself a public place in every street; 26 and on the head of every way thou didst set up thy fornications, and didst defile thy beauty, and didst open thy feet to every passer by, and didst multiply thy fornication. 27 And thou didst go a-whoring after the children of Egypt thy neighbours, great of flesh; and didst go a-whoring often to provoke me to anger. 28 And if I stretch out my hand against thee, then will I abolish thy statues, and deliver thee up to the wills of them that hate thee, even to the daughters of the Philistines that turned thee aside from the way wherein thou sinnedst. 29 And thou didst go a-whoring to the daughters of Assur, and not even thus wast thou satisfied; yea, thou didst go a-whoring, and wast not satisfied. 30 And thou didst multiply thy fornications with the land of the Chaldeans, and not even with these wast thou satisfied. 31 Why should I make a covenant with thy daughter, saith the Lord, while thou doest all these things, the works of a harlot? and thou hast gone a-whoring in a threefold degree with thy daughters. 32 Thou hast built

* Lit. an ensign.

* Or, as if thou hadst committed fornication but a little, thou didst also, etc.

32 And in the day that thou gavest them bread of the land of Egypt, and didst give them manna according to their hou:: and ye had not eaten any bread, and had not drunk any water, but didst have reasoning like the reasoning of a harlot gathering hire. 33 And an adulteress reasoneth thee, taking rewards of her husband. 34 And there has happened in thee perversion in thy fornication beyond other women, and they have committed fornication with thee, in that thou givest hire over and above, and hire was not given to thee; and thus perverseness happened in thee.

35 Therefore, harlot, hear the word of the Lord: 36 Thus saith the Lord, Because thou hast poured forth thy money, therefore thy shame shall be discovered in thy harlotry with thy lovers, and with regard to all the imaginations of thy iniquities, and for the blood of thy children which thou hast shed; therefore, behold, I will gather all thy lovers together, and thou shalt be placed among them, and all whom thou hast loved, with all whom thou didst hate; and I will gather them against thee round about, and will expose thy wickedness to them, and they shall see all thy shame. 37 And I will be avenged on thee with the vengeance of an adulteress, and I will bring upon thee the blood of thy lovers, and I will deliver thee into their hands, and they shall break down thy house of harlotry, and destroy thine high place; and they shall strip thee of thy garments, and shall take thy proud ornaments, and leave thee naked and bare. 38 And they shall bring multitudes upon thee, and they shall stone thee with stones, and pierce thee with their swords. 39 And they shall burn thine houses with fire, and shall execute vengeance on thee in the sight of many women: and I will turn thee back from harlotry, and I will no more give thee rewards.

40 So will I slayen my fury against thee and my jealousy shall be removed from thee, and I will rest, and be no more careful for thee. 41 Thus saith the Lord: 42 Remember thine infancy, and thou didst grace me in all things; therefore, behold, I have recompensed thy ways upon thine head, saith the Lord: for thus hast thou wrought ungodliness above all thine other iniquities.

43 These are all the things they have spoken against thee in a proverb, saying, 44 As is thy mother, so is thy mother's daughter: thy mother, she rejected her husband and her children: and the sisters of thy sisters have rejected their husbands and their children: your mother was a Chetitite, and your father an Amorite. 45 Your elder sister who dwells on thy left hand is Samaria, she and her daughters: and thy younger sister, that dwells on thy right hand, is Sodom and her daughters.

46 Yet notwithstanding thou hast walked in their ways, neither hast thou done according to their iniquities within a little, but thou hast exceeded them in all thy ways.

47 As I live, saith the Lord, this Sodom...
And her daughters have not done as thou and thy daughters have done. 43 Moreover this was the sin; the house of Sodom did pride: she and her daughters' lived in pleasures, in fulness of bread and in abundance: this belonged to her and her daughters, and they helped not the hand of the poor and needy. 44 And they boasted, and wrought iniquities before me: so I cut them off as I saw fit.

Also Samaria has not sinned according to half the sins of Sodom; but thou hast multiplied thine iniquities beyond them, and thou hast justly justified thy sisters in all thine iniquities which thou hast committed. 45 Thou therefore bear thy punishment, for that thou hast corrupted thy sisters by thy sins which thou hast committed beyond them; and thou hast made them appear more righteous than thyself; thou therefore be ashamed, and bear thy dishonour, in that thou hast justified thy sisters. 46 And I will turn their captivity, even the captivity of Sodom and her daughters; and I will turn the captivity of Samaria and her daughters; and I will turn thy captivity in the midst of them: 47 that thou mayest bear thy punishment, and be in dishonour for all that thou hast done in provoking me to anger.

And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall be restored as they were at the beginning, and thou and thy daughters shall be restored as ye were at the beginning. 49 And surely thy sister Sodom was not mentioned by thy mouth in the days of thy pride: before thy wickedness was discovered, even now thou art the reproach of the daughters of Syria, and of all that are round about her, even of the daughters of the Philistines that compass thee round about. 50 As for thine ungodliness and thine iniquities, thou hast borne them, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord; I will even do to thee as thou hast done, as thou hast dealt shamefully in these things to transgress my covenant. 51 And I will remember my covenant made with thee in the days of thy youth; and I will establish to thee an everlasting covenant. 52 Then shalt thou remember thy ways, and shalt be utterly dishonoured when thou receivest thine elder sisters with thy younger ones: and I will give them to thee for building up, but not by thy covenant. 53 And I will establish my covenant with thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord: 54 that thou mayest remember, and be ashamed, and mayest no more be able to open thy mouth for thy shame, when I am recompensed to thee all that thou hast done, saith the Lord.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 2 Son of man, relate a tale, and speak a parable to the house of Israel: 3 and thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord; 4 A great eagle with large wings, spreading them out very far, with many claws, which has the design of being strong, and he took the choice branches of the cedar: 5 he cropped off the ends of the tender twigs, and brought them into the land of Chahannan; he laid them up in a walled city. 6 And he took of the seed of the land, thugatereis autis, of thronothe epousias Su kai ai thugatereis Su.

And it sprang up, and became a \( \beta \) weak and little vine, so that the branches thereof appeared upon it, and its roots were under it: and it became a vine, and put forth shoots, and sent forth its tendrils.

And there was another great eagle, with great wings and many claws: and, behold, this vine bent itself round toward him, and her roots were turned towards him, and she sent forth her branches towards him, that he might water her together with the growth of her plantation. She thrives in a fair field by much water, to produce shoots and bear fruit, that she might become a great vine.

Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord; Shall it prosper? shall not the roots of her tender stem and her fruit be blighted? yea, all her early shoots shall be dried up, and that not by a mighty arm, nor by many people, to tear her up from her roots. And, behold, it thrives: shall it prosper? shall it not wither as soon as the east wind touches it? it shall be withered together with the growth of its shoots.

Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, say now to the provoking house, Know ye not what these things were? say to them, Whenever the king of Babylon shall come against Jerusalem, then he shall take her king and her princes, and shall take them \( \gamma \) home to Babylon. And he shall take of the seed royal, and shall make a covenant with him, and shall bind him with an oath: and he shall take the princes of the land: that it may become a weak kingdom, so as never to lift itself up, that he may keep his covenant, and establish it. And if he shall revolt from him, to send his messengers into Egypt, that they may give him horses and much people; shall he 16 As I live, saith the Lord, verily in the same place \( \zeta \) where the king is that made him king, who dishonoured my oath, and who broke my covenant, shall he die with him in the midst of Babylon. And Pharaoh shall make war upon him not with a large force or great multitude, in throwing up a mound, and in building of \( \dot{9} \) forts, to cut off souls. Whereas he has \( \dot{\mu} \) profaned the oath so as to break the covenant, when he, behold, I engaged his hand, and he has done all these things to him, he shall not escape.

Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord; As I live, surely mine oath which he has profaned, and my covenant which he has transgressed, I will even recompense it upon his head. And I will spread a net upon him, and he shall be caught in its snare.

\( \mu \) In every battle of his they shall fall by the sword, and I will scatter his remnant to every wind: and ye shall know that I the Lord have spoken it.

For thus saith the Lord; I will even... take of the choice branches of the cedar from the top thereof, I will crop off their hearts, and I will plant it on a high mountain: and I will hang it on a lofty mountain of Israel: yea, I will plant it, and it shall not be pulled up, and it shall be a great cedar: and every bird shall rest beneath it, every even fowl shall rest under its shadow: its branches shall be restored. And all the trees of the field shall know that I am the Lord that bring low the high tree, and exalt the low tree; and dry tree, and cause the dry tree to flourish: I the Lord have spoken, and will do it.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, what mean ye by this parable among the children of Israel, saying, The fathers have eaten unripe grapes, and the children's teeth have been set on edge? As I live, saith the Lord, surely this parable shall no more be spoken in Israel. For all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son, they are mine: the soul that sins, it shall die.

But the man who shall be just, who executes judgment and righteousness, who shall not at all lift up his eyes to the devices of the house of Israel, and shall not defile his neighbour's wife, and shall not draw nigh to her that is removed, and shall not oppress any man, shall return the pledge of the debtor, and shall be guiltless of no plunder, shall give his bread to the hungry, and clothe the naked; and shall not lend his money upon usury, and shall not receive usurious increase, and shall turn back his hand from injustice, shall execute righteous judgment between a man and his neighbour, and has walked in my commandments and kept mine ordinances, to do them; he is righteous, he shall surely live, saith the Lord.

And if he beget a mischievous son, shedding blood and committing sins, who has not walked in the way of his righteous father, but has even eaten upon the mountains, and has defiled his neighbour's wife, and has oppressed the poor and needy, and has committed robbery, and not restored a pledge, and has set his eyes upon idols, has wrought iniquities, has lent upon usury, and taken usurious increase; he shall by no means live: he has wrought all these iniquities; he shall surely die; his blood shall be upon him.

And if he beget a son, and the son see all his father's sins which he has wrought, and hate and do not according to them, and if he has not eaten on the mountains, and has not set his eyes on the devices of the house of Israel, and has not defiled his neighbour's wife, and has not oppressed a man, and has not retained the pledge, nor committed robbery, has given his bread to the hungry, and has clothed the naked, and has turned back his hand from unrighteousness, has not received interest or usurious increase, has wrought righteousness, and walked in mine ordinances; he shall not die for the iniquities of his father, he shall surely live. But if his father...
grievously afflicted, or plunder, he has wrought great enmity in the midst of his people, and shall die in his iniquity.

But ye will say, Why has not the son borne the iniquity of the father? Because the son has wrought judgment and mercy, he has kept all my statutes, and done them, he shall surely live: but the soul that sins shall die: and the son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, nor shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the iniquity of the transgressor shall be upon him.

And if the transgressor turn away from all his iniquities which he has committed, and keep all my commandments, and do justice and mercy, he shall surely live, and shall by no means die. None of his trespasses which he has committed shall be remembered: in his righteousness which he has done he shall live.

Shall I at all desire the death of the sinner, saith the Lord, as I desire that he should turn from his evil way and live?

But when the righteous man turns away from his righteousness, and commits iniquity, according to all the transgressions which the transgressor has wrought, none of his righteousness which he has wrought shall be at all remembered: in his trespass wherein he has trespassed, and in his sins wherein he has sinned, in them shall he die.

Yet ye have said, The way of the Lord is not straight. Hear now, all the house of Israel; will not my way be straight? Is your way straight?

When the righteous man turns away from his righteousness and commits a trespass, and dies in the trespass which he has committed, he shall even die in it. And when the wicked man turns away from his wickedness which he has committed, and shall do judgment and justice, he has kept his soul; and has turned away from all his ungodliness which he has committed: he shall surely live, he shall not die.

Yet the house of Israel say, The way of the Lord is not right. Is not my way right, O house of Israel? is not your way wrong?

I will set mine hand upon the Lord, each one according to his way: be converted, and turn from all your ungodliness, and it shall not become to you the punishment of iniquity. Cast away from yourselves all your ungodliness wherein ye have sinned against me; and make to yourselves a new heart and a new spirit: for why should ye die, O house of Israel? For I desire not the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord.

Moreover do thou take up a lamentation for the prince of Israel, and say, Why is thy mother become a whelp in the midst of lions? in the midst of lions she has multiplied her whelps. And one of her whelps shall become a lion, and learn to take prey, he devours the nations.

And the nations heard a report of him; he was caught in their multitude, and they brought him into the land of Egypt in chains.

And she saw that he was driven away from her, and her hope of him perished, and she took another of her whelps; she made him a lion. 6 And he went up and down in the midst of lions, he became a lion, and learned to take prey, and devoured men. 7 And he prowled in his boldness and laid waste their cities, and made the land desolate, and the fulness of it, by the voice of his roaring.

Then the nations set upon him from the countries round about, and they spread their nets upon him; he was taken in their pit. 9 And they put him in chains and in a cage, and he came to the king of Babylon; and he cast him into prison, that his voice should not be heard on the mountains of Israel.

Thy mother was as a vine and as a blossom on a pomegranate tree, planted by water: her fruit and her shoots abounded by reason of much water. 11 And she became a rod for a tribe of princes, and was elevated in her bulk in the midst of other trees, and she saw her bulk in the multitude of her branches.

But she was broken down in wrath, she was cast upon the ground, and the east wind dried up her choice branches; vengeance came upon them, and the rod of her strength was withered; fire consumed it. 13 And now they have planted her in the wilderness, in a dry land. 14 And fire is gone out of a rod of her choice boughs, and has devoured her; and there was no rod of strength in her. Her race is become a parable of lamentation, and it shall be for a lamentation.

And it came to pass in the seventh year, on the fifteenth day of the month, there came men of the elders of the house of Israel to enquire of the Lord, and they sat before me. 2 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 3 Son of man, speak to the elders of the house of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord; Are ye come to enquire of me? As I live, I will not be enquired of by you, saith the Lord. 4 Shall I utterly take vengeance on them, son of man? testify to them of the iniquities of their fathers; 5 and thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord;

From the day that I chose the house of Israel, and became known to the seed of the house of Jacob, and was known to them in the land of Egypt, and helped them with my hand, saying, I am the Lord your God; 9 in that day I helped them with my hand, to bring them out of the land of Egypt into the land which I prepared for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, it is a abundant beyond every land. 10 And I said to them, Do not ye cast up the abominations of his eyes, and desile not yourselves with the devices of Egypt: I am the Lord your God.

But they revolted from me, and would not hearken to me: they cast not away the abominations of their eyes, and forsook not the devices of Egypt: then I said that I would pour out my wrath upon them, to accomplish my wrath upon them in the midst of Egypt. 9 But I wrought so that my name should not be at all profaned in the sight of the Gentiles, in the midst of whom they are, among whom I was made known to them in their sight, to bring them out of the land of Egypt. 8

And I brought them into the wilderness. 9 And I gave them my commandments, and made known to them mine ordinances, all which if a man shall do, he shall even live in them. 10 And I gave them my sabbaths, that they should be for a sign between me and them, that they should know that I am the Lord that sanctify them.

11 And I said to the house of Israel in the wilderness, Walk ye in my commandments; but they walked not in them, and they rejected mine ordinances, which if a man shall do, he shall even live in them; and they grievously profaned my sabbaths: and I said that I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to consume them. 12 But I wrought so that my name should not be at all profaned before the Gentiles, before whose eyes I brought them out.

13 But I lifted up my hand against them in the wilderness once for all, that I would not bring them into the land which I gave them, a land flowing with milk and honey, it is sweeter than all lands: 14 because they rejected mine ordinances, and walked not in my commandments, but profaned my sabbaths, and went after the imaginations of their hearts.

15 Yet mine eyes spared them, so as not to destroy them utterly, and I did not make an end of them in the wilderness. 16 And I said to their children in the wilderness, Walk not ye in the customs of your fathers, and keep not their ordinances, and have no fellowship with their practices, nor defile yourselves with them. 17 I am the Lord your God; walk in my commandments, and keep mine ordinances, and do them; and I will hallow my sabbaths, and let them be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God.

18 But they provoked me, and their children walked not in my commandments, and they took no heed to mine ordinances to do them, which if a man shall do, he shall even live in them, and they profaned my sabbaths: then I said that I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to accomplish mine anger upon them. 19 But I wrought so that my name might not be at all profaned before the Gentiles; and I brought them out in their sight.

20 I lifted up my hand against them in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the Gentiles, and disperse them in the countries; 21 because they kept not mine ordinances, and rejected my commandments, and profaned my sabbaths, and their eyes went after the imaginations of their fathers.

22 So I gave them commandments that were not good, and ordinances in which they should not live. 23 And I will defile them by their own decrees, when I pass through upon every one that opens the womb, that I may destroy them.
Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord: Hitherto have your fathers provoked me in their trespasses in which they dealt with me, and it was against them, that ye go in thither? and they called its name Abana, until this day. Therefore saith the Lord, Do ye pollute yourselves with the iniquities of your fathers, and do ye go a-whoring after their abominations, and do ye pollute yourselves with the first-fruit of your gifts, in the offerings wherewith ye pollute yourselves in all your imaginations, until this day; and shall I answer you, O house of Israel? As I live, saith the Lord, I will not answer you, neither shall this thing come upon your spirit. And it shall not be as ye say, We will be as the nations, and as the tribes of the earth, which make ship stocks and stones. Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord, I will reign over you with a strong hand, and with a high arm, and with outpoured wrath: I will bring you out of the nations, and will take you out of the lands wherein ye were dispersed, with a strong hand, and with a high arm, and with outpoured wrath. And I will bring you into the wilderness of the nations, and will plead with you there face to face. As I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I judge you, saith the Lord. And I will cause you to pass under my rod, and I will bring you in by number. And I will separate from among you the ungodly, and the revolters, for I will lead them forth out of their place of sojourn, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel: and ye shall know that I am the Lord, even the Lord. And as to you, O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord, even the Lord: Put away each one his evil practices, and hereafter if ye hearken to me, then shall ye no more profane my holy name by your gifts and by devices. For upon my holy mountain, on the high mountain, saith the Lord, even the Lord, there shall all the house of Israel serve me for ever: and there will I accept you, and there will I have respect to your first-fruits, and the first-fruits of your offerings, and all your holy things. I will accept you with a sweet-smelling savour, when I bring you out from the nations, and take you out of the countries wherein ye have been dispersed; and I will be sanctified among you in the sight of the nations. And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have brought you into the land of Israel, into the land concerning which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers: and ye shall there remember 44 Because it was his, and I have done thus to you, that your name may not be profaned in your evil ways, and in your corrupt devices, saith the Lord.

45 And the word of the Lord came to me saying, Son of man, set thy face against the Son of man; prophesy against the land of Israel, and prophesy against the prophets of the land:

46 And thou shalt say to the forest of Nageba, Hear the word of the Lord; thus saith the Lord, even the Lord; Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, and it shall devour in thee every green tree, and every dry tree; the flame that is kindled shall not be quenched, and every face shall be scorched with it from the south to the north.

47 And all flesh shall know that I the Lord have kindled it: it shall not be quenched.
the third sword is the sword of the slain, the great sword of the slain: and thou shalt strike them with amazement, and the heart of the heart should faint 13 and the weak ones be multiplied at every gate—they are given up to the slaughter of the sword; it is well fitted for slaughter, and it is well fitted for glorying. 14 And do thou go on, sharpen thyself on the right and on the left whithersoever thy face may set itself.

15 And I also will clap my hands, and I will set loose my fury: I the Lord have spoken it.

16 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 17 And thou, son of man, appoint thee two ways, that the sword of the king of Babylon may enter in: the two shall go forth of one country; and there shall be a force at the top of the way of the city, thou shalt set it at the top of the way, 18 that the sword may enter in upon Rabbath of the children of Ammon, and upon Judea, and upon Jerusalem in the midst thereof.

19 For the king of Babylon shall stand on the valley of Vision; he shall set his head toward the sea of the plain, in the east country.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Because ye have caused your iniquities to be remembered, in the discovery of your wickedness, so that your sins should be brought into remembrance and in your evil practices: because ye have caused remembrance of them, in these shall ye be taken. 21 And thou profane prince of Israel, whose day, even an end, is come in a season of iniquity, thus saith the Lord; 22 Thou hast taken off the mitre, and put on the crown, it shall not have such another after it: thou hast abased that which was high, and exalted that which was low. 23 Neither hast a prince of injustice, injustice, will I make it: woe to it: such shall it be until he comes to whom it belongs; and I will deliver it to him.

26 Turn, rest not in this place wherein thou wast born; in thine own land will I judge thee. 27 And in the place where I will set my wrath upon thee, I will blow upon thee with the fire of my wrath, and I will deliver thee into the hands of barbarians skilled in working destruction. 28 Thou shalt be fuel for fire; thy blood shall be in the midst of thy land; there shall be no remembrance at all of thee: for I the Lord have spoken it.
22. And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 2 And thou, son of man, wilt thou judge the bloody city? yea, declare thou to her all her iniquities. 3 And thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord God: O city that sheds blood in the midst of her, so that her time should come, and that forms devices against herself, to defile her blood which thou hast shed, thou hast transgressed; and in thy devices which thou hast formed, thou hast polluted thyself; and thou hast brought nigh thy days, and hast brought on the time of thy years: therefore have I made thee a reproach to the Gentiles, and a mockery to all the countries. 4 to those near thee, and to those far distant from thee; and they shall mock thee, thou that art notoriously unclean, and abundant in iniquities.

6 Behold, the princes of the house of Israel have conspired in thee each one with his kindred, that they might shed blood. 7 In thee they have reviled father and mother; and in thee they have behaved unjustly toward the stranger: they have oppressed the orphan and widow. 8 And they have set at nought my holy things, and in thee they have profaned my sabbaths. 9 There are robbers in thee, to shed blood in thee; and in thee they have eaten upon the mountains: they have wrought ungodliness in the midst of thee.

10 In thee they have uncovered the father's shame; and in thee they have humbled her that was set apart for uncleanness. 11 They have dealt unlawfully each one with his neighbour's wife; and each one in ungodliness has defiled his daughter-in-law: and in thee they have humbled each one his sister, the daughter of his father.

12 In thee they have received gifts to shed blood; they have received in thee interest and usurious increase; and by oppression thou hast brought thy wickedness to the full, and hast forgotten me, saith the Lord. 13 And if I shall smite my hand at thine iniquities which thou hast accomplished, which thou hast wrought, and at thy blood that has been shed in the midst of thee, 14 shall the hand hold in hand to be strong in the days which I bring upon thee? I the Lord have spoken, and will do it. 15 And I will scatter thee among the nations, and disperse thee in the countries, and thy uncleanness shall be removed out of thee. 16 And I will give heritages in thee in the sight of the nations, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. 17 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, behold, the house of Israel are all become to me as it were mixed with brass, and iron, and tin, and lead; they are mixed up in the midst of silver.

And therefore saith, Thus saith the Lord God: Because ye have become one mixture, therefore I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem. 19 As silver and brass, and iron, and tin, and lead, are gathered into the midst of the furnace, to blow fire into it, that they may be melted: so will I take you in my wrath, and I will gather and melt you. 20 And I will blow upon you in the
And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 23 son of man, say to her, Thou art the land that is not rained upon, neither has rain come upon thee in the day of wrath. 24 when princes in the midst of her are roaring lions seizing prey, devouring souls by oppression, and taking bribes; and thy widows are multiplied in the midst of thee. 25 Her priests also have set at nought my law, and profaned my holy things: they have not distinguished between the holy and profane, nor have they distinguished between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I was profaned in the midst of them. 26 Her princes in the midst of her are as wolves ravening to shed blood, that they may get dishonest gain. 27 And her prophets that daub them shall fall, that see vanities, that prophesy falsehoods, saying, Thus saith the Lord; the Lord has not spoken.

And I sought from among them a man behaving uprightly, and standing before me perfectly in the midst of wrath, so that I should not utterly destroy her; but I found him not. 30 So I have poured out my wrath upon her in the fury of mine anger, to accomplish it. I have recompensed their ways on their own heads, saith the Lord God.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 2 son of man, there were two women, daughters of one mother: 3 and they went a-whoring in the youth: their breasts fell, they lost their virginity. 4 And their names were Oola the elder, and Ooliba her sister: and they were mine, and bare sons and daughters: and as for their names, Samaria was Oola, and Jerusalem was Ooliba. 5 And Oola went a-whoring from me, and coveted her lovers, on the Assyrians that were her neighbours, 6 clothed with purple, princes and captains; they were young men and choice, all horsemen riding on horses. 7 And she bestowed her fornication upon them; all were choice sons of the Assyrians: and on whomsoever she doted herself, with them she defiled herself in all their devices, and she forsook not her fornication with the Egyptians: for in her youth they complained fornication with her, and they deflowered her, and poured out their fornication upon her. 8 Therefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the children of the Assyrians, on whom she doted. They uncovered her shame, and she took her sons and daughters, and slew her with the sword: and she became a byword among women: and they wrought vengeance in her for the sake of the daughters.

And I poured out my wrath upon her in the fury of mine anger, to accomplish it. I have recompensed their ways on their own heads, saith the Lord God.
And her sister Oliva saw it, and she indulged in her fondness more corruptly than she, and in her fornication more than the fornication of her sister. She doted upon the sons of the Assyrians, princes and captains, her neighbours, clothed with fine linen, horsemen riding on horses; they were all choice young men. And I saw that they were defiled, that the two had one way.

And she increased her fornication, and she saw men painted on the wall, likenesses of the Chaldeans painted with a pencil, having variegated girdles on their loins, having also richly dyed attire upon their heads; all had a primarily appearance, the likeness of the children of the Chaldeans, of their native land. And she doted upon them as soon as she saw them, and sent forth messengers to them into the land of the Chaldeans. And the sons of Babylon came to her, into the bed of rest, and they defiled her in her fornication, and she was defiled by them, and her soul was alienated from them, and they exposed her fornication, and exposed her shame:

and my soul was alienated from her, even as my soul was alienated from her sister.

And thou didst multiply thy fornication, so as to call to remembrance the days of thy youth, wherein thou didst commit whoredom in Egypt, and thou didst dote upon the Chaldeans, whose flesh is as the flesh of asses, and their members as the members of horses. And thou didst look upon the iniquity of thy youth, the things which thou wroughtest in Egypt in thy lodging, where were the breasts of thy youth.

Therefore, Oliva, thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will stir up thy lovers against thee, from whom thy soul is alienated, and I will bring them upon thee round about, the children of Babylon, and all the Chaldeans, Pharaoh, and Sue, and Hychue, and all the sons of the Assyrians with them; choice young men, governors and captains, all princes and renowned, riding on horses.

And they all shall come upon thee from the north, chariots and wheels, with a multitude of nations, shields and targets; and the enemy shall set a watch against thee round about, and I will set hedge round about thee, and they shall take vengeance on thee with their judgments. And I will bring upon thee my jealousy, and they shall deal with thee in great wrath: they shall take away thy nose and thine ears; and shall cast down thy remnant with the sword: they shall take thy sons and thy daughters; and thy daughters shall be ravished; and they shall strip thee of thy garment, and they shall strip thee of thy face, and take away thine ornaments. So I will turn back thine ungodliness from thee, and thy fornication from the land of Egypt: and thou shalt not lift up thine eyes upon them, and shalt no more remember Egypt.

Wherefore thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will deliver thee into the hands of those whom thou hatest; thy soul is alienated. And they shall deal with thee in hatred, and shall take all the fruits of thy labours and thy toils, and thou shalt be naked and bare: and the shame of thy fornication shall be exposed: and thy ungodliness and thy fornication 30 brought this upon you, that in that thou wert abhorring after the nations, and didst deflect thyself with their devices.

31 Thou didst walk in the way of thy sister; and I will put her cup into thine hands. 32 Thus saith the Lord; Drink thy sister's cup, deep and large, and full, to cause complete drunkenness; 33 And thou shalt be thoroughly weakened; and the cup of destruction, the cup of thy sister Samaria, 34 drink thou it, and I will take away her feasts and her new moons: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord. 35 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Because thou hast forgotten me, and cast me behind thy back, therefore receive thou the reward of thine ungodliness and thy fornication.

36 And the Lord said to me; Son of man, wilt thou not judge Oola and Ooliba? and declare to them their iniquities? 37 For they have committed adultery, and blood was in their hands, they committed adultery with their idols, and they passed through the fire to their children, which went before to me. 38 So long too as they did these things to me, they defiled my sanctuary, and profaned my sabbaths. 39 And when they sacrificed their children to their idols, they also went into my sanctuary to profane it: and whereas they did thus in the midst of my house; 40 and whereas they did thus to the men that came from afar, to whom they sent messengers, and as soon as they came, immediately thou didst wash thyself, and didst paint thine eyes and adorn thyself with ornaments, 41 and satest on a prepared bed, and before it there was a table set out, and as for mine incense and mine oil, they rejoiced in them, and they raised a sound of music, and that with men coming from the wilderness out of a multitude of men, 5 and they put bracelets on their hands, and a crown of glory on their heads;

42 Therefore I said, Do they not commit adultery with these? and has she also gone a-whoring after the manner of a harlot? 43 And they went in to her as go in to a harlot; and they went in to Oola and to Ooliba to work iniquity. 44 And they are just men, and shall take vengeance on them with the judgment of an adulteress and the judgment of blood: for they are adulteresses, and blood is in their hands.

45 Thus saith the Lord God, Bring up a multitude upon them, and send trouble and perplexity upon them; and send thine hand to Oola and to Ooliba to work iniquity. 46 And as I will remove ungodliness out of the land, and all the women shall be instructed, and shall not do according to their ungodliness. 47 And young men shall be recompensed upon you, and ye shall bear the guilt of your devices: and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

And the word of the Lord came to me, in the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, saying, Son of man, thou art the one left, to whom I have sent all the posts of the Watchmen.

of man, write for thyself daily from this day, on which the king of Babylon set himself against Jerusalem, even from this day.

3 And speak a parable to the provoking house, and thou shalt say to them,

Thus saith the Lord; Set on the caldron, and pour water into it: and put the pieces into it, every prime piece, the leg and shoulder taken off from the bones, which are taken from among the pieces of the burnt sacrifice, and burn the bones under them: her bones are boiled and cooked in the midst of her.

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord; O bloody city, the caldron in which there is a scum, and the scum has not gone out of her, she has brought it forth piece by piece, no lot has fallen upon it. For her blood is in the midst of her; I have set it upon a smooth rock, so as not to cover it.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord, I will also make the firebrand great, and I will multiply the wood, and kindle the fire, that the flesh may be consumed, and the liquor boiled away; and that it may stand upon the coals, that her bones may be thoroughly heated, and be melted in the midst of her filthiness, and her scum may be consumed, and her abundant scum may not come forth of her. Her scum shall become shameful, because thou didst defile thyself: and what if thou shalt be purged no more until I have accomplished my wrath?

14 I the Lord have spoken; and it shall come, and I will do it; I will not delay, neither will I have any mercy: I will judge thee, saith the Lord, according to thy ways: and according to thy devices: therefore will I judge thee according to thy bloodshed: and according to thy devices will I judge thee, thou unclean, notorious, and abundantly provoking one.

15 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying.

16 Son of man, behold I take from thee the desire of thine eyes by violence: thou shalt not have the land in which thou wast a stranger.

17 Thou shalt groan for blood, and have mourning upon thy loins; thy hair shall not be braided upon thee, and thy sandals shall be on thy feet; thou shalt in no wise be comforted by their lips, and thou shalt not eat the bread of men.

18 And I spoke to the people in the morning, as he commanded me in the evening, and I did in the morning as it was commanded me. And the people said to me, Wilt thou not tell us what these things are that thou dost? Then I said to them, The word of the Lord came to me, saying.

Say to the house of Israel.

Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will profane my sanctuary, the boast of your strength, the desire of your eyes, and for which your souls are concerned; and your hearts.

20 And thou shalt say, Woe be to us! What shall we do? For the sword is long upon the land, it reacheth even to the gates of Jerusalem.

21 And it came to pass in the fifth year of King Jehoiakim, of Judah, in the seventh year of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, in the year that Zedekiah was set over in Judah, and was elected by him to be king over Judah, and was written in the book in the annals of the kings of Judah, in the time of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, son of Amon, son of Josiah, son of Amon, son of Manasseh, son of the ancient, to the day of the captivity of Jerusalem, and the captivity of the kings of Judah, till the captivity of Zedekiah, son of Josiah, son of Jeshua, son of Mahalaleel, son of Libnah, son of Zedekiah, son of Mahiol, son of Zedekiah, son of the ancient.

22 Thus saith the Lord, the man that hath a house to dwell in, let him offer the habitation of his house to the bishop: if any man have become a widow, let her eat of the habitation of her husband, the substance of her husband: if there be none whom she knew, let her eat of the bishop: if any man be suddenly taken up in battle, let him eat thereof in battle array. Woe be to me! I am made for a thing of reproach, and a byword to the people.
eat the bread of men. And your hair shall be upon your head, and your shoes on your feet: neither shall ye at all lament or weep; but ye shall pipe away in your iniquities, and shall comfort every one his brother, and all his sisters, in Israel. For I am for a sign unto you: according to all that I have done shall ye do, when these things shall come; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

And thou, son of man, shall it not be in the day when I take their strength from them, the pride of their boasting, the desires of their eyes, and the pride of their soul, the children of Ammon, and their daughters, and against the house of Judah, because they went into captivity; therefore, behold, I will deliver you to the children of Kedem for an inheritance, and they shall lodge in thee with their staff, and they shall pitch their tents in thee: they shall eat thy fruits, and they shall drink thy milk. And I will give up the city of Ammon for camels' pastures, and the children of Ammon for a pasture of sheep: and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

For thus saith the Lord; Because thou hast clapped thine hands, and stamped with thy foot, and heartily rejoiced against the land of Israel: therefore will I stretch out my hand against thee, and I will make thee a spoil to the nations, and I will utterly destroy thee from among the peoples, and I will completely cut thee off from out of the countries: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord; Because Moab has said, Behold, are not the house of Israel and Judah all like the other nations? Therefore, behold, I will weaken the shoulder of Moab from his frontier cities, even the choice land, the house of Bethamuth above the fountain of the city, by the sea-side. I have given him the children of Kedem in addition to the children of Ammon for an inheritance, that there may be no remembrance of the children of Ammon. And I will execute vengeance on Moab: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord; Because of what the Idumeans have done in taking vengeance on the house of Juda, and because they have remembered injuries, and have exacted full recompence; therefore thus saith the Lord; I will also stretch out my hand upon Idumea, and will utterly destroy out of it man and beast; and will make it
Behold, thou, and all Judah that enter into the liquor of thy drink, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every man in the midst of his cities, and all the cities of Judah, and all the kings of the north, and all the kings of the north, and all the kings of the north.

And I will execute vengeance on Idumea by the hand of my people Israel; and they shall deal in Idumea according to mine anger; and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Because the Philistines have wrought reformation, and raised up vengeance rejoicing from their heart to destroy the Israelites to a man; therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will stretch out my hand upon the Philistines, and will utterly destroy the Cretans, and will cut off the remnant that dwell by the sea-coast. And I will execute great vengeance upon them; and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have brought my vengeance upon them.

And it came to pass in the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

Son of man, because Sor has said against Jerusalem, Aha, she is crushed; the nations are destroyed: she is turned to me: she that was full is made desolate: therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I am against thee, O Sor, and I will bring up many nations against thee, as the sea comes up with its waves. And they shall cast down the walls of Sor, and shall cast down thy towers; and I will scrape her dust from off her, and make her a bare rock. She shall be in the midst of the sea a place for repairing nets: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord; and it shall be a spoil for the nations.

And her daughters which are in the field shall be slain with the sword, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

For thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will bring up against thee, O Sor, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon from the north; he is a king of kings, with horses, and chariots, and horsemen, and a concourse of very many nations. He shall slay thy daughters that are in the field with the sword, and shall set a watch against thee, and build forts around thee, and carry a rampart round against thee, and set up warlike works, and array his spears against thee.

He shall cast down with his swords thy walls and thy towers. By reason of the multitude of his horses their dust shall cover thee, and by reason of the sound of his horsemen and the wheels of his chariots thy walls shall be shaken, when he enters thy gates, as one entering into a city from the north. With the hoofs of his horses they shall trample all thy streets: he shall slay thy people with the sword, and shall bring down to the ground the support of thy strength.

And he shall prey upon thy power, and plunder thy substance, and shall cast down thy walls, and break down thy pleasant house; he shall set up his own royal standard in the midst of thee, and put his horses in thy stables.

And he shall destroy the multitude of thy musicians, and the sound of thy psalteries shall be heard no more. And I will make thee a bare rock: thou shalt be a place to spread nets upon: thou shalt be desolate; and they that are pursued out of The man shall fall by the sword. And I will execute my vengeance upon Idumea by the hand of my people Israel; and they shall deal in Idumea according to mine anger; and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord.
built no more: for I the Lord have spoken it, saith the Lord.
15 For thus saith the Lord God to Srod; Shall not the isles shake at the sound of thy fall, while the wounded are groaning, while they have drawn a sword in the midst of thee? 16 And all the princes of the nations of the sea shall come down from their throns, and shall take off their crowns from their heads, and shall take off their embroidered raiment; they shall be utterly amazed; they shall sit upon the ground, and fear their own destruction, and shall groan over thee. 17 And they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and shall say to thee, How art thou destroyed from out of the sea, the renowned city, that brought her terror upon all her inhabitants. 18 And the isles shall be alarmed at the day of thy fall.

And for this saith the Lord God; When I shall make the city desolate, as the cities that shall not be inhabited, when I have brought the deep up upon thee, 20 and great waters shall cover thee; and I shall bring thee down to them to that go down to the pit, to the people of old time, and shall cause thee to dwell in the depths of the earth, as in everlasting desolation, with them that go down to the pit, that thou mayest not be inhabited, nor stand upon the land of life; 21 I will make thee a destruction, and thou shalt be no more for ever, saith the Lord God.

And the word of the Lord came to me saying,

And thou, son of man, take up a lamentation against Srod; 26 and thou shalt say to Srod that dwells at the entrance of the sea, to the part of the nations coming from many islands, Thus saith the Lord to Srod; Thou hast said, I have clothed myself with my beauty. 27 In the heart of the sea thy sons have put beauty upon thee for Beelim. 28 Cedar in Senir was employed for thee in building; boards of cypress timber were taken out of Libanus, and wood to make thee masts of fir. 29 They made thine oars of wood out of the land of Basan; thy sacred utenils they made of ivory, thy shady houses of wood from the isles of Chetiim. 30 Fine linen with embroidery from Egypt supplied thy couch, to put honour upon thee, and to clothe thee with blue and purple from the isles of Elissai; and they became thy coverings.

And thy princes were the dwellers in Sidon, and the Aradianas were thy rowers; thy wise men, O Srod, who were in thee, these were thy pilots. 32 The elders of the Biblans, and their wise men, who were in thee, these helped thy counsel: and all the ships of the sea and their rowers traded for thee to the utmost west.

Persians and Lydians and Libyans were in thine army; thy warriors hung in thy shields and helmets; these gave thee thy glory. 34 The sons of the Aradianas and thine army were upon thy walls; there were guards in thy towers; they hung their quivers on thy battlements round about; these completed thy beauty.
12. The Carthaginians were thy merchants because of the abundance of all thy strength; they furnished thy market with silver, and gold, and iron, and tin, and lead. 13. Greece, both the whole world, and the adjacent coasts, were filled with thee in thy persons of men, and they gave as thy merchandise vessels of brass.

14. Out of the house of Thogaroma horses and horsemen furnished thy market. 15. The sons of the Ḫ, used thy merchants; from the islands they multiplied thy merchandise, even elephants’ teeth; and to them that came in they did return thy prices. 16. Even men as thy merchandise, from the multitude of thy trading population, myrrh and embroidered works from Tharsis: Ramoth also and Chorchor furnished thy market. 17. Judah and the children of Israel, these were thy merchants; in the sale of corn and ointments and cassia: and they gave the best honey, and oil, and resin, to thy trading population. 18. The people of Damascus were thy merchants by reason of the abundance of all thy power; wine out of Chelbon, and wool from Miletus; and they brought wine into thy market.

19. Out of Asel came wrought iron, and there is the sound of wheels among thy trading population. 20. The people of Dedan were thy merchants, with choice cattle for chariots, 21. And all the princes of Kedar, these were thy traders with thee, bringing camels, and lambs, and rams, in which they trade with thee. 22. The merchants of Sabba and Ramma, these were thy merchants, with choice spices, and precious stones: and they brought gold to thy market. 23. Charra, and Chanaas, these were thy merchants: Assur, and Charman, were thy merchants: 24. bringing for merchandise blue, and choice stores bound with cords, and cypress wood. 25. Ships were thy merchants, in abundance, with thy trading population: and thou wast filled and very heavily loaded in the heart of the sea.

26. Thy rowers have brought thee into great waters: the south wind has broken thee in the heart of the sea. 27. Thy forces, and thy gain, and that of thy traders, and thy rowers, and thy pilots, and thy councillors, and they that traffic with thee; and all thy warriors that are in thee: and all thy company in the midst of thee shall perish in the heart of the sea, in the day of thy fall.

28. At the cry of thy voice thy pilots shall be greatly terrified. 29. And all the rowers and the mariners shall come down from the ships, and the pilots of the sea shall stand on the land. 30. And they shall walk over thee with their voice, and cry bitterly, and put earth on their heads, and spread ashes under them.

31. And their sons shall take up a lament for thee, even a lamentation for Sor, saying, 32. How large a reward hast thou gained from the sea? thou hast filled nations out of thine abundance; and out of thy mixed merchandise thou hast enriched all the kings of the earth. 33. Now art thou broken in the sea, thy traders are in the deep water, and all thy company in the midst of thee; all thy rowers have fallen. 30 All the dwellers in the islands have mourned over thee, and their kings have been utterly amazed and their countenance has withered. 31 Merchants from the nations have kissed at thee; thou art utterly destroyed, and shalt not be any more for ever.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 32 And thou, son of man, say to the prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord; Because thou hast lifted up thy heart against me, and hast said, I am God, I have inhabited the dwelling of God in the heart of the sea; yet thou hast art and not God, though thou hast set thine heart as the heart of God: 33 art thou wiser than Daniel? or have not the wise instructed thee with their knowledge? 34 Hast thou gained power for thyself by thine own knowledge or thine own prudence, and gotten gold and silver in thy treasures? 35 By thy abundant knowledge and thy traffic thou hast multiplied thy power; thy heart has been lifted up by thy power.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Since thou hast set thine heart as the heart of God; 36 because of this, behold, I will bring on thee strange plagues from the nations, and they shall draw their swords against thee, and against the beauty of thy knowledge, 37 and they shall draw down thy beauty to destruction. And they shall bring thee down; and thou shalt die the death of the slain in the heart of the sea. 38 Wilt thou then say, I am God, before them that slay thee? whereas thou art man, and not God. 39 Thou shalt perish by the hands of strangers among the multitude of the uncircumcised: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 40 Son of man, take up a lamentation for the prince of Tyre, and say to him, Thus saith the Lord; Thou art a seal of resemblance, and crown of beauty. 41 Thou wast in the delights of the paradise of God; thou hast bound upon thee every precious stone, the sardius, and topaz, and emerald, and carbuncle, and sapphire, and jasper, and silver, and gold, and ligure, and agate, and amethyst, and chrysolite, and beryl, and onyx; and thou hast filled thy treasures and thy stores in thee with gold.

From the day that thou wast created thou wast in the holy mount of God; thou wast in the midst of the stones of fire. 43 Thou wast faultless in thy days, the day that thou wast created, until iniquity was found in thee. 44 Of the abundance of thy merchandise thou hast filled thy storehouses with iniquity, and hast sinned: therefore thou hast been cast down wounded from the mount of God, and the cherub hath brought thee out of the midst of the stones of fire. 45 Thy heart was lifted up because of thy beauty: thy knowledge has been corrupted with thy beauty: because of the multitude of thy sins I have cast thee to the ground, I have caused thee to be put to Behold, I will make thee to be as a city that is攻关 upon the water, and as a strong city; and the mouth of the river shall give thee water. And thou shalt bring thy gods unto Egypt: mine eyes shall see thee thereof. And thou shalt see Pharaoh's face; for mine heart shall be倾向 thee, and thou shalt see mine appearance.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, set thy face against Sidon, and prophesy against it, and say, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I am against thee, O Sidon; and I will be glorified in thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, when I have wrought judgments in thee; and I will be sanctified in thee. Blood and death shall be in thy streets; and men wounded with swords shall fall in thee and on every side of thee; and they shall know that I am the Lord. And there shall no more be in the house of Israel a thorn of bitterness and a prickling briar proceeding from them that are round about them, who disdained them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord God; I will also gather Israel from the nations, among whom they have been scattered, and I will be sanctified among them, and before the peoples and nations: and they shall dwell upon their land, which I gave to my servant Jacob. Ye shall dwell upon the spoil, and ye shall eat the fruit of the vineyards, and ye shall eat the increase thereof; and my holy name shall be sanctified among the heathen; and they shall know that I am the Lord, who sanctified Israel.

In the twelfth year, in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and against the whole of Egypt; and say, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I am against Pharaoh, the great dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers, that saith, The rivers are mine, and I made them. And I will put hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy river to stick to thee sides, and I will bring thee up out of the midst of thy river: and I will quickly cast down thee and all the fish of thy river: thou shalt fall on the face of the plain, and shalt by no means be gathered, and shalt not be brought together: I have given thee for food to the wild beasts of the earth and to the fowls of the sky. And all the dwellers in Egypt shall know that I am the Lord, because thou hast been a staff of reed to the house of Israel. When they took hold of thee with their hand, thou didst break: and when every hand was clapped against them, and when they leaned on thee, thou wast utterly broken, and didst crush the loins of all.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will bring a sword upon thee, and will cut off from thee man and beast; and the land of Egypt shall be ruined and desert; and they shall know that I am the Lord; because thou sayest, The rivers are mine, and I made them.

10 Therefore, behold, I am against thee, and against all thy rivers, and I will give the land of Egypt to desolation, and the sword and destruction, from Magdol and Syene even to the borders of the Ethiopians.

11 No foot of man shall pass through it, and no foot of beast shall pass through it, and it shall not be inhabited for forty years.

12 And I will cause her land to be utterly destroyed in the midst of a land that is desolate, and her cities shall be desolate forty years in the midst of cities that are desolate; and I will disperse Egypt among the nations, and will utterly scatter them into the countries.

13 Thus saith the Lord; After forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the nations among whom they have been scattered; and I will gather the captivity of the Egyptians, and will cause them to dwell in the land of Pharaoh, in the land whence they were taken; and it shall be a base kingdom beyond all other kingdoms; it shall not any more be exalted over the nations; and I will make them few in number; that they may not be great among the nations. And they shall no more be to the house of Israel a confidence bringing iniquity to remembrance, when they follow after them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

14 And it came to pass in the twenty-seventh year, on the first day of the first month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

15 Son of man, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon caused his army to serve a great service against Tyre; every head was bald, and every shoulder peeled; yet there was no reward to him or to his army serving against Tyre, nor for the service wherewith they served against it.

16 Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will give to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon the land of Egypt, and he shall take the plunder thereof, and seize the spoils thereof; and it shall be a reward for his army. In return for his service wherewith he served against Tyre, I have given him the land of Egypt; thus saith the Lord God:

17 In that day shall a horn spring forth for all the house of Israel, and I will give thee an open mouth in the midst of them; and they shall know that I am the Lord. And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus saith the Lord; Woe, woe the day! For the day of the Lord is nigh, a day of cloud; it shall be the end of the nations.

18 And a sword shall come upon the Egyptians, and there shall be tumult in Ethiopia, and in Egypt men shall fall down slain together, and her foundations shall fall. Persians, and Cretans, and Lydians, and all the mixed multitude, and they of the children of my covenant, shall

Thus saith the Lord God; I will also destroy the multitude of the Egyptians by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, his hand and his people; they are plagues sent forth from the nations to destroy the land: and they shall not utter their swords against Egypt, and the land shall be desolate for them, and they shall make their rivers desolate, and will destroy the land and the fulness of it by the hands of strangers: I the Lord have spoken.

Therefore saith the Lord God; I will also destroy the nobles of Memphis, and the princes of Memphis out of the land of Egypt; and they shall be no more. I will make the land of Phatthore desolate, and will send fire upon Tants, and will execute vengeance on Diospolis. And I will pour out my wrath upon Sais the strength of Egypt, and will destroy the multitude of Memphis. And I will send fire upon Egypt; and Seye shall be sorely troubled; and there shall be a breaking in Diospolis, and waters shall be poured out. The youths of Heliopolis and Bubastum shall fall by the sword, and the women shall go into captivity. And the day shall be darkened in Taphna, when I have broken there the sceptres of Egypt: and the pride of her strength shall perish there: and a cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall be taken prisoners. And I will execute judgment on Egypt; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, have I broken the arms of Pharoa, king of Egypt; and, behold, it has not been bound up to be healed, to have a plaster put upon it, or to be strengthened to lay hold of the sword.

There shall be filled with slain the land of Egypt; Behold, I am against Pharoa king of Egypt, and I will break his strong arms and outstretched arms, and will smite down his sword out of his hand. And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations, and will utterly scatter them among the countries.

And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and put my sword into his hand, and he shall be a vessel of honor to Egypt: and shall take her plunder and seize her spoils. Yea, I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharoa shall fail: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have put my sword fall by the sword therein. And the supports of Egypt shall fall; and the pride of her strength shall come down from Magdol to Syene: they shall fall by the sword in it, saith the Lord. And it shall be made desolate in the midst of the desolate countries, and their cities shall be desolate in the midst of the desolate cities: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I will send fire upon Egypt, and when all that help her shall be broken. into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall stretch it out over the land of Egypt. 25 And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations, and utterly scatter them among the countries; and they all shall know that I am the Lord.

And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 2Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude:

To whom hast thou compared thyself in thy haughtiness? 3 Behold, the Assyrian was a cypress in Libanus, and was fair in shoots, and high in stature; his top reached to the midst of the clouds. 4 The water nourished him, the depth made him grow tall; she led her rivers round about his plants, and she sent forth her streams to all the trees of the field. 5 Therefore was his stature exalted above all the trees of the field, and his branches spread far by the help of much water. 6 All the birds of the sky made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches all the wild beasts of the nations dwelt under his shadow. 7 And he was fair in his height by reason of the multitude of his branches: for his roots were amidst much water. 8 And such cypresses as this were in the paradise of God; and there were no pines like his shoots, and there were no firs like his branches; no tree in the paradise of God was like him in his beauty, 9 because of the multitude of his branches: and the trees of God's paradise of delight envied him.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Because thou art grown great, and hast set thy top in the midst of the clouds, and I saw when he was exalted; 10 therefore I delivered him into the hands of the prince of the nations, and he wrought his destruction. 11 And raging strangers from the nations have destroyed him, whose boughs fell upon the mountains; his branches fell in all the valleys, and his boughs were broken in every field of the land; and all the people of the nations are gone down from their shelter, and have laid him low.

12 All the birds of the sky have settled on his fallen trunk, and all the wild beasts of the field came upon his boughs: 13 in order that none of the trees by the water should exalt themselves by reason of their size: whereas they set their top in the midst of the clouds, yet they continued not in their high state in their place, all that drank water, all were consigned to death, to the depth of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down to the pit.

14 Thus saith the Lord God; In the day wherein he went down to Hades, I deplored for him; and I stayed her floods, and restrained her abundance of water: and Libanus saddened for him, all the trees of the field fainted for him. 15 At the sound of his fall the nations quaked, when I brought him down to Hades with them that go down to the pit: and all the trees of Delight comforted him in the heart, and the choice plants of Libanus, all that drink water. 10 For they went down to hell with him among the slain with the sword; and his seed, even they that dwelt under his shadow, perished in the midst of their life.

11 To whom art thou compared? descend, and be thou debased with the trees of paradise to the depth of the earth: thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that are slain by the sword. Thus shall Pharaoh be and the multitude of his host, saith the Lord God. And it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the 7th month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 12 Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharao king of Egypt, and say to him, Thou art become like a lion of the nations, and as the serpent that is in the sea; and thou didst make assaults with thy rivers, and didst disturb the waters with thy feet, and didst trample thy rivers.

13 Thus saith the Lord; I will also cast over thee the nets of many nations, and will bring thee up with my hook: and I will stretch thee upon the earth: the fields shall be covered with thee, and I will cause all the birds of the sky to settle upon thee, and I will fill thee with all the wild beasts of the earth. 14 And I will cast thy flesh upon the mountains, and will saturate them with thy blood. 15 And the land shall be drenched with thy dung, because of thy multitude upon the mountains: I will fill the valleys with thee. 16 And I will veil the heavens when thou art extinguished, and will darken the stars thereof; I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light. 17 All the bodies that give light in the sky, shall be darkened over thee, and I will bring darkness upon the earth, saith the Lord God.

18 And I will provoke to anger the heart of many people, when I shall lead thee captive among the nations, to a land which thou hast not known. 19 And many nations shall mourn for thee, and they shall be utterly amazed, when my sword flies in their faces, as they wait for their own fall from the day of thy fall.

19 For thus saith the Lord God; The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon thee, 20 with the swords of mighty men; and I will cast down thy strength: they are all destroying ones from the nations, and they shall destroy thy pride of Egypt, and all her strength shall be crushed. 21 And I will destroy all her cattle from beside the great water; and the foot of man shall not trouble it any more, and the step of cattle shall no more trample it. 22 Thus shall their waters then be at rest, and their rivers shall flow like oil, saith the Lord, and as the Jordan shall go down like the Nile to Egypt, and the land shall be subdued under the fulness thereof; when I shall scatter all that dwell in it, and they shall know that I am the Lord. 23 There is a lamentation, and thou shalt utter it; and the daughters of the nations shall utter it, even for Egypt, and they shall mourn for it.
over all the strength thereof, saith the Lord God.

17 And it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

18 Son of man, lament over the strength of Egypt, for the nations shall bring down her daughters dead to the depth of the earth, to them that go down to the pit. 19 They shall fall with him in the midst of them that are slain with the sword, and all his strength shall perish: the giants also shall say to thee, 20 Be thou in the depth of the pit: to whom art thou superior? yea, go down, and lie with the uncutuncised, in the midst of them that are slain with the sword.

21 There are Assur and all his company: all his slay have been laid there; and his burial is in the depth of the pit, and his company are set round about his tomb: all the slain that fell by the sword, who had caused the fear of them to be upon the land of the living, 22 And thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncutuncised, with them that have been slain by the sword.

23 There are laid Mosoch, and Thobel, and all his strength round about his tomb: all his slain men, all the uncutuncised, slain with the sword, who caused their fear to be in the land of the living. 24 And they are laid with the giants that fell of old, who went down to Hades with their weapons of war: and they laid their swords under their heads, but their iniquities were upon their horns, because they terrified all men during their life. 25 And thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncutuncised, with them that have been slain by the sword.

26 There are laid the princes of Assur, who yielded their strength to a wound of the sword: these are laid with the slain, with them that go down to the pit.

27 There are the princes of the north, even all the captains of Assur, who go down slain to Hades: they lie uncutuncised among the slain with the sword together with their terror and their strength, and they have received their punishment with them that go down to the pit.

King Pharaoh shall see them, and shall be confounded of all their force, saith the Lord God. 28 For I have caused his fear to be upon the land of the living: yet he shall lie in the midst of the uncutuncised with them that are slain with the sword, even Pharaoh, and all his multitude with him, saith the Lord God.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 29 Son of man, speak to the children of thy people, and thou shalt say to them,

On whatsoever land I shall bring a sword, and the people of the land take one man of them, and set him for their watchman:
3 and he shall see the sword coming upon the land, and blow the trumpet, and sound an alarm to the people; 4 and he that hears the sound of the trumpet shall hear indeed, and yet not take heed, and the sword shall come upon him, and overtake him, his blood shall be upon his head. 5 Because he heard the sound of the trumpet, and took no heed, his blood shall be upon him: but the other, because he took heed, has delivered his soul.

6 But if the watchman see the sword coming, and do not sound the trumpet, and the people do not watch; and the sword come, and take a soul from among them, that soul is taken because of its iniquity; but the blood thereof will I require at the watchman's hand.

7 And thou, son of man, I have set thee as a watchman to the house of Israel, and thou shalt hear a word from my mouth. 8 When I say to the sinner, Thou shalt surely die; if thou speak not to warn the wicked from his way, the wicked wicked himself shall die in his iniquity: but his blood will I require at thine hand. 9 But if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it, and he turn not from his way, he shall die in his ungodliness; but thou hast delivered thine own soul.

10 And thou, son of man, say to the house of Israel; Thus have ye spoken, saying, Our errors, and our iniquities weigh upon us, and we pine away in them, and how then shall we live? 11 Say to them, Thus saith the Lord; As I live, I desire not the death of the ungodly, as that the ungodly should turn from his way and live; turn ye not from his way, he shall die in his ungodliness; but thou hast delivered thine own soul.

12 Say to the children of thy people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him, in the day wherein he errs: and the iniquity of the ungodly shall not harm him, in the day wherein he turns from his iniquity, but the righteous erring shall not be able to deliver himself.

13 When I say to the righteous, Thou shalt live; and he trusts in his righteousness, and shall commit iniquity, none of his righteousnesses shall be remembered; in his unrighteousness which he has wrought, in it shall he die.

14 And when I say to the ungodly, Thou shalt surely die; and he shall turn from his sin, and do judgment and justice, and return the pledge, and repay that which he has robbed, and walk in the ordinances of life, so as to do no wrong; he shall surely live, and shall not die. 15 None of his sins which he has committed shall be remembered: because he has wrought judgment and righteousness; by them shall he live.

16 Yet the children of thy people will say, The way of the Lord is not straight: whereas this their way is not straight. 17 When the righteous turns away from his righteousness, and shall commit iniquities, then shall he die in them. 18 And when the sinner turns from his iniquity, and shall do judgment and righteousness, he shall live by them.

19 And this is that which ye said. The way of the Lord is not straight. I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one for his ways.

And it came to pass in the 8th year of our captivity, in the twelfth month, on the fifth day of the month, that one that had escaped from Jerusalem came to me, saying, 'The city is taken.' 22 Now the hand of the Lord had come upon me in the evening, before he came; and he opened my mouth, when he came to me in the morning; and my mouth was open, it was no longer kept closed.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 23 Son of man, that inhabit the desolate places on the land of Israel say, Abraam was one, and he possessed the land; and we are more numerous; to us the land is given for a possession.

Therefore say to them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I live, surely they that are in such places shall fall by swords, and they that are in the open plain shall be given for food to the wild beasts of the field, and them that are in the fortified cities and them that are in the caves I will slay with pestilence. 25 And I will make the land desert, and the pride of her strength shall perish; and the mountains of Israel shall be made desolate by reason of no man passing through. 26 And they shall know that I am the Lord; and I will make their land desert, and it shall be made desolate because of all their abominations which they have wrought.

And as for thee, son of man, the children of thy people are they that speak concerning thee by the walls, and in the porches of the houses, and they talk one to another, saying, Let us come together, and let us hear the words that proceed from the Lord. 27 They approach thee as a people comes together, and sit before thee, and hear thy words, but they will not do them: for there is falseness in their mouth, and their heart goes after their pollutions. 28 And thou art to them as the symbol of a sweet, well-tuned psalm, and they will hear thy words, but they will not do them. 29 But whenever it shall come to pass, they will say, Behold, it is come: and they shall know that there was a prophet in the midst of them.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 30 Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say to the shepherds, Thus saith the Lord God; O shepherds of Israel, do shepherds feed themselves? do not the shepherds feed the sheep? 31 Behold, ye feed on the milk, and clothe yourselves with the wool, and slay the fat: but ye feed not my sheep. 32 The weak one ye have not strengthened, and the sick ye have not cherished, and the bruised ye have not bound up, and the stray one ye have not turned back, and the lost ye have not sought; and the strong ye have weared with labour. 33 And my sheep were scattered, because there were no shepherds: and they became meat to all the wild beasts of the field. 34 And my sheep were scattered, because there were no shepherds: and they became meat to all the wild beasts of the field.

And the hand of the Lord came upon me in the evening, before he came; and he opened my mouth, when he came to me in the morning; and my mouth was open, it was no longer kept closed.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 35 Son of man, that inhabit the desolate places on the land of Israel say, Abraam was one, and he possessed the land; and we are more numerous; to us the land is given for a possession.

Therefore say to them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I live, surely they that are in such places shall fall by swords, and they that are in the open plain shall be given for food to the wild beasts of the field, and them that are in the fortified cities and them that are in the caves I will slay with pestilence. 37 And I will make the land desert, and the pride of her strength shall perish; and the mountains of Israel shall be made desolate by reason of no man passing through. 38 And they shall know that I am the Lord; and I will make their land desert, and it shall be made desolate because of all their abominations which they have wrought.

And as for thee, son of man, the children of thy people are they that speak concerning thee by the walls, and in the porches of the houses, and they talk one to another, saying, Let us come together, and let us hear the words that proceed from the Lord. 39 They approach thee as a people comes together, and sit before thee, and hear thy words, but they will not do them: for there is falseness in their mouth, and their heart goes after their pollutions. 40 And thou art to them as the symbol of a sweet, well-tuned psalm, and they will hear thy words, but they will not do them. 41 But whenever it shall come to pass, they will say, Behold, it is come: and they shall know that there was a prophet in the midst of them.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 42 Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say to the shepherds, Thus saith the Lord God; O shepherds of Israel, do shepherds feed themselves? do not the shepherds feed the sheep? 43 Behold, ye feed on the milk, and clothe yourselves with the wool, and slay the fat: but ye feed not my sheep.

The weak one ye have not strengthened, and the sick ye have not cherished, and the bruised ye have not bound up, and the stray one ye have not turned back, and the lost ye have not sought; and the strong ye have weared with labour. 44 And my sheep were scattered, because there were no shepherds: and they became meat to all the wild beasts of the field. 45 And my sheep were scattered, because there were no shepherds: and they became meat to all the wild beasts of the field.

And the hand of the Lord came upon me in the evening, before he came; and he opened my mouth, when he came to me in the morning; and my mouth was open, it was no longer kept closed.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 46 Son of man, that inhabit the desolate places on the land of Israel say, Abraam was one, and he possessed the land; and we are more numerous; to us the land is given for a possession.

Therefore say to them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I live, surely they that are in such places shall fall by swords, and they that are in the open plain shall be given for food to the wild beasts of the field, and them that are in the fortified cities and them that are in the caves I will slay with pestilence. 48 And I will make the land desert, and the pride of her strength shall perish; and the mountains of Israel shall be made desolate by reason of no man passing through. 49 And they shall know that I am the Lord; and I will make their land desert, and it shall be made desolate because of all their abominations which they have wrought.

And as for thee, son of man, the children of thy people are they that speak concerning thee by the walls, and in the porches of the houses, and they talk one to another, saying, Let us come together, and let us hear the words that proceed from the Lord. 50 They approach thee as a people comes together, and sit before thee, and hear thy words, but they will not do them: for there is falseness in their mouth, and their heart goes after their pollutions. 51 And thou art to them as the symbol of a sweet, well-tuned psalm, and they will hear thy words, but they will not do them. 52 But whenever it shall come to pass, they will say, Behold, it is come: and they shall know that there was a prophet in the midst of them.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 53 Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say to the shepherds, Thus saith the Lord God; O shepherds of Israel, do shepherds feed themselves? do not the shepherds feed the sheep? 54 Behold, ye feed on the milk, and clothe yourselves with the wool, and slay the fat: but ye feed not my sheep.

The weak one ye have not strengthened, and the sick ye have not cherished, and the bruised ye have not bound up, and the stray one ye have not turned back, and the lost ye have not sought; and the strong ye have weared with labour. 55 And my sheep were scattered, because there were no shepherds: and they became meat to all the wild beasts of the field. 56 And my sheep were scattered, because there were no shepherds: and they became meat to all the wild beasts of the field.
10. Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord. 5As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my sheep became a prey, and my sheep, and my shepherds sought not out my sheep, and the shepherds fed themselves, but fed not my sheep. 6For this cause, O shepherds, 7thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am against the shepherds; and I will require my sheep at their hands, and will turn them back that they shall not feed my sheep, and the shepherds shall no longer feed them; and I will deliver my sheep out of their mouth, and they shall no longer be meat for them.

8For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will seek out my sheep, and will visit them. 9As the shepherd seeks his flock, in the day when there is darkness and cloud, in the midst of the sheep that are separated: so will I seek out my sheep, and will 7 bring them back from every place where they were scattered in the day of cloud and darkness. 10And I will bring them out from the Gentiles, and will gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land, and will feed them upon the mountains of Israel, and in the valleys, and in every inhabited place of the land. 11And I will feed them in a good pasture, on a high mountain of Israel: and their folds shall be there, and they shall lie down, and there shall they rest in perfect prosperity, and they shall feed in a fat pasture, on the mountains of Israel. 12I will feed my sheep, and I will cause them to rest; and they shall know that I am the Lord: thus saith the Lord God.

13And as for you, ye sheep, thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will distinguish between sheep and sheep, between rams and he-goats. 14And is it not enough for you that ye fed on the good pasture, that ye trampled with your feet the remnant of your pasture? and that ye drank the standing water, that ye disturbed the residue with your feet? 15So my sheep fed on that which ye had trampled with your feet; and they drank the water that had been disturbed by your feet.

16Therefore thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will separate between the strong sheep and the weak sheep. 17Ye did thrust with your sides and shoulders, and pushed with your horns, and ye cruelly treated all the sick. 18Therefore I will save my sheep, and they shall not be any more for a prey; and I will judge between ram and ram. 19And I will raise up one shepherd over them, and he shall tend them, even my servant David shall be their shepherd; 20and I the Lord will be to them a God, and David a prince in the midst of them; I the Lord have spoken it. 28 And I will make with David a covenant of peace, and I will utterly destroy evil beasts from off the land; and they shall dwell in the wilderness, and sleep in the forests. 29 And I will set them round about my mountain; and I will give you the rain, the rain of blessing. 30 And the trees that are in the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield her strength, and they shall dwell in the confidence of peace on their land, and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have broken their yoke; and I will deliver them out of the hand of those that smacked them. 31 And they shall no more be a spoil to the nations, and the wild beasts of the land shall no more at all devour them; and they shall dwell safely, and there shall be none to make them afraid. 32 And I will raise up for them a plant of peace, and they shall no more perish with hunger upon the land, and they shall no more bear the reproach of the nations.

33 And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, and they my people. O house of Israel, saith the Lord God: 34 ye are my sheep, even the sheep of my flock, and I am the Lord your God, saith the Lord God. 35 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 36 Son of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesy against it. 37 Say to it, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I am against thee, O mount Seir, and I will stretch out my hand against thee, and will make thee a waste, and thou shalt be made desolate. 4 And I will cause desolation in thy cities, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. 4 Because thou hast been a perpetual enemy, and hast laid wait craftily for the house of Israel, with the hand of enemies with a sword, in the time of injustice, at the last:

4 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord God, verily thou hast sinned even to blood, therefore blood shall pursue thee. 5 And I will make mount Seir a waste, and desolate; and I will destroy from it men and beast; 6 and I will fill thy hills and thy valleys with slain men, and in all thy plains there shall fall in thee men slain with the sword. 7 I will make thee a perpetual desolation, and thy cities shall not be inhabited any more; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. 8 Because thou saidst, The two nations and the two countries shall be mine, and I shall inherit them; whereas the Lord is there: 9 therefore, as I live, saith the Lord, I will even deal with thee according to the thine enmity, and I will be made known to thee when I shall judge thee; 10 and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. I have heard the voice of thy blasphemies, whereas thou hast said, The desert mountains are given to us for food; 11 and thou hast spoken swelling words against me with thy mouth: I have heard them.

12 Thus saith the Lord; 13 When all the earth is rejoicing, I will make thee desert. 14 Thou shalt be desert, O mount Seir, and all Idumea; and it shall be utterly consumed; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord their God.
And thou, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say to the mountains of Israel, Hear ye the word of the Lord:

Thus saith the Lord God; Because the enemy has said against you, Aha, the old waste places are become a possession for us: therefore prophesy, and say, Thus saith the Lord God; Because ye have been disdained and hated by those round about you, that ye might be a possession to the remainder of the nations, and ye became a by-word, and a reproach to the nations: therefore, ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord; Thus saith the Lord God to the mountains, and to the hills, and to the streams, and to the valleys, and to the places that were left round about; therefore thus saith the Lord; Verily in the fire of my wrath have I spoken against the rest of the nations, and against all Idumea, because they have appropriated my land to themselves for a possession with joy, and are disdaining the lives of the inhabitants, to destroy it by plots; therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains, and to the hills, and to the valleys, and to the forests, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I have spoken in my jealousy and in my wrath, because ye have borne the reproaches of the heathen: therefore I will lift up my hand against the nations that are round about you; they shall bear their reproach.

But your grapes and your fruits, O mountains of Israel, shall my people eat: for they are hoping to come. For, behold, I am toward you, and I will have respect to you, and ye shall be filled and sown: and I will multiply men upon you, even all the house of Israel to the end: and the cities shall be inhabited, and the possession of the land shall be built upon. And I will multiply the nation and the cattle upon you; and I will cause you to dwell as at the beginning, and will treat you well, as in your former times; and ye shall know that I am the Lord. And I will increase men upon you, even my people Israel; and they shall inherit you, and ye shall be to them for a possession; and ye shall no more be bereaved of them.

Thus saith the Lord God; Because they said to thee, Thou land devourest our night, and hast been bereaved of thy nation; therefore thou shalt no more devour men, and thou shalt no more be bereave thy nation, saith the Lord God. And there shall no more be heard against you the reproach of the nations, and ye shall no more bear the revilings of the peoples saith the Lord God. And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, the house of Israel dwelt upon their land, and defiled it by their way, and with their idols, and with their uncleannesses; and their way was before me like the uncleanness of a removed woman.

So I poured out my wrath upon them; and I dispersed them among the nations, and utterly scattered them through the countries: I judged them according to their ways.
their way and according to their sin. 20 And they went in among the nations, among which they went, and they profaned my holy name, while it was said of them, These are the people of the Lord, even an abomination to the nations.

21 But I spared them for the sake of my holy name, which the house of Israel profaned among the nations, among whom they went.

22 Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord; I do not this, O house of Israel; for your sakes, because you have profaned my holy name, which ye have profaned among the nations, among whom ye went.

23 And I will sanctify my great name, which was profaned among the nations, which ye profaned in the midst of them; and the nations shall know that I am the Lord, when I am sanctified among you before their eyes.

24 And I will take you out from the nations, and will gather you out of all the lands, and will bring you into your own land: 25 and I will sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be purged from all your uncleannesses, and from all your idols, and I will cleanse you. 26 And I will give you a new heart, and will put my Spirit in you: and I will take away the heart of stone out of your flesh, and will give you a heart of flesh. 27 And I will put my Spirit in you, and will cause you to walk in mine ordinances, and to keep my judgments, and do them. 28 And ye shall dwell upon the land which I gave to your fathers; and ye shall be to me a people, and I will be to you a God. 29 And I will save you from all your uncleannesses: and I will call for the corn, and multiply it, and will not bring famine upon you. 30 And I will multiply the fruit of the trees, and the produce of the field, that ye may not bear the reproach of famish among the nations.

31 And ye shall remember your evil ways, and your doings that were not good; and ye shall be hateful in your own sight for your transgressions and for your abominations. 32 Not for your sakes do I this, saith the Lord God, saith it is known to you: be ye ashamed and confounded for your ways, O house of Israel.

33 Thus saith the Lord God; In the day wherein I shall cleanse you from all your iniquities I will also cause the cities to be inhabited, and the waste places shall be built upon: 34 and the desolate land shall be cultivated, whereas it was desolate in the eyes of every one that passed by. 35 And they shall say, That desolate land is become like a garden of delight; and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are inhabited.

36 And the nations, as many as shall have been left round about you, shall know that I the Lord have built the ruined cities and planted the waste lands; I the Lord have spoken, and will do it.

37 Thus saith the Lord God; Yet 6 for this will I be sought by the house of Israel, to establish them; I will multiply them even as sheep, 38 as the sheep of Jerusalem in her feasts; thus shall the desert cities be full of flocks of men: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

And the hand of the Lord came upon me, and the Lord brought me forth by the Spirit, and set me in the midst of the plain, and it was full of human bones. 2 And he led me round about them every way; and, behold, there were very many on the face of the plain, very dry.

3 And he said to me, Son of man, will these bones live? and I said, O Lord God, thou knowest this. 4 And he said to me, prophesy upon these bones, and thou shalt say to them, Ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord. 5 Thus saith the Lord to these bones; Behold, I will bring upon you the breath of life: 6 and I will lay sinews upon you, and will spread skin upon you, and will put my Spirit into you, and ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

7 So I prophesied as the Lord commanded me: and it came to pass while I was prophesying, that, behold, there was a shaking, and the bones approached each one to his joint.

8 And I looked, and, behold, sinews and flesh grew upon them, and skin came upon them above: but there was no breath in them.

9 And he said to me, Prophesy to the wind, prophesy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the Lord; Come from the four winds, and breathe upon these dead men, and let them live. 10 So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath entered into them, and they lived, and stood upon their feet, a great congregation.

11 And the Lord spoke to me, saying, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: and they say, Our bones are become dry, our hope has perished, we are quite spent. 12 Therefore prophesy and say, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will open your tombs, and will bring you up out of your tombs, and will bring you into the land of Israel. 13 And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have opened your graves, that I may bring up my people from their graves. 14 And I will put my Spirit within you, and ye shall live, and I will place you upon your own land: and ye shall know that I am the Lord; I have spoken, and will do it, saith the Lord.

15 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 16 Son of man, take for thyself a rod, and write upon it, Juda and Jerusalem, the children of Israel his adherents; and thou shalt take for thyself another rod, and thou shalt inscribe it for Joseph, the rod of Ephraim, and all the children of Israel that belong to him. 17 And thou shalt join them together for thyself, so as that they should bind themselves into one stick; and they shall be in thine hand.

18 And it shall come to pass, when the children of thy people shall say to thee, Wilt thou not tell us what thou meanest by these things? 19 Then shalt thou say to them, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will take the tribe of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel that belong to him, and I will add them to the tribe of Juda, and they shall become one rod in the hand of Juda. 20 And the Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will take the whole house of Israel out of the midst of the nations, among whom they have gone, and I will gather them from all that are round about them, and I will bring them into the land of Israel. And I will make them a nation in my land, even on the mountains of Israel; and they shall have one prince; and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided any more at all into two kingdoms; that they may no more defile themselves with their idols; and I will deliver them from all their transgressions whereby they have sinned, and will cleanse them; and they shall be to me a people, and I the Lord will be to them a God.

And my servant David shall be a prince in the midst of them: there shall be one shepherd of them all; for they shall walk in mine ordinances, and keep my judgments, and do them. And they shall dwell in their land, and I will require my sanctuary in the midst of them forever. And my tabernacle shall be among them; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people.

And the nations shall know that I am the Lord that sanctifieth them, when my sanctuary is in the midst of them for ever.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, set thy face against Gov, and the land of Magog, Rhodes, prince of Mesoch and Thobel, and prophesy against him. And say to him, Thus saith the Lord God:

Behold, I am against thee, Rhodes prince of Mesoch and Thobel: and I will gather thee, and all the house of Israel, horsemen, and horsemen, all wearing breast-plates, with a great multitude, shields and helmets and swords: Persians, and Ethiopians, and Libyans: all with helmets and shields. Gomer, and all belonging to him; the house of Thor, from the end of the north, and all belonging to him; and many nations with thee.

Be thou prepared, prepare thyself, thou, and all thy multitude that is assembled with thee, and thou shalt be to me for a guard. He shall be prepared after many days, and he shall come at the end of years, and shall come to a land that is brought back from the sword, when the people are gathered from many nations against the land of Israel, which was entirely desolate: and he is come forth out of the nations, and they shall all dwell securely. And thou shalt go up as rain, and shall arrive as a cloud to cover the land, and there shall be thou, and all that are about thee, and many nations with thee.

Thus saith the Lord God; It shall also

Therefore prophesy, son of man, and say to Gog, Thus saith the Lord; Will thou not arise in that day, when my people Israel are dwelling securely, and come out of thy place from the farthest north, and many nations with thee? all of them mounted on horses, a great gathering, and a large force?

15. And thou shalt come up upon my people Israel as a cloud to cover the land; it shall come to pass in the last days, that I will bring them up upon my land, that all the nations may know me, when I am sanctified in thee before them.

16. Thus saith the Lord God, to Gog; Thou art he concerning whom I spoke in former times, by the hand of my servants the prophets of Israel, in those days and years, that I would bring thee up against them. And it shall come to pass in that day, in the day when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, that my wrath and my jealousies shall arise, I have spoken in the fire of mine anger, verily in that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel; and the fish of the sea shall quake at the presence of the Lord, and the birds of the sky and the wild beasts of the field, and all the reptiles that creep upon the earth, and all the people that walk upon the face of the earth; and the mountains shall be rent, and the valleys shall fall, and every wall on the land shall fall. And I will summon against it even every fear, saith the Lord; the sword of every man shall be against his brother. And I will judge him with pestilence, and blood, and sweeping rain, and hailstones; and I will rain upon him flints and brimstone, and upon all that are with him, and upon many nations with him.

17. And I will be magnified, and sanctified, and glorified; and I will be known in the presence of many nations, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

And thou, son of man, prophesy against Gog, and say, Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I am against the north, O Gog, the prince of Meschech and Tubal; and I will assemble thee, and guide thee, and raise thee up on the extremity of the north, and I will bring thee up upon the mountains of Israel.

And I will destroy thy bow out of thy left hand, and thine arrows out of thy right hand.
hand, and I will cast thee down on the mountains of Israel; and thou and all that belong to thee shall fall, and the nations that are with thee shall be given to multitudes of birds, even to every foul, and I have given thee to all the wild beasts of the field to be devoured. 6 Thou shalt fall on the face of the field: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord.

And I will send a fire upon Gog, and the islands shall be securely inhabited: and they shall know that I am the Lord. 7 And my holy name shall be known in the midst of my people Israel; and my holy name shall no more be profaned; and the nations shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy One in Israel.

Behold it is come, and thou shalt know that it shall be, saith the Lord God; this is the day concerning which I have spoken.

And they that inhabit the cities of Israel shall come forth, and make a fire with the arms, the shields and spears, and bows and arrows, and hand-axes, and lances, and the fire shall be burning among them for seven years: 10 and they shall not take any wood out of the field, neither shall they cut any out of the forests, but they shall burn the weapons with fire: and they shall plunder those that plundered them, and spoil those that spoiled them, saith the Lord.

And it shall come to pass, that in that day will I give to Gog a place of renown, a tomb in Israel, the burial-place of them that approach thy sea: and they shall build round about the outlet of the valley, and there they shall bury Gog and all his multitude: and the place shall be called the burial-place of Gog. 2 And the house of Israel shall bury them, that the land may be cleansed in the space of seven months. 3 Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them: and it shall be to them a place of renown in the day wherein it was glorified, saith the Lord. 4 And they shall appoint men continually to go over the land, and they shall bury them that have been left on the face of the earth, to cleanse it after the space of seven months: and they shall seek them out.

And every one that goes through the land, and sees a man's bone, shall set up a mark by it, until the buryers shall have buried it in the valley, the burial-place of Gog. 8 For the name of the city shall be Ziklag: so shall the land be cleansed.

And thou, son of man, say, Thus saith the Lord; Say to every winged bird, and to all the wild beasts of the field,

Gather yourselves, and come; gather yourselves from all places round about to my sacrifice, which I have made for you, even a great sacrifice on the mountains of Israel, and ye shall eat flesh, and drink blood. 13 Ye shall eat the flesh of mighty men, and ye shall drink the blood of princes of the earth, rams, and calves and goats, and they are all fattened calves. 16 And ye shall eat fat till ye are full, and shall drink wine till ye are drunken, of my sacrifice which I have prepared for you. 20 And ye shall be filled at my table, eating horse, and rider, and mighty man, and every warrior, saith the Lord.

21 And I will set my glory among you, and all the nations shall see my judgment which I have wrought, and my hand which I have brought upon them. 22 And the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God, from this day and onwards.

23 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now will I turn back captivity in Jacob, and will have mercy on the house of Israel, and will be jealous for the sake of my holy name. 24 And they shall bear their reproach, and the iniquity which they committed when they dwelt upon their land in peace. Yet there shall be none to terrify them when I bring them back from the nations, and gathered out of the countries of the nations: and I will be sanctified among them in the presence of the nations. 25 And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, when I have been manifested to them among the nations. 26 And I will no more turn away my face from them, because I have poured out my wrath upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

And it came to pass in the twenty-fifth year of our captivity, in the first month, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after the taking of the city, in that day the hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me in a vision of God into the land of Israel, and set me on a very high mountain, and upon it there was as it were the frame of a city before me.

3 And he brought me in thither, and beheld, there was a man, and the appearance of him was as the appearance of shining brass, and in his hand was a builder's line, and a measuring reed; and he stood at the gate. 4 And the man said to me, Look with thine eyes at him whom thou hast seen, son of man, and hear with thine ears, and lay up in thine heart all things that I show thee; for thou hast come in thither that I might show thee, and thou shalt show all things that thou seest to the house of Israel.

5 And he brought me in thither, and behold, there was a wall round about the house without, and in the man's hand a reed, the measure of a reed, six cubits by the cubit, and a span; and he measured across the front wall; the breadth was equal to the reed, and the length of it equal to the reed.

6 And he entered by seven steps into the gate that looks eastward, and he measured across the porch of the gate equal to the reed. 7 And the chamber was equal in length to the reed, and equal in breadth to the reed; and the porch between the chambers six cubits; and the second chamber equal in breadth to the reed, and equal in length to the reed, and the porch five cubits.

8 And the third chamber equal in length to the porch, and the chambers were three cubits in height above one another; and the porches of the chambers were three cubits. And the porch of the house was thirty cubits long.
the reed, and equal in breadth to the reed. 9And the porch of the gateway (near the porch of the gate) eight cubits; and the posts thereof two cubits; and the porch of the gate was inward: 10and the chambers of the gate of the chamber in front were three on one side and three on the other, and there was one measure to the three: 11and he measured the breadth of the door of the gateway, ten cubits; and the breadth of the gateway thirteen cubits. 12And the space before the chambers was narrowed to a cubit in front of the chambers on this side and on that side; and the chamber was six cubits this way, and six cubits that way.

13And he measured the gate from the wall of one chamber to the wall of the other chamber: the breadth was twenty-five cubits, the one gate over against the other gate. 14And the open space of the porch of the gate without, was twenty cubits to the chambers round about, and was measured out, both the length of it and the breadth; 15and there were secret windows to the chambers, and to the porches within the gate of the court round about, and in the same manner windows to the porches round about within: and on the porch there were palm-trees on this side and on that side.

16And he brought me into the inner court, and, behold, there were chambers, and peristyles round about the court: thirty chambers within the ranges of columns. 17And the porticoes were behind the gates; according to the length of the gates, was the lower peristyle. 18And he measured the breadth of the court, from the open space of the outer gate inwards to the open space of the gate looking outwards: a hundred cubits was the distance to the place of the gate looking eastward: and he brought me to the north; 19and behold a gate looking northwards belonging to the outer court, and he measured it, both the length of it and the breadth; 20and the chambers, three on this side and three on that; and the posts, and the porches, and the palm-trees thereof: and they were according to the measures of the gate that looks eastward: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof was twenty-five cubits. 21And its windows, and its porches, and its palm-trees, were according to the dimensions of the gate looking eastward: and they went up by to it by seven steps; and the porches were within. 22And there was a gate to the inner court looking toward the north gate, after the manner of the gate looking toward the east; and he measured the court from gate to gate, a hundred cubits.

23And he brought me to the south side, and behold a gate looking southwards: and he measured it, and its chambers, and its posts, and its porches, according to these dimensions. 24And its windows, and its porches round about were according to the windows of the porch: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof was five and twenty cubits. 25And it had seven steps, and porches within: and it had palm-trees on the posts, one on one side, and one on the other side. And there was a gate opposite the gate of the inner court southward; and he measured the court from gate to gate, a hundred cubits in breadth southward.

32 And he brought me into the inner court of the south gate: and he measured the gate according to these measures; and the chambers, and the posts, and the porches, according to these measures: and there were windows unto it and to the porches round about: its length was fifty cubits, 33 and its breadth twenty-five cubits. 34 And there were porches opening into the inner court, and palm-trees on the posts on this side and on that side: and it had eight steps.

35 And he brought me in at the northern gate, and measured it according to these measures: 36 and the chambers, and the posts, and the porches according to these measures: and there were windows to it, and porches round about: its length was fifty cubits, and the breadth of it twenty-five cubits. 37 And its porches were toward the inner court; and there were palm-trees to the posts on this side and on that side: and it had eight steps.

38 Its chambers and its door-ways, and its porches at the second gate served as a drain, 39 that they might slay in it the sin-offerings, and the trespass-offerings. 40 And behind the drain for the whole-burnt-offerings at the north gate, two tables eastward of the second gate; and behind the porches of the gate two tables eastward. 41 Four on one side and four on the other side behind the gate; upon them they kill the victims, 42 that they may stand before the tables of sacrifices. 43 And there were four tables of hewn stone for whole-burnt-offerings, the breadth of them was a cubit and a half, and the length of them two cubits and a half, and their height was a cubit: on them they place the instruments with which they slay there the whole-burnt-offerings and the victims. 44 And they shall have within a border of hewn stone round about a span broad, and over the tables above screens for covering them from the wet and from the heat.

45 And he brought me into the inner court, and behold there were two chambers in the inner court, one behind the gate looking to the north, turning southward, and one behind the inner gate which looks to the north. And he said to me, This chamber that looks to the south, is for the priests that keep the charge of the house. 46 And the chamber that looks to the north

8 Or, possibly, at the south end. 7 Or, perhaps, ' and the breadth of the porch 24 cubits extending to,' etc. 9 Alex. 'and there they shall wash the whole-burnt-offering, (59) and in the porch of the gate were two tables on this side and two tables on that side.' 47 i. e. for sins of ignorance.
is for the priests that keep the charge of the altar: they are the sons of SADDUC, those of the tribe of Levi who draw near to the Lord to serve him.

47 And he measured the court, the length whereof was a hundred cubits, and the breadth a hundred cubits, and it was one cubit thick, and the altar was in front of the house. 48 And he brought me into the porch of the house; and he measured the post of the porch, the breadth five cubits on one side, and five cubits on the other side: and the breadth of the door was fourteen cubits, and the side-pieces of the door of the porch were three cubits on one side, and three cubits on the other side. 49 And the length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth twelve cubits; and they went up to it by ten steps; and there were pillars to the porch, one on this side and one on that side.

And he brought me into the temple, the porch of which he measured, six cubits the breadth on one side, and six cubits the breadth of the porch on the other side.

And the breadth of the gateway was ten cubits, and the side-pieces of the gateway were five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and he measured the length of it, forty cubits, and the breadth, twenty cubits.

And he went into the inner court, and measured the post of the door, two cubits; and the door, six cubits; and the side-pieces of the door, seven cubits on one side, and seven cubits on the other side. And he measured the length of the doors, forty cubits; and the breadth, twenty cubits, in front of the temple: and he said, This is the holy of holies.

And he measured the wall of the house, six cubits: and the breadth of each side, four cubits round about. And the sides were forty, ninety, side against side; and there was a space in the wall of the house at the sides round about, that they should be for them that take hold of them to see, that they should not at all touch the walls of the house. And the breadth of the upper gate was made according to the proportion out of the wall, against the upper one round about the house, that it might be enlarged above, and that men might go up from the upper chambers from those below, and from the ground-sills to the third story.

And as for the height of the house round about, each space between the sides was equal to a reed of six cubits; and the breadth of the wall of each side without was five cubits; and the spaces that were left between the sides of the house, and between the chambers, were a width of twenty cubits, the circumference of the house.

And the doors of the chambers were toward the space left by the doors that looked northward, and its four doors one door southward; and the breadth of the remaining open space was five cubits in extent round about.

And the partition wall in front of the remaining space, toward the west, was seventy cubits in breadth; the breadth of the partition wall was five cubits round about, and the length of it ninety cubits.
And he measured in front of the house a length of a hundred cubits, and the remaining spaces and the partitions; and the walls thereof were in length a hundred cubits.

And the breadth in front of the house, and the remaining spaces before it were a hundred cubits.

And he measured the length of the partition in front of the space left by the back parts of that house; and the spaces left on this side and on that side were in length a hundred cubits: and the temple and the corners and the outer porch were planked.

And the windows were latticed, giving light round about to the three stories, so as to look through: and the house and the parts adjoining were planked round about, and so was the floor, and from the floor up to the windows, and the window shutters folded back in three parts for one to look through.

And almost all the way to the inner, and close to the outer side, and upon all the wall round about within and without, were carved cherubs and palm-trees between the cherubs, and to the wall.

The face of a man was toward one palm-tree on this side and on that side, and the face of a lion toward another palm-tree on this side and on that side: the house was carved all round.

From the floor to the ceiling were cherubs and palm-trees carved.

And the holy place and the temple opened upon four sides; in front of the holy place the appearance was as the law, and a wooden altar, the height of it three cubits, and the length two cubits, and the breadth two cubits; and it had horns, and the base of it and the sides of it were of wood; and he said to me, This is the table, which is before the face of the Lord.

And the temple had two doors, and the sanctuary had two doors, with two turning leaves apiece; two leaves to the one, and two leaves to the other door.

And there was carved work upon them, and cherubs on the doors of the temple, and palm-trees according to the carving of the sanctuary; and there were stout planks in front of the porch without.

And there were secret windows; and he measured from side to side, to the roofing of the porch; and the sides of the house were closely planked.

And he brought me into the inner court eastward, opposite the northern gate: and he brought me in, and behold five chambers near the vacant space, and near the northern partition, a hundred cubits in length toward the north, and in breadth fifty.

Ornamental work was also on the inner court, and arranged accordingly as the peristyles of the outer court, with triple porticoes fronting one another.

And in front of the chambers was a walk ten cubits in breadth, the length reaching to a hundred cubits; and their doors were northward.

And the upper walks were in like manner; for the peristyle projected from it, each from the range of columns below, and there was a space between; so were there a peristyle and a space between, and so were there two porticoes.

For they were triple, and they had... not pillars like the pillars of the outer ones: therefore they projected from the lower ones and the middle ones from the ground.

And there was light without, corresponding to the chambers of the outer court looking toward the front of the northern chambers; the length of them was fifty cubits. For the length of the chambers looking toward the inner court was fifty cubits, and these were the ones that front the others; the whole was a hundred cubits.

And there were doors of these chambers for an outlet towards the east, so that one should go through them out of the outer court. By the opening of the wall at the 8 corner, and the south parts were toward the south, toward the remaining space, and toward the partition, and so were the chambers. And the walk was in front of them, according to the measures of the chambers toward the north, both according to the length of them, and according to the breadth of them, and according to all their openings, and according to all their turning, and according to their lights, and according to their doors. So were the measures of the chambers toward the south, and according to the doors at the entrance of the walk, as it were the distance of a reed for light, and eastward as one went in by them.

And he said to me, The chambers toward the north, and the chambers toward the south, in front of the void spaces, these are the chambers of the sanctuary, wherein the priests the sons of Sadduo, who draw nigh to the Lord, shall eat the most holy things: and there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meat-offering, and the sin-offerings, and the trespass-offerings; because the place is holy. None shall go in thither except the priests, and they shall not go forth of the holy place into the outer court, that they that draw nigh to me may be continually holy, and may not touch their garments in which they minister, with defilement, for they are holy; and they shall put on other garments whenever they come in contact with the people.

So the measurement of the house within was accomplished; and he brought me forth by the way of the gate that looks eastward, and measured the plan of the house round about in order.

And he stood behind the gate looking eastward, and measured five hundred cubits with the measuring reed. And he turned to the north and measured in front of the north side five hundred cubits with the measuring reed. And he turned to the west, and measured in front of the west side, five hundred cubits with the measuring reed. And he turned to the south, and measured in front of the south side, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed.

The four sides he measured by the same reed, and he marked out the house and the circumference of the parts round about, a space of five hundred cubits eastward, and a breadth of five hundred cubits, to make a division between the sanctuary and the outer wall, that belonged to the design of the house.
Moreover he brought me to the gate looking eastward, and led me forth. 2 And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel came by the way of the gate looking eastward. 3 And there was a voice of an army, as the sound of many redoubling their shoul".

SON OF MAN, thou hast seen the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, in which my name shall dwell in the midst of the house of Israel for ever; and the house of Israel shall no more profane my holy name, they and their princes, by their fornication, or by the murders of their princes in the midst of them; 4 when they set my door-way by their door-way, and my thresholds near to their thresholds; and they made my wall as it were joining myself and them, and they profaned my holy name with their iniquities which they wrought: and I destroyed them in my wrath and with slaughter. 5 And now let them put away from me their fornication, and the murders of their princes, and I will dwell in the midst of them; 6 and thou, son of man, shew the house to the house of Israel, that they may cease from their sins; and shew its aspect and the arrangement of it. 7 And they shall bear their punishment for all the things that they have done; and thou shalt describe the house, and its entrances, and the plan thereof, and all its ordinances, and thou shalt make known to them all the regulations of it, and describe them before them; and they shall keep all my commandments, and all my ordinances, and do them. 8 And thou shalt shew the plan of the house on the top of the mountain; all its limits round about shall be most holy. 9 And these are the measures of the altar by the cubit of a cubit and a span, the cavity shall be a cubit deep, and a cubit shall be the breadth, and the border on the rim of it round about shall be a span: and this shall be the height of the altar from the bottom at the commencement of the hollow part to this great mercy-seat, from beneath was two cubits, and the breadth was a cubit; and from the little mercy-seat to the great mercy-seat, breadth was a cubit. 10 And the altar shall be four cubits; and from the altar and above the horns a cubit. 11 And the altar shall be of the length of twelve cubits, by twelve cubits in breadth, square upon its four sides. 12 And the mercy-seat shall be fourteen cubits in length, by fourteen cubits in breadth on its four sides; and there shall be a border to it carried round about, of half a cubit; and the rim of it shall be a cubit round about; and the steps thereof looking eastward.

18 And he said to me, Son of man, thus saith the Lord God of Israel; These are the ordinances of the altar in the day of its being made, to offer upon it whole-burnt-offerings, and to pour blood upon it. 19 And thou shalt appear to the priests the Levites of the seed of Saddoc, that draw nigh to me, saith the Lord God, to minister to me, a calf of the herd 3 for a sin-offering. 20 And they shall take of its blood, and shall put it on the four horns of the altar, and upon the four corners of the propitiatory, and upon the base round about, and they shall make atonement for it. 21 And they shall take the calf of the sin-offering, and it shall be consumed by fire in the separate place of the house, outside the sanctuary. 22 And on the second day they shall take two kids of the goats without blemish 4 for a sin-offering; and they shall make atonement for the altar, as they made atonement with the calf. 23 And after they have finished the atonement, they shall bring an unblemished calf of the herd, and an unblemished ram of the flock. 24 And ye shall offer them before the Lord, and the priests shall sprinkle salt upon them, and shall offer them up as whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord.

25 Seven days shalt thou offer a kid daily for a sin-offering, and a calf of the herd, and a ram out of the flock; they shall sacrifice them unblemished for seven days: 26 and they shall make atonement for the altar, and shall purge it; and they shall consecrate themselves. 27 And it shall come to pass from the eighth day and onward, that the priests shall offer your whole-burnt-offerings on the altar, and your peace-offerings; and I will accept you, saith the Lord.

Then he brought me back by the way of the outer gate of the sanctuary that looks eastward; and it was shut. 2 And the Lord said to me, This gate shall be shut, it shall not be opened, and no one shall pass through it; for the Lord God of Israel shall enter by it, and it shall be shut. 3 For the prince, he shall sit in it, to eat bread before the Lord; he shall go in by the way of the porch of the gate, and shall go forth by the way of the same.

4 And he brought me in by the way of the gate that looks northward, in front of the house: and I looked, and, behold, the house was full of the glory of the Lord; and I fell upon my face. 5 And the Lord said to me, Son of man, attend with thine heart, and see with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears all that I say to thee, according to all the ordinances of the house of the Lord, and all the regulations thereof; and thou shalt attend well to all the work of the house, according to all its outlets, in all the holy things. 6 And thou shalt say to the provoking house, even to the house of Israel,
Thus saith the Lord God; Let it suffice you to have committed all your iniquities, O house of Israel! that ye have brought in aliens, uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, and to profane it, when ye offered γεύμα, flesh, and blood; and ye transgressed my covenant by all your iniquities; 23 and ye appointed others to keep the charges in my sanctuary.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; No alien, uncircumcised in heart or uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary, of all the children of strangers that are in the midst of the house of Israel.

10 But as for the Levites that departed far from me when Israel went astray from me after their imaginations, they shall even bear their iniquity. 11 Yet they shall minister in my sanctuary, before their brethren, and shall keep charge of the house, and serving the house: they shall slay the victims and the whole-burnt-offerings for the people, and they shall stand before the people to minister to them. 12 Because they ministered to them before their idols, and it became to the house of Israel a punishment of iniquity; therefore I lifted up my hand against them, saith the Lord God. 13 And they shall not draw nigh to me to minister to me in the priests' office, nor to approach the holy things of the children of Israel, nor to approach my holy of holies: but they shall bear their reproach, for the error wherein they erred. 14 They shall bring them to keep the charges of the house, for all the service of it, and for all that they shall do.

15 The priests the Levites, the sons of Sadduca, who kept the charges of my sanctuary when the house of Israel went astray from me, these shall draw nigh to me to minister to me, and shall stand before my face, to offer sacrifice to me, the fat and the blood, saith the Lord God. 16 These shall enter into my sanctuary, and these shall approach my table, to minister to me, and they shall keep my charges.

17 And it shall come to pass when they enter the gates of the inner court, that they shall put on linen robes; and they shall not put on woollen garments when they minister at the gate of the inner court. 18 And they shall have linen mitres upon their heads, and shall have linen drawers upon their loins; and they shall not tightly gird themselves. 19 And when they go out into the outer court to the people, they shall put off their robes, in which they minister; and they shall lay them up in the chambers of the sanctuary, and shall put on other robes, and they shall not sanctify the people with their robes. 20 And they shall not shave their heads, nor shall they pluck off their hair; they shall carefully cover their heads. 21 And no priest shall drink any wine, when they go into the inner court. 22 Neither shall they take to themselves to wife a widow, or one that is put away, but a virgin of the seed of Israel: but if there should happen to be a priest's widow, they shall take her.

And they shall teach my people to distinguish between holy and profane, and they shall make known to them the difference between unclean and clean. And these shall attend at a judgment of blood to decide: they shall judge my ordinances, and judge my judgments, and keep my statutes and my commandments in all my feasts; and they shall hallow my sabbaths.

And they shall not go in to the dead body of a man to defile themselves: only a priest may defile himself for a father, or for a mother, or for a son, or for a daughter, or for a brother, or for his sister, who has not been married. And after he has been cleansed, let him number to himself seven days. And on whatsoever day they shall enter into the inner court to minister in the holy place, they shall bring a propitiation, saith the Lord God.

And it shall be to them for an inheritance: I am their inheritance: and no possession shall be given them among the children of Israel; for I am their possession.

And these shall eat the meat-offerings, and the sin-offerings, and the trespass-offerings; and every special offering in Israel shall be theirs. And the first-fruits of all things, and the first-born of all animals and all your first-fruits there shall be a share for the priests; and ye shall give your earliest produce to the priest, to bring your blessings upon your houses. And the priests shall eat no bird or beast that dies of itself, or is taken of wild beasts.

And when ye measure the land, for inheritance, ye shall set apart first-fruits to the Lord, a holy space of the land, in length twenty and five thousand reeds, and in breadth twenty thousand; it shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

And there shall be a sanctuary out of this, five hundred reeds in length by five hundred in breadth, a square round about; and there shall be a vacant space between this and that. And out of this measurement shall thou measure the length five and twenty thousand, and the breadth twenty thousand: and in it shall be the holy of holies. Of the land shall be a portion for the priests that minister in the holy place, and it shall be for them that draw nigh to minister to the Lord: and it shall be to them a place for houses set apart for their sacred office; the length shall be twenty-five thousand, and the breadth twenty thousand: and the Levites that attend the house, they shall have cities to dwell in for a possession.

And ye shall appoint for the possession of the city five thousand in breadth, and in length twenty-five thousand: after the manner of the first-fruits of the holy portion, they shall be for all the house of Israel.

And the prince shall have a portion out of this: and out of this there shall be a portion for the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and for the possession of the city, in front of the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and in front of the possession of the city.

ward, and from the western parts eastward:
and the length shall be equal to one of the parts of the western borders, and the length shall be to the eastern borders of the land.
And he shall have it for a possession in Israel: and the princes of Israel shall no more oppress my people; but the house of Israel shall inherit the land according to their tribes.
Thus saith the Lord God; Let it suffice you, ye princes of Israel: remove injustice and misery, execute judgment and justice;
take away oppression from my people, saith the Lord God. Ye shall have a just balance, and a just measure, and a just chonix, and fifteen shekels; and in like manner there shall be one chonix as a measure of capacity; the tenth of the gomer shall be the chonix, and the tenth of the gomer shall be in fair proportion to the gomer.
And the weights shall be twenty oboli, your pound shall be five shekels, fifteen shekels and fifty shekels.
And these are the first-fruits which ye shall offer; a sixth part of a gomer of hulled wheat, and the sixth part of it shall consist of an ephah of a cor of barley. And ye shall give as the β measured quantity of oil one bath of oil out of ten baths; for ten baths are a gomer. And one sheep from the flock out of ten, as an oblation from all the tribes of Israel, for sacrifices, and for whole-burnt-offerings, and for peace-offerings, to make atonement for the house of the Lord God. And all the people shall give these first-fruits to the prince of Israel.
And through the prince shall be offered the whole-burnt-offerings and the meat-offerings, and the drink-offerings in the feasts, and at the new moons, and on the sabbaths; and in all the feasts of the house of Israel: he shall offer the sin-offerings, and the meat-offerings, and the whole-burnt-offerings, and the peace-offerings, to make atonement for the house of Israel.
Thus saith the Lord God; In the first month, on the first day of the month, ye shall take a calf without blemish out of the herd, to make atonement for the holy place.
And the priests shall take of the blood of the atonement, and put it on the γ thresholds of the house, and upon the four corners of the temple, and upon the altar, and upon the thresholds of the gate of the inner court.
And thus shalt thou do in the seventh month; on the first day of the month thou shall take a rate from each one; and ye shall make atonement for the house.
And in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the feast of the passover; seven days shall ye eat unleavened bread. And the prince shall offer in that day a calf for a sin-offering for himself, and the house, and for all the people of the land. And for the seven days of the feast he shall offer as whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord seven calves and seven rams without blemish daily for seven days; and a kid of the goats daily for a sin-offering, and a meat-offering. And thou shall prepare a cake for the calf, and a cake for the ram, and a hin of oil for the cake.

Thus saith the Lord God; The gate that is in the inner court, that looks eastward, shall be shut the six working days; but let it be opened on the sabbath-day, and it shall be opened on the day of the new moon.

And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of the inner gate, and shall stand at the entrance of the gate, and the priests shall prepare his whole-burnt-offerings and his peace-offerings, and he shall worship at the entrance of the gate; then shall he come forth; but the gate shall not be shut till evening. And the people of the land shall worship at the entrance of that gate, both on the sabbaths and at the new moons, before the Lord.

And the prince shall offer whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord on the sabbath-day, six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish; and a freewill-offering, a meat-offering for the ram, and a meat-offering for the lambs, the gift of his hand, and a hin of oil for the meat-offering.

And on the day of the new moon a calf without blemish, and six lambs, and there shall be a ram without blemish; and a meat-offering for the ram, and there shall be a meat-offering for the calf as a freewill-offering, and for the lambs, according as his hand can furnish, and there shall be a hin of oil for the cake.

And when the prince goes in, he shall go in by the way of the porch of the gate, and he shall go forth by the way of the gate. And whenever the people of the land shall go in before the Lord at the feasts, he that goes in by the way of the north gate to worship shall go forth by the way of the south gate; and he that goes in by the way of the south gate shall go forth by the way of the north gate; he shall not return by the gate by which he entered, but he shall go forth opposite and the prince shall enter with them in the midst of them when they go in; and when they go forth, he shall go forth.

And in the feasts and in the general assemblies the freewill oblation shall be a meat-offering for the calf, and a meat-offering for the ram, and for the lambs, as his hand can furnish, and a hin of oil for the meat-offering. And if the prince should prepare as a thanksgiving a whole-burnt peace-offering to the Lord, and should open for himself the gate looking eastward, and offer his whole-burnt-offering, and his peace-offerings, as he does on the sabbath-day; then shall he go out, and shall shut the doors behind him, and shall come out; and he shall prepare daily as a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord a lamb of a year old without blemish: in the morning shall he prepare it. And he shall prepare a freewill-offering for it in the morning, the sixth part of a measure of flour, and a third part of a measure of oil, and a hin of flour.

Thus saith the Lord God: The earth shall be open, and the earth shall yield fruit; the tree of the field shall yield its fruit, and the tree of the field shall not lose its fruit. And the earth shall bring forth all that is green, and the earth shall produce fruit, and the tree of the field shall yield its fruit, that it may be for the people to eat who are come out of all nations. And the earth shall yield all its fruit that is green, and the earth shall bring forth all its fruit, and the tree of the field shall yield its fruit, that it may be for the people to eat who are come out of all nations. And the earth shall yield all its fruit that is green, and the earth shall bring forth all its fruit, and the tree of the field shall yield its fruit, that it may be for the people to eat who are come out of all nations.
of a hin of oil to mix therewith the fine flour as a freewill-offering to the Lord, a perpetual ordinance.

15 Thus saith the Lord God; If the prince shall give a gift to one of his sons out of his inheritance, this shall be to his sons a possession as an inheritance. But if he give a gift to one of his servants, then it shall belong to him until the year of release; and then he shall restore it to the prince: but of the inheritance of his sons the possession shall continue to them. And the prince shall by no means take of the inheritance of the people, to oppress them: he shall give an inheritance to his sons out of his own possession: that my people be not scattered, every one from his possession.

16 And he brought me into the entrance of the place behind the gate, into the chamber of the sanctuary belonging to the priests, that looks toward the north; and, behold, there was a place set apart. And he said to me, This is the place where the priests shall boil the trespass-offerings and the sin-offerings and the meat-offering always; so as not to carry them out into the outer court, to sanctify the people.

21 And he brought me into the outer court, and led me round upon the four sides of the court; and, behold, there was a court on each of the sides of the court. On every side of the court, round about all the four sides, and each little court belonging to the court was in length forty cubits, and in breadth thirty cubits, there was one measure to the four. And there were chambers in them round about, round about the four, and cooking-places formed under the chambers round about. And he said to me, These are the cooks’ houses, where they that serve the house shall boil the sacrifices of the people.

27 And he brought me to the entrance of the house; and, behold, water issued from under the porch eastward, for the front of the house looked eastward; and the water came down from the right side, from the south to the altar. And he brought me out by the way of the northern gate, and he led me round by the way outside to the gate of the court that looks eastward; and, behold, water came down from the right side, in the direction in which a man went forth opposite; and there was a measuring line in his hand, and he measured a thousand cubits with the measure; and he passed through the water; it was water of a fountain: and again he measured a thousand, and passed through the water; and the water was up to the thighs: and again he measured a thousand; and he passed through water up to the loins. And again he measured a thousand; and he could not pass through: for the water rose as of a torrent which men cannot pass over.

28 And he said to me, Hast thou seen this, son of man? Then he brought me, and led me back to the brink of the river as I returned; and, behold, on the brink of the river there were very many trees on this side and on that side. And he said unto me, This is the water that goes forth to Galilee that lies eastward, and it is gone down to Arabia, and has reached as far as to the sea to the outlet of the water; and it shall heal the waters. And it shall come to pass, that every animal of living and moving creatures, all on which the river shall come, shall live; and there shall be many fishes in this water; and they shall live, everything on which the river shall come shall live.

And fishers shall stand there from In-sadin to Enagallim; it shall be a place to spread out nets upon; it shall be distinct, and the fishes thereof shall be as the fishes of the great sea, a very great multitude.

But at the outlet of the water, and the turn of it, and where it overflows its banks, they shall not heal at all; they are given to salt. And every fruit tree shall grow by the river, even on the bank of it on this side and on that side: they shall not decay upon it, neither shall their fruit fail: they shall bring forth their fruit every year, and be eaten; and for these their waters come forth of the sanctuary: and their fruit shall be for meat, and their foliage for health.

Thus saith the Lord God; Ye shall inherit these borders of the land; they are given by lot to the twelve tribes of the children of Israel. And ye shall inherit it, each according to his border of Se-Manaim, even the land concerning which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers: and this land shall fall to you by lot.

And these are the borders of the land that lies northward, from the great sea that comes down, and divides the entrance of Emasledam: 10 Maabthera, Ebranellim, between the coasts of Damascus and the coasts of Emasledam, the habitation of Se-Manaim, which places are above the coasts of Auranitis. These are the borders of the sea, from the habitations of Edomam, the coasts of Damascus, and the northern coasts. 11 And the eastern coasts between Lornamitis, and Damascus, and the land of Galaad, and the land of Israel, the Jordan divides to the sea that is east of the city of palm-trees. These are the eastern coasts.

And the southern and south-western coasts are from Tarsus and the city of palm-trees, to the water of Marimoth Cadem, reaching forth to the great sea. This part is the south and south-west. 12 This part of the great sea forms a border, till one comes opposite the entrance of Emasledam, even as far as to the entrance thereof. These are the parts west of Emasledam.

So ye shall divide this land to them, even to the tribes of Israel. 13 Ye shall cast the lot upon it, for yourselves and the strangers that sojourn in the midst of you, who have begotten children in the midst of you: and they shall divide it to you as natives among the children of Israel; they shall cast lots with you in their inheritance in the midst of the tribes of Israel. 14 And they shall be in the tribe of proselytes among the proselytes that 48 And these are the names of the tribes from the northern corner, on the side of the desert that draws a line to the entrance of Emath, the border of Damascus northward on the side of Emath the palace; and they shall have the eastern parts as far as the sea, for Dan, one portion. 2 And from the borders of Dan eastward as far as the west sea-coast, for Asser, one. 3 And from the borders of Asser, from the eastern parts as far as the west coasts, for Naaman, one. 4 And from the borders of Naaman, from the eastern parts as far as the west coasts, for Manasse, one. 5 And from the borders of Manasse, from the eastern parts as far as the west coasts, for Ephraim, one. 6 And from the borders of Ephraim, from the eastern parts to the west coasts, for Ruben, one. 7 And from the borders of Ruben, from the eastward parts as far as the coasts, for the Jordan, one. 8 And from the borders of Juda, from the eastward parts shall be the offering of first-fruits, in breadth twenty-five thousand reeds, and in length as one of the portions measured from the east even to the western parts: and the sanctuary shall be in the midst of them. 9 As for the first-fruits which they shall offer to the Lord, it shall be in length twenty-five thousand, and in breadth twenty-five thousand. 10 Out of this shall be the first-fruits of the holy things to the priests, northward, five and twenty-thousand, and towards the west, ten thousand, and southward, five and twenty thousand: and the mountain of the sanctuary, shall be in the midst of it, 11 for the priests, for the consecrated sons of Salm, who keep the charges of the house, who err not in the error of the children of Israel, as the Levites erred. 12 And the first-fruits shall be given to them out of the first-fruits of the land, even a most holy portion from the borders of the Levites. 13 And the Levites shall have the part next to the borders of the priests, in length twenty-thousand, and in breadth ten thousand: the whole shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth twenty thousand. 14 No part of it shall be sold, nor measured as for sale, neither shall the first-fruits of the land be taken away: for they are holy to the Lord. 15 But concerning the five thousand that remain in the breadth in the five and twenty thousand, as the city for dwelling, and for a space before it: and the city shall be in the midst thereof. 16 And these shall be its dimensions: from the northern side four thousand and five hundred, and from the southern side four thousand and five hundred, and from the eastern side four thousand and five hundred, and from the western side they shall measure four thousand and five hundred, and there shall be a space to the city northward two hundred and fifty, and southward two hundred and fifty, and eastward two hundred and fifty, and westward two hundred and fifty.

And the remainder of the length that is next to the first-fruits of the holy portion shall be ten thousand eastward, and ten thousand westward: and they shall be the first-fruits of the sanctuary; and the fruits of the increase and the first-fruits shall be for the Levites, the border for the city. And they that labour for the city shall labour for it out of all the tribes of Israel.

The whole offering shall be a square of twenty-five thousand by twenty-five thousand; ye shall separate again part of it, the first-fruits of the sanctuary, from the possession of the city.

And the prince shall have the remainder on this side and on that side from the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and there shall be a possession for the five, and twenty thousand cubits in length, to the eastern and western borders, for five and twenty thousand thousand cubits in length, to the eastern and western borders, next to the portions of the prince; and the first-fruits of the holy things and the sanctuary of the house shall be in the midst of it. And there shall be a portion taken from the Levites, from the possession of the city in the midst of the princes between the borders of Judah and the borders of Benjamin, and it shall be the portion of the princes.

And as for the rest of the tribes, from the eastern parts as far as the western, Benjamin shall have one portion. And from the borders of Benjamin, from the eastern parts to the western, Syene, one. And from the borders of Syene, from the eastern parts to Issachar, one. And from the borders of Issachar, from the eastern parts to the western, Zabulon, one. And from the borders of Zabulon, from the east to the western parts, Gad, one. And from the borders of Gad, from the eastern parts to the south-western parts, his coasts shall even be from the Dan, and the water of Beth-moth Cades, for an inheritance, unto the great sea. This is the land, which ye shall divide by lot to the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions, saith the Lord God.

And these are the going out of the city northward, four thousand and five hundred by measure. And the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel: three gates northward; the gate of Rubeon, one, and the gate of Juda, one, and the gate of Levi, one. And eastward four thousand and five hundred; and three gates; the gate of Joseph, one, and the gate of Benjamin, one, and the gate of Dan, one. And southward, four thousand and five hundred by measure; and three gates; the gate of Syene, one, and the gate of Issachar, one, and the gate of Zabulon, one. And westward, four thousand and five hundred by measure; and three gates; the gate of Gad, one, and the gate of Asser, one, and the gate of Naphthali, one.

The circumference, eighteen thousand measures; and the name of the city, from the day that it shall be finished, shall be the name thereof.

18 And the remainder of the length that is next to the first-fruits of the holy portion shall be ten thousand eastward, and ten thousand westward: and they shall be the first-fruits of the sanctuary; and the fruits of the increase and the first-fruits shall be for the Levites, the border for the city. And they that labour for the city shall labour for it out of all the tribes of Israel.

The whole offering shall be a square of twenty-five thousand by twenty-five thousand; ye shall separate again part of it, the first-fruits of the sanctuary, from the possession of the city.

And the prince shall have the remainder on this side and on that side from the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and there shall be a possession for the five, and twenty thousand cubits in length, to the eastern and western borders, for five and twenty thousand thousand cubits in length, to the eastern and western borders, next to the portions of the prince; and the first-fruits of the holy things and the sanctuary of the house shall be in the midst of it. And there shall be a portion taken from the Levites, from the possession of the city in the midst of the princes between the borders of Judah and the borders of Benjamin, and it shall be the portion of the princes.

And as for the rest of the tribes, from the eastern parts as far as the western, Benjamin shall have one portion. And from the borders of Benjamin, from the eastern parts to the western, Syene, one. And from the borders of Syene, from the eastern parts to Issachar, one. And from the borders of Issachar, from the eastern parts to the western, Zabulon, one. And from the borders of Zabulon, from the east to the western parts, Gad, one. And from the borders of Gad, from the eastern parts to the south-western parts, his coasts shall even be from the Dan, and the water of Beth-moth Cades, for an inheritance, unto the great sea. This is the land, which ye shall divide by lot to the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions, saith the Lord God.

And these are the going out of the city northward, four thousand and five hundred by measure. And the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel: three gates northward; the gate of Rubeon, one, and the gate of Juda, one, and the gate of Levi, one. And eastward four thousand and five hundred; and three gates; the gate of Joseph, one, and the gate of Benjamin, one, and the gate of Dan, one. And southward, four thousand and five hundred by measure; and three gates; the gate of Syene, one, and the gate of Issachar, one, and the gate of Zabulon, one. And westward, four thousand and five hundred by measure; and three gates; the gate of Gad, one, and the gate of Asser, one, and the gate of Naphthali, one.

The circumference, eighteen thousand measures; and the name of the city, from the day that it shall be finished, shall be the name thereof.
In the third year of the reign of Joakim, king of Judah, came Nabuchodonomos, king of Babylon to Jerusalem, and besieged it.

And the Lord gave into his hand Joakim, king of Judah, and part of the vessels of the house of God; and he brought them into the land of Sennaar to the house of his god; and he brought the vats into the treasure-house of his god. And the king told Asphanez his chief eunuch, to bring in some of the captive children of Israel, and of the seed of the kingdom, and of the seven princes; young men in whom was no blemish, and beautiful in appearance, and skilled in all wisdom, and possessing knowledge, and acquainted with prudence, and who had ability to stand in the house before the king, and the king gave commandment to teach them the learning and language of the Chaldeans.

And the king appointed them a daily portion from the king's table, and from the wine which he drank; and gave orders to nourish them three years, and that afterwards they should stand before the king.

Now these were among them of the children of Juda, Daniel, and Anania, and Azarias, and Misael. And the chief of the eunuchs gave them names: to Daniel, Baltasar; and to Anania, Sedach; and to Misael, Misach; and to Azarias, Abdenago. And Daniel purposed in his heart, that he would not defile himself with the king's table, nor with the wine of his drink; and he intreated the chief of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself. Now God had brought Daniel into favour and compassion with the chief of the eunuchs. And the chief of the eunuchs said to Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who has appointed your meat and your drink, lest he see your countenances gloomy in comparison of the young men your equals; so shall ye endanger my head to the king. And Daniel said to Amselad, whom the chief of the eunuchs had appointed over Daniel, Anania, Misael, and Azarias, Prove now thy servants ten days; and let them give us pulse, and let us eat, and let us drink water; and let our countenances be seen by thee, and the countenances of the children that eat at the king's table; and deal with thy servants according as thou shalt see. them ten days. And at the end of the ten days their countenances appeared fairer and stouter in flesh than the children that fed at the king's table. So Amelshad took away their supper and the wine of their drink, and gave them a pulse.

And as for these four children, God gave them understanding and prudence in all learning and wisdom; and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams.

And at the end of the days, after which the king had given orders to bring them in, then the magicians, the scribes, and the sorcerers brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar. And the king spoke with them; and there were not found out of them all any like Daniel, and his companions, Missael, and Azarias: and they stood before the king. And in every matter of wisdom and knowledge wherein the king questioned them, he found them ten times wiser than all the enchanters and sorcerers that were in all his kingdom. And Daniel continued till the first year of king Cyrus.

In the second year of his reign Nebuchadnezzar dreamed a dream, and his spirit was troubled, and he gave orders to call the enchanters and the magicians, and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans, to declare to the king his dreams. And they came and stood before the king.

And the king said to them, I have dreamed, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream. And the Chaldeans spoke to the king in the Syrian language, saying, O king, live for ever: do thou tell the dream to thy servants, and we will declare the interpretation. The king answered the Chaldeans. The thing has departed from me: if ye do not make known to me the dream and the interpretation, ye shall be destroyed, and your houses shall be spoiled. But if ye make known to me the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and presents and much dower. Then they answered the king, saying, The thing has departed from me.

And the king answered and said, I verily know that ye are trying to gain time, because ye see that the thing has gone from me. If then ye do not tell me the dream, I know that ye have concerted to utter before me a false and corrupt tale, until the time shall have past: tell me my dream, and I shall know that ye will also declare to me the interpretation thereof. The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is no man upon the earth, who shall be able to make known the thing to me: forasmuch as no great king or ruler asks such a question of an enchanter, magician, or Chaldean. For the question which the king asks is difficult, and there is no one else who shall answer it before the king, but the gods, whose dwelling is not with any flesh.
Then the king in rage and anger commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babylon. 12 So the decree went forth, and they began to slay the wise men; and they sought Daniel and his fellows to slay them.

13 Then Daniel answered with counsel and prudence to Arioch the captain of the royal guard, who stood next to the king, saying, 14 Chief magistrate of the king, wherefore has the peremptory command proceeded from the king? So Arioch made known the matter to Daniel. 15 And Daniel intreated the king to give him time, and that he might thus declare to the king the interpretation of it. 16 So Daniel went into his house, and made known the matter to Ananias, and Misael, and Azarias, his friends. 17 And they sought remedies from the God of heaven concerning this mystery; that Daniel and his friends might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

18 Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision of the night: and Daniel blessed the God of heaven, and said, 20 May the name of God be blessed from everlasting and to everlasting: for wisdom and understanding are his. 21 And he changes times and seasons: he appoints kings, and removes them. He giveth wisdom to the wise, and prudence to them that have understanding: 22 he reveals deep and secret matters; knowing what is in darkness, and the light is with him. 23 I give thanks to thee, and praise thee, O God of my fathers, for thou hast given me wisdom and power and hast made known to me the things which we asked of thee; and thou hast made known to me the king’s vision.

24 And Daniel came to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and said to him, 25 The king, to whose knowledge and understanding are ascribed all the secrets of the kingdom, has sent me to thee, that I might declare to thee the interpretation of this mystery. 26 And Daniel answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Baltasar, Canst thou declare to me the dream which I saw, and the interpretation thereof?

27 And Daniel answered before the king, and said, The mystery which the king asks the explanation of is not in the power of the wise men, magicians, enchanters, or soothsayers to declare to the king. 28 But there is a God in heaven revealing mysteries, and he has made known to king Nabuchodonosor what things must come to pass in the last days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these, O king: thy thoughts upon thy bed arise as to what must come to pass hereafter: and he that reveals mysteries has made known to thee what must come to pass. 29 Moreover, this mystery has not been revealed to me by reason of wisdom which is in me beyond all others living, but for the sake of...
And in the days of those kings the God of heaven shall set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed: and his kingdom shall not be left to another people, but it shall be to pieces and grind to powder all other kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

Whereas thou sawest that a stone was cut out of a mountain without hands, and it beat pieces the earthenware, the iron, the brass, the silver, the gold: the great God has made known to the king what must happen hereafter: and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof sure.

Then king Nabuchodonosor fell upon his face, and worshipped Daniel, and gave orders to offer him incense. And the king answered and said to Daniel, Of a truth your God is a God of gods, and of a truth he is the God, that made known to me what must happen hereafter.

Daniel 48–III. 15.

Lord of kings, who reveals mysteries; for thou hast been able to reveal this mystery. 46 And the king promoted Daniel, and gave him great and abundant gifts, and set him over the whole province of Babylon, and made his chief satrap over all the wise men of Babylon. 47 He set Daniel over the affairs of the king, and he appointed Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, over the affairs of the province of Babylon: but Daniel was in the king’s palace.

In his eighteenth year Nabuchodonosor the king made a golden image, its height was sixty cubits, its breadth six cubits: and he set it up in the plain of Deira, in the province of Babylon. 2 And he sent forth to gather the governors, and the captains, and the heads of provinces, chiefs, and princes, and those who were in authority, and all the rulers of districts, to come to the dedication of the image. 3 So the heads of provinces, the governors, the captains, the chief, the great princes, those who were in authority, and all the rulers of districts, were gathered to the dedication of the image which king Nabuchodonosor had set up; and they stood before the image.

3 Then a herald cried aloud, To you it is commanded, ye peoples, tribes, and languages, 4 at what hour ye shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, and sackbut, and psaltery, and every kind of music, ye shall fall down and worship the golden image which king Nabuchodonosor has set up. And whosoever shall not fall down and worship, in the same hour he shall be cast into the burning fiery furnace. 5 And it came to pass when the nations heard the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, and sackbut, and psaltery, and all kinds of music, all the nations, tribes, and languages, fell down and worshipped the golden image which king Nabuchodonosor had set up.

6 Then came near certain Chaldeans, and accused the Jews to the king’s ear. 7 O king, live for ever. Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man who shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, and sackbut, and psaltery, and all kinds of music, shall not fall down and worship the golden image, he shall be cast into the burning fiery furnace. 8 There are certain Jews whom thou hast appointed over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, who have not obeyed thy decree, O king: they serve not thy gods, and worship not the golden image which thou hast set up.

9 Then Nabuchodonosor in wrath and anger commanded to bring Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago: and they were brought before the king. 10 And Nabuchodonosor answered and said to them, Is it true, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, that ye serve not my gods and worship not the golden image which I have made? 11 Now then if ye be ready, whencesoever ye shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, and sackbut, and psaltery, and harmony, and every kind of music, to fall down and worship the golden image which I have made; well: but if ye worship not, in the same hour ye shall be cast into the burning...
Then Nabuchodonosor was filled with wrath, and the form of his countenance was changed toward Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago: and he gave orders to heat the furnace seven times hotter, until it should burn to the uttermost. And he commanded mighty men to bind Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace. Then those men were bound with their coats, and caps, and hose, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace. Forasmuch as the king's word prevailed against them, and the furnace was very hot. Then these three men, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, fell bound into the midst of the burning furnace, and walked in the midst of the flame, singing praise to God, and blessing the Lord.

And Nabuchodonosor heard them singing praises, and he wondered, and rose up in haste, and said to his nobles, Did we not cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? and they said to the king, Yes, O king. And the king said, But I see four men loose, and walking in the midst of the fire, and there is no harm happened to them; and the appearance of the fourth is like the Son of God. Then Nabuchodonosor drew near to the door of the burning fiery furnace, and said, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, ye servants of the most high God, proceed forth, and come hither. So Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago came forth out of the midst of the fire. Then were assembled the satraps, and captains, and heads of provinces, and the royal princes; and they saw the men, and perceived that the fire had not had power against their bodies, and the hair of their head was not burnt, and their coats were not scorched, nor was the smell of fire upon them.

And king Nabuchodonosor answered and said, Blessed be the God of Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, who has sent his angel, and delivered his servants, because they trusted in him; and they have changed the king's word, and delivered their bodies to be burnt, that they might not serve nor worship any god, except their own God.

Wherefore I publish a decree: Every people, tribe, or language, that shall speak reproachfully against the God of Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, shall be destroyed, and their houses shall be plundered; because there is no other god able to deliver thus. Then the king promoted Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, in the province of Babylon, and advanced to the prison of the king's daughter.

was amazed about one hour, and his thoughts troubled him. And Baltasar answered and said, My Lord, let the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation of it to thine enemies. 17 The tree which thou sawest, that grew large and strong, whose height reached to the sky and its extent to all the earth; and whose leaves were flourishing, and its fruit abundant, (and it was meat for all; under it the wild beasts lodged, and the birds of the sky took shelter in its branches:) is thysely, O king; for thou art grown great and powerful, and thy greatness has increased and reached to heaven, and thy dominion to the ends of the earth. 18 And whereas the king saw a watcher and a holy one coming down from heaven, and he said, Strip the tree, and destroy it; only leave the stump of its roots in the ground, and bind it with a band of iron and brass; and it shall lie in the grass that is without, and in the dew of heaven, and its portion shall be with wild beasts, until seven times have passed over it; this is the interpretation of it, O king, and it is a decree of the Most High, which has come upon my lord the king. 19 And they shall drive thee forth from men, and thy dwelling shall be with wild beasts, and they shall feed thee with grass as an ox, and thou shalt have thy lodging under the dew of heaven, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou know that the Most High is Lord of the kingdom of men, and will give it to whom he shall please. 20 And whereas they said, Leave the stumps of the roots of the tree; thy kingdom abides sure to thee from the time that thou shalt know the power of the heavens. 21 Therefore, O king, let my counsel please thee, and, and for thy sins by alms, and thine iniquities by compassion on the poor: it may be God will be long-suffering to thy trespasses.

22 All these things came upon king Nabuchodonosor. 23 After a twelvemonth, as he walked in his palace in Babylon, the king answered and said, Is not this great Babylon, which I have built for a royal residence, by the might of my power, for the honour of my glory? 24 While the word was yet in the king's mouth, there came a voice from heaven, saying, To thee, king Nabuchodonosor, say, The kingdom has departed from thee.

25 And they shall drive thee forth from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the wild beasts of the field, and they shall feed thee with grass as an ox: and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou know that the Most High is Lord of the kingdom of men, and he will give it to whomsoever he shall please.

26 In the same hour the word was fulfilled upon Nabuchodonosor: and he was driven forth from men, and he ate grass as an ox, and his body was bathed with the dew of heaven, until his hairs were grown like lions' hair, and his nails as birds' claws. 27 And at the end of the time I Nabuchodonosor lifted up mine eyes to heaven, and my reason returned to me, and I blessed the Most High, and praised him that lives for ever, and gave him glory; for his dominion sense and understanding are in him, interpreting dreams as he does, and answering hard questions, and solving difficulties: it is Daniel, and the king gave him the name of Baltasar: now then let him be called, and he shall tell thee the interpretation of the writing.

18 Then Daniel was brought in before the king: and the king said to Daniel, Art thou Daniel, of the children of the captivity of Judah, which the king my father brought? 19 I have heard concerning thee, that the Spirit of God is in thee, and that watchfulness and understanding and excellent wisdom have been found in thee. 20 And now the wise men, magicians, and soothsayers have come in before me, to read the writing, and make known to me the interpretation: but they could not tell it me. 21 And I have heard concerning thee, that thou art able to make interpretations: now then if thou shalt be able to read the writing, and to make known to me the interpretation of it, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and there shall be a golden chain upon thy neck, and thou shalt be third ruler in my kingdom.

17 And Daniel said before the king, Let thy gifts be to thyself, and give the present of thine house to another; but I will read the writing, and will make known to thee the interpretation of it. 18 O king, the most high God gave to thy father Nabuchodonosor a kingdom, and majesty, and honour, and glory: and by reason of the majesty which he gave to him, all nations, tribes and languages trembled and feared before him: whom he would he slew; and whom he would he smote; and whom he would he exalted; and whom he would he abased. 19 But when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit was emboldened to act proudly, he was deposed from his royal throne, and his honour was taken from him. 20 And he was driven forth from men; and his heart was given him after the nature of wild beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses; and they fed him with grass as an ox, and his body was bathed with the dew of heaven; until he knew that the most high God is Lord of the kingdom of men, and will give it to whomsoever he shall please.

22 And thou accordingly, his son, O Baltasar, hast not humbled thine heart before God: knowest thou not all this? 23 And thou hast been exalted against the Lord God of heaven: and they have brought before thee the vessels of his house, and thou, and thy nobles, and thy mistresses, and thy concubines, have drunk wine out of them; and thou hast praised the gods of gold, and silver, and brass, and iron, and wood, and stone, which see not, and which hear not, and which know not; and the God in whose hand are thy breath and all thy ways hast thou not troubled. 24 Therefore has thy presence been sent forth the knee of a hand; and he has ordered this writing.

25 And this is the ordered writing, Mane, Thenel, Phares. 26 This is the interpretation of the sentence: Mane; God has measured thy kingdom, and finished it. 27 Thenel;
it has been weighed in the balance, and found wanting. But Phares; thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians.

Then Baltasar commanded, and they clothed Daniel with scarlet, and put the golden chain about his neck, and proclaimed concerning him that he was the third ruler in the kingdom. In the same night was Baltasar the Chaldean king slain. And Darius the Medes succeeded to the kingdom, being sixty-two years old.

And it pleased Darius, and he set over the kingdom a hundred and twenty satraps, to be in all his kingdom; and over them three governors, of whom one was Daniel; for the satraps to give account to them, that the king should not be troubled. And Daniel was over them, for there was an excellent spirit in him; and the king set him over all his kingdom.

Then the governors and satraps sought to find occasion against Daniel; but they found against him no occasion, nor trespass, nor error, because he was faithful. And the governors said, We shall not find occasion against Daniel, except in the ordinances of his God.

Then the governors and satraps stood by the king, and said to him, King Darius, live for ever. All who preside over thy kingdom, captains and satraps, chiefs and local governors, have taken counsel together, to establish by a royal statute and to confirm a decree, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. Now then, O king, establish the decree, and publish a writ, that the decree of the Persians and Medes be not changed. Then king Darius commanded the decree to be written.

And when Daniel knew that the decree was ordered, he went into his house; and his windows were opened in his upper chambers toward Jerusalem, and three times in the day he knelt upon his knees, and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as he used to do before.

Then these men watched, and found Daniel praying and supplicating to his God. And they came and said to the king, O king, hast thou not made a decree, that whatsoever man shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, but of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? And the king said, The word is true, and the decree of the Medes and Persians shall not pass. Then they answered and said before the king, Daniel, the children of the captivity of Judah, has not submitted to thy decree; and three times in the day the king makes his requests of his God. Then the king, when he heard the saying, was much grieved for Daniel, and he greatly exerted himself for Daniel to deliver him: and he exerted himself till evening to deliver him.
Then those men said to the king, Know, O king, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that we must not change any decree or statute which the king shall make. Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. But the king said to Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee, or hath he not sent thee his angel, and brought thee out of the lion's mouth? And Daniel said to the king, O king, live for ever. My God hath sent his angel, and stopped the lions' mouths, and they have not hurt me: for uprightness was found in me before him; and before him was there the lion's mouth. Then the king was very glad for him, and he commanded to bring Daniel out of the den. So Daniel was brought out of the den, and there was found no hurt upon him, because he believed in his God.

And the king commanded, and they brought the men that had accused Daniel, and they were cast into the den of lions, they, and their children, and their wives: and they reached not the bottom of the den before the lions had the mastery of them, and utterly broke to pieces all their bones.

Then king Darius wrote to all nations, tribes, and languages, who dwell in all the earth, saying, Peace be multiplied to you. This decree has been set forth by me in every dominion of my kingdom, that men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel: for he is the living and eternal God, and his kingdom shall not be destroyed, and his dominion is for ever. He helps and delivers, and works signs and wonders in the heaven and on the earth, who has rescued Daniel from the power of the lions. And Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius, and in the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

In the first year of Baltasar king of the Chaldeans Daniel had a dream, and visions of his head upon his bed: and he wrote his dream.

I beheld, and, lo, the four winds of heaven blew violently upon the great sea. And there came up four great beasts out of the sea, differing from one another. The first was as a lioness, and her wings as an eagle's: I beheld until her wings were plucked, and she was lifted off from the 9 These were the heads of the four beasts: for the first beast was like a lion, and the second was like a calf; and the third had a face as a man, and the fourth was like a flying eagle.

10 And the second Beast gave him power to speak like a man; and to cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed.

11 And he caused him to open his mouth to speak against the Lord, and against his Christ, saying, I will make his head to perish, and his kingdom shall not be of long duration.

12 As I was watching in the night visions, and seeing, lo, one coming with the clouds of heaven, and he came near and spoke with me, and said, Lo, I am to make thy head great, and to give thee dominion over all the nations of the earth.

13 And to the one that is mighty to give, and to take, and to kill, and to set, and to destroy, and to give it to whom he will, and to divide to every one the inheritance of kingdoms, and to give the land of the Kings to whom it shall please him.

14 And after this I looked, and, behold, there was a great Feast made; and another Feast like the former, and the latter Feast greater than the former.

15 And it went forth from the Feast, and stood before me; and said, Art thou ready for the Kingdom of the Most High?

16 And I answered, and said, Yes, I am ready; and he took me, and brought me to the voice of the Spirit of Life.

Hitherto is the end of the matter. As for me Daniel, my thoughts greatly troubled me, and my countenance was changed:
but I kept the secret in my heart.

In the third year of the reign of king Baltasar a vision appeared to me, even to me Daniel, after that which appeared to me at the first. 3 And I was in Susa the palace, which is in the land of ÍElam, and I was on the bank of Ubal. 3 And I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and beheld, a ram standing in front of the Ubal; and he had high horns; and one was higher than the other, and the high one came up last. 3 And I saw the ram butting westward, and northward, and southward; and no beast could stand before him, and there was none that could deliver out of his hand; and he did according to his will, and became great.

And I was considering, and, behold, a he-goat stood in the south-west on the face of the whole earth, and touched not the earth: and the goat had a Íhorn between his eyes. 3 And he came to the ram that had the horns, which I had seen standing in front of the Ubal, and he ran at him with the violence of his strength. 3 And I saw him coming up close to the ram, and he was furiously enraged against him, and he smote the ram, and broke both his horns:
and there was no strength in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him on the ground, and trampled on him; and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

And the he-goat grew exceedingly great:
and when he was strong, his great horn was broken; and four other horns rose up in its place toward the four winds of heaven.
And out of one of them came forth one strong horn, and it grew very great toward the south, and toward the host; and it magnified itself to the host of heaven; and there fell to the earth some of the host of heaven and of the stars, and they trampled on them. 11 And this shall be until the chief captain shall have delivered the captivity: and by reason of him the sacrifice was disturbed, and he prospered; and the holy place shall be made desolate. 12 And a sin-offering was given for the sacrifice, and righteousness was cast down to the ground; and 13 It was said and the Lord prospered. 14 And I heard one saint speaking, and a saint said to another, a certain one speaking, How long shall the vision 15 continue, even the removal of the sacrifice, and the bringing in of the sin of desolation; and how long shall the sanctuary and host be trampled? 16 And he said to him, Evening and morning there shall be two thousand and four hundred days; and then the sanctuary shall be cleansed.

15 And it came to pass, as I, even I Daniel, saw the vision, and sought to understand it, that, behold, there stood before me as the appearance of a man. 16 And I heard the voice of a man between the banks of the Ulai; and he called, and said, Gabriel, cause that man to understand the vision. 17 And he came and stood near where I stood: and when he came, I was struck with grief, and fell upon my face: but he said to me, Understand, son of man: for yet the vision is for an appointed time. 18 And while he spoke with me, I fell upon my face to the ground; and he touched me, and set me on my feet. 19 And he said, Behold, I make thee know the things that shall come to pass at the end of the wrath: for the vision is yet for an appointed time.

19 The ram which thou sawest that had the horns is the king of the Medes and Persians. 20 The he goat is the king of the Greeks; and the great horn which was between his eyes, he is the first king. 21 And as for the one that was broken, in whose place there stood up four horns, four kings shall arise out of his nation, but not in their own strength. 22 And at the latter time of their kingdom, when their sins are come to be full, then shall arise a king bold in heart; and he shall deal with the princes of rule. 23 And with the king shall deal he against the saints of the Most High, and some of the saints shall he purify, and purify him to set up the horn of his kingdom; and he shall purify himself with a purifying with the holy ones. 24 And the king shall make a covenant with the many for one week: and in the week he shall cause the offering and the sacrifice to cease; and for the understanding of many shall he cause to pass away perfect knowledge: and the prince of transgression shall come, and none shall understand; until the indignation come to an end, and for the understanding of many shall they be given.

16 And the he goat shall come with horns; and his horns shall be of divers colours, and shall stand up for a time, and in time of trouble: for the vision is yet for an appointed time. 2 And I understood by the vision, and understood: and said, My lord, what shall be the end of the vision? 3 And he said, With a deep sigh shall he come into the realm of the kings. 4 And shall break them by the strong and by the holy to scatter the land among the sons of the Chaldeans. 5 And the he goat shall come with horns; and his horns shall be of divers colours, and shall stand up for a time, and in time of trouble: for the vision is yet for an appointed time. 6 And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the week he shall cause the offering and the sacrifice to cease; and for the understanding of many shall they be given. 7 And he shall look afterward on the strong, and they shall not hold him: and they shall not deliver him out of his hand, but shall destroy him: and none shall understand. 8 And the strong whom he shall confirm in his stead shall come with a strong mind, and do as he will: and none shall deliver him. 9 And he shall stand up against the Prince of princes: but he shall be broken without hand. 10 And in the time of the end the king shall be cut out of the midst of the land: and with the strong shall stand up the prince; but he shall be broken without hand. 11 And the rest of the people shall be taken with the strong: and their knowledge shall be of the prince of princes; and from his knowledge shall he be taken, and shall return to his own place: then shall the strong know that the Most High ruleth in the realm of men, and giveth it to whomever he will, and setteth up over it as he desireth. 12 And now I Daniel heard a vision long after these things: and I understood the vision, and understood: and I said, My lord, what shall be the end of the vision? 13 And he said, Go your way, Daniel: for the vision is yet for an appointed time. 14 Stand therefore upon the land of the Chaldeans; and the vision shall be fulfilled. 15 Now I Daniel heard a vision, and understood: and, behold, one like the son of man came unto me, and he dwelt upon the ground. 16 And he said, Daniel, a heavy word is this; canst thou understand it? And I understood the word, and knew the things which were to come. 17 And he spake unto me, and said, Son of man, the vision of the visions is come. 18 And he said, This is the word of the vision: and I said, My lord, what shall be the end of the vision? 19 Then said he, Son of man, unto whom shall it come to pass? And he said, unto the holy ones of the land. 20 And they shall be those that shall understand, and they shall be grieved, and shall be amazed, and shall be consolation together: and the vision shall be to them for an token. 21 And thou, Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book until the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased. 22 And, lo, I come to cast off the covering from off many nations; and the King of kings shall come, and all nations shall be taught by him. 23 And many of them of Israel shall be taught, and they shall destroy the word of the Lord, and shall come to understand the vision. 24 And he said, Son of man, the vision of visions is come. And he said, My lord, what shall be the end of the vision? 25 And he said, Son of man, canst thou see? And I said, Yes, my lord. 26 And he said, As I live, saith the Lord God, surely it shall be according to thy word. 27 And I spake and said, Lo, what a thing! And he spake, and said, It is done: fear not. 28 And he said, Son of man, are not these also a word in thy mouth? And I said, Yes, my lord. 29 And he said, As I live, saith the Lord God, surely it shall be according to thy word. 30 And he said, This vision is gone unto thee, that thou mayest see and hear. 31 And he spake and said, Lo, what a thing! And I answered him, Yes, my lord. 32 And he said, It is done: fear not. And he said, Lo, this thing is gone unto thee, that thou mayest see and hear.
And I set my face toward the Lord God, to seek him diligently by prayer and supplications, with fasting and sackcloth. And I prayed to the Lord my God, and confessed, O Lord, the great and wonderful God, keeping thy covenant and thy mercy to them that love thee, and to them that keep thy commandments; we have sinned, we have done iniquity, we have transgressed, and have departed and turned aside from thy commandments and from thy judgments; and we have not hearkened to thy servants the prophets, who spoke in thy name to our kings, and to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land. To thee, O Lord, belongeth righteousness, and to us confusion of face, as at this day; to the men of Judah, and to the dwellers in Jerusalem, and to all Israel, to them that are near, and to them that are far off in all the earth, wherever thou hast scattered them, for the sin which they committed.

In thee, O Lord, is our righteousness, and to us belongeth confusion of face, and to our kings, and to our fathers, for we have sinned against thee.

To the Lord our God, belongeth compassion and forgiveness, whereas we have departed from thee; neither have we hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by the hand of his servants the prophets.

Moreover all Israel have transgressed thy law, and have refused to hearken to thy voice; so the curse hath come upon us, and the oath that is written in the law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him. And he has confirmed his words, which he spoke against us, and against our judges who judged us, by bringing upon us great evils, such as have not happened under the whole heaven, according to all that hath happened in Jerusalem.

As it is written in the law of Moses, all these evils have come upon us: yet we have not besought the Lord our God, that we might turn away from our iniquities, and have understanding in all thy truth. The Lord also has watched, and brought the evils upon us: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his work which he has executed, but we have not hearkened to his voice. And now, O Lord our God, who broughtest thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and madest to thyself a name, as at this day; we have sinned, we have transgressed.

And I pray thereto hath turned away, and thinkest against thee of thy holy mountain: for we have sinned, and because of our iniquities, and those of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are become a reproach among all that are round about us. And now, O Lord our God, hearken to the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine on this desolate sanctuary, for thine own sake, O Lord.

Incline thine ear, O my God, and hear; open thine eyes and behold our desolation for the accomplishment of the desolation of Jerusalem.

19 And while I was yet speaking, and praying, and confessing my sins and the sins of my people Israel, and bringing mypitiful case before the Lord my God concerning the desolation of this house, and the; 20 And I was yet speaking in prayer, behold, the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, came flying, and he touched me about the hour of the evening sacrifice. 21 And he instructed me, and spoke with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth to impart to thee understanding. 22 At the beginning of thy supplication the word came forth, and I am come to tell thee: for thou art a man much beloved: therefore consider the matter, and understand the vision. 23 Seventy weeks have been determined upon thy people, and upon the holy city, for to sin to be ended, and to seal up transgressions, and to blot out the iniquities, and to make atonement for iniquities, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the Most Holy. 24 And thou shalt know and understand, that from the going forth of the command for the answer and for the building of Jerusalem until Christ the prince shall be seven weeks, and sixty-two weeks: and then the time shall return, and the street shall be built, and the wall, and the times shall be exhausted. 25 And after the sixty-two weeks, the anointed one shall be destroyed, and there is no judgment in him: and he shall destroy the city and the sanctuary with the prince that is coming: they shall be cut off with a flood, and to the end of the war which is rapidly completed he shall appoint the city to desolations. 26 And one week shall establish the covenant with many: and in the midst of the week my sacrifice and drink-offering shall be taken away: and on the temple shall be the abomination of desolations; and at the end of the time an end shall be put to the desolation. 27 In the third year of Cyrus king of the Persians a thing was revealed to Daniel whose name was called Beltesar: and the thing was true, and great power and understanding in the vision was given to him. 28 In those days I Daniel was mourning three full weeks. 29 I ate no pleasant bread, and no flesh or wine entered into my mouth, neither did I anoint myself with oil, until three full weeks were accomplished. 30 On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, I was near the great river, which is Tigris Eddekel. 31 And I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and beheld a man clothed in linen, and his loins were girt with gold of Ophaz: and his body was as Tharsis, and his face was as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his legs as the appearance of shining brass, and the voice of his words as the voice of a multitude. And I Daniel only saw the vision: and the men that were with me saw not the vision: but a great commotion fell upon them, and they fled in fear. So I was left alone, and saw this great vision, and there was no strength left in me, and my glory was turned into corruption, and I remained no strength. Yet I heard the voice of his words: and when I heard him I was pricked in the heart, and I fell with my face to the earth.

10 And, behold, a hand touched me, and it raised me on my knees. And he said to me, O Daniel, man greatly beloved, understand the words which I speak to thee, and stand upright: for I am now sent to thee. And when he had spoken to me this word, I stood trembling. And he said to me, Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, to afflict thyself before the Lord thy God, thy words were heard, and I am come because of thy words. But the prince of the kingdom of the Persians withstood me twenty-one days: and behold, Michael, one of the princes, came to help me; and I left him there with the chief of the kingdom of the Persians: and I have come to inform thee of all that shall befall thy people in the last days, for the vision is yet for many days. And when he had spoken to me according to these words, I turned my face to the ground, and was pricked in the heart.

16 And, behold, as it were the likeness of a son of man touched my lips; and I opened my mouth, and spoke, and said to him that stood before me, O my lord, at the sight of thee my bowels were turned within me, and I had no strength. And how shall thy servant be able, O my lord, to speak with this my lord? and as for me, from henceforth strength will not remain in me, and there is no breath left in me. And there touched me again as it were the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, and said to me, Fear not, man greatly beloved: peace be to thee, quit thyself like a man, and be strong. And when he had spoken with me, I received strength, and said, Let my lord speak; for thou hast strengthened me.

19 And he said, Knowest thou, wherefore I am come to thee? and now I will return to fight with the prince of the Persians: and I was going in, and the prince of the Greeks came. But I will tell thee that which is ordained in the scripture of truth: and there is no one that holds with me in these matters but Michael, your prince. And I in the first year of Cyrus stood to strengthen and confirm him.

And now I will tell the truth. Behold, there shall yet rise up three kings in Persia: and the fourth shall be very far richer than all: and after that he is master of his wealth, he shall rise up against all the kingdoms of the Greeks.
3 And there shall rise up a mighty king, and he shall be lord of a great empire, and shall do according to his will.

4 And when his kingdom shall stand up, it shall be broken, and shall be divided to the four winds of heaven; but not to his posterity, nor according to his dominion which he ruled over: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, and given to others beside these.

5 And the king of the south shall be strong; and one of their princes shall prevail against him, and shall obtain a great dominion.

6 And after his years they shall associate; and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north, to make agreements with him: but she shall not retain power of arm; neither shall his seed stand: and she shall be delivered up, and they that brought her, and the maidens, and he that strengthened her in these times.

7 But out of the flower of her root there shall arise one unto his own kingdom, and shall come against the host, and shall enter into the strongholds of the king of the north; and shall fight against them, and prevail. Yea, he shall come into the lands of the南北, and shall divide a body of men, and shall enter into the land of Egypt, their gods with their molten images, and all their precious vessels of silver and gold; and he shall last longer than the king of the north. And he shall enter into the kingdom of the king of the south, and shall return to his own land.

8 And his sons shall gather a multitude among many: and one shall certainly come, and overflow, and pass through, and he shall stand: and he shall give his strength in his arm, and all mankind shall fall.
and cause princes to cease from their reproach: nevertheless his own reproach shall return to him. 21 Then shall he turn back his face to the stronghold, and his royal majesty shall come to an end, and he shall be weak, and fall, and not be found.
22 And there shall arise out of his root one that shall cause a plant of the kingdom to pass over his place, earning kingly glory: and yet in those days shall he be broken, yet not formally, nor in war.
23 One shall stand on his place, who has been set at nought, and they have not put upon him the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in prosperously, and obtain the kingdom by deceitful ways. 24 And the arms of him that overflows shall be washed away as with a flood from before him, and shall be broken, and so shall be the head of the covenant. 25 And because of the leagues made with him shall he work deceit: and he shall come up, and overpower them with a small nation. 26 And he shall enter with prosperity, and that into fertile districts; and he shall do what his fathers and his fathers' fathers have not done; he shall scatter among them the goods and spoil, and wealth; and he shall devise plans against Egypt, even for a time. 27 And his strength and his heart shall be stirred up against the king of the south with a great force; and the king of the south shall engage in war with a very great and strong force; but his forces shall not stand, for they shall devise plans against him: 28 and they shall eat his provisions, and shall crush him, and he shall carry away armies as with a flood, and many shall fall down slain.
29 And as for both the kings, their hearts are set upon mischief, and they shall speak lies at one table; but it shall not prosper:
for yet the end is for a fixed time. 30 For the Citizens issuing forth shall come against him, and he shall be brought low, and shall return, and shall be incensed against the holy covenant:
and he shall do thus, and shall return, and have intelligence with them that have forsaken the holy covenant.
31 And ye seeds shall spring up out of him, and they shall profane the sanctuary of strength, and they shall remove the perpetual sacrifice, and make the abomination desolate.
32 And the transgressors shall bring about a covenant by deceitful ways: but a people knowing their God shall prevail, and do valiantly. 33 And the intelligent of the people shall understand much: yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, and by captivity, and by spoil of many days.
34 And when they are weak they shall be helped with a little help: but many shall attach themselves to them with treachery.
35 And some of them that understand shall fall, to try them as with fire, and to test them, and that they may be manifested at the time of the end, for the matter is yet for a set time.

And he shall do according to his will, and the king shall 9 exalt and magnify himself against every god, and shall speak great swelling words, and shall prosper until the indignation of him shall come: for that which is given shall be given him.

And he shall not regard any gods of his fathers, nor the 10 desire of women, neither shall he regard any deity: for he shall magnify himself above all.

And he shall honour the god of his forces on his place: and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and precious stones, and desirable things.

And he shall do in the strong places of refuge with a strange god, and shall increase his glory: and he shall subject many to them, and shall distribute the land in gifts.

And at the end of the time he shall conflict with the king of the south: and the king of the north shall come against him, with chariots, and with horsemen, and with many ships: and he shall enter into the land: and he shall break in pieces, and pass on: and he shall enter into the land of the beauty, and many shall fail: but these shall escape out of his hand, Edom, and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

And he shall stretch forth his hand over the land; and the land of Egypt shall not escape. And he shall have the mastery over the secret treasures of gold and silver, and over all the desirable possessions of Egypt, and of the Libyans and Ethiopians in their strongholds. But rumours and anxieties out of the east and from the north shall trouble him: and he shall come with great wrath to destroy many.

And he shall pitch the tabernacle of his palace between the seas in the holy mountain of beauty: but he shall come to his portion, and there is none to deliver him.

And at that time Michael the great prince shall stand up, that stands over the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of tribulation, such tribulation as has not been from the time that there was a nation to the earth until that time: at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that is written in the book. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to reproach and everlasting shame. And the wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and some of the many righteous as the stars 4 ever and ever.

And thou, Daniel, close the words, and seal the book to the time of the end: until many are taught, and knowledge is increased.

And I Daniel saw, and, behold, two others stood, one on one side of the bank of the river, and the other on the other side of the bank of the river. And one said to the man clothed in linen, who was over the water of the river, 5 When will be the end of the wonders which thou hast mentioned? And I heard the man clothed in linen, who was over the water of the river, and he lifted up his right hand and his left hand to heaven, and swear by him that lives for ever, that it should be for a time of times and half time: when the dispersion is ended, they shall know all these things.

8 And I heard, but I understood not; and I said, O Lord, what will be the end of these things? 9 And he said, Go, Daniel: for the words are closed and sealed up to the time of the end. 10 Many must be tried, and thoroughly whitened, and tried with fire, and sanctified; but the transgressors shall transgress: and none of the transgressors shall understand; but the wise shall understand. 11 And from the time of the removal of the perpetual sacrifice, when the abomination of desolation shall be set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days. 12 Blessed is he that waits, and comes to the thousand three hundred and thirty-five days. 13 But go thou, and rest; for these are yet days and seasons to the fulfilment of the end; and thou shalt stand in thy lot at the end of the days.

The word of the Lord which came to Osee the son of Beeri, in the days of Oziyas, and Joatham, and Achaz, and Ezekias, kings of Juda, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Josaphat, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the word of the Lord by Osee. And the Lord said to Osee, Go, take to thyself a wife of fornication, and children of fornication: for the land will generally go a-whoring in departing from the Lord.

3 So he went and took Gomer, daughter of Debelaim; and she conceived, and bore him a son. 4 And the Lord said to him, Call his name Jezrael; for yet a little while, and I will avenge the blood of Jezrael on the house of Juda, and will make to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel. 5 And it shall be, in that day, that I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezrael.

6 And she conceived again, and bore a daughter. And he said to him, Call her

And for her; and they will not have mercy: for I will no more have mercy on the house of Israel, but will surely set myself in array against them. 7 But I will have mercy on the house of Juda, and will save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them with bow, nor with sword, nor by war, nor by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 And she weaned Unpityed; and she conceived again, and bore a son. 9 And he said, Call his name, Not my people: for ye are not my people, and I am not your God. 10 Yet the number of the children of Israel was as the sand of the sea, and could not be measured nor numbered; 11 and it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said to them, Ye are not my people, even they shall be called the sons of the living God. 12 And the children of Juda shall be gathered, and the children of Israel together, and shall appoint themselves one head, and shall come up out of the land; for great shall be the day of Jezrael.

Say to your brother, My people, and to your sister, Pitied. 2 Plead with your mother, plead: for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband: and I will remove her fornication out of my presence, and her adulteries from before her breasts: 3 that I may strip her naked, and make her again as she was at the day of her birth: and I will make her desolate, and make her as a dry land, and will kill her with thirst: 4 And I will will not have mercy upon her children: for they are children of fornication. 5 And their mother went a-whoring: that she bore them disgraced: for she said, I will go after my lovers, that give me my bread and my water, and my garments, and my linen clothes, my oil and all my necessaries.

Therefore, behold, I hedge up her way with thorns, and will stop the ways, and she shall not find her path. 7 And she shall follow after her lovers, and shall not overtake them; and she shall seek them, but shall not find them; 8 and she shall say, I will go, and return to my former husband; for it was better with me than now.

And she knew not that I gave her her corn, and wine, and oil, and multiplied silver to her; but she made silver and gold images for Baal. 9 Therefore I will return, and take away my corn in its season, and my wine in its time; and I will take away my raiment and my linen clothes, so that she shall not cover her nakedness. 10 And now I will expose her uncleanness before her lovers, and no one shall deliver her out of my hand. 11 And I will take away all her gladness, her feasts, and her festivals at the new moon, and her sabbaths, and all her solemn assemblies. 12 And I will utterly destroy her vines, and her fig-trees, all things of which she said, These are my hire which my lovers have given me: and I will make them a testimony, and the wild beasts of the field, and the reptiles of the earth shall devour them. 13 And I will recompense on her the days of Baalim, wherein she sacrificed to them, and put on her ear-rings, and her necklaces, went after her lovers, and forgot me, saith the Lord.

13 Therefore, behold, I will cause her to err, and will make her as desolate, and will speak comfortably to her. 14 And I will give her her possessions from thence, and the valley of Achor to open her understanding: and she shall be afflicted there according to the days of her infancy, and according to the days of her coming up out of the land of Egypt.

15 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord, that she shall call me, My husband, and shall no longer call me Baalim.

16 And I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and her names shall be remembered no more at all. 17 And I will make for them in that day a covenant with the wild beasts of the field, and with the birds of the sky, and with the reptiles of the earth: and I will break the bow and the sword and the battle from off the earth, and will cause thee to dwell safely. 18 And I will betroth thee to myself for ever; yea, I will betroth thee to myself in righteousness, and in judgment, and in tender compassion, and in mercies, and in tender compassion: and thou shalt know the Lord.

19 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord, I will hearken to the heathen, and it shall hearken to the earth; 20 and the earth shall hearken to the corn, and to the wine, and to the oil; and they shall hearken to Jezreel. 21 And I will sow her to me on the earth; and will love her that was not loved, and will say to that which was not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, Thou art the Lord my God.

And the Lord said to me, Go yet, and love a woman that loves evil things, and an adulteress, even as the Lord loves the children of Israel, and they have respect to strange gods, and love cakes of dried grapes. 2 So I hired her to myself for pieces of silver, and a homer of barley, and a flagon of wine. 3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt wait for me many days; and thou shalt not commit fornication, neither shall thou be for another man; and I will be for the children of Israel: for the Lord has a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land. 4 Cursing, and lying, and murder, and theft, and adulteries abound in the land, and they mingle blood with blood. 5 Therefore shall the land mourn, and be diminished with all that dwell in it, with the wild beasts of the field, and the reptiles of the earth, and with the birds of the sky, and the fish of the sea shall fail: that neither any one may plead, nor any one reprove another: but my people are as a priest spoken against. Therefore they shall fall by day, and the prophet with thee shall fall: I have compared thy mother unto night.

My people are like as if they had no knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt not minister as priest to me: and as thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I also will forget thy children. According to their multitude, so they sinned against me: I will turn their glory into shame. They will devour the sins of my people, and they will eat their iniquities. And the priest shall be as the people: and I will avenge on them their ways, and I will recompense them to their counsels. And they shall eat, and shall not be satisfied: they have gone a-whoring, and shall by no means prosper: because they have left off to take heed to the Lord.

The heart of my people is engaged in any common and strong drink. They asked counsel by means of signs, and they reported answer to them by their staves: they have gone astray in a spirit of whoredom, and gone grievously a-whoring from their God. They have sacrificed on the tops of the mountains, and on the hills they have sacrificed under the oak and poplar, and under the shady tree, because the shade was good: therefore your daughters shall go a-whoring, and your daughters-in-law shall commit adultery. And I will not visit upon your daughters when they shall commit fornication, nor your daughters-in-law when they shall commit adultery: for they themselves mingled themselves with harlots, and sacrificed with polluted ones, and the people that understood not entangled itself with a harlot.

But thou, Israel, be not ignorant, and go ye not, men of Juda, to Galala; and go not up to the house of On, and swear not by the living Lord. For Israel was maddened like a mad heifer: now the Lord will feed them as a lamb in a wide place. Ephraim, joined with idols, has laid stumbling-blocks in his own way. He has chosen the Chanaanites: they have grievously gone a-whoring: they have loved dishonour through her insolence. Thou art a blast of wind in her wings, and they shall be ashamed because of their altars.

Hear these things, ye priests: and attend, O house of Israel; and hearken, O house of the king; for the controversy is with you, because thou hast been a snare to her, and a gleaning, and a net spread on Itabrium, which they that hunt the prey have fixed: but I will correct you. I know Ephraim, and Israel is not far from me: for now Ephraim has gone grievously a-whoring, Israel is defiled. They have not framed their counsels to return to their God, for the spirit of fornication is in them, and they have not known the Lord.

And the pride of Israel shall be brought low before his face; and Israel and Ephraim... shall fall in their iniquities; and Judas also shall fall with them. 6 They shall go with sheep and calves diligently to seek the Lord; but they shall not find him, for he has withdrawn himself from them. 7 For they have forsaken the Lord; for strange children have been born to them: now shall the cankerworm devour them and their heritages.

8 Blow ye the trumpet on the hills, sound aloud on the heights: proclaim in the house of On, Benjamin is amazed. 9 Ephraim has come to nought in the days of reproof: in the tribes of Israel I have shown faithful dealings. 10 The princes of Judah become as they that removed the bounds: I will pour upon them my fury as water.

11 Ephraim altogether prevailed against his adversary, he trod judgment under foot, for he began to go after vanities. 12 Therefore I will be as consternation to Ephraim, and as a goad to the house of Juda. 13 And Ephraim saw his disease, and Juda his pain: then Ephraim went to the Assyrians, and sent ambassadors to king Jerim: but he could not heal you, and your pain shall in nowise cease from you. 14 Wherefore I am as a panther to Ephraim, and as a lion to the house of Juda: and I will tear, and go away; and I will take, and there shall none be to deliver.

15 I will go and return to my place, until they be brought to nought, and then shall they seek my face.

In their affliction they will seek me early, saying, Let us go, and return to the Lord our God; for he has torn, and will heal us; 2 he will smite, and bind us up. 3 After two days he will heal us: in the third day we shall arise, and live before him, and shall know him: 4 let us follow on to know the Lord: we shall find him ready as the morning, and he will come to us as the early and latter rain to the earth.

5 What shall I do unto thee, Ephraim? What shall I do to thee, Juda? whereas your mercy is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew which goes away. 6 Therefore have I mown down your prophets: and my judgment shall go forth as the light. 7 For I will have mercy rather than sacrifice, and the knowledge of God rather than whole-burnt-offerings. 8 But they are as a man transgressing a covenant: 9 there the city Galad despaired me, working vanity, troubling water. 10 And thy strength is that of a robber: the priests have hid the way, they have murdered the people of Sicion; for they have wrought iniquity in the house of Israel. 11 I have seen horrible things there, even the fornication of Ephraim: Israel and Juda are defiled. 12 begin to gather thy graces for thyself, when I turn the captivity of my people.

When I have healed Israel, then shall the iniquity of Ephraim be revealed, and the wickedness of Samaria; for they have wrought falsehood: and a thief shall come in to them, even a robber spoiling in his way; 13 that those may concern together as men singing in their heart: remember all their wickedness; now have their own counsels compassed them about; they came before my face. 3 They gladdened kings with their wickedness, and princes with their lies. 4 They are all adulterers, as an oven glowing with flame for hot-baking, on account of the kneading of the dough, until it is leavened. 5 In the days of our kings, the princes became to be inflamed with wine; he stretched out his hand with pestilent fellows. 6 Wherefore their hearts are inflamed as an oven, while they rage all the night: Ephraim is satisfied with sleep; the morning is come; he is burnt up as a flame of fire. 7 They are all heated like an oven, and have devoured their judges; all their kings are fallen: there was not among them one that called on me.

12. we have iniquities, and Juda has forsaken the Lord; for strange children have been born to them: now shall the cankerworm devour them and their heritages.

8 Ephraim is mixed among his people; Ephraim became a cake not turned. 9 Strangers devoured his strength, and he knew it not; and grey hairs came upon him, and he knew it not. 10 And the pride of Israel shall be brought down before his face: yet they have not returned to the Lord their God, neither have they diligently sought him for all this.

11 And Ephraim was as a silly dove, not having a heart: he called to Egypt, and they went to the Assyrians. 12 Whenever they shall go, I will cast my net upon them; I will bring them down as the birds of the sky, I will cast them with the rumour of their coming affliction.

13 Woe to them! for they have started aside from me: they are cowards; for they have sinned against me: yet I redeemed them, but they spoke falsehoods against me.

14 And their hearts did not cry to me, but they howled on their beds: they yawned for wine and wine. 15 They were instructed by me, and I strengthened their arms; and they devised evils against me. 16 They turned aside to that which is not, they became as a bent bow: their princes shall fall by the sword, by reason of the unbridled state of their tongue: this is their setting at nought in the land of Egypt.

He shall come into their midst as the land, as an eagle against the house of the Lord, because they have transgressed my covenant, and have sinned against my law.

2 They shall soon cry out to me, saying, O God, we know thee. 3 For Israel has turned away from good things; they have pursued an enemy. 4 They have made kings for themselves, but not by me; they have ruled, but they did not make it known to me: of their silver and their gold they have made images to themselves, that they might be destroyed.

5 Cast off thy calf, O Samaria; mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be unable to purge themselves in Israel? 6 Whereas the workman made it, and it is not God; wherefore thy calf, Samaria, was a deceiver: 7 for they sowed blighted seed, and their destruction shall await them, a sheaf of corn that awaits not to make meal; and even if it should produce it, strangers shall devour it. 8 Israel is swallowed up: now is he become among the nations as a worthless vessel. 9 For they have gone up to the Assyrians: Ephraim has been strengthened against himself; they loved gifts. Therefore all shall be delivered to the nations: now I will receive them, and they shall cease a little to anoint a king and princes.

Because Ephraim has multiplied altars, his beloved altars become sins to him. 11 I will write down a multitude of commands for him; but his statutes are accounted strange things, even the beloved altars. 12 For if they should offer a sacrifice, and eat flesh, the Lord will not accept them: now will he remember their iniquities, and will take vengeance on their sins: they have returned to Egypt, and they shall eat unclean things among the Assyrians. 13 And Israel has forgotten him that made him, and they have built y fanes, and Jeda has multiplied walled cities: but I will send fire on his cities, and it shall devour their foundations.

Rejoice not, O Israel, neither make merrv, as other nations: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God; thou hast loved gifts upon every threshing-floor. 2 The threshing-floor and wine-press knew them not, and the wine disappointed them. 3 They dwell not in the Lord's land: Ephraim dwelt in Egypt, and they shall eat unclean things among the Assyrians. 4 They have not offered wine to the Lord, neither have their sacrifices been sweet to him, but as the bread of mourning to them; all that eat them shall be defiled; for their bread for their soul shall not enter into the house of the Lord.

What will ye do in the day of the general assembly, and in the day of the feast of the Lord? Therefore, behold, they go forth from the trouble of Egypt, and Memphis shall receive them, and Memphis shall bury them: as for their silver, destruction shall inherit it; thorns shall be in their tents.

The days of vengeance are come, the days of thy recompense are come; and Israel shall be afflicted as the prophet that is mad, as a man deranged: by reason of the multitude of thine iniquities thy madness has abounded. 6 The watchman of Ephraim was with God: the prophet is a crooked snare in all his ways: they have established madness in the house of God. 7 They have corrupted themselves according to the days of the hill: he will remember their iniquities, he will take vengeance on their sins.

I found Israel as grapes in the wilderness, and I saw their fathers as an early watchman in a fig-tree: they went in to Beel-phegor, and were shamefully estranged, and the abominable became as the beloved. 11 Ephraim has flown away as a bird; their glories from the birth, and the travail, and the conception. 12 For even if they should rear their children, yet shall they be utterly bereaved: wherefore also there is woe to them, though their flesh is of them. 13 Ephraim, even as I saw, gave their children for a prey: yea, Ephraim was ready to bring out his children to slaughter.

The text is from the Greek Old Testament, specifically from the book of Hosea (Hosea 14:1-11). It is a passage that describes the relationship between Israel and God, emphasizing the need for repentance and righteousness. The passage discusses the sins of Israel, the rejection of God's ways, and the eventual restoration under a new king, Jeroboam. It also highlights the importance of seeking God's righteousness and using such fruits as an example to others.
Israel is a child, and I loved him, and out of Egypt have I called his children. 2 As I called them, so they departed from my presence: they sacrificed to Baalim, and burnt incense to graven images. 3 Yet I reserved the feet of Ephraim, I took him on my arm; but they knew not that I healed them. 4 Iulled and destroyed them with the bands of my love: and I will be to them as a man smiting another on his cheek: and I will have respect to him, I will prevail with him.

5 Ephraim dwelt in Egypt; and as for the Assyrian, he was his king, because he would not return. 6 And in his cities he prevailed not with the sword, and he ceased to war with his hands: and they shall eat of the fruit of their own devices: 7 and his people shall cleave fondly to their habitation; but God shall be angry with his precious things, and shall not at all exalt him.

8 How shall I deal with thee, Ephraim? how shall I protect thee, Israel? what shall I do with thee? 9 I will make thee as Adama, and as Seboim: my heart is turned at once, my repentance is powerfully excited. 10 I will not act according to the fury of my wrath, I will not abandon Ephraim to be utterly destroyed: for I am God, and not man; the Holy One within thee; and I will not enter into the city. 11 I will go after the Lord: he shall utter his voice as a lion: for he shall roar, and the children of the waters shall be amazed. 12 They shall be amazed and fly as a bird out of Egypt, and as a dove out of the land of the Assyrians, and I will restore them to their houses, saith the Lord.

12 Ephraim has compassed me with falsehood, and the house of Israel and Juda with ungodliness: but now God knows them, and they shall be called God's holy people.

But Ephraim is an evil spirit, he has chased the east wind all the day: he has multiplied empty and vain things, and made a covenant with the Assyrians, and oil has gone in the way of traffic into Egypt. 2 And the Lord has a controversy with Juda, in order to punish Jacob: according to his ways and according to his practices will he recompense him.

3 He took his brother by the heel in the womb, and in his labours he had power with God. 4 And he prevailed with the angel and was strong: they wept, and intreated me: they found me in the house of O, and there a word was spoken to them. 5 But the Lord God Almighty shall be his memorial. 6 Thou therefore shall return to thy God: keep thou mercy and judgment, and draw nigh to thy God continually.

7 As for Chanaan, in his hand is a balance of unrighteousness: he has loved to tyrannise. 8 And Ephraim said, Nevertheless I am rich, I have found refreshment to myself. None of his labours shall be found available to him, by reason of the sins which he has committed. 9 But I the Lord thy God brought thee up out of the land of Egypt: I will yet cause thee to dwell in...
tabernacles, according to the days of the feast. 10 And I will speak to the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and by the means of the prophets I was represented. 11 But if Galaad, when they sacrificed were false, and their altars were as heaps on the ground of the field.

And Jacob retreated into the plain of Syria, and Israel served for a wife, and waited for a wife. 2 And the Lord brought Israel out of the land of Egypt by a prophet, and by a prophet was he delivered. 3 Ephraim was angry and excited, therefore his blood shall be poured out upon him, and the Lord shall recompense to him his reproach.

According to the word of Ephraim he adopted ordinances for himself in Israel; and he established them for Baal, and died. 4 And now they have sinned increasingly, and have made for themselves a molten image of their silver, according to the fashion of idols, the work of artificers accomplished for them: they say, Sacrifice men, for the calves have come to an end. 5 Therefore shall they be as a morning cloud, and as the early dew that passes away, as chaff blown away from the threshing-floor, and as a vapour from the tempest. 6 But I am the Lord thy God that establishes the heaven, and creates the earth, whose hands have framed the whole host of heaven: but I shewed them not to thee that thou shouldst go after them: and I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and thou know not the Lord God but me; and there is no Saviour beside me. 7 I tended thee as a shepherd in the wilderness, in an uninhabited land. 8 According to their pastures, so they were completely filled; and their hearts were exalted; therefore they forgot me. 9 And I will be to them as a pantiler, and as a leopard. 10 I will meet them by the way of the Assyrians, as a she-bear excited, and I will rend the caul of their heart, and the lions' whelps of the thicket shall devour them there; the wild beasts of the field shall rend them in pieces.

O Israel, who will aid thee in thy destruction? 11 Where is this thy king? let him even save thee in all thy cities; let him judge thee, of whom thou saidst, Give me a king and a prince. 12 And I gave thee a king in mine anger, and kept him back in my wrath.

Ephraim has framed a conspiracy of unrighteousness, his sin is hidden. 13 Pains as of a woman in travail shall come upon him: he is thy wise son, because he shall not stay in the destruction of thy children. 14 I will deliver them out of the power of Hades, and will redeem them from death: where is thy penalty, O death? 15 O Hades, where is thy sting? comfort is hidden from mine eyes.

Forasmuch as he will cause a division among his brethren, the Lord shall bring upon him an east wind from the desert, and shall dry up his veins and quite drain his fountains: he shall dry up his land, and spoil all his precious vessels.
Samaria shall be utterly destroyed: for she has resisted her God; they shall fall by the sword, and their sucklings shall be dashed against the ground, and their women with child ripped up. 2 Return, O Israel, to the Lord thy God; for the people have fallen through thine iniquities. 3 Take with you words, and turn to the Lord your God: speak to him, that ye may not receive the reward of unrighteousness, but that ye may receive good things: and we will render in return the fruit of our lips. 4 Assur shall never save us: we will not mount on horseback; we will no longer say to the works of our hands, Our gods. He who is in thee shall pity the orphan.

5 I will restore their dwellings, I will love them truly: for he has turned away my wrath from him. 6 I will be as dew to Israel: he shall bloom as the lily, and cast forth his roots as Libanus. 7 His branches shall spread, and he shall be as a fruitful olive, and his smell shall be as the smell of Libanus. 8 They shall return, and dwell under his shadow: they shall live and be satisfied with corn, and he shall flower as a vine: his memorial shall be to Ephraim as the wine of Libanus. 9 What has he to do any more with idols? I have afflicted him, and I will strengthen him: I am as a leafy juniper tree. From me is thy fruit found.

10 Who is wise, and will understand these things? or prudent, and will know them? for the ways of the Lord are straight, and the righteous shall walk in them: but the ungodly shall fall therein.

The word of the Lord which came to Joel the son of Batheuel.

2 Hear these words, ye elders, and hearken all ye that inhabit the land. 3 Have such things happened in your days, or in the days of your fathers? 4 Tell your children concerning them, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation. 5 The leavings of the caterpillar has the locust eaten, and the leavings of the locust has the palmerworm eaten, and the leavings of the palmerworm has the cankerworm eaten.

6 Awake, ye drunkards, from your wine,

ΔΟΓΟΣ Kυρίου, ὡς ἐγενήθη ἀπ' Ἰωσὴλ ἐν τῷ Βασσούλη.

'Ακούσατε ταῦτα οἱ πρεσβυτεροί, καὶ ἐνοπτισθήτε πάντες 2 οἱ κατοικοῦντες τὴν γῆν, εἰ γέγονε τοιαῦτα ἐν ταῖς ἡμέραις ἡμῶν, ἢ ἐν ταῖς ἡμέραις τῶν πατέρων ἡμῶν; Ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν 3 τοῖς τέκνοις ἡμῶν διαγιγνάσθηκε, καὶ τὰ τέκνα ἡμῶν τοῖς τέκνοις αὐτῶν, καὶ τὰ τέκνα αὐτῶν εἰς γενέας ἐτέραν. Τὰ κατάλοιπα 4 τῆς κάμπης κατέβαγεν ἡ ἀκρις, καὶ τὰ κατάλοιπα τῆς ἀκριδος κατέβαγεν ὁ βροῦχος, καὶ τὰ κατάλοιπα τοῦ βροῦχος κατέβαγεν ἡ ἐρυθύβη.

'Εκοινήσατε οἱ μεθύσκετε ἢ ὦν αὐτῶν, καὶ κλαῖσατε 5 and weep: mourn, ye priests that serve at the altar of the Lord. 13 For the plains languish: let the land mourn, for the corn languishes; the wine is dried up, the oil becomes scarce; 14 the husbandmen are consumed: mourn your property on account of the wheat and barley: for the harvest has perished from off the field. 15 The vine is dried up, and the fig-trees are become few; the pomegranate, and palm-tree, and apple, and all the trees of the field are dried up: for the sons of men have abolished joy.

16 Gird yourselves with sackcloth, and lament, ye priests; and wail, ye ministers that serve at the altar: for the Shuffle is in sackcloth, ye that minister to God: for the meat-offering and drink-offering are withheld from the house of your God.

17 Sanctify a fast, proclaim a solemn service, gather the elders and all the inhabitants of the land into the house of your God, and cry earnestly to the Lord.

18 Alas, alas, alas for the day! for the day of the Lord is nigh, and it will come as trouble upon trouble. 19 Your meat has been destroyed before your eyes, joy and gladness from out of the house of your God. 20 The heifers have started at their mangers, the treasures are abolished, the wine-presses are broken down; for the corn is withered.

21 What shall we store up for ourselves? the herds of cattle have mourned, because they had no pasture; and the flocks of sheep have been utterly destroyed. 22 To thee, O Lord, I will cry, for fire has devoured the fair places of the wilderness, and a flame has burnt up all the trees of the field. 23 And the cattle of the field have looked up to thee: for the fountains of waters have been dried up, and fire has devoured the fair places of the wilderness.

Sound the trumpet in Sion, make a proclamation in my holy mountain, and let all the inhabitants of the land be confounded: for the day of the Lord is near; for a day of darkness and gloominess is near, a day of cloud and mist: a numerous and strong people shall be spread upon the mountains as the morning; there has not been from the beginning one like it, and after it there shall not be again even to the years of many generations.

Before them is a consuming fire, and behind them is a flame kindled: the land before them is as the sea, the paradise of delight, and behind them a desolate plain and there shall none of them escape.
Their appearance is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they pursue. As the sound of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, and as the sound of a flame of fire devouring stubble, and as a numerous and strong people setting themselves in array for battle. Before them shall the people be in great agitation: every face shall be as the blackness of a cloud. As warriors shall they run, and as men of war shall they mount on the walls; and each shall move in his right path, and they shall not turn aside from their tracks: and not one shall stand aloof from his brother: they shall go on weighed down with their arms, and they fall upon their weapons, yet shall they in no wise be destroyed. They shall seize upon the city, and run upon the walls, and go up upon the houses, and enter in through the windows as thieves. Before them the earth shall be confounded, and the sky shall be shaken: the sun and the moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall wither away. The Lord shall utter his voice before his host: for his camp is very great: for the execution of his words is mighty: for the day of the Lord is great, very glorious, and who shall be able to resist it?

Now therefore, saith the Lord your God, turn to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with lamentation: and rend your hearts, and not your garments, and turn to the Lord your God: for he is merciful and compassionate, long-suffering, and abounding in kindness and mercy, and repenting of evils. Who knows if he will return, and repent, and leave a blessing behind him, even a meat-offering and a drink-offering to the Lord your God?

Sound the trumpet in Sion, sanctify a fast, proclaim a solemn service: gather the people, sanctify the congregation, assemble the elders, gather the infants at the breast: let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet. Between the porch and the altar let the priests that minister to the Lord weep, and say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should rule over them, lest they should say among the heathen, Where is their God?

But the Lord was jealous of his land, and spared his people. And the Lord answered and said to his people, Behold, I will send you corn, and wine, and oil, and ye shall be satisfied with them: and I will no longer make you a reproach among the Gentiles. And I will chase away from you the northern adversary, and will drive him away into a dry land, and I will anoint his face in the former sea, and his back parts in the latter sea, and his bill shall savour shall come up, and his stickers shall come up, because he has wrought great things.

Be of good courage, O land; rejoice and be glad: for the Lord has done great things. Be of good courage, ye beasts of the plain, for the plains of the wilderness have budded, for the trees have borne their fruit, the figs...
23 And the grapes were as the fig tree, and all the vineyards as the field. The threshing floors were segregated in the streets of Jerusalem; for it was not the Lord of hosts who desired to destroy; but to cleanse the land from it, because of the wickedness of its inhabitants.

24 And now recompense to them, even as they have recompensed thee, city for city, field for field.

25 And leaven let them eat for the day of a festival, and blood for the rejoicing of a whole month, to appease the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, in Jerusalem, which ye have sold to the Gentiles, that ye might make the young men drunk, and make them drunk, and that ye might sleep now and then, that ye might be seized and taken away as spoil.

26 And I will cause a mourning like none before, for the light of the daughter of Jerusalem shall be taken away; and her feast day shall be sorrow, and her rejoicing turned into mourning.

27 And I will avenge them, and I will avenge them, and will ransom their land with their firstborn; for I will avenge them, and their wives shall be burned with fire, and their children shall perish from before me, and their wives shall be burned with fire.

28 And it shall be in that day, when I shall avenge them, I will say, I will make the remembrance of my people, and the remembrance of Jerusalem, and all the people that are in them, and the house of Israel, and the house of Judah, beheld them, when they were turned to me for their help in the times of trouble.

29 For the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea.

30 And they shall build the old waste places, and they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall renew the young wine, and they shall make the new wine abound.

31 And all the nations of the earth shall look upon Jerusalem, and shall say, What is this great city?

32 And it shall be, that in the day that the Lord shall return the captivity of Zion, and have compassion on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, I will cleanse their blood from mine eyes, and I will remember their iniquity no more.

The words of Amos which came to him in Accarim out of the cue, which he saw concerning Jerusalem, in the days of Ozias king of Juda, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joas king of Israel, two years before the earthquake.

And he said, The Lord has spoken out of Sion, and has uttered his voice out of Jerusalem; and the pastures of the shepherds have mourned, and the top of Carmel is dried up.

And the Lord said, For three sins of Damascus, and for four, I will not turn

16. Beat your ploughshares into swords, and your sickles into spears: let the weak say, I am strong. 11. Gather yourselves together, and go in, all ye nations round about, and gather yourselves there; let the y tidied become a warrior. 12. Let them be aroused, let all the nations go up to the valley of Josaphat: for there will I sit to judge all the Gentiles round about.

13. Bring forth the sickles, for the vintage is come: go in, tread the grapes, for the press is full: cause the vats to overflow; for their wickedness is multiplied. 14. Noises have sounded in the valley of judgment: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of judgment. 15. The sun and the moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their light.

16. And the Lord shall cry out of Sion, and shall utter his voice from Jerusalem; and the heaven and the earth shall be shaken, but the Lord shall spare his people, and shall strengthen the children of Israel. 17. And ye shall know that I am the Lord your God, who dwell in Sion my holy mountain: and Jerusalem shall be holy, and strangers shall not pass through her any more.

18. And it shall come to pass in that day that the mountains shall drop sweet wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, and all the fountains of Juda shall flow with water, and a fountain shall go forth of the house of the Lord, and water the valley of the figs.

19. Egypt shall be a desolation, and Idumea shall be an abominable plain, because of the wrongs of the children of Juda, because they have shed righteous blood in their land.

20. But Juda shall be inhabited for ever, and Jerusalem to all generations. 21. And I will make inquisition for their blood, and will by no means leave it unavenged: and the Lord shall dwell in Sion.

Thus saith the Lord: For three sins of Gaza, and for four, I will not turn away from them: because they took prisoners the captivity of Solomon, to shut them up into Idumea.
And I will send a fire on the walls of Gaza, and it shall devour its foundations.
And I will destroy the inhabitants out of the plain of On, and will cut in pieces a tribe out of the men of Charrhan: and the famous people of Syria shall be led captive, saith the Lord.
Thus saith the Lord: For three sins of Gaza, and for four, I will not turn away from it: because they shut up the prisoners of Solomon into Idumea, and remembered not the covenant of brethren.
And I will send forth a fire on the walls of Tyre, and it shall devour the foundations of it.
Thus saith the Lord: For three sins of Idumes, and for four, I will not turn away from them; because they pursued their brother with the sword, and destroyed the mother upon the earth, and summoned up his anger for a testimony, and kept up his fury to the end. And I will destroy the judge out of her, and slay all her princes with him, saith the Lord.
Thus saith the Lord: For three sins of the children of Juda, and for four, I will not turn away from it: because they have rejected the law of the Lord, and have not kept his ordinances, and their vain idols which they made, which their fathers followed, caused them to err. has spoken concerning you, and against the whole family whom I brought up out of the land of Egypt; 15 you

Therefore thus saith the Lord God; O Tyre, thy land shall be made desolate round about thee; and he shall bring down thy strength out of thee, and thy countries shall be spoiled. 12Thus saith the Lord; As when a shepherd rescues from the mouth of a lion two legs or a piece of an ear, so shall be drawn forth the children of Israel who dwell in Samaria in the presence of a foreign tribe, and in Damascus. 13Hear, O ye priests, and testify to the house of Jacob, saith the Lord God Almighty. 14For in the day wherein I shall take vengeance of the sins of Israel upon him, I will not take vengeance on the altars of Bethel: and the horns of the altar shall be broken down, and they shall fall upon the ground. 15I will break the beauty-house upon the summer house; and the ivory-houses shall be destroyed, and many other houses also, saith the Lord. 16Hear ye this word, ye heifers of the land of Bashan; that are in the mountain of Samaria, that possess the altars, and fill the house of16 the Lord. 17Therefore thus saith the Lord; Nay because I will do thus to thee, the children of Israel have loved these things, saith the Lord. 18And I will give you d dullest of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: yet ye returned not to me, saith the Lord. 19Also I withheld from you the rain three months before the harvest: and I will rain upon one city, and on another city I will not rain: one part shall be mined upon, and the part thereof shall not be mined upon, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. 20And the inhabitants of two or three cities shall be gathered to one city to drink water, and they shall not be satisfied: yet ye have not returned to me, saith the Lord. 21I smote you with parching, and with blight: ye multiplied your gardens, your vineyards, and your fig-grounds, and the cankerworm devoured your oliveyards: yet ye returned not to me, saith the Lord. 22I sent pestilence among you by the way of Egypt, and slew your young men with the sword, together with thy horses that were taken captive: and in my wrath against you I set fire to your camps: yet not even thus did ye return to me, saith the Lord. 23I overthrew you, as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and ye became as a brand plucked out of the fire: yet not even thus did ye return to me, saith the Lord. 24Therefore thus will I do to thee, O Israel: nay because I will do thus to thee, prepare to call on thy God, O Israel. 9 For, behold, I am he that strengthens the thunder, and creates the wind, and proclaims to men his Christ, forming the morning and the darkness, and mounting on the high places of the earth, The Lord God Almighty is his name.

Hear ye this word of the Lord, even a lamb for a lamb, which I take up against you. The house of Israel is fallen; it shall no more rise. The virgin of Israel is fallen upon his land; there is none that shall raise her up. Therefore thus saith the Lord God; The city out of which there went forth a thousand, in it there shall be left a hundred, and in that out of which there went forth a hundred, there shall be left ten to the house of Israel.

Wherefore thus saith the Lord to the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live. But seek not Bethel, and go not in to Galgala, and cross not over to the Well of the Oath; for Galgala shall surely go into captivity, and Bethel shall be as that which is not. Seek ye the Lord, and ye shall live; lest the house of Joseph blaze as fire, and it devour him, and there shall be none to quench a flame to the house of Israel.

It is he that executes judgment in the height above, and he has established justice on the earth; who makes all things, and changes them, and turns darkness into the morning, and darkens the day into night: who calls for the water of the sea, and pours it out on the face of the earth: the Lord is his name: who dispenses ruin to strength, and brings distress upon the fortress.

They hated him that reproved in the gates, and showed his speech. Therefore because they have smitten the poor with their flocks, and ye have received of them choice gifts; ye have built polished houses, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted desirable vineyards, but ye shall not drink the wine of them. For I know your many transgressions, and your sins are great, trampling on the just, taking bribes, and turning aside the judgment of the poor in the gates.

Therefore the prudent shall be silent at that time; for it is a time of evils. 11 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live; and so the Lord God Almighty shall be with you, as ye have said. 12 We have hated evil, and loved good: and restore ye judgment in the gates; that the Lord God Almighty may have mercy on the remnant of Joseph.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God Almighty; In all the streets shall be lamentations; and in all the ways shall it be said, Woe, woe! the husbandman shall be called to mourning and lamentation, and to them that are skilled in complaining. 17 And there shall be lamentation in all the ways; because I will pass through the midst of thee, saith the Lord.

Woe to you that desire the day of the Lord! 19 what is this day of the Lord to you? whereas it is darkness, and not light. As if a man should flee from the face of a lion, and a bear should meet him; and he should prepare to call on thy God, O Israel. 9 For, behold, I am he that strengthens the thunder, and creates the wind, and proclaims to men his Christ, forming the morning and the darkness, and mounting on the high places of the earth, The Lord God Almighty is his name.

Hear ye this word of the Lord, even a lamb for a lamb, which I take up against you. The house of Israel is fallen; it shall no more rise. The virgin of Israel is fallen upon his land; there is none that shall raise her up. Therefore thus saith the Lord God; The city out of which there went forth a thousand, in it there shall be left a hundred, and in that out of which there went forth a hundred, there shall be left ten to the house of Israel.

Wherefore thus saith the Lord to the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live. But seek not Bethel, and go not in to Galgala, and cross not over to the Well of the Oath; for Galgala shall surely go into captivity, and Bethel shall be as that which is not. Seek ye the Lord, and ye shall live; lest the house of Joseph blaze as fire, and it devour him, and there shall be none to quench a flame to the house of Israel.

It is he that executes judgment in the height above, and he has established justice on the earth; who makes all things, and changes them, and turns darkness into the morning, and darkens the day into night: who calls for the water of the sea, and pours it out on the face of the earth: the Lord is his name: who dispenses ruin to strength, and brings distress upon the fortress.

They hated him that reproved in the gates, and showed his speech. Therefore because they have smitten the poor with their flocks, and ye have received of them choice gifts; ye have built polished houses, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted desirable vineyards, but ye shall not drink the wine of them. For I know your many transgressions, and your sins are great, trampling on the just, taking bribes, and turning aside the judgment of the poor in the gates.

55 spring into his house, and lean his hands upon the wall, and a serpent shall bite him. 14 Is not the day of the Lord darkness, and not light? and is not this day gloom without brightness?

56 I hate, I reject your feasts, and I will not smell your meat-offerings in your general assemblies. 15 Wherefore if ye should bring me your whole burnt-offerings and meat-offerings, I will not accept the, neither will I have respect to your ygrand peace-offerings. 16 Remove from me the sound of thy songs, and I will not hear the music of thine instruments. 17 But let judgment roll down as water, and righteousness as an impassable torrent.

58 Have ye offered to me victims and sacrifices? O house of Israel, forty years in the wilderness? 19 Ye, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Raphen, the images of them which ye made for yourselves. 20 And I will carry you away beyond Damascus, saith the Lord, the Almighty God is his name. 21 Woe to them that set at nought Sion, and that trust in the mountain of Samaria: there they have gathered the harvest of the heads of the nations, and they have gone in themselves.

22 O house of Israel, pass by all of you, and see; and pass by thence to Emek Rabba; and thence descend to Geth of the Philistines, the chief of all these kingdoms, see if their coasts are greater than your coasts.

23 Ye who are approaching the evil day, who are drawing near and adopting false sabbaths; 24 who sleep upon beds of ivory, and live delicately on their couches, and eat kids out of the flocks, and sucking calves out of the midst of the stalls; 25 who excel in the sound of musical instruments; they have regarded them as abiding, not as fleeting pleasures; 26 who drink strained wine, and anoint themselves with the best ointment; and have suffered nothing on occasion of the calamity of Joseph.

27 Therefore now shall they depart into captivity from the dominion of princes, and the neighing of horses shall be cut off from Ephraim.

28 For the Lord has sworn by himself, saying, Because I abhor all the pride of Jacob, I do also hate his countries, and I will cut off his city with all who inhabit it.

29 And it shall come to pass, if there be ten men left in one house, that they shall die. 30 But the remnant shall be left behind, and their relations shall take them, and shall strenuously endeavour to carry forth their bones from the house: and one shall say to the heads of the house, Is there yet any one else with thee? 31 And he shall say, No one else. And the other shall say, Be silent, that thou name not the name of the Lord.

32 For, behold, the Lord commands, and he will smite the great house with breaches, and the little house with rents.

33 Will horses run upon rocks? will they refrain from neighing at mares? for they have turned judgment into poison, and the fruit of righteousness into bitterness: 34 ye who rejoice at vanity, who say, Have we not possessed horns by our own strength? 13 For behold, O house of Israel, I will raise up against you a nation, saith the Lord of hosts; and they shall afflict you so that ye shall not enter into the land of Ephraim, and as it were from the river of the wilderness.

Thus has the Lord God shewed me; and, behold, a swarm of locusts came from the north country, and behold, one caterpillar, king Gog. And it came to pass when he had finished devouring the grass of the field, that I said, Lord God, be merciful: who shall raise up Jacob? for he is small in number. 7 Repent, O Lord, for this. And this shall not be, saith the Lord.

4 Thus has the Lord shewed me; and, behold, the Lord called for judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and devoured the Lord's portion. 5 Then I said, O Lord, cease, I pray thee: who shall raise up Jacob? for he is small in number. 6 This also shall not be, saith the Lord.

7 Thus the Lord shewed me; and, behold, he stood upon a wall of adamant, and in his hand was an adamant. 8 And the Lord said to me, What seeest thou then? And I said, An adamant. 9 And the Lord said to me, Behold, I appoint an adamant in the midst of my people Israel: I will not pass by them any more. 10 And the joyfulaltars shall be abolished, and the sacrifices of Israel shall be set aside; and I will rise up against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

11 Then Amasias the priest of Bethel sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos is forming conspiracies against thee in the midst of the house of Israel; the land will be utterly unable to bear all his words. 12 For thus says Amos, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be led away captive from his land.

13 And Amasias said to Amos, Go, seer, remove thou into the land of Judah, and live there, and thou shalt prophesy there: but thou shalt no longer prophesy at Bethel: for it is the king's sanctuary, and it is the royal house.

14 And Amos answered, and said to Amasias, I was not a prophet, nor the son of a prophet; but I was a herdsman, and a gatherer of sycamore fruits. 15 And the Lord took me from the sheep, and the Lord said to me, Go, and prophesy to my people Israel. And now hear the word of the Lord: Thou sayest, Prophesy not to Israel, and raise not a tumult against the house of Jacob. 17 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Thy wife shall be a harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be measured with a line, and thou shalt die in an unclean land; and Israel shall be led captive out of his land. Thus has the Lord God shewed me.

And behold a Fowler's basket. 2 And he said, What seest thou, Amos? And I said, A Fowler's basket. And the Lord said to me, The end is come upon my people Israel; I will not pass by them any more. 3 And the ceilings of the temple shall howl in that day, Amos VIII. 4—IX. 6.

4 Hear now this, ye that oppress the poor, in the morning, and drive the needy ones by tyranny from the earth, saying, When will the month pass away, and we shall sell, and the sabbath, and we shall open the treasure, to make the measure small, and to enlarge the weight, and make the balance false? 5 That we may buy the poor for silver, and the needy for shoes of money, and we will trade in every kind of fruit. 6 The Lord swears against the pride of Jacob. None of your works shall ever be forgotten. 7 And shall not the land be troubled for these things, and shall not every one who dwells in it mourn? whereas destruction shall come up as a river, and shall descend as the river of Egypt.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord God, that the sun shall go down at noon, and the light shall be darkened on the earth by day: 10 and I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation; and I will bring sackcloth on all loins, and baldness on every head; and I will make them as the mourning of a beloved friend, and those with them as a day of grief.

11 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will send forth a famine on the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but a famine of hearing the word of the Lord. 12 And the waters shall be troubled from sea to sea, and from the north to the east shall run hither and thither, seeking the word of the Lord, and they shall not find it. 13 In that day shall the fair virgins and the young men faint for thirst; 14 they who swear by the propitiation of Samaria, and who say, Thy god, O Dan, lives; and, Thy god, O Bersabee, lives; and they shall fall, and shall no more rise again.

I saw the Lord standing upon the altar: and he said,

Smite the 5 mercy-seat, and the 6 porch shall be shaken: and cut through into the heads of all; and I will slay the remnant of them with the sword: no one of them fleeing shall escape, and no one of them striving to save himself shall be delivered. 2 Though they hide themselves in hell, thence shall my hand drag them forth: and though they go up to heaven, thence will I bring them down. 3 If they hide themselves in the top of Carmel, thence will I search them out and take them; and if they should go down from my 4 presence into the depths of the sea, there will I command the serpent, and it shall be the sword. 4 And if they should go into captivity before the face of their enemies, there will I command the sword, and it shall slay them: and I will set mine eyes against them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord, the Lord God Almighty, is he that takes hold of the land, and causes it to shake, and all that inhabit it shall mourn; and its destruction shall go up as a river, and shall descends as the river of Egypt. 6 It is he that builds his ascent up to the sky, and establishes his promise on the earth; who calls the water of the sea, and pours it out on the face of the earth; the Lord Almighty is his name.

7 Are not ye to me as the sons of the Ethiopians, O children of Israel? saith the Lord. Did I not bring Israel up out of the land of Egypt, and the Philistines from Cappadocia, and the Syrians out of the sea? Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the kingdom of sinners, and I will cut it off from the face of the earth; only I will not utterly cut off the house of Jacob, saith the Lord. For I will give commandment, and sift the house of Israel among all the Gentiles, as corn is sifted in a sieve, and yet a fragment shall not in any wise fall upon the earth. All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, who say, Calamities shall certainly not draw near, nor come upon us.

8 In that day I will raise up the tabernacle of David that is fallen, and will rebuild the ruins of it, and will set up the parts thereof that have been broken down, and will build it up to the ancient days. That the remnant of men, and all the Gentiles upon whom my name is called, may earnestly seek me, saith the Lord who does all these things.

9 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when the harvest shall overtake the vintage, and the grapes shall ripen at seedtime; and the mountains shall drop sweet wine, and all the hills shall be planted. And I will turn the captivity of my people Israel, and they shall rebuild the ruined cities, and shall inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and shall drink the wine from them; and they shall form gardens, and eat the fruit of them. And I will plant them on their land, and they shall no more be plucked up from the land which I have given them, saith the Lord God Almighty.

The vision of Obdias. Thus saith the Lord God to Idumea; I have heard a report from the Lord, and he has sent forth a message to the nations.

3 Arise ye, and let us rise up against her to war. Behold, I have made thee small among the Gentiles; thou art greatly dishonoured. The pride of thine heart has elated thee, dwelling as thou dost in the holes of the rocks, as one that exalts his habitation, saying in his heart, Who will

"ΟΡΑΣΙΣ Ὁβδίων. Τάδε λέγει Κύριος ὁ Θεὸς τῇ Ἰδομαιᾳ, ἀκοῦν ἑκοντα παρὰ Κύριον, καὶ περικηρίζω, εἰς τὰ ἐθνῆ ἐξαπε- στειλεν· ἀνάστησε, καὶ ἐκαναστῆσαι ἐπὶ αὐτὴν εἰς πόλεμον.

Ἰδοὺ ὁ λογίστων διδώκα σε ἐν τοῖς ἐθνεῖς, ἡμιμοιώδης εἰς 2 σὺ σφόδρα. Ὕπερηφανεί τῆς κοραθίας σου ἐπιφέρε σε κατά. 3 κυμάτων σε ταῖς ὀπαίς τῶν πεπτῶν ὑψῶν κατοικίαν αὐτοῦ,
4. Neither shall thou make thy nest among the stars, neither shall thy abode be in a rock; 5. Neither shall thou set thy tabernacle among stone stones; for thou canst not discern between the wood of the Wilderness and the wood of any other land. 6. Neither shall thou set thy tabernacle among the rock stones; for thou canst not discern between the wood of the Wilderness and the wood of any other land.

7. So shall I bring thee down, saith the Lord, saith the Lord, whereunder ye shall be brought to Egypt.

8. In that day, saith the Lord, I will destroy the wise men out of Idumea, and understanding out of the mount of Esau. 9. And thy warriors from Theban shall be dismayed, to the end that man may be cut off from the mount of Esau.

10. Because of the slaughter and the sin committed against thy brother Jacob, shame shall cover thee, and thou shalt be cut off for ever. 11. From the day that thou stoodest in opposition to him, in the days when foreigners were taking captive his host, and they entered into his gates, and cast lots on Jerusalem, thou also wast as one of them.

12. And thou shouldest not have looked on the day of thy brother in the day of strangers; nor shouldest thou have rejoiced against the children of Juda in the day of their destruction; neither shouldest thou have cast lots in the day of their affliction.

13. Neither shouldest thou have gone into the gates of the people in the day of their troubles; nor yet shouldest thou have looked upon their gathering in the day of their destruction, nor shouldest thou have attacked their host in the day of their perishing.

14. Neither shouldest thou have stood at the opening of their passages, to destroy them utterly of those that were escaping; neither shouldest thou have shut up his fugitives in the day of affliction.

15. For the day of the Lord is near upon all the Gentiles: as thou hast done, so shall it be done to thee: thy recompense shall be returned on thine own head. 16. For as thou hast drunk upon my holy mountain, so shall all the nations drink wine; they shall drink, and go down, and be as if they were not.

17. But on mount Sion there shall be deliverance, and there shall be a sanctuary; and the house of Jacob shall take for an inheritance those that took them for an inheritance. 18. And the house of Jacob shall be fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau shall be for stubble; and Israel shall flame forth against them, and shall devour them, and there shall not be a corn-field left to the house of Esau; because the Lord has spoken.

19. And they that dwell in the south shall inherit the mount of Esau, and they in the plain the Philistines: and they shall inherit the mount of Ephraim, and the plain of Samaria, and Benjamin, and the land of Galaad.

20. And this shall be the domain of the captivity of the children of Israel, the land...
Now the word of the Lord came to Jonas the son of Amathi, saying, 2 Rise, and go to Nineve, the great city, and preach in it; for the cry of its wickedness is come up to me. 3 But Jonas rose up to flee to Tharsis from the presence of the Lord. And he went down to Joppa, and found a ship going to Tharsis: and he paid his fare, and went up into it, to sail with them to Tharsis from the presence of the Lord.

And the Lord raised up a wind on the sea; and there was a great storm on the sea, and the ship was in danger of being broken. And the sailors were alarmed, and cried every one to his god, and cast out the wares that were in the ship into the sea, that it might be lightened of them. But Jonas was gone down into the hold of the ship, and was asleep, and snored.

And the shipmaster came to him, and said to him, Why art thou asleep? arise, and call upon thy God, that God may save us, and we perish not. 7 And each man said to his neighbour, Come, let us cast lots, and find out for whose sake this mischief is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonas.

And they said to him, Tell us what is thine occupation, and whence comest thou, and of what country and what people art thou? 9 And he said to them, I am a servant of the Lord; and I worship the Lord God of heaven, who made the sea, and the dry land. 10 Then the men feared exceedingly, and said to him, What is this that thou hast done? for the men knew that he was fleeing from the face of the Lord, because he had told them. And they said to him, What shall we do to thee, that the sea may be calm to us? for the sea rose.

KAI ἔγενετο λόγος Κυρίου πρὸς Ἰωνᾶ τὸν τοῦ Ἀμαθί, λέγων, ἀνάστη, καὶ πορεύθητε εἰς Νινεβή τὴν πόλιν τὴν μεγάλην, καὶ κήρυσσον ἐν αὐτή, ὅτι ἀνέβη ἡ κραυγή τῆς κακίας αὐτῆς πρὸς μέ. 2 Καὶ ἀνέστη Ἰωνᾶς τὸν φυγαίνει εἰς Θαρσίον ὡς προσώπου Κυρίου καὶ κατέβη εἰς Ἰώππην, καὶ εὑρίσκει πλοῖον βιάδιζον εἰς Θαρσίον, καὶ ἔδωκε τὸ ναῦλον αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἀνέβη εἰς αὐτό, τὸ πλούσιον μετ' αὐτῶν εἰς Θαρσίον ὡς προσώπου Κυρίου.

Καὶ Κύριος ἔξεγερεν πνεῦμα ἐπὶ τῆς θάλασσας, καὶ ἔγενετο 4 κλίδων μέγας ἐν τῇ θαλάσσῃ, καὶ τὸ πλοῖον ἐκδύναμαι τοῦ συντριβῆται. Καὶ ἔφοβοισαν οἱ ναυτικοὶ, καὶ ἀνέβοσαν 5 ἐκατόστας πρὸς τὸν θεόν αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἐκβάλην ἐποίησαν τῶν σκευῶν τῶν ἐν τῷ πλοίῳ εἰς τὴν θάλασσαν, τοῦ κονυφισθῆναι ἀπ' αὐτῶν. Ἰωνᾶς δὲ κατέβη εἰς τὴν καλλήν τοῦ πλοίου, καὶ ἐκάθευσε, καὶ ἔρεγεν.

Καὶ προσήλθε πρὸς αὐτὸν ὁ πρωρις, καὶ ἔπεσεν αὐτῷ, τῇ 6 σ(IDC) μέγχεις; ἀνώτατα, καὶ ἐπικαλοῦ τὸν Θεόν σου, ὅπως διασώσῃ ὁ Θεὸς ἡμᾶς, καὶ οὐ μὴ ἀπολώμεθα. Καὶ εἶπεν ἐκατόστας πρὸς 7 τὸν πλησιόν αὐτοῦ, δεῦτε βάλωμεν κλήρους, καὶ ἐπεγνώμεν, τῶν ἔνεκεν ἡ κακία αὐτῆς ἐστὶν ἐν ο��ίν, καὶ ἐβαλον κλήρους, καὶ ἔτεσαν ὁ κλήρος ἐπὶ Ἰωνᾶ.

Καὶ ἔπον πρὸς αὐτόν, ἀπαγγείλον ἡμῖν, τίς σου ἡ ἐργασία 8 ἐστί, καὶ πάθεν ἔρχεται, καὶ ἐκ ποιάς χώρας, καὶ ἐκ ποιῶν λαοῦ εἶ σε; καὶ ἔπει πρὸς αὐτοῦς, δοῦλος Κυρίου εἰμὶ ἐγώ, καὶ 9 τὸν Κύριον Θεόν τοῦ οὐρανοῦ ἔγω σέβομαι, ως ἐποίησεν τὴν θάλασσαν καὶ τὴν θηρίαν. Καὶ ἔφοβοισαν οἱ ἀνδρεῖς φοβοῖν 10 μέγας, καὶ ἔπει πρὸς αὐτούς, τί τούτο ἐπουρνάς; διότι ἔγνωσαν οἱ ἀνδρεῖς ὁτι ἐκ προσώπου Κυρίου ἡ φεύγων, ὅτι ἔπηγγελεν αὐτοῖς καὶ ἔπον πρὸς αὐτόν, τί ποιήσομαι σοι, καὶ κοπάσαι 11 ἡ θάλασσα ἀνήμων; ὅτι ηθάλασσα ἐπορεύοντα καὶ ἔξεγερε and lifted its wave exceedingly. 12 And Jonas said to them, Take me up, and cast me into the sea, and the sea shall be calm to you; for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 And the men tried hard to return to the land, and were not able: for the sea rose and grew more and more tempestuous against them. 14 And they cried to the Lord, and said, 15 Forbid it, Lord: let us not perish for the sake of this man’s life, and bring not righteous blood upon us; for thou, Lord, hast done as thou wouldest.

16 So they took Jonas, and cast him out into the sea: and the sea ceased from its raging.

17 And the men feared the Lord very greatly, and offered a sacrifice to the Lord, and rowed back.

Now the Lord had commanded a great whale to swallow up Jonas: and Jonas was in the belly of the whale three days and three nights.

2 And Jonas prayed to the Lord his God out of the belly of the whale, and said, I cried in my affliction to the Lord my God, and he hearkened to me, even to my cry out of the belly of hell: thou heardest my voice, 3 Thou didst cast me into the depths of the heart of the sea, and the floods compassed me: all thy billows and thy waves have passed upon me. 4 And I said, I am cast out of thy presence: shall I indeed look again toward thy holy temple?

5 Water was poured around me to the soul: the lowest deeps compassed me, my head went down 7 to the clefts of the mountains; I went down into the earth, whose bars are the everlasting barriers: yet, O Lord my God, let my ruined life be restored.

6 When my soul was failing me, I remembered the Lord: and may my prayer come to thee into thy holy temple. 7 They that observe vanities and lies have forsaken their own mercy. 8 But I will sacrifice to thee with the voice of praise and thanksgiving: all that have bowed I will pay to thee, 9 the Lord of my salvation.

10 And the whale was commanded by the Lord, and it cast up Jonas on the dry land.

And the word of the Lord came to Jonas the second time, saying, 2 Rise, go to Nineve the great city, and preach in it according to the former preaching which I spoke to thee of. 3 And Jonas arose, and went to Nineve, as the Lord had spoken. Now Nineve was an exceeding great city, of about three days’ journey. 4 And Jonas began to enter into the city about a day’s journey, and he proclaimed, and said, Yet three days, and Nineve shall be overthrown.

5 And the men of Nineve believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloths, from the greatest of them to the least of them. 6 And the word reached the king of Nineve, and he arose from off his throne, and took off his royal robe, and put on sackcloth, and sat on ashes.
And proclamation was made, and it was commanded in Nineve by the king and by his great men, saying, Let not men, or cattle, or oxen, or sheep, taste any thing, nor feed, nor drink water. So men and cattle were clothed with sackcloth, and cried earnestly to God; and they turned every one from their evil way, and from the iniquity that was in their hands, saying, Who knows if God will repent, and turn from his fierce anger, and so we shall not perish?

And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil ways; and God repented of the evil which he had said he would do to them; and he did it not.

But Jonas was very deeply grieved, and he was confounded. And he prayed to the Lord, and said, O Lord, were not these my words when I was yet in my land? therefore I made haste to flee to Tharsis; because I knew that thou art merciful and compassionate, long-suffering, and abundant in kindness, and repentest of evil. And now, O Lord God, take my life from me; for it is better for me to die than to live. And the Lord said to Jonas, Art thou very much grieved?

And Jonas went out from the city, and sat over against the city; and he made for himself there a booth, and he sat under it, until he should perceive what would become of the city. And the Lord God commanded a gourd, and it came up over the head of Jonas, to be a shadow over his head, to shade him from his calamities; and Jonas rejoiced with great joy for the gourd.

And God commanded a worm the next morning, and it smote the gourd, and it withered away. And it came to pass at the rising of the sun, that God commanded a burning east wind; and the sun smote on the head of Jonas, and he fainted, and despaired of his life, and said, It is better for me to die than to live. And God said to Jonas, Art thou very much grieved for the gourd? And he said, I am very much grieved, even to death.

And the Lord said, Thou hadst pity on the gourd, for which thou hast not suffered, neither didst thou rear it; which came up before night, and perished before another night; and shall not I spare Nineve, the great city, in which dwelleth more than twelve myriads of human beings, who do not know their right hand or their left hand; and also much cattle?
And the word of the Lord came to Micah, the son of Morasthi, in the days of Joatham, and Achaz, and Ezekias, kings of Juda, concerning what he saw regarding Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 Hear these words, ye people; and let the earth give heed, and all that are in it; and the Lord God shall be among you for a testimony, the Lord out of his holy habitation.

3 For, behold, the Lord comes forth out of his place, and will come down, and will go upon the high places of the earth. And the mountains shall be shaken under him, and the valleys shall melt like wax before the fire, and as water rushing down a declivity.

4 All these calamities are for the transgression of Jacob, and for the sin of the house of Israel. What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria? and what is the sin of the house of Juda? is it not Jerusalem?

5 Therefore I will make Samaria as a store-house of the fruits of the field, and as a planting of a vineyard: and I will utterly demolish her stones, and I will expose her foundations.

6 And they shall cut in pieces all the graven images, and all the idols, all that she has hired they shall burn with fire, and I will utterly destroy all her idols: because she has gathered of the hites of fornication, and of the hites of fornication has she anemis wealth.

7 Therefore shall she lament and wail, she shall go barefooted, and being naked shall make lamentation as that of serpents, and mourning as of the daughters of sirens.

8 For her plague has become grievous; for it has come even to Juda; and has reached to the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem.

9 Ye that are in Gethi, exalt not yourselves, and ye Enakim, do not rebuild from the ruins of the house in decimation: sprinkle dust in the place of your laughter.

10 The inhabitant of Sennaar, fairly inhabiting her cities, came not forth to mourn for the house next to her; she shall receive of you the stroke of grief.

11 Who has begun to act for good to her that dwells in sorrow? for calamities have come down from the Lord upon the gates of Jerusalem, even a sound of chariots and horsemen: the inhabitants of Lachis, she is the leader of sin to the daughter of Sion: for in thee were found the transgressions of Israel.

12 Therefore shall he cause men to be sent forth as far as the inheritance of 8 Gr. plural 7 Lit. tear down to confusion 6 Or, all her hire.

Behold, even vain houses: they are become vanity to the kings of Israel; 3 until they bring the heirs, O inhabitant of Lachis: the inheritance shall reach to Ophel, even the glory of the daughter of Jerusalem. 4 She hath left the blood of Menahem, and Rechab sons of Joel; she hath not sought the Lord to remove it. 5 Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, I devise evils against this family, out of which ye shall not lift up your necks, neither shall ye walk upright 6 speedily; for the time is evil.

7 In that day shall a parable be taken up against you, and a plaintive lamentation shall be uttered, saying, We are thoroughly miserable: the portion of my people hath been measured out with a line, and there was none to hinder him so as to turn him back; your fields have been divided.

8 Therefore cast thy bread upon the coals, And make it speedily, For thy strength shall be declined And thy days shall be shortened.

9 For the Lord spake this word to me in the year that I was ten years old, saying: Go, purchase for yourselves a vineyard of the money of silver, from men of Anathoth.

10 And after two years of it came to me the word of the Lord, saying, Go, buy for yourself the vineyard of Anathoth, which is in the border of Benjamin, for the full price of silver; 11 for if ye diligently buy it, shall not myasseveration be established in it, 12 saying, thou hast bought a goodly field for money and hast seed in it? They shall say, he hath gone down also to the slaughter.

13 And the word of the Lord came to me a second time, saying, 14 Take thee the fallow deer of the field, and give it to the watchmen and to the heralds; 15 and the heralds shall give it the men of the border. 16 And ye shall say, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Even so shall return my word; which ye have spoken in my ears, 17 saying, We have bought the vineyard for money.

18 And the word of the Lord came to me a third time, saying, 19 Take thee a bow, and some small stones in a scrip, and go to Ebed the potter, and take them to thee. 20 And when I come, say unto him, Hear the word of the Lord, saying, Thus saith the Lord God, Take thee a bow, and a small scrip, and five barley cakes in them, 21 and an homer of sandalwood, and two hundred shekels of fine wheat, and an homer of wine, and oil, in a scrip; 22 and send them to Ebed the potter, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The foundations of Jerusalem shall be thoroughly laid with stones, and with cedars. 23 Then shall the men of Judah bring thee a brick, and the men of Saron shall cast a stone in thine hand. 24 And he shall answer and say to thee, Thus saith the Lord God, Take thee a bow, and cause it to be hewed in pieces; and when it is hewed in pieces, thou shalt make it into scales; and it shall be for a burden to the house of Judah. 25 To whom it shall be a reproach, and to them an reproach, and a taunt, and a curse, all this day; 26 and it shall be unto them a reproach, and a taunt, and a curse, and a curse, all the days of eternity.
they shall cry to the Lord, but he shall not hearken to them; and he shall turn away his face from them at that time, because they have done wickedly in their practices against themselves.

Thus saith the Lord concerning the prophets that lead my people astray, that bite with their teeth, and proclaim peace to them; and when nothing was put into their mouth, they raised up war against them:

Therefore there shall be night to you instead of a vision, and there shall be to you darkness instead of prophecy; and the sun shall go down upon the prophets, and the day shall be dark upon them.

And the seers of night-visions shall be ashamed, and the prophets shall be laughed to scorn; and all the people shall speak against them, because there shall be none to hearken to them. Surely I will strengthen myself with the Spirit of the Lord, and of judgment, and of power, to declare to Jacob his transgressions, and to Israel his sins.

Hear now these words, ye chiefs of the house of Jacob, and the remnant of the house of Israel, who hate judgment, and pervert all righteousness: who build up Sion with blood, and Jerusalem with iniquity.

The heads thereof have judged for silver, and the priests thereof have answered for hire, and her prophets have divided for silver: and yet they have rested on the Lord, saying, Is not the Lord among us? no evil shall come upon us.

Therefore on your account Sion shall be ploughed as a field, and Jerusalem shall be as a storehouse of fruits, and the mountain of the house as a grove of the forest.

And at the last days the mountain of the Lord shall be manifest, established on the tops of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and the peoples shall hasten to it.

And many nations shall go, and say, Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and they shall shew us his way, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Sion shall go forth a law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.

And he shall judge among many nations, and shall establish peace among strong nations far off; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into sickles; and nation shall no more lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn to war any more.

And every one shall rest under his vine, and every one under his fig-tree; and there shall be none to alarm them: for the mouth of the Lord Almighty has spoken these words.

For all other nations shall walk everyone in his own way, but we will walk in the name of the Lord our God for ever and ever.

In that day, saith the Lord, I will gather her that is bruised, and will receive her that is cast out, and those whom I rejected.

And I will make her that was bruised a remnant, and her that was rejected a mighty nation; and the Lord shall reign over them in mount Sion from henceforth, even for ever.
And thou, 8 dark tower of the flock, daughter of Sion, on thee the dominion shall come and enter in, even the first kingdom from Babylon to the daughter of Jerusalem. And now, why hast thou known calamities? was there not one that was left to say, how has thy counsel perished, that thy woman in travail have seized upon thee? 9 Be in pain, and strengthen thyself, and draw near, O daughter of Sion, as a woman in travail: for now thou shalt go forth out of the city, and shalt lodge in the plain, and shalt reach even to Babylon: thence shall the Lord thy God deliver thee, and thou shalt he redeem thee out of the hand of thine enemies.

And now have many nations gathered against thee, saying, We will rejoice, and our eyes shall look upon Sion. But they know not the thought of the Lord, and have not understood his counsel; for he has gathered them as sheaves of an ear.

Arise, and thrust them, O daughter of Sion: for I will make thine horns iron, and I will make thine hoofs brass: and thou shalt utterly destroy many nations, and shalt consecrate their abundance to the Lord, and their strength to the Lord of all the earth.

Now shall the daughter of Sion be completely hedged in: he has laid siege against us: they shall smite the tribes of Israel with a rod upon the cheek.

And thou, Bethlehem, house of Ephratha, art few in number to be reckoned among the thousands of Juda: yet out of thee shall one come forth to me, to be a ruler of Israel: and his goings forth were from the beginning, even 8 from eternity.

Therefore shall he appoint them to wait till the time of her that travaileth: she shall bring forth, and then the remnant of their brethren shall return to the children of Israel. 9 And the Lord shall stand, and see, and feed his flock with power, and they shall dwelle in the name of the Lord their God: for now shall they be magnified to the ends of the earth.

And she shall have peace when Assur shall come into your land, and when he shall come up upon your country; and there shall be raised up against him seven shepherds, and eight attacks of men. 6 And they shall tend the Assyrian with a sword, and the land of Neboad with her trench: and he shall deliver you from the Assyrian, when he shall come upon your land, and when he shall invade your coasts.

And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many peoples, as dewfalling from the Lord, and as lambs on the grass; that none may assemble nor resist among the sons of men. 6 And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many nations, as a lion in the forest among cattle, and as a lion's whelp among flocks of sheep, even as when he goes through, and selects, and carries off his prey, and there is none to deliver.

Thine enemy shall be lifted up against thee that afflict thee, and all thine enemies shall be utterly destroyed.
give up, will and and and will answer thee.

10 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord, that I will utterly destroy the horses out of the midst of thee, and destroy thy chariots: 11 and I will utterly destroy the cities of thy land, and demolish all thy strongholds: 12 and I will utterly destroy thy idols and images, and thy statues out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt never any more worship the works of thine hands. 13 And I will cut off the groves out of the midst of thee, and I will abolish thy cities. 14 And I will execute vengeance on the heathen in anger and wrath, because they hearkened not.

Hear now a word: the Lord God has said: Arise, plead with the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 Hear ye, O mountains, the controversy of the Lord, and ye valleys even the foundations of the earth: for the Lord has a controversy with his people, and will plead with Israel. 3 My people, what have I done to thee? or wherein have I grievously dealt with thee? or wherein have I troubled thee? who answer me. 4 For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of bondage, and sent before thee Moses, and Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now, what counsel Balak king of Moab took against thee, and what Balak the son of Beor answered him from the reeds to Galgal; that the righteousness of the Lord might be known.

6 Wherewithal shall I reach the Lord, and lay hold of my God most high? shall I reach him by whole-burnt-offerings, by calves of a year old? 7 Will the Lord accept thousands of rams, or ten thousands of fat goats? should I give my first-born for ungodliness, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? 8 Has it not been told thee, O man, what is good? or what does the Lord require of thee, but to do justice, and love mercy, and be ready to walk with the Lord thy God?

9 The Lord's voice shall be proclaimed in the city, and he shall save those that fear his name; hear, O tribe, and who shall order the city? 10 Is there not first and the house of the wicked heaping up wicked treasures, and that with the pride of unrighteousness? 11 Shall the wicked be justified by the balance, or deceitful weights in the bag, whereby they have accumulated their ungodly wealth, and they that dwell in the city have uttered falsehoods, and their tongue has been exalted in their mouth?

12 Therefore will I begin to smite thee; I will destroy thee in thy sins. 13 Thou shalt eat, and shalt not be satisfied; and there shall be darkness upon thee; and he shall depart from thee, and thou shalt not escape; and all that shall escape shall be delivered over to the sword. 14 Thou shalt sow, but thou shalt not eat; thou shalt press the olive, but thou shalt not anoint thyself with oil; and shalt make wine, but ye shall drink no wine: and the ordinances of my people shall be utterly abolished. 15 For thou hast kept the statutes of Zambri, and done all the works of the house of Achan; and ye have walked in their ways, that I might deliver thee to utter destruction, and those that inhabit the city to hissing: and ye shall bear the reproach of nations.

Alas for me! for I am become as one gathering straw in harvest, and as one gathereth stubble in the vintage, when there is no cluster for me to eat the first-ripe fruit: alas my soul! 2 For the godly is perished from the earth; and there is none among men that orders his way aright; they all quarrel even to blood: they grievously afflict one every one his neighbour: 3 they prepare their hands for mischief, the prince asks a reward, and the judge speaks flattering words; it is the desire of their soul: 4 therefore I will take away their goods as a devouring moth, and as one who acts by a rigid rule in a day of visitation. Woe, woe, thy times of vengeance are come; now shall be their lamentations. 5 Trust not in friends, and confide not in guides: beware of him that is a kinsman, as not to commit things to him. 6 For the son dishonours his father, the daughter will rise up against her mother, the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law; those in his house shall be all a man's enemies.

7 But I will look to the Lord; I will wait upon God my Saviour: my God will hearken to me.

8 Rejoice not against me, mine enemy; for I have fallen yet shall arise: for though I should sit in darkness, the Lord shall be a light to me. 9 I will bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he make good my cause: he also shall maintain my right, and shall bring me out to the light, and shall behold his righteousness. 10 And she that is mine enemy shall see it, and shall clothe herself with shame, who says, Where is the Lord thy God? mine eyes shall look upon her; now shall she be for trembling as mine in the ways.

11 It is the day of making of brick; that day shall be thing of utter destruction, and that day shall utterly abolish these fine ordinances. 12 And thy cities shall be levelled, and parted among the Assyrians; and thy strong cities shall be parted from Tyre to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain. 13 And the land shall be utterly desolate together with them that inhabit it, because of the fruit of their doings.

14 Tend thy people with thy rod, the sheep of thine inheritance, those that inhabit by themselves the thicket in the midst of Carmel; they shall feed in the land of Basan, and in the land of Galad, as in the days of old.

15 And according to the days of thy departure out of Egypt shall ye see marvellous things. 16 The nations shall see and be ashamed; and at all their might they shall lay their hands upon their mouth, their ears shall be desaned. 17 They shall lick the dust as serpents crawling on the earth, they shall be confounded in their holes; they shall be amazed at the Lord our God, and will be afraid of thee.

The burden of Nineveh: the book of the vision of Naum the Elkesite.

1. Who is a God like thee, cancelling iniquities, and passing over the sins of the remnant of his inheritance? and he has not kept his anger # for a testimony, for he delights in mercy.
2. He will return and have mercy upon us; he will sink our iniquities, and they shall be cast into the depths of the sea, even all our sins.
3. He shall give blessings truly to Jacob, and mercy to Abruam, as thou swearest to our fathers according to the former days.

The Lord is jealous, and the Lord avenges; the Lord avenges with wrath; the Lord takes vengeance on his adversaries, and he cuts off his enemies.
5. The Lord is long-suffering, and his power is great, and the Lord will not hold any guiltless: his way is in destruction and in the whirlwind, and the clouds are the dust of his feet.
6. He threatens the sea, and dries it up, and exhausts all the rivers; the land of Basan, and Carmel are brought low, and the flourishing trees of Libanus have come to nought.
7. The mountains quake γ at him, and the hills are shaken, and the earth recoils at his presence, even the world, and all that dwell in it.
8. Who shall stand before his anger? and who shall withstand in the anger of his wrath? his wrath brings to nought kingdoms, and the rocks are burst asunder by him.
9. The Lord is good to them that wait on him in the day of affliction; and he knows them that reverence him.
10. But with an overrunning flood he will make an utter end: darkness shall pursue those that rise up against him and his enemies.
11. What do ye devise against the Lord? he will make a complete end: he will not take vengeance by affliction twice at the same time.
12. For the enemy shall be laid bare even to the foundation, and shall be devoured as twisted yew, and as stubble fully dry.
13. Out of thee shall proceed a device against the Lord, counselling evil things hostile to him.
Thus saith the Lord which rules over many waters, Even thus shall they be sent away, and the report of thee shall not be heard any more. 12 And now will I break his rod from off thee, and will burst thy bonds. 13 And the Lord shall give a command concerning thee; there shall no more of thy name be scattered; I will utterly destroy the graven images out of the house of thy god, and the molten images: I will make thy grave; for they are swift. 14 Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that brings glad tidings, and publishes peace! O Juda, keep thy feasts, pay thy vows: for they shall no more pass through thee to thy decay. It is all over with him, he has been removed, one who has been delivered from affliction has come up panting into thy presence, watch the way, strengthen thy loins, be very valiant in thy strength. 2 For the Lord has turned aside the pride of Jacob, as the pride of Israel: for they have utterly rejected them, and have destroyed their branches. 3 They have destroyed the arms of their power from among men, their mighty men sporting with fire: the reins of their chariots shall be destroyed in the day of his preparation, and the horsemen shall be thrown into confusion in the ways, and the chariots shall clash together, and shall be entangled in each other in the broad ways: their appearance is as lamps of fire, and as gleaming lightnings. 5 And their mighty men shall

The burden which the prophet Ammacum saw.

How long, O Lord, shall I cry out, and thou wilt not hearken? how long shall I cry out to thee being injured, and thou wilt not save? Wherefore hast thou shewn me troubles and griefs to look upon, misery and ungodliness? judgment is before me, and the judge receives a reward. Therefore the law is frustrated, and judgment proceeds not effectually, for the ungodly man prevails over the just; therefore perverse judgment will proceed.

Behold, ye despisers, and look, and wonder marvellously, and vanish: for I work a work in your days, which ye will in no wise believe, though a man declare it to you. Wherefore, behold, I stir up the Chaldens, the bitter and hasty nation, that walks upon the breadth of the earth, to inherit tabernacles not his own. He is terrible and famous; his judgment shall proceed of himself, and his ydignity shall come out of himself. And his horses shall bound more swiftly than leopards, and they are fiercer than the wolves of Arabia: and his horsemen shall ride forth, and shall rush from far; and they shall fly as an eagle hasting to eat. Destruction shall come upon ungodly men, resisting with their adverse front, and he shall gather the captivity as the sand. And he shall be at his ease with kings, and princes are his toys, and he shall mock at every strong-hold, and shall cast a mound, and take possession of it. Then shall he change his spirit, and he shall pass through, and make an atonement, saying, This strength belongs to my god.

Art not thou from the beginning, O Lord God, my Holy One? and surely we shall not die. O Lord, thou hast established it for judgment, and he has formed me to chasten with his correction. His eye is too pure: to behold evil doings, and to look upon grievous afflictions: wherefore dost thou look upon despisers? wilt thou be silent when the ungodly swallows up the just? And wilt thou make men as the fishes of the sea, and as the reptiles which have no guide? He has brought up destruction with a hook, and drawn one with a casting net, and caught another in his drags: therefore shall his heart rejoice and be glad. Therefore will he sacrifice to his drag, and burn incense to his casting-net, because by them he has made his portion fat, and his meats choice. Therefore will he cast his net, and will not spare to slay the nations continually.

The Lord's answer to the burden.

Therefore, O Lord, I will offer praise to thee: therefore am I great among the people; therefore am I made marvellous in the sight of the heathen. I will offer praise in a city that shall not be built. The Lord, and the Judge of Israel, will he do this; he will be mighty. Wherefore, O Lord, I have heard that thou art great and powerful; and hast created heaven and earth. Ammacum. Lit. Ambacum.

I will stand upon my watch, and mount upon the rock, and watch to see what he will say by me, and what I shall answer when I am reproved.

And the Lord answered me and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon a tablet, that he who reads it may run.

For the vision is yet for a time, and it shall stand forth at the end, and not in vain: though he should tarry, wait for him; for he will surely come, and will not tarry.

If he should draw back, my soul has no pleasure in him; but the just shall live by faith.

But the arrogant man and the scorners, the boastful man, shall not finish anything; who has enlarged his desire as the grave, and like death he is never satisfied, and he will gather to himself all the nations, and will receive to himself all the peoples. Shall not all these take up a parable against him? and a proverb to tell against him? and they shall say, Woe to him that plunders and builds houses, taking a portion of fields for vineyards!

The nations have taken his parts, and he has been gathered to his territory, and to the land of his kings.

Woe to him that makes images, the gravedigger, who says, it is I who have made the Lord! when there is no one to save from among them, nor one to say, what profit is there in the graven image?

Woe to the beekeepers, and to the inhabitants of the groves, who say, Let us drink, and build a wall! for we have not cut trees in our land, neither have we laid any siege under the shadow of our groves.

For the drunkard and the concubine are vile, and the beer-bucket is more pleasant than their thoughts.

Woe to them that rise early in the morning, that their hands may be occupied with their wine;

Woe to them that are sated with iniquity, and that give their flesh to the lust of their hearts, for they shall be brought down, and have no power.

Woe to him that says to wood, You are tree; and to stone, You are father!

Woe to him that makes the god of Asherah, and says to the work of his hands, Your work, and your days, are many years.

Yet will I lay it hold on as a burden. I will take away man's word from his mouth, even the word of my people, from the children of Israel, a word which they have despised.

A Prayer of the Prophet Ambacum, with a Song.

O Lord, I have heard thy report, and was afraid: thou shalt be known between the two living creatures, thou shalt be acknowledged when the years draw nigh; thou shalt be manifested when the time is come; when my soul is at trouble, thou wilt in wrath remember mercy.

God shall come from Thaman, and the Holy One from the dark shady mount Pharan. Pause. His excellence covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise. And his brightness shall be as light: there were horns in his hands, and he caused a mighty love of his strength. Before his face shall go a report, and it shall go forth into the plains, the earth stood at his feet and trembled: he beheld, and the nations melted away: the mountains were violently burst through, the everlasting hills melted at his everlasting going forth. Because of troubles I looked upon the tents of the Ethiopians: the tabernacles also of the land of Madiam shall be dismayed.

Wast thou angry, O Lord, with the rivers? or was thy wrath against the rivers, or thine anger against the sea? for thou wilt mount on thine horses, and thy chariots are salvation. Surely thou didst bend thy bow at sceptres, saith the Lord. Pause. The land of rivers shall be turned asunder. The nations shall see thee and be in pain, as thou dost divide the moving waters: the deep uttered her voice, and raised her form on high.

The sun was exalted, and the moon stood still in her course: thy darts shall go forth at the light, at the brightness of the gleaming of thine arms. Thou wilt bring low the land with the threatening, and in wrath thou wilt break down the nations. Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people, to save thine anointed: thou shalt bring death on the heads of transgressors; thou hast brought bands upon their neck. Pause. Thou didst cut asunder the heads of princes with amazement, they shall tremble in it; they shall burst their bridles, they shall be as a poor man devouring in secret. And thou dost cause thine horses to enter the sea, disturbing much water.

I watched, and my belly trembled at the sound of the prayer of my lips, and trembling entered into my bones, and my frame was troubled within me; I will rest in the day of affliction, from going up to the people of my sojournings.

For though the fig-tree shall bear no fruit, and there shall be no produce on the vines; the labour of the olive shall fail, and the fields produce no food: the beasts have failed from the pasture, and there are no oxen at the cribs; yet I will exult in the Lord, I will joy in God my Saviour. The Lord God is my strength, and he will perfectly strengthen my feet; he mounts me upon high places, that I may conquer by his song.

The word of the Lord which came to Sophonias the son of Chusi, the son of Godolias, the son of Amorias, the son of Ezekias, in the days of Josias son of Amon, king of Juda.

Let there be an utter cutting off from the face of the land, saith the Lord. Let man and cattle be cut off; let the birds of the air and the fishes of the sea be cut off; and the ungodly shall fall, and I will take away the transgressors from the face of the land, saith the Lord. And I will stretch out mine hand upon Juda, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and I will remove the names of Baal out of this place, and the names of the priests; and them that worship the host of heaven upon the house-tops; and them that worship and swear by the Lord, and them that swear by their king; and them that turn aside from the Lord, and them that seek not the Lord, and them that cleave not to the Lord.

Fear ye before the Lord God; for the day of the Lord is near; for the Lord has prepared his sacrifice, and has sanctified his guests. And it shall come to pass in the day of the Lord’s sacrifice, that I will take vengeance on the princes, and on the king’s house, and upon all that wear strange apparel.

And I will openly take vengeance on the porch in that day, on the men that fill the house of the Lord their God with ungodliness and deceit.

And there shall be in that day, saith the Lord, the sound of a cry from the gate of men slaying, and a howling from the second gate, and a great crashing from the hills.

Lament, ye that inhabit the city that has been broken down, for all the people has become like Chanaan; and all that were exalted by silver have been utterly destroyed.

And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will search Jerusalem with a candle, and will take vengeance on the men that despise the things committed to them; but they say in their hearts, The Lord will not do any good, neither will he do any evil.

And their power shall be for a spoil, and their houses for utter desolation; and they shall build houses, but shall not dwell in them; and they shall plant vineyards, but shall not drink the wine of them.

For the great day of the Lord is near, it is near, and very speedy; the sound of the day of the Lord is made bitter and harsh. A mighty day of wrath is that day, a day of affliction and distress, a day of desolation and destruction, a day of gloominess and darkness, a day of cloud and vapour, a day of the trumpet and cry against the strong cities, and against the high towers. And I will suddenly visit the men, and they shall walk as blind men, because they have sinned against the Lord; therefore shall they pour out their blood as dust, and their flesh as dung. And their silver and their gold shall in nowise be able to rescue them in the day of the Lord's wrath; but the whole land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy; for he will bring a speedy destruction on all them that inhabit the land.

Be ye gathered together, O unenlightened nation; before ye become as the flower that passes away, before the anger of the Lord come upon you, before the day of the Lord's coming is made known to you. 3 Say ye the Lord; ye shall all be mower of the earth; do judgment, and seek justice, and answer accordingly; that ye may be hid in the day of the Lord's wrath. 4 For Gaza shall be utterly spoiled, and Ashkelon shall be destroyed; and Azotus shall be cast forth at noon-day, and Accaron shall be rootless. 5 Woe to them that dwell on the border of the sea, neighbours of the Cretans! the word of the Lord is against you, O Chanaan, land of the Philistines, and I will destroy you out of your dwelling-place. 6 And Crete shall be a pasture of flocks, and a fold of sheep. 7 And the sea coast shall be for the remnant of the house of Judah; they shall pasture upon them in the houses of Ascalon; they shall rest in the evening because of the children of Judah; for the Lord their God has visited them, and he will turn away their captivity.

I have heard the revilings of Moab, and the insults of the children of Ammon, wherewith they have reviled my people, and magnified themselves against my coasts. 2 Therefore I will visit Moab, and I will stretch forth my hand against Ammon; 3 and I will break the pride of Rabbah, my people shall plunder them, and the remnant of my people shall plunder them, and the remnant of my nation shall inherit them. 4 This is their punishment in return for their haughtiness, because they have reproached and magnified themselves against the Lord Almighty. 5 The Lord shall appear against them, and shall utterly destroy all the gods of the nations of the earth; and they shall worship him every one from his place, even all the islands of the nations.

50 They are a tolerable people, in their speech, and skill in their work, and in the midst of them, if they be not destroyed. 8 And flocks, and all the wild beasts of the land, and chameleons shall feed in the midst thereof; and hedgehogs shall lodge in the ceilings thereof; and wild beasts shall cry in the breaches thereof, and ravens in her porches, whereas her loftiness was as a cedar.

This is the scornful city that dwells securely, that says in her heart, I am, and there is no longer any to be after me: how is she become desolate, a habitation of wild beasts! every one that passes through her shall hiss, and shake his hands.

Alas the glorious and ransomed city.

The dove hearkened not to the voice; she received not correction: she trusted not in the Lord, and she drew not near to her God. Her princes within her were as roaring lions, her judges as the wolves of Arabia; they remained not till the morrow.

Her prophets are light and scornful men: her priests profane the holy things, and sinfully transgress the law.

But the just Lord is in the midst of her, and he will never do an unjust thing; morning by morning he will bring out his judgment to the light, and it is not hidden, and he knows not injustice by extortion, nor injustice in strife.

I have brought down the proud with destruction: their corners are destroyed: I will make their ways completely waste, so that none shall go through: their cities are come to an end, y by reason of no man living or dwelling in them. I said, But do ye fear me, and receive instruction, and ye shall not be cut off from the face of the land for all the vengeance I have brought upon her: prepare thou, riseth early; all their produce is spoiled.

Therefore wait upon me, O daughter of Jerusalem, until the day when I rise up for a witness: because my judgment shall be on the gatherings of the nations, to draw to me kings, to pour out upon them all my fierce anger: for the whole earth shall be consumed with the fire of my jealousy.

For then will I turn to the peoples a tongue for her generation, that all may call on the name of the Lord, to serve him under one yoke. From the boundaries of the rivers of Ethiopia will I receive my dispersed ones; they shall offer sacrifices to me.

In that day thou shalt not be ashamed of all thy practices, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then will I take away from thee thy disdainful pride, and thou shalt no more magnify thyself upon my holy mountain. And I will leave in thee a meek and lowly people; and the remnant of Israel shall fear the name of the Lord, and shall do no iniquity, neither shall they speak vanity; neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth: for they shall feed, and lie down, and there shall be none to terrify them.

Rejoice, O daughter of Sion; O daughter of Jerusalem; rejoice and delight thyself with all thine heart, O daughter of Jerusalem. The Lord has taken away thine iniquities, he has ransomed thee from the hand of thine enemies: the Lord, the King of Israel, is in the midst of thee: thou shalt not see evil any more.

At that time the Lord shall say to Jerusalem, Be of good courage, Sion; let not thine hands be slack. 17 The Lord thy God is in thee; the Mighty One shall save thee: he shall bring joy upon thee, and shall refresh thee with his love; and he shall rejoice over thee with delight as in a day of feasting. 18 And I will gather thine afflicted ones. Alas! who has taken up a reproach against her?

19 Behold, I will work in thee for thy sake at that time, saith the Lord: and I will save her that was oppressed, and receive her that was rejected; and I will make them a praise, and honoured in all the earth. 20 And their enemies shall be ashamed at that time, when I shall deal well with you, and at the time when I shall receive you; for I will make you honoured and a praise among all the nations of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before you, saith the Lord.

In the second month of Darius the king, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came by the hand of the prophet Aggæus, saying, Speak to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Judah, and to yJesus the son of Josedec, the high priest, saying, 2 Thus saith the Lord Almighty, This people say, The time is not come to build the house of the Lord. 3 And the word of the Lord came by the hand of the prophet Aggæus, saying,

4 Is it time for you to dwell in your ceiled houses, whereas our house is desolate? 5 And now thus saith the Lord Almighty; Consider your ways, I pray you. 6 Ye have sown much, but brought in little; ye have eaten, and are not satisfied; ye have drunk, and are not satisfied with drink, ye have clothed yourselves, and have not become warm; 7 and he that earneth wages hath gathered them into a bag full of holes.

Thus saith the Lord Almighty; Consider your ways. 8 Go up to the mountain, and cut timber; build the house, and I will take pleasure in it, and be glorified, saith the Lord. 9 Ye looked for much, and there came little; and it was brought into the house, and I blew it away. Therefore thus saith the Lord Almighty, Because my house is desolate, and ye run every one into his own house; 10 therefore shall the sky with hold dew, and the earth shall keep back her produce. 11 And I will bring a sword upon

And Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, and Jesus the son of Josedec, the high priest, and all the remnant of the people, hearkened to the voice of the Lord their God, and the words of the prophet Aggæus, saying, Therefore the Lord Almighty, the God of Israel, said, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, To Zorobabel the son of Shealtiel, My servant, and to his son Zorobabel, saying, 13 For there shall come forth a great glory, saith the Lord Almighty, and shall be peace even upon his temple, and he shall sit upon his throne, and the land shall be full of peace. 14 And Zorobabel the son of Shealtiel, and his brother Josedec, shall set up the sanctuary of the house of the Lord Almighty, and shall light the lamp there, and shall repair the house of the Lord Almighty. And they shall build the temple of the Lord Almighty with precious stones, fair stones, and hewn stones, and good timber and hewn stones. 15 And Zorobabel the son of Shealtiel, and his brother Josedec, shall build this house: and I will stablish the house of the Lord Almighty in their latter days, saith the Lord Almighty. This is the latter house, saith the Lord Almighty, which shall stand fast to the latter days; for I will be there said the Lord Almighty, and he shall be a sanctuary; and he shall be a stone of stumbling and a rock of offence to both the house of Israel, and to the Gentiles. 16 And Aggæus the prophet, thus saith the Lord Almighty, saying, Thus saith the Lord Almighty, I sent you not, neither have ye builded the house of the Lord Almighty. 17 But you, Zorobabel, and his brethren, said, Who shall build this house for me? who shall set up the sanctuary of my glory? 18 Then said the Lord Almighty, In the latter days it shall come to pass, that every one that goes forth to build shall be burdened with timber, and every one that goes in shall be burdened with stone. 19 And every one shall be, they shall all work in the house of the Lord Almighty, saying, The Lord Almighty doth the thought, and the work. 20 For my spirit shall go into the houses of these people, saith the Lord Almighty, and I will show myself good in their midst, saith the Lord Almighty.
So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the Lord; and so are all the works of their hands: and whosoever shall approach them, shall be defiled because of their early burdens: they shall be pained because of their toils; and ye have hated him that reproved in the gates. 16 And now consider, I pray you, from this day and beforetime, when they laid a stone on a stone in the temple of the Lord, what manner of men ye were. 17 When ye cast into the corn-bin twenty measures of barley, and there were only ten measures of barley; and ye went yea to the vat to draw out fifty measures, and there were but twenty. 18 I smote you with barrenness, and with blasting, and all the works of your hands with hail; yet ye returned not to me, saith the Lord.

19 Set your hearts now to think from this day and upward, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, even from the day when the foundation of the temple of the Lord was laid: 20 consider in your hearts, whether this shall be known on the corn-floor, and whether yet the vine, and the fig-tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive-trees that bear no fruit are with you: from this day will I bless you.

21 And the word of the Lord came to Aggæus the prophet, on the four and twentieth day of the month, saying, 22 Speak to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, saying, I shake the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land; and I will overthrow the thrones of kings, and I will destroy the power of the kings of the nations; and I will overthrow chariots and riders; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword striving against his brother. 24 In that day, saith the Lord Almighty, I will take thee, O Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, my servant, saith the Lord, and will make thee as a seal: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord Almighty.

21And the word of the Lord came to Aggæus the prophet, on the four and twentieth day of the month, saying, 22 Speak to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, saying, I shake the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land; and I will overthrow the thrones of kings, and I will destroy the power of the kings of the nations; and I will overthrow chariots and riders; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword striving against his brother. 24 In that day, saith the Lord Almighty, I will take thee, O Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, my servant, saith the Lord, and will make thee as a seal: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord Almighty.

21And the word of the Lord came to Aggæus the prophet, on the four and twentieth day of the month, saying, 22 Speak to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, saying, I shake the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land; and I will overthrow the thrones of kings, and I will destroy the power of the kings of the nations; and I will overthrow chariots and riders; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword striving against his brother. 24 In that day, saith the Lord Almighty, I will take thee, O Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, my servant, saith the Lord, and will make thee as a seal: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord Almighty.

In the eighth month, in the second year of the reign of Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, the son of Barachias, the son of Addo, the prophet, saying,

2 The Lord has been very sore judging you fathers. 3 And thou shalt say to them, Thus saith the Lord Almighty: Turn to me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will turn to you, saith the Lord of hosts. 4 And be not as your fathers, whom the prophet.
of the Lord Almighty.

4 Where are your fathers, and the prophets? Will they live for ever? 5 But do ye receive my words and mine ordinances, and that I may lay them up in the midst of your heart, and in the heart of your children after you, and in the heart of the earth which ye tread upon, even to the heaven of the heavens above, and to the depths of the sea below. 6 And will I, saith the Lord Almighty, turn ye from your evil ways, and from your evil practices: but they hearkened not, and attended not to hearken to me, saith the Lord.

7 On the twentieth day in the eleventh month, this is the month Sabat, in the second year of the reign of Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, the son of Barachias, the son of Addo, the prophet, saying,

8 I saw by night, and beheld a man mounted on a red horse, and he stood between the shady mountains; and behind him were red horses, and grey, and piebald, and white. 9 And I said, What are these, my lord? And their angel that spake with me said unto me, I will shew thee what these things are. 10 And the man that stood between the mountains answered, and said to me, These are they whom the Lord has sent forth to go round the earth. 11 And they answered the angel of the Lord that stood between the mountains, and said, We have gone round all the earth, and behold, all the earth is inhabited, and is at rest.

12 Then the angel of the Lord answered and said, O Lord Almighty, how long wilt thou have no mercy on Jerusalem, and the cities of Juda, which thou hast disregarded these seventy years? 13 And the Lord Almighty answered the angel that spoke with me good words and consolatory sayings. 14 And the angel that spoke with me said unto me, Go, cry yet, and say, Thus saith the Lord Almighty; Yet shall cities be spread abroad through prosperity; and the Lord shall yet have mercy upon Sion, and shall choose Jerusalem. 15 And I lifted up mine eyes, and beheld four horns. 16 And I said to the angel that spoke with me, What are these things, my lord? And he said to me, These are the horns that have scattered Juda, and Israel, and Jerusalem.

17 And the Lord shewed me four artificers. 18 And I said, What are these coming to do? And he said, These are the horns that scattered Juda, and they broke Israel in pieces, and none of them lifted up his head: and these are come forth to sharpen them for their... hands, even the four horns, the nations that lifted up the horn against the land of the Lord to scatter it.

And I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a man, and in his hand a measure line. 2 And he said to me, Whither goest thou? And he said to me, To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth of it, and what is the length of it. 3 And, behold, the angel that spoke with me stood by, and another angel went forth to meet him, and spoke to him, saying, Run and speak to that young man, saying,

Jerusalem shall be fully inhabited by reason of the abundance of men and cattle in the midst of her. 4 And I will be to her, saith the Lord, a wall of fire round about, and I will be for a glory in the midst of her.

6 Ho, ho, flee from the land of the north, saith the Lord, and he will gather you from the four winds of heaven, saith the Lord. 7 Even to Sion: deliver yourselves, ye that dwell with the daughter of Babylon. 8 For thus saith the Lord Almighty: After the glory has he sent me to the nations that spoiled you: for he that touches you is as one that touches the apple of his eye. 9 For, behold, I bring my hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to them that serve them: and ye shall know that the Lord Almighty has sent me.

10 Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Sion: for, behold, I come, and will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the Lord. 11 And many nations shall flee for refuge to the Lord in that day, and they shall be for a people to him, and they shall dwell in the midst of thee: and thou shalt know that the Lord Almighty has sent me to thee. 12 And the Lord shall inherit Judah his portion in the holy holy land, and he will yet choose Jerusalem. 13 Let all flesh fear before the Lord: for he has risen up from his holy clouds.

And the Lord shewed me Jesus the high priest standing before the angel of the Lord, and the Devil stood on his right hand to resist him. 2 And the Lord said to the Devil,

3 The Lord rebuke thee, O Devil, even the Lord that has chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: behold! is not this a brand plucked from the fire?

4 Now Jesus was clothed in filthy raiment, and stood before the angel. 5 And the Lord answered and spoke to those who stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy raiment from him: and he said to him, Behold, I have taken away thine iniquities: and clothe him with a long robe, and place a pure mitre upon his head. So they placed a pure mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments: and the angel of the Lord stood by. 7 And the angel of the Lord testified to Jesus, saying, 8 Thus saith the Lord Almighty:

If thou wilt walk in my ways, and take heed to my charges, then shalt thou judge my house: and if thou wilt diligently keep
And he said to me, What seest thou? And I said, I have seen, and behold a candlestick all of gold, and its bowl upon it, and seven lamps upon it, and seven oil funnels to the lamps upon it: and two olive-trees above it, one on the right of the bowl, and one on the left. And I inquired, and spoke to the angel that talked with me, saying, Who art thou? And he answered me, saying, I am an angel of God. And the angel that talked with me answered, and said to me, Knowest thou not what these things are? And I said, No, my lord. And he answered me, and spoke to me, saying, This is the word of the Lord to Zorobabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord Almighty. Who art thou that thou shouldest build against me? saith the Lord Almighty, this old house? saith Zorobabel, this new house shall be greater than the former, saith Zorobabel. And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, The hands of Zorobabel have laid the foundation of this house, and his hands shall finish it: and thou shalt know that I the Lord have spoken. For who has despised the small days? surely they shall rejoice, and shall see the plummet of in the hand of Zorobabel: these are the seven eyes that look upon all the earth.

And I answered, and said to him, What are these two olive-trees which are on the right and left hand of the candlestick? And I asked the second time, and said to him, What are the two branches of the olive-trees that are by the side of the two golden pipes that pour into and communicate with the golden oil funnels? And he said to me, Knowest thou not what these are? and I said, No, my lord. And he said, These are the two anointed ones that stand by the Lord of the whole earth. And I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked and beheld a flying sickle. And he said to me, What seest thou? And I said, I see a flying sickle, of the length of twenty cubits, and of the breadth of ten cubits. And he said to me, This is the curse that goes forth over the face of the whole earth: for every thief shall be punished with death on this side, and every false swearer shall be punished on that side. And I will bring it forth, saith the Lord Almighty, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall rest in the midst of his house, and shall consume it, and the timber of it, and the stones of it.

And the angel that talked with me went forth, and said to me, Lift up thine eyes, and see this that goes forth. And I said, What is it? And he said, This is the mea sure that goes forth. And he said, This is their iniquity in all the earth. And he said,
And this is the angel that spoke with me.
Whither do these carry away the measure? And he said to me, To build it a house in the land of Babylon, and to prepare a place for it; and they shall set it there on its own base.

And I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, four chariots coming out from between two mountains; and the mountains were brazen mountains. In the first chariot were red horses; and in the second chariot black horses; and in the third chariot white horses; and in the fourth chariot piebald and ash-coloured horses.

And I lifted up mine eyes, and beheld, and behold a woman sat in the midst of the measure.

And he said, This is iniquity. And he cast it into the midst of the measure, and cast the weight of lead on the mouth of it.

And to the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord? And he answered and said, These are the fours winds of heaven, and they are going forth to stand before the Lord of all the earth. As for the chariot in which were the black horses, they went out to the land of the north; and the white went out after them; and the piebald went out to the land of the south.

And the ash-coloured went out, and looked to go and compass the earth: and he said, Go, and compass the earth. And they compassed the earth.

And he cried out and spoke to me, saying, Behold, these go out to the land of the north, and they have quieted mine anger in the land of the north.

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Take the things of the captivity from the chief men, and from the useful men of it, and from them that have understood it; and thou shalt enter in that day into the house of Josias the son of Sophonias that came out of Babylon. And thou shalt take silver and gold, and make crowns, and thou shalt put them upon the head of Jesus the son of Josedach, the high priest; and thou shalt say to him, Thus saith the Lord Almighty; Behold the man whose name is The Branch; and he shall spring up from his stem, and build the house of the Lord.

And he shall receive a name, and shall stand and rule upon his throne; and there shall be a priest on his right hand, and a peaceable counsel shall be between them both.

3 Gr. of it.
Thus saith the Lord Almighty; Behold, I will save my people from the east country, and the west country; and I will bring them in, and cause them to dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and they shall be to me a people, and I will be to them a God, in truth and in righteousness.

Thus saith the Lord Almighty; Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words out of the mouth of the prophets, from the day that the house of the Lord Almighty was founded, and from the time that the temple was built. For before those days the wages of men could not be profitable, and there could be no hire of cattle, and there could be no peace by reason of the affliction to him that went out or to him that came in: for I would have let loose all men, every one against his neighbour.

But now will I not do to the remnant of this people according to the former days, saith the Lord Almighty.

But I will shew peace: the vine shall yield her fruit, and the land shall yield her produce, and the heaven shall give its dew: and I will give as an inheritance all these things to the remnant of my people.

And it shall come to pass, as ye were a curse among the heathen, so I will make you a praise and a name, saith the Lord Almighty; ye shall be a blessing: be of good courage, and strengthen your hands.

For thus saith the Lord Almighty; As I took counsel to afflicte you when your fathers provoked me, saith the Lord Almighty, and I repented not; so have I prepared and taken counsel in these days to do good to Jerusalem and to the house of Judah; ye be of good courage. These are the things which ye shall do; speak truth every one with his neighbour; judge truth and peaceable judgment in your gates; and let none of you devise evil in his heart against his neighbour; and love not a false oath: for all these things I hate, saith the Lord Almighty.

And the word of the Lord Almighty came to me, saying,

Thus saith the Lord Almighty, The fourth fast, and the fifth fast, and the seventh fast, and the tenth fast, shall be to the house of Judah for joy and gladness, and for good feasts; and ye shall rejoice; and love ye the truth and peace.

Thus saith the Lord Almighty; Yet shall many peoples come, and the inhabitants of many cities; and the inhabitants of five cities shall come together to one city, saying, Let us go to make supplication to the Lord, and to seek the face of the Lord Almighty; I will go also. And many peoples and many nations shall come to seek earnestly the face of the Lord Almighty.
mighty in Jerusalem, and to obtain favour of the Lord.

28 Thus saith the Lord Almighty: In those days my word shall be fulfilled if ten men of all the languages of the nations should take hold—even take hold of the hem of a Jew, saying, We will go with thee; for we have heard that God is with you.

The burden of the word of the Lord in the land of Seir, thus saith the Lord of hosts, even I will visit upon the vineyard, and the spoils thereof shall be consumed.

And in Emath, even in her coasts, are Tyre and Sidon, because they were very wise. And Tyre built strong-holds for herself, and heaped up silver as dust, and gathered gold as the mire of the ways.

4 And therefore the Lord will take them for a possession, and will smite her power in the sea; and she shall be consumed with fire.

5 Ascalon shall see, and fear; Gaza also, and shall be greatly pained, and Accaron; for she is ashamed at her trespass; and the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ascalon shall not be inhabited.

6 And aliens shall dwell in Azotos, and I will bring down the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I will take their blood out of their mouth, and their abominations from between their teeth; and these also shall be left to our God, and they shall be as a captain of a thousand in Juda, and Accaron as a Jebusite.

8 And I will set up a sedent for my house, that they may not pass through, nor turn back, neither shall there any more come upon them one to drive them away: for now have I seen with mine eyes.

9 Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; proclaim it aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem; behold, the King is coming to thee, just, and a Saviour; he is meek and riding upon an ass, and a young foal.

10 And he shall destroy the chariots out of Ephraim, and the horse out of Jerusalem, and the bow of war shall be utterly destroyed; and there shall be abundance and peace of the nations; and he shall rule over the waters as far as the sea, and the rivers to the ends of the earth.

11 And thou by the blood of thy covenant hast sent forth thy prisoners out of the pit that has no water. Ye shall dwell in strongholds, ye prisoners of the congregation; and for one day of thy captivity I will recompense thee double.

12 For I have beat thee, O Juda, for myself as a bow, I have filled Ephraim; and I will raise up thy children, O Sion, against the children of the Greeks, and I will handle thee as the sword of a warrior.

13 And the Lord shall be over them, and his arrow shall go forth as lightning: and the Lord Almighty shall blow with the trumpet; and shall proceed with the tumult of his threatening.

14 The Lord Almighty shall plunder them, and they shall destroy them, and overwhelm them with sling-stones; and they shall swallow them down as wine, and fill the bowls as the altar.

15 And the Lord their God shall save them in that day, even his people as a flock; for holy stones are rolled upon his land. 2 For if he has anything good, and if he has anything fair, the young men shall have corn, and there shall be fragrant wine to the virgins.

Ask ye of the Lord rain in season, the early and the latter; the Lord has given bright signs, and will give them abundant rain, to every one grass in the field. 2 For the speakers have uttered grievous things, and the diviners have seen false visions, and they have spoken false dreams, they have given vain comfort; therefore have they fallen away like sheep, and been afflicted, because there was no healing.

2 Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds, and I will visit the lambs; and the Lord God Almighty shall visit his flock, the house of Juda, and he shall make them as his goodly horse in war. 4 And from him he looked, and from him he set the battle in order, and from him came the bow in anger, and from him shall come forth every oppressor together. 5 And they shall be as warriors treading clay in the ways in war; and they shall set the battle in array, because the Lord is with them, and the riders on horses shall be put to shame.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Juda, and save the house of Joseph, and I will settle them; because I have loved them: and they shall be as I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and I will hear them. 7 And they shall be as the warriors of Ephraim, and their heart shall rejoice as with wine: and their children also shall see it, and be glad; and their heart shall rejoice in the Lord. 8 I will make a sign to them, and gather them in; for I will redeem them, and they shall be multiplied according to their number before.

9 And I will sow them among the people; and they that are afar off shall remember me: they shall nourish their children, and they shall return. 10 And I will bring them again from the land of Egypt, and I will gather them in from among the Assyrians; and I will bring them into the land of Gなぜsad and to Libanus; and there shall not even one of them be left behind. 11 And they shall pass through a narrow sea, they shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the deep places of the rivers shall be dried up: and all the pride of the Assyrians shall be taken away, and the sceptre of Egypt shall be removed. 12 And I will strengthen them in the Lord their God; and they shall boast in his name, to the Lord.

Open thy doors, O Libanus, and let the fire devour thy cedars. 2 Let the pine hew, because the cedar has fallen; for the mighty men have been greatly afflicted: hew, ye oaks of the land of Basan; for the thickly planted forest has been torn down.

3 There is a voice of the shepherds mourning; for their greatness is brought low: a voice of roaring lions; for the pride of Jordan is brought down.

Thus saith the Lord Almighty,Feed the sheep of the slaughter; 5 which their possessors have slain, and have not repented: and they that sold them said, Blessed be the Lord; for we have become rich; and their shepherds have suffered no sorrow for them. Therefore I will no longer have mercy upon the inhabitants of the land, saith the Lord: but, behold, I will deliver up the men every one into the hand of his neighbour, and into the hand of his king; and they shall destroy the land, and I will not rescue out of their hand.

And I will tend the flock of slaughter in the land of Chanaan: and I will take for myself two rods; the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Line; and I will tend the flock. 3 And I will cut off three shepherds in one month; and my soul shall grieve over them, for their souls cried out against me. 4 And I said, I will not tend you: that which dies, let it die; and that which falls off, let it fall off; and let the rest eat every one the flesh of his neighbour.

And I will take my beautiful staff, and cast it away, that I may break my covenant which I made with all the people. 5 And it shall be broken in that day; and the Chanaanites, the shepherds that are bereaved, shall know that it is the word of the Lord.

And I will say to them, If it be good in your eyes, give me my price, or refuse it. And they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver. 8 And the Lord said to me, Drop them into the furnace, and I will see if it is good metal, as I was proved for their sakes. 9 And I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them into the furnace in the house of the Lord.

And I cast away my second rod, even Line, that I might break the possession between Juda and Israel.

And the Lord said to me, Take yet to thee shepherd's implements belonging to an unskilful shepherd. 11 For, behold, I will raise up a shepherd against my people, the inhabitants of Chanaan: he shall not visit that which is perishing, and he shall not seek that which is scattered, and he shall not heal that which is bruised, nor guide that which is whole: but he shall devour the flesh of the choice ones, and shall dislocate the joints of their ikens.
of the earth shall be gathered together against it. And in that day, saith the Lord Almighty, I will smite every horse with amazement, and his rider with madness:

3 And the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall say in their hearts, We shall find for ourselves the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the Lord Almighty their God. In that day will I make the captains of thousands of Judah as a firebrand among wood, and as a torch of fire in stubble; and they shall devour on the right hand and on the left all the nations round about; and Jerusalem shall dwell again by herself, even in Jerusalem.

4 And the Lord shall save the tabernacles of Judah as at the beginning, that the boast of the house of David, and the pride of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, may not magnify themselves against Judah. And it shall come to pass in that day, that the Lord shall defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and the weak one among them in that day shall be as David, and the house of David as the house of God, as the angel of the Lord before them. And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

5 And I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace and compassion: and they shall look upon me, because they have mocked me, and they shall make lamentation for him, as for a beloved friend, and they shall grieve intensely, as for a first-born son.

6 In that day the lamentation in Jerusalem shall be very great, as the mourning for the pomegranate grove cut down in the plain. And the land shall lament in separate families, the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of Nathan by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of Simeon by itself, and their wives by themselves; all the families that are left, each family by itself, and their wives by themselves.

7 In that day every place shall be opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for removal and for separation. And it shall come to pass, in that day, saith the Lord of hosts, that I will utterly destroy the names of the idols from off the land, and there shall be no longer any remembrance of them: and I will cut off the false prophets and the evil spirit from the land.

8 And it shall come to pass, if a man will yet prophesy, that his father and his mother which gave birth to him, shall say to him, Thou shalt not live: for thou hast spoken lies in the name of the Lord: and his father and his mother who gave him birth shall bind him as he is prophesying.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision when he prophesies; and

10 And the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be gathered about the house of David, and they shall gather round about the Lord, and shall be his people:

11 And in that day there shall be a great mourning, as when it was a heifer that travaileth, and there is none to check her:

12 And the的声音 of the shepherds that lament for the sheep, shall be as a great mourning, as when Jezreel laments for the flock:

13 Thus saith the Lord, They shall weep, but not for the dead, neither shall they lament for iniquity:

14 Thus saith the Lord, I will be very jealous for Jacob, and jealous for Israel, as a strong man, as a man of war:

15 And I will make them and the places thereof, an heap, an astonishment, an hissing, and everlasting desolation; and them which dwell therein shall be consumed with fire.

16 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will be sought of the weary and disabled of the world: among whom was I hid with the multitude in the wood, and with the flock in the desert.

17 Hearken, O house of Jacob, all ye that are gathered of the house of Israel, that to me hath been presented;

18 Thus saith the Lord, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel, to him that is despised, and abhorred of you, the opiate, and the hidden from the eyes of you, who make my face to be hid, when ye go from me: thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will take care of you, and this shall be your counsellor, and your eyes shall see it:

19 And I will make you an universal blessing unto all nations, when they shall utter a blessing, saying, The blessing of God is upon David, upon the family of Jacob, to do you good.

20 Then shall they call on me, and I will answer them; I will say in the covenant made with many, and in theInternalServerError
5 and doubt thou not, and be not afraid, and shall come, and shall say, I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt:

6 and I will give unto thee the land of Canaan, the land of the covenant which I sware unto Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

7 And they shall be mine people, and I will be their God:

8 and the Lord shall dwell in the midst of her, and shall be her king, and those that dwell in her shall be called the children of the Lord Almighty.

9 And the Lord shall guide them with his rod in the light of the sun, and shall rule them in the brightness of his salvation, and shall be their king for ever.

10 And thou shalt see and know that the Lord is one, and that there is none other.

11 And thou shalt take up a proverb in the sight of them, saying, The Lord is my shepherd, and I shall not want:

12 he shall provide me with good things, and I shall feed in the green pastures of the Lord.

13 And he shall lead me beside still waters, and he shall guide me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

14 And thou shalt follow after the Lord thy God, and he shall be thy strength and thy refuge, and thou shalt not fear.

15 And the Lord shall be thy shield, and he shall be thy buckler, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

16 And the Lord shall be thy light, and the Lord shall be thy glory, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

17 And the Lord shall be thy hope and thy confidence, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

18 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

19 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

20 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

21 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

22 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

23 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

24 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

25 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

26 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

27 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

28 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

29 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

30 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.

31 And the Lord shall be thy righteousness, and the Lord shall be thy strength, and thou shalt not be put to shame.
ZACHARIAS XIV. 12—21.

12 And this shall be the overthrow with which the Lord will smite all the nations, as many as have fought against Jerusalem; their flesh shall consume away while they are standing upon their feet, and their eyes shall melt out of their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth. And there shall be in that day a great panic from the Lord upon them; and they shall lay hold every man of the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall be clasped with the hand of his neighbour.

13 Judah also shall fight in Jerusalem; and God shall gather the strength of all the nations round about, gold, and silver, and apparel, in great abundance. And this shall be the overthrow of the horses, and mules, and camels, and asses, and all the beasts that are in those camps, according to this overthrow.

14 And it shall come to pass, that whatsoever shall be left of all the nations that came against Jerusalem, shall even come up every year to worship the king, the Lord Almighty, and to keep the feast of tabernacles. And it shall come to pass, that whatsoever of all the families of the earth shall not come up to Jerusalem to worship the king, the Lord Almighty, even these shall be added to the others. And if the family of Egypt shall not go up, nor come; then upon them shall be the overthrow with which the Lord shall smite all the nations, whichever of them shall not come up to keep the feast of tabernacles. This shall be the sin of Egypt, and the sin of all the nations, whatsoever shall not come up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

15 In that day there shall be upon the bridle of every horse Holiness to the Lord Almighty; and the caldrons in the house of the Lord shall be as bowls before the altar.

16 And every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah shall be holy to the Lord Almighty; and all that sacrifice shall come and take of them, and shall seethe meat in them: and in that day there shall be no more the Chananite in the house of the Lord Almighty.

8 Or, astonishment. 17 Lit., tent-stitching.
MALACHI S. I. 1–11.

The burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by the hand of his messenger. Lay it, I pray you, to heart.

2 I have loved you, saith the Lord; and because ye say, What shall we speak? saith the Lord, ye have made the desolate places to be inhabited.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord, If ye return, then I will take you; and if ye turn your feet away, then he will destroy you. And I will deal wisely and justly with you in your abominations and your devotions.

4 And as for the latter time of the drink offering, it is not in mine honour; for I have set no measure to it, and neither have I accounted for it in my电路.

5 For I am a great king for your sakes, and I will shew wonders among you. For this is a nation without counsel. Do not fear their fear, neither be troubled for their trouble.

6 Ye have sinned against the Lord; and the Lord made a breach therefor. Cast a looks upon the desolation that is all round about you; because the Lord shall write among the nations, and say, Surely this is a people that worshiped me with their mouth, and walked after me with their eyes, and a circuit upon their circuit: they are a nation without knowledge, and have seen vanity.

7 Thus saith the Lord, If ye will return, and keep my commandments; and if ye call upon the Lord, and seek after him, and take hold of his covenant; 8 Then will I circumcise your heart, and will take away your stubborn heart from you, and make you a new heart and a new spirit: and I will put my spirit within you, and will cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my ordinances.

9 Ye shall see and know, and perceive my hand and my arm; or shall not my arm bring these things? saith the Lord.

10 Ye said, Ye shall not see my face, yet, lo, a new thing I create, a thing even of the last years, which I made not known to the ancients of old; saying, Ye have not heard, and seen it with your eyes.

11 Lo, I will bring a nation out of the north, and a nation that is to be reckoned for a nation. Out of Jacob I will bring a seed, and out of Esau I will bring a people; and I will appoint the mountains for their inheritance, and the hills for their dwelling place: and they shall possess the desert of the east, and the wilderness of the south, and the Lebanon together with the cedars. And I will make the fruit thereof your food, and the increase thereof your drink; I will make the Cunningham thereof your garment, and all strangers that be in the midst thereof shall be girded with your beauty; and they shall minister unto you. But as for you also, ye shall be named the holy city of the Lord, the tabernacle of glory.

12 Ye shall给你们 the Lord for a name, and ye shall take him for your king, who will execute the judgment and righteousness in the earth.

Bam, Robert 9. 13. Lit. appointed them for desolation. Gr. above. Lit. propitiator.
But ye profane it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is polluted, and his meats set thereon are despised. And ye said, These two things are alike, this is the table of the Lord, and that is the table of the Lord. I have utterly rejected them with scorn, saith the Lord Almighty: and ye brought in torn victualls, and lame, and sick; if then ye should bring an offering, shall I accept it at your hands, saith the Lord Almighty.

And cursed is the man who had the power, and possessed a male in his flock, and whose vow is upon him, and who sacrificed a corrupt thing to the Lord: for I am a great King, saith the Lord Almighty, and my name is glorious among the nations.

And now, O priests, this commandment is to you. If ye will not hearken, and if ye will not lay it to heart, to give glory to my name, saith the Lord Almighty, then will I send forth the curse upon you, and will bring a curse upon your blessing: yea, I will curse it, and I will scatter your blessing, and it shall not exist among you, because ye lay not this to heart.

Behold, I turn, and I will scatter dung upon your faces, the dung of your feasts, and I will carry you away at the same time. And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment to you, that my covenant might be with the sons of Levi, saith the Lord Almighty.

My covenant of life and peace was with him, and I gave it him that he might reverently fear me, and that he might be awe-struck at my name. The law of truth was in his mouth, and unrighteousness was not found in his lips: he walked before me directing his way in peace, and he turned many from unrighteousness. For the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: for he is the messenger of the Lord Almighty.

But ye have turned aside from the way, and caused many to fall in following the law: ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, saith the Lord Almighty. And I have made you despised and cast out among all the people, because ye have not kept my ways, but have been partial in the law.

Have ye not all one father? Did not one God create you? why have ye forsaken every man his brother, to profane the covenant of your fathers?

Juda has been forsaken, and an abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem: for Juda has profaned the holy things of the Lord, which he delighted in and has gone after other gods. The Lord will utterly destroy the man that does these things, until he be even cast down from out of the tabernacles of Jacob, and from among them that offer sacrifice to the Lord Almighty. And these things which I hated, ye did: ye covered with tears the altars of the Lord, and went with weeping and groaning because of troubles: is it meet for me to have respect to your sacrifice, or to receive anything from your hands as welcome?
Yet ye said, Wherefore? Because the Lord has borne witness between thee and the wife of thy youth, whom thou hast forsaken, and yet she was thy partner, and the wife of thy covenant. 8 And did he not do well? and there was the residue of his spirit. But ye said, What does God seek but a sacrifice? But take ye heed to your spirit, and forsake not that wife of thy youth. 9 But if thou shouldst hate thy wife and put her away, saith the Lord God of Israel, then ungodliness shall cover thy thoughts, saith the Lord Almighty: therefore take ye heed to your spirit, and forsake them not, ye that have provoked God with your words. But ye said, Wherein have we provoked him? 10 In that ye say, Everyone that does evil is a pleasing object in the sight of the Lord, and he takes pleasure in such; and where is the God of justice? 11 Behold, I send forth my messenger, and he shall survey the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come into his temple, even the angel of the covenant, whom ye take pleasure in: behold, he is coming, saith the Lord Almighty. 12 And who will be able to endure on the day of his appearing? for he is coming in as the fire of a furnace and as the herb of fullers.

And the sacrifice of Judah and Jerusalem shall be pleasing to the Lord, according to the former days, and according to the former years. And I will draw near to you in judgment; and I will be a swift witness against the witches, and against the adulteresses, and against them that swear falsely by my name, and against them that keep back the hirpling's wages, and them that oppress the widow, and afflict the stranger, and that wrest the judgment of the stranger, and fear not me, saith the Lord Almighty. 6 For I am the Lord your God, and I am not changed: 7 but ye, the sons of Jacob, have not refrained from the iniquities of your fathers: ye have perverted my statutes, and have not kept them.

Return to me, and I will return to you, saith the Lord Almighty. But ye said, Wherein shall we return? 8 Will a man satisfy God for ye? But ye say, Wherein have we insulted thee? In that the tithes and first-fruits are with you still.

And ye do surely look off from me, and ye insult me. 10 The year is completed, and ye have brought all the produce into the store-houses; but there shall be the plunder thereof in its house: return now on this behalf, saith the Lord Almighty, see if I will not open to you the torrents of heaven, and pour out my blessing upon you, until ye be satisfied. 11 And I will appoint food for you, and I will not destroy the fruit of your land; and your vine in the field shall not fail, saith the Lord Almighty.
And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a desirable land, saith the Lord Almighty.

Ye have spoken grievous words against me, saith the Lord. Yet ye said, Wherein have we spoken against thee? Ye said, He that serves God labours in vain: and what have we gained in that we have kept his ordinances, and in that we have walked as suppliants before the face of the Lord Almighty? And now we pronounce strangers blessed; and all they who act unlawfully are built up; and they have resisted God, and yet have been delivered.

Thus spake they that feared the Lord, every one to his neighbour: and the Lord gave heed, and hearkened, and he wrote a book of remembrance before him for them that feared the Lord and revered his name. And they shall be mine, saith the Lord Almighty, in the day which I appoint for a peculiar possession; and I will make choice of them, as a man makes choice of his son that serves him. Then shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, and between him that serves God, and him that serves him not.

For, behold, a day comes burning as an oven, and it shall consume them; and all the aliens, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that is coming shall set them on fire, saith the Lord Almighty, and there shall not be left of them root or branch.

But to you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise, and healing shall be in his wings: and ye shall go forth, and bound as young calves let loose from bonds. And ye shall trample the wicked; for they shall be ashes underneath your feet in the day which I appoint, saith the Lord Almighty. And, behold, I will send to you Elias the Thesbite, before the great and glorious day of the Lord comes; who shall turn again the heart of the father to the son, and the heart of a man to his neighbour, lest I come and smite the earth grievously.

Remember the law of my servant Moses, accordingly as I charged him with it in Choreb for all Israel, even the commandments and ordinances.

APPENDIX.

H. KINGS (II. SAM.) 5. 18.—Giants.  Hebr. הָיוֹת. For some interesting remarks on this word, see the conclusion of Govett's work on the book of the prophet Isaiah.

Job 25. 2.—In the New Testament παραβολή is almost always translated proverb, but in John 10. 6 it is rendered parable, which seems to be the sense intended here. Probably προοίμιον is a mistake of the transcriber.

Job 39. 13.—τερπομένων. The LXX. seem to have caught at the meaning of וְיָבַל בָּתַי from which comes the word here used בֵּית נִנְנִי struthiones. νελακασα—Hebrew הַנִל עַל, part. niph. fem. of הָל עַל letatus est. αὐτὸς ἔρις ciconia verssa נִנְנִי penna (qu. item struthiocamelus). “The peacock's wing is proudly spread. Is the ostrich also, if it conceive, like the stork? For,” &c. The stork according to tradition being the pious bird, the ostrich the contrary. —C. Pridham.

Psalm 41. (42) 4.—There are several difficulties connected with this passage. In the first place it seems evident that the LXX. read נַפְבֶּה, and the English translators נבֶה, or something similar. The Hebrew Text (to which no אַל is appended) thus far favours the LXX.; who, however, appear to have read נבֶה as a part of נבֶה, and made an adjective of it. Again, τοῦ has nothing immediately answering it in the Hebrew, and may be accounted for on the principle so often referred to of double translation.

Proverbs 8. 5.—It is frequently the case in Proverbs that ἁκακος is used in a bad sense, and πανοῖρος in a good one. For ἁκακος see chap. 1. 4, 22; 8. 5; 14. 15; 21. 11. For πανοῖρος, 12. 16; 13. 1, 16; 14. 8, 15, 18; 15. 5; 21. 11; 22. 3; 27. 12; 28. 2.

Isaiah 2. 6.—Philistines. The LXX. generally render בִּחְשֻׁנָה by Φυλασσεῖν or Φυλασσεῖ in about the middle of Judges, after which the word almost always used is ἀλλόφυλα. In this there was probably some accommodation of sound to sense.

Jezeekiel 16. 44.—The most obvious meaning of παρασβολή seems to be comparison. The word is so translated, Mark 4. 30; in Heb. 9. 9 and 11. 19 it is rendered figure; in Luke 4. 23, proverb, which is the word employed by the English translators in this passage of Ezekiel. In the other passages of the New Testament, amounting to upwards of forty, it is uniformly rendered parable. See note on Job 25. 2, above. For the more classical use of the word, see Aristotle's Rhetoric, book 3.

Exodus 28. The following verses are found neither in the Vatican nor Alexandrine copies, but appear thus in the Complutensian text:

23 And thou shalt make upon the oracle two golden rings, and thou shalt put the two golden rings on both the upper corners of the oracle. 24 And thou shalt put the fringes and the chains of gold on the two rings on both the sides of the oracle. 25 And thou shalt put two sides of the two fringes on the two hems, and thou shalt put the shoulders of the ephod opposite in front. 26 And thou shalt make two golden rings, and shalt put them on the two edges of the oracle.
THE FOLLOWING PASSAGES ARE SUPPLIED FROM THE

KINGS I. (Sam. I.)

17. And David son of an Ephrathite said, this Ephrathite was of Bethlehem Juda, and his name was Jesse, and he had eight sons. And the man passed for an old man among men in the days of Saul. 18 And the three elder sons of Jesse went and followed Saul to the war, and the names of his sons that went to the war were, Eliab his first-born, and his second Abinadab, and his third son Samma. 14 And David himself was the younger son, and the three elder followed Saul. 15 And David departed and returned from Saul, to feed his father’s sheep in Bethlehem. 16 And the Philistine advanced morning and evening, and stood up forty days. 17 And Jesse said to David, Take now to thy brethren an ephah of this meal, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp and give them to thy brothers. 18 And thou shalt carry to the captain of the thousand these ten cheeses of milk, and thou shalt see how thy brethren fare, and learn what they want. 19 And Saul himself and all the men of Israel were in the valley of the Oak, warring with the Philistines. 20 And David rose early in the morning, and left the sheep to a keeper, and took and went as Jesse commanded him, and he came to the trench and to the army as it was going out to fight, and they shouted for the battle. 21 And Israel and the Philistines formed their lines one opposite the other. 22 And David deposited his burden in the hand of a keeper, and ran to the line, and went and asked his brethren how they were. 23 And thou shalt fasten the oracle by the rings upon it to the rings of the ephod joined with blue lace and attached to the woven work of the ephod, that the oracle may not be loosed from the ephod.

25 And while he was speaking with them, behold the Amalekite advanced, Goliath by name, the Philistine of Geth, of the armies of the Philistines, and he spoke as before, and David heard. 24 And all the men of Israel when they saw the man fled from before him, and they were greatly terrified. 23 And the men of Israel said, Have ye seen this man that comes up? for he has reproached Israel and has come up; and it shall be that the man who shall smite him, the king shall enrich him with great wealth, and shall give him his daughter, and shall make his father’s house free in Israel. 26 And David spoke to the men who stood with him, saying, Shall it indeed be done thus to the man who shall smite that Philistine, and take away reproach from Israel? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine that he has defied the army of the living God? 27 And the people spoke to him according to this word, saying, Thus shall it be done to the man who shall smite him. 28 And Eliab his elder brother heard as he spoke to the men, and Eliab was very angry with David and said, Why hast thou thus come down, and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know thy pride and the naughtiness of thine heart, for thou art come down to see the battle. 29 And David said, What have I done now? Have I no business here? 30 And he turned from him toward another, and he spoke after the same manner; and the people answered him after the former manner. 31 And the words which David spoke were heard, and were reported to Saul. And he took him to himself.

APPENDIX.

Verse 41. And the Philistine advanced and drew nigh to David, and a man bearing his shield went before him, and the Philistine looked on.

Verse 50. So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and a stone, and smote the Philistine and slew him, and there was no sword in the hand of David.

Verse 55. And when Saul saw David going out to meet the Philistine, he said to Abner the captain of the host, Whose son is this youth? and Abner said, As thy soul lives, O king, I know not. 55 And the king said, Do thou ask whose son this youth is. 55 And as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him and brought him in before Saul, and the head of the Philistine was in his hand. 55 And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, young man? and David said, The son of thy servant Jesse the Bethlehemite.

18. And it came to pass when he had finished speaking to Saul, that the soul of Jonathan was knit to the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul. 2 And Saul took him in that day, and did not suffer him to return to his father's house. 3 And Jonathan and David made a covenant because he loved him as his own soul. 4 And Jonathan stripped himself of his upper garment, and gave it to David, and his mantle and all he had upon him, even to his sword and to his bow, and to his girdle. 5 And David went out whithersoever Saul sent him, and acted wisely, and Saul set him over the men of war, and he was pleasing in the eyes of all the people, and also in the eyes of the servants of Saul.

Verse 8. (last part.) And what more can he have but the kingdom? 6 And Saul eyed David from that day and onward. 10 And it came to pass on the morrow that an evil spirit from God fell upon Saul, and he prophesied in the midst of his house. And David was playing on the harp with his hand, according to his daily custom. And Saul's spear was in his hand. 11 And Saul took his spear and said, I will smite David even to the wall. But David escaped twice from his presence.

17 And Saul said to David, Behold my elder daughter Merob, I will give her to thee to wife, only be thou to me a mighty man and fight the wars of the Lord. And Saul said, Let not my hand be upon him, but the hand of the Philistines shall be upon him. 15 And David said to Saul, Who am I, and what is the life of my father's family in Israel, that I should be the king's son-in-law? 19 But it came to pass at the time when Merob Saul's daughter should have been given to David, that she was given to Israel the Mothulathite to wife.

Verse 30. And the chief of the Philistines went forth; and it came to pass that from the sufficiency of their expedition David acted wisely above all the servants of Saul; and his name was honoured exceedingly.

KINGS III. (KINGS I.)

2 ult. 3. verse 1. Considerable variation here rather than omission.

5. 17 And the king commanded and they brought great stones, precious stones for the foundation of the house, and unhewn stones.

6. 11 And the word of the Lord came to Solomon, saying, As for this house which thou art building, if thou wilt walk in my ordinances and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them, I will establish my word with thee which I spoke to David thy father. 13 And I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel. 14 So Solomon built the house, and finished it. 22 And all inside the oracle he overlaid with gold.

APOCRYPHA

PRINTED IN GREAT BRITAIN
AND Josias held the feast of the passover in Jerusalem unto his Lord, and offered the passover the fourteenth day of the first month; 2 having set the priests according to their daily courses, being arrayed in long garments, in the temple of the Lord. 3 And he spake unto the Levites, the holy ministers of Israel, that they should hallow themselves unto the Lord, to set the holy ark of the Lord in the house that king Solomon the son of David had built: 4 and said, Ye shall no more bear the ark upon your shoulders: now therefore serve the Lord your God, and minister unto him his people Israel, and keep the passover in order, and make ready the sacrifices for your brethren, and keep the passover according to the commandment of the Lord, which was given unto Moses.

And unto the people that was found there Josias gave thirty thousand lambs and kids, and three thousand calves: these things were given of the king's allowance, according as he promised, to the people, to the priests and to the Levites. 5 And Helkias, Zacharias, and Sylus, the governors of the temple, gave to the priests for the passover two thousand and six hundred sheep, and three hundred calves. 6 And Jeconias, and Samaias, and Nathanael his brother, and Assabias, and Ochiel, and Joram, captains over thousands, gave to the Levites for the passover five thousand sheep, and seven hundred calves.

And when these things were done, the priests and Levites, having the unleavened bread, stood in very comely order according to the kindreds, 8 and according to the several dignities of the fathers, before the people, to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moses: and thus did they in the morning. 9 And they roasted the passover with fire, as appertaineth: as for the sacrifices, they sod them in brass pots and pans with a good savour, 10 and set them before all the people: and afterward they prepared for themselves, and for the priests their brethren, the sons of Aaron. 11 For the priests offered the fat until night: and the Levites prepared for themselves, and the priests their brethren, the sons of Aaron. 12 The holy singers also, the sons of Asaph, in their order, according to the appointment of David, to wit, Asaph, Zacharias, and Jeduthun, who was of the king's retinue. 16 Moreover the porters were at every gate; it was not lawful for any to go from his place: also Levites prepared for them. 17 Thus were the things that belonged to the sacrifices of the Lord accomplished in that day, that they might hold the passover, and offer sacrifices upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandment of king Josias.

And the children of Israel which were present held the passover at that time, and the feast of sweet bread seven days. 20 And such a passover was not kept in Israel since the time of the prophet Samuel. 21 Yea, all the kings of Israel held not such a passover as Josias, and the priests, and the Levites, and the Jews, held with all Israel that were found dwelling at Jerusalem. 22 In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josias was this passover kept.

And the works of Josias were upright before his Lord with an heart full of godliness. 24 As for the things that came to pass in his time, they were written in former times, concerning those that sinned, and did wickedly against the Lord above all people and kingdoms, and how they grieved him exceedingly, so that the words of the Lord were against Israel.

Now after all these acts of Josias it came to pass that Pharaoh the king of Egypt came to raise war at Carcamys upon Ephrathas: and Josias went out against him. 25 But the king of Egypt sent to him, saying, What have I to do with thee, O king of Judea? 26 I am not sent out from the Lord God against thee; for my war is upon Ephrathas: and now the Lord is with me, yea the Lord is with me hasting me forward, depart from me, and be not against the Lord.

Howbeit Josias did not turn back his chariot from him, but undertook to fight with him, not regarding the words of the prophet Jeremy spoken by the mouth of the Lord: 28 but joined battle with him in the plain of Mageddo, and the princes came against king Josias. 29 Then said the king unto his servants, Carry me away out of the battle; for I am very weak. And immediately his servants took him away out of the battle. 30 Then gat he up upon his second chariot; and being brought back to Jerusalem died, and was buried in his father's sepulchre. 31 And in all Jewry they mourned for Josias, yea, Jeremy the prophet lamented for Josias, and the chief men with the women made lamentation for him unto this day. And it was given out for an ordinance to be done continually in all the nation of Israel.

These things are written in the book of the stories of the kings of Judah, and every one of the acts that Josias did, and his glory, and his understanding in the law of the Lord; and the things that he had done before, and the third year of his reign, are reported in the book of the kings of Israel and Judea.

And the people took Josiah the son of Josias, and made him king instead of Josias his father when he was twenty and three years old.
And he reigned in Judea and in Jerusalem three months: and then the king of Egypt deposeth him from reigning in Jerusalem. And he set a tax upon the land of an hundred talents of silver and one talent of gold.

The king of Egypt also made king Joa- chim his brother king of Judea and Jerusalem. And he bound Joaichim and the nobles: but Zareas his brother he apprehended, and brought him out of Egypt.

Five and twenty years old was Joaichim when he was made king in the land of Judea and Jerusalem: and he did evil before the Lord. Wherefore against him Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon came up, and bound them with the chain of brass, and carried him into Babylon. Nabuchodonosor also took of the holy vessels of the Lord, and carried them away, and set them in his own temple at Babylon. But those things that are recorded of him, and of his uncleanness and impiety, are written in the chronicles of the kings.

And Joaichim his son reigned in his stead: he was making his state being eighteen years old; and reigned but three months and ten days in Jerusalem: and did evil before the Lord.

So after a year Nabuchodonosor sent and caused him to be brought into Babylon, with the holy vessels of the Lord. And made Sedecias king of Judea and Jerusalem, when he was one and twenty years old, and he reigned even seven years: and he did evil also in the sight of the Lord, and cared not for the words that were spoken unto him by the prophet Jeremy from the mouth of the Lord. And after that king Nabuchodonosor had made him to swear by the name of the Lord, he forswore himself, and rebelled: and hardening his neck, and his heart, he transgressed the laws of the Lord God of his fathers.

The king also spared not of the people and of the priests did many things against the laws, and passed all the pollutions of all nations, and defiled the temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Jerusalem.

Nevertheless the God of their fathers sent by his messenger to call them back, because he spared not his tabernacle also. But they had their messengers in derision: and, in the day that the Lord spake unto them, they made a sport of his prophet: so far forth, that he, being wroth with his people for their great ungodliness, commanded the kings of the Chaldees to come up against them; who slew their young men with the sword, yes, even within the compass of their holy temple, and spared neither young man nor maid, old man nor child, among them; for he delivered all into their hands. And they took all the holy vessels of the Lord, both great and small, with the vessels of the ark of God, and the king's treasures, and carried them away into Babylon. As for the house of the Lord, they burnt it, and brake down the walls of Jerusalem, and set fire upon her towers: and as for her glorious things, they never ceased till they had consumed and brought them all to nought: and the people that were not slain with the sword he carried into Babylon: who became servants to him and his children, till the Persians removed, to fulfill the word of the Lord spoken by the mouth of Jeremiah: 58 until the land had enjoyed her sabbaths, the whole time of her desolation shall she rest, until the full term of seventy years.

In the first year of Cyrus king of the Persians, that the word of the Lord might be accomplished, that he had promised by the mouth of Jeremiah; 2 the Lord raised up the spirit of Cyrus the king of the Persians, and he made proclamation through all his kingdom, and also by writing, saying, Thus saith Cyrus king of the Persians; The Lord of Israel, the most high Lord, hath made me king of the whole world, and commanded me to build him an house at Jerusalem in Judæa.

7 If therefore there be any of you that are of his people, let his Lord be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem that is in Judæa, and build the house of the Lord of Israel: for he is the Lord that dwelleth in Jerusalem. 8 Whosoever then dwell in the places about, let them help him, those, I say, that are his neighbours, with gold, and with silver, 9 with gifts, with horses, and with cattle, and with very many free gifts of a great number whose minds were stirred up thereto. 10 King Cyrus also brought forth the holy vessels which Nabuchodonosor had carried away from Jerusalem, and had set up in his temple of idols.

11 Now when Cyrus king of the Persians had brought them forth, he delivered them to Mithridates his treasurer: 12 and by him they were delivered to Sanballas the governor of Judea. 13 And this was the number of them: A thousand golden cups, and a thousand of silver, censers of silver twenty-nine, vials of gold thirty, and of silver two thousand four hundred and ten, and a thousand other vessels. 14 So all the vessels of gold and of silver, which were carried away, were five thousand four hundred threescore and nine. 15 These were brought back by Sanballas, together with them of the captivity, from Babylon to Jerusalem.

16 But in the time of Artaxerxes king of the Persians Beelusmus, and Mithridates, and Tabellius, and Rathmus, and Beeltesmus, and Samuellus the secretary, with the rest that were in commission with them, dwelling in Samaria and other places, wrote unto him again, that they dwelt in Judea and Jerusalem in this letter following: 17 To king Artaxerxes our lord, Thy servants, Rathmus the story writer, and Samuellus the scribe, and the rest of their council, and the judges that are in Celosyria and Phenice.

18 Be it now known to the lord the king, that the Jews that are come up from you to us, being come into Jerusalem, that rebellious and wicked city, do build the marketplaces, and repair the walls of it, and do lay the foundation of the temple.

21 Now if this city and the walls thereof be made up again, they will not refuse to give tribute, but also rebel against kings.

22 And forasmuch as the things pertaining to the temple are now in hand, we think it meet not to neglect such a matter, but to speak unto our lord the king, to the intent that, if it be thy pleasure, it may be sought out in the books of thy fathers: and thou shalt find therein concerning these things, and shalt understand that this city was rebellious, troubling both kings and cities: and that the Jews were rebellious, and raised always wars therein; for which cause even this city was made desolate.

24 Wherefore now we do declare unto thee, O lord the king, that if this city be built again, and the walls thereof set up anew, thou shalt henceforth have no passage into Celosyria and Phenice.

25 Then the king wrote back again to Rathmus the storywriter, to Beelthemus, to Semelius the scribe, and to the rest that were in commission, and dwellers in Sama- ria and Syria and Phenice, after this manner; "I have read, the epistle which ye have sent unto me: therefore I commanded to make diligent search, and it hath been found that that city was from the beginning practising against kings; and the men therein were given to rebellion and war: and that mighty kings and fierce were in Jerusalem, who reigned and exacted tributes in Celosyria and Phenice. Now therefore I have commanded to hinder those men from building the city, and have taken that there be no more done in it; and that those wicked workers proceed no further to the annoyance of kings.

29 Then king Artaxerxes his letters being read, Rathmus, and Semelius the scribe, and the rest that were in commission with them, removing in haste toward Jerusalem with a troop of horsemen and a multitude of people in battle array, began to hinder the builders; and the building of the temple in Jerusalem ceased until the second year of the reign of Darius king of the Persians.

Now when Darius reigned, he made a great feast unto all his subjects, and unto all his household, and unto all the princes of Media and Persia, and unto all the governors and captains and lieutenants that were under him, from India unto Ethiopia, in the hundred twenty and seven provinces. And when they had eaten and drunken, and being satisfied were gone home, then Darius the king went into his bedchamber, and slept, and soon after awaked.

4 Then three young men, that were of the guard that kept the king's body, spake one to another; "Let every one of us speak a sentence: he that shall overcome, and whose sentence shall seem wiser than the others, unto him shall the king Darius give great gifts, and great things in token of victory: as to be clothed in purple, to drink in gold, and to sleep upon gold, and a chariot with bridles of gold, and an headtire of fine linen, and a chain about his neck; and he shall sit next to Darius because of his wisdom, and shall be called Darius's cousin.

And then every one wrote his sentence, sealed it, and laid it under the pillow of king Darius; and said that, when the king is risen, some will give him the writing; and of whose side the king and the three princes of Persia shall judge that his sentence is the wisest, to him shall all the victory be given, as was appointed. The first wrote, Wine is the strongest. The second wrote, The king is strongest. The third wrote, Women are strongest: but above all things Truth beareth away the victory.

Now when the king was risen up, they took their writings, and delivered them unto him, and so he read them: and sending forth he called all the princes of Persia and Media, and the governors, and the captains, and the lieutenants, and the chief officers; and sat him down in the royal seat of judgment; and the writing was read before them. And he said, Call the young men, and they shall declare their own sentences. So they were called, and came in. And he said unto them, Declare unto us your mind concerning the writings. Then began the first, who had spoken of the strength of wine; and he said thus, O men of Persia, now exceeding strong is wine! it causeth all men to err that drink it: it maketh the mind of the king and of the fatherless child to be all one; of the bondman and of the freeman, of the poor man and of the rich: it turneth also every thought into jollity and mirth, so that a man remembereth neither his sorrow nor his debt: and every heart is rich, so that a man remembereth neither king nor governor; and it maketh to speak all things by talents: and when they are in their cups, they forget their love both to friends and brethren, and a little after draw out swords: but when they are from the wine, they remember not what they have done. O ye men, is not wine the strongest, that enforcest this to do thus? And when he had so spoken, he held his peace.

Then the second, that had spoken of the strength of the king, began to say, O ye men, do not men excel in strength, that bear rule over sea and land, and all things in them? But yet the king is more mighty: for he is lord of all these things, and hath dominion over them; and whatsoever he commandeth them they do. If he bid them make war, the one against the other, they do it: if he send them out against the enemies, they go, and break down mountains, walls, and towers. They slay and are slain, and transgress not the king's commandment: if they get the victory, they bring all to the king, as well the spoil, as all things else. Hence is that those that are no soldiers, and have not to do with wars, but use husbandry, when they have reaped again that which they had sown, they bring it to the king, and compel one another to pay tribute unto the king. And yet he is but one man: if he command to kill, they kill; if he command to spare, they spare: if he command to smite, they smite; if he command to make desolate, they make desolate; if he command to build, they build; if he command to cut down, they cut down; if he command to plant, they plant. 10 So all his people and his armies obey him; furthermore he lieth down, he eateth and drinketh, and taketh his rest: and these keep watch round about him, neither may any one depart, and do his own business, neither disobey them in any thing. 12 O ye men, how should not the king be mightiest, when in such sort he is obeyed? And he held his tongue. 13 Then the third, who had spoken of women, and of the truth, (this was Zorobabel) began to speak. 14 O ye men, it is not the great king, nor the multitude of men, neither is it wine, that excelleth: who is it then that ruleth them, or hath the lordship over them? 15 Are they not love a woman which is comely in favour and beauty? 16 And letting all those things go, do they not gape, and even with open mouth fix their eyes fast on her; and have not all men more desire unto her than unto silver or gold, or any goodly thing whatsoever? 17 A man leseth his own father that brought him up, and his own country, and cleaveth unto his wife. 18 He sticketh not to spend his life with his wife, and remembereth neither father, nor mother, nor country. 19 By this also ye must know that women have dominion over you; do ye not labour and toil, and give and bring all to the woman? 20 Yea, a man taketh his own sword, and goeth his way to rob and to steal, to set upon the seas and men there; 21 and looketh upon a lion, and goeth in the darkness; and when he hath stolen, spoiled, and robbed, he bringeth it to his love. 22 Wherefore a man loveth his wife better than father or mother. 23 Yea, many there be that have run out of their wits for women, and become servants for their sakes. 24 Many also have perished, have erred, and sinned, for women.

And now do ye not believe me? is not the king great in his power? do not all regions fear to touch him? 25 Yet did I see him and Apame the king's concubine, the daughter of the admirable Bartacus, sitting at the right hand of the king, 26 and taking the crown from the king's head, and setting it upon her own head; she also struck the king with her left hand. 27 And yet for all this the king gaped and gazed upon her with open mouth: if she laughed upon him, he laughed also: but if she took any displeasure at him, the king was fain to flatter, that she might be reconciled to him again. 28 O ye men, how can it be but women should beseen they do thus? 29 Then the king and the princes looked one upon another: so he began to speak of the truth. 30 O ye men, are not women strong? great is the earth, high is the heaven, swift is the sun in his course, for he compasseth the heavens round about, and fetcheth his course again to his own place in one day. 35 is he not great that maketh these things? therefore great is the truth, and stronger than all things. 36 All the earth calleth upon the truth, and the heaven and blesseth it; all works shake at the righteous word, and assemble at it, and with it is the unrighteous thing. 37 Wine is wicked, and the king is wicked, women are wicked, and all the children of men are wicked; and such are all their wicked works, and there is no truth in them; in their unrighteousness also they shall perish. 38 As for the truth, it endureth, and is always strong: it liveth and conquers for evermore. 39 With her there is no accepting of persons or rewards: but she doeth the things that are just, and refraineth from all unjust and wicked things; and all men do like her works. 40 Neither in her judgment is any unrighteousness: and she is the strength, kingdom, power, and majesty of all ages. Blessèd be the God of truth.

And with that he held his peace. And all the people then shouted, and said, Great is Truth, and mighty above all things. 41 Then said the king unto him, Ask what thou wilt more than is appointed in the writings, and we will give it thee, because thou art found wisest; and thou shalt sit next me, and shalt be called my cousin. 42 Then said he unto the king, Remember thy vow, which thou hast vowed to build Jerusalem, in the day when thou camest to thy kingdom, 43 and to send away all the vessels that were taken away out of Jerusalem, which Cyrus set apart, when he vowed to destroy Babylon, and to send them again thither. 44 Thou also hast vowed to build up the temple, which the Edomites burned when Judea was made desolate by the Chaldeans. 45 And now, O lord the king, this is that which I require, and which I desire of thee, and this is the princely liberality proceeding from thyself: I desire therefore that thou make good the vow, the performance whereof with thine own mouth thou hast vowed to the King of heaven.

Then Darius the king stood up, and kissed him, and wrote letters for him unto all the treasurers and lieutenants and captains and governors, that they should safely convey on their way both him, and all those that go up with him to build Jerusalem. He wrote letters also unto the lieutenants that were in Celosyria and Phenice, and unto them in Libanus, that they should bring cedar wood from Libanus unto Jerusalem, and that they should build the city with him. Moreover he wrote for all the Jews that went out of his realm up into Jewry, concerning their freedom, that no officer, no ruler, no lieutenant, nor treasurers, should forcibly enter into their doors; 46 and that all the outward work which they hold should be freely without tribute; and that the Edomites should give over the villages of the Jews which they then held: 47 yea, that there should be yearly given twenty talents to the building of the temple, until the time that it were built; 48 and other ten talents yearly, to maintain the burnt offerings upon the 9 From the time that Cyrus had appointed them brethren, and the priests, and the sons of Phinees, to build the temple of the Lord, they went every day, as they had a command to offer seventeen: and that all they that went from Babylon to build the city, could have free liberty, as well as their posterity, and all the priests that went away.

50 He wrote also concerning the charges, and the priests' vestments wherein they minister: and likewise for the charges of the Levites, to be given them until the day that the house were finished, and Jerusalem builded up. And he commanded to give to all that kept the city pensions and wages. He sent away also all the vessels from Babylon, that Cyrus had set apart; and all that Cyrus had given in commandment, the same charged he also to be done, and sent unto Jerusalem.

58 Now when this young man was gone forth, he lifted up his face to heaven toward Jerusalem, and praised the King of heaven, and said, From thee cometh victory, from thee cometh wisdom, and thine is the glory, and I am thy servant.

60 Blessed art thou, who hast given me wisdom: and to thee I give thanks, O Lord of our fathers.

61 And so he took the letters, and went out, and came unto Babylon, and told it all his brethren.

62 And they praised the God of their fathers, because he had given them freedom and liberty to go up, and to build Jerusalem, and the temple which is called by his name; and they feasted with instruments of music and gladness seven days.

After this were the principal men of the families chosen according to their tribes, to go up with their wives and sons and daughters, with their menservants and maidservants, and their cattle. And Darius sent with them a thousand horsemen, till they had brought them back to Jerusalem safely, and with musical instruments, tabrets and flutes. And all their brethren played, and he made them go up together with them.

And these are the names of the men which went up, according to their families, among their tribes, after their several heads.

5 The priests, the sons of Phinees, the sons of Aaron: Jesus the son of Josedad, the son of Saraias, and Joachim the son of Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, of the house of David, out of the kindred of Phares, of the tribe of Judah; who spake wise sentences before Darius the king of Persia in the second year of his reign, in the month Nisan, which is the first month.

46 All the ministers of the temple, and the sons of the servants of Solomon, were three hundred seventy and two.
47 These came up from Thermeloth and Thelersas, Charaathalan leading them, and Aalar; they could not shew their families or their stock, how they were of Israel: the sons of Dalan, the son of Baenan, the sons of Necedon, six hundred fifty and two.
48 And the priests that usurped the office of the priesthood, and were not found: the sons of Obdia, the sons of Juddus, who married Augia one of the daughters of Phaezeldeus, and was named after his name.
49 And when the description of the kindred of these men was sought in the register, and was not found, they were removed from executing the office of the priesthood: 50 for unto them said Nehemias and Aththarias, that they should not be partakers of the holy things, till there arose up an high priest clothed with doctrine and truth.
50 So of Israel, from them of twelve years old and upward, beside menservants and womenservants, they were all in number forty thousand, two thousand three hundred and sixty. 51 Their menservants and handmaids were seven thousand three hundred thirty and seven: the singing men and singing women, two hundred forty and five: 52 four hundred thirty and five camels, seven thousand thirty and six horses, two hundred forty and five mules, five thousand five hundred twenty and five beasts used to the yoke: 53 And certain of the chief of their families, when they came to the temple of God that is in Jerusalem, vowed to set up the house again in his own place according to their ability, and to give into the holy treasury of the works a thousand pounds of gold, five thousand of silver, and an hundred priestly vestments. 54 And so dwell the priests and the Levites and the people in Jerusalem, and in the country, the singers also and the porters; and all Israel in their villages.
55 But when the seventh month was at hand, and when the children of Israel were every man in his own place, they came altogether with one consent into the open place of the city gate which is toward the east. 56 Then stood up Jesus the son of Josedec, and his brethren the priests, and Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and his brethren, and made ready the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt sacrifices upon it, according as it is expressly com- manded in the book of Moses the man of God.
56 And there were gathered unto them out of the other nations of the land, and they erected the altar upon his own place, because all the nations of the land were at enmity with them, and oppressed them; and they offered sacrifices according to the time, and burnt offerings to the Lord both morning and evening. 42 Also they held the feast of tabernacles, as it is written, and offered sacrifices daily, as was meet; and after that, the continual oblations, and the sacrifice of the sabbaths, and of the new moons, and of all holy feasts. 43 And all they that had made any vow to God began to offer sacrifices to God from the first day of the seventh month, although the temple of the Lord was not yet built.

And the sons of the congregation put unto the masons and carpenters money, meat, and drink, with cheerfulness. 45 Unto them of Zidlon also and Tyre they gave carrass, that they should bring cedar trees from Libanus, which should be brought by floats to the haven of Joppa, according as it was commanded them by Cusus king of the Persians. 46 And in the second year and second month after his coming to the temple of God at Jerusalem began Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and Jesus the son of Josedec, and their brethren, and the priests, and the Levites, and all they that were come unto Jerusalem out of the captivity; 47 and they laid the foundation of the house of God in the first day of the second month, in the second year after they were come to Jerewy and Jerusalem. 48 And they appointed the Levites from twenty years old over the works of the Lord. Then stood up Jesus, and his sons and brethren, and Cadmuel his brother, and the sons of Emadabun; 49 and they made the sons of Asaph, and cymbals, and singing songs of thanksgiving, and praising the Lord, according as David the king of Israel had ordained. 50 And the priests stood arrayed in their vestments with musical instruments and trumpets; and the Levites the sons of Asaph, had cymals, and singing songs of thanksgiving, and praising the Lord, according as David the king of Israel had ordained. 51 And they sung with loud voices songs to the praise of the Lord, because his mercy and glory is for ever in all Israel. 52 And all the people sounded trumpets, and shouted with a loud voice, singing songs of thanksgiving unto the Lord for the rearing up of the house of the Lord. 53 Also of the priests and Levites, and of the chief of their families, the ancients who had seen the former house came to the building of this with weeping and great crying. 54 But many with trumpets and joy shouted with loud voice, insomuch that the trumpets might not be heard for the noise of the people; yet the multitude sounded marvellously, so that it was heard afar off. 55 Wherefore when the enemies of the tribe of Juda and Benjamin heard it, they came to know what the noise of trumpets should mean. 56 And they perceived that they that were of the captivity did build the temple unto the Lord God of Israel. 57 So they went to Zorobabel and Jesus, and to the chief of the families, and said unto them. We will build together with you. 69 For we likewise, as ye, do obey your Lord, and do sacrifice unto him from the days of Azbazareth the king of the Assyrians, who brought us hither.

70 Then Zorobabel and Jesus and the chief of the families of Israel said unto them, It is not for us and you to build together an house unto the Lord our God. 71 For we ourselves alone will build unto the Lord of Israel, according as Cyrus the king of the Persians hath commanded us. 72 But the heathen of the land lying heavy upon the inhabitants of Judea, and holding them strait, hindered their building; 73 and by their secret plots, and popular persuasions and commotions, they hindered the finishing of the building all this time, that king Cyrus lived; so they were hindered from building for the space of two years, until the reign of Darius.

Now in the second year of the reign of Darius, Addeus and Zacharias the son of Addo, the prophets, prophesied unto the Jews in Jewry and Jerusalem in the name of the Lord God of Israel, which was upon them.

2 Then stood up Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and Jesus the son of Josedec, and began to build the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, the prophets of the Lord being with them, and helping them. 3 At the same time came unto them Sisines the governor of Syria and Phenice, with Sathrabuzanes and his companions, and said unto them, 4 By whose appointment do ye build this house and this roof, and perform all the other things and who are the workmen that perform these things?

5 Nevertheless the elders of the Jews obtained favour, because the Lord had visited the captivity; 6 and they were not hindered from building, until such time as signification was given unto Darius concerning them, and an answer received.

7 The copy of the letters which Sisines, governor of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, with their companions, rulers in Syria and Phenice, wrote and sent unto Darius: To king Darius, greeting: 8 Let all things be known unto our lord the king, that being come into the country of Judea, and entered into the city of Jerusalem, we found in the city of Jerusalem the ancients of the Jews that were of the captivity 9 building an house unto the Lord, great and new, of hewn and costly stones, and the timber already laid upon the walls. 10 And those works are done with great speed, and the work goeth on prosperously in their hands, and with all glory and diligence is it made.

11 Then asked we these elders, saying, By whose commandment build ye this house, and lay the foundation thereof? Work ye for your masters, or for yourselves? 12 Therefore to the intent that we might give knowledge unto thee by writing, we demanded of them who were the chief doers, and we required of them the names in writing of their principal men. 13 So they gave us this answer, We are the servants of the Lord which made heaven and earth. 14 And as for this house, it was builded many years ago by a king of Israel great and strong, and was finished. But when our fathers provoked God unto wrath, and sinned against the Lord of Israel which is in heaven, he gave them over into the power of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, king of the Chal- dees; who pulled down the house, and captures it, and carried away the people both into Babylon.

But in the first year that king Cyrus reigned over the country of Babylon, Cyrus the king wrote to build this house. And the holy vessels of gold and of silver, that Nabuchodonosor had carried away out of the house at Jerusalem, and had set them in his own temple, those Cyrus the king brought forth again out of the temple at Babylon, and they were delivered to Zoroabel, that is, to Sanabassarus the ruler, with commandment that he should carry away the same vessels, and put them in the temple at Jerusalem; and that the temple of the Lord should be built in that place. And the same Sanabassarus, being come hither, laid the foundations of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem; and from that time to this being still building, it is not yet finished.

Now therefore, if it seem good unto the king, let search be made among the records of king Cyrus: and if it be found that the building of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem hath been done with the consent of king Cyrus, and if our lord the king be so minded, let him signify unto us thereof.

Then commanded king Darius to seek among the records at Babylon: and so at Ecbatana the palace, which is in the country of Media, there was found a roll where- in these things were recorded. In the first year of the reign of Cyrus, king Cyrus commanded that the house of the Lord at Jerusalem should be built again, where they do sacrifice with continual fire: whose height shall be sixty cubits, and the breadth sixty cubits, with three rows of hewn stones, and one row of new wood of that country; and the expenses thereof to be given out of the house of king Cyrus: and that the house of the Lord, built of gold and silver, that Nabuchodonosor took out of the house at Jerusalem, and brought to Babylon, should be restored to the house at Jerusalem, and be set in the place where they were before.

And also he commanded that Sisinnus the governor of Syria and Phenice, and Sabrahebunâ, and their companions, and those which were appointed rulers in Syria and Phenice, should be careful not to meddle with the place, but suffer Zoroabel the servant of the Lord, and governor of Judea, and the elders of the Jews, to build the house of the Lord in that place. I have commanded also to have it built up wholly again; and that they look diligently to help those that be of the captivity of the Jews, till the house of the Lord be finished: and out of the tribute of Celsorisa and Phenice, a portion carefully to be given these men for the sacrifices of the Lord, that is, to Zoroabel the governor, for bullocks, and rams, and lambs; and also corn, salt, and oil, and the continually every year without further question, according as the priests that be in Jerusalem shall of Israel megalos and is chyroph, and estelath. 31 These, therefore, being called upon, utterly destroy every king and nation, that stretcheth out his hand to hinder or endanger that house of the Lord in Jerusalem. 32 I Darius the king have ordained that according unto these things it be done with diligence.

Then Sisines the governor of Cœlosia and Phenicea, and Sathrabuzanes, with their companions, following the commandments of king Darius, did very carefully oversee the holy works, assisting the ancients of the Jews and governors of the temple. And so the holy works prospered, when Aggeus and Zacharias the prophets prophesied.

And they finished these things by the commandment of the Lord God of Israel; and with the king Darius, and Artaxerxes, kings of Persia, the temple of the Lord was finished in the three and twentieth day of the month Adar, in the sixth year of king Darius.

And the children of Israel that were of the captivity held the passover the fourteenth day of the first month, after that the priests and the Levites were sanctified, together with all the children of the captivity; for they were sanctified, because the Levites were all sanctified together.

And so they offered the passover for all them of the captivity, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves. And the children of Israel that came out of the captivity did eat, even all they that had separated themselves from the abominations of the people of the land, and sought the Lord. And they kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days, making merry before the Lord. For these things had the counsellors of the king of Assyria toward them, to strengthen their hands in the works of the Lord God of Israel.

And after these things, when Artaxerxes the king of the Persians reigned, came Esdras the son of Azarjais, the son of Zechurius, the son of Helchias, the son of Saulim, the son of Sadduce, the son of Zachi, the son of Ami, the son of Ozias, the son of Boccas, the son of Abias, the son of Phinees, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest. This Esdras went up from Babylon, as a scribe, being very ready in the law of Moses, that was given by the God of Israel. And the king did him honour: for he found grace in his sight in all his requests.

There went up with him also certain of the children of Israel, of the priests, of the Levites, of the holy singers, porters, and ministers of the temple, unto Jerusalem, in the seventh year of the reign of Artaxerxes, in the fifth month, this was the king's seventh year; for they went from Babylon in the first day of the first month, and came to Jerusalem, according to the prosperous journey which the Lord had prepared for him. For Ezra had very great skill, so that he omitted nothing of the law and commandments of the Lord, but taught all Israel the ordinances and judgments.

Now the copy of the commission, which was written from Artaxerxes the king, and came to Ezra the priest and reader of the law of the Lord, is this that followeth:

I. Artaxerxes unto Ezra, the priest and reader of the law of the Lord sendeth greetings:

Having determined to deal graciously, I have given order, that such of the nation of the Jews, and of the priests and Levites, being within our realm, as are willing and desirous, should go with thee unto Jerusalem. As many therefore as have a mind thereunto, let them depart with thee, as it hath seemed good both to me and my seven friends the counsellors; that they may look unto the affairs of Judea and Jerusalem, agreeable to that which is in the law of the Lord; and they may bring the gifts unto the Lord of Israel to Jerusalem, which I and my friends have vowed, and all the gold and silver that in the country of Babylon can be found, to the Lord in Jerusalem, with that also which is given of the people for the temple of the Lord their God at Jerusalem: and that silver and gold may be collected for bullocks, rams, and lambs, and things therunto appertaining; to the end that they may offer sacrifices unto the Lord upon the altar of the Lord there, which is in Jerusalem. And whatsoever thou and thy brethren will do with the silver and gold, that do, according to the will of thy God. And the holy vessels of the Lord, which are given thee for the use of the temple of thy God, which is in Jerusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Jerusalem. And whatsoever thou and thy brethren shall gather in the use of the temple of thy God, thou shalt give it out of the king's treasury. And I king Artaxerxes have also commanded the keepers of the treasures in Syria and Phenice, that whatsoever Ezra the priest and the reader of the law of the most high God shall send for, they should give it him with speed; to the sum of the use of the hundred talents of silver, likewise also of wheat even to an hundred cords, and an hundred pieces of wine, and other things in abundance. Let all things be performed after the law of God diligently unto the most high God, that wrath come not upon the kingdom of the king and his sons. I command also that a tax nor any other imposition, of any of the priests, or Levites, or holy singers, or

I. Esdras VIII. 23–47.

23 And thou, Esdras, according to the wisdom of God ordain judges and justices, that they may judge in all Syria and Phenice all those that know the law of thy God; and those that know it not thou shalt teach.

24 And whosoever shall transgress the law of thy God, and of the king, shall be punished diligently, whether it be by death, or other punishment, by penalty of money, or by imprisonment.

25 Then said Esdras the scribe, Blessed be the Lord God of my fathers, who hath put these things into the heart of the king, to glorify his house that is in Jerusalem: and hath honoured me in the sight of the king, and his counsellors, and all his friends and nobles. Therefore was I encouraged by the help of the Lord my God, and gathered together the men of Israel to go up with me.

26 And these are the chief according to their families and several dignities, that went up with me from Babylon in the reign of king Artaxerxes: of the sons of Phinees, Gerson: of the sons of Ithamar, Gamaliel: of the sons of David, Letitus the son of Sebastian: of the sons of Phieras, Zaraias; and with him were counted an hundred and fifty men: of the sons of Pahath Moab, Eliaoni, the son of Zaraia, and with him two hundred men: of the sons of Zetho, Sehemnas the son of Jezelus, and with him three hundred men: of the sons of Adin, Obeth the son of Jonathan, and with him two hundred and fifty men: of the sons of Elam, Josias son of Johanan, and with him seventy men: of the sons of Saphathias, Zaraias son of Michael, and with him threescore and ten men: of the sons of Joad, Abadias son of Jezelus, and with him two hundred and twelve men: of the sons of Bania, Salmoth son of Josaphias, and with him an hundred and threescore men: of the sons of Babi, Zacharias son of Bebai, and with him twenty and eight men: of the sons of Ashtaroth son of Acanan, and with him an hundred and ten men: of the sons of Adonikam the last, and these are the names of them, Eliphalet, son of Guel, and Samiamas, and with them seventy men: of the sons of Bago, Uthi the son of Istedarbus, and with him seventy men.

4 And these I gathered together to the river of Ahava. There we pitched our tents three days and then I surveyed them. But when I had found there none of the priests and Levites, 42 then sent I unto Eleazar, and Iduel, and Maea, and Masman, and Ahana, and Samia, and Iwab, and Ebenan, and Zacharias, and Mosollam son of Jehumun, and Astab, and Iawna, and Askaban, and with them twenty and eight men: of the sons of Jeshohanan son of Acanan, and with him an hundred and ten men: of the sons of Adonikam the last, and these are the names of them, Eliphalet, son of Guel, and Samiamas, and with them seventy men: of the sons of Bago, Uthi the son of Istedarbus, and with him seventy men.

But when I had found there none of the priests and Levites, 42 then sent I unto Eleazar, and Iduel, and Maea, and Masman, and Ahana, and Samia, and Iwab, and Ebenan, and Zacharias, and Mosollam son of Jehumun, and Astab, and Iawna, and Askaban, and with them twenty and eight men: of the sons of Jeshohanan son of Acanan, and with him an hundred and ten men: of the sons of Adonikam the last, and these are the names of them, Eliphalet, son of Guel, and Samiamas, and with them seventy men: of the sons of Bago, Uthi the son of Istedarbus, and with him seventy men.
brethren, who were eighteen. 58 And Asebia, and Annunus, and Osain his brother, of the sons of Chananeus, and their sons, were twenty men. 59 And of the servants of the temple whom David had ordained, and the principal men for the service of the Levites, to wit, the servants of the temple, two hundred and twenty, the catalogue of whose names was written. 60 And there they vowed a fast unto the young men before our Lord, to desire of him a prosperous journey both for us and them that were with us, for our children, and for the cattle: 61 for I was ashamed to ask the king footmen, and horsemen, and conduct for safeguard against our adversaries. 62 For we had said unto the king, that the power of the Lord our God should be with them that seek him, to support them in all ways. 63 And again we besought our Lord as touching these things, and found him favourable unto us.

51 Then I separated twelve of the chief of the priests, Esebias, and Samia, and ten men of their brethren with them: 52 and I weighed the gold, and the silver, and the holy vessels of the house of our Lord, which the king, and his council, and the princes, and all Israel, had given. 53 And when I had weighed it, I delivered unto them six hundred and sixty talents of silver, and silver vessels of an hundred talents, and an hundred talents of gold, 54 and twenty golden vessels, and twelve vessels of brass, even of fine brass, glittering like gold. 55 And I said unto them, Both ye are holy unto the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the gold and the silver is a vow unto the Lord, the Lord of our fathers. 56 Watch ye, and keep them till ye deliver them to the chief of the priests and Levites, and to the principal men of the families of Israel, in Jerusalem, into the chambers of the house of our God. 57 So the priests and the Levites, who had received the silver and the gold and the vessels that were in Jerusalem, brought them into the temple of the Lord. 58 And from the river Tigris we departed the twelfth day of the first month, and came to Jerusalem by the mighty hand of our Lord, which was with us; and from the beginning of our journey the Lord delivered us from every enemy, and so we came to Jerusalem. 59 And when we had been there three days, the gold and silver that was weighed was delivered in the house of our Lord on the fourth day unto Marmoth the priest the son of Ur. 60 And with him was Eleazar the son of Phineas, and with them were six hundred and fifty talents of gold, and the son of Jehoiada and the son of Sadan, Levites: all was delivered them by number and weight. 61 And all the weight of them was written up on the same time.

62 Moreover they that were come out of the captivity offered sacrifice unto the Lord God of Israel, even twelve bullocks for all Israel. 63 And the weight of them, and the silver, and the gold, was three score and two, goats for a peace-offering, twelve; all of them a sacrifice to the Lord. 64 And they delivered the king's commandments unto the king's stewards, and to the governors of Celosyria and Phenice; and they honoured the people and the temple of God.
I. Esdras VIII. 68–87.

Now when these things were done, the rulers came unto me, and said, 69 The nation of Israel, the princes, the priests and the Levites, have not put away from them the strange people of the land, nor their pollutions from the Gentiles, to wit, the Canaanites, Hittites, Pherezites, Jebusites, and the Moabites, Egyptians, and Edomites.

For both they and their sons have married with their daughters, and the holy seed is mixed with the strange people of the land; and from the beginning of this matter the rulers and the great men have been partakers of this iniquity.

And as soon as I had heard these things, I rent my clothes, and the holy garment, and pulled off the hair from off my head and beard, and sat me down sad and very heavy. 72 So all they that were then moved at the word of the Lord God of Israel assembled unto me, whilst I mourned for the iniquity: but I sat still full of heaviness until the evening sacrifice.

Then rising up from the fast with my clothes and the holy garment rent, and bowing my knees, and stretching forth my hands unto the Lord, I said, O Lord, I am confounded and ashamed before thee, and I despise the portion of my countenance. 74 For our sins are multiplied above our heads, and our ignorances have reached up unto heaven. 75 For ever since the time of our fathers we have been and are in great sin, even unto this day. 76 And for our sins and our fathers' we with our brethren and our kings and our priests were given up unto the kings of the earth, to the sword, and to captivity, and for a prey with shame, unto this day.

And now in some measure hath mercy been shewed unto us from thee, O Lord, that there should be left us a root and a name in the place of thy sanctuary; 78 and to discover unto us a light in the house of the Lord our God, and to give us food in the time of the seed; 79 Yea, when we were in bondage, we were not forsaken of our Lord; but he made us favoured before the kings of Persia, so that they gave us food; 80 yea, and honoured the temple of our Lord, and raised up the desolate Sion, so that they have given us a sure abiding in Jewry and Jerusalem.

And now, O Lord, what shall we say, having these things for we have transgressed thy commandments, which thou garest by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying, 83 That the land, which ye enter into to possess as an heritage, is a land polluted with the pollutions of the strangers of the land, and they have filled it with their uncleanness. Therefore now shall ye not join your daughters unto their sons, neither shall ye take their daughters unto your sons. Moreover ye shall never seek to have peace with them, that ye may be strong, and eat the good things of the land, and that ye may leave the inheritance of the land unto your children for evermore.

And all that is befallen is done unto us for our wicked works and great sins; for thou, O Lord, didst make our sins light, and didst give unto us such a root: but we have turned back again to transgress thy law, and to mingle with the uncleanness of the nations of the land.

89. Mightest not thou be angry with us to destroy us, till thou hadst left us neither root, seed, nor name?

90. O Lord of Israel, thou art true: for we are left a root this day. 90. Behold, now are we before thee in our iniquities, for we cannot stand any longer by reason of these things before thee. 91. And as Esdras in his prayer made his confession, weeping, and lying flat upon the ground before the temple, there gathered unto him from Jerusalem a very great multitude of men and women and children: for there was great weeping among the multitude.

Then Jechonias the son of Jedus, one of the children of Israel, called out and said, O Esdras, we have sinned against the Lord; we have married strange women of the nations of the land, and now is all Israel afoot.

92. Let us make an oath to the Lord, that we will put away all our wives, which we have taken of the heathen, with their children, 89 like as thou hast decreed, and as many as do obey the law of the Lord. 93. Arise, and put into execution for to thee doth this matter apearne, and we will be with thee: do valiantly. 94. So Esdras arose, and took an oath of the chief of the priests and Levites of all Israel to do after these things; and so they swore.

Then Esdras rising from the court of the temple went to the chamber of Joannah the son of Elhasib, 95 and remained there, and did eat and drink no manner of thing, mourning for the great iniquities of the multitude. 96 And there was a proclamation in all Jewry and Jerusalem to all them that were of the captivity, that they should be gathered together at Jerusalem: 97 and that whosoever met not there within two or three days, according as the elders that bare rule appointed, their cattle should be seized to the use of the temple, and himself cast out from them that were of the captivity.

98. And in three days were all they of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin gathered together at Jerusalem the twentieth day of the ninth month. 99 And all the multitude sat in the broad court of the temple, trembling because of the present foul weather.

7 And so Esdras arose up, and said unto them, Ye have transgressed the law in marrying strange wives thereby to increase the sins of Israel. 8 And now by confessing give glory unto the Lord God of our fathers, and do his will, and separate yourselves from the heathen of the land, and from the strange women.

10. Then cried the whole multitude, and said with a loud voice, Like as thou hast spoken, so will we do. 11. But forsaken as much as the people are many, and it is foul weather, so that we cannot stand without, and this is not a work of a day or two, seeing our sin in these things is spread far: 12 therefore let the rulers of the multitude stay, and let all them of our habitations that have strange wives come at the time appointed, 13 and with the men and judges of every place, till we turn away the wrath of the Lord from us for this matter.

Then Jonathan the son of Azazel and Ezechias the son of Theocanus accordingly took this matter upon them: and Mosollam and Levis and Sabbathaues helped them. 25 And they that were of the captivity did according to all these things. 26 And Esdras the priest chose unto him the principal men of their families, all by name: and in the first day of the month he set together to examine the matter. 27 So their cause that held strange wives was brought to an end in the first day of the first month.

28 And of the priests that were come together, and had strange wives, there were found: 29 of the sons of Jesus the son of Josec, and his brethren: Mathelias, and Eleazar, and Joribus, and Jouranus. And they gave their hands to put away their wives, and to offer nams to make recompense for their errors.

30 And of the sons of Emmer: Anniaus, and Zabdeus, and Manes, and Sameus, and Hierel, and Azarias. 31 And of the sons of Phaius: Eleonias, Massias, Ismael, and Nathanael, and Oconelus, and Saloas.

32 And of the Levites: Jozabad, and Semis, and Coius, who was called Calitas, and Phateus, and Judas, and Jonas. 33 Of the holy singers: Eleasabas, Bacchurus. 34 Of the porters: Salamus, and Tolbanes.

I. Esdras IX. 41—55.

first day of the seventh month. 41 And he read in the broad court before the holy porch from morning unto midday, before both men and women; and all the multitude gave heed unto the law.

42 And Esdras the priest and reader of the law stood up upon a pulpit of wood which was made for that purpose. 43 And there stood up by him Mattathias, Saninmus, Ananias, Azarias, Urias, Ezechias, Baalsamus, upon the right hand; 44 and upon his left hand Phaldaus, and Misael, Melchias, Lothasunus, Nabaria, Zacharias.

45 Then took Esdras the book of the law before the multitude; for he sat honourably in the first place in the sight of them all. 46 And when he opened the law, they stood all straight up. So Esdras blessed the Lord God most High, the God of hosts, Almighty, 47 And all the people answered, Amen; and lifting up their hands they fell to the ground, and worshipped the Lord.

48 Also Jesus, Anniuth, Sarabias, Adinus, Jacobus, Sabtianus, Autes, Maiannas, and Callitas, Azarias, and Joazabus, and Ananias, Phalias, the Levites, taught the law of the Lord, and read the law of the Lord to the multitude, making them withal to understand it.

49 Then spake Attharates unto Esdras the chief priest and reader, and to the Levites that taught the multitude, even to all, saying, 50 This day is holy unto the Lord; for this day is holy unto the Lord; and be not sorrowful; for the Lord will bring you to honour.

51 So the Levites published all things to the people, saying, This day is holy to the Lord; be not sorrowful. 52 Then went they their way, every one to eat and drink and make merry, and to give part to them that had nothing, and to make great cheer; 53 because they understood the words wherein they were instructed, and for which they had been assembled.

The book of the words of Tobit, the son of Tobiel, the son of Ananiel, the son of Aduel, the son of Gabael, of the seed of Aser, of the tribe of Nephthali; 2 who in the time of Enemessar king of the Assyrians was led captive out of Thisce, which is at the right hand of that city, which is called properly Nephthali in Galilee above Aser.

3 I Tobit have walked all the days of my life in the way of truth and justice, and I did many alms-deeds to my brethren, and my nation, who came with me to Nineve, into the land of the Assyrians. 4 And when I was in mine own country, in the land of Israel, being but young, all the tribe of Nephthali my father fell from the house of Jerusalem, which was chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, that all the tribes should sacrifice there, and where the temple of the habitation of the most High was consecrated and built for all ages.

5 Now all the tribes which together revolted, and the house of my father Nephthali, sacrificed unto the heifer Baal. 6 But I alone went often to Jerusalem at the feasts, as it was ordained unto all the people of Israel by an everlasting decree, having the first-fruits and tenths of increase, with that which was first born; and there I offered to the priests the children of Aaron. 7 The first tenth part of all increase I gave to the sons of Aaron, who ministered at Jerusalem: another tenth part I sold away, and went, and spent it every year at Jerusalem: 8 and the third I gave unto them to whom it was meet, as Deborah my father's mother had commanded me, because I was left an orphan by my father.

9 Furthermore, when I was come to the age of a man, I married Anna of mine own kindred, and of her I begat Tobias. 10 And when we were carried away captives to Nineve, all my brethren and those that were of my kindred did eat of the bread of the Gentiles. 11 But I kept myself from eating; 12 because I remembered God with all my heart. 13 And the most High gave me grace and favour before Enemessar, so that I was his purveyor.

14 And I went into Media, and left in trust with Gabael, the brother of Gabrias, at Rages a city of Media, ten talents of silver. 15 Now when Enemessar was dead, Sennacherib his son reigned in his stead; whose estate was troubled, that I could not go into Media.
16 And in the time of Enemessar I gave many alms to my brethren, and gave my bread to the hungry; 17 and my clothes to the naked: and if I saw any of my nation dead, or cast about the walls of Nineve, I buried him. 18 And when the king Sennacherib had slain any, when he was come, and fled from Judea, I buried them privately: for in his wrath he killed many; but the bodies were not found, when they were sought for of the king.

19 And when one of the Ninevites went and complained of me to the king, that I buried them, and hid myself: understanding that I was sought for to be put to death, I withdrew myself for fear. 20 Then all my goods were forcibly taken away, neither was there any thing left me, beside my wife Anna and my son Tobias. 21 And there passed not fifty days, before two of his sons killed him, and they fled into the mountains of Ararat: and Sarchedon his son met them there: who appointed over his father's accounts, and over all his affairs, Achincharus my brother Anael's son.

22 And Achincharus interring for me, I returned to Nineve. Now Achincharus was cupbearer, and keeper of the signet, and steward, and overseer of the accounts; and Sarchedon his son met him there: and he was my brother's son.

Now when I was come home again, and my wife Anna was restored unto me, with my son Tobias, in the feast of Pentecost, which is the holy feast of the seven weeks, there was a good dinner prepared me; and I sat down to eat. 2 And when I saw abundance of meat, I said to my son, Go and bring what poor man soever thou shalt find out of our brethren, who is mindful of the Lord; and, lo, I tarry for thee.

3 But he came again, and said, Father, one of our nation is strangled, and is cast out in the marketplace. 4 Then before I had tasted any meat, I started up, and took him up into a room until the going down of the sun. 5 Then I returned, and wept over myself, and ate nothing for heaviness, remembering that prophecy of Amos, as he said, Your feasts shall be turned into mourning, and all your mirth into lamentation. 6 Therefore I wept: and after the going down of the sun I went and made a grave, and buried him.

7 But my neighbours mocked me, and said, This man is not yet afraid to put to death for this matter: who fled away; and yet, lo, he buried the dead again.

8 The same night also I returned from the burial, and slept by the wall of my courtyard, being polluted, and my face was uncovered: 9 and I knew not that there were sparrow's in the wall, and mine eyes being open, the sparrow's mewed with warm dungen into mine eyes, and as I went to the physicians, but they helped me not: moreover Achincharus did nourish me, until I went into Elymais.

10 And my wife Anna did take women's works to do. 11 And when she had sent them home to the owners, they paid her wages, giving her also besides a kid. 12 And when it was in my house, and began to cry, I said unto her, From whence is this kid? is it not stolen? render it to the owners; for it is not lawful to eat any thing that is stolen.

13 And I in that manner, 'Enemessar's slave, was forty years in the lap of the ages, and many physicians sought after me, and sought not to kill me, but to heal me; yea, and I lived with them, and gave me sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 14 And I of many, and of many, I gave alms, and was not delivered from them. 15 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 16 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 17 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 18 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 19 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 20 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 21 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them. 22 And I of many, and of many, I gave sustenance, and was not delivered from them.

And now I beg the favor of thy Lord and Master, that thou mayest have many days of life, and the grace of the holy angels of the Lord. And may the Lord make thee to reign over all the children, and may he give thee many days, and a happy end.

to scale away the whiteness of Tobit's eyes, and to give Sara the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the son of Tobit: and to bind Asmodeus the evil spirit; because she belonged to Tobians by right of inheritance. The selfsame time came Tobit home, and entered in not knowing, and Sara the daughter of Raguel came down from her upper chamber.

In that day Tobit remembered the money which he had committed to Gabael in Rages of Media, and said with himself, I have wished for death; wherefore do I not call for my son Tobias, that I may signify to him all that befalleth me before I die.

And when he had called him, he said, My son, when I am dead, bury me; and despise not thy mother, but honour her all the days of thy life, and do that which shall please her, and grieve her not. Remember, my son, that she saw many dangers for thee, when thou wast in her womb; and when she is dead, bury me in one grief.

My son, be mindful of the Lord our God all thy days, and let not thy will be set to sin; or to transgress his commandments: do uprightly all thy life long, and follow not the ways of unrighteousness. For if thou deal truly, thy doings shall prosperously succeed to thee, and to all them that live justly. Give alms of thy substance: and when thou givest alms, let not thine eye be envious, neither turn thy face from the poor, and the face of God shall not be turned away from thee. If thou hast abundance, give alms accordingly: if thou have but a little, be not afraid to give according to that little: for thou layest up a good treasure for thyself against the day of necessity. Because that alms do deliver from death, and suffereth not to come into darkness. For alms is a good gift unto all that give it in the sight of the Most High.

Beware of all whoredom, my son, and chiefly take a wife of the seed of thy fathers, and take not a strange woman to wife, which is not of thy father's tribe: for we are the children of the prophets, of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Remember, my son, that our fathers from the beginning, even that they all married wives of their own kindred, and were blessed in their children, and their seed shall inherit the land.

Now therefore, my son, love thy brethren, and despise not in thy heart thy brethren, the sons and daughters of thy people, whom taking a wife of them: for in pride is destruction and much trouble, and in lewdness is decay and great want: for lewdness is the mother of famine. Let not the wages of any man, which hath wrought for thee, tarry with thee, but give him it out of hand: for if thou serve God, he will also repay thee: be circumspect, my son, in all things thou doest, and be wise in all thy conversation. Do that to no man which thou hastest: drink not wine to make thee drunken: neither let drunkenness go with thee in thy journey.

Give of thy bread to the hungry, and of thy garments to them that are naked; and according to thine abundance give alms; and let not thine eye be envious, when thou givest alms. Pour out thy bread on the burial of the just, but give nothing to the
Then the angel said, Call him unto me, that I may know of what tribe he is, and whether he be a true man to go with thee. So he called him, and he came in, and they saluted one another.

Then Tobit said unto him, Brother, be not now angry with me, because I have enquired to know thy tribe and thy family; for thou art my brother, of an honest and good stock; for I know Ananias and Jonathan, sons of that great Sammais, as we went together to Jerusalem to worship, and the firstfruits, and the tenth of the fruits; and they were not seduced with the error of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a good stock. But tell me, what wages shall I give thee? wilt thou draw a drachm a day, and things necessary, as to mine own son? Yea, moreover, if ye return safe, I will add something to thy wages.

So they were well pleased. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thyself for the journey, and God send you a good journey. And when his son had prepared all things for the journey, his father said, Go thou with this man, and God, which dwelleth in heaven, prosper your journey, and the angel of thine own kindred? wherefore hear me, O my brother; for she shall be given thee to wife; and make thou no reckoning of the evil spirit; for this same night shall she be given thee in marriage. And when thou shalt come into the marriage chamber, thou shalt take the ashes of perfume, and shalt lay upon them some of the heart and liver of the fish, and shalt make a smoke with it; and the devil shall smell, and flee away, and never come again any more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise up both of you, and pray to God which is merciful, who will have pity on you, and save you: fear not, for she is appointed unto thee from the beginning; and thou shalt preserve her, and she shall go with thee. Moreover I suppose that she shall bear thee children. Now when Tobias had heard these things, he loved her, and his heart was effectually joined to her. And he came to Ecbatane. And he came to the house of Raguel; and Sara met him; and saluted him, and he them; and she brought them into the house. Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this young man to Tobit my cousin!

3 And Raguel asked them. From whence are ye, brethren? To whom they said, We are of the sons of Nephthali, which are captives in Nineve. Then he said to them, Do ye know Tobit our kinsman? And they said, We know him. Then said he, Is he in good health? And they said, He is both alive, and in good health; and Tobias said, He is my father. Then Raguel leaped up, and kissed him, and wept, and blessed him; and said unto him, Thou art the son of an honest and good man. But when he had heard that Tobit was blind, he was sorrowful, and wept.

8 And likewise Edna his wife and Sara his daughter wept. Moreover they entertained them cheerfully; and after that they had killed a ram of the flock, they set store of meat on the table. Then said Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, speak of those things of which thou didst talk in the way, and let this business be dispatched.

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel; and Raguel said to Tobias, Eat and drink, and make merry: for it is meet that thou shouldest marry my daughter: nevertheless I will declare unto thee the truth. I have given my daughter in marriage to seven men, who died that night they came into unto her: nevertheless for the present he is alive. Then Tobias said, I will eat nothing here, till we agree and swear one to another. And Raguel said, Then take her from henceforth according to the manner, for thou art her cousin, and she is thine, and the merciful God give you good success in all things.

13 Then he called his daughter Sara, and she came to her father, and he took her by the hand, and gave her to be wife to Tobias, saying, Behold, take her after the law of Moses, and lead her away to thy father. And he blessed them; and called Edna his wife, and took paper, and did write an instrument of covenants, and sealed it.

15 Then they began to eat. After Raguel called his wife Edna, said unto her, Sister, prepare another chamber, and bring her in thither. Which when she had done as he had bidden her, she brought her thither; and she went, and she received the tears of her daughter, and said unto her, 35 Be of good comfort, my daughter; the Lord of heaven and earth give thee joy for this thy sorrow; be of good comfort, my daughter. And when they had supped, they brought Tobias in unto her. 3 And as he went, he remembered the words of Raphael, and took the ashes of the perfumes, and put the heart and the liver of the fish thereupon, and made a stroke thereof. 2 The which smell when the evil spirit had smelled, he fled into the utmost parts of Egypt, and the angel bound him. 4 And after that they were both shut in together, Tobias rose out of the bed, and said, Sister, arise, and let us pray that God would have pity on us. 5 Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thy holy and glorious name for ever; let the heavens bless thee, and all thy creatures. 6 Thou madest Adam, and gavest him Eve his wife for an helper and stay: of them came mankind: thou hast said, It is not good that man should be alone; let us make unto him an aid like unto himself. 7 And now, O Lord, I take not this my sister for lust, but uprightness: therefore mercifully ordain that we may become aged together. 8 And she said with him, Amen. 9 So they slept both that night. And Raguel arose, and went and made a grave, saying, I fear lest he also be dead. 10 But when Raguel was come into his house, he said unto his wife Edna, Send one of the maids, and let her see whether he be alive: if he be not, that we may bury him, and no man know it. 11 So the maid opened the door, and went in, and found them both asleep, and came forth, and told them that he was alive. 12 Then Raguel praised God, and said, O God, thou art worthy to be praised with all pure and holy praise: therefore let thy servants, with thee with all thy creatures: and let all thine angels and thine elect praise thee for ever. 13 Thou art to be praised, for thou hast made me joyful; and that is not come to me which I suspected; but thou hast dealt with us according to thy great mercy. 14 Thou art to be praised, because thou hast had mercy of two that were the only begotten children of their fathers that remained O Lord, and finish their life in health with joy and mercy. 15 Then Raguel bade his servants to fill the grave. 16 And he kept the wedding feast fourteen days. 17 For before the days of the marriage were finished, Raguel had said unto him by an oath, that he should not depart till the fourteen days of the marriage were expired; 18 and then he should take half of his goods, and go in safety to his father; and should have the rest when I and my wife be dead. Then Tobias called Raphael, and said unto him, 2 Brother Azarias, take with thee a servant, and two camels, and go to Rages of Media to Gabael, and bring me the money, and bring him to the wedding.

For Raguel hath sworn that I shall not depart. 4 But my father counteth the days; and if I tarry long, he will be very sorry.

So Raphael went out, and lodged with Gabael, and gave him the handwriting: who brought forth bags which were sealed up, and gave them to him.

And early in the morning they went forth both together, and came to the wedding: and Tobias blessed his wife.

Now Tobit his father counted every day: and when the days of the journey were expired, and they came not, then Tobit said,

Are they dead? or is Gabael dead, and there is no man to give child to my son? Therefore he was very sorry. Then his wife said unto him, My son is dead, seeing he stayeth long; and she began to bewail him, and said, Now I care for nothing, my son, since I have let thee go, the light of mine eyes.

To whom Tobit said, Hold thy peace, take no care, for he is safe. 7 But she said, Hold thy peace, and deceive me not; my son is dead. And she went out every day into the way which they went, and did eat no meat in the daytime, and ceased not whole nights to bewail her son Tobias, until the fourteenth days of the wedding were expired, which Raguel had sworn that he should spend there. Then Tobits said to Raguel,

Let me go, for my father and my mother look no more to see me. 8 But his father in law said unto him, Tarry with me, and I will send to thy father, and they shall declare unto him how things go with thee. 9 But Tobias said, No; but let me go to my father.

Then Raguel arose, and gave him Sara his wife, and half his goods, servants, and cattle, and money: 10 and he blessed them, and sent them away, saying, The God of heaven give you a prosperous journey, my children. 11 12 And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father and thy mother in law, which are now thy parents, that I may hear good report of thee. And he kissed her. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heaven restore thee, my dear brother, and grant that I may see the children of my daughter Sara before I die, that I may rejoice before the Lord: behold, I commit my daughter unto thee, of special trust; wherefore do not entreat her evil.

13 After these things Tobias went his way, praising God that he had given him a prosperous journey, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way till they drew near unto Nineve.

Then Raphael said to Tobias, Dost thou not know, brother, how thou didst leave thy father? 14 let us haste before thy wife, and prepare the house; and take in thine hand the gall of the fish. So they went their way, and the dog went after them. 15 Now Anna sat looking about toward the way for her son. 16 And when she espied him coming, she said to his father, Behold, thy son cometh, and the man that went with him.

Then said Raphael, I know, Tobias, that thy father will open his eyes. 17 Therefore anoint thou his eyes with the gall, and being pricked therewith, he shall rub, and the whiteness shall fall away, and he shall see thee.

3 Then Anna ran forth, and fell upon the neck of her son, and said unto him, Seeing I have seen thee, my son, from henceforth I am content to die. And they wept both.

10 Tobit also went forth toward the door, and stumbled: but his son ran unto him, and took hold of his father: and he strolled of the gall on his father's eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my father. And when his eyes began to smart, he rubbed them; and the whiteness was pilled away from the corners of his eyes: and when he saw his son, he fell upon his neck.

11 And he wept, and said, Blessed art thou, O God, and blessed is thy name for ever; and blessed are all things holy angels: for thou hast scourged, and hast taken pity on me: for, behold, I see my son Tobias. And his son went in rejoicing, and told his father the great things that had happened to him in Media.

13 Then Tobit went out to meet his daughter in law at the gate of Nineve, rejoicing, and praising God: and they which saw him go marvelled; because he had received his sight.

15 The blessed Tobias gave thanks before them, because God had mercy on him. And when he came near to Sara his daughter in law, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be blessed, which hath brought thee unto us, and blessed be thy father and thy mother. And there was joy among all his brethren, which were at Nineve. And Achabarchus, and Nasbas his brother's son, came; and Tobias' wedding was kept seven days with great joy.

Then Tobias called his son Tobias, and said unto him, My son, see that the man have his wages, which went with thee, and thou must give him more. And Tobias said unto him, O father, it is the harm to me to give him half of those things which I have brought, for he hath brought me again to thee in safety, and made whole my wife, and brought me the money, and likewise healed thee.

Then the old man said, It is due unto him. So he called the angel, and he said unto him, Take half of all that ye have brought, and go away in safety. Then he took them both apart, and said unto them, Bless God, praise him, and magnify him, and praise him for the things which he hath done unto you in the sight of all that live. It is good to praise God, and exalt his name, and honourably to shew forth the works of God; therefore be not slack to praise him. Tobit XI. 9—XII. 11.

Tobit

Then Tobit went out to meet his daughter in law at the gate of Nineve, rejoicing, and praising God: and they which saw him go marvelled; because he had received his sight.

15 The blessed Tobias gave thanks before them, because God had mercy on him. And when he came near to Sara his daughter in law, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be blessed, which hath brought thee unto us, and blessed be thy father and thy mother. And there was joy among all his brethren, which were at Nineve. And Achabarchus, and Nasbas his brother's son, came; and Tobias' wedding was kept seven days with great joy.

Then Tobias called his son Tobias, and said unto him, My son, see that the man have his wages, which went with thee, and thou must give him more. And Tobias said unto him, O father, it is the harm to me to give him half of those things which I have brought, for he hath brought me again to thee in safety, and made whole my wife, and brought me the money, and likewise healed thee.

Then the old man said, It is due unto him. So he called the angel, and he said unto him, Take half of all that ye have brought, and go away in safety. Then he took them both apart, and said unto them, Bless God, praise him, and magnify him, and praise him for the things which he hath done unto you in the sight of all that live. It is good to praise God, and exalt his name, and honourably to shew forth the works of God; therefore be not slack to praise him. It is good to keep close the secret of a king, but it is honourable to reveal the works of God. Do that which is good, and no evil shall touch you. Prayer is good with fasting and alms and righteousness. A little with righteousness is better than much with unrighteousness. It is better to give alms than to lay up gold; for alms doth deliver from death, and shall purge away sin. Those that exercise alms and righteousness shall be filled with life: but they that sin are enemies to their own life.
Then they were both troubled, and fell upon their faces: for they feared. 17 But he said unto them, Fear not, for it shall go well with you; praise God therefore. 18 For not of any favour of mine, but by the will of our God I came; wherefore praise him for ever. All these days I did appear unto you, but I did neither eat nor drink, but ye did see it. 19 Now therefore give God thanks: for I go up to him that sent me; but write all things which are done in a book. 20 And when they arose, they saw him no more. 21 Then they confessed the great and wonderful works of God, and how the angel of the Lord had appeared unto them.

Then Tobit wrote a prayer of rejoicing, and said,

Blessed be God that liveth for ever, and blessed be his kingdom. 2 For he doth scourge, and hath mercy: he leadeth down to hell, and bringeth up again: neither is there any that can avoid his hand. 3 Confess him before the Gentiles, ye children of Israel: for he hath scattered us among them. 4 There declare his greatness, and extol him before all the living: for he is the Lord God of hosts for ever. 5 And he will scarce us for our iniquities, and will have mercy again, and will gather us out of all nations, among whom he hath scattered us.

6 If ye turn to him with your whole heart, and with your whole mind, and deal uprightly before him, then will he turn unto you, and will not hide his face from you. Therefore see what he will do with you, and confess him with your whole mouth, and praise the Lord of might, and extol the everlasting King. In the land of my captivity do I praise him, and declare his might and majesty to a sinful nation. O ye sinner, turn to the King, who can tell if he will accept you, and have mercy on you?

7 I will extol my God, and my soul shall praise the King of heaven, and shall rejoice in his greatness. 8 Let all men speak, and let all praise him for his righteousness.

9 O Jerusalem, the holy city, he will scourge thee for thy children's works, and will have mercy again on the sons of the righteous. 10 Give praise to the Lord, for he is good: and praise the everlasting King, that his herbacle may be builded in thee again with joy, and let him make joyful there in the name of the Lord God with gifts in their hands, even gifts to the King of heaven; all generations shall praise thee with great joy. 13 Cursed are all they which hate thee, and blessed shall all be which love thee for ever. 14 Rejoice and be glad for the children of the just; for they shall be gathered together, and shall bless the Lord of the just. 15 O blessed are they which love thee, for they shall rejoice in thy peace; blessed are they which have been sorrowful for all thy scourges; for they shall rejoice for thee, when they have seen all thy glory, and shall be glad for ever.

Let my soul bless God the great King. For Jerusalem shall be built up with sapphire, and emerald, and precious stone; thy walls and towers and battlements with pure gold. And the streets of Jerusalem shall be paved with beryl and carbuncle and stone of Ophir. And all her streets shall say, Alleluia; and they shall praise him, saying, Blessed be God, which hath extolled it for ever.

So Tobit made an end of praising God. And he was eight and fifty years old when he lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight years: and he gave alms, and he increased in the fear of the Lord God, and praised him.

And when he was very aged, he called his son, and the sons of his house, and said to him, My son, take thy children: for, behold, I am aged, and am ready to depart out of this life. Go into Media, my son, for I surely believe those things which Jonas the prophet spake of Nineve, that it shall be overthrown; and that for a time peace shall rather be in Media; and that our brethren shall lie scattered in the earth from that good land: and Jerusalem shall be desolate, and the house of God in it shall be burned, and shall be desolate for a time; and that again God will have mercy on them, and bring them again into the land, where they shall build a temple, but not like to the first, until the time of that age be fulfilled; and afterward they shall return from all places of their captivity, and build up Jerusalem gloriously, and the house of God shall be built in it with glorious building, as the prophets have spoken thereof.

And all nations shall turn, and fear the Lord God truly, and shall bury their idols. So shall all nations praise the Lord, and his people shall confess God, and the Lord shall exalt his people; and all those which love the Lord God in truth and justice shall rejoice, shewing mercy to our brethren.

And now, my son, depart out of Nineve, because that those things which the prophet Jonas spake shall surely come to pass. But keep thou the law and the commandments, and shew thyself merciful and just; that it may go well with thee. And bury me decently, and thy mother with me; but tarry no longer at Nineve. Remember, my son, how Achab was handled Achichar, that brought him up, how out of light he brought him into darkness, and how he rewarded him again: yet Achichar was saved, but
In the twelfth year of the reign of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineve, the great city; in the days of Arphaxad, who reigned over the Medes in Ecbatane, and built in Ecbatane walls round about of stones hewn three cubits broad and six cubits long, and made the height of the wall seventy cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits: and set the towers thereof upon the gates of it, an hundred cubits high, and the breadth thereof in the foundation threescore cubits: and he made the gates thereof, even gates that were raised to the height of seventy cubits, and the breadth of them was forty cubits, for his going forth of his mighty armies, and for the setting in array of his footmen.

5 Even in those days king Nabuchodonosor made war with king Arphaxad in the great plain, which is the plain in the borders of Ragau. And there came unto him all they that dwelt in the hill country, and all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tigris, and Hydroaspes, and the plain of Arioch the king of the Elymans, and very many nations of the sons of Cheleul, assembled themselves to the battle.

7 Then Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians sent unto all that dwelt in Persia, and to all that dwelt westward, and to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus, and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt in the midst of the lands of the Gentiles, and to those among the nations that were of Carmel, and Galaad, and the higher Galilee, and the great plain of Esdrelom, 9 and to all that were in Samaria and the cities thereof, and beyond Jordan unto Jerusalem, and Betane, and Chelis, and Kades, and the river of Egypt, and Taphines, and Ramesses, and all the land of the Hittites, and ye came before Tanis and Memphis, and to all the inhabitants of Egypt, until ye come to the borders of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of the land made light of the commandment of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians, neither went they with him to the battle; for they were not afraid of him: yea, he was before them as one man, and they sent away his ambassadors from them without effect, and with disgrace. Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angry with all this country, and swore by his throne and kingdom, that he would surely be avenged upon all those coasts of Cilicia, and Damascus, and Syria. And that he would slay with the sword all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Judea, and all that were in Egypt, till ye come to the borders of the two seas.

12 Then he marched in battle array with his power against king Arphaxad in the seventeenth year, and he prevailed in his battle: for he overthrew all the power of Arphaxad, and all his horsemen, and all his chariots, 14 and became lord of his cities, and came unto Ecbatane, and took the towers, and spoiled the streets thereof, and turned the beauty thereof into shame. 15 He took also Arphaxad in the mountains of Ragans, and snote him through with his darts, and destroyed him utterly that day.

16 So he returned afterward to Ninive, both he and all his company of sundry nations, being a very great multitude of men of war, and there he took his ease, and banqueted, both he and his army, an hundred and twenty days.

And in the eighteenth year, the two and twentieth day of the first month, there was talk in the name of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians, that he should, as he said, avenge himself on all the earth. 2 So he called unto him all his officers, and all his nobles, and communicated with them his secret counsel, and concluded the affinity of the whole earth out of his own mouth. 3 Then they decreed to destroy all flesh, that they did not obey the commandment of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsel, Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians called Holofernes the chief captain of his army, which was next unto him, and said unto him, 5 Thus saith the great king, the lord of the whole earth. Behold, thou shalt go forth from hence, and shall go with the men that trust in their own strength, of footmen an hundred and twenty thousand; and the number of horses with their riders two thousand. 6 And thou shalt go against all the west country, because they disobeyed my commandment: 7 and thou shalt declare unto them, that they prepare for me earth and water: for I will go forth in my wrath against them, and will cover the whole face of the earth with the feet of mine army, and I will give them for a spoil unto them: so that their slain shall fill their valleys and brooks, and the river shall be filled with their dead, till it overflow; and I will lead them captives unto the utmost parts of all the earth.

8. Thou therefore shalt go forth, and take beforehand for me all their coasts: and if they will yield themselves unto thee, thou shalt reserve them for me till the day of their punishment.

9. But concerning them that rebel, let not thine eye spare them: but put them to the slaughter, and spoil them with their goods, as thou goest.

10. For as I live, and by the power of my kingdom, whatsoever I have spoken, that will I do by mine hand. 11. And take thou heed that thou transgress none of the commandments of thy lord, but accomplish them fully, as I have commanded thee, and defer not to do them.

Then Holofernes went forth from the presence of his lord, and called all the governors and captains, and the officers of the army of Assur; and he mustered the chosen men for the battle, as his lord had commanded him, unto an hundred and twenty thousand, and twelve thousand archers on horseback; and he ranged them, as a great army is ordered for the war. And he took camels and ass for their carriages, a very great number; and sheep and oxen and goats without number for their provision: and plenty of victual for every man of the army, and very much gold and silver out of the king's house.

Then he went forth and all his power to go before king Nabuchodonosor in the voyage, and to cover all the face of the earth westward with their chariots, and horsemen, and their chosen footmen. A great number also of sundry countries came with them like locusts, and like the sand of the earth: for the multitude was without number.

And they went forth of Ninive three days' journey toward the plain of Becontril, and pitched from Bectileth near the mountain which is at the left hand of the upper Cilicia. And they tarried there, his footmen, and horsemen, and chariots, and went from thence into the hill country; and destroyed Phud and Lud, and spoiled all the children of Rasses, and the children of Israel, which were toward the wilderness at the south of the land of the Chelians.

Then he went over Euphrates, and went through Mesopotamia, and destroyed all the high cities that were upon the river Arbonai, till ye come to the sea.

And he took the borders of Cilicia, and killed all that resisted him, and came to the borders of Japheth, which were toward the south, over against Arabia.

He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burned up their tabernacles, and spoilt them of their spoils, and utterly wasted their countries, and smote all their young men with the edge of the sword.
JUDITH II. 28—IV. 8.

Therefore the fear and dread of him fell upon all the inhabitants of the sea coasts, which were in Sidon and Tyre, and them that dwelt in Sur and Oecina, and all that dwelt in Jemmanna; and they that dwelt in Azotus and Ascalon feared him greatly.

So they sent ambassadors unto him to treat of peace, saying, 7 Behold, we the servants of Nabuchodonosor the great king lie before thee; use us as shall be good in thy sight. Behold, our houses, and all our places, and all our fields of wheat, and figs, and grapes, and all the lodges of our tents, lie before thy face; use them as it pleaseth thee. Behold, even our cities and the inhabitants thereof are thy servants; come and deal with them as seemeth good unto thee.

So the men came to Holofernes, and declared unto him after this manner. Then he came down toward the sea coast, both he and his army, and set garrisons in the high cities, and took out of them chosen men for aid. So they and all the country round about received him with garlands, with dances, and with timbrels. Yet he did cast down their frontiers, and cut down their groves: for he had decreed to destroy all the gods of the land, the whole nation Nabuchodonosor only, and that all tongues and tribes should call upon him as a god.

Also he came over against Edraelon near unto Judea, over against the great strait of Judaea. And he pitched between Geba and Scythopolis, and there he tarried a whole month, that he might gather together all the carriages of his army.

Now the children of Israel, that dwelt in Judaea, heard all that Holofernes the chief captain of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians had done to the nations, and after what manner he had spoiled all their temples and brought them to nought. Therefore they were exceedingly afraid of him, and were troubled for Jerusalem: and for the temple of the Lord their God: for they were newly returned from the captivity, and all the people of Judaea were lately gathered together: and the vessels and the altar, and the house, were sanctified after the restoration. Therefore they went into all the coasts of Samaria, and the villages, and to Bethoron, and Belthen, and Jericho, and to Choba, and Esora, and to the valley of Salem: and possessed themselves beforehand of all the tops of the high mountains, and fortified the villages that were in them, and laid up victuals for the provision of war: for their fields were of late reaped.

Also Joacim the high priest, which was in those days in Jerusalem, wrote to them that dwelt in Bethulia, and Betemestham, that is over against Edraelon toward the open country, near to Dothaim, charging them to keep the passages of the hill country: for by them there was an entrance into Judea: and it was easy to stop them that would come up, because the passage was strait, for two men at the most. And the children of Israel did as Joacim the high priest had commanded them, with the ancients of all the people of Israel, which dwelt at Jerusalem.

11Thus every man and woman, and the little children, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, fell before the temple, and cast ashes upon their heads, and spread out their sackcloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackcloth about the altar. And cried to the God of Israel all with one consent earnestly, that he would not give their children for a prey, and their wives for a spoil, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, and the sanctuary to profanation and reproach, and for the nations to rejoice at.

12So God heard their prayers, and looked upon their afflictions: for the people fasted many days in all Judea and Jerusalem before the sanctuary of the Lord Almighty.

13And Joachim the high priest, and all the priests that stood before the Lord, and they which ministered unto the Lord, had their loins girt with sackcloth, and offered the daily burnt offerings, with the vows and free gifts of the people, 3and had ashes on their mitres, and cried unto the Lord, with all their power, that he would look upon all the house of Israel graciously.

Then was it declared to Holofernes, the chief captain of the army of Asur, that the children of Israel had prepared for war, and had shut up the passages of the hill country, and had fortified all the tops of the high hills, and had laid impediments in the champaign countries: 2wherewith he was very angry, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captains of Ammon, and all the governors of the sea coast, 3and he said unto them, I know now ye sons of Chaldea, who this people is, that dwelleth in the hill country, and what are the cities that they inhabit, and what is the multitude of their army, and wherein is their power and strength, and what king is set over them, or captain of their army; 4and why have they determined not to come and meet me, more than all the inhabitants of the west?

5Then said Achior, the captain of all the sons of Ammon, Let my lord now hear a word from the mouth of thy servant, and I will declare unto thee the truth concerning this people, which dwelleth near thee, and inhabiteth the hill countries: and there shall no lie come out of the mouth of thy servant. 6This people are descended of the Chaldeans: and they sojourned heretofore in Mesopotamia, because they would not follow the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldea. For they left the way of their ancestors, and worshipped the God of heaven, the God whom they knew: so they either turned from the face of their gods, and they fled into Mesopotamia, and sojourned there many days.
9 Then their God commanded them to depart from the place where they sojourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan; where they dwelt, and were increased with gold and silver, and with very much cattle.
10 But when the Chanaans had destroyed all the land of Chanaan, they went down into Egypt, and sojourned there, while they were nourished, and became there a great multitude, so that one could not number their nation.
11 Therefore the king of Egypt rose up against them, and dealt subtly with them, and brought them low with labouring in brick, and forced them to become their slaves.
12 Then they cried unto their God, and he smote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the Egyptians cast them out of their sight.
13 And God dried the Red sea before them, and brought them to Mount Sina, and Cades-Barne, and cast forth all that dwelt in the wilderness.
14 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Esebon, and passing over Jordan they possessed all the land that was not their's, and the temple of their God was cast to the ground, and their cities were taken by the enemies.
15 But now are they returned to their God, and are come up from the places where they were scattered, and have possessed Jerusalem, where their sanctuary is, and are seated in the hill country; for it was desolate.
16 Now therefore, my lord, and governor, if there be any error in this people, and they sin against their God, let us consider that this shall be their ruin, and let us go up, and we shall overcome them. But if there be no iniquity in their nation, let my lord now pass by, lest their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproach before all the world.
17 And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people standing round about the tent murmured, and the chief men of Holofernes, and all that dwelt by the sea side, and in Moab, spake that he should kill him. For, say they, we will not be afraid of the face of the children of Israel: for, lo, it is a people that have no strength nor power, among battle.
18 Now therefore, lord Holofernes, we will go up, and they shall be a prey to be devoted of all thine army. And when the tumult of men that were about the council was ceased, Holofernes the chief captain of the army of Assur said unto Achior and all the Moabites before all the companions of other nations, who were not thine, Achior, and the hearings of Ephrim, that thou hast prophesied among us as to day, and hast said, that we should not make war with the people of Israel, because their God will defend them; and who is God but Nabuchodonosor? 3 He will send his power, and will destroy them from the face of the earth, and their God shall not deliver them: but we his servants will destroy them as one man; for they are not able to sustain the power of our horses. For with them we will tread them under foot, and their mountains shall be drunken with their blood, and their fields shall be filled with their dead bodies, and their footsteps shall not be able to stand before us, for they shall utterly perish, saith king Nabuchodonosor, lord of all the earth: for he said, None of my words shall be in vain.

And thou, Achior, an hireling of Ammon, which hast spoken these words in the day of thine iniquity, shalt see my face no more from this day, until I take vengeance of this nation that came out of Egypt. 6 And then shall the sword of mine army, and the multitude of them that serve me, pass through thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their slain, when I return. 7 Now therefore my servants shall bring thee back into the hill country, and shall set thee in one of the cities. 8 And thou shalt not perish, till thou be destroyed with them. 9 And if thou persuade thyself in thy mind that they shall not be taken, let not thy countenance fail: I have spoken it, and none of my words shall be in vain.

Then Holofernes commanded his servants, that waited in his tent, to take Achior, and bring him to Bethulia, and deliver him into the hands of the children of Israel. 10 So they took him, and brought him out of the camp into the plain, and they went from the midst of the plain into the hill country, and came unto the fountains that were under Bethulia.

And when the men of the city saw them, they took up their weapons, and went out of the city to the top of the hill: and every man that used a sling kept them from coming up by casting of stones against them. 12 But Israelites lying privily under the hill, they bound Achior, and cast him down, and left him at the foot of the hill, and returned to their lord.

But the Israelites descended from their city, and came unto him, and loosed him, and brought him into Bethulia, and presented him to the governors of the city: 13 which were in those days Oziyas the son of Micha, of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris the son of Gothionel, and Charmis the son of Melchiel.

And they called together all the ancients of the city, and all their youth ran together, and their women, to the assembly, and they set Achior in the midst of all their people. Then Oziyas asked him of that which was done. 17 And he answered and declared unto them the words of the council of Holofernes, and all the words that he had spoken in the midst of the princes of Assur, and whatsoever Holofernes had spoken proudly against the house of Israel.

Then the people fell down and worshipped God, and cried unto God, saying, O Lord God of heaven, behold their pride, and pity the low estate of our nation, and look upon the face of those that are sanctified unto thee this day.
And they comforted Achior, and praised him greatly. Then Oziel took him out of the assembly unto his house, and made a feast to the elders; and they called on the God of Israel all that night for help.

The next day Holofernes commanded all his army, and all his people which were to come to take his part, that they should remove their camp against Bethulia, to take the ascents of the hill country, and to make war against the children of Israel. Then their strong men removed that day, and the army of the men of war was an hundred and seventy thousand footmen, and twelve thousand horsemen, beside the baggage, and other men that were afoot among them, a very great multitude. And they camped in the valley near unto Bethulia, by the fountain, and spread themselves in breadth over Dothan even to Bethem, and in length from Bethulia unto Cynamon, which is over against Esdraelon.

Now the children of Israel, when they saw the multitude of them, were greatly troubled, and said every one to his neighbor, Now will these men lick up the face of the earth; for neither the high mountains, nor the valleys, nor the hills, are able to bear their weight. Then every man took up his weapons of war, and when they had kindled fires upon their towers, they remained and watched all that night. But in the second and third day Holofernes brought forth all his horsemen in the sight of the children of Israel which were in Bethulia, and viewed the passages up to the city, and came to the fountains of their waters, and took them, and set garrisons of men of war over them, and he himself removed toward his people.

Then came unto him all the chief of the children of Esau, and all the governors of the people of Moab, and the captains of the sea coast, and said, Let our lord now hear a word, that there be not an overthrow in thine army. For this people of the children of Israel do not trust in their spears, but in the height of the mountains wherein they dwell, because it is not easy to come up to the tops of their mountains.

Now therefore, my lord, fight not against them in battle array, and there shall not so much as one man of thy people perish. Remain in thy camp, and keep all the men of thine army, and let thy servants get into their hands the fountain of water, which issueth forth of the foot of the mountain; for all the inhabitants of Bethulia have their water thence; so shall thirist them, and they shall give up their city, and we and our people shall go up to the tops of the mountains that are near, and will camp upon them, to watch that none go out of the city. So they and their wives and their children shall be consumed with famine, and before the word come against them, they shall be overthrown in the streets where they dwell. Thus shall thou render them an evil reward; because they rebelled, and met not thy person peaceably.

And these words pleased Holofernes and all his servants, and he appointed to do as they had spoken. So the camp of the children of Ammon departed, and with them five thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, and took the waters, and the fountains of the waters of the children of Israel.

Then the children of Esau went up with the children of Ammon, and camped in the hill country over against Dothaim: and they sent some of them toward the south, and toward the east, over against Ekrebeth, which is near unto Chusi, that is upon the brook Mochmur; and the rest of the army of the Assyrians camped in the plain, and every one of the face of the whole land; and their tents and carriages were pitched to a very great multitude.

Then the children of Israel cried unto the Lord their God, because their heart failed, for all their enemies had compassed them round about, and there was no way to escape out from among them. Thus all the company of Assur remained about them, both their footmen, chariots, and horsemen, four and thirty days, so that all their vessels of water failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia. And the cisterns were emptied, and they had not water to drink their fill for one day; for they gave them drink by measure. Therefore their young children were out of heart, and their women and young men fainted for thirst, and fell down in the streets of the city, and by the passages of the gates, and there was no longer any strength in them.

Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the chief of the city, both young men, and women, and children, and cried with a loud voice, and said before all the elders, God be judge between us and you: for ye have done us great injury, in that ye have not satisfied out of the strength of the city, and of the assembled. For now we have no helper: but God hath sold us into their hands, that we should be thrown down before them with thirst and great destruction.

Now therefore call them unto you, and deliver the whole city for a spoil to the people of Holofernes, and to all his army. For it is better for us to be made a spoil unto them, than to die for thirst: for we will be his servants, that our souls may live, and not see the death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wives nor our children to die. We take to witness a signal you the heaven and the earth, and our God and Lord of our fathers, which punisheth us according to our sins and the sins of our fathers, that he do not according as we have said this day.

Then there was great weeping with one consent in the midst of the assembly; and they cried unto the Lord God with a loud voice.

Then said Ozias to them, Brethren, be of good courage, let us yet endure five days, in which space the Lord our God may turn his mercy toward us; for he will not forsake us utterly. And if these days pass, and there come no help unto us, I will do according to your words. And let the people, every one to his own charge; and they went up to the walls and towers of... their city, and sent the women and children into their houses; and they were brought very low in the city.

Now at that time Judith heard thereof, which was the daughter of Merari, the son of Ox, the son of Joseph, the son of Oziel, the son of Elan, the son of Cheleias, the son of Eliab, the son of Nathanael, the son of Salamie, the son of Sarasadai, the son of Israel. 2 And Manasses was her husband, of her tribe and kindred, who died in the barley harvest. 3 For as he stood overseeing them that bound sheaves in the field, the head came down upon him, and he fell under his own bed, and died in his city of Bethulia: and they buried him with his fathers in the field between Dothaim and Balamo. 4 So Judith was a widow in her house three years and four months. 5 And she made her a tent upon the top of her house, and put on sackcloth upon her loins, and wore her widow's apparel. 6 And she fasted all the days of her widowhood, save the eyes of the people, of the sabbaths, and the days of the new moons, and the feasts and solemn days of the house of Israel. 7 She was also of a greatly countenance, and very beautiful to behold: and her husband Manasses had left her gold, and silver, and mensevants, and unmercifuls, and cattle, and lands; and she remained upon them. 8 And there was none that gave her an ill word; for she feared God greatly. 9 Now when she heard the evil words of the people against the governor, that they feared for lack of water; for Judith had heard all the words that Oxias had spoken unto them, and that he had sworn to deliver the city unto the Assyrians after five days; 10 then she sent her waiting-woman, that had the government of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabrias and Charmis, the ancients of the city. 11 And they came unto her, and she said unto them, Hear me now, O ye governors of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your words that ye have spoken before the people this day are not right, touching this oath which ye made and pronounced between you, and have promised to deliver the city to our enemies, unless within these days the Lord turn to help you. 12 And now who are ye that have tempted God this day, and stand instead of God among the children of men? 13 And now try the Lord Almighty, but ye shall never know any thing. 14 For ye cannot find the depth of the heart of man, neither can ye perceive the things that he thinketh; then how can ye search out God, that hath made all these things, and know his mind, or comprehend his purpose? Nay, my brethren, provoke not the Lord our God to anger. 15 For if he will not help us within these five days, he hath power to defend us when he will, even every day, or to destroy us before our enemies. 16 To do not bind the counsels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man, that he may be threatened; neither is he the son of man, that he should be waverin. 17 Therefore let us wait for salvation of him, and call upon him to help us, and he will hear our voice, if it please him.
Judith VIII. 18-36.

18 For there arose none in our age, neither is there now in these days, neither tribe, nor family, nor people, nor city, among us, which worship gods made with hands, as hath been aforesight. 19 For the which cause our fathers were given to the mouth of the sword, and had a great fall before our enemies. 20 But we know none other God, therefore we trust that he will not despise us, nor any of our nation. 21 For if we be taken so, all Judea shall lie waste, and our sanctuary shall be spoiled; and he will require the profanation thereof at our mouth. 22 And the slaughter of our brethren, and the captivity of the country, and the desolation of our inheritance, will he turn upon our heads among the Gentiles, wheresoever we shall be in bondage; and we shall be an offence and a reproach to all them that possess us. 23 For our servitude shall not be directed to favour; but the Lord our God shall turn it to dishonour.

24 Now therefore, O brethren, let us shew an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend upon us, and the sanctuary, and the house, and the altar, rest upon us.

25 Moreover let us give thanks to the Lord our God, which trieth us, even as he did our fathers. 26 Remember what things he did to Abraham, and how he tried Isaac, and what happened to Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria, when he kept the sheep of Laban his mother's brother. 27 For he hath not tried us in the fire, as he did them, for the examination of their hearts, neither hath he taken vengeance on us: but the Lord doth scourge them that come near unto him, to admonish them.

28 Then said Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken hast been spoken with a good heart, and there is none that may gainsay thy words. 29 For this is not the first day wherein thy wisdom is manifested; but from the beginning of thy days all the people have known thy understanding, because the disposition of thine heart is good. 30 But the people were very thirsty, and compelled us to do unto them as we have spoken, and to bring an oath upon ourselves, which we will not break. 31 Therefore now pray thou for us, because thou art a godly woman, and the Lord will send us rain to fill our cisterns, and we shall faint no more.

32 Then said Judith unto them, Hear me, and I will do a thing, which shall go throughout all generations to the children of our nation. 33 Ye shall stand this night in the gate, and I will go forth with my waitingwoman: and within the days that ye have promised to deliver the city to our enemies the Lord will visit Israel by mine hand. 34 But enquire not ye of mine act: for I will not declare it unto you, till the things be finished that I do.

35 Then said Ozias and the princes unto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God be before thee to take vengeance on our enemies. 36 So they returned from the tent, and went to their wards.
Then Judith fell upon her face, and put ashes upon her head, and uncovered the sackcloth wherewith she was clothed; and about the time that the incense of that evening was offered in Jerusalem in the house of the Lord, Judith cried with a loud voice, and said, O Lord God of my father Simon, hear me, and let my prayer be accepted before thee. For the Lord to take vengeance of the strangers, who loosened the girdle of a maid to defile her, and discovered the thigh to her shame, and polluted her virginity to her reproach; for thou saidst, It shall not be so; and yet they did so: wherefore thou gavest their rulers to be slain, so that they dyed their bed blood, being deceived, and smote the servants with their lords, and the lords upon their thrones; and hast given their wives for a prey, and their daughters to be captives, and all their spoils to be divided among thy dear children; which were moved with thy zeal, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, and called upon thee for aid: O God, O my God, hear me also a widow.

For thou hast wrought not only those things, but also the things which fell out before, and which ensued after: thou hast thought upon which things which are now, and which are to come. Yea, what things thou didst determinate were ready at hand, and the Lord, we are here: for all thy ways are prepared, and thy judgments are in thy foreknowledge.

For, behold, the Assyrians are multiplied in their power; they are exalted with horn and man; they glory in the strength of their footmen; they trust in shield, and spear, and bow, and sling; and know not that thou art the Lord that breakest the battles: the Lord is thy name. Throw down their strength in thy power, and bring down their force in thy wrath: for they have purposed to defile thy sanctuary, and to pollute the tabernacle where thy glorious name resteth, and to cast down with sword the horn of thy altar.

Pride, and wrath, and wrath, upon their heads: gave mine hand, which am a widow, the power that I have conceived. Smite by the deceit of my lips the servant with the prince, and the prince with the servant: break down their stateliness by the hand of a woman. For thy power standeth not in multitude, nor thy might in strong men: for thou art a God of the afflicted, and a helper of the weak, a protector of the forlorn, a saviour of them that are without hope.

I pray thee, O God of my father, and God of the inheritance of Israel, Lord of the heavens and earth, Creator of the waters, King of every creature, hear thou my prayer, and make my speech and deceit to be their wound and stripe, who have purposed cruel things against thy covenant, and thy hallowed house, and against the top of Sion, and against the house of the possession of thy children.

And make every nation and tribe to acknowledge that thou art the God of all power and might, and that there is none other that protecteth the people of Israel but thou.
Now after that she had ceased to cry unto the God of Israel, and had made an end of all these works, 4 she rose where she had fallen down, and called her maid, and went down into the house, in the which she abode in the sabbath days, and in her feast days, 5 and pulled off the sackcloth which she had on, and put off the garments of her widowhood, and washed her body all over with water, and anointed herself with precious ointment, and braided the hair of her head, and put on a tire upon her head, and put on her garments of gladness, wherewith she was clad during the life of Manasses her husband. 6 And she took sandals upon her feet, and put about her her bracelets, and her chains, and her rings, and her earrings, and all her ornaments, and decked herself bravely, to allure the eyes of all men that should see her.

5 Then she gave her maid a bottle of wine, and a cruse of oil, and filled a bag with parched corn, and lumps of figs, and with fine bread; so she folded all these things together, and laid them upon her. 6 Thus they went forth to the gate of the city of Bethulia, and found standing there Oziias, and the ancients of the city, Chabris and Charmis.

7 And when they saw her, that her countenance was altered, and her apparel was changed, they wondered at her beauty very greatly, and said unto her, 8 "The God, the God of our fathers, give thee favour, and accomplish thine enterprises to the glory of the children of Israel, and to the exaltation of Jerusalem. Then they worshipped God.

9 And she said unto them, Command the gates of the city to be opened unto me, that I may go forth to accomplish the things whereof ye have spoken with me. So they commanded the young men to open unto her, as she had spoken.

10 And when they had done so, Judith went out, she, and her maid with her; and the men of the city looked after her, until she was gone down the mountain, and till she had passed the valley, and could see her no more. 11 Thus they went straight forth in the valley: and the first watch of the Assyrians met her; 12 and they took her, and asked her, Of what people art thou? and whither comest thou? and whither goest thou? And she said, I am a woman of the Hebrews, and am fled from them: for they shall be given you to be consumed; 13 and I am coming before Holofernes the chief captain of your army, to declare words of truth; and I will shew him a way, whereby he shall go, and win all the hill country, without losing the body or life of any one of his men.

14 Now when the men heard her words, and beheld her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beauty, and said unto her, Thou hast saved thy life, in that thou hast hasted to come down to the presence of our lord: now therefore come to his tent, and some of us shall conduct thee, until they have delivered thee to his hands. 15 And when thou standest before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but shew unto him according to thy word; and he will entertain thee well.
Then they chose out of them an hundred men to accompany her and her maid; and they brought her to the tent of Holofernes. Then was under her concourse throughout all the camp: for her coming was noise among the tents, and they came about her, as she stood without the tent of Holofernes, till they told him of her. And they wondered at her beauty, and admired the children of Israel because of her, and every one said to his neighbour, Who would deceive this people, that have among them such women? surely it is not good that one man of them be left, who being let go might deceive the whole earth. And they that lay near Holofernes went out, and all his servants, and they brought her into the tent.

Now Holofernes rested upon his bed under a canopy, which was woven with purple, and gold, and emeralds, and precious stones. So they showed him of her; and he came out before his tent with silver lamps going before him. And when Judith was come before him and his servants, they all marvelled at her beauty. And she fell down upon her face, and did reverence unto him: and his servants took her up. Then said Holofernes unto her, Woman, be of good comfort, fear not in thine heart: for I never hurt any that was willing to serve Nabuchodonosor, the king of all the earth. Now therefore, if thy people that dwelleth in the mountains had not set light upon me, I would not have lifted up my spear against them: but they have done these things to themselves. But now tell me wherefore thou art fled from them, and art come unto us: for thou art come for a safeguard; be of good comfort, thou shalt live this night, and hereafter: for none shall hurt thee, but entertain thee well, as thou dost the servants of king Nabuchodonosor my lord.

Then Judith said unto him, Receive the words of thy servant, and suffer thine handmaid to speak in thy presence, and I will declare no lie to my lord this night. And if thou wilt follow the words of thine handmaid, God will bring the thing perfectly to pass by thee; and my lord shall not fail of his purposes. As Nabuchodonosor king of all the earth liveth, and as his power liveth, who hath sent thee for the upholding of every living thing: for not only men shall serve him by thee, but also the beasts of the field, and the cattle, and the fowls of the air, shall live forever under Nabuchodonosor and all his house. For we have heard of thy wisdom and thy policies, and it is reported in all the earth, that thou only art excellent in all the kingdom, and mighty in knowledge, and wonderful in feats of war. Now as concerning the matter, which Achior did speak in thy council, we have heard his words; for the men of Bethulia saved him, and he declared unto them all that he had spoken unto thee. Therefore, O lord and governor, reject not his word; but lay it up in thine heart, for it is true: for our nation shall not be punished, neither can the sword prevail against them, except they sin against their God.

And the Lord visited, and heard the prayer of the people; and he sent his angel to keep his people, and to save them out of the hand of their enemies. And the angel of the Lord was to his faithful, and was in his sight, as a cloud, and in his hand was a fire, which he sent down to earth; and the fire fell upon the camp of the Assyrians, and consumed the host. And the king rose up, and all his servants, and the host of them, and all that was in the camp. And the king said, Why do you now destroy us? and the people said,就是因为神禁止他們，我們竟如此，因為我們擔當了他們的重任，因為他們沒有履行他們的約，他們沒有讓我們的子孫在他們中間存活。
11 And now, that my lord be not defeated and frustrate of his purpose, even death is better than life to me. And they that dwell in Jericho and have not heard of the Lord; yea, also the lawers of the city and the occurent inspectors of the people, and the men that have sent me to thee, and his servants, and those who have given thee to be destroyed, shall remain alive. 12 And now, if it please you, I will cause the thing to be accomplished; for so it is meet for me to be thus spoken unto you, and I will cause the thing to be accomplished.
Then said Judith unto him, As thy soul liveth, my lord, thine handmaid shall not spend those things that I have, before the Lord work by mine hand the things that he hath determined.

Then the servants of Holofernes brought her into the tent, and she slept till midnight, and she arose when it was toward the morning watch, *and sent to Holofernes, saying, Let my lord now command that thine handmaid may go forth unto prayer.

Then Holofernes commanded his guard that they should not stay her: thus she abode in the camp three days, and went out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed herself in a fountain of water by the camp. And when she came out, she besought the Lord God of Israel to direct her way to the raising up of the children of her people. *So she came in clean, and remained in the tent, until she did eat her meat at evening.

And in the fourth day Holofernes made a feast to his own servants only, and called none of the officers to the banquet. *Then said he to Bagoas the eunuch, who had charge over all that he had, Go now, and persuade this Hebrew woman which is with thee, that she come unto us, and eat and drink with us. *For, lo, it will be a shame for our person, if we shall let such a woman go, not having had her company; for if we draw her not unto us, she will laugh us to scorn.

Then went Bagoas from the presence of Holofernes, and came to her, and he said, Let not this fair damsell fear to come to my lord, and to be honoured in his presence, and drink wine, and be merry with us, and be made this day as one of the daughters of the Assyrians, which serve in the house of Naamanchodonosor.

Then said Judith unto him, Who am I now, that should gainsay my lord? surely whatsoever pleaseth him I will do speedily, and it shall be my joy unto the day of my death. *So she arose, and decked herself with her apparel and all her woman's attire, and her maid went and laid soft skins on the ground for her over against Holofernes, which she had received of Bagoas for her daily use, that she might sit and eat upon them.

Now when Judith came in and sat down, Holofernes his heart was ravished with her, and his mind was moved, and he desired greatly her company: for he waited a time to receive her, from the day that he had seen her.

Then said Holofernes unto her, Drink now, and be merry with us. *So Judith said, I will drink now, my lord, because my life is magnified in me this day more than all the days since I was born. *Then she took and ate and drank before him what her maid had prepared.

And Holofernes took great delight in her, and drank much more wine than he had drunk at any time in one day since he was born.

Kai εἶπεν Ἰουδιθ ἀνέπεσεν Ἰουδιθ, καὶ ἔστη ἡ καρδία Ἰούδιθι καὶ ἀσταθῆ ἡ ψυχὴ αὐτῆς καὶ ἦν κατεκτῆσις σφόδρα τοῦ συγγενεῖα μετά αὐτῆς καὶ ἐτήρη καὶ ἔστη ἡ καρδία αὐτῆς, ἐκ τῆς γενεάς μου. *Καὶ λαβοῦσα ἔφαγε καὶ ἔστη κατ' 19 ἡμέρας κατακλυσμένη εἰς τοὺς αὐτῶν.
Now when the evening was come, his servants made haste to depart; and Bagoas shut his tent without, and dismissed the waiters from the presence of his lord; and they went to their beds: for they were all weary, because the feast had been long.

And Judith was left alone in the tent, and Holofernes lying along on his bed: for he was filled with wine.

Now Judith had commanded her maid to stand without her bedchamber, and to wait for her coming forth, as she did daily: for she said she would go forth to her prayers, and she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

So all went forth, and none was left in the bedchamber, neither little nor great. Then Judith, standing by his bed, said in her heart, O Lord God of all power, look at this present upon the work of mine hands and hear my prayer, which I will put forth in the day of my tribulation and distress. For now is the time to help thine inheritance, and to execute my enterprise to the destruction of the enemies which are risen against us.

Then she came to the pillar of the bed, which was at Holofernes' head, and took down his fauchion from thence, and approached to his head, and took hold of the hair of his head, and said, Strengthen me, O Lord God of Israel, this day.

And she smote twice upon his neck with all her might, and she took away his head from him, and threw his body down from the bed, and pulled down the canopy from the pillars; and anon after she went forth, and gave Holofernes his head to her maid; and she put it in her bag of meat: so they twain went together according to their custom unto prayer: and when they passed the camp, they compassed the valley, and went up to the mountain of Bethulia, and came to the little gate thereof.

Then said Judith afar off to the watchmen at the gate, Open, open now the gate: God, even our God, is with us, to shew his power yet in Israel, and his strength against the enemy, as he hath even done this day.

Now when the men of her city heard her voice, they made haste to go down to the gate of their city, and they called the elders of the city. And then they ran all together, both small and great, for it was strange unto them that she was come: so they opened the gate, and received them, and made a fire for a light, and stood round about them.

Then she said to them with a loud voice, Praise, praise God, praise God, I say, for he hath not taken away his mercy from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hand this night: so she took the head of the dead, and shewed it, and said unto them, Behold the head of Holofernes, the chief captain of the army of Assur, and behold the canopy, wherein he did lie in his drunkenness; and the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman.

As the Lord liveth, who hath kept me in my way that I went, my countenance hath desired him to his destruction, and yet hath he not committed sin with me, to defile and shame me.
But when they had recovered him, he fell at Judith's feet, and reverence her, and said, Blessed art thou in all the tabernacle of Judah, and in all nations, which hearing thy name shall be astonished. Now therefore tell me all the things that thou hast done in these days. Then Judith declared unto him how she had done, from the day that she went forth until that hour she spake unto them. And when she had left off speaking, the people shouted with a loud voice, and made a joyful noise in their city.

And when Achior had seen all that the God of Israel had done, he believed in God greatly, and circumcised the flesh of his foreskin, and was joined unto the house of Israel unto this day.

And as soon as the morning arose, they hanged the head of Holofernes upon the wall, and every man took his weapons, and they went forth by bands unto the straits of the mountain.

12 Of ye villains Assyrians, as ye have done, ye have despised me and ye have taken the spoil of those who have slain thee, and ye have said to them, "We will take the spoil of them, and we will have the spoil of their cattle."

13 And when they had returned from the spoil, they said to the others, "We have taken the spoil of them, and we have slain those who were in the camp, and we have taken the spoil of their cattle."

14 Then went they into Bagas, and knocked at the door of the tent; and they said to the others, "We have taken the spoil of them, and we have slain those who were in the camp, and we have taken the spoil of their cattle."

15 But because none answered, they opened it, and went into the bedchamber, and found him cast upon the floor dead, and his head was taken from him. Therefore he cried with a loud voice, with weeping, and sighing, and a mighty cry, and rent his garments.

16 After he went into the tent where Judith lodged: and when he found her not, he leaped out to the people, and cried "These villains have dealt treacherously; one woman of the Hebrews hath brought shame upon the house of king Nabuchodonosor: for, behold, Holophernes lieth upon the ground without a head. When the captains of the Assyrians' army heard these words, they were troubled, and their minds were wonderfully troubled, and there was a cry and a very great noise throughout the camp. And when they that were in the tents heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done. And fear and trembling fell upon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour, but rushing out all together, they fled into every way of the plain, and of the hill country. They also that had camped in the mountains round about Bethulia fled away. Then the children of Israel, every one that was a warrior among them, rushed out upon them.

17 Then sent Ozias to Bethlehem, and to Chobah, and Chola, and to all the coasts of Israel, such as should tell the things that were done, and that all should rush forth upon their enemies to destroy them.

18 Now when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell upon them with one consent, and slew them unto Chobah: likewise also they that came from Jerusalem, and from all the hill country, (for men had told them that things were done in the camp of their enemies,) and they that were in Galad, and in Galilee, chased them with a great slaughter, until they were past Damascus and the borders thereof.

19 And the residue, that dwelt at Bethulia, fell upon the camp of Assur, and spoiled them, and were greatly enriched. And the children that returned from the slaughter had that which remained; and the villages and the cities, that were in the mountains and in the plain, got many spoils: for the multitude was very great.

20 Then Dacim the high priest, and the ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Jerusalem, came to behold the good things that God had done to Israel, and to see Judith, and to salute her. And when they came unto her, they blessed her with one accord, and said unto her, Thou art the exaltation of Israel, thou art the great glory of Israel, thou art the great rejoicing of our nation; thou hast done all these things by thine hand; thou hast done much good to Israel, and God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the Almighty Lord for evermore. And all the people said, So be it.

1 And the women spoiled the camp the space of thirty days: and they gave unto Judith Holofernes his tent, and all his plate, and beds, and vessels, and all his stuff: and she took it, and laid it on her mule; and made ready her ears, and laid them thereon.

2 Then the women of Israel ran together to see her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for: and she took branches in her hand, and gave also to the women that were with her. And they put a garland of olive upon her and her maid that was with her, and she went before all the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in the dance with garlands, and with songs in their mouths.

3 Then Judith began to sing this thanksgiving in all Israel, and all the people sang after her this song of praise.

4 And Judith said, Begin unto my God with timbrels, sing unto my Lord with cymbals: tune unto him a new psalm, exalt him, and call upon his name. For God breaketh the bonds of the children of men: for among the camps in the midst of the people he hath delivered me out of the hands of them that persecuted me.

5 Assur came out of the mountains from the north, he came with ten thousands of his army, the multitude whereof stopped the torrents, and exhalted his hand: and his horsemen have covered the hills.

6 He bragged that he would burn up my borders, and kill my young men with the sword, and dash the sucking children against the ground, and make mine infants as a prey, and my virgins as a spoil.

7 But the Almighty Lord hath disappointed him in the stead of a woman.

8 For the mighty one did not fall by the young men, neither did the sons of the Titans smite him, nor high giants set upon him: but Judith the daughter of Merari weakened him with the beauty of her comeliness. For she put off the garment of her widowhood for the exaltation of those that were oppressed in Israel, and anointed her face with ointment, and bound her hair in a tare, and took a linen garment to deceive him. Her sandals ravished his eyes, her beauty took his mind prisoner, and the fawning passed through his neck.

9 The Persians quaked at her boldness, and the Medes were daunted at her hardiness.

10 Then my afflicted shouted for joy, and my weak ones cried aloud: but they were astonished: these lifted up their voices, but they were overthrown. The sons of the damsels have pierced them through, and wounded them as fugitives: they perished by the battle of my Lord.

11 I will sing unto my God a new song: O Lord, thou art great and glorious, wonderful in strength, and invincible. Let all creatures serve thee: for thou spakest; and they were made: thou didst send forth thy spirit, and it created them, and there is none that can resist thy voice. For the mountains shall be moved from their foundations with the waters, the rocks shall melt as wax at thy presence; yet thou art merciful to them that fear thee. For all sacrifice is too little for a sweet savour unto thee, and all the fat is not sufficient for thy burnt offering: but he that feareth the Lord is great at all times.

Woe to the nations that rise up against my kindred! Almighty will take vengeance of them in the day of judgment, in putting fire and worms in their flesh; and they shall feel them, and weep for ever.

Now as soon as they entered into Jerusalem, they worshipped the Lord; and as soon as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, and their free offerings, and their gifts.

Judith also dedicated all the stuff of Holofernes, which the people had given her, and gave the canopy which she had taken out of his bedchamber, for a gift unto God.

So the people continued feasting in Jerusalem before the sanctuary for the space of three months, and Judith remained with them.

After this time every one returned to his own inheritance, and Judith went to Bethulia, and remained in her own possession, and was in her time honourable in all the country. And many desired her, but none knew her all the days of her life, after that Manasses her husband was dead, and was gathered to his people.

But she increased more and more in honour, and waxed old in her husband's house, being an hundred and five years old, and made her maid free; so she died in Bethulia; and they buried her in the cave of her husband Manasses. And the house of Israel lamented her seven days: and before she died, she did distribute her goods to all them that were nearest of kindred to Manasses her husband, and to them that were the nearest of her kindred. And there was none that made the children of Israel any more afraid in the days of Judith, nor a long time after her death.
Love righteousness, ye that be judges of the earth: think of the Lord with a good (heart,) and in simplicity of heart seek him. For he will be found of them that tempt him not; and shew himself unto such as do not distrust him. For forward thoughts separate from God: and his power, when it is tried, reproved the unwise. For into a malicious soul wisdom shall not enter: nor dwell in the body that is subject unto sin. For the holy spirit of discipline will flee deceit, and remove from thoughts that are without understanding, and will not abide when unrighteousness cometh in. For wisdom is a loving spirit; and will not acquit a blasphemer of his words: for God is witness of his reins, and a true beholder of his heart, and a hearer of his tongue. For the Spirit of the Lord filleth the world: and that which containeth all things hath knowledge of the voice. Therefore he that speaketh unrighteous things cannot be hidden: neither shall vengeance, when it punisheth, pass by him. For inquisition shall be made into the counsels of the ungodly: and the sound of his words shall come into the Lord for the manifestation of his wicked deeds. For the ear of jealousy heareth all things: and the noise of murmurings is not hid. Therefore beware of murmuring, which is unprofitable: and refrain your tongue from backbiting: for there is no word so secret, that shall go for nought: and the mouth that belie eth slayeth the soul. Seek not death in the error of your life: and pull not upon yourselves destruction with the works of your hands. For God made not death: neither hath he pleasure in the destruction of the living. For he created all things, that they might have their being: and the generation of the world were healthful: and there is no poison of destruction in them, nor the kingdom of death upon the earth: (for righteousness is immortal;) but ungodly men with their works and words called it to them: for when they thought to have it their friend, they consumed to nought, and made a covenant with it, because they are worthy to take part with it. For the ungodly said, reasoning with themselves, but not aright. Our life is short and tedious, and in the death of a man there is no remedy: neither was there any man known to have returned from the grave. For we are born at all adventure: and we shall be hereafter as though we had never been: for the breath in our nostrils is as smoke, and a little spark in the moving of our heart: which being extinguished, our body shall be turned to ashes, and our spirit shall vanish as the soft air, and our name shall be forgotten in time, and no man shall have our works in remembrance, and our life shall pass away as the trace of a cloud, and shall be dispersed as a mist, that is driven away with the beams of the sun, and overcome with the heat thereof.

5 For our time is a very shadow that passeth away; and after our end there is no returning: for it is fast sealed, so that no man cometh again.

6 Come on therefore, let us enjoy the good things that are present: and let us speedily use the creatures like as in youth. 7 Let us fill ourselves with costly wine and ointments: and let no flower of the spring pass by us. 8 Let us crown ourselves with roses before, when they be withered: 9 let none of us go without his part of our voluptuousness: let us leave tokens of our joyfulness in every place: for this is our portion, and our lot is this.

10 Let us oppress the poor righteous man, let us not spare the widow, nor reverence the ancient grey hairs of the aged. 11 Let our strength be the law of justice: for that which is feeble is found to be nothing worth.

12 Therefore let us lie in wait for the righteous, because he is strict for our turn, and he is clean contrary to our doings: he upbraideth us with our offending the law, and objecteth to our infamy the transgressings of our education. 13 He professeth to have the knowledge of God: and he calleth himself the child of the Lord. 14 He was made to reproove our thoughts. 15 He is grievous unto us even to behold: for his life is not like other men's, his ways are of another fashion. 16 We are esteemed of him as contemnites: he abstaineth from our strength, from filthiness: he pronounceth the end of the just to be blessed, and maketh his boast that God is his father.

17 Let us see if his words be true: and let us prove what shall happen in the end of him. 18 For if the just man be the son of God, he will help him, and deliver him from the hand of his enemies. 19 Let us examine him with despitfulness and torture, that we may know his meekness and prove his patience. 20 Let us condemn him with a shameful death: for by his own saying he shall be respected.

21 Such things they did imagine, and were deceived: for their own wickedness hath blinded them. 22 As for the mysteries of God, they knew them not: neither hoped they for the wages of righteousness, nor discerned a reward for blameless souls.

23 For God created man to be immortal, and made him to be an image of his own eternity. 24 Nevertheless through envy of the devil came death into the world: and they that are of his side do find it.

But the souls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and there shall no torment touch them. 25 In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: and their departure is taken for misery, 26 and their going from us to be utter destruction: but they are in peace. 27 For though they be punished in the sight of men, yet is their hope full of immortality.

5 And having been a little chastised, they shall be greatly rewarded: for God proved them, and found them worthy for himself. 6 As gold in the furnace hath he tried them and received them as a burnt offering.
Wisdom III. 7—IV. 15.

And in the time of their visitation they shall shine, and run to and fro like sparks among the stubble. 8 They shall judge the nations, and have dominion over the people, and their Lord shall reign for ever. 9 They that put their trust in him shall understand the truth: and such as be faithful in love shall abide with him: for grace and mercy is to his saints, and he hath care for his elect. 10 But the ungodly shall be punished according to their own imaginations, which have neglected the rightous, and forsaken the Lord.

For whose despiseth wisdom and nurture, he is miserable, and their hope is vain, their labours unfruitful, and their works unprofitable: 11 their wives are foolish, and their children wicked:

Their offspring is cursed. Wherefore blessed is the barren that is undefiled, which hath not known the sinful bed: she shall have fruit in the visitation of souls.

And blessed is the eunuch, which with his hands hath wrought no iniquity, nor imagined wicked things against God: for unto him shall be given the special gift of faith, and an inheritance in the temple of the Lord more acceptable to his mind. 10 For glorious is the fruit of good labours: and the root of wisdom shall never fail away:

As for the children of adulterers, they shall not come to their perfection; the seed of an unrighteous bed shall be rooted out. 17 For though they live long, yet shall they be nothing regarded: and their last age shall be without honour. 18 Or, if they die quickly, they have no hope, neither comfort in the day of trial. 19 For horrible is the end of the unrighteous generation.

Better it is to have no children, and to have virtue: for the memorial thereof is immortal: because it is known with God, and with men. 2 When it is present, men take example at it; and when it is gone, they desire it: it weareth a crown, and triumpheth for ever, having gotten the victory, striving for unconfined rewards.

But the multiplying brood of the ungodly shall not thrive, nor take deep rooting from bastard slips, nor lay any fast foundation. 4 For though they flourish in branches for a time: yet standing not fast, they shall be broken with the wind, and through the force of winds they shall be rooted out. 5 The imperfect branches shall be broken off, their fruit unprofitable, not ripe to eat, yea, meet for nothing. 6 For children begotten of unlawful beds are witnesses of wickedness against their parents in their trial. 7 But though the righteous be prevented with death, yet shall he be in rest:

For honourable age is not that which standeth in length of time, nor that which is measured by number of years. 9 But wisdom is the grey hair unto men, and an unsotted life is old age. 10 He pleased God, and was beloved of him: so that living among sinners he was translated. 11 Yea, speedily was he taken away, lest that wickedness should alter his understanding, or deceit beguile his soul. 12 For the bewitching of naughtiness doth obscure things that are honest; and the wandering of unrighteousness doth undermine the simple mind.

He, being made perfect in a short time, fulfilled a long time: 14 for his soul pleased the Lord: therefore hasted he to take him away from among the wicked. 15 This the people saw, and understood not, neither laid they up in their minds, That his

We their and... But He is our...

Thus the righteous that is dead shall condemn the ungodly which are living; and youth that is soon perfected the many years and old age of the unrighteous. For they shall see the end of the wise, and shall not understand what God in His counsel hath decreed of him, and to what end the Lord hath set him in safety. They shall see him, and despise him; but God shall laugh them to scorn, and they shall be ashamed all their lives, and a reproach among the dead for evermore. For he shall rend them, and cast them down headlong, that they shall be speechless; and he shall shake them from the foundation; and they shall be utterly laid waste, and be in sorrow; and their memorial shall perish. And when they cast up the account of their sins, they shall come with fear: and their own iniquities shall convince them of their face.

Then shall the righteous man stand in great boldness before the face of such as have afflicted him, and made no account of his labours. When they see it, they shall be troubled with terrible fear, and shall be amazed at the strangeness of his salvation, so far beyond all that they looked for. And they repenting and groaning for anguish of spirit shall say within themselves,

This was he, whom we had sometimes in derision, and a proverb of reproach: we fools accounted his life madness, and his end to be without honour: how is he numbered among the children of God, and the lot is among the saints! Therefore have we erred from the way of truth, and the light of righteousness hath not shined unto us, and the sun of righteousness rose not upon us. We weared ourselves in the way of wickedness and destruction: yea, we have gone through deserts, where there lay no way: but as for the way of the Lord, we have not known it.

What hath pride profited us? or what good hath riches with our vaunting brought us? All those things are passed away like a shadow, and as a post that hasteth: and as a ship that goeth over the waves, which when it is gone by, the trace thereof cannot be found, neither the pathway of the keel in the waves: or as when a bird hath flown through the air, there is no token of her way to be found, but the light air being beaten with the stroke of her wings, and parted with the violent noise and motion of them, is passed through, and therein afterwards no sign where she went is to be found; or like as when an arrow is shot at a mark, it parteth the air, which immediately cometh together again, so that a man cannot know where it went through: even so we in like manner, as soon as we were born, began to draw to our end, and had no sign of virtue to shew; but were consumed in our own wickedness.

For the hope of the ungodly is like dust that is blown away with the wind; like a thin froth that is driven away with the storm; like as the smoke which is dispersed here and there with a tempest, and passeth away as the remembrance of a guest that tarrieth but a day.

But the righteous live for evermore; their reward also is with the Lord, and the care of them is with the most High. Therefore shall they receive a glorious kingdom, and a beautiful crown from the Lord's hand: for with his right hand shall he cover them, and with his arm shall he protect them.

grace and mercy is with his saints, and that he hath respect unto his chosen.
Wisdom V. 17—VI. 22.

He shall take to him his jealousy for complete armour, and make the creature his weapon for the revenge of his enemies. He shall put on righteousness as a breastplate, and true judgment instead of an helmet. He shall take holiness for an invincible shield. His severe wrath shall he sharper for a sword, and the world shall fight with him against the unwise.

21 Then shall the right aiming thunderbolts go abroad; and from the clouds, as from a well drawn bow, shall they fly to the mark. And hailstones full of wrath shall be cast as out of a stone bow, and the waters of the sea shall rage against them, and the floods shall cruelly drown them.

22 Yea, a mighty wind shall stand up against them, and like a storm shall blow them away: thus iniquity shall lay waste the whole earth, and ill dealing shall overthrow the thrones of the mighty.

Hear therefore, O ye kings, and understand; learn, ye that be judges of the ends of the earth. Give ear, ye that rule the people, and glory in the multitude of nations. For power is given you of the Lord, and sovereignty from the Highest, who shall try your works, and search out your counsels. Because, being ministers of his kingdom, ye have judged right, nor kept the law, nor walked after the counsel of God; horribly and speedily shall he come upon you: for a sharp judgment shall be to them that be in high places. For mercy will soon pardon the meanest: but mighty men shall be mightily tormented. For he which is Lord over all shall fear no man's person, neither shall he stand in awe of any man's greatness: for he hath made the small and great, and careth for all alike.

But a sore trial shall come upon the mighty.

9 Unto you therefore, O kings, do I speak, that ye may learn wisdom, and not fall away. For they that keep holiness holily shall be judged holy: and they that have learned such things shall find what to answer. Wherefore set your affection upon my words; desire them, and ye shall be instructed.

Wisdom is glorious, and never fadeth away: yea, she is easily seen of them that love her, and found of such as seek her.

13 She preventeth them that desire her, in making herself first known unto them. Whoso seeth her early shall have no great travail: for he shall find her sitting at his doors. To think therefore upon her is the perfection of wisdom: and whose wasteth for her shall quickly be without care. For she goeth about seeking such as are worthy of her, andaretherself favourably unto them in the ways, and meeteth them in every thought. For the very true beginning of her is the desire of discipline; and the care of discipline is love; and love is the keeping of her laws; and the giving heed unto her laws is the assurance of incorruption; and incorruption maketh us near unto God: therefore the desire of wisdom bringeth to a kingdom.

14 If your delight be then in thrones and sceptres, O ye kings of the people, honour wisdom, that ye may reign for evermore. As for wisdom, what she is, and how she came up, I will tell you; and will not hide mysteries from you: but will seek her out from the beginning of her nativity, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and 23 And he said in my ears, saying, Let me tell you, I will not pass over the truth. 24 Neither will I go with consuming envy; for such a man shall have no fellowship with wisdom. 25 But the multitude of the wise is the welfare of the world: and a wise king is the upholding of the people. 26 Receive therefore instruction through my words, and it shall do you good.

I myself also am a mortal man, like to all, and the offspring of him that was first made of the earth, and in my mother's womb was fashioned to be flesh in the time of ten months, being compacted in blood, and the pleasure that came with sleep. And when I was born, I drew in the common air, and fell upon the earth, which is of like nature, and the first voice which I uttered was crying, as all others do. I was nursed in swaddling clothes, and that with cares. For there is no king that had any other beginning of birth. For all men have one entrance into life, and the like going out.

Wherefore I prayed, and understanding was given me: I called upon God, and the spirit of wisdom came to me. I preferred her before sceptres and thrones, and esteemed riches nothing in comparison of her. Neither compared I unto her any precious stone, because all gold in respect of her is as a little sand, and silver shall be counted as clay before her. I loved her above health and beauty, and chose to have her instead of light: for the light that cometh from her never goeth out.

All good things together came to me with her, and innumerable riches in her hands. And I rejoiced in them all, because wisdom goeth before them: and I knew not that she was the mother of them.

I learned diligently, and do communicate her liberally: I do not hide her riches. For she is a treasure unto men that never faileth: which they that use become the friends of God, being recommended for the gifts that come from learning.

God hath granted me to speak as I would, and to conceive as is meet for the things that are given me: because it is he that leadeth unto wisdom, and directeth the wise. For in his hand are both the spirit and the understanding of the world; and all wisdom also, and knowledge of workmanship. For he hath given me certain knowledge of the things that are, namely, to know how the world was made, and the operation of the elements: the beginning, ending, and midst of the times: the alterations of the turning of the sun, and change of seasons: the circuits of years, and positions of stars: the natures of living creatures, and the figures of wild beasts: the violence of winds, and the reasonings of men: the diversities of plants, and the virtues of roots: and all such things as are either secret or manifest, them I know.

For wisdom, which is the worker of all things, taught me: for in her is an understanding spirit, holy, one only, manifold, subtile, lively, clear, undefiled, plain, not subject to hurt, loving the thing that is good, quick, which cannot be letted, ready to do good, kind to man, steadfast, sure, free from care, having all power, overseeing all things, and going through all understanding, pure, and most subtil, spirits.

For wisdom is more moving than any motion: she passeth and goeth through all things by reason of her pureness. For she is the breath of the power of God, and a pure influence flowing from... the glory of the Almighty: therefore can no defiled thing fall into her. 26 For she is the brightness of the everlasting light, the unspotted mirror of the power of God, and the image of his goodness. 27 And being but one, she can do all things: and remaining in herself, she maketh all things new: and in all angles entering into holy souls, she maketh them friends of God, and prophets.

28 For God loveth none but him that dwelleth with wisdom. 29 For she is more beautiful than the sun, and above all the order of stars: being compared with the light, she is found before it. 30 For after this cometh night: but vice shall not prevail against wisdom.

Wisdom reacheth from one end to another mightily; and sweetly doth she order all things.

I loved her, and sought her out from my youth, I desired to make her my spouse, and I was a lover of her beauty. 4 In that she is conversant with God, she magnifieth her nobility; yea, the Lord himself loved her. 5 For she is privy to the mysteries of the knowledge of God, and a lover of his works.

5 If riches be a possession to be desired in this life; what is richer than wisdom, that worketh all things? 6 And if prudence worketh: who of all that are is a more cunning workman than she? 7 And if a man love righteousness, her labours are virtues: for she teacheth temperance and prudence, justice and fortitude: which are such things, as men can have nothing more profitable in their life. 8 If a man desire much experience, she knoweth things of old, and conjectureth aright: what is to come: she knoweth the subtleties of speeches, and can expound dark sentences: she foreseth signs and wonders, and the events of seasons and times.

Therefore I purposed to take her to me to live with me, knowing that she would be a counsellor of good things, and a comfort in cares and grief. 10 For her sake I shall have estimation among the multitude: honour with the elders, though I be young. 11 I shall be found among the wise, and shall be ashamed in the sight of great men. 12 When I hold my tongue, they shall bide my leisure, and when I speak, they shall give good ear unto me: if I talk much, they shall lay their hands upon their mouth.

Moreover by the means of her I shall obtain immortality, and leave behind me an everlasting memorial to them that come after me. 14 I shall set the people in order, and the nations shall be subject unto me. 15 Horrible tyrants shall be afraid when they do but hear of me; I shall be found good among the multitude, and valiant in war. 16 After I am come into mine house, I will reprove myself with her: for her conversation hath no bitterness: and to live with her hath no sorrow, but mirth and joy.

Now when I considered these things in myself, and pondered them in my heart, how that to be allied unto wisdom is immortality; and great pleasure it is to have her friendship; and in the works of her hands are infinite riches; and in the exercise of conference with her, prudence: and in talking with her, a good report; I went about seeking how to take her to me.

For I was a witty child, and had a good spirit. Yea rather, being good, I came into a body undefiled. Nevertheless, when I perceived that I could not otherwise obtain her, except God gave her me; and that was a point of wisdom also to know whose gift she was; I prayed unto the Lord, and besought him, and with my whole heart was said.

Wisdom IX. 1—X. 7.

O God of my fathers, and Lord of mercy, who hast made all things with thy word, and ordained man through thy wisdom, that he should have dominion over the creatures which thou hast made, and order the world according to equity and righteousness, and execute judgment, with an upright heart: give me wisdom, that sitteth by thy throne; and reject me not from among thy children: for I thy servant and son of thine handmaid, a feeble person, and of a short time, and too young for the understanding of judgment and laws.

For though a man be never so perfect among the children of men, yet if thy wisdom be not with him, he shall be nothing regarded.

Thou hast chosen me to be a king of thy people, and a judge of thy sons and daughters: thou hast commanded me to build a temple upon thy throne, and in thy temple there is no place, and thou dwellest, a resemblance of the holy tabernacle, which thou hast prepared from the beginning. And wisdom was with thee: which knoweth thy works, and was present when thou madest the world, and knew what was acceptable in thy sight, and right in thy commandments.

Send her out of thy holy heavens, and from the throne of thy glory, that being present she may labour with me, that I may know what is pleasing unto thee. For she knoweth and understandeth all things, and she shall lead me soberly in my doings, and preserve me in her power. So shall my works be acceptable, and then shall I judge thy people righteouslie, and be worthy to sit in my father's seat.

For what man is he that can know the counsel of God? or who can think what the will of the Lord is? For the thoughts of mortal men are miserable, and our devices are but uncertain. For the corruptible body presseth down the soul, and the earthy tabernacle weigheth down that mind which m Egypt many things. And hardly do we guess aright at things that are upon earth, and with labour do we find the things that are before us: but the things that are in heaven who hath searched out? And thy counsel, who hath known, except thou, O Wisdom, and send thy Holy Spirit from above? For so the ways of them which lived on the earth were reformed, and men were taught the things that are pleasing unto thee, and were saved through wisdom.

She preserved the first formed father of the world, that was created alone, and brought him out of his fall, and gave him power to rule all things.

But when righteousness went away from her in his anger, he perished also in the fury wherewith he murdered his brother. For whose cause the earth being drowned with the flood, wisdom again preserved it, and directed the course of the righteous in a piece of wood of small value. Moreover, the nations in their wicked conspiracy being confounded, she found out the righteous, and preserved him blameless unto God, and kept him strong against his tender compassion toward his son.

When the ungodly perished, she delivered the righteous man, who fled from the fire which fell down upon the five cities. Of whose wickedness, even to this day the waste land that smoketh is a testimony, and plants bearing fruit that never come to ripeness; and a standing pillar of salt is a monument of an unbelieving soul. For regarding not wisdom, they gat not only this hurt, that they knew not the things which made good; but also left the world to a memorial of their foolishness: so that in the things wherein they offended they could not so much as be hid. But wisdom delivered from pain those that attended upon her.

When the righteous fled from his brother’s wrath, she guided him in right paths, showed him the housetop of God, and gave him knowledge of holy things, made him rich in his travels, and multiplied the fruit of his labours. In the covetousness of such as oppressed him she stood by him, and made him rich. She defended him from his enemies, and kept him safe from those that lay in wait, and in a sore conflict she gave him the victory, that he might know that godliness is stronger than all.

When the righteous was sold, she forsook him not, but delivered him from sin: she went down with him into the pit, and left him not in bonds, till she brought him the sceptre of the kingdom, and power against those that oppressed him: as for them that had accused him, she showed them to be liars, and gave him perpetual glory. She delivered the righteous people and blameless seed from the nation that oppressed them.

She entered into the soul of the servant of the Lord, and withstood dreadful kings in wonders and signs; rendered to the righteous a reward of their labours, guided them in a marvellous way, and was unto them for a cover by day, and a light of stars in the night season; brought them through the Red sea, and led them through much water: but she drowned their enemies, and cast them up out of the bottom of the deep. Therefore the righteous spoiled the ungodly, and praised thy holy name, O Lord, and magnified with one accord thine hand, that fought for them. For the wisdom opened the mouth of the dumb, and made the tongues of them that cannot speak eloquent.

She prospered their works in the hand of the hand of the Lord. They went through the wilderness that was not inhabited, and pitched their tents in places where there lay no way. They stood against their enemies, and were avenged of their adversaries. When they were thirsty, they called upon thee, and water was given them out of the flinty rock, and their thirst was quenched out of the hard stone. For by what things their enemies were punished, by the same they in their need were benefited. For instead of a fountain of a perpetual running river troubled with foul blood, for a manifest reproof of that commandment, whereby the infants were slain, thou gavest unto them abundance of water by a means which they hoped not for: declaring by that thirst then how thou didst punish their adversaries.

For what they were tried, albeit in mercy chastised, they knew how the ungodly were judged in wrath and torment, thirsting in another manner than the just. For these thou didst admonish and try, as a father; but the others, as a severe king, thou didst condemn and punish. Whether they were absent or present, they were vexed alike. For a double grief came upon them, and a groaning for the remembrance of things past. For when they heard by their own punishments the other to be benefited, they had some feeling of the Lord. 14 For whom they rejected with scorn, when he was long before thrown out at the casting forth of the infants, him in the end, when they saw what came to pass, they admired. 15 But for the foolish devices of their wickedness, wherewith being deceived they worshipped serpents void of reason, and vile beasts, thou didst send a multitude of woe and blood, anger: 16 that they might know, that whereas a man sinneth, by the same shall he be punished. 17 For thy Almighty hand, that made the world of matter without form, wanted not means to send among them a multitude of bears, or fierce lions, or unknown wild beasts, full of rage, newly created, breathing out either a fiery vapour, or filthy scents of scattered smoke, or shooting horrible sparks out of their eyes: 18 whereof not only the harm might dispatch them at once, but also the terrible sight utterly destroy them. 19 Yea, and without these might they have fallen down with one blast, being persecuted of vengeance, and scattered abroad through the breath of thy power: but thou hast ordered all things in measure and number and weight. 20 For thou canst shew thy great strength at all times when thou livest and when thou art dead. 21 And they say, that he is the hand of thine arm? 22 For the whole world before thee is as a little grain of the balance, yea, as a drop of the morning dew that falleth down upon the earth. 23 But thou hast mercy upon all; for thou canst do all things, and wisiest at the sins of men, because they should amend. 24 For thou lovest all the things that are, and abhorrest nothing which thou hast made: for never wouldst thou have made any thing, if thou hadst not love of all things. 25 For it is thy hand to destroy the works of our fathers both those old inhabitants of thy holy land, whom thou hatest for doing most odious works of witchcrafts, and wicked sacrifices; and also those merciless murderers of children, and devoures of man's flesh, and the feasts of blood, with their priests out of the midst of their idolatrous crew, and the parents, that killed with their own hands souls destitute of help; that the land, which thou esteemedst above all other, might receive a worthy colony of God's children. 26 Nevertheless even those thou sparedst as men, and didst send waifs, forerunners of thine host, to destroy them by little and little. 27 Not that thou wast unable to bring the ungodly under the hand of the righteous in battle, or to destroy them at once with cruel beasts, but because thy patience was not short, and because thou wast preparing to execute thy judgments upon them by little and little, thou gavest them place of repentance, not being ignorant that they were a naughty generation, and that their malice was bred in them, and that their cognition would never be changed. 28 For it was a cursed seed from the beginning: neither didst thou for fear of any man give them pardon for those things wherein they sinned. 29 For who shall withstand thy judgment? or who shall accuse thee for the nations that perish, whom thou hast made? or who shall come to stand against thee, to be revenged for the unrighteous men? 13 For neither is there any God but thou that carest for all, to whom thou mightest shew that thy judgment is not unjust.

11 Neither shall king or tyrant be able to set his face against thee for any whom thou hast punished. For so much as thou art righteous thyself, thou orderest all things righteously: thinking it not agreeable with thy power to condemn him that hath not deserved to be punished. 12 By thy punishing of righteousness, and because thou art the Lord of all, it maketh thee to be gracious unto all. 13 For when men will not believe that thou art of a full power, thou shewest thy strength, and among them that know it thou makest their boldness manifest. 14 But thou, masters thy power, judgest with equity, and orderest us with great favour: for thou mayest use power when thou wilt.

15 But by such works hast thou taught thy people that the just man should be merciful, and hast made thy children to be of a good hope that thou givest repentance for sins. 16 For if thou didst punish the enemies of thy children, and the condemned to death, with impartiality, giving them time and place whereby they might be delivered from their malice: 17 with how great circumspection didst thou judge thine own sons, unto whose fathers thou hast sworn, and made covenants of good promises? 18 Therefore, whereas thou dost chasten us, thou scourgest our enemies a thousand times more, to the intent that, when we see, we should carefully think on thy goodness, and when we ourselves are judged, we should look for mercy.

19 Wherefore, whereas men have lived disolutely and unrighteously, thou hast tormented them with their own abominations. 20 For they went astray very far in the ways of error, and held them for gods, which even among the beasts of their enemies were despised, being deceived, as children of no understanding. 21 Therefore unto them, as to children without the use of reason, thou didst send a judgment to mock them. 22 But they that would not be reformed by that correction, wherein he dallied with them, shall feel a judgment worthy of God. 23 For, look, for what things theygrafted, will they not understand that that is for them; and they thought to be gods; [now] being punished in them, when they saw it, they acknowledged him to be the true God, whom before they denied to know; and therefore came extreme damnation upon them.

Surely vain are all men by nature, who are ignorant of God, and could not come out of the good things that are seen know him that is: neither by considering the works did they acknowledge the workmaster; but deemed either fire, or wind, or the swift air, or the circle of the stars, or the violent water, or the lights of heaven, to be the gods which govern the world. 24 With whose beauty if they being delighted took them to be gods; let them know how much better the Lord of them is: for the first author of beauty hath created them. 25 But if they were astonished at their power and virtue, let them understand by them, how much mightier he is that made them.

For by the greatness and beauty of the creatures proportionally the maker of them is seen. 26 But yet to this they are the less to be blamed: for they peradventure err, seeking God, and desirous to find him. 27 For being conversant in his works they search him diligently, and believe their sight: because the things are beautiful that are seen. 28 Howbeit neither are they to be.

Or else God had a better reason to be pitied than any of the unrighteous men. 14 For they had sinned, and were justly punished; whereas the unrighteous are ignorant of both. 15 For if they themselves also were no more unrighteous than other men, then might they have been saved, as well as the unrighteous; whereas they are none of them saved. 16 For the unrighteous men are punished, whereas God is gracious to the righteous. 17 For if God had not been gracious, the unrighteous men should themselves have had mercy, as well as the righteous. 18 For so much as they were unrighteous, whereas the righteous men have mercy. 19 For if God had not been gracious, the unrighteous men should themselves have had mercy, as well as the righteous. 20 For so much as they were unrighteous, whereas the righteous men have mercy. 21 For if God had not been gracious, the unrighteous men should themselves have had mercy, as well as the righteous. 22 For so much as they were unrighteous, whereas the righteous men have mercy. 23 And whereas the unrighteous men themselves should have been pitied, whereas they are none of them pitied. 24 For if they themselves would have been pitied, they would not be punished. 25 For whereas they were pitied, they were none of them pitied.
9 For if they were able to know so much, that they could aim at the world; how did they not sooner find out the Lord thereof?

10 But miserable are they, and in dead things is their hope, who called them gods, which are the works of men's hands, gold and silver, to shew aright, and resemblances of beasts, or a stone good for nothing, the work of an ancient hand. Now a greater thing than that they have wrought, is the tree, from which the Lord said, let us make a tree, with saws down a tree meet for the purpose, and tak'en off all the bark skillfully round about, and hath wrought it handsomely, and made a vessel thereof for the service of man's life; and after spending the refuse of his work to dress his meat, hath filled himself; and taking the very refuse among those which served to no use, being a crooked piece of timber and full of knots, hath used it diligently when he had nothing else to do, and formed it by the skill of his understanding, and fashioned it to the image of a man; or made it like some vile beast, laying it over with vermin, and with paint, colouring it red, and colouring every spot therein; and when he had made a convenient room for it, set it in a wall, and made it fast with iron: for he provided for it that it might not fall, knowing that it was unable to help itself; for it is an image, and hath need of help.

11 Then maketh he prayer for his goods, for his wife and children, and is not ashamed to speak to that which hath no life. 12 For health he calleth upon that which is weak: for life prayeth to that which is dead: for aid humbly beseecheth that which hath least means to help: and for a good journey he asketh of that which cannot set a foot forward: and for gaining and getting, and for good success of his hands, asketh ability to do of him, that is most unable to do anything.

Again, one preparing himself to sail, and about to pass through the raging waves, calleth upon a piece of wood more rotten than the vessel that carried him. 2 For verily desire of gain devised that, and the workman built it by his skill. 3 But thy providence, O Father, governeth it: for thou hast made a way in the sea, and a safe path in the waves; shewing that thou canst save from all danger: yea, though a man went to sea without art. 4 Nevertheless thou wouldest not that the works of thy wisdom should be idle, and therefore didst men commit their lives to a small piece of wood, and passing the rough sea in a weak vessel are saved.

5 For in the old time also, when the proud giants perished, the hope of the world governed by thy hand escaped in a weak vessel, and left to all ages a seed of generation. 6 For blessed is the wood whereby righteousness cometh. 7 But that which is made with hands is cursed, as well it, as he that made it: he, because he made it: and it, because, being corruptible, it was called God. 8 For the ungodly and his ungodliness are both alike hateful unto God. 9 For that which is made shall be punished together with him that made it. 10 Therefore even upon the idols of the Gentiles shall there be a visitation: because in the creature of God they are become an abomination, and stumblingblocks to the souls of men, and a snare to the feet of the unwise.

11 For the devising of idols was the beginning of spiritual fornication, and the invention of them the corruption of life. 12 For neither were they from the beginning, neither shall they be for ever. 13 For by the vain glory of men they entered into the world, and therefore shall they come shortly to an end. 1 For a father afflicted with untimely mourning, when he hath made an image of his child soon taken away, now honoured him as a god, which was then a dead man, and delivered to those that were under him ceremonies and sacrifices. But thus, the art of necromancy, but the ungodly strong was kept as a law, and graven images were worshipped by the commandments of kings. 17 For the ungodly was it, and, as he were present; the art of the necromancer. 18 The graven image of a king whom they honoured, to the end that by this their forwardness they might flatter him that was absent, as if he were present. 19 Also the singular diligence of the artificer did help to set forward the ignorant to more superstition. 20 For he, peradventure willing to please one in authority, forced all his skill to make the resemblance of the best fashion. 21 And so the multitude, allured by the grace of the work, took him now for a god, which a little before was but honoured as a man. 22 And this was an occasion to deceive the world; for men, serving either cunning, did ascribe unto stones and stocks the incommunicable name.

Moreover this was not enough for them, that they erred in the knowledge of God; but whereas they lived in the great war of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace. 23 For whilst they slew their children in sacrifices, or used secret ceremonies, or made revellings of strange rites; 24 they kept neither lives nor marriages any longer undefiled: but either one slew another traiterously or shamefully, by adultery. 25 So that there reigned in all men without exception, blood, murder, manslaughter, theft, and dissimulation, corruption, unfaithfulness, tumults, perjury, 26 disquieting of good men, forgetfulness of good turns, defiling of souls, changing of kind, disorder in marriages, adultery, and shameless uncleanness. 27 For the worshipping of idols not to be named is the beginning of all these. 28 Moreover, the idolaters were as mad when they were merry, or prophesies lies, or live unjustly, or else lightly forsware themselves. 29 For insomuch as their trust is in idols which have no life, though they swear falsely, yet they look not to be hurt.

Howbeit for both causes shall they be justly punished: both because they thought not well of God, giving heed unto idols, and also unjustly swore in deceit, despising holiness. 30 For it is not the power of them by whom they swear: but it is the just vengeance of sinners, that punishth always the offence of the ungodly.

But thou, our God, art gracious and true, long-suffering, and in mercy ordering all things. 2 For if we sin, we are thine, knowing thy power: but will not sin, knowing that we are counted thine. 3 For to know thee is perfect righteousness: yea, to know thy power is the root of immortality. 4 For neither did the mischievous invention of men deceive us, nor an image spotted with divers colours, nor a painter's fruitless labour; 5 the sight whereof enthralls fools to last after it, and so they desire the form of a dead image, that hath no breath.

Both they that make them, they that desire them, and they that worship them, are lovers of evil things, and are worthy to have such things to trust upon. 7 For the potter, tempering soft earth, fashioned every vessel with much labour for our service: yea, of the same clay he maketh.
Wisdom XV. 8—XVI. 9.

And the enemies of thy people, that hold them in subjection, are most foolish, and are more miserable than very babes. For they counted all the idols of the heathen to be gods: which neither have the use of eyes to see, nor noses to draw breath, nor ears to hear, nor fingers of hands to handle: and as for their feet, they are slow to go. For man made them, and he that made him is of a mind, yet no man can make a god like unto himself. For being mortal, he worketh a dead thing with wicked hands: for he himself is better than the things which he worshippeth: whereas he lived once, but they never. Yea, they worshipped those beasts also that are most hateful: for being compared together, some are worse than others. Neither are they beautiful, so much as to be desired in respect of beasts: they went without the praise of God and his blessing.

Therefore by the like were they punished worthily, and by the multitude of beasts tormented. Instead of which punishment, dealing graciously with them, he permitted them, that they and their posterity, might for the ugyl sight of the beasts sent among them lothe even that, which they must needs desire; but these, suffering penury for a short space, might be made partakers of a strange taste. For it was requisite, that upon them exercising tyranny should come penalty, which they could not avoid: but to the beast it was suffered how their enemies were tormented. For when the horrible fierceness of beasts came upon these, and they perished with the stings of crooked serpents, thy wrath endured not for ever:

But they were troubled for a small season, that they might be admonished, having a sign of salvation, to put them in remembrance of the commandment of thy law. For he that turned himself toward it was not saved by the thing that he saw, but by thee, that art the Saviour of all.

And in this thou madest thine enemies confess, that it is thou who deliverest from all evil: for them the bitings of grasshoppers and flies killed, neither was there found any remedy for their life: for they were worthy to be punished by such.
Wisdom XVI. 10—XVII. 2.

10 But thy sons not the very teeth of venomous dragons overcame: for thy mercy was by them, and healed them. 11 For they were pricked, that they should remember thy words; and were quickly saved, that not falling into deep forgetfulness, they might be continually mindful of thy goodness.

12 For it was neither herb, nor mollifying plaister, that restored them to health: but thy word, O Lord, which healeth all things. 13 For thou hast power of life and death: thou leadest to the gates of hell, and bringest up again. 14 A man indeed killeth through his malice: and the spirit, when it is gone forth, returneth not: neither the soul received up cometh again. 15 But it is not possible to escape thine hand.

16 For the ungodly, that denied to know thee, were scourged by the strength of thine arm: with strange rains, hail, and showers, were they persecuted, that they could not avoid, and through fire were they consumed.

17 For, which is most to be wondered at, the fire had more force in the water, that quencheth all things: for the world fighteth for the righteous.

18 For sometime the flame was mitigated, that it might not burn up the beasts that were sent against the ungodly: but themselves might see and perceive that they were persecuted with the judgment of God. 19 And at another time it burnt even in the midst of water above the power of fire, that it might destroy the fruits of an unjust land. 20 Instead whereof thou feddest thine own people with angels' food, and didst send them from heaven bread prepared without their labour, able to content every man's delight, and agreeing to every taste. 21 For thy sustenance declared thy sweetness unto thy children, and serving to the appetite of the eater, tempered itself to every man's liking. 22 But snow and ice endured the fire, and melted not, that they might know that fire burning in the hail, and sparkling in the rain, did destroy the fruits of the enemies.

23 But this again did even forget his own strength, that the righteous might be nourished. 24 For the creature that serveth thee, who art the Maker, increaseth his strength against the unrighteous for their punishment, and abateth his strength for the benefit of such as put their trust in thee.

25 Therefore even then was it altered into all fashions, and was obedient to thy grace, that nourished all things, according to the desire of them that had need: 26 that thy children, O Lord, whom thou lovest, might know, that it is not the growing of fruits that nourisheth man: but that it is thy word, which preserveth them that put their trust in thee.

27 For that which was not destroyed of the fire, being warmed with a little sunbeam, soon melted away: 28 that it might be known, that we must prevent the sun to give thee thanks, and at the dayspring pray unto thee. 29 For the hope of the unthankful shall melt away as the winter's hoar frost, and shall run away as unprofitable water.

For great are thy judgments, and cannot be expressed: therefore un nurtured souls have erred.

1 For when unrighteous men thought to oppress the holy nations, they being shut up in fair houses, the prisoners of darkness, and fettered with the bonds of a long night, lay [there] exiled from the sight of light, and清洁能源, that they might be continually mindful of thy goodness.

10-12. The sons of wisdom are not overcome by the venomous serpents, but by the word of God, which healeth all things.

13-25. The ungodly are scourged by the strength of God's arm, with strange rains, hail, and showers, and through fire.

26-29. The sustenance of God's people is not the fruit of the land, but the word of God, which nourisheth them.

30-40. For great are the judgments of God, and cannot be expressed.
8. For they were worthy to Nevertheless thy saints had a very great light, whose voice they hearing, and not seeing their shape, because they also had not suffered the same things, they counted them.

But for that they did not hurt them now, of whom they had been wronged before, they thanked them, and beheld themselves that they had been enemies.

Instead whereof thou gavest them a burning pillar of fire, both to be a guide of the unknown journey, and a harmless sun to entertain them honourably.

For while they supposed to lie hid in their secret sins, they were scattered under a dark veil of forgetfulness, being horribly astonished, and troubled with [strange] apparitions.

For neither might the corner that held them keep them from fear: but noises [as of waters] falling down sounded about them, and said visions appeared unto them with heavy countenances.

No power of the fire might give them light: neither could the bright flames of the stars endure to lighten that horrible night.

Only there appeared unto them a fire kindled of itself, very dreadful: for being much terrified, they thought the things which they saw to be worse than the sight they saw not.

As for the illusions of art magic, they were put down, and their vaunting in wisdom was reproved with disgrace.

For they, that promised to drive away terrors and troubles from a sick soul, were sick themselves of fear, worthy to be laughed at.

For though no terrible thing did fear them yet being scared with beasts that passed by, and hissing of serpents, they died for fear, denying that they saw the air, which could of no side be avoided.

For wickedness, condemned by her own witness, is very timorous, and being pressed with conscience, always forecasteth grievous things.

For fear is nothing else but a betraying of the succours which reason offereth.

And the expectation from within, being less, counteth the ignorance more than the cause which bringeth the fear.

But they sleeping the same sleep that night, which was indeed intolerable, and which came upon them out of the bottoms of inevitable hell, were partly vexed with monstrous apparitions, and partly fainted, their heart failing them: for a sudden fear, and not looked for, came upon them.

So then whosoever there fell down was straitly kept, shut up in a prison without iron bars.

For whether he was husbandman, or shepherd, or a laborer in the field, he was taken, and endured that necessity, which could not be avoided: for they were all bound with one chain of darkness.

Whether it were a whistling wind, or a melodious noise of birds among the spreading branches, or a pleasing fall of water running violently, or a terrible sound of stones cast down, or a running that could not be seen of skipping beasts, or a roaring voice of most savage wild beasts, or a rebounding echo from the hollow mountains: these things made them to swoon for fear.

For the whole world shined with clear light, and none were hindered in their labour; over them only was spread a heavy darkness, which should afterward receive them: but yet were they unto themselves more grievous than the darkness.
be deprived of light, and imprisoned in darkness, who had kept thy sons shut up, by whom the uncorrected light of the law was to be given unto the world.

5 And when they had determined to slay the babes of the saints, one child being cast forth, and saved, to reproved them, thou tookest away the multitude of their children, and destroyedst them all together in a mighty water. 6 Of that night were our fathers certified afore, that assuredly knowing unto what oaths they had given credence they might afterwards be of good cheer.

7 So of thy people was accepted both the salvation of the righteous, and destruction of the enemies. 8 For wherewith thou didst punish our adversaries, by the same thou didst glorify us, whom thou hast called. 9 For the righteous children of good men did sacrifice secretly, and with one consent made a holy law, that the saints should be like partakers of the same good and evil, the fathers now singing out the songs of praise.

But on the other side there sounded an ill according cry of the enemies, and a lamentable noise was carried abroad for children that were bewailed. 11 The master and the servant were punished after one manner; and like as the king, so suffered the common person.

12 So they all together had innumerable dead with one kind of death; neither were the living sufficient to bury them: for in one moment the noblest offspring of them was destroyed. 13 For whereas they would not believe any thing by reason of the enchantments; upon the destruction of the firstborn, they acknowledged this people to be the sons of God. 14 For while all things were in quiet silence, and that night was in the midst of her swift course, 15 thine Almighty word leaped from heaven out of thy royal throne, as a fierce man of war into the midst of a land of destruction, 16 and brought thine unfeigned commandment as a sharp sword, and standing up filled all things with death; and it touched the heaven, but it stood upon the earth. 17 Then suddenly visions of horrible dreams troubled them sore, and terrors came upon them unlooked for. 18 And one thrown here, and another there, half dead, shewed the cause of it. 19 For the dreams that troubled them did forebode this, lest they should perish, and know not why they were afflicted.

20 Yea, the tasting of death touched the righteous also, and there was a destruction of the multitude in the wilderness: but the wrath endured not long. 21 For then the blameless man made haste, and stood forth to defend them; and bringing the shield of his proper ministry, even prayer, and the propitiatory incense, set himself against the wrath, and so brought the calamity to an end, declaring that he was thy servant.

22 So he overcame the destroyer, not with might of body, nor force of arms, but with a word subdued him that punished, alleging the oaths and covenants made with the fathers. 23 For when the dead were now fallen down by heaps one upon another, standing between, he stayed the wrath, and parted the way to the living. 24 For in the long garment was the whole world, and in the four rows of the stones was the glory of the fathers graven, and thy Majesty upon the diadem of his head. 25 Unto these the destroyer gave place, and they were afraid of them: for it was enough that they only tasted of the wrath.
Wisdom XIX. 1—22.

19. "For the whole creature in his proper kind was fashioned again anew, serving the peculiar commandments that were given unto them, that thy children might be kept without hurt: as namely, a cloud shadowing the camp; and where water stood before, dry land appeared; and out of the Red sea a way without impediment; and out of the violent stream a green field: through which all the people that were defended with thy hand, seeing thy marvellous strange wonders. 9 For they went at large like horses, and leaped like lambs, praising thee, O Lord, who had delivered them. 10 For they were yet mindful of the devices that were sojourned in the strange land, how the ground brought forth flies instead of cattle, and how the river cast up a multitude of frogs instead of fishes.

11. But afterward they saw a new generation of fowls, when, being led with their appetite, they asked delicate meats. 12 For quails came up unto them from the sea, and their contentment. 13 And punishments came upon the sinners not without former signs by the force of thunders: for they suffered justly according to their own wickedness, insomuch as they used a more hard and hateful behaviour towards strangers. 14 For the Sodomites did not receive those, whom they knew not when they came: but these brought friends into bondage, that had well deserved of them. 15 And not only so, but peradventure some respect shall be had of those, who used them strangers not friendly: 16 but these very grievously afflicted them, whom they had received with feastings, and were already made partakers of the same laws with them. Therefore even with blindness were these stricken, as those were at the doors of the righteous man: when, being compassed about with horrible great darkness, every one sought the passage of his own doors.

18. For the elements were changed in themselves by a kind of harmony, like as in a psaltery notes change the name of the tune, and yet are always sounds, which may well be perceived by the sight of the things that have been done. 19 For earthly things were turned into watery, and the things that before swam upon the earth, went upon the ground. 20 The fire had power in the water, forgetting his own virtue: and the water forget his own quenching nature. 22 On the other side, the flames wasted not the flesh of the corruptible living things, though they walked therein: neither melted they the icy kind of heavenly meat, that was of nature apt to melt. 23 For in all things, O Lord, thou didst magnify thy people, and glorify them, neither didst thou lightly regard them: but didst assist them in every time and place.
The Prologue to the Wisdom of Jesus the son of Sirach.

Whereas many and great things have been delivered unto us by the law and the prophets, and by others that have followed their steps, for which things Israel ought to be commended for learning and wisdom: and whereof not only the readers must needs become skilful themselves, but also they that desire to learn be able to profit them which are without, both by speaking and by writing: my grandfather Jesus, when he had much given himself to the reading of the law, and the prophets, and other books of our fathers, and had gotten therein good judgment, was drawn on also himself to write something pertaining to learning and wisdom; to the intent that those which are desirous to learn, and are addicted to these things, might profit much more in living according to the law.

Wherefore let me intreat you to read it with favour and attention, and to pardon us, wherein we may seem to come short of some words, which we have laboured to interpret; for the same things uttered in Hebrew, and translated into another tongue, have not the same force in them. And not only these things, but the law itself, and the prophets, and the rest of the books, have no small difference, when they are spoken in their own language. For in the eight and thirtyeth year coming into Egypt, when Euergetes was king, and continuing there some time, I found a book of no small learning: therefore I thought it most necessary for me to bestow some diligence and travail to interpret it: using great watchfulness and skill in that space to bring the book to an end, and set it forth for them also, which in a strange country are willing to learn, being prepared before in manners to live after the law.

All wisdom cometh from the Lord, and is with favour for ever. Who can number the sand of the sea, and the drops of rain, and the days of eternity? Who can find out the height of heaven, and the breadth of the earth, and the deep, and wisdom? Wisdom hath been created before all things, and the understanding of prudence from everlasting. To whom hath the root of wisdom been revealed? or who hath known her wise counsels?

8 There is one wise and greatly to be feared, the Lord sitting upon his throne. 9 He created her, and saw her, and numbered her, and poured her out upon all his works. 10 She is with all flesh according to his gift, and he hath given her to them that love him.

11 The fear of the Lord is honour, and glory, and gladness, and a crown of rejoicing. 12 The fear of the Lord maketh a merry heart, and gives joy, and gladness, and long life. 13 Whose heart is in the Lord, it shall go well with him at the last, and he shall find favour in the day of his death.

14 To fear the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: and it was created with the faithful in the womb. 15 She hath built an everlasting foundation with men, and she shall continue with their seed. 16 To fear the Lord is fulness of wisdom, and filleth men with herbs.

17 The fear of the Lord is a crown of wisdom, making peace and perfect health to flourish. 18 Wisdom maintaineth skill and knowledge of understanding, and exalteth them to honour that hold her fast.

19 The root of wisdom is to fear the Lord, and the branches thereof are long life. 20 A furious man cannot be justified; for the sway of his fury shall be his destruction. 21 A patient man will bear for a time, and afterward shall spring up unto him. 22 He will hide his words for a time, and the lips of many shall declare his wisdom.

23 The parables of knowledge are in the treasures of wisdom: but godliness is an abomination to a sinner. 24 If thou desire wisdom, keep the commandments, and the Lord shall give her unto thee. 25 For the fear of the Lord is wisdom and instruction: and faith and meekness are his delight.

26 Distrust not the fear of the Lord when thou art poor; and come not unto him with a double heart. 27 Be not a hypocrite in the sight of men, and take good heed what thou speakest. 28 Exalt not thyself, lest thou fall, and bring dishonour upon thy soul, and so the Lord discover thy secrets, and cast thee down in the midst of the congregation, because thou camst not in truth to the fear of the Lord, but thy heart is full of deceit.

My son, if thou come to serve the Lord God, prepare thy soul for temptation. 2 Set thy heart aright, and constantly endure, and make not haste in time of trouble. 3 Cleave unto him, and depart not away, that thou mayest be increased at thy last end. 4 Whatever is brought upon the take cheerfully, and be patient when thou art changed to a low estate. 5 For gold is tried in the fire, and acceptable men in the furnace of adversity. 6 Believe in him, and he will help thee; order thy way aright, and trust in him.

7 Ye that fear the Lord, wait for his mercy; and go not aside, lest ye fall. 8 Ye that fear the Lord, believe him; and your reward shall not fail. 9 Ye that fear the Lord, hope for good, and for everlasting joy and mercy.
Ecclesiasticus 11. 10—111. 20.

10 Look at the generations of old, and see; did ever any trust in the Lord, and was confounded? or did any abide in his fear, and was forsaken? or whom did he ever despise, that called upon him? 11 For the Lord is full of compassion and mercy, long-suffering, and very pitiful, and forgiveth sins, and saveth in time of affliction. 12 Woe be to fearful hearts, and faint hands, and the sinner that goeth two ways!

13 Woe unto him that is fainthearted! for he believeth not; therefore shall he not be defended. 14 Woe unto you that have lost patience! and what will ye do when the Lord shall visit you?

15 They that fear the Lord will not disobey his word; and they that love him will keep his ways. 16 They that fear the Lord will seek that which is well pleasing unto him; and they that love him shall be filled with the law. 17 They that fear the Lord will prepare their hearts, and humble their souls in his sight, saying, We will fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men: for as his majesty, so is his mercy.

Hear me your father, O children, and do thereafter, that ye may be safe. 2 For the Lord hath given the father honour over the children, and hath confirmed the authority of the mother over the sons. 3 Whoso honoureth his father maketh an atonement for his sins: and he that honoureth his mother is as one that layeth up treasure.

4 Whoso honoureth his father shall have joy of his own children: and when he maketh his prayer, he shall be heard. 5 He that honoureth his father shall have a long life; and he that is obedient unto the Lord shall be comfort to his mother, 6 and will do service unto his parents, as to his masters.

7 Honour thy father and mother both in word and deed, that a blessing may come upon thee from them. 8 For the blessing of the father establisheth the houses of children; but the curse of the mother uttereth not a word. 9 Glory not in the dishonour of thy father; for thy father's dishonour is no glory unto thee. 10 For the glory of a man is from the honour of his father; and a mother in dishonour is a reproach to the children.

11 My son, help thy father in his age, and grieve him not as long as he liveth. 12 And if his understanding fail, have patience with him; and despise him not when thou art in thy full strength. 13 For the relieving of thy father shall not be forgotten; and instead of sins it shall be added to build thee up. 14 In the day of thine affliction it shall be remembered; thy sins also shall melt away, as the ice in the fair warm weather.

15 He that forsaketh his father is as a blasphemer; and he that angereth his mother is cursed of God.

16 My son, go on with thy business in meekness; so shalt thou be beloved of him that is approved. 17 The greater thou art, the more humble thyself, and thou shalt find favour before the Lord. 18 For the power of the Lord is great, and he is honoured of the lowly.
21 Seek not out the things that are too hard for thee, neither search the things that are above thy strength.

22 But what is commanded thee, think thereupon with reverence; for it is not needful for thee to see with thine eyes the things that are in secret.

23 Be not curious in unnecessary matters; for more things are shewed unto thee than men understand. For many are deceived by their own vain opinion; and an evil suspicious hath overthrown their judgment.

24 A stubborn heart shall fare evil at the last; and he that loveth death shall perish therein.

25 An obstinate heart shall be laden with sorrows; and the wicked man shall go up upon sin.

26 In the punishment of the proud there is no remedy; for the plant of wickedness hath taken root in him. The heart of the prudent will understand a parable; and an attentive ear is the desire of a wise man.

27 Water will quench a flaming fire; and alms maketh an atonement for sins.

28 And he that requiteth good turns is mindful of that which may come hereafter; and when he falleth, he shall find a stay.

29 My son, defraud not the poor of his living, and make not the needy eyes to wait long.

30 For why should not thy heart be given, and neither provoke a man in his distress? Add more to the trouble of a heart that is vexed; and defer not to give to him that is in need.

31 Reject not the supplication of the afflicted; neither turn away thy face from a poor man.

32 Turn not away thine eye from the needy, and give him none occasion to curse thee; for if he curse thee in the bitterness of his soul, his prayer shall be heard of him that made him.

33 Get thee, my son, and get thee into the congregation, and bow thy head to a great man.

34 Let it not grieve thee to bow down thine ear to the poor, and give him a friendly answer with meekness.

35 Deliver him that suffereth wrong from the hand of the oppressor; and be not fainthearted when thou sittest in judgment.

36 Be as a father unto the fatherless, and instead of a husband unto their mother: so shalt thou be as the son of the most High, and he shall love thee more than thy mother doth.

37 Wisdom exalteth her children, and layeth hold of them that seek her.

38 He that loveth her loveth life; and they that seek to her early shall be filled with joy.

39 He that holdeth her fast shall inherit glory; and wheresoever she entereth, the Lord will bless.

40 They that serve her shall minster to the Holy One: and them that love her the Lord doth love.

41 Whoso giveth ear unto her shall judge the nations: and he that attendeth unto her shall dwell securely.

42 If a man commit himself unto her, he shall inherit her; and his generation shall hold her in possession.

43 For at the first she shall walk with him by crooked ways, and bring fear and dread upon him, and torment him with her discipline, until she may trust his soul, and try him by her laws.

44 Then will she return the straight way unto him, and comfort him, and shew him her secrets.

45 But if he go wrong, she will forsake him, and give him over to his own ruin.

46 Observe the opportunity, and beware of evil; and be not ashamed when it concerneth thy soul. For there is a shame that bringeth sin; and there is a shame which is glory and grace. Accept no person against thy soul, and let not the reverence of any man cause thee to fall. And refrain not to speak, when there is occasion to do good, and hide not thy wisdom in her beauty. For by speech wisdom shall be known; and learning by the word of the tongue. Let not thine hand be stretched out to receive, and shut when thou shouldst repay.

Set not thy heart upon thy goods; and say not, I have enough for my life. Follow not thine own mind and thy strength, to walk in the ways of thy heart; and say not, Who shall control me for my works? for the Lord will surely revenge thy pride. Say not, I have sinned, and what harm hath happened unto me? for the Lord is long-suffering; he will in no wise let thee go. Concerning propitiation, be not without fear to add sin unto sin; and say not, His mercy is great; he will be pacified for the multitude of mine sins: for mercy and wrath come from him, and his indignation resteth upon sinners.

Make no tarrying to turn to the Lord, and put not off from day to day: for suddenly shall the wrath of the Lord come forth, and in thy security thou shalt be destroyed, and perish in the day of vengeance. Set not thine heart upon goods unjustly gotten: for they shall not profit thee in the day of calamity.

Winnow not with every wind, and go not into every way: for so doth the sinner that hath a double tongue. Be steadfast in thy understanding: and let thy word be the same. Be swift to hear; and let thy life be sincere; and with patience give answer. If thou hast understanding, answer thy neighbour; if not, lay thy hand upon thy mouth. Honour and shame is in talk: and the tongue of man is his fall. Be not called a whisperer, and lie not in wait with thy tongue: for a foul shame is upon the thief, and an evil condemnation upon the double tongue. Be not ignorant of any thing in a great matter or a small.

Instead of a friend become not an enemy; for [thereby] thou shalt inherit an ill name, shame, and reproach: even so shall a sinner that hath a double tongue. Exalt not thyself in the counsel of thine own heart: that thy soul be not torn in pieces as a bull [straying alone]. Thou shalt eat up thy leaves, and lose thy fruit, and leave thyself as a dry tree.

A wicked soul shall destroy him that hath it, and shall make him to be laughed to scorn of his enemies. Sweet language will multiply friends: and a fairspeaking tongue will increase kind greetings. Be in peace with many: nevertheless have but one counsellor of a thousand.

If thou wouldest get a friend, prove him first, and be not hasty to credit him. 8 For some man is a friend for his own occasion, and will not abide in the day of thy trouble. 9 And there is a friend, who being turned to enmity and strife will discover thy reproach. 10 Again, some friend is a companion at the table, and will not continue in the day of thy affliction. 11 But in thy prosperity he will be as thyself, and will be bold over thy servants. 12 If thou be brought low, he will be against thee, and will hide himself from thy face.

13 Separate thyself from thine enemies, and take heed of thy friends. 14 A faithful friend is a strong defence: and he that hath found such an one hath found a treasure. 15 Nothing doth countervail a faithful friend, and his excellency is invaluable. 16 A faithful friend is the medicine of life: and they that fear the Lord shall find him. 17 Whoso feareth the Lord shall direct his friendship aright: for as he is, so shall his neighbour be also.

18 My son, gather instruction from thy youth up: so shalt thou find wisdom till thine old age. 19 Come unto her as one that ploweth and soweth, and wait for her good fruits: for thou shalt not toil much in labouring about her, but thou shalt eat of her fruits right soon. 20 She is very unpleasant to the unlearned: he that is without understanding will not remain with her. 21 She will lie upon him as a mighty stone of trial; and he will cast her from him ere it be long. 22 For wisdom is according to her name, and she is not manifest unto many.

23 Give ear, my son, receive my advice, and refuse not my counsel, and put thy feet into her fetters, and thy neck into her chain. 24 Bow down thy shoulder, and bear her, and be not grieved with her bonds. 25 Come unto her with thy whole heart, and keep her ways with all thy power. 26 Search, and seek, and she shall be made known unto thee: and when thou hast got hold of her, let her not go. 27 For at the last thou shalt find her rest, and that shall be turned to thy joy. 28 Then shall her fettlers be a strong defence for thee, and her chains a robe of glory. 29 For there is a golden ornament upon her, and her bands are purple lace. 30 Thou shalt put her on as a robe of honour, and shalt put her about thee as a crown of joy.

31 My son, if thou wilt, thou shalt be taught: and if thou wilt apply thy mind, thou shalt be prudent. 32 If thou love to hear, thou shalt receive understanding: and if thou bow thine ear, thou shalt be wise. 33 Stand in the multitude of the elders; and cleave unto him that is wise. 34 Be willing to hear every godly discourse: and let not the parables of understanding escape thee. 35 And if thou seest a man of understanding, get thee betimes unto him, and let thy foot wear the steps of his door. 36 Let thy mind be upon the ordinances of the Lord, and meditate continually in his commandments: he shall establish thine heart, and give thee wisdom at thine own desire.

Do no evil, so shall no harm come unto thee. 2 Depart from the unjust, and iniquity shall turn away from thee.

3 My son, sow not upon the furrows of unrighteousness, and thou shalt not reap them sevenfold. 4 Seek not of the Lord preeminence, neither of the king the seat of honour.

Justly not thyself before the Lord; and boast not of thy wisdom before the king. 9 Seek not to be judge, being not able to take away iniquity; lest at any time thou fear the person of the mighty, and lay a stumbling-block in the way of thy uprightness. 10 Offend not against the multitude of a city, and then thou shalt not cast thyself down among the people. 11 Bind not one upon another; for in one thou shalt not be unpunished. 12 Say not, God will look upon the multitude of my obligations, and when I offer to the most high God, he will accept it. 13 Be not fainthearted when thou makest thy prayer, and neglect not to give alms.

11 Laugh no man to scorn in the bitterness of his soul: for there is one which humbleth and exalteth. 12 Devise not a lie against thy brother; neither do the like to thy friend. 13 Use not to make any manner of lie: for the custom thereof is not good. 14 Use not many words in a multitude of elders, and make not much babbling when thou prayest. 15 Hate not laborious work, neither husbandry, which the most High hath ordained. 16 Number not thyself among the multitude of sinners, but remember that wrath will not tarry long. 17 Humble thy soul greatly; 18 for the vengeance of the ungodly is fire and worms. 19 Change not a friend for any good by no means; neither a faithful brother for the gold of Saphir. 20 Forego not a wise and good woman: for her grace is above gold. 21 Whereas thy servant worketh truly, entreat him not evil, nor the hireling that bestoweth himself wholly for thee.

22 Let thy soul love a good servant, and refrain him not of liberty. 23 Hast thou cattle? have an eye to them: and if they be for thy profit, keep them with thee. 24 Hast thou children? instruct them, and bow down their neck from their youth. 25 Hast thou daughters? have a care of their body, and shew not thyself cheerful toward them. 26 Marry thy daughter, and so shalt thou have performed a weighty matter: but give her to a man of understanding. 27 Hast thou a wife after thy mind? forsake her not.

28 Honour thy father with thy whole heart, and forget not the sorrows of thy mother. 29 Remember that thou wast begotten of them; and how causest thou recompense them the things that they have done for thee? 30 Fear the Lord with all thy soul, and reverence his priests. 31 Love him that made thee with all thy strength, and forsake not his ministers. 32 Fear the Lord, and honour the priest: and give him his portion, as it is commanded thee: the firstfruits, and the trespass offering, and the gift of the shoulders, and the sacrifice of sanctification, and the firstfruits of the holy thing. 33 And stretch thin the hand unto the poor, that thy blessing may be perfected. 34 A gift hath grace in the sight of every man living; and for the dead detain it not. 35 Fail not to be with them that weep, and mourn with them that mourn. 36 Be not slow to visit the sick: for that shall make thee to be beloved. 37 Whatsoever thou takest in hand, remember the end, and thou shalt never do amiss.

Strive not with a mighty man, lest thou fall into his hands. 2 Be not at variance with a Rejoice Troyovoi, for thy soul is not given to harlot, lest thou fall into the hands of harlots. Do not set thy heart upon harlots, lest thou lose the beauty of thy soul. Do not set thy heart upon another's wife, lest thou fall into destruction. Forsake not an old friend; for the new is not comparable to him: a new wine is as new wine; when it is old, thou shalt drink it with pleasure. Be not the glory of a sinner: for thou knowest not what shall be his end. Delight not in the thing that the ungodly have pleasure in; but remember they shall not go unpunished unto their grave. Keep thee far from the man that is full of tongue, and heap not wood upon his fire. Jesu not with a rude man, lest thy ancestors be disgraced. Reproach not a man that turneth from sin, but remember that we are all worthy of punishment. Dishonour not a man that is old aged: it crieth unto thee. Miss not the discourse of the wise, but acquaint thyself with their proverbs: for of them thou shalt learn understanding, and how to serve great men with ease.
hath power to kill; so shalt thou not doubt the fear of death: and if thou come unto him, make no fault, lest he take away thy life present: remember that thou goest in the midst of snares, and that thou walkest upon the battlements of the city.

4 As near as thou cast, guess at thy neighbour, and consult with the wise. 5 Let thy talk be with the wise, and all thy communication in the law of the most High. 6 And let just men eat and drink with thee; and let thy glorying be in the fear of the Lord. 7 For the hand of the artificer the work shall be commanded; and the wise ruler of the people for his speech. 8 A man of an ill tongue is dangerous in his city, and he that is rash in his talk shall be hated.

A wise judge will instruct his people; and the government of a prudent man is well ordered. 9 As the judge of the people is himself, so are his officers; and what manner of man the ruler of the city is, such are all they that dwell there. 10 An unwise king destroyeth his people, but through the prudence of them which are in authority the city shall be inhabited. 11 The power of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, and in due time he will set over it one that is profitable. 12 In the hand of God is the prosperity of man; and upon the person of the scribe shall he lay his honour.

13 Bear not hatred to thy neighbour for every wrong; and do nothing at all by injurious practices. 14 Pride is hateful before God and man: and by both doth one commit iniquity. 15 Because of unrighteous dealings, injuries, and riches got by deceit, the kingdom is translated from one people to another.

16 What earth and ashes proud? There is not a more wicked thing than a covetous man: for such an one setteth his own soul to sale; because while he liveth he casteth away his bowels. 17 The physician cutteth off a long disease: and he that is to day a king to morrow shall die. 18 For when a man is dead, he shall inherit creeping things, beasts, and worms. 19 The beginning of all things is when one departeth from God, and his heart is turned away from the Maker. 20 For pride is the beginning of sin, and he that hath it shall pour out abomination: and therefore the Lord brought upon them strange calamities, and overthrew them utterly.

21 He Lord hath cast down the thrones of proud princes, and set up the meek in their stead. 22 The Lord hath plucked up the roots of the proud nations, and planted the lowly in their place. 23 The Lord overthrew countries of the heathen, and destroyed them to the foundations of the earth. 24 He took some of them away, and destroyed them, and hath made their memorial to cease from the earth. 25 Pride was not made for men, nor furious anger for them that are born of a woman. 26 They that fear the Lord are a sure seed, and they that love him an honourable plant: they that regard not the law are a dishonourable seed: they that transgress the commandments are a deceivable seed. 27 Among brethren he that is chief is honourable: so are they that fear the Lord in his eyes. 28 Whether he be rich, noble or poor, their glory is the fear of the Lord.

29 It is not meet to despise the poor man that hath understanding; neither is it convenient to magnify a sinful man. 30 Great men, and judges, and potentates, shall be honoured; yet is there none of them greater than he that

...whereas the Lord, 25 Unto the servant that is wise shall they that are free do service: and he that hath knowledge will not grudge when he is reformed. 26 Be not overwise in doing thy business; and boast not thyself in the time of thy distress. 27 Better is he that laboureth, and aboundeth in all things, than he that boasteth himself, and wanteth bread.

My son, glorify thy soul in meekness, and give it honour according to the dignity thereof. 28 Who will justify him that sinneth against his own soul? and who will honour him that dishonoureth his own life? 29 The poor man is honoured for his skill, and the rich man is honoured for his riches. 30 He that is honoured in poverty, how much more in riches? and he that is dishonourable in riches, how much more in poverty?

Wisdom lifteth up the head of him that is of low degree, and maketh him to sit among great men. 2 Command not a man for his beauty: neither abhor a man for his outward appearance.

3 The bee is little among such as fly; but her fruit is the chief of sweet things. 4 Boast not of thy clothing and raiment, and exalt not thyself in the day of honour: for the works of the Lord are wonderful, and his works among men are had in hand. 5 Many kings have been greatly disgraced; and the honourable delivered into other men's hands. 6 Blame not before thou hast examined the truth: understand first, and then rebuke.

7 There is one that laboureth, and taketh pains, and maketh haste, and is so much the more behind. 8 Again, there is another that is slow, and maketh little matter, and is full of poverty; yet the eye of the Lord looked upon him for good, and set him up from his low estate, and lifted up his head from misery; so that many that saw it marvelled at it.

9 Prosperity and adversities, life and death, poverty and riches, come of the Lord. 10 The gift of the Lord remaineth with the godly, and his favour bringeth prosperity for ever. 11 There is that waxeth rich by his wariness and pinching, and this is the portion of his reward: whereas he saith, I have found rest, and now will eat continually of my goods; and yet he knoweth not what time shall come upon him, and that he must leave those things to others, and die. 12 Be stedfast in thy covenant, and be conversant therein, and was old in thy work.

13 Marvel not at the works of sinners; but trust in the Lord, and abide in thy labour: for it is an easy thing in the sight of the Lord on the sudden to make a poor man rich.

14 The blessing of the Lord is in the reward of the godly, and suddenly he maketh his blessing to flourish. 15 Say not, What profit is there of my service? and what good things shall I have hereafter? 16 Again, say not, I have enough, and possess many things, and what evil can come to me hereafter? 17 In the day of prosperity there is a forgetfulness of affliction: and in the day of affliction there is no more remem-
For it is an easy thing unto the Lord in the day of death to reward a man according to his ways. The affliction of an hour maketh a man forget pleasure: and in his end his deeds shall be discovered. Judge none before his death: for a man shall be known in his children.

Therefore every man into thine house: for the deceitful man hath many trains. Like as a partridge taken [and kept] in a cage, so is the heart of the proud: and like as a spy, watcheth he for thy fall: for he lieth in wait, and turneth good into evil, and in things worthy praise will lay blame upon thee. Of a spark of fire a heap of coals is kindled: and a sinful man layeth wait for blood. Take heed of an unchaste man, for he worketh wickedness: lest he bring upon thee a perpetual blot. Receive a stranger into thine house, and he will disturb thee, and turn thee out of thine own.

When thou wilt do good, know to whom thou doest it: so shalt thou be thankful for thy benefits. Do good to the godly man, and thou shalt have thanksgiving from him, yet from the most High. There can no man come to him that is always occupied in evil, nor to him that giveth no alms. Give to the godly man, and help not a sinner. Do well unto him that is lowly, but give not unto the godly: hold back thy bread, and give it not unto him, lest he overmaster thee thereby: for else thou shalt receive twice as much evil for all the good thou shalt have done unto him. For the most High hateth sinners, and will repay vengeance unto the ungodly, and keepeth them against the mighty day of their punishment.

Give unto the good, and help not the sinner. A friend cannot be known in prosperity: and an enemy cannot be hidden in adversity. In the prosperity of a man enemies will be grieved: but in his adversity even a friend will depart. Never trust thine enemy: for like as iron rusteth, so is his wickedness. Though he humble himself, and go crouching, yet take good heed and beware of him, and thou shalt be unto him as if thou hadst wiped a looking-glass, and thou shalt know that his trust hath not been altogether wrong.

Set him not by the least, when he hath overthrown thee, he stand up in thy place; neither let him sit at thy right hand, lest he seek to take thy seat, and then at the last remember my words, and be pricked thereof.

Who will pity a charmer that is bitten with a serpent, or such as come nigh wild beasts? So one that goeth to a sinner, and is defiled with him in his sins, who will pity? For a while he will abide with thee, but if thou begin to fall, he will not tarry. An enemy speaketh sweetly with his lips, but in his heart he imagineth how to throw thee into a pit: he will weep with his eyes, but if he find opportunity, he will not be satisfied with blood. If adversity come upon thee, thou shalt find him there first: and though he pretend to help thee, yet shall he undermine thee. He will shake his head, and clasp his hands, and whisper much, and change his countenance.

That toucheth pitch shall be defiled therewith: and he that hath fellowship with a proud man shall be not like unto him. Burden not thyself above thy power while thou livest; and have no fellowship with one that is mightier and richer than thyself: for how can agree the kettle and the earthen pot together? for if the one be smitten against the other, it shall be broken.

3 The rich man hath done wrong, and yet he threateneth withal: the poor is wronged, and he must intreat also. 4 If thou be for his profit, he will use thee; but if thou have nothing, he will forsake thee. 5 If thou have for any thing, he will live with thee: yea, he will give thee furnishings, and not be sorry for it. 6 If he have need of thee, he will deceive thee, and smile upon thee, and put thee in hope; he will speak thee fair, and say, What wantest thou? 7 And he will shackle thee by his meats, until he have drawn thee dry twice or thrice, and at the last he will laugh thee to scorn: afterward, when he seeth thee, he will forsake thee, and shall shake his head at thee. 8 Beware that thou be not deceived, and brought down in thy jollity.

9 If thou be invited of a mighty man, withdraw thyself, and so much the more will he invite thee. 10 Press thou not upon him, lest thou be put back: stand not far off, lest thou be forgotten. 11 Afflict not to be made equal unto him in talk, and believe not his many words:
for with much communication will he tempt thee, and smiling upon thee will get out thy secrets: 12 but cruelly he will lay up thy words, and will not spare to do thee hurt, and to put thee in prison. 13 Observe, and take good heed, for thou walkest in peril of thy overthrowing: when thou hearest these things, awake in thy sleep.

14 Every beast loveth his like, and every man loveth his neighbour. 15 All flesh consortium according to kind, and a man will cleave to his like. 16 What fellowship hath the wolf with the lamb? so the sinner with the godly. 17 What agreement is there between the hyena and a dog? and what peace between the rich and the poor? 18 As the wild ass is the lion's prey in the wilderness: so the rich eat up the poor.
19 As the proud hate humility: so doth the rich abhor the poor.

20 A rich man beginning to fall is held up by his friends: but a poor man being down is thrust also away by his friends. 21 When a rich man is fallen, he hath many helpers: he spake thing none to be spoken, and yet men justify him: the poor man slipped, and yet they questioned him too: they spake wisely, and could have no place. 22 When a rich man is fallen, every man holdeth his tongue, and look, what he saith, they extol it to the clouds: but if the poor man speak, they say, What fellow is this?
and if he stumble, they will help to overthrow him. 23 Riches are good unto him that hath no sin, and poverty is evil in the mouth of the unrighteous.

24 The heart of a man changeth his countenance, whether it be for good or evil. 25 A cheerful countenance is a token of a heart that is in prosperity; and the finding out of parables is a wearisome labour of the mind.

Blessed is the man that hath not slipped with his mouth, and is not pricked with the multitude of sins. 26 Blessed is he whose conscience hath not condemned him, and who is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

27 Riches are not comely for a miggard:
and what should an envious man do with money?

28 He that gathereth by defrauding his own soul gathereth for others that shall spend his goods riotously. 29 He that is evil to himself,

Lord are done in judgment from the beginning; and from the time he made them he disposed the parts thereof. 2 He garnished his works for ever, and the chief of them unto all generations: they neither labour, nor are weary, nor cease from their works. 3 None of them hindereth another, and they shall never disoblige his word. 4 After this the Lord looked upon the earth, and filled it with his blessings. 5 With all manner of living things hath he covered the face thereof; and they shall return into it again.

The Lord created man in the image, and turned him into it again. 2 He gave them few days in a short time, and poured also over the things therein. 3 He ended them with strength by themselves, and made them according to his image, and put the fear of man upon all flesh, and gave him dominion over beasts and fowls. 6 Counsel, and a tongue, and eyes, and a heart, gave he them to understand. 7 Withal he filled them with knowledge of understanding, and shewed them good and evil. 8 He set his eye upon their hearts, that he might shew them the greatness of his works; and they shall praise his holy name, that they may search out his marvellous works.

11 Beside this he gave them knowledge, and the law of life for an heritage. 12 He made an everlasting covenant with them, and shewed them his judgments. 13 Their eyes saw the majesty of his glory, and their ears heard his glorious voice. 14 And he said unto them, Beware of all unrighteousness; and he gave every man commandment concerning his neighbour. 15 Their ways are ever before him, and shall not be hid from his eyes. 17 For in the division of the nations of the whole earth he set a ruler over every people; but Israel is the Lord's portion: 19 Therefore all their works are as the sun before him, and his eyes are continually upon their ways. 20 None of their unrighteous deeds are hid from him, but all their sins are before the Lord.

22 The aims of a man is as a signet with him, and he will keep the good deeds of man as the apple of the eye, and give repentence to his sons and daughters. 23 Afterwards he will rise up and reward them, and render their recompence upon their heads. 24 But unto them that repent, he granted them return, and comforted those that failed in patience.

25 Return unto the Lord, and forsake thy sins, make thy prayer before his face, and offend less. 26 Turn again to the most High, and turn away from iniquity: for he will lead the captivity of Jacob into the land of his habitation, and hate thou abomination vehemently. 27 Who shall praise the most High in the grave, instead of them which live and give thanks? 28 Thanksgiving perisheth from the dead, as from one that is not: the living and sound in heart shall praise the Lord. 29 How great is the loving-kindness of the Lord our God, and his compassion unto such as turn unto him in holiness! 30 For all things cannot be in men, because the son of man is not immortal.

31 What is brighter than the sun? yet the light thereof falleth: and flesh and blood will imagine evil. 32 He vieweth the power of the height of heaven; and all men are but earth and ashes.
He that liveth for ever created all things in general. 2 The Lord only is righteous. 4 To none hath he given power to declare his works; and who shall find out his noble acts? 5 Who shall number the strength of his majesty? and who shall also tell out his mercies?

As for the wondrous works of the Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, neither may any thing be put unto them, neither can the ground of them be found out. 7 When a man hath done, then he believeth; and is not, he leaveth off, then he shall be doubtful. 8 What is man, and whereto serveth he; what is his good, and what is his evil? 9 The number of a man's days is the most is an hundred years. 10 As a drop of water unto the sea, and a gravel-stone in comparison of the sand; so are a thousand years to the days of eternity. 11 Therefore is God patient with them, and poureth forth his mercy upon them. 12 He saw and perceived their end to be evil; therefore he multiplied his compassion. 13 The mercy of man is toward his neighbour; but the mercy of the Lord is upon all flesh: he reproveth, and nurtureth, and teacheth, and bringeth again, as a shepherd his flock. 14 He hath mercy on them that receive discipline, and that diligently seek after his judgments.

1 My son, blemish not thy good deeds, neither use uncomfortable words when thou givest any thing. 2 Shall not the dew assuage the heat? so is a word better than a gift. 3 But let it be not a word better than a gift? but both are with a gracious man. 4 A fool will upbride churlishly, and a gift of the envious consumeth the eyes. 5 Learn before thou speak, and use physic or ever thou be sick. 6 Before judgment examine thyself, and in the day of visitation thou shalt find mercy. 7 Humble thyself before thou be sick, and in the time of sins shew repentance.

22 Let nothing binder thee to pay thy vow in due time, and defer not until death to be justified. 23 Before thou prayest, prepare thyself, and bind not as one that tempteth the Lord. 24 Think upon the wrath that shall be at the end, and the time of vengeance, when he shall turn away his face. 25 When thou hast enough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, think upon poverty and need. 26 From the morning until the evening the time is changed, and all things are soon done before the Lord.

27 A wise man will fear in every thing, and in the day of sinning he will beware of offence: but a fool will not observe time. 28 Every man of understanding knoweth wisdom, and will give praise unto him that found her. 29 They that had understanding in sayings became also wise themselves, and poured forth exquisite parables.

30 Go not after thy lusts, but refrain thyself from thine appetites. 31 If thou givest thy soul the desires that please her, she will make thee a laughingstock to thine enemies that malign thee. 32 Take not pleasure in much good cheer, neither be tied to the expense thereof. 33 Be not made a beggar by banqueting upon borrowing, when thou hast nothing in thy purse.

A labouring man that is given to drunkenness shall not be rich; and he that commeth small things shall fall by little and little. 2 Wine and women will make men of understanding to fall away: and he that cleaveth to hardlots will become impudent. Moths and crawls shall have him to heritage, and a bold man shall be taken away.
He that is hasty to give credit is light-minded; and he that sinneth shall offend against his own soul. Whoso taketh pleasure in wickedness shall be condemned; but he that hateth babbling hath less of evil.
Rehearse not unto another that which is told unto thee, and thou shalt bare never the word. Whether it be to friend or foe, talk not of other men's lives; and if thou canst not without offence, reveal them not. For he heard and observed thee, and when time comet he will hate thee. If thou hast heard a word, let it die with thee; and be bold, it will not burst thee. A fool travelleth with a word, as a woman in labour of a child. As an arrow that sticketh in a man's thigh, so is a word within a fool's belly. Admonish a friend, it may be he hath not done it; and if he have done it, that he do it no more. Admonish thy friend, it may be he hath not said it; and if he have, that he speak it not again. Admonish a friend; for many times it is a slander, and believe not every tale.
There is one that slippeth in his speech, but not from his heart; and who is he that hath not offended with his tongue?
Admonish thy neighbour before thou threaten him; and give place to the law of the most High. The fear of the Lord is all wisdom; and in all wisdom is the performance of the law.
The knowledge of wickedness is not wisdom, either at any time the counsel of sinners prudence. There is a wickedness, and the same an abomination; and there is a fool wanting in wisdom.
He that hath small understanding, and feareth God, is better than one that hath much wisdom, and transgresseth the law of the most High. There is an exquisite sub-tility, and the same is unjust; and there is one that turneth aside to make judgment appear.
There is a wicked man that hangeth down his head sadly; but inwardly he is full of deceit, casting down his countenance, and making as if he heard not; where he is not known, he will do the mischief before thou be aware. And if for want of power he be hindered from sinning, yet when he findeth opportunity he will do evil. A man may be known by his look, and one that hath understanding by his countenance, when thou meatest him. A man's attire, and excessive laughter, and gait, shew what he is. There is a reproof that is not comely; again some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise.
It is much better to reprove, than to be angry secretly; and he that confesseth his fault shall be preserved from hurt. As is the lust of an eunuch to deflower a virgin; so is he that executeth judgment with violence.
There is one that keepeth silence, and is wise; and another by much babbling becometh hateful. Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hath not to answer; and some keepeth silence, knowing his time. A wise man will hold his tongue till he see opportunity; but a babbler and a fool will regard no time. He that useth many words shall be abhorred; and he that taketh to himself authorities shall be hated. There is a man that hath good success in evil things; and there is a gain that turneth to loss.
and they that eat my bread speak evil of me.

17 To slip upon a pavement is better than to slip with the tongue: so the fall of the wicked shall come speedily. 18 An unseasonable tale will always be in the mouth of the unwise.

19 A wise sentence shall be rejected when it cometh out of a fool's mouth; for he will not speak it in due season. 20 There is that is hinpered from sinning through want: and when he taketh rest, he shall not be troubled.

21 There is that destroyeth his own soul through bashfulness, and by accepting of persons over-throweth himself. 22 There is that for bashfulness promiseth to his friend, and maketh him his enemy for nothing. 23 A lie is a foul blot in a man, yet it is continually in the mouth of the untaught.

24 A thief is better than a man that is accustomed to lie: but they both shall have destruction to heritage. 25 The disposition of a liar is dishonourable, and his shame is ever with him.

26 A wise man shall promote himself to honour with his words: and he that hath understanding will please great men. 27 He that thillich his land shall increase his heap: and he that pleaseth great men shall get pardon for iniquity. 28 Presents and gifts blind the eyes of the wise, and stop up his mouth that he cannot reprove. 29 Wisdom that is hid, and treasure that is hoarded up, what profit is in them both? 30 Better is he that hideth his folly than a man that hideth his wisdom.

My son, hast thou sinned? do so no more,
but ask pardon for thy former sins. 2 Flee from sin as from the face of a serpent: for if thou comest too near it, it will bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lion, slaying the souls of men. 3 All iniquity is as a two ed good word, the wounds whereof cannot be healed.

To terrify and do wrong will waste riches:
thus the house of proud men shall be made desolate. 4 A prayer out of a poor man's mouth reacheth to the ears of God, and his judgment cometh speedily. 6 He that hateth reproof is in the way of sinners: but he that feareth the Lord will repent from his heart.

7 An eloquent man is known far and near;
but a man of understanding knoweth when he slippereth. 8 He that buildeth his house with other men's money is like one that gathereth is a gift that shall not profit thee; and there is a gift whose recompense is double. 4 There is an abasement because of glory; and there is that lifteth up his head from a low estate.

5 There is that buyeth much for a little, and repayeth it sevenfold.

13 A wise man by his words maketh himself beloved: but the graces of fools shall be poured out. 14 The gift of a fool shall do thee no good when thou hast it; neither yet of the envious for his necessity: for he looketh to receive many things for one. 15 He giveth little, and upbraideth much; he openeth his mouth like a crier; to-day he lendeth, and to-morrow will ask it again of such an one as is to be hated of God and man. 16 The fool saith, I have no friends, I have no thank for all my good deeds, and they that eat my bread speak evil of me.

13 Talk not much with a fool, and go not to him that hath no understanding: beware of him, lest thou have trouble, and thou shalt never be defiled with his foolishness: depart from him, and thou shalt find rest, and never be disquieted with madness. 14 What is heavier than lead? and what is the name thereof, but a fool? 15 Sand, and salt, and a mass of iron, are easier to bear, than a man without understanding.

16 As timber girt and bound together in a building cannot be loosed with shaking: so the heart that is stablished by advised counsel shall fear at no time. 17 A heart settled upon a thought of understanding is as a fair plastering on the wall of a gallery. 18 Pales set on an high place will never stand against the wind: so a fearful heart in the imagination of a fool cannot stand against any fear.

19 He that pricketh the eye will make tears to fall: and he that pricketh the heart maketh it to shew her knowledge. 20 Whoso casteth a stone at the birds frayeth them away: and he that upbraided his friend breaketh friendship.

21 Though thou drewest a sword at thy friend, yet despair not: for there may be a returning [to favour]. 22 If thou hast opened thy mouth against thy friend, fear not: for there may be a reconciliation: except for upbraiding, or pride, or disclosing of secrets, or a treacherous wound: for for these things every friend will depart.

23 Be faithful to thy neighbour in his poverty, that thou mayest rejoice in his prosperity: abide steadfast unto him in the time of his trouble, that thou mayest be heir with him in his heritage. 24 As the vapour and smoke of a furnace goeth before the fire; so reviling before blood. 25 I will not be ashamed to defend a friend; neither will I hide myself from him; and if any evil happen unto me by him, every one that heareth it will beware of him. 26 Who shall set a watch before my mouth, and a seal of wisdom upon my lips, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroy me not?

O Lord, Father and Governor of my life, leave me not to their counsels, and let me not fall by them. 2 Who will set scourgges over my thoughts, and the discipline of wisdom over mine heart? that they spare me not for mine ignorances, and it pass not by my sins: 3 lest mine ignorances increase, and my sins abound to my destruction, and I fall before mine adversaries, and mine enemy rejoice over me, whose hope is far from thy mercy.

4 O Lord, Father and God of my life, give me not a proud look. 5 Turn away concupiscence from me. 6 Let not the greediness of the belly nor lust of the flesh take hold of me, and give me not over into an impudent mind.

7 Hear, O ye children, the discipline of the mouth: he that keepeth it shall never be taken in his lips. The stranger be left in his foolishness: both the evil speaker and the proud shall fall thereby. 8 Accustom not thy mouth to swearing; neither use thyself to the naming of the Holy One. 9 For as a servant that is continually beaten shall not be without and God continually shall not be faultless. 11 A man that useth much swearing shall be filled with iniquity, and the plague shall never depart from his house: If he offend, his sin shall be upon him: and if he acknowledge not his sin, he maketh a double offence: and if he swear in vain, he shall not be innocent, but his house shall be full of calamities. 12 There is a word that is clothed about with death: God grant that it be not found in the heritage of Jacob; for all such things shall be far from the goyim, and they shall not dwell in their sins. 13 Use not thy mouth to intemperate swearing, for therein is the word of sin.

Remember thy father and thy mother, when thou sittest among great men. Be not forgetful before them, and so thou by thy custom become a fool, and wish that thou hadst not been born, and curse the day of thy nativity. 15 The man that is accustomed to opprobrious words will never be reformed all the days of his life.

Two sons of men multiply sin, and the third will bring wrath: a hot mind is as a burning fire, it will never be quenched till it be consumed: a fornicator in the body of his flesh will never cease till he hath kindled a fire. 17 All bread is sweet to a whoremonger, he will not leave off till he die.

A man that breaketh wedlock, saying thus in his heart, Who seeth me? I am compassed about with darkness, the walls cover me, and no body seeth me; what need I to fear the most High will not remember my sins: such a man only feareth the eyes of men, and knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter than the sun, beholding all the ways of men, and considering the most secret parts. 19 He knew all things ere they were created: so also after they were perfected he looked upon them all. 20 This man shall be punished in the streets of the city, where he suspesteth not he shall be taken.

Thus shall it go also with the wife that leaveth her husband, and bringeth in an heir by another. 21 For first, she hath disobeyed the law of the most High: and secondly, she hath trespassed against her own husband: and thirdly, she hath played the whore in adultery, and brought children by another man. 22 She shall be brought out into the congregation, and inquisition shall be made of her children. 23 Her children shall not take root, and her branches shall bring forth no fruit. 24 She shall leave her memory to be cursed, and her reproach shall not be blotted out. 25 And they that remain shall b
7 With all these I sought rest: and in whose inheritance shall I abide? 8 So the Creator of all things gave me a commandment, and he that made me caused my tabernacle to rest, and said, Let thy dwelling be in Jacob, and thine inheritance in Israel. 9 He created me from the beginning before the world, and I shall have no portion in the world.

10 In the holy tabernacle I served before him; and so was I established in Sion. 11 Likewise in the beloved city he gave me rest, and in Jerusalem was my power. 12 And I took root in an honourable people, even in the portion of the Lord's inheritance. 13 I was exalted like a cedar in Libanus, and as a cypress tree upon the mountains of Hermon. 14 I was exalted like a palm tree on the sea shore, and as a rose plant in Jericho, as a fair olive tree in a plain, and grew up as a plane tree. 15 I gave a sweet smell like cinnamon and aspalthus, and I yielded a pleasant odor like the best myrrh, as galbanum, and onyx, and sweet storax, and as the fume of frankincense in the tabernacle. 16 As the tupeantine tree I stretched out my branches, and my branches are the branches of honour and grace.

17 All these things are the book of the covenant of the most high God, even the law which Moses commanded for an inheritance unto the congregations of Jacob. 18 He filled all things with his wisdom, as P lisson and as Tigris in the time of the new fruits. 19 He maketh the understanding to abound like Euphrates, and as Jordan in the time of the harvest. 20 He maketh the doctrine of knowledge appear as the light, and as Geon in the time of vintage.

21 The first man knew her not perfectly: no more shall the last find her out. 22 For her thoughts are more then the sea, and her counsels profounder than the great deep. 23 I also came out as a brook from a river, and as a conduit into a garden. 24 I said, I will water my best garden, and will water abundantly my garden bed: and, lo, my brook became a river, and my river ran abroad.

25 I took doctrine to shine as the morning, and will send forth her light afar off. 26 I will yet pour out doctrine as prophecy, and leave it to all ages for ever. 27 Behold that I have not laboured for myself only, but for all them that seek wisdom.

In three things I was beautified, and stood up beautiful both before God and men: the unity of brethren, the love of neighbours, a man and a wife that agree together.

2 Three sorts of men my soul hateth, and I am greatly offended at their life: a poor man that is proud, a rich man that is a liar, and an old adulterer that doaeth.

3 If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, how canst thou find any thing in thine age?

4 O how comely a thing is judgment for grey hairs, and for ancient men to know counsel!
O how comely is the wisdom of old men, and understanding and counsel to men of honour! 6. Whether a man is the crown of old men, and the fear of God is their glory.

7. There be nine things which I have judged in mine heart to be happy, and she travail I will utter with my tongue: 1 man that hath joy of his children; and he that liveth to see the fall of his enemy. 8. Well is he that dwelleth with a wife of understanding, and that hath not slipped with his tongue, and that hath not served a man more unworthy than himself. 9. Where is he that speaketh in the ears of them that will hear: 10 how great is he that findeth wisdom! yet there is none above him that feareth the Lord. 11 But the love of the Lord passeth all things for illustration: he that holdeth it, wherefore shall he be likened?

13 [Give me] any plague, but the plague of the heart: and any wickedness, but the wickedness of a woman: 14 and any affliction, but the affliction from them that hate me: and any revenge, but the revenge of enemies. 15 There is no head above the head of a serpent; and there is no wrath above the wrath of an enemy.

16 I had rather dwell with a lion and a dragon, than to keep house with a wicked woman. 17 The wickedness of a woman changeth her face, and darkeneth her countenance like sackcloth. 18 Her husband shall sit among his neighbours; and when he heareth it shall sigh bitterly. 19 All wickedness is but little to the wickedness of a woman; let the portion of a sinner fall upon her.

20 As the climbing up a sandy way is to the feet of the aged, so is a wife full of words to a quiet man. 21 stumble not at the beauty of a woman, and desire her not for pleasure. 22 A woman, if she maintain her husband, is full of anger, impudence, and much reproach. 23 A wicked woman abateth the courage, maketh an heavy countenance and a wounded heart: a woman that will not comfort her husband in distress maketh weak hands and feeble knees.

24 Of the woman came the beginning of sin, and through her we all die. 25 Give the water no place to pass; woman libelleth woman in to gad abroad. 26 If she go not as thou wouldest have her, cut her off from thy flesh, and give her a bill of divorce, and let her go.

Blessed is the man that hath a virtuous wife, for the number of his days shall be double. 2 A virtuous woman rejoiceth her husband, and she shall fulfill the years of his life in peace. 3 A good wife is a good portion, which shall be given in the portion of them that fear the Lord. 4 Where is a man better or poorer, if he have a good heart toward the Lord, he shall at all times rejoice with a cheerful countenance.

5 There be three things that mine heart feareth; and for the fourth I was sore afraid: the slander of a city, the gathering together of an unruly multitude, and a false accusation: all these are worse than death. 6 But a grief of heart and sorrow is a woman that is jealous over another woman, and a scourgis of the tongue which communicateth with all. 7 An evil wife is a yoke shaken to and fro; he that hath hold of her is as though he held a scorpion. 8 A drunken woman and a gadder abroad causeth great anger, and she will not cover her own shame. 9 The whoredom of a woman may be known in her haughty looks and eyelids. 16 If thy daughter be shameless, keep her in straitly, lest she abuse herself through overmuch liberty. 17 Watch over an impudent eye; and marvel not if she trespass against thee. 18 She will open her mouth, as a thirsty traveller, when he hath found a fountain, and drink of every water near her; by every hedge will she sit down, and open her quiver against every arrow.

19 The grace of a wife delighteth her husband, and her discretion will fatten his bones. 20 A silent and loving woman is a gift of the Lord; and there is nothing so much worth as a mind well instructed. 21 A shamefaced and faithful woman is a double grace, and her constant mind cannot be valued. 22 As the sun when it ariseth in the high heaven; so is the beauty of a good wife in the ordering of her house. 23 As the clear light is upon the holy candlestick; so is the beauty of the face in ripe age. 24 As the golden pillars are upon the sockets of silver; so are the fair feet with a constant heart.

25 There be two things that grieve my heart; and the third maketh me angry: a man of war that suffereth poverty; and men of understanding that are not set by: and one that returneth from righteousness to sin; the Lord prepareth such an one for the sword. 26 A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong; and a usurer shall not be freed from sin.

Many have sinned for a small matter; and he that seeketh for abundance will turn his eyes away. 27 As a nail sticketh fast between the joinings of the stones; so doth sin stick close between buying and selling. 28 Unless a man hold himself diligently in the fear of the Lord, his house shall soon be overthrown. 29 As when one sitteth with a sieve, the refuse remaineth; so the filth of man in his talk.

The furnace proveth the potter's vessels; so the trial of men is reasoning. 30 The fruit declareth if the tree have been dressed; so is the utterance of a conceit in the heart of man.
Escaped out of the snare. 21 For as a wound, it may be bound up; and after reviling there may be reconcilement: but he that bewrayeth secrets is without hope. 22 He that winketh with the eyes worketh evil; and he that knoweth him will depart from him. 23 When thou art present, he will speak sweetly, and will admire thy words: but at the last he will writhe thine mouth, and slander thy sayings. 24 I have hated many things, but nothing like him; for the Lord will hate him.

Whoso casteth a stone on high casteth it on his own head; and a deceitful stroke shall make wounds. 26 Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that setteth a trap shall be taken therein. 27 He that worketh mischief, it shall fall upon him, and he shall not know whence it comes. 28 Mockery and reproach are from the proud; but vengeance, as a lion, shall lie in wait for him. 29 They that rejoice at the fall of the righteous shall be taken in the snare; and anguish shall consume them before they die. 30 Malice and wrath, even these are abominations; and the sinful man shall have them both. He that revengeth shall find vengeance from the Lord, and he will surely keep his sins [in remembrance]. 31 Forgive thy neighbour the hurt that he hath done unto thee, that thy sins also be forgiven when thou prayest. 32 One man beareth hatred against another, and doth he seek pardon from the Lord? He sheweth no mercy to a man, which is like himself; and doth he ask forgiveness of his own sins? 33 If he that is but flesh nourisheth hatred, who will Intreat for pardon of his sins? 34 Remember thy end, and let thy enmity cease; remember corruption and death, and abide in the commandments. 35 Remember the commandments, and bear no malice to thy neighbour: [remember] the covenant of the Highest, and wink at ignorance. 36 Abstain from strife, and thou shalt diminish thy sins: for a furious man will kindle strife.

A sly man disquieteth friends, and maketh debate among them that be at peace. 37 As the matter of the fire is, so it burneth: and as a man's strength is, so is his wrath; and according to his riches his anger riseth; and the stronger they are which contend, the more they will be inflamed. 38 An hasty contention kindleth a fire: and an hasty fighting sheddeth blood. 39 If thou blow thine anger, it shall burn: if thou let it upon thee, it shall be quenched: and both these come out of thy mouth. 40 Curse the whisperer; and double-tongued: for such have destroyed many that were at peace. 41 A backbiting tongue hath disquieted many, and driven them from nation to nation: strong cities hath it pulled down, and overthroweth the houses of great men. 42 A backbiting tongue hath cast out virtuous women, and deprived them of their labours. 43 Whose hearkeneth unto it shall never find rest, and never dwell quietly.

The stroke of the whip maketh marks in the flesh: but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones. 44 Many have fallen by the edge of the sword: but not so many as have fallen by the tongue. 45 Well is he that is defended from it, and hath not passed through the venom thereof, who hath not drawn the yoke thereof, nor hath been bound in her bands.

For the yoke thereof is a yoke of bread, and a yoke of iron, and a yoke of brass. 46 Therefore I counsel that ye separate not from the yoke of iron, and the yoke of brass; and forsake not the iron that breaketh the bones; and weep not over the pain of the yoke thereof. 47 He that beareth it shall be as the yoke of iron, and the yoke of brass, which breaketh the bones; and weepeth over the pain of the yoke thereof, and beareth it.
the bands thereof are bands of brass. 2 The death thereof is an evil death, the grave was better for him. 3 It shall not have rule over them that fear God, neither be burnt with the flame thereof. 4 Such as forsake the Lord shall fall into it; and it shall burn in them, and not be quenched; it shall be sent upon them as a lion, and devour them as a leopard. 5 Look that thou hedge thy possession about with thorns, and bind up thy silver and gold, and weigh thy words in a balance, and make a door and bar for thy mouth. 6 Beware thou slide not by it, lest thou fall before him that lieth in wait.

He that is merciful will lend unto his neighbour; and he that strengtheneth his hand keepeth the commandments. 2 Lend to thy neighbour in time of his need, and pay thou thy neighbour again in due season. 3 Keep thy word, and deal faithfully with him, and thou shalt always find the thing that is necessary for thee. 4 Many, when a thing was lent them, returned it found, and brought again to the lender that helped them. 5 Till he hath received, he will kiss a man's hand; and for his neighbour's money he will speak submissively: but when he shall repay, he will prolong the time, and return words of grief, and complain of the time. 6 If he prevail, he shall hardly receive the half, and he will count as if he had found it: if not, he hath deprived him of his money, and he hath gotten him an enemy without cause: he payeth him with cursings and railings: and for honour he will pay him disgrace. 7 Many therefore have refused to lend for other men's ill dealing, fearing to be defrauded. 8 Yet have thou patience with a man in poor estate, and delay not to shew him mercy. 9 Help the poor for the commandment's sake, and turn him not away because of his poverty.

10 Lose thy money for thy brother and thy friend, and let it not rust under a stone to be lost. 11 Lay up thy treasure according to the commandments of the most High, and it shall bring thee more profit than gold. 12 Shut up alms in thy storehouses: and it shall deliver thee from all affliction. 13 It shall fight for thee against thine enemies better than a mighty shield and strong spear. 14 An honest man is surety for his neighbour: but he that is impudent will forsake him. 15 Forget not the friendship of thy surety, for he hath given his life for thee. 16 A sinner will overthrow the good estate of his surety: and he that is of an unthankful mind will leave him [in danger] that delivered him.

Suretyship hath undone many of good estate, and slain them as a wave of the sea: mighty men hath it driven from their houses, so that they wandered among strange nations. 19 A wicked man transgressing the commandments of the Lord shall fall into suretyship; and he that undertaketh and followeth other men's business for gain shall fall into suits.

Help thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thyself fall not into the same.

The chief thing for life is water, and bread, and clothing, and a house to cover shame. 2 Better is the life of a poor man in a mean cottage, than delicate fare in another man's house. 3 Be it little or much, hold thee contented. 4 for it is a miserable life to go from house to house: for where thou art a stranger, thou darest not open thy mouth. 2 Thou shalt entertain, and feast, and have no thanks; moreover thou shalt hear bitter words. 3 Come, thou stranger, and furnish a table, and feed me of that thou hast ready. 4 Give place, thou stranger, to an honourable man; my brother cometh to be lodged, and I have need of mine house. These things are grievous to a man of understanding; the upbraiding of house room, and reproaching of the lender.

He that loveth his son causeth him oft to feel the rod, that he may have joy of him in the end. 2 He that chastiseth his son shall have joy in him, and shall rejoice of him among his acquaintance. 3 He that teacheth his son grieveth the enemy; and before his friends he shall rejoice of him. 4 Though his father die, yet he is as though he were not dead; for he hath left one behind him that is like himself. 5 While he lived, he saw and rejoiced in him: and when he died, he was not sorrowful. 6 He left behind him an avenger against his enemies, and one that shall require kindness to his friends.

7 He that maketh too much of too much of his son shall bind up his wounds; and his bowels shall be troubled at every cry. 8 An horse not broken becometh a wild ass: and a child left to himself will be wilful. 9 Cocker thy child, and he shall make thee afraid: play with him, and he will bring thee to heaviness. 10 Laugh not with him, lest thou have sorrow with him, and lest thou grash thy teeth in the end. 11 Give him not liberty in youth. 12 Beat his sides while he is still young; lest becoming stubborn, he disobey thee. 13 Train up thy son, and exhort him in his youth: and overlook not his ignorance. 14 Bow down his neck in his youth.

15 Better is the poor, being sound and strong of constitution, than a rich man that is afflicted in his body. 16 Health and good estate of body are above all gold, and a strong body above infinite wealth. There is no riches above a sound body, and joy above the joy of the heart. 17 Death is better than a bitter life or continual sickness. 18 Delicacies poured upon a mouth shut up are as messes of meat set upon a grave.

What good doeth the offering unto an idol? for neither can it eat nor smell: so is he that is persecuted of the Lord. 2 He seeth with his eyes and grometh that embraceth him and sigheth. 3 Give not over thy mind to heaviness, and afflict not thyself in thine own counsel. 4 The gladness of the heart is the life of man, and the joyfulness of a man prolongeth his days. 5 Love thine own soul, and comfort thy heart, remove sorrow far from thee: for sorrow hath killed many, and there is no profit therein. 6 Envy and wrath shorten the life, and carefulness bringeth age before the time.

I waketh up last of all, as one that gathereth after the grape-gatherers: by the blessing of the Lord I profited, and filled my winepress like a gatherer of grapes. 2 Consider that I laboured not for myself only, but for all them.
that seek learning. 18 Hear me, O ye great men of the people, and hearken with your ears, ye rulers of the congregation. 19 Give not thy son and wife, thy brother and friend, power over thee while thou livest, and give not thy goods to another, lest it repent thee, and thou intreat for the same again. 20 As long as thou livest and hast breath in thee, give not thyself over to any. 21 For better it is that thy children should seek to thee, than that thou shouldst stand to their courtesy. 22 In all thy works keep to thyself the preeminence; leave not a stain in thine honour. 23 At the time when thou shalt end the days, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance. 24 Fodder, a stick, and burdens, are for the ass; and bread, correction, and work, for a servant. 25 If thou set thy servant to labour, thou shalt find rest: but if thou let him go idle, he will seek liberty. 26 A yoke and a collar do bow the neck: so are tortures and torments for an evil servant. 27 Send him to labour, that he be not idle; for idleness teacheth much evil. 28 Set him to work, as is fit for him: if he be not obedient, put him on more heavy fettors.

29 But be not excessive toward any; and without discretion do nothing. 30 If thou have a servant, let him be unto thee as thyself, because thou hast bought him with a price. 31 If thou have a servant, entreat him as a brother: for thou hast need of him, as of thine own soul: if thou entertain him evil, and he run from thee, which way wilt thou go to seek him? 32 The hopes of a man void of understanding are vain and false: and dreams lift up fools. 33 Whoso regardeth dreams is like him that catcheth at a shadow, and followeth after the wind. 34 The vision of dreams is the resemblance of one thing to another, even as the likeness of a face to a face. 35 Of an unclean thing what can be cleansed? and from that thing which is for others, what can be taken? 36 Divinations, and soothsayings, and dreams, are vain: and the heart fancieth, as a woman's heart in travail. 37 If they be not sent from the most High in thy visitation, set not thy heart upon them. 38 For dreams have deceived many, and they have failed that put their trust in them. 39 The law shall be found perfect without lies: and wisdom is perfection to a faithful mouth. 40 A man that hath travelled knoweth many things: and he that hath much experience will declare wisdom. 41 He that hath no experience knoweth little: but he that hath travelled is full of prudence. 42 When I travelled, I saw many things; and I understand more than I can express. 43 I was oftentimes in danger of death: yet I was delivered because of these things.

44 The spirit of those that fear the Lord shall live for evermore: for their hope is in him that saith it shall be kept. 45 Who feareth the Lord, saith not nor fear not be afraid: for he is his hope. 46 Blessed is the soul of him that feareth the Lord: to whom doth he look? and who is his strength? 47 For the eyes of the Lord are upon them that love him, he is their mighty protection and strong stay, a defence from heat, and a cover from the sun at noon, a preservation from stumbling, and an help from falling: 48 He raiseth up the soul, and lightenth the eyes: he giveth health, life, and blessing.
He that sacrificeth of a thing willingly given, his offering is acceptable: and the gift of a cheerful giver is accepted, and accepted of God. 19 The desire of the righteous indignation, and despiseth it: for it is punished. 20 Whoso bringeth an offering of the goods of the poor doeth it willingly; he defraudeth not himself, but extortion: 21 He that taketh away his neighbour's living slayeth him; and he that defraudeth the labourer his hire is a bloodshedder.

When one buildeth, and another pulleth down, what profit hath they then but labour? 23 When one prayeth, and another curseth, whose voice will the Lord hear? 24 He that washeth himself after the touching of a dead body, if he touch it again, what availlieth his washing? 26 So is it with a man that fasteth for his sins, and goeth again, and doeth the same: who will hear his prayer? or what doth his humbling profit him?

He that keepeth the law bringeth offerings enough: he that taketh heed to the commandment offereth a perfect offering. 3 He that requiteth alms sacrificeth fine flour; and he that giveth alms sacrificeth praise. 3 To depart from wickedness is a thing pleasing to the Lord; and to forsake unrighteousness is a propitiation.

Thou shalt not appear empty before the Lord. 6 For all these things are to be done for the commandment. 6 The offering of the righteous maketh the altar fat, and the sweet savour thereof is before the most High. 7 The sacrifice of a just man is acceptable, and the memorial thereof shall never be forgotten. 8 Give the Lord his honour with a good eye, and diminish not the firstfruits of thine hands. 9 In all thy gifts shew a cheerful countenance, and dedicate thy tithes with gladness. 10 Give unto the most High according as he hath enriched thee; and as though thou hast gotten, give with a cheerful eye. 11 For the Lord cometh and will give thee seven times as much. 12 Do not think to corrupt with gifts: for such he will not receive: and trust not unrighteous sacrifices; for the Lord is judge, and with him is no respect of persons. 13 He will not accept any person against a poor man: but will hear the prayer of the oppressed. 14 He will not despise the supplication of the fatherless; nor the widow, when she poureth out her complaint. 15 Do not the tears run down the widow's cheeks? and is not her cry against him that causeth them to fall?

He that serveth the Lord shall be accepted with favour, and his prayer shall reach unto the clouds. 17 The prayer of the upright in the clouds: and till it come, he will not be comforted; and will not depart, till the most High shall behold to judge righteously, and execute judgment. 18 For the Lord will not be slack, neither will the Mighty be patient toward them, till he have smitten in sunder the loins of the unmerciful, and repayed vengeance to the beast: till he be ashamed, and broken the sceptre of the unrighteous: 19 till he have rendered to every man according to his deeds, and to the works of men according to their devices; till he have judged the cause of his people, and made them to rejoice in his mercy. 20 Mercy is seasonable in the time of affliction, as clouds of rain in the time of drought.

He that sacrificeth of a thing willingly given, his offering is acceptable: and the gift of a cheerful giver is accepted, and accepted of God. 19 The desire of the righteous indignation, and despiseth it: for it is punished. 20 Whoso bringeth an offering of the goods of the poor doeth it willingly; he defraudeth not himself, but extortion: 21 He that taketh away his neighbour's living slayeth him; and he that defraudeth the labourer his hire is a bloodshedder.

Thou shalt not appear empty before the Lord. 6 For all these things [are to be done] because of the commandment. 6 The offering of the righteous maketh the altar fat, and the sweet savour thereof is before the most High. 7 The sacrifice of a just man is acceptable, and the memorial thereof shall never be forgotten. 8 Give the Lord his honour with a good eye, and diminish not the firstfruits of thine hands. 9 In all thy gifts shew a cheerful countenance, and dedicate thy tithes with gladness. 10 Give unto the most High according as he hath enriched thee; and as though thou hast gotten, give with a cheerful eye. 11 For the Lord cometh and will give thee seven times as much. 12 Do not think to corrupt with gifts: for such he will not receive: and trust not unrighteous sacrifices; for the Lord is judge, and with him is no respect of persons. 13 He will not accept any person against a poor man: but will hear the prayer of the oppressed. 14 He will not despise the supplication of the fatherless; nor the widow, when she poureth out her complaint. 15 Do not the tears run down the widow's cheeks? and is not her cry against him that causeth them to fall?

He that serveth the Lord shall be accepted with favour, and his prayer shall reach unto the clouds. 17 The prayer of the upright in the clouds: and till it come, he will not be comforted; and will not depart, till the most High shall behold to judge righteously, and execute judgment. 18 For the Lord will not be slack, neither will the Mighty be patient toward them, till he have smitten in sunder the loins of the unmerciful, and repayed vengeance to the beast: till he be ashamed, and broken the sceptre of the unrighteous: 19 till he have rendered to every man according to his deeds, and to the works of men according to their devices; till he have judged the cause of his people, and made them to rejoice in his mercy. 20 Mercy is seasonable in the time of affliction, as clouds of rain in the time of drought.
Have mercy upon us, O Lord God of all, and behold us; 2 and send thy fear upon all the nations that seek not after thee. 3 Lift up thy hand against the strange nations, and let them see thy power. 4 As thou wast sanctified in us before them: so be thou magnified among them before us. 5 And let them know thee, as we have known thee, that there is no God but only thou, O God.

Shew new signs, and make other strange wonders: glorify thy hand and thy right arm, that they may set forth thy wondrous works. 7 Raise up indignation, and pour out wrath: take away the adversary, and destroy the enemy. 8 Make them a little short: remember the covenant, and let them declare thy wondrous works. 9 Let him that escapeth be consumed by the rage of the fire; and let them that oppress the people: 10 Smite in sundre the heads of the rulers of the heathen, that say, There is none other but we. 11 Gather all the tribes of Jacob together.

A cheerful and good heart will have a care of his meat and drink. 2 Watching for riches consumeth the flesh, and the care thereof driveth away sleep. 3 Watching care will not let a man slumber, as a sore disease breaketh sleep. 4 The rich hath great labour in gathering riches together; and when he resteth, he is filled with his deliucies. 5 The poor laboureth in his poor estate; and when he leaveth off, he is still needy. 6 He that loveth gold shall not be justified, and he that followeth corruption shall have enough thereof. 7 Gold hath been the ruin of many, and their destruction was present. 8 It is a stumblingblock unto them that sacrifice unto it, and every fool shall be taken thereby. 9 Blessed is the rich that is found without blemish, and hath not gone after gold. 10 Who is he? and we will call him blessed: for wonderful things hath he done among his people. 11 Who hath been tried thereby, and found perfect? then let him glory. Who might offend, and hath not offended? or done evil, and hath not done it? 12 His goods shall be established, and the congregation shall declare his alms.

If thou sit at a bountiful table, be not greedy upon it, and say not, There is much meat on it. 13 Remember that a wicked eye is an evil thing: and what is created more wicked than an eye? therefore it weepeth upon every occasion. 14 Stretch not thine hand whithersoever it looketh, and thrust it not with him into the dish. 15 Judge of thy neighbour by thyself: and be discreet in every point. 16 Eat, as it becometh a man, those things which are set before thee; and devour not, lest thou be hated. 17 Leave off first for manners’ sake; and be not unsatiable, lest thou offend. 18 When thou sittest among many, reach not thine hand out first of all. 19 A very little is sufficient for a man well nurtured, and he fetcheth not his wind short, and bloweth upon his bed. 20 As it is when they eat of moderate eating: he riseth early, and his head is covered with him: but the pain of watching, and choler, and pangs of the belly, are with an unsatiable man. 21 And if thou hast been forced to eat, arise, go forth, vomit, and thou shalt have rest.

My son, hear me, and despise me not, and at the last thou shalt find as I told thee: in all thy works be quick, so shall there no sickness come unto thee. 19 Whose is liberal of his meat, men shall speak well of him; and the report of his good housekeeping will be believed. 21 But against him that is a niggard of his meat the whole city shall murmur; and the testimonies of his niggardness shall not be doubted of.

20 Shew not thy valiantness in wine; for wine hath destroyed many. 21 The furnace proveth the edge by doping; so doth wine the heart by drunkenness. 22 Wine is as good as life to a man, if it be drunk moderately: what life is then to a man that is without wine? for it was made to make men glad. 23 Wine measurably drunk and in season bringeth gladness of the heart, and cheerfulness of the mind: 24 but wine drunken with excess maketh bitterness of the mind, with brawling and quarrelling. 25 Drunkenness increaseth the rage of a fool till he offend; it diminisheth strength, and maketh wounds work.

Rebuke not thy neighbour at the wine, and despise him not in his mirth: give him no despitful words, and press not upon him with urging him [to drink].

If thou be made the master [of a feast], lift not thyself up, but be among them as one of the rest; take diligent care for them, and so sit down. 22 And when thou hast done all thy office, take thy place, that thou mayest be merry with them, and receive a crown for thy well ordering of the feast. 23 Speak, thou that art the elder, for it becometh thee; but with sober judgment, and hinder not any.

4 Pour not out words where there is a musician, and shew not forth wisdom out of time. 5 A concert of music in a banquet of wine is as a signet of carbuncle set in gold. 6 As a signet of an emerald set in a work of gold, so is the melody of music with pleasant wine.

Speak, young man, if there be need of thee: and yet scarcely when thou art twice asked. 8 Let thy speech be short, comprehending much in few words; be as one that knoweth and yet holdeth his tongue. 9 If thou be among great men, make not thyself equal with them; and when ancient men are in place, use not many words. 10 Before the thunder goeth lightning; and before a shamefaced man shall go fast. 11 Raise up betimes, and be not the last; but get thee home without delay.

12 There take thy pastime, and do what thou wilt: but sin not by proud speech. 13 And for these things bless him that made thee, and hath replenished thee with his good things.

14 When he feareth the Lord he will receive his discipline; and they that seek him early shall find favour. 15 He that seeketh the law shall be filled therewith: but the hypocrite will be offended thereat. 16 They that fear the Lord shall find judgment, and shall kindle justice as a light. 17 A sinful man will not be reproved, but fineth an excuse according to his will. 18 A man of counsel will beconsiderate; but a stupid and proud man is not daunted with fear, even when of himself he is path done without counsel. 19 Do nothing without advice; and when thou hast once done, repent not.

20 Go not in a way wherein thou mayest fall, and stumble not among the stones. 21 Be not confident in a plain way. 22 And beware of thine own children. In every good work trust thy own soul; for this is the keeping of the commandments. 23 He that believeth in the Lord taketh heed to the commandment; and he that trusteth in him shall fare never the worse.

There shall no evil happen unto him that feareth the Lord; but in temptation even again he will deliver him. 2 A wise man hateth not the law; but he that is an hypocrite is as a snare of understanding; and trusteth in the law; and the law is faithful unto him, as an oracle. 3 Prepare what to say, and so thou shalt be heard: and bind up instruction, and then make answer. 4 The heart of the foolish is like a cartwheel; and his thoughts are like a rolling axletree. 5 A stallion horse is as a mocking friend, his neighing under every one that sitteth upon him.

7 Why doth one day excel another, when as all the light of every day in the year is of the sun? 8 By the knowledge of the Lord they were distinguished: and he altered seasons and feasts. 9 Some of them hath he made high days, and hallowed them, and some of them hath he made ordinary days. 10 And all men are from the ground, and Adam was created of earth. 11 In much knowledge the Lord hath divided them, and made their ways diverse. 12 Some of them hath he blessed and exalted, and some of them hath he sanctified, and set near himself; but some of them hath he cursed and brought low, and turned out of their places. 13 As the clay is in the potter’s hand, to fashion it at his pleasure: so man is in the hand of him that made him, to render to them as liketh him best. 14 Good is set against evil, and life against death: so is the godly against the sinner, and the sinner against the godly. 15 So look upon all the works of the most High: and there are reward and two, one against another.

16 Though I was the last to wake up, yet I received their inheritance as from the beginning. 12 O Lord have mercy upon the people that is called by thy name, and upon Israel, whom thou hast named thy firstborn. 13 O be merciful unto Jerusalem, thy holy city, the place of thy rest. 14 Fill Sion with thine unspeakable oracles, and thy people with thy glory. 15 Give thy people unto thy servant, that thou hast possessed from the beginning, and raise up prophets that have been in thy name. 16 Reward them that wait for thee, and let thy prophets be found faithful.

17 O Lord, hear the prayer of thy servants, according to the blessing of Aaron over thy people, that all they which dwell upon the earth may know that thou art the Lord, the eternal God. 18 The belly devoureth all meats, yet is one meat better than another. 19 As the palate tasteth divers kinds of venison: so doth an heart of understanding false speeches. 20 A forward, heart causeth heaviness: but a man of experience will recompense him.

21 A woman will receive every man, yet is one daughter better than another. 22 The beauty of woman, as a countenance, and a man loveth nothing better. 23 If there be kindness, meekness, and comfort, in her tongue, then is not her husband like other men.

24 He that getteth a wife beginneth a possession, a help like unto himself, and a pillar of rest. 25 Where no hedge is, there the possession is spoiled: and he that hath no wife will wander up and down mourning. 26 Who will trust a thief well appointed, that skippeth from city to city? so [who will believe] a man that hath no house, and lodgeth wheresoever the night taketh him?

Every friend saith, I am his friend also: but there is a friend, which is only a friend in name. 2 Is it not so, saith a wise man, and a companion is turned to an enemy? 3 O wicked imagination, whence causeth thou to cover the earth with deceit? 4 There is a companion, which rejoiceth in the prosperity of a friend, but in the time of trouble will be against him. 5 There is a companion, which helpeth his friend for the belly, and taketh up the buckler against the enemy. 6 Forget not thy friend, nor be unprofitable to him in thy riches.

Every counsellor extollieth counsel; but there is some that counselleth for himself. 7 Beware of a counsellor, and know before what need he hath; for he will counsel for himself; lest he cast the lot upon thee, and say unto thee, Thy way is good: and afterward he standeth in the other side, to see what shall befall thee. 8 Consult not with one that suspecteth thee: and hide thy counsel from such as envy thee. 9 Neither consult with a woman touching her of whom she is jealous; neither with a coward in matters of war; nor with a merchant concerning exchange; nor with a buyer of selling; nor with an envious man of thine counsel; nor with an unmerciful man touching kindness; nor with the slothful for any work; nor with an hireling for a year of finishing work; nor with an idle servant of much business: hearten not unto these in any matter of counsel.

But be continually with a godly man, whom thou knowest to keep the commandments of the Lord, whose mind is according to thy mind, and will sorrow with thee, if thou shalt miscarry. 10 And let the counsel of thine own heart stand: for there is no man more faithful unto thee than it; 11 for a man's mind is sometime wont to tell him more than seven watchmen, that sit above in an high tower. 12 And above all this pray to the most High, that he will direct thy way in truth. 13 Let reason before every enterprize, and counsel before every action.

The countenance is a sign of changing of the heart. 14 Four manners of things appear: good and evil, life and death: but the tongue ruleth over them continually. 15 There is one that is wise and teacheth many, and yet is unprofitable to him. 16 There is one that sheweth wisdom in words, and is hated: he shall be destroyed and cut off from all food. 17 For grace is not given him from the Lord; because he is deprived of all wisdom. 18 Another is wise to himself; and the fruits of understanding are commendable in his mouth.

A wise man instructeth his people; and the fruits of his understanding fail not. 19 A wise man shall be filled with blessings, and all they that see him shall be comforted him. 20 The days of the life of man may be numbered; but the days of Israel are innumerable. 21 A wise man shall inherit glory among his people, and his name shall be perpetual.

My son, prove thy soul in thy life, and see what is evil for it, and give not that unto it. 22 For all things are not profitable for all men, neither every soul saveth every meat: 23 Be not insatiable in any dainty thing, nor too greedy upon meats: 24 for excess of meats
31 bringeth sickness, and surfeiting will turn into choler. 32 By surfeiting have many perished; but he that taketh heed protracteth his life.

33 Honour a physician with the honour due unto him for the uses which ye may have of him: for the Lord hath created him. For of the wise High commendations and he shall receive honour of the king. 34 The skill of the physician shall lift up his head: and in the sight of great men he shall be in admiration.

35 The Lord hath created medicines out of the earth; and he that is wise will not abhor them. 36 Was not the water made sweet with wood, that the virtue thereof might be known? And he hath given men skill, that he might be encouraged in his marvellous works. 37 With such doth he heal men, and taketh away their pains. 38 Of such doth the apothecary make a confection; and of his works there is no end; and from him is peace over all the earth.

39 My son, in thy sickness be not negligent: but pray unto the Lord, and he will make thee whole. 40 Leave off from sin, and order thine hands aright, and cleanse thy heart from all wickedness. 41 Give a sweet savour, and a memorial of fine flour; and make a fat offer unto the Lord. 42 Be not added to the number of them that are perished. The physician, for the Lord hath created him: let him not go from thee, for thou hast need of him. 43 There is a time when in their hands there is good success. 44 For they shall also pray unto the Lord, that he would prosper that which they give for ease and remedy to prolong life. 45 He that sinneth before his Maker, let him fall into the hand of the physician.
from city to city? so [who will believe] a man that hath no house, and lodgeth wheresoever the night taketh him?

Every friend saith, I am his friend also; but there is a friend, which is only a friend in name. 2 Is it not strange, if a companion and friend is turned to an enemy? 3 O wicked imagination, whence causeth thou in to cover the earth with deceit? 4 There is a companion, which rejoiceth in the prosperity of a friend, but in the time of trouble will be against him. 5 There is a companion, which helpeth his friend for the belly, and taketh up the buckler against the enemy. 6 Forget not thy friend in thy mind, and be not unmindful of him in thy riches.

7 Every councellor extolleth counsel; but there is some that counselleth for himself. 8 Beware of a counsellor, and know before what need he hath; for he will counsel for himself; lest he cast the lot upon thee, and say unto thee, Thy way is good: and afterward he stand in the other side, to see what shall befall thee. 9 Consult not with one that suspecteth thee: and hide thy counsel from such as envy thee. 10 Neither consult with a woman touching her of whom she is jealous; neither with a coward in matters of war; nor with a merchant concerning exchange; nor with a buyer of selling; nor with an envious man of thankfulness; nor with an unwise man touching sadness; nor with the slothful for any work; nor with an hireling for a year of finishing work; nor with an idle servant of much business: hearken not unto these in any matter of counsel. 11 But be continually with a godly man, whom thou knowest to keep the commandments of the Lord, whose mind is according to thy mind, and will sorrow with thee, if thou shalt miscarry. 12 And let the counsel of thine own heart stand: for there is no man more faithful unto thee than it; 13 for a man's mind is sometime wont to tell him more than seven watchmen, that sit above in an high tower. 14 And above all this pray to the most High, that he will direct thy way in truth. 15 Let reason go before every enterprise, and counsel before every action.

25 My son, prove thy soul in thy life, and see what is evil for it, and give not that unto it. 26 For all things are not profitable for all men, neither is it enough to be pure. 27 Be not insatiable in any dainty thing, nor too greedy upon meats; 28 for excess of meats
31 Bringeth sickness, and surfeiting will turn into cholera. 32 By surfeiting have many perished; but he that taketh heed of his life shall prolong it.

Honour a physician with the honour due unto him for the uses which ye may have of him: for the Lord hath created him. 2 For of the most High cometh healing, and he shall receive honour of the king. 3 The skill of the physician shall lift up his head; and in the sight of great men he shall be in admiration. 4 The Lord hath created medicines out of the earth; and he that is wise will not abhor them.

Was not the water made sweet with wood, that the virtue thereof might be known? 6 And he hath given men skill, that he might be honoured in his marvellous works. 7 With such doth he heal [men,] and taketh away their pains.

Of such doth the apothecary make a confection; and of his works is no end; and from him is peace over all the earth.

8 My son, in thy sickness be not negligent: but pray unto the Lord, and he will make thee whole. 9 Leave off from sin, and order thine hands aright, and cleanse thy heart from all wickedness. 10 Give a sweet savour, and a memorial of fine flour; and make a fat offering, as not being.

11 Then give place to the physician, for the Lord hath created him; let him not go from thee, for thou hast need of him. 12 There is a time when in their hands there is good success. 13 For they shall also pray unto the Lord, that he would prosper that which they give for ease and remedy to prolong life. 14 He that sinneth before his Maker, let him fall into the hand of the physician.

15 My son, let tears fall down over the dead, and begin to lament, as if thou hast suffered great harm thyself; and then cover his body according to the custom, and neglect not his burial. 16 Weep bitterly, and make great moan, and use lamentation, as he is worthy, and that a day or two, lest thou be evil spoken of: and then comfort thyself for thy heaviness; 17 for of heaviness cometh death, and the heaviness of the heart breaketh strength. 18 In affliction also sorrow remaineth: and the life of the poor is the end of the heart. 19 Take no care of the heaviness of the heart: drive it away, and remember the last end.

20 Forget him not, for there is no turning again: thou shalt not do him good, but hurt thyself. 21 Remember his judgment: for thine also shall be so; yesterday for me, and to day for thee. 22 When the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest; and he cometh for him when his spirit is departed from him.

23 The wisdom of a learned man cometh by opportunity of leisure: and he that hath little business shall become wise. 24 How can he get wisdom that holdeth the plough, and that glorifieth in the goad, that driveth oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and whose talk is of bullocks? 25 He giveth his mind to make furrows; and is diligent to give the kite fodder. 26 So every carpenter and workmaster, that laboureth night and day: and the lad and the young man, and the handmaid, are diligent to make great variety, and give themselves to counterfeit imagery, and watch to finish a work.
waters doth return into the sea. 12 All bribery and injustice shall be blotted out; but true dealing shall endure for ever. 13 The goods of the unjust shall be dried up like a river, and shall vanish with noise, like a great thunder in rain.

14 While he openeth his hand he shall rejoice: so shall transgressors come to nought. 15 The children of the ungodly shall not bring forth many branches: but are as unclean roots upon a hard rock. 16 The weed growing upon every water and bank of a river shall be pulled up before all grass.

17 Bountifulness is as a most fruitful garden, and mercifulness endureth for ever. 18 To labour, and to be content with that a man hath, is a sweet life; but that he findeth a treasure is above them both. 19 Children and the building of a city continue a man's name: but a blameless wife is counted above them both. 20 Wine and music rejoice the heart: but the love of wisdom is above them both.

21 The pipe and the psalterie make sweet melody: but a pleasant tongue is above them both. 22 Thine eye desireth favour and beauty: but more than both the first sprouting of corn.

23 A friend and companion never meet amiss: but above both is a wife with her husband. 24 Brethren help one another at times of trouble: but alms shall deliver more than them both. 25 Gold and silver make the foot stand sure: but counsel is esteemed above them both. 26 Riches and strength lift up the heart: but the fear of the Lord is above them both: there is no want in the fear of the Lord, and it needeth not to seek help. 27 The fear of the Lord is a fruitful garden, and covereth him above all glory.

28 My son, lead not a beggar's life; for better it is to die than to beg. 29 The life of him that dependeth on another man's table is not to be counted for a life; for he polluteth himself with other men's meat: but a wise man well nurtured will beware thereof.

Begging is sweet in the belly of the blameless: but in his belly there shall burn a fire.

O death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liveth at rest in his possession, unto the man that hath nothing to vex him, and that hath prosperity in all things: yea, unto him that is yet able to receive meat! 2 O death, acceptable is thy sentence unto the needy, and unto him whose strength faileth, that is now in the last age, and is vexed with all things, and to him that despaireth, and hath lost patience! 3 Fear not the sentence of death, remember them that have been before thee, and that come after; for this is the sentence of the Lord over all flesh. 4 And why art thou against the pleasure of the most High? For there is no inquisition in the grave, whether thou have lived ten, or an hundred, or a thousand years.

5 The children of sinners are abominable children, and they that are conversant in the dwelling of the ungodly. 6 The inheritance of sinners' children shall perish, and from their posterity shall be a perpetual reproach. 7 The children will be the reproach of an ungodly father, because they will be reproached for his sake.

8 Who be unto you, ungodly men, which have forsaken the law of the most high God! For if ye increase, it shall be to your destruction: 9 and if ye be born, ye shall be born to a curse: and if ye die, a curse shall be your portion.

The words of Ecclesiastes XL. 12—XL. 9.

110 ΣΟΦΙΑ ΣΕΙΡΑΧ.
10 Thus says the earth: to the king, to the king.
11 All that are of the earth shall turn to earth again: so the ungodly shall go to a curse to destruction. 12 The mourning of men is about their bodies: but an ill name of sinners shall be blotted out. 13 Have regard to thy name; for that shall continue with thee above a tree; and the great treasures of gold. 14 A good life bath but few days; but a good name endureth for ever.

15 My children, keep discipline in peace: for wisdom that is hid, and a treasure that is not seen, what profit is in them both? 16 A man that hideth his foolishness is better than a man that hideth his wisdom. 17 Therefore be ashamed of whoredom before father and mother: and of a lie before a prince and a mighty man; 18 of an offence before a judge and ruler; of iniquity before a congregation and people; of unjust dealing before thy partner and friend; 19 and of theft in regard of the place where thou sojournest, and in regard of the truth of God and his covenant; and to lean with thine elbow upon the meat; and of scorning to give and take; 20 and of silence before them that salute thee; and to look upon an harlot; and to turn away thy face from thine kinsman; or to take away a portion or a gift; or to gaze upon another man's wife; 21 or to be overbusy with his maid, and come not near her bed; or of upbraiding speeches before friends; and after thou hast given, upbraid not.

Or of iterating and speaking again that which thou hast heard; and of revealing secrets; so shall thou be truly ashamed, and find favour before all men. Of these things be not thou ashamed, and accept no person to sin thereby: 6 of the law of the most High, and his covenant; and of judgment to justify the ungodly; 7 of reckoning with thy partners and travellers; or of the gift of the heritage of friends; 8 of exactness of balance and weights; or of getting much or little; 9 and of double-dealing; or of much correction of children; and to make the side of an evil servant to bleed.

9 Sure keeping is good, where an evil wife is; and locked up, where many hands are. 10 Deliver all things in number and weight; and put all in writing that thou givest out, or receivest in.

11 Be not ashamed to inform the unwise and foolish, and the extreme aged that contendeth with those that are young: thus shalt thou be truly learned, and approved of all men living.

12 A daughter is a wakeful care to a father; and the care for her taketh away sleep: when she is young, lest she pique away the flower of her age; and being married, lest she should be hated: 13 In her virginity, lest she should be defiled and gotten with child in her father's house; and having an husband, lest she should misbehave herself; and when she is married, lest she should be barren.

14 Keep a sure watch over a shameless daughter. 15 Lest she make thee a laughingstock to thine enemies, and a byword in the city, and a reproach among the people, and make thee ashamed before the multitude. 16 Behold not every woman's beauty, and sit not in the midst of women. 17 For from garments cometh a mohr, and from women wickedness. Better is the shrewdness of a man than a courteous woman, a woman, I say, which bringeth shame and reproach.

15 I will now remember the works of the Lord, and declare the things that I have seen:
In the words of the Lord are his works. 16 The sun that giveth light looketh upon all things, and the work thereof is full of the glory of the Lord.

17 The Lord hath not given power to the saints to declare all his marvellous works, which the Almighty Lord firmly settled, that whosoever is might be established for his glory. 18 He hideth all in the deep, the heart, and considereth their crafty devices:
for the Lord knoweth all that can be known, and he beholdeth the signs of the world, declaring the things that are past, and for to come, and revealing the steps of hidden things.

20 No thought escapeth him, neither any word is hidden from him.

21 He hath garnished the excellent works of his wisdom, and he is from everlasting to everlasting: unto him may nothing be added, neither can he be diminished, and he hath no need of any counsellor. 22 Oh how desirable are all his works! and that a man may see even to a spark. 23 All these things live and remain for evermore; and at his commandment, the works are done. 24 All things are double one against another; and he hath made nothing imperfect. 25 One thing establisheth the good of another; and who shall be filled with beholding his glory?

The pride of the height, the clear firmament, the beauty of heaven, with his glorious show;
the sun when it appeareth, declaring at his rising a marvellous instrument, the works of the most High: at noon it pargeth the country, and who can abide the burning heat thereof? A man blowing a furnace is in works of heat, but the sun burneth the mountains three times more; breathing out fiery vapours, and sending forth bright beams, it dimmeth the eyes. Great is the Lord that maketh it to stand; and at his commandment it rummeth hastily. He made the moon also to serve in her season for a declaration of times, and a sign of the world. From the moon is the sign of feasts, a light that desecrateth in her perfection. The month is called after her name, increasing wonderfully in her changing, being an instrument of the armies above, shining in the firmament of heaven; the beauty of heaven, the glory of the stars, an ornament giving light in the highest places of the Lord. At the commandment of the Holy One they will stand in their order, and never faint in their watches. Look upon the rainbow, and praise him that made it;
very beautiful it is in the brightness thereof.
If it compasseth the heaven about with a glorious circle, and the hands of the most High have bended it. By his commandment he maketh the snow to fall space, and sendeth swiftly the lightnings of his judgment.
Through this the treasures are opened: and clouds fly forth as fowls. By his great power he maketh the clouds firm, and the hailstones are broken small.

At his sight the mountains are shaken, and at his will the south wind bloweth.
The noise of the thunder maketh the earth to tremble: so doth the northern storm and the whirlwind: as birds flying he scattereth the 18 The seed may perish,

19 But the word of the Lord standeth for ever.

20 And as the heaven is high above the earth,

21 So great a scope have they that fear the Lord.

22 And as the rain descendeth from heaven,

23 And as the snow falleth upon the earth,

24 So the fear of the Lord is upon them that fear his name.

25 And his glory is upon his people.

26 For the Lord hath chosen Jacob for himself;

27 And Israel for his peculiar portion.

28 The Lord hath found his sanctuary,

29 The Lord is good to all his works,

30 The Lord is good to all his works.

31 The Lord is good to all his works.

32 The Lord is good to all his works.
in the time of wrath he was taken in exchange [for the world]; therefore was he left as a remnant unto the earth, when the flood came. 18 An everlasting covenant was made with him, that all flesh shall perish no more by the flood.

19 Abraham was a great father of many people; in glory was there none like unto him; 20 who kept the law of the Most High, and was in covenant with him; he established the covenant in his flesh; and when he was proved, he was found faithful. 21 Therefore he assured him by an oath, that he would bless the nations in his seed, and that he would multiply him as the dust of the earth, and exalt his seed as the stars, and cause them to inherit from sea to sea, and from the river unto the utmost part of the land.

22 With Isaac did he establish likewise, for Abraham his father’s sake, the blessing of all men, and the covenant, 23 and made it rest upon the head of Jacob. He acknowledged him in his blessing, and gave him an heritage, and divided his portions; among the twelve tribes did he part them. 24 And he brought out of him a merciful man, which found favour in the sight of all flesh; even Moses, beloved of God and men, whose memorial is blessed.

2 He sanctified him in his faithfulness and meekness, and chose him out of all men. He made him to hear his voice, and brought him into the dark cloud, and gave him commandments before his face, even the law of life and knowledge, that he might teach Jacob his covenants, and Israel his judgments.

6 He exalted Aaron, an holy man like unto him, even his brother, of the tribe of Levi. 7 An everlasting covenant he made with him, and gave him the priesthood among the people; he beautified him with cornely ornaments, and cloathed him with a robe of glory. 8 He put upon him perfect glory; and strengthened him with rich garments, with breeches, with a long robe, and the ephod. 9 And he compassed him with pomegranates, and with many golden bells round about, that as he went there might be a sound, and a noise made that might be heard in the temple for a memorial to the children of his people.

10 With a holy garment with gold, and blue silk, and purple, the work of the embroiderer, with a breastplate of judgment, with the revealers of truth; 11 with twisted scarlet, the work of the cunning workman, with precious stones graven like seals, and set in gold, the work of the jeweller, with a writing engraved for a memorial to the children of his people.

12 He set a crown of gold upon the mitre, wherein was engraven Holiness, an ornament of honour, a costly work, the desires of the eyes, goodly and beautiful.

13 Before him there were none such, neither did ever any stranger put them on, but only his children and his children’s children perpetually. 14 Their sacrifices shall be wholly consumed every day twice continually.

with holy oil; this was appointed unto him by an everlasting covenant, and to his seed, so long as the heavens should remain, that they should minister unto him, and execute the office of the priesthood, and bless the people in his name.

16 He chose him out of all men living to offer sacrifices to the Lord, incense, and a sweet savour, for a memorial, to make reconciliation for his nation. He gave unto him his commandments, and authority in the statutes of judgments, that he should teach Jacob the testimonies, and inform Israel in his laws.

17 Strangers conspired together against him, and maligned him in the wilderness, even the men that were of Dathan's and Abiron's side, and the congregation of Core, with fury and wrath.

18 This the Lord saw, and it displeased him, and in his wrathful indignation were they consumed: he did wonders upon them, to consume them with the fiery flame. But he made Aaron more honourable, and gave him an heritage, and divided unto him the firstfruits of the increase of the earth especially prepared head by head, and an abundance: for they eat of the sacrifices of the Lord, which he gave unto him and his seed. Howbeit in the land of the people he had no inheritance, neither had he any portion among the people; for the Lord himself is his portion and inheritance.

The third in glory is Phineas, the son of Eleazar, because he did zeal in the fear of the Lord, and stood up with good courage of heart when the people were turned back, and made reconciliation for Israel. Therefore was there a covenant of peace made with him, that he should be the chief of the sanctuary and of his people, and that he and his posterity should have the dignity of the priesthood for ever: according to the covenant made with David son of Jesse, of the tribe of Juda, that the inheritance of the king should be to his posterity alone: so the inheritance of Aaron should also be unto his seed. God give you wisdom in your heart to judge his people in righteousness, that their good things be not abolished, and that their glory may endure for ever.

Jesus the son of Nave was valiant in the wars, and was of Moses in prophesies, who according to his name was made great for the saving of the elect of God, and taking vengeance of the enemies that rose up against them, that he might set Israel in their inheritance. How great glory got he, when he did lift up his hands, and stretched out his sword against the cities! Who before him has so stood? For the Lord himself brought his enemies over to him. Did not the sun go back by his means? and was not one day as long as two? He called upon the most high Lord, when the enemies pressed upon him on every side; and the great Lord heard him. And with hailstones of mighty power he made the battle to fall, violently upon the nations, and by the blood that he destroyed them that resisted, that the nations might know all their strength, because he fought in the sight of the Lord, and he followed the Mighty One.

In the time of Moses also he did a work of mercy, he and Caleb the son of Jephunne, in that they withstood the enemy, and withheld the people from sin, and appeased the wicked murmuring. And of six hundred thousand people on foot, they two alone were preserved to bring them into the heritage, even unto the land that floweth with milk and honey.

9 The Lord gave strength also unto Caleb, which remained with him unto his old age; so that he entered upon the high places of the land, and his seed obtained it for an heritage: for that Caleb the son of Hezron lived 60 years after the death of Caleb, the son of Hezron, and went up out of the land of Canaan; and he was even 85 years old when he died, and was gathered unto his people.

10 And concerning the judges, every one by name, whose heart was not whoring, nor departed from the Lord, let their memory be blessed. 12 Let their bones flourish out of their place, and let the name of them that were honoured be continued upon their children.

13 Samuel, the prophet of the Lord, beloved of his Lord, established a kingdom, and anointed princes over his people. 14 By the law of the Lord he judged the congregation, and the Lord had respect unto Jacob. 15 By his faithfulness he was found a true prophet, and by his word he was known to be faithful in vision. 16 He called upon the mighty Lord, when his enemies pressed upon him on every side, when he offered the sucking lamb. 17 And the Lord thundered in the heavens, and with a great noise made his voice to be heard. 18 And he destroyed the rulers of the Tyrians, and all the princes of the Philistines.

19 And before his long sleep he made protestation in the sight of the Lord and his anointed, I have not taken any man's goods, so much as a shoe: and no man did accuse him. 20 And after his death he prophesied, and showed the king his end, and lifted up his voice from the earth in prophecy, to blot out the wickedness of the people.

And after him rose up Nathan to prophesy in the time of David.

2 As is the fat taken away from the peace offering, so was David chosen out of the children of Israel. 3 He played with lions as with kids, and with bears as with lambs. 4 Slewed he not a giant, when he was yet but young? and did he not take away reproach from the people, when he lifted up his hand with the stone in the sling, and beat down the boasting of Goliath? 5 for he called upon the most high Lord; and he gave him strength in his right hand to slay that mighty warrior, and set up the horn of his people.

6 So the people honoured him with ten thousands, and praised him in the blessings of the Lord, in that he gave him a crown of glory.

7 For he destroyed the enemies on every side, and brought to nought the Philistines his adversaries, and brake their horn in sunder unto this day. 8 In all his works he praised the Holy One most high with words of glory; with his whole heart he sang songs, and loved him that made him. 9 He set singers before him in the temple, that by their voices they might make sweet melody, and daily sing praises in their songs. 10 He beautified their feasts, and set in order the solemn times until the end, that they might praise his holy name, and that the temple might sound from morning.

11 The Lord took away his sins, and exalted his horn for ever: he gave him a covenant of kings, and a throne of glory in Israel. 12 After him rose up a wise son, and for his sake he dwelt at large 13 Solomon reigned in a peaceable time, and was honoured; for God made all quiet round about him, that he might build an house in his name, and prepare his sanctuary for ever. 14 How wise wast thou in thy youth, and, as a flood, filled with understanding! 15 Thy soul covered the whole earth, and thou filledst it with dark parables.

16 Thy name went far unto the islands; and for thy peace thou wast beloved. 17 The countries marvelled at thee for thy songs, and proverbs, and parables, which thou hadst from the name of the Lord God, which is called the Lord God of Israel, thou didst gather gold as tin, and didst multiply silver as lead. 18 Thou didst bow thy loins unto women, and by thy body thou wast brought into subjection. 19 Thou didst stain thy honour, and pollute thy seed: so that thou broughtest wrath upon thy children, and wast grieved for thy folly. 20 So the kingdom was divided, and out of Ephraim ruled a rebellious kingdom.

21 But the Lord will never leave off his mercy, neither shall any of his works perish, neither will he abolish the posterity of his elect, and the seed of him that loveth him will not take away: wherefore he gave a remnant unto Jacob, and out of him a root unto David.

22 Thus rested Solomon with his fathers, and of his seed he left behind him Roboam, even the foolishness of the people, and one that had no understanding, who turned from the ways of the Lord, which he commanded his fathers. Then were there also Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin, and shedded Ephraim the way of sin; and their sins were multiplied exceedingly, that they were driven out of the land. 23 For they sought out all wickedness, and the vengeance came upon them. Then stood up Elias the prophet as fire, and his word burned like a lamp. 24 He brought a sore famine upon them, and by his zeal he diminished their number. 25 By the word of the Lord he shut up the heaven, and also three times brought down fire. 26 O Elias, how wast thou honoured in thy wondrous deeds! and who may glory like unto thee! 27 Who didst raise up a dead man from death, and his soul from the place of the dead, by the word of the most High: 28 who broughtest kings to destruction, and slewst them; yet hast thou been put by fire; 29 who heardest the rebuke of the Lord in Simi, and in Horeb the judgment of vengeance: 30 who anointedst kings to take revenge, and prophets to succeed after him: 31 who wast taken up in a whirlwind of fire, and in a chariot of fiery horses: 32 who wast ordained for reproofs in their times, to pacify the wrath of the Lord’s judgment, before it brake forth into fury, and to turn the heart of the father unto the son, and to restore the tribes of Jacob. 33 Blessed are they that saw thee, and slept in love; for we shall surely live.

34 Elias it was, who was covered with a whirlwind; and Eliseus was filled with his spirit: whilst he lived, he was not moved with the presence of any prince, neither could any bring him into subjection. 35 No word could overcome him; and after his death his body prophesied. 36 He did wonders in his life, and at his death were his works marvellous.
spoiled and carried out of their land, and were scattered through all the earth: yet there remained a small people, and a ruler in the house of David: of whom some did that which was pleasing to God, and some multiplied sins.

Ezekias fortified his city, and brought in water into the midst thereof: he digged the hard rock with iron, and made wells for waters. In his days Rezin king of Damascus came up, and Rabsaces, and lifted up his hand against Sion, and boasted proudly. Then trembled their hearts and hands, and they were in pain, as women in travail.

But they called upon the Lord who is merciful, and stretched out their hands toward him: and immediately the Holy One heard them out of heaven, and delivered them by the ministry of Essay. He smote the host of the Assyrians, and his angel destroyed them. For Ezekias had done the thing that pleased the Lord, and was strong in the ways of David his father, as Essay the prophet, who was great and faithful in his vision, had commanded him. In his time the sun went backward, and he lengthened the king's life. He saw by an excellent light that should come to pass at the last, and he comforted them that mourned in Sion. He shewed what should come to pass for ever, and secret things or ever they came.

The remembrance of Josias is like the composition of the perfume that is made by the art of the apothecary: it is sweet as honey in all mouthes, and as music at a banquet of wine. He behaved himself uprightly in the conversion of the people, and took away the abominations of iniquity. He directed his heart unto the Lord, and in the time of the ungodly he established the worship of God. All, except David and Ezekias and Josias, were defective: for they forsook the law of the most High, even the kings of Juda failed; for they gave their power unto others, and their glory to a strange nation.

They burnt the chosen city of the sanctuary, and made the streets desolate, according to the prophecy of Jeremias. For they entertained no prophet, sanctified in his mother's womb, that he might root out, and afflict, and destroy; and that he might build up also, and plant. It was Ezekiel who saw the glorious vision, which was shewed him upon the chariot of the cherubim. For he made mention of the enemies under the figure of the rain, and directed them that went right. And of the twelve prophets let the memorial be blessed, and let their bones flourish again out of their place: for they comforted Jacob, and delivered them by assured hope. How shall we magnify Zorobabel? he was even as a signet on the right hand:

So was Jesus the son of Josecud: who in their time builded the house, and set up an holy temple to the Lord, which was prepared for everlasting glory. And among the elect was Neemias, whose renown is great, who raised up for us the walls that were fallen, and set up the gates and the bars, and raised up our ruins again. But upon the earth was no man created like Enoch: for he was taken from the earth. Neither was there a man born like unto Joseph, a governor of his brethren, a stay of the people, whose bones were regarded of the Lord. Sem and Seth were in great honour among men, and so was Adam above every living thing in the creation.
Simon the high priest, the son of Onias, who in his life repaired the house again, and in his days fortified the temple: and by him was built from the foundation the double height, the high fortress of the wall about the temple: in his days the cistern to receive water, being in compass as the sea, was covered with plates of brass: that it should not fall, and fortified the city against besieging: how he was honoured in the midst of the people in his coming out of the sanctuary! He was as the morning star in the midst of a cloud, and as the moon at the full: as the sun shining upon the temple of the most High, and as the rainbow giving light in the bright clouds; and as the flower of roses in the spring of the year, as lilies by the rivers of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tree in the time of summer: as fire and incense in the censer, and as a vessel of beaten gold set with all manner of precious stones: and as a fair olive tree budding forth fruit, and as an express tree which growth up to the clouds.

When he went upon the roof of the temple, he was clothed with the perfection of glory, when he went up to the holy altar, he made the garment of holiness honourable. When he took the portions out of the priests' hands, he himself stood by the hearth of the altar, compassed with his brethren round about, as a young cedar in Libanus; and as palm trees compassed they him round about. So were all the sons of Aaron in their glory, and the obligations of the Lord in their hands, before all the congregation of Israel. And finishing the service at the altar, that he might aborn the offering of the most high Almighty, he stretched out his hand to the cup, and poured of the blood of the grape, he poured out at the foot of the altar a sweet-smelling savour unto the most high King of all.

Then shouted the sons of Aaron, and sounded the silver trumpets, and made a great noise to be heard, for a remembrance before the most High. Then all the people together hasted, and fell down to the earth upon their faces to worship their Lord and Almighty, the most High. And the angels also sang praises with their voices, with great variety of sounds there was made sweet melody. And the people besought the Lord, the most High, by prayer before him that is merciful, till the solemnity of the Lord was ended, and they had finished his service.

Then he went down, and lifted up his hands over the whole congregation of the children of Israel, to give the blessing of the Lord with his lips, and to rejoice in his name. And they bowed themselves down to worship the second time, that they might receive a blessing from the most High. Now therefore bless ye the God of all, which only doeth wondrous things every where, which exalteth our days from the womb and dealeth with us according to his mercy. He grant us joyfulness of heart, and that peace may be in our days in Israel for ever: that he would confirm his mercy with us, and deliver us at his time!

There be two manner of nations which my heart abhorreth, and the third is no nation: they that sit upon the mountain of Samaria, and they that dwell among the Philistines, and that foolish people that dwell in Sichem.

Jesus the son of Sirach of Jerusalem hath written in this book the instruction of understanding and knowledge, who out of his heart poured forth wisdom. 23 Blessed is he that shall be exercised in these things; and he that layeth them up in his heart shall become wise. 24 For if he do them, he shall be strong to all things: for the light of the Lord is his path.

I will thank thee, O Lord and King, and praise thee, O God my Saviour: I do give praise unto thy name: 2 for thou art my defender and helper, and hast preserved my body from destruction, and from the snare of the slanderous tongue, and from the lips that forger lies, and hast been mine helper against mine adversaries; and hast inclined thine ear, according to the multitude of thy loving-kindness and greatness of thy name, from the teeth of them that were ready to devour me, and out of the hands of such as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions which I had; 4 from the chocking of fire on every side, and from the midst of the fire which I kindled not; 5 from the depth of the belly of hell, from an unclean tongue, and from lying words.

By an accusation to the king from an unrighteous tongue my soul drew near unto death, my life was near to the hell beneath. 7 They compassed me on every side, and there was no man to help me: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none. 8 Then thought I upon thy mercy, O Lord, and upon thy acts of old, how thou deliverest such as wait for thee, and savest them out of the hands of the enemies. 9 Then lifted I up my supplication from the earth, and prayed for deliverance from death. 10 I called upon the Lord, the Father of my Lord, that he would not leave me in the days of my trouble, and in the time of the proud, when there was no help. 11 I will praise thy name continually, and will sing praise with thanksgiving; and so my prayer was heard: 12 for thou savedst me from destruction, and deliveredst me from the evil time: therefore will I give thanks, and praise thee, and bless thy name, O Lord.

When I was yet young, or ever I went abroad, I desired wisdom openly in my prayer. 14 I prayed for her before the temple, and will seek her out even to the end. 15 Even from the flower till the grape was ripe hath my heart delighted in her: my foot went the right way, from my youth up sought I after her. 16 I bowed down mine ear a little, and received her, and gat much learning. 17 I profited therein, therefore will I ascribe the glory unto him that giveth me wisdom. 18 For I purpos ed to do after her, and earnestly I followed that which is good; so shall I not be confounded.

My soul hath wrestled with her, and in my doings I was exact: I stretched forth my hands to the heaven above, and bewailed my ignorance of her. 20 I directed my soul unto her, and I found her in pureness: I have had my heart joined with her from the beginning, therefore shall I not be forsaken. 21 My heart was troubled in seeking her: therefore have I gotten a good possession. 22 The Lord hath given me a tongue for my reward, and I will praise him therewith.

Draw near unto me, ye unlearned, and dwell in the house of learning. 24 Wherefore are ye slow, and what say ye of these things, seeing your souls are very thirsty? 25 I opened and these are the words of the book, which Baruch the son of Nerias, the son of Maasias, the son of Sedecias, the son of Asadias, the son of Chelcias, wrote in Babylon, 2 in the fifth year, and in the seventh day of the month, what time as the Chaldeans took Jerusalem, and burnt it with fire.

3 And Baruch did read the words of this book in the hearing of Jeconias, the son of Joachim, king of Juda, and in the ears of all the people that came to hear the book, 4 and in the hearing of the nobles, and of the king's sons, and in the hearing of the elders, and of all the people, from the lowest unto the highest, even of all them that dwelt at Babylon by the river Sud. 5 Whereupon they wept, fasted, and prayed before the Lord.

7 They made also a collection of money according to every man's power: 6 and they sent it to Jerusalem unto Joachim the high priest, the son of Chelcias, son of Salman, and to the priests, and to all the people which were found with him at Jerusalem, 8 at the same time when he received the vessels of the house of the Lord, that were carried out of the temple, to return them into the land of Juda, the tenth day of the month Sivan, namely, silver vessels, which Sedecias the son of Josias king of Juda had made, 9 after that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had carried away Jeconias, and the princes, and the captives, and mighty men, and the people of the land, from Jerusalem, and brought them unto Babylon.

10 And they said, Behold, we have sent you money to buy you burnt offerings, and sin offerings, and incense, and prepare ye manna, and offer upon the altar of the Lord our God; 11 and pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and for the life of Baltasar his son, that their days may be upon earth as Pray for us also unto the Lord our God, for we have sinned against the Lord our God, and unto this day the fury of the Lord and his wrath is not turned from us. And ye shall read this book which we have sent unto you, to make confession in the house of the Lord, upon the feasts and solemn days.

And ye shall say, To the Lord our God belongeth righteousness, but unto us the confusion of faces, as it is come to pass this day, unto them of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, 18 and to our kings, and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers: 19 for we have sinned before the Lord, and disobeied him, and have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in the commandments that he gave us openly: 20 since the day that the Lord brought our forefathers out of the land of Egypt, unto this present day, we have been disobedient unto the Lord our God, and we have been negligent in not hearing his voice.

Wherefore the evils cleaved unto us, and the curse, which the Lord appointed by Moses his servant at the time that he brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to give us a land that floweth with milk and honey, like as it is to see this day: 21 Nevertheless we have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, according unto all the words of the prophets, whom he sent unto us: 22 but every man followed the imagination of his own wicked heart, to serve strange gods, and to do evil in the sight of the Lord our God.

Therefore the Lord hath made good his word, which he pronounced against us, and against our judges that judged Israel, and against our kings, and against our princes, and against the men of Israel and Juda, 2 to bring upon us great plagues, such as never happened under the whole heaven, as it came to pass in Jerusalem, according to the things that were written in the law of Moses: 3 that a man should eat the flesh of his own son, and the flesh of his own daughter. Moreover he hath delivered them to be in subjection to all the kingdoms that are round about us, to be as a reproach and desolation among all the people round about, where the Lord hath scattered them.

Thus we were cast down, and not exalted, because we have sinned against the Lord our God, and have not been obedient unto his voice.

To the Lord our God appertaineth righteousness: but unto us and to our fathers open shame, as appeareth this day. 7 For all these plagues are come upon us, which the Lord hath pronounced against us. 8 Yet have we not prayed before the Lord, that we might turn every one from the imaginations of his wicked heart.

Wherefore the Lord watched over us for evil, and the Lord hath brought it upon us: for the Lord is righteous in all his works which he hath commanded us. 10 Yet we have not very great multitude shall be turned into a small number among the nations, where I will scatter them.

And I will bring them again into the land which I promised with an oath unto their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they shall be lords of it: and I will increase them, and they shall not be diminished. And I will make an everlasting covenant with them to be their God, and they shall be my people: and I will no more drive my people of Israel out of the land that I have given them.

O Lord Almighty, God of Israel, the soul in anguish, the troubled spirit, crieth unto thee. Hear, O Lord, and have mercy; for thou art merciful: and have pity upon us, because we have sinned before thee. For thou artend for ever, and we perish utterly.

O Lord Almighty, thou God of Israel, hear now the prayers of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which have sinned before thee, and not hearkened unto the voice of thee their God: for the which cause these plagues cleave unto us. Remember not the iniquities of our forefathers: but think upon thy power and thy name now at this time. For thou art the Lord our God, and thee, O Lord, will we praise.

And for this cause thou hast put thy fear in our hearts, to the intent that we should call upon thy name, and praise thee in our captivity: for we have called to mind all the iniquity of our forefathers, that sinned before thee.

Behold, we are yet this day in our captivity, where thou hast scattered us, for a reproach and a curse, and to be subject to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which departed from the Lord our God.

Hear, Israel, the commandments of life: give ear to understand wisdom. How happeneth it, Israel, that thou art in thine enemies' land, that thou art waxen old in a strange country, that thou art defiled with the dead, that thou art counted with them that go down into the grave? Thou hast forsaken the fountain of wisdom. For if thou hadst walked in the way of God, thou shouldest have dwelled in peace for ever.

Learn where is wisdom, where is strength, where is understanding; that thou mayest know also where is length of days, and life, where is the light of the eyes, and peace.

Who hath found out her place? or who hath cometh into her treasures?

Where are the princes of the heathen, and such as ruled the beasts upon the earth? they that had their pastime with the fowls of the air, and they that hoarded up silver and gold, wherein men trust, and made no end of their getting? For they that 19 and wondrous things wrought in silver, and were so careful, and whose works are unsearchable, they are vanished and gone down to the grave, and others are come up in their stead.

20 Young men have seen light, and dwelt upon the earth; but the way of knowledge have they not known, nor understood the paths thereof, nor laid hold of it; their children were far off from that way. It hath not been heard of in Channah, neither hath it been seen in Themam.

21 The Agarenes that seek wisdom upon earth, the merchants of Meran and of Themam, the authors of fables, and searchers out of understanding; none of these have known the way of wisdom, or remembered her paths.

22 O Israel, how great is the house of God! and how large is the place of his possession! Great, and hath none end; high, and unmeasurable. There were the giants famous from the beginning, that were of so great stature, and so expert in war. Those did not the Lord choose; neither gave he the way of knowledge unto them: but they were destroyed, because they had no wisdom, and perished through their own foolishness.

23 Who hath gone up into heaven, and taken her, and brought her down from the clouds? Who hath gone over the sea, and found her, and will bring her for pure gold? No man knoweth her way, nor thinketh of her path.

24 But he that knoweth all things knoweth her, and hath found her out with his understanding: he that prepared the earth for evermore hath filled it with fourfooted beasts: he that senteth forth light, and it goeth, calleth it again, and it obeyeth him with fear. The stars shined in their watches, and rejoiced: when he calleth them, they say, Here be we; and so with cheerfulness they shewed light unto him that made them.

25 This is our God, and there shall none other be accounted of in comparison of him. He hath found out all the way of knowledge, and hath given it unto Jacob his servant, and to Israel his beloved. Afterward did he shew himself upon earth, and conversed with men.

This is the book of the commandments of God, and the law that endureth for ever: all they that keep it shall come to life; but such as leave it shall die. Turn thee, O Jacob, and take hold of it: walk in the presence of the light thereof, that thou mayest be illuminated. Give not thine honour to another, nor the things that are profitable unto thee to a strange nation.

26 O Israel, happy are we; for things that are pleasing to God are made known unto us. Be of good cheer, my people, the memorial of Israel. Ye were sold to the nations, not for [your] destruction: but because ye moved God to wrath, ye were delivered unto the enemies. For ye provoked him that made you by sacrificing unto devils and not to God. Ye have forgotten the everlasting God, that brought you up; and ye have grieved Jerusalem, that nursed you.

27 For when she saw the wrath of God coming upon you, she said, Hearken, O ye that dwell about Sion: God hath brought upon me great mourning; 10 for I saw the captivity of my sons and daughters, which the Everlasting brought upon them. 11 With joy did I nourish them; but sent them away with weeping and mourning.

12 Let no man rejoice over me, a widow, and forsaken of many, who for the sins of my children am left desolate; because they departed from the law of God. 13 They knew not his statutes, nor walked in the ways of his commandments, nor trod in the paths of discipline in his righteousness.

14 Let them that dwell about Sion come, and remember ye the captivity of my sons and daughters, which the Everlasting hath brought upon them. 15 For he hath brought a nation upon them from far, a shameless nation, and of a strange language, who neither reverenced old man, nor pitted child, and they have carried away the dear beloved children of the widow, and left her that was alone desolate without daughters. 16 But what can I help you? 17 For he that brought these plagues upon you will deliver you from the hands of your enemies.

18 Go your way, O my children, go your way: for I am left desolate. 19 I have put on the clothing of peace, and put upon me the sackcloth of my prayer: I will cry unto the Everlasting in my days.

20 Be of good cheer, O my children, cry unto the Lord, and he shall deliver you from the power and hand of the enemies.

21 For my hope is in the Everlasting, that he will save you: and joy is come unto me from the Holy One, because of the mercy which shall soon come upon you from the Everlasting your Saviour.

22 For I sent you out with mourning and weeping: but God will give you to me again with joy and gladness for ever. 23 Like as now the neighbours of Sion have seen your captivity: so shall they see shortly your salvation from your God, which shall come upon you with great glory, and brightness of the Everlasting.

24 My children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come upon you from God: for thine enemy hath persecuted thee; but shortly thou shalt see his destruction, and shalt tread upon his neck. 25 My delicate ones have gone rough ways, and were taken away as a flock caught of the enemies.

26 Be of good comfort, O my children, and cry unto God: for ye shall be remembered of him that brought these things upon you.

27 For as it was your mind to go astray from God: so, being returned, seek him ten times more. 28 For he that hath brought these plagues upon you shall bring you everlasting joy again with your salvation.

29 Take a good heart, O Jerusalem: for he that gave thee that name will comfort thee. 30 Miserable are they that afflicted thee, and rejoiced at thy fall. 31 Miserable are the cities which thy children served: miserable is she that received thy sons. 32 For as she rejoiced at thy ruin, and was glad of thy fall: so shall she be grieved for her own desolation. 33 For I will take away the rejoicing of her great multitude, and her pride shall be turned into mourning. 34 For fire shall come upon her from the Everlasting, long to endure; and she shall be inhabited of devils for a great time.

"O Jerusalem, look about thee toward the east, and behold the joy that cometh unto thee from God. Lo, thy sons come, whom thou sentest away, they come gathered together from the east to the west by the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the glory of God.

Put off, O Jerusalem, the garment of thy mourning and affliction, and put on the comeliness of the glory that cometh from God for ever.

Cast about thee a double garment of the righteousness which cometh from God; and set a diadem on thine head of the glory of the Everlasting. For God will shew thy brightness unto every country under heaven. For thy name shall be called of God for ever. The peace of righteousness, and The glory of God's worship.

Arise, O Jerusalem, and stand on high, and look about toward the east, and behold thy children gathered from the west unto the east by the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the remembrance of God. For they departed from thee on foot, and were led away of their enemies: but God bringeth them unto thee exalted with glory, as children of the kingdom.

For God hath appointed that every high hill, and banks of long continuance, should be cast down, and valleys filled up, to make even the ground, that Israel may go safely in the glory of God. Moreover even the woods and every sweetsmelling tree shall overshadow Israel by the commandment of God. For God shall lead Israel with joy in the light of his glory with the mercy and righteousness that cometh from him.

A copy of an epistle, which Jeremy sent unto them which were to be led captives into Babylon by the king of the Babylonians, to certify them, as it was commanded him of God.

Because of the sins which ye have committed before God, ye shall be led away captives into Babylon by Nabuchodonosor king of the Babylonians. So when ye be come unto Babylon, ye shall remain there many years, and for a long season, namely, seven generations: and after that I will bring you away peaceably from thence.
Now shall ye see in Babylon gods of silver, and of gold, and of wood, borne upon shoulders, which cause the nations to fear. But be ye afraid of them, when ye see the multitude before them and behind them, worshipping them. But say ye in your hearts, O Lord, we must worship thee. For mine angel is with you, and I myself caring for your souls.

As for their tongue, it is polished by the workman, and they themselves are gilded and laid over with gold; yet are they but false, and cannot speak. And taking gold, as it were for a virgin that loveth to go gay, they make crowns for the heads of their gods. Sometimes also the priests convey from their gods gold and silver, and bestow it upon themselves. Yea, they will give thereof to the common harlots, and deck them as men with garments, [being] gods of silver, and gods of gold, and wood.

Yet cannot these gods save themselves from rust and moths, though they be covered with purple raiment. They wipe their faces because of the rust of the temple, when there is much upon them. And he that cannot put to death one that offendeth him holdeth a sceptre, as though he were a judge of the country. He hath also in his right hand a dagger and an axe; but cannot deliver himself from war and thieves. Whereby they are known not to be gods: therefore fear them not.

For like as a vessel that a man useth is nothing worth when it is broken; even so is it with their gods: when they be set up in the temple, their eyes be full of dust through the feet of them that come in. And as the doors are made sure on every side upon him that offendeth the king, as being committed to suffer death; even so the priests make fast their temples with doors, with locks, and bars, lest their gods be spoiled with robbers.

They light them candles, yea, more than for themselves, whereof they cannot see one. They are as one of the beams of the temple, yet they say their hearts are gnawed upon by things creeping out of the earth; and when they eat them and their clothes, they feel it not. Their faces are blacked through the smoke that cometh out of the temple. Upon their bodies and heads sit bats, swallows, and birds, and the cats also. By this ye may know that they are no gods: therefore fear them not.

Notwithstanding the gold that is about them to make them beautiful, except they wipe off the rust, they will not shine: for neither when they were molton did they feel it. The things wherein there is no breath are bought for a most high price. They are borne upon shoulders, having no feet, whereby they declare unto men that they be nothing worth.

They also that serve them are ashamed: for if they fall to the ground at any time, they cannot rise up again of themselves: neither, if one set them upright, can they move of themselves; neither, if they be bow'd down, can they make themselves straight: but they set gifts before them, as unto dead men.
As for the things that are sacrificed unto them, their priests sell and abuse; in like manner their wives lay up part thereof in salt: but unto the poor and impotent they give nothing of it.

33 Menstruous women and women in childbed eat their sacrifices: by these things ye may know that they are no gods: fear them not.

34 For how can they be called gods? because women set meat before the gods of silver, gold, and wood.

35 And the priests sit in their temples, having their clothes rent, and their heads and beards shaven, and nothing upon their heads.

36 They roar and cry before their gods, as men do at the feast when one is dead.

37 The priests also take off their garments, and clothe their wives and children.

38 Whether it be evil that one doeth unto them, or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can neither set up a king, nor put him down.

39 In like manner, they can neither give riches nor money: though a man make a vow unto them, and keep it not, they will not require it.

40 They can save no man from death, neither deliver the weak from the mighty.

41 They cannot restore a blind man to his sight, nor help any man in his distress.

42 They can shew no mercy to the widow, nor do good to the fatherless.

43 Their gods of wood, and which are overlaid with gold and silver, are like the stones that be hewn out of the mountain: they that worship them shall be confounded.

44 How should a man then think and say that they are gods, when even the Chaldeans themselves dishonour them?

45 Who if they shall see one dumb that cannot speak, they bring him, and intreat Bel that he may speak, as though he were able to understand.

46 Yet they cannot understand this themselves, and leave them: for they have no knowledge.

47 The women also with cords about them, sitting in the ways, burn bran for perfume: but if any of them, drawn by some that passeth by, lie with her, she reproacheth her fellow, that she was not thought as worthy as herself, nor her cord broken.

48 Whatesoever is done among them is false: how may it then be thought or said that they are gods?

49 They are made of carpenters and goldsmiths: they can be nothing else than the workmen will have them to be.

50 And they themselves that made them can never continue long: how should then the things that are made of them be gods.

51 For they left lies and reproaches to them that come after.

52 For when there cometh any war or plague upon them, the priests consult with themselves, where they may be hidden with them.

53 How then cannot men perceive that they be no gods, which can neither save themselves from war, nor from plague?

54 For seeing they be but of wood, and overlaid with silver and gold, it shall be known hereafter that they are false:

55 and it shall manifestly appear to all nations and kings that they are no gods, but the works of men's hands, and that there is no work of God in them.

56 Who then may not know that they are no gods?

57 For neither can they set up a king in the land, nor give rain unto men. 54 Neither can they judge their own cause, nor redress a wrong, being unable: for they are as crows between heaven and earth.

55 Whereupon when fire falleth upon the house of gods of wood, or laid over with gold or silver, their priests will flee away, and escape: but they themselves shall be burned asunder like beans. 56 Moreover they cannot withstand any king or enemies: how can it then be thought or said that they be gods? 57 Neither are those gods of wood, and laid over with silver or gold, able to escape either from thieves or robbers. 58 Whose gold, and silver, and garments wherewith they are clothed, they that are strong do take, and go away withal: neither are they able to help themselves.

60 Therefore it is better to be a king that sheweth his power, or else a profitable vessel in an house, which the owner shall have use of, than such false gods; or to be a door in an house, that keep such things safe as be therein, than such false gods; or a pillar of wood in a palace, than such false gods.

64 Wherefore it is neither to be supposed nor said that they are gods, seeing they are able neither to judge causes, nor to do good unto men. 65 Knowing therefore that they are no gods, fear them not.

66 For they can neither curse nor bless kings: 67 neither can they shew signs in the heavens among the heathen, nor shine as the sun, nor give light as the moon. 68 The beasts are better than they: for they can get under a covert, and help themselves. 69 It is then by no means manifest unto us that they are gods: therefore fear them not.

70 For as a scarecrow in a garden of cucumbers keepeth nothing: so are their gods of wood, and laid over with silver and gold. 71 And likewise their gods of wood, and laid over with silver and gold, are like to a white thorn in an orchard, that every bird sitteth upon; as also to a dead body, that is cast into the dark. 72 And ye shall know them to be no gods by the bright purple that rottest upon them: and they themselves afterward shall be eaten, and shall be a reproach in the country.

73 Better therefore is the just man that hath no idols: for he shall be far from reproach.
ΤΩΝ ΤΡΙΩΝ ΠΑΙΔΩΝ ΑΙΝΕΣΙΣ.

THEN Azarias stood up, and prayed on this manner; and opening his mouth in the midst of the fire said,

2 Blessed art thou, O Lord God of our fathers: thy name is worthy to be praised and glorified for evermore: 3 for thou art righteous in all the things that thou hast done to us; yea, true are all thy works, thy ways are right, and all thy judgments true.

4 In all the things that thou hast brought upon us, and upon the holy city of our fathers, even Jerusalem, thou hast executed true judgment: for according to truth and judgment didst thou bring all these things upon us because of our sins. 5 For we have sinned and committed iniquity, departing from thee. 6 In all things have we trespassed, and not obeyed thy commandments, nor kept them, neither done as thou hast commanded us, that it might go well with us. 7 Wherefore all that thou hast brought upon us, and every thing that thou hast done to us, thou hast done in true judgment.

8 And thou didst deliver us into the hands of lawless enemies, most hateful forsakers of God, and to an unjust king, and the most wicked in all the world. 9 And now we cannot open our mouths, we are become a shame and reproach to thy servants, and to them that worship thee.

10 Yet deliver us not up wholly, for thy name's sake, neither disannul thou thy covenant:

11 and cause not thy mercy to depart from us, for thy beloved Abraham's sake, for thy servant Isaac's sake, and for thy holy Israel's sake; 12 to whom thou hast spoken and promised, that thou wouldst multiply their seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand that lieth upon the seashore. 13 For we, O Lord, are become less than any nation, and be kept under this day in all the world, because of our sins.

14 Neither is there at this time prince, or prophet, or leader, or burnt offering, or sacrifice, or obligation, or incense, or place to sacrifice before thee, and to find mercy.

15 Nevertheless in a contrite heart and an humble spirit let us be accepted. 16 Like as in the burnt offerings of rams and bullocks, and like as in ten thousands of fat lambs: so let our sacrifice be in thy sight this day, and grant that we may wholly go after thee: for they shall not be confounded that put their trust in thee.

17 And now we follow thee with all our heart, we fear thee, and seek thy face. 18 Put Joacim: and he took a wife, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Cheleias, a very fair woman, and one that feared the Lord. Her parents also were righteous, and taught their daughter according to the law of Moses. Now Joacim was a very rich man, and had a fair garden joining unto his house; and to him resorted the Jews; because he was more honourable than all others.

The same year were appointed two of the ancients of the people to be judges, such as the Lord spake of, that wickedness came from Babylon from ancient judges, who seemed to govern the people. These kept much at Joacim's house, and all that had any suits in law came unto them.

Now when the people departed away at noon, Susanna went into her husband's garden to walk. And the two elders saw her going in every day, and walking; so that their lust was inflamed toward heaven, nor remember just judgments.

And albeit they both were wounded with her love, yet durst not one shew another his grief. For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to have to do with her. Yet they watched diligently from day to day to see her.

And the one said to the other, Let us now go home; for it is dinner time. So when they were gone out, they parted the one from the other, and turning back again they came to the same place; and when they had asked one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust; then appointed they a time both together, when they might find her alone.

And it fell out, as they watched a fit time, she went in as before with two maids only, and she was desirous to wash herself in the garden: for it was hot. And there was nobody there save the two elders, that had hid themselves, and watched her. Then she said to her maids, Bring me oil and washing balls, and shut the garden doors, that I may wash.

And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden doors, and went out themselves at private doors to fetch the things that she had commanded them; but they saw not the elders, because they were hid.
19 Now when the maids were gone forth, the two elders rose up, and ran unto her, saying, Behold, the garden doors are shut, that no man can see us, and we are in love with thee; therefore consent unto us, and lie with us. 20 If thou wilt not, we will bear witness against thee, that a young man was with thee; and therefore thou didst send away thy maids from thee.

22 Then Susanna sighed, and said, I am straitened on every side: for if I do this thing, it is death unto me: and if I do it not, I cannot escape your hands. It is better for me to fall into your hands, and not do it, than to sin in the sight of the Lord. 23 With that Susanna cried with a loud voice: and the two elders cried out against her.

25 Then ran the one, and opened the garden door. 26 So when the servants of the house heard the cry in the garden, they rushed in at a private door, to see what was done unto her. 27 But when the elders had declared their matter, the servants were greatly ashamed; for there was never such a report made of Susanna.

28 And it came to pass the next day, when the people were assembled to her husband Joacim, the two elders came also full of mischievous imagination against Susanna to put her to death; 29 and said before the people, Send for Susanna, the daughter of Chelcas, Joacim’s wife. And so they sent. 30 So she came with her father and mother, her children, and all her kindred.

31 Now Susanna was a very delicate woman, and beauteous to behold. 32 And these wicked men commanded to uncover her face (for she was covered), that they might be filled with her beauty. 33 Therefore her friends and all that saw her wept.

34 Then the two elders stood up in the midst of the people, and laid their hands upon her head. 35 And she weeping looked up toward heaven: for her heart trusted in the Lord.

35 And the elders said, As we walked in the garden alone, this woman came in with two maids, and shut the garden doors, and sent the maids away. 36 Then a young man, who there was hid, came unto her, and lay with her. 37 Then we that stood in a corner of the garden, seeing this wickedness, ran unto them.

39 And when we saw them together, the man we could not hold: for he was stronger than we, and opened the door, and leaped out. 40 But having taken this woman, we asked who the young man was, but she would not tell us: these things do we testify. 41 Then the assembly believed them, as those that were the elders and judges of the people: so they condemned her to death.

42 Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said, O everlastine God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things before they be: thou knowest that they have borne false witness against me, and, behold, I must die; whereas I never did such things as these men have maliciously invented against me. 43 And the Lord heard her voice.
Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a young youth, whose name was Daniel; * who cried with a loud voice, I am clear from the blood of this woman.

Then all the people turned them toward him, and said, What mean these words that thou hast spoken? * So he standing in the midst of them said, Are ye such fools, ye sons of Israel, that without examination or knowledge of the truth ye have condemned a daughter of Israel? * Return again to the place of judgment: for they have borne false witness against her.

Wherefore all the people turned again in haste, and the elders said unto him, Come, sit down among us, and shew us it, seeing God hath given thee the honour of an elder. Then said Daniel unto them, Put these two aside one far from another, and I will examine them.

So when they were put asunder one from another, he called one of them, and said unto him, O thou that art waxen old in wickedness, now thy sins which thou hast committed aforetime are come to light: * for thou hast pronounced false judgment, and hast condemned the innocent, and hast let the guilty go free; albeit the Lord saith, The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay. Now then, if thou hast seen her, tell me, Under what tree sawest thou them companying together? And he said, Under a mastick tree.

And Daniel said, Very well; thou hast lied against thine own head; for even now the angel of God hath received the sentence of God to cut thee in two. * So he put him aside, and commanded to bring the other, and said unto him, O thou seed of Channah, and not of Juda, beauty hath deceived thee, and lust hath perverted thine heart. * Thus have ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for fear companyed with you: but the daughter of Juda would not abide your wickedness. Now therefore tell me, Under what tree didst thou take them companying together? And he said, Under a holm tree.

Then said Daniel unto him, Well; thou hast also lied against thine own head: for the angel of God waiteth with the sword to cut thee in two, that he may destroy you.

With that all the assembly cried out with a loud voice, and praised God, who saveth them that trust in him. * And they arose against the two elders, for Daniel had conviccted them of false witness by their own mouth: * and according to the law of Moses they did unto them in such sort as they maliciously intended to do to their neighbour: and they put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saved the same day.

Therefore Cheleias and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, with Joacim her husband, and all their kindred, because they was no dishonesty found in her. * From that day forth was Daniel in great reputation in the sight of the people.
AND king Astyages was gathered to his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia received his kingdom. And Daniel conversed with the king, and was honoured above all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idol, called Bel, and there were spent upon him every day twelve great measures of fine flour, and forty sheep, and six vessels of wine. And the king worshipped it, and went daily to adore it: but Daniel worshipped his own God. And the king said unto him, Why dost not thou worship Bel? Who answered and said, Because I neither worship idols made with hands, but the living God, who hath created the heaven and the earth, and hath sovereignty over all flesh.

6 Then said the king unto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a living god? seest thou not how much he eateth and drinketh every day? Then Daniel smiled, and said, O king, be not deceived: for this is but clay within, and brass without, and did never eat or drink any thing.

8 So the king was wroth, and called for his priests, and said unto them, If ye tell me not who this is that devoureth these expences, ye shall die. But if ye can certify me that Bel devoureth them, then Daniel shall die: for he hath spoken blasphemy against Bel. And Daniel said unto the king, Let it be according to thy word.

10 Now the priests of Bel were threescore and ten, beside their wives and children. And the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel. So Bel's priests said, Lo, we go out: but thou, O king, set on the meat, and make ready the wine, and shut the door fast, and seal it with thine own signet; and to-morrow when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten up all, we will suffer death: or else Daniel, that speaketh falsely against us. And they little regarded it: for under the table they had made a privy entrance, whereby they entered in continually, and consumed those things.

14 So when they were gone forth, the king set meats before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his servants to bring ashes, and those they strewed throughout all the temple in the presence of the king alone: then went they out, and shut the door, and sealed it with the king's signet, and so departed. Now in the night came the priests with their wives and children, as they were wont to do, and did eat and drink up all.

16 In the morning betime the king arose, and Daniel with him. 1 And the king said, Daniel, are the seals whole? And he said, Yea, O king, they be whole. 1 And as soon as he had opened the door, the king looked upon the table, and cried, Where is the young man Daniel, the Bel, and with thee is no deceit at all.

19 Then laughed Daniel, and held the king that he could not go in, and said, Behold now the portion of the young men, and mark well whose footsteps are these. 20 And the king said, I see the footsteps of men, women, and children. And then the king was angry, 21 and took the priests with their wives and children, who showed him the private doors, where they came in, and consumed such things as were upon the table. 22 Therefore the king slew them, and delivered Bel into Daniel's power, who destroyed him and his temple.

23 And in that same place there was a great dragon, which they of Babylon worshipped. 24 And the king said unto Daniel, Wilt thou also say that this is of brass? lo, he liveth, he eateth and drinketh; thou canst not say that he is not living God: therefore worship him.

25 Then said Daniel unto the king, I will worship the Lord my God: for he is the living God. 26 But give me leave, O king, and I shall slay this dragon without sword or staff. The king said, I give thee leave. 27 Then Daniel took pitch, and fat, and hair, and did seethe them together, and made lumps thereof: this he put in the dragon's mouth, and so the dragon burst in sunder: and Daniel said, Lo, these are the gods ye worship.

28 When they of Babylon heard that, they took great indignation, and conspired against the king, saying, The king is become a Jew, and he hath destroyed Bel, he hath slain the dragon, and put the priests to death. 29 So they came to the king, and said, Deliver us Daniel, or else we will destroy thee and thine house.

30 Now when the king saw that they pressed him sore, being constrained, he delivered Daniel unto them; 31 who cast him into the lions' den: where he was six days. 32 And in the den there were seven lions, and they had given them every day two carcasses, and two sheep: which then were 'not given to them, to the extent they might devour Daniel.

33 Now there was in Jerway a prophet, called Habbacuc, who had made pottage, and had broken bread in a bowl, and was going into the field, for to bring it to the reapers. 34 But the angel of the Lord said unto Habbacuc, Go, carry the dinner that thou hast into Babylon unto Daniel, who is in the lions' den.

35 And Habbacuc said, Lord, I never saw Babylon: neither do I know where the den is. 36 Then the angel of the Lord took him by the crown, and bare him by the hair of his head, and through the vehemency of his spirit set him in Babylon over the den. 37 And Habbacuc cried, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner which God hath sent thee.

38 And Daniel said, Thou hast remembered me, O God: neither hast thou forsaken them

I. Maccabees, I. 1–12.

And it happened, after that Alexander son of Philip, the Macedonian, who came out of the land of Chettium, had smitten Darius king of the Persians and Medes, that he reigned in his stead, the first over Greece, and made many wars, and won many strong holds, and slew the kings of the earth, and went through to the ends of the earth, and took spoils of many nations, insomuch that the earth was quiet before him; whereupon he was exalted, and his heart was lifted up. And he gathered a mighty strong host, and ruled over countries, and nations, and kings, who became tributaries unto him.

And after these things he fell sick, and perceived that he should die. Wherefore he called his servants, such as were honourable, and had been brought up with him from his youth, and parted his kingdom among them, while he was yet alive. So Alexander reigned twelve years, and then died. And his servants bare rule every one in his place. And after his death they all put crowns upon themselves; so did their sons after them many years: and evils were multiplied in the earth.

And there came out of them a wicked root, Antiochus surnamed Epiphanes, son of Antiochus the king, who had been an hostage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundred and thirty and seventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.

In those days went there out of Israel wicked men, who persuaded many, saying, Let us go and make a covenant with the heathen that are round about us: for since we departed from them we have had much sorrow. So this device pleased them well.
Then certain of the people were so forward herein, that they went to the king, who gave them licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen: 14 whereupon they built a place of exercise at Jerusalem according to the customs of the heathen: 15 and made themselves uncircumcised, and forsook the holy covenant, and joined themselves to the heathen, and were sold to do mischief.

Now when the kingdom was established before Antiochus, he thought to reign over Egypt, that he might have the dominion of two realms. 17 Wherefore he entered into Egypt with a great multitude, with chariots, and elephant men, and a great navy, 18 and made war against Ptolemees king of Egypt: but Ptolemees was afraid of him, and fled; and many were wounded to death. 19 Thus they got the strong cities in the land of Egypt, and he took the spoils thereof.

And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he returned again in the hundred forty and third year, and went up against Israel and Jerusalem with a great multitude, 21 and entered proudly into the sanctuary, and took away the golden altar, and the candelstick of light, and all the vessels thereof, 22 and the table of the shewbread, and the pomegranate vessels, and the rials, and the censers of gold, and the veil, and the crowns, and the golden ornaments that were before the temple, all which he pulled off. 23 He took also the silver and the gold, and the precious vessels: also he took the hidden treasures which he found.

And when he had taken all away, he went into his own land, having made a great massacre, and spoken very proudly. 24 Therefore there was great mourning in Israel, in every place where they were; 25 so that the princes and elders mourned, the virgins and young men were made feeble, and the beauty of women was changed. 26 Every bridegroom took up lamentation, and she that sat in the marriage chamber was in heavines. 27 The land also was moved for the inhabitants thereof, and all the house of Jacob was covered with confusion.

And after two years fully expried, the king sent his chief collector of tribute unto the cities of Judah, who came unto Jerusalem with a great multitude, 28 and spoke peaceable words unto them, but all was deceit: for when they had given him credence, he fell suddenly upon the city, and smote it very sore, and destroyed many of them. 29 And when he had taken the spoils of the city, he set it on fire, and pulled down the houses and walls thereof on every side. 30 But the women and children took they captive, and possessed the cattle.

Then built they the city of David with a great and strong wall, and with mighty towers, and made it a stronghold for them. 31 And they put therein a sinful nation, wicked men, and fortified themselves therein. 32 They stored it also with armour and victuals, and when they had gathered together the spoils of Jerusalem, they laid them up there, and so became a sore snare: 33 for it was a place to lie in wait against the sanctuary, and an evil adversary to Israel.
37 And when they had rent in pieces the books of the law, which they found, they burnt them with fire. 38 And wheresoever was found with any the book of the testament, or if any consented to the law, the king's commandment was, that they should put him to death. 39 Thus did they by their authority unto the Israelites every month, to as many as were found in the cities. 40 Now the five and twentieth day of the month Caslu, in the hundred forty and fifth year, they set up the abomination of desolation upon the altar, and builded idol altars throughout the cities of Judah on every side; and burnt incense at the doors of their houses, and in the streets.

41 And when they had put to death certain women, that had caused their children to be circumcised.

37 Thus they shed innocent blood on every side of the sanctuary, and defiled it: 38 insomuch that the inhabitants of Jerusalem fled because of them: whereupon the city was made an habitation of strangers, and became strange to those that were born in her; and her own children left her. 39 Her sanctuary was laid waste like a wilderness, her feasts were turned into mourning, her sabbaths into reproach, her honour into contempt. 40 As had been her glory, so was her dishonour increased, and their excellency was turned into mourning.

41 Moreover king Antiochus wrote to his whole kingdom, that all should be one people, and every one should leave his laws: so all the heathen agreed according to the commandment of the king.

42 Yea, many also of the Israelites consented to his religion, and sacrificed unto idols, and profaned the sabbath.

43 For the king had sent letters by messengers unto Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, that they should follow the strange laws of the land, and forbid burnt offerings, and sacrifice, and drink offerings, in the temple; and that they should profane the sabbaths and festival days: 44 and force the people: 45 set up altars, and groves, and chapels of idols, and sacrifice swine's flesh, and unclean beasts: 46 that they should also leave their children uncircumcised, and make their souls abominable with all manner of uncleanness and profanation: 47 to the end they might forget the law, and change all the ordinances.

48 And whosoever would not according to the commandment of the king, he said, he should die. In the selfsame manner wrote he to his whole kingdom, and appointed overseers over all the people, commanding the cities of Judah to sacrifice, city by city.

49 Then many of the people were gathered unto them, to wit, every one that forsook the law; and so they committed evils in the land; 50 and drove the Israelites into secret places, even wheresoever they could flee for succour.

51 Now the fifteenth day of the month Caslu, in the hundred forty and fifth year, they set up the abomination of desolation upon the altar, and builded idol altars throughout the cities of Judah on every side; and burnt incense at the doors of their houses, and in the streets.

52 And when they had rent in pieces the books of the law, which they found, they burnt them with fire. 53 And wheresoever was found with any the book of the testament, or if any consented to the law, the king's commandment was, that they should put him to death. 54 Thus did they by their authority unto the Israelites every month, to as many as were found in the cities. 55 Now the five and twentieth day of the month they did sacrifice upon the idol altar, which was upon the altar of God.

56 At which time according to the commandment they put to death certain women, that had caused their children to be circumcised.

57 And they hanged the infants about their necks, and rifled their houses, and slew them that had circumcised them. 58 Howbeit many in Israel were fully resolved and confirmed in themselves not to eat any unclean thing.
I. MACCABEES, I. 64—II. 25.

MIGHT not profane the holy covenant: so then they died. 54 And there was very great wrath upon Israel.

In those days arose Mattathias the son of John, the son of Simeon, a priest of the sons of Joarib, from Jerusalem, and dwelt in Modin. 5 And he had five sons, Joanan, called Caddis:

1 Simon, called Thassi: 2 Judas, who was called Maccabeus: 3 Eleazar, called Avaran: and Jonathan, whose surname was Apphus.

And when he saw the blasphemies that were committed in Juda and Jerusalem, 7 he said, Woe is me! wherefore was I born to see this misery of my people, and of the holy city, and to dwell therein, when it was delivered into the hand of the enemy, and the sanctuary into the hand of strangers?

Her temple is become as a man without glory. 9 Her glorious vessels are carried away into captivity, her infants are slain in the streets, her young men with the sword of the enemy. 10 What nation hath not had a part in her kingdom, and gotten of her spoils? 11 All her ornaments are taken away: of a free woman she has become a bondslave. 12 And, behold, our sanctuary, even our beauty and our glory, is laid waste, and the Gentiles have profaned it.

13 To what end therefore shall we live any longer?

Then Mattathias and his sons rent their clothes, and put on sackcloth, and mourned very sore.

In the mean while the king’s officers, such as compelled the people to revolt, came into the city Modin, to make them desert into the hand of the enemy. 2 And when many of Israel came unto them, Mattathias also and his sons came together.

15 Then answered the king’s officers, and said to Mattathias on this wise, Thou art a ruler, and an honourable and great man in this city, and strengthened with sons and brethren: 16 now therefore come thou first, and fill the king’s commandment, like as all the nations have done, yea, and the men of Juda also, and such as remain at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy house be in the number of the king’s friends, and thou and thy children shall be honoured with silver and gold, and many rewards.

Then Mattathias answered and spake with a loud voice, Though all the nations that are under the king’s dominion obey him, and fall away every one from the religion of their fathers, and consent to his commandments: 20 yet will I and my sons and my brethren walk in the covenant of our fathers.

21 God forbid that we should forsake the law and the ordinances. 22 We will not hearken to the king’s words, to go from our religion, either on the right hand, or the left.

23 Now when he had left speaking these words, there came one of the Jews in the sight of all to sacrifice on the altar which was at Modin, according to the king’s commandment.

Which thing when Matthias saw, he was inflamed with zeal, and his reins trembled, neither could he forbear to shew his anger, according to judgment: wherefore he ran, and slew him upon the altar.

Also the king’s commissioner, who com-

26. And Mattathias cried throughout the city with a loud voice, saying, Whosoever is zealous of the law, and proud men, let him follow me. And he and his sons fled into the mountains, and left all that ever they had in the city.

27. Then many that sought after justice and judgment went down into the wilderness, to dwell there: both they and their children, and their wives, and their cattle; because afflictions increased sore upon them.

31. Now when it was told the king's servants, and the host that was at Jerusalem, in the city of David, that certain men, who had broken the king's commandment, were gone down into the secret places in the wilderness, they pursued after them a great number, and having overtaken them, they came against them, and made war against them on the sabbath day. And they said unto them, Let that whiche ye have done hitherto suffice; come forth, and do according to the commandment of the king, and ye shall live.

34. But they said, We will not come forth, neither will we do the king's commandment, to profane the sabbath day. So then they gave them the battle with all speed. Howbeit they answered them not, neither cast they a stone at them, nor stopped the places where they lay hid; but said, Let us die all in our innocency: heaven and earth shall testify for us, that ye put us to death wrongfully. So they rose up against them in battle on the sabbath, and they slew them, with their wives and children, and their cattle, to the number of a thousand people.

39. Now when Mattathias and his friends understood this news, they mourned for them right sore. And one of them said to another, If we all do as our brethren have done, and fight not for our lives and laws against the heathen, they will now quickly root us out of the earth.

41. At that time therefore they decreed, saying, Whosoever shall come to make battle with us on the sabbath day, we will fight against him: neither will we die all, as our brethren that were murdered in the secret places.

42. Then came there unto him a company of Assideans, who were mighty men of Israel, even all such as were voluntarily devoted unto the law. Also all they that fled for persecution joined themselves unto them, and were a stay unto them. So they joined their forces, and smote sinful men in their anger, and wicked men in their wrath; but the rest fled to the heathen for succour.

43. Then Mattathias and his friends went round about, and pulled down the altars: and what children soever they found within the coast of Israel uncircumcised, those they circumcised valiantly. They pursued also after the proud men, and the work prospered in their hand. So they recovered the law out of the hand of the Gentiles, and out of the hand of kings, neither suffered they the sinner to triumph.
Now when the time drew near that Mattathias should die, he said unto his sons, Now have pride and rebuke gotten strength, and the time of destruction, and the wrath of indignation: 1 now therefore, my sons, be ye zealous for the law, and give your lives for the covenant of your fathers. 2 Call to remembrance what acts our fathers did in their time; so shall ye receive great honour and an everlasting name. 3 Was not Abraham found faithful in temptation, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness?

Joseph in the time of his distress kept the commandment, and was made lord of Egypt; 4 Phinees our father in being zealous and fervent obtained the covenant of an everlasting priesthood.

Jesus for fulfilling the word was made a judge in Israel. 5 Caleb for bearing witness before the congregation received the heritage of the land. 6 David for being merciful possessed the throne of an everlasting kingdom. 7 Elias for being zealous and fervent for the law was taken unto heaven.

Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, by believing were saved out of the flame. 10 Daniel for his innocence was delivered from the mouth of lions. 11 And thus consider ye throughout all ages, that none that put their trust in him shall be over come.

Fear not then the words of a sinful man: for his glory shall be dung and worms.

To day he shall be lifted up, and to morrow he shall not be found, because he is returned into his dust, and his thought is come to nothing.

Wherefore, ye my sons, be valiant, and shew yourselves men in the behalf of the law: for by it shall ye obtain glory. 15 And, behold, I know that your brother Simon is a man of counsel, give ear unto him alway: he shall be a father unto you.

As for Judas Maccabaeus, he had been mighty and strong, even from his youth up: let him be your captain, and fight the battle of the people.

Take also unto you all those that observe the law, and avenge ye the wrong of your people. 20 Recompense fully the heathen, and take heed to the commandments of the law. 21 So he blessed them, and was gathered to his fathers. 22 And he died in the hundred forty and sixth year, and his sons buried him in the sepulchres of his fathers at Modin, and all Israel made great lamentation for him.

Then his son Judas, called Maccabees, rose up in his stead. 2 And all his brethren helped him, and so did all they that held with his father, and they fought with cheerfulness the battle of Israel. 3 So he gat his people great honour, and put on a breastplate as a giant, and girt his warlike harness about him, and he made battles, protecting the host with his shield.

In his acts he was like a lion, and like a lion's whelp roaring for his prey. 5 For he pursued the wicked, and sought them out, and burnt up those that vexed his people.

Wherefore the wicked shrank for fear of him, and all the workers of iniquity were troubled, because salvation prospered in his hand.

He grieved also many kings, and made
Jacob glad with his acts, and his memorial is blessed for ever. Moreover he went through the cities of Juda, destroying the ungodly out of them, and turning away wrath from Israel; so that he was renowned unto the utmost part of the earth, and he received unto him such as were ready to perish.

10 Then Apollonius gathered the Gentiles together, and a great host out of Samaria, to fight against Israel. Which thing when Judas perceived, he went forth to meet him, and so he smote him, and slew him: and many also fell slain, but the residue fled.

Wherefore Judas took their spoils, and Apollonius' sword also, and therewith he fought all his life long.

Now when Seron, a prince of the army of Syria, heard say that Judas had gathered unto him a multitude and company of the faithful to go out with him to war; he said, I will get me a name and honour in the kingdom; for I will go fight with Judas and them that are with him, who despise the king's commandment. So he made him ready to go up, and there went with him a mighty host of the ungodly to help him, and to be avenged of the children of Israel.

And when he came near to the going up of Bethhoron, Judas went forth to meet him with a small company. But when they saw the host coming to meet them, said unto Judas, How shall we be able, being so few, to fight against so great a multitude and so strong, seeing we are ready to faint with fasting all this day? Unto whom Judas answered, It is no hard matter for many to be shut up in the hands of a few; and with the God of heaven is all one, to deliver with a great multitude, or a small company; for the victory of battle standeth not in the multitude of an host; but strength cometh from heaven. They come against us in much pride and iniquity to destroy us, and our wives and children, and to spoil us; but we fight for our lives and for our laws. Wherefore the Lord himself will overthrow them before our face: and as for you, be ye not afraid of them.

Now as soon as he had left off speaking, he leaped suddenly upon them, and so Seron and his host were overthrown before him. And they pursued them from the going down of Bethhoron unto the plain, where were slain about eight hundred men of them; and the residue fled into the land of the Philistines. Then began the fear of Judas and his brethren, and exceeding great dread, to fall upon the nations round about them; insomuch as his fame came unto the king, and all nations talked of the battles of Judas.

Now when king Antiochus heard these things, he was filled with indignation: wherefore he sent and gathered together all the forces of his realm, even a very strong army. He opened also his treasure, and gave his soldiers pay for a year, commanding them to be ready whencesoever he should need them.

Nevertheless, when he saw that the money of his treasures failed, and that the tributes in the country were small, because of the dissension and plague which he had brought upon the land in taking away the laws which had been of old time; 30 he feared that he should not be able to bear the charges any longer, nor to have such gifts to give so liberally as he did before: for he had abounded above the kings that were before him.

31 Wherefore, being greatly perplexed in his mind, he determined to go into Persia, there to take the tributes of the countries, and to gather much money. 32 So he left Lysias, a nobleman, and one of the blood royal, to oversee the affairs of the king from the river Euphrates unto the borders of Egypt; 33 and to bring up his son Antiochus, unto that same reign.

34 Moreover he delivered unto him the half of his forces, and the elephants, and gave him charge of all things that he would have done, as also concerning them that dwelt in Juda and Jerusalem; 35 to wit, that he should send an army against them, to destroy and root out the strength of Israel, and the remnant of Jerusalem, and to take away their memorial from that place; 36 and that he should place strangers in all their quarters, and divide their land by lot. 37 So the king took the half of the forces that remained, and departed from Antioch, his royal city, the hundred forty and seventh year; and he passed the river Euphrates, and went through the high countries.

38 Then Lysias chose Ptoleeme the son of Dorymenes, and Nicoan, and Gorgias, mighty men of the king's friends; 39 and with them he sent forty thousand footmen, and seven thousand horsemen, to go into the land of Juda, and to destroy it, as the king commanded. 40 So they went forth with all their power, and came and pitched by Emmaus in the plain county.

41 And the merchants of the country, hearing the fame of them, took silver and gold very much, with servants, and came into the camp to buy the children of Israel for slaves: a power also of Syria and of the land of the Philistines joined themselves unto them.

42 Now when Judas and his brethren saw that miseries were multiplied, and that the forces did encamp themselves in their borders; for they knew how the king had given commandment to destroy the people, and utterly abolish them; 43 they said one to another, Let us restore the decayed estate of our people, and let us fight for our people and the sanctuary.

44 Then the congregation gathered together, that they might be ready for battle, and that they might pray, and ask mercy and compassion.

45 Now Jerusalem was laid void as a wilderness; there was none of her children that went in or out; the sanctuary also was trodden down, and aliens kept the strong hold; the heathen had their habitation in that place; and joy was taken from Jacob, and the pipe with the harp ceased. 46 Wherefore the Israelites assembled themselves together, and came to Maspha, over against Jerusalem; for in Maspha was the place where they prayed aforesight in Israel.

47 Then they fasted that day, and put on sackcloth, and cast ashes upon their heads, and rent their clothes, 48 and laid open the book of the law, wherein the heathen had...
49 Ezra brought the image of their images. They brought also the priest's garments, and the firstfruits, and the tithes: and the Nazarites they stirred up, who had accomplished their days.

50 Then cried they with a loud voice toward heaven, saying, What shall we do with these, and whither shall we carry them away? 51 For the sanctuary is troubled down and profaned, and the priests are in heaviness, and brought low. 52 And, lo, the heathen are assembled together against us to destroy us: what things they imagine against us, thou knowest. 53 How shall we be able to stand against them, except thou, O God, be our help? 54 Then sounded they with trumpets, and cried with a loud voice. 55 And after this Judas ordained captains over the people, even captains over thousands, and over hundreds, and over fifties, and over tens. 56 But as such as were building houses, or had betrothed wives, or were planting vineyards, or were fearful, those he commanded that they should return, every man to his own house, according to the law.

57 So the camp removed, and pitched upon the south side of Emmaus. 58 And Judas said, Arm yourselves, and be valiant men, and see that ye be in readiness against the morning, that ye may fight with these nations, that are assembled together against us to destroy us and our sanctuary; for it is better for us to die in battle, than to behold the calamities of our people and our sanctuary. 59 Nevertheless, as the will of God is in heaven, so let him do. Then took Gogias five thousand footmen, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and removed out of the camp by night; 60 to the end he might rush in upon the camp of the Jews, and smite them suddenly. And the men of the fortress were his guides. 61 Now when Judas heard that his people were removed, and the valiant men with him, that he might smite the king's army which was at Emmaus, while as yet the forces were dispersed from the camp.

62 In the mean season came Gogias by night into the camp of Judas: and when he found no man there, he sought them in the mountains: for he said, These fellows flee from us.

63 But as soon as it was day, Judas shewed himself in the plain with three thousand men, who nevertheless had neither armour nor swords to their minds. 64 And they saw the camp of the heathen, that it was strong and well harnessed, and compassed round about with horsemen; and these were expert in war.

65 Then said Judas to the men that were with him, Fear ye not their multitude, neither be ye afraid of their assault. Remember how our fathers were delivered in the Red sea, when Pharaoh pursued them with an army. 66 Now therefore let us cry unto heaven, if peradventure the Lord will have mercy upon us, and remember the covenant of our fathers, and destroy this host before our face this day: 67 that so all the heathen may know that there is one who delivereth and saveth Israel.

68 Then the strangers lifted up their eyes, and saw them coming over against them.
Wherefore they went out of the camp to battle; but they that were with Judas sounded their trumpets. 14 So they joined battle, and the heathen being discomfited, fled into the plain. 15 Howbeit all the hindmost of them were slain with the sword: for they pursued them unto Gazara, and unto the plains of Idumea, and Azotus, and Jannia, so that there were slain of them as many as three thousand men.

This day, Judas returned again with his host from pursuing them, 17 and said to the people, Be not greedy of the spoils, inasmuch as there is a battle before us, 18 and Gorgias and his host are here by us in the mountain: but stand ye now against our enemies, and overcome them, and after this ye may boldly take the spoils.

As Judas was yet speaking these words, there appeared a part of them looking out of the mountain: 20 who, when they perceived that the Jews had put their host to flight, and were burning the tents; for the smoke that was seen declared what was done: 21 when therefore they perceived these things, they were sore afraid, and seeing also how Judas in the plain ready to fight, 22 fled every one into the land of strangers. 23 Then Judas returned to spoil the tents, where they got much gold, and silver, and blue silk, and purple of the sea, and great riches. 24 After this they went home, and sung a song of thanks-giving, and praised the Lord in heaven: for it was good because his mercy endured for ever. 25 Thus Israel had a great deliverance that day.

Now all the strangers that had escaped came and told Lysias what had happened: 26 who, when he heard thereof, was confounded and discouraged, because neither such things as he would done unto Israel, nor such things as the king commanded him were come to pass.

In the following year therefore, Lysias gathered together threescore thousand choice men of foot, and five thousand horsemen, that he might subdue them. 29 So they came into Idumea, and pitched their tent at Bethura, and Judas met them with ten thousand horsemen.

And when he saw that mighty army, he prayed and said, Blessed art thou, O Saviour of Israel, who didst quell the violence of the mighty man by the hand of thy servant David, and gavest the host of strangers into the hands of Jonathan the son of Saul, and his armour-bearer; 32 shut up this army in the hand of thy people Israel, and let them be confounded in their power and horsemen: 33 make them to be of no courage, and cause the boldness of their strength to fall away, and let them quake at their destruction: 34 cast them down with the sword of them that love thee, and let all those that know thy name praise thee with thanksgiving.

So they joined battle; and there were slain of the host of Lysias about five thousand men, even before them were they slain.

Now when Lysias saw his army put to flight, and the manliness of Judas' soldiers, and how they were ready either to live or die valiantly, he went into Antioch, and gathered together a company of strangers, and having made his army greater than it was, he purposed to come again into Judaea.
35 Then said Judas and his brethren, Behold, our enemies are discomfited: let us go up to cleanse and dedicate the sanctuary.
36 Upon this all the host assembled themselves together, and went up into mount Sion. And when they saw the sanctuary desolate, and the altar profaned, and the gates burned up, and shrubs growing in the courts as in a forest, or in the midst of the mountains, yea, and the priests' chambers pulled down; 37 they rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes upon their heads, and fell down flat to the ground upon their faces, and blew an alarm with the trumpets, and cried toward heaven.
38 Then Judas appointed certain men to fight against those that were in the fortress, until he had cleansed the sanctuary.
39 So he chose priests of blameless conversation, such as had pleasure in the law: who cleansed the sanctuary, and bare out the defiled stones into an unclean place.
40 And when as they consulted what to do with the altar of burnt offerings, which they profaned, they thought it best to pull it down, lest it should be a reproach to them, because the heathen had defiled it: wherefore they pulled it down, and laid up the stones in the mountain of the temple in a convenient place, until there should come a prophet to shew what should be done with them.
41 Then they took whole stones according to the law, and built a new altar according to the former; 42 and made up the sanctuary, and the things that were within the temple, and hallowed the courts. They made also new holy vessels, and into the temple they brought the candlestick, and the altar of incense, and the table.
43 And upon the altar they burned incense, and upon the candlestick they lighted, that they might give light in the temple.
44 Furthermore they set the loaves upon the table, and spread out the veils, and finished all the works which they had begun to make.
45 Now on the five and twentieth day of the ninth month, which is called the month Casleu, in the hundred forty and eighth year, they rose up betimes in the morning, and offered sacrifice according to the law upon the new altar of burnt offerings, which they had made. 46 At what time and day the heathen had profaned it, even in that was it dedicated with songs, and othertimes, and harps, and cymbals. 47 Then all the people fell upon their faces, worshipping and praising the God of heaven, who had given them good success.
48 And so they kept the dedication of the altar eight days, and offered burnt offerings with gladness, and sacrificed the sacrifice of deliverance and praise. 49 They decked also the forefront of the temple with crowns of gold and with shields; and the gates and the chambers they renewed, and hanged doors upon them. 50 Thus was there very great gladness among the people, for that the reproach of the heathen was put away.
51 Moreover Judas and his brethren with the whole congregation of Israel ordained, that the days of the dedication of the altar should be kept in their season from year to year by the space of eight days, from the five and twentieth day of the month Caslu, with mirth and gladness. "At that time also there was one built, and the top with high walls and strong towers round about, lest the Gentiles should come and tread it down, as they had done before. "And they set there a garner to keep it, and fortified Bethsura to preserve it; that the people might have a defence against Idumea.

Now when the nations round about heard that there was one built, and the top was sanctified, as above, it displeased them very much. "Wherefore they thought to destroy the generation of Jacob that was among them, and thereupon they began to slay and destroy the people.

Then Judas fought against the children of Essau in Idumea at Acrabatine, because they besieged Israel: and he gave them a great rent, and abated their courage, and took their spoils. "Also he remembered the injury of the children of Bean, who had been a snare and an offence unto the people, in that they lay in wait for them in the ways. "He shut them up therefore in the towers, and encamped against them, and destroyed them utterly, and burned the towers of that place with fire, and all that were therein.

Afterward he passed over to the children of Ammon, where he found a mighty power, and much people, with Timothens their captain. "So he fought many battles with them, till at length they were discomfited before him; and he smote them. "And when he had taken Jazer, with the towns belonging thereto, he returned into Judea.

Then the heathen that were at Galaad assembled themselves together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to destroy them; but they fled to the fortress of Dathena, and sent letters unto Judas and his brethren, saying, The heathen that are round about us are assembled together against us, and destroy us; now therefore, come and take the fortress whereunto we are fled, Timothens being captain of their host.

Come now therefore, and deliver us from their hands, for many of them are slain: ye, all our brethren that were in the places of Tobie are put to death: their wives and their children also they have carried away captive, and borne away their stuff; and they have destroyed there about a thousand men.

While these letters were yet being read, behold, there came other messengers from Galilee with their clothes rent, who reported on this wise, saying that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and Sidon, and all Galilee of the Gentiles, were assembled together against them to consume us.

Now when Judas and the people heard these words, there assembled a great congregation together, to consult what they should do for their brethren, that were in trouble, and assaulted of them. "Then said Judas unto Simon his brother, Choose thee this company and deliver thy brethren that are in Galilee, for I and Jonathan my brother will go into the country of the heathen, and deliver them; and that which is left of them, I will restore unto them. "For, behold, when Syria shall hear this, she will come upon us, and destroy us; and we cannot stand against them, neither can we help them. "Therefore let us use the means of God, and deliver them before Syria come upon us. "Then they sent a letter unto Syria, and sent to Lebanon, to bring help unto them. "And when they had written, they delivered the letter into the hands of the messengers, and they delivered it unto Syria. "And when Syria read the letter, she sent help unto them, and came to their assistance, and delivered them.

I. Maccabees V. 18—37.

38 So he left Joseph the son of Zachiarias, and Azarias, captains of the people, with the remnant of the host in Judea to keep it. 39 Unto whom he gave commandment, saying, Take ye the charge of this people, and see that ye make not war against the heathen until the time that we come and set them at liberty again. 40 Now when Simon was given three thousand men to go into Galilee, and unto Judas eight thousand men for the country of Galala.

41 Then went Simon into Galilee, where he fought many battles with the heathen, so that the heathen were discomfited by him. 42 And he pursued them unto the gate of Ptolemais; and there were slain of the heathen about three thousand men, whose spoils he took. 43 And those that were in Galilee, and in Arabatis, with their wives and their children, and all that they had, took he away with him, and brought them into Judea with great joy.

44 Judas Maccabeus also and his brother Jonathan went over Jordan, and travelled three days’ journey in the wilderness, 45 where they met with the Nabathites, who came unto them in a peaceable manner, and told them every thing that had happened to their brethren in the land of Galala: 46 and now that many of them were shut up in Bosor, and Bosor, and Alema, Casphor, Maked, and Carnaim; all these cities are strong and great: 47 and that they were shut up in the rest of the cities of the country of Galala, and that against to morrow they had appointed to bring their host against the forts, and to take them, and to destroy them all in one day.

48 Hereupon Judas and his host turned suddenly by the way of the wilderness unto Bosor; and when he had won the city, he slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and took all their spoils, and burned the city with fire. 49 From whence he removed by night, and went till he came to the fortress.

50 And bethine in the morning they looked up, and behold, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders and other engines of war, to take the fortress; for they assaulted them. 51 When Judas therefore saw that the battle was begun, and that the cry of the city went up to heaven, with trumpets, and a great sound, 52 he said unto his host, Fight this day for your brethren. 53 So he went forth behind them in three companies, who sounded their trumpets, and cried with prayer.

54 Then the host of Timotheus, knowing that it was Maccabeus, fled from him: where fore he smote them with a great slaughter; so that there were killed of them that day about eight thousand men. 55 This done, Judas turned aside to Maspha; and after he had assaulted it, he took it, and slew all the males therein, and received the spoils thereof, and burnt it with fire. 56 From thence went he, and took Casphom, Maked, Bosor, and the other cities of the country of Galala.

57 After these things gathered Timotheus another host, and encamped against Raphon
I. Maccabees V. 38–55

52 After this they pitched the tents in the plain before Bethanias. 53 And Judas gathered together those that came behind, and exhorted the people all the way through, till they came into the land of Judea. 54 So they went up to mount Sion with joy and gladness, where they offered burnt offerings, because not one of them was slain until they had returned in peace.

55 Now what time as Judas and Jonathan were in the land of Galad, and Simon his brother in Galilee before Ptolemais,
I. Maccabees V. 56—VI. 6.

56 Joseph the son of Zacharias, and Azarias, captains of the garrisons, heard of the valiant acts and warlike deeds which they had done. 57 Wherefore they said, Let us also get us a name, and go fight against the heathen that are round about us. 58 So when they had given charge unto the garrison, that was with them, they went toward Arabia; 59 and he removed, and his men out of the city to the camp, that they might go. 60 And so it was, that Joseph and Azarias were put to flight, and pursued unto the borders of Judea: and there were slain that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men. 61 Thus was there a great overthrow among the children of Israel, because they were not obedient unto Judas and his brethren, but thought to do some valiant act. 62 Moreover these men came not of the seed of those, by whose hand deliverance was given unto Israel. 63 Howbeit the man Judas and his brethren were greatly renowned in the sight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wheresoever their name was heard of: 64 insomuch as the people assembled unto them with joyful acclamation.

65 Afterward went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought against the children of Esau in the land toward the south, where he smote Hebron, and the towns thereof, and pulled down the fortress of it, and burned not the towers thereof round about.

66 From thence he removed to go into the land of the Philistines, and passed through Samaria.

67 At that time certain priests, desirous to shew their shulam, were slain in battle, for that they went out to fight unadvisedly.

68 So Judas turned to Azotus in the land of the Philistines, and when he had pulled down their altars, and burned their carved images with fire, and spoiled their cities, he returned into the land of Judea.

About that time king Antiochus travelling through the high countries heard say, that Elynais in the country of Persia was a city greatly renowned for riches, silver, and gold; and that he had built there a very rich temple, wherein were coverings of gold, and brass-plates, and shields, which Alexander, son of Philip, the Macedonian king, who reigned first among the Grecians, had left there: 4 wherefore he came and sought to take the city, and to spoil it; but he was not able, because they of the city, having had warning thereof, rose up against him in battle: so he fled, and departed thence with great heaviness, and returned to Babylon.

5 Moreover there came one who brought him tidings into Persia, that the armies, which went against the land of Judea, were put to flight: and that Lysias, who went forth first with a great power, was driven away of the Jews; and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and store of spoils, which they had gotten of the armies, whom they had destroyed: also that they had pulled down the abomination, which he had set up upon the altar in Jerusalem, and that they had compassed about the sanctuary with high walls, as before, and his city Bethura.

9 Now when the king heard these words, he was astonished and sore moved: whereupon he laid him down upon his bed, and fell sick for grief, because it had not befallen him as he looked for. 14 And there he was many days: for his grief was ever more and more, and he made account that he should die. 15 Wherefore he called for all his friends, and said unto them, The sleep is gone from mine eyes, and my heart faileth for very care. 16 And I thought with myself, Into what tribulation am I come, and how great a flood of misery is it whereunto now and ever was bountiful and beloved in my power. 17 But now I remember the evils that I did at Jerusalem, and that I took all the vessels of gold and silver that were therein, and sent to destroy the inhabitants of Judæa without a cause. 18 I perceive therefore that for this cause these troubles are come upon me, and, behold, I perish through great grief in a strange land. 19 Then called he for Philip, one of his friends, whom he made ruler over all his realm. 20 And gave him the crown, and his robe, and his signet, to the end he should bring up his son Antiochus, and nourish him up for the kingdom. 21 So king Antiochus died there in the hundred and forty and ninth year. 22 Now when Lyais knew that the king was dead, he set up Antiochus his son, whom he had brought up being young, to reign in his stead, and his name he called Eupator.

About this time they that were in the tower shut up the Israelites round about the sanctuary, and sought always their hurt, and the strengthening of the heathen. 23 Wherefore Judas, purposing to destroy them, called, all the people together to besiege them. 24 So they came together, and besieged them in the hundred and fiftieth year, and he made mounts for shot against them, and other engines.

Howbeit certain of them that were besieged got forth, unto whom some ungodly men of Israel joined themselves: 25 and they went unto the king, and said, How long wilt thou execute judgment, and avenge our brethren? 26 We have been willing to serve thy father, and to do as he would have us, and to obey his commandments: 27 for which cause they of our nation besiege the tower, and are alienated from us: moreover as many of us as they could light on them, slew, and spoilt our inheritance.

Neither have they stretched out their hand against us only, but also against all their borders. 28 And, behold, this day are they besieging the tower at Jerusalem, to take it: the sanctuary also and Bethsura have they fortified. 29 Wherefore if thou dost not prevent them quickly, they will do greater things than these, neither shalt thou be able to rule them.

Now when the king heard this, he was angry, and gathered together all his friends, and the captains of his army, and those that had charge of the horse. 30 There came also unto him from other kingdoms, and from isles of the sea, bands of hired soldiers. 31 So that the number of his army was an hundred thousand footmen, and twenty thousand horsemen, and three thousand elephants exercised in battle. 32 These went through Idumea, and pitched against Beth gad came to Edessa, and pitched against Beth-gilead.

MAKKABAIΩΝ Α'

I. ΜΑΚΚΑΒΕΕΣ VI. 9—31.
32 Then Judas removed from the tower, and pitched in Bethzacharias; and from henceforth they did not join battle, and the king's army was driven from them. 33 And Judas and his army were garrisoned in Bethzacharias, and sent ambassadors to the king, and the king gave them victuals, and their host did not attack them. 34 And they returned to their camp, and pitched in Bethzacharias. 35 Then Judas remonstrated with the king, and the king sent him victuals, and sent him also an army of horsemen. 36 And Judas returned to Bethzacharias, and pitched there, and sent ambassadors to the king, and the king gave them victuals, and asked them wherefore they had not joined battle. 37 Then Judas answered, and said unto the king, "We have pitched in Bethzacharias, and the king's army is not joined in battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 38 Then we returned to our camp, and pitched in Bethzacharias, and the king sent us victuals, and asked us wherefore we had not joined battle, and we have not taken them. 39 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 40 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 41 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 42 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 43 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 44 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 45 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 46 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 47 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 48 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 49 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them. 50 Therefore we have been driven from them, and the king's army has not joined battle with us, and we have sent ambassadors to the king, and the king has given us victuals, and we have not taken them.
sanctuary, he besieged it many days: and set there artillery with engines and instruments to cast fire and stones, and pieces to cast darts and slings. Whereupon they also made engines against their engines, and held them battle a long season. Yet at the last, their vessels being without victuals (for that it was the seventh year, and they in Judea, that were delivered from the Gentiles, had eaten up the residue of the store;) there were but a few left in the sanctuary, because the famine did so prevail against them, that they were fain to disperse themselves, every man to his own place.

Philip, whom Antiochus the king, while he lived, had appointed to bring up his son Antiochus, that he might be king, was returned out of Persia and Media, and the king's host also that went with him, and that he sought to take unto him the ruling of affairs. Therefore he went in all haste, and said to the king and the captains of the bands of the army, We decay daily, and our victuals are but small, and the place we lay siege unto is strong, and the affairs of the kingdom lie upon us: now therefore let us be friends with these men, and make peace with them, and with all their nation; and covenant with them, that they shall live after their laws, as they did before: for they are therefore displeased, and have done all these things, because we abolished their laws.

So the king and the princes were content: wherefore he sent unto them to make peace; and they accepted thereof. Also the king and the princes made an oath unto them: whereupon they went out of the strong hold. Then the king entered into mount Sion: but when he saw the strength of the place, he brake his oath that he had made, and gave commandment to pull down the wall round about. Afterward departed he in all haste, and returned unto Antioch, where he found Philip to be master of the city: so he fought against him, and took the city by force. In the hundred and one and fifteenth year Demetrius the son of Seleucus departed from Rome, and came up with a few men unto a city of the sea coast, and reigned there. And as he entered into the palace of his ancestors, so it was, that his forces had taken Antiochus and Lysias, to bring him unto him. Wherefore, when he knew it, he said, Let me not see their faces. So his host slew them. Now when Demetrius was set upon the throne of his kingdom, there came unto him all the wicked and ungodly men of Israel, having Aлеcias, who was desirous to be high priest, for their captain: and they accused the people to the king, unto him, Judas and his brethren have slain all the friends, and driven us out of our own land. Now therefore send some man whom thou trustest, and let him go and see what havock he hath made among us, and in the king's land, and let him punish them with all them that aid them.

Then the king chose Baccides, a friend of the king, who ruled beyond the river, and was a great man in the kingdom, and faithful to the king. And him he sent.
with that wicked Alcimus, whom he made high priest, and commanded that he should take vengeance of the children of Israel.

10 So they departed, and came with a great power into the land of Judah, where they sent messengers to Judas and his brethren with peaceable words deceitfully. 11 But they gave no heed to their words; for they saw that they were come with great power.

12 Then did there assemble unto Alcimus and Baccidias a company of scribes, to renew the unsure judgment of Israel that sought peace of them: 13 for said they, One that is a priest of the seed of Aaron is come with this army, and he will do us no wrong. 14 So he spake unto them peaceably, and swore unto them, saying, We will procure the harm neither of you nor your friends.

15 Whereupon they believed him: howbeit he took of them threescore men, and slew them in one day, according to the words which he wrote. 16 The flesh of them that have they cast out, and their blood have they shed round about Jerusalem, and there was none to bury them. 17 Wherefore the fear and dread of them fell upon all the people, who said, There is neither truth nor righteousness in them; for they have broken the covenant and oath that they made.

18 After this removed Baccidias from Jerusalem, and pitched his tents in Bezech, where he sent and took many of the men that had forsaken him, and certain of the people also, and when he had slain them, he cast them into the great pit. 19 Then committed he the country to Alcimus, and left with him a power to aid him: so Baccidias went to the king. 20 But Alcimus contended for the high priesthood. 21 And unto him resorted all such as troubled the people, who, after they had gotten the land of Juda into their power, did much hurt in Israel.

22 Now when Judas saw all the mischief that Alcimus and his company had done among the Israelites, even above the heathen, 23 he went out into all the coasts of Judea round about, and took vengeance of them that had revolted from him, so that they durst not move any forth into the country.

24 On the other side, when Alcimus saw that Judas and his company had gotten the upper hand, and knew that he was not able to abide their force, he went again to the king, and said evil things against them.

25 Then the king sent Nicanor, one of his honourable princes, a man that bare deadly hate unto Israel, with commandment to destroy the people. 26 So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a great force: and sent unto Judas and his brethren deceitfully with friendly words, saying, 27 Let there be no battle between me and you: I come with a few men, that I may see you in peace.

28 He came therefore to Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably. Howbeit the enemies were prepared to take YE leaders by violence. 29 Which thing after it was known to Judas, to wit, that he came unto him with deceit, he was sore afraid of him, and would see his face no more for his life.

30 Nicanor also, when he saw that his counsel was discovered, went out to fight against Judas beside Capharsalama: and there were slain of Nicanaor's side about five thousand men, and the rest fled into the city of David.

43 Then this went Nicanaor up to mount Sion, and there came out of the sanctuary certain of the priests and certain of the elders of the people, to salute him peaceably, and to show him the burnt sacrifice that was offered for the king. 44 But he mocked them, and laughed at them, and abused them shamefully, and spake proudly, and swore in his wrath, saying, Unless Judas and all his people deliver me into my hands, if ever I come again in safety, I will burn up this house: and with that he went out in a great rage.

36 Then the priests entered in, and stood before the altar and the temple, weeping, and saying, Thou, O Lord, didst choose this house to be called by thy name, and to be a house of prayer and petition for thy people: be avenged of this man and his host, and let them fall by the sword: remember their blasphemies, and suffer them not to continue any longer.

37 So Nicanaor went out of Jerusalem, and pitched his tents in Bethoron, where a host out of Syria met him. 40 But Judas pitched in Adasa against them three thousand men, and there he prayed, saying, O Lord, when they that were sent from the king of the Assyrians blasphemed, thine angel went out, and smote an hundred fourscore and five thousand of them. 42 Even so destroy thou this host before us this day, that the rest may know that he hath spoken blasphemously against thy sanctuary, and judge thou him according to his wickedness.

43 So the thirteenth day of the month Adar the hosts joined battle: but Nicanaor's host was discomfited, and he himself was first slain in the battle.

44 Now when Nicanaor's host saw that he was slain, they cast away their weapons, and pursued after them a day's journey, from Adasa unto Gazera, sounding an alarm after them with their trumpets. 46 Whereupon they came forth out of all the towns of Judea round about, and closed in them; so that they, turning back upon them that pursued them, were all slain with the sword, and not one of them was left.

47 Afterwards they took the spoils, and the prey, and smote off Nicanaor's head, and his right hand, which he stretched out so proudly, and brought them away, and hanged them up toward Jerusalem. 48 For this cause the people rejoiced greatly, and kept that day as a day of great gladness.

49 Moreover they ordained to keep yearly this day, being the thirteenth of Adar. Thus the land of Juda was in rest a little while.

Now Judas had heard of the fame of the Romans, that they were mighty and valiant men, and such as would lovingly accept all that joined themselves unto them, and make a league of amity with all that came unto them; and that they were men of great valour. It was told him also of their wars and noble acts which they had done among the Galatians, and how they had conquered them, and brought them under

And because they were strong, they took tribute; and what they had done in the country of Spain, for the winning of the mines of the silver and gold which is there; and also that, whom they would, they had conquered all the places, though it were very far from them; and the kings also that came against them from the uttermost part of the earth, till they had discomfited them, and given them a great overthrow, so that the rest did give them tribute every year: 3 Beside this, how they had discomfited in battle Philip, and Perdiccas, and the Citims, with others that lifted up themselves against them, and had overcome them: 8 how also Antiochus the great king of Asia, that came against them in battle, having an hundred and twenty elephants, with horsemen, and chariots, and a very great army, was discomfited by them; and how they took him alive, and covenanted that he and such as reigned after him should pay a great tribute, and give hostages, and that which was agreed upon, 8 and the country of India, and Media, and Lydia, and of the goodliest countries, which they took of him, and gave to king Eumenes.

Moreover how the Grecians had determined to come and destroy them, 11 and that, they, having knowledge thereof, sent against them a certain captain, and fighting with them slew many of them, and carried away captives their wives and their children, and spoiled them, and took possession of their lands, and pulled down their strong holds, and brought them to be their servants unto this day.

It was told him besides, how they destroyed and brought under their dominion all other kingdoms and isles that at any time resisted them: 12 but with their friends and such as relied upon them they kept amity: and that they had conquered kingdoms both far and nigh, insomuch as all that heard of their name were afraid of them: 13 but when they had help to a kingdom, those reign; and whom again they would, they displace: finally, that they were greatly exalted: 14 yet for all this none of them wore a crown, or was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby: 15 moreover how they had made for themselves a senate house, wherein three hundred and twenty men sat in council daily, consulting alway for the people, to the end they might be well ordered: 16 and that they committed their government to one man every year, who ruled over all their country, and that all were obedient to that one, and that there was neither envy norimulation among them.

In consideration of these things, Judas chose Eupolemus the son of John, the son of Accos, and Jason the son of Eleazar, and sent them to Rome, to make a league of amity and charity with them, 18 and to intreat them that they would take the yoke from them; for they saw that the kingdom of the Grecians did oppress Israel with servitude.

They went therefore to Rome, which was a very great journey, and came into the senate, where they spake and said, 20 Judas Maccabeus with his brethren, and the people of the Jews, have sent us unto you, to make a confederacy and peace with you, and that we might be registered your confederates and friends. 21 So that matter pleased the Romans well.

22 And this is the copy of the epistle which the senate wrote back again in tables of brass, and sent to Jerusalem, that there they might have by them a memorial of peace and confederacy: 23 Good success be to the Romans, and to the people of the Jews, by sea and by land for ever: the sword also and enemy be far from them.

24 If there come first any war upon the Romans or any of their confederates throughout all their dominion, 25 the people of the Jews shall help them, as the time shall be appointed, with all their heart: neither shall they give any thing unto them that make war upon them, or aid them with victuals, weapons, money, or ships, as it hath seemed good unto the Romans: but they shall keep their covenants without taking any thing therefore. 26 In the same manner also, if war come first upon the nation of the Jews, the Romans shall help them with all their heart, according as the time shall be appointed them: 27 neither shall victuals be given to them that take part against them, or weapons, or money, or ships, as it hath seemed good to the Romans; but they shall keep their covenants, and that without deceit.

28 According to these articles did the Romans make a covenant with the people of the Jews. 29 Howbeit if hereafter the one party or the other shall think meet to aid or diminish any thing, they may do it at their pleasures, and whatsoever they shall add or take away shall be ratified.

30 And as touching the evils that king Demetrius doeth to the Jews, we have written unto him, saying. Wherefore hast thou made thy yoke heavy upon our friends and confederates the Jews? 31 If therefore they complain any more against thee, we will do them justice, and fight with thee by sea and by land.

Furthermore when Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his host were slain in battle, he sent Bæchides and Aleimus into the land of Judæa, the second time, and with them the chief strength of his host; who went forth by the way that leadeth to Galgala, and pitched their tents before Masloth, which is in Arbela, and after they had won it, they slew much people. 3 Also the first month of the hundred fifty and second year they encamped before Jerusalem: 4 from whence they removed, and went to Beca, with twenty thousand footmen and two thousand horsemen.

6 Now Judas had pitched his tents at Elesa, and three thousand chosen men with him: 7 who seeing the multitude of the other army to be so great, were sore afraid; whereupon many conveyed themselves out of the host, insomuch as there abode of them perceiued no more but eight hundred men.

7 When Judas therefore saw that his host slipped away, and that the battle pressed upon him, he was sore troubled in mind, and much distressed, for that he had no time to gather them together. Nevertheless unto them that remained he said, Let us arise and go up against our enemies, if peradventure we may be able to fight with them. But they dehort him, saying, We shall never be able: let us now rather save our lives and hereafter we will return with our brethren, and fight against them: for we are but few. 10 Then Judas said, God forbid that I should do this thing, and flee away from them: if our time be come, let us die manfully for our brethren, and let us not stain our honour. 11 With that the host of Bacchides removed out of their tents, and stood over against them, their horsemen being divided into two troops, and their slingers and archers going before the host, and they that marched in the foremost were all mighty men.

12 As for Bacchides, he was in the right wing: so the host drew near on the two parts, and sounded their trumpets. 13 They also of Judas' side, even they sounded their trumpets also, so that the earth shook at the noise of the armies, and the battle continued from morning till night. 14 Now when Judas perceived that Bacchides and the strength of his army were on the right side, he took with him all the hardy men, 15 who discomfited the right wing, and pursued them unto the mount Azotus. 16 But when they of the left saw that they of the right wing were discomfited, they followed upon Judas and those that were with him hard at the heels from behind: 17 whereupon there was a sore battle, insomuch as many were slain on both parts. 18 Judas also was killed, and the remnant fled.

19 Then Jonathan and Simon took Judas their brother, and buried him in the sepulchre of his fathers in Modin. 20 Moreover they bewailed him, and all Israel made great lamentation for him, and mourned many days, saying, 21 How is the valiant man fallen, that delivered Israel! 22 As for the other things concerning Judas and his wars, and the noble acts which he did, and his greatness, they are not written, for they were very many.

23 Now after the death of Judas the wicked began to put forth their hands in all the coasts of Israel, and there arose up all such as were wont to do wickedness. 24 In those days also was there a very great famine, by reason whereof the country revolted, and went with them. 25 Then Bacchides chose the wicked men, and made them lords of the country. 26 And they made enquiry and search for Judas' friends, and brought them unto Bacchides, who took vengeance of them, and used them despitously. 27 So was there a great affliction in Israel, the like whereof was not since the time that a prophet was not seen among them.

28 For this cause all Judas' friends came together, and said unto Jonathan, 29 Since thy brother Judas died, we have no man like him to lead us forth against our enemies, and Bacchides, and against those that are adversaries to us. 30 Now therefore we have chosen thee this day to be our prince and captain in his stead, that thou mayest fight our battles. 31 Upon this Jonathan took the governance upon him at that time, and rose up instead of his brother Judas. 32 But when Bacchides got knowledge thereof, he sought for to slay him.
Then Jonathan, and Simon his brother, and all that were with him, perceiving that, fled into the wilderness of Theco; and pitched their tents by the water of the pool Asphar. 44 Which when Baccicides understood, he came near to Jordan with all his host unto the sabbath day. 45 Now Jonathan had sent his brother John, a captain of the people, to pray his friends the Nabatites, that they might leave with them their carriage, which was much. 46 But the children of Jambri came out of Medata, and took John, and all that he had, and went their way with it.

After this came word to Jonathan and Simon his brother, that the children of Jambri made a great marriage, and were bringing the bride from Nadabatha with a great train, as being the daughter of one of the great princes of Chanaan. 47 Therefore they remembered John their brother, and went up, and hid themselves under the covert of the mountain, 48 where they lifted up their voice and looked, and behold, there was much ado and great carriage: and the bridegroom came forth, and his friends and brethren, to meet them with drums, and instruments of music, and many weapons.

Then Jonathan and they that were with him rose up against them from the place where they lay in ambush, and made a slaughter of them in such sort, as many fell down dead, and the remnant fled into the mountain, and they took all their spoils. 49 Thus was the marriage turned into mourning, and the noise of their melody into lamentation. 50 So when they had avenged fully the blood of their brother, they turned again to the march of Jonathan.

Now when Baccicides heard hereof, he came on the sabbath day unto the banks of Jordan with a great power. 52 Then Jonathan said to his company, Let us go up now and fight for our lives, for it standeth not with us to day, as in time past: 4 for, behold, the battle is before us and behind us, and the war of Jordan on this side and that side, the marsh likewise and wood, neither is there place for us to turn aside. 54 Wherefore cry ye now unto heaven, that ye may be delivered from the hand of your enemies. 55 With that they joined battle, and Jonathan stretched forth his hand to smite Baccicides, but he turned back from him. 56 Then Jonathan and they that were his leaped upon Jordan, and swam over unto the farther bank: howbeit the other passed not over Jordan unto them. 57 So there were slain of Baccicides' side that day about a thousand men.

Afterward returned Baccicides to Jerusalem, and repaired the strong cities in Judea; the fort in Sichem, and Emaus, and Bethhoron, and Bethel, and Thamath, and Pharaohbani, and Taphon, these did he strengthen with high walls, with gates, and with bars. 59 And in them he set a garrison, that they might work malice upon Israel. 60 He fortified also the city Bethsura, and Gaza, and the tower, and put forces in them, and provision of victuals. 61 Besides, he took the chief men's sons in the country for hostages, and put them into the tower at Jerusalem to be kept.

Moreover in the hundred fifty and third year, in the second mouth, Alcimus commanded that the wall of the inner court of the sanctuary should be pulled down; he pulled down also the works of the prophets. 56 And the rest of the time that was Alcimus plagued, and his enterprises hindered: for his mouth was stopped, and he was taken with a palsy, so that he could no more speak any thing, nor give order concerning his house. 57 So Alcimus died at that time with great torment.

58 Now when Bacchides saw that Alcimus was dead, he returned to the king, whereupon the land of Judea was in rest two years. 59 Then all the ungodly men held a council, saying, Behold, Jonathan and his company are at ease, and dwell without care: now therefore we will bring Bacchides hither, who shall take them all in one night. 60 So they went and consulted with him. 61 Then removed he, and came with a great host, and sent his adherents in Judea, that they should take Jonathan and those that were with him: howbeit they could not, because their counsel was known unto them. 62 Wherefore they took of the men of the country, that were authors of that mischief, about fifty persons, and slew them.

63 Afterward Jonathan, and Simon, and they that went with them, got them away to Bethbasi, which is in the wilderness, and they repaired the decays thereof, and made it strong. 64 Which thing when Bacchides knew, he gathered together all his host, and sent word to them that were of Judea.

65 Then went he and laid siege against Bethbasi; and they fought against it a long season, and made engines of war. 66 But Jonathan left his brother Simon in the city, and went forth himself into the country, and with a certain number went he forth. 67 And he smote Odonarres and his brethren, and the children of Phasiron in their tent. 68 And when he began to smite them, and came up with his forces, Simon and his company went out of the city, and burned them that were left. 69 And Bacchides, who was discomfited by them, and they afflicted him sore: for his counsel and travail was in vain. 70 Wherefore he was very wroth at the wicked men that gave him counsel to come into the country, insomuch as he slew many of them, and purposed to return into his own country.

71 Whereof when Jonathan had knowledge, he sent ambassadors unto him, to the end he should make peace with him, and deliver them the prisoners. 72 Which thing he accepted, and did according to his demands, and sware unto him that he would never do him harm all the days of his life. 73 When therefore he had restored unto him the prisoners that he had taken aforetime out of the land, and set them privily in his house, he went his way into his own land, neither came he any more into their borders. 74 Thus the sword ceased out of Israel: but Jonathan dwelt at Machmas, and began to govern the people; and he destroyed the ungodly men out of Israel.

In the hundred and sixtieth year Alexander, the son of Antiochus surnamed Epiphanes, went up and took Ptolemais:
for the people that had received him, by means of whereof he reigned there. 2 Now when king Demetrius heard thereof, he gathered together an exceeding great host, and went forth against him to fight. 3 Moreover Demetrius sent letters unto Jonathan with loving words, so as he magnified him. 4 For said he, Let us first make peace with him, before he join with Alexander against us: 5 else he will remember all the evils that we have done against him, and against his brethren and his people. 6 Wherefore he gave him authority to gather together an host, and to provide weapons, that he might aid him in battle: he commanded also that the hostages that were in the tower should be delivered to him.

7 Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem, and read the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the tower: 8 who were sore afraid, when they heard that the king had given him authority to gather together an host. 9 Whereupon they of the tower delivered their hostages unto Jonathan, and he delivered them unto his parents.

10 This done, Jonathan settled himself in Jerusalem, and began to build and repair the city. 11 And he commanded the workmen to build the walls and the mount Sion round about with square stones for fortification; and they did so.

12 Then the strangers, that were in the fortresses which Bacchides had built, fled away: 13 insomuch as every man left his place, and went into his own country. 14 Only at Bethsura certain of those that had forsaken the law and the commandments remained still: for it was their place of refuge.

15 Now when king Alexander had heard what promises Demetrius had sent unto Jonathan: when also it was told him of the battles and noble acts which he and his brethren had done, and of the pains that they had endured, 16 he said, Shall we find such another man? now therefore we will make him our friend and confederate.

17 Upon this he wrote a letter, and sent it unto him, according to these words, saying, 18 King Alexander to his brother Jonathan sender greeting: 19 We have heard of thee, that thou art a man of great power, and meet to be our friend. 20 Wherefore now this day we ordain thee to be the high priest of thy nation, and to be called the king's friend; (and therewithal he sent him a purple robe and a crown of gold:) and require thee to take our part, and keep friendships in the seventh month of the hundred and sixtieth year, at the feast of the tabernacles, Jonathan put on the holy robe, and gathered together forces, and provided much armour.

21 Whereof when Demetrius heard, he was very sorry, and said, 22 What have we done, that Alexander hath prevented us in making amity with Jonathan? Strengthen himself, and write unto them words of encouragement, and promise them dignities and gifts, that I may have their aid. 23 He sent unto them therefore the effect: King Demetrius unto the people of the Jews sender greeting: 24 Whereas ye have kept covenants with us, and continued in our friendship, not joining yourselves with our enemies, we have heard hereof, and are glad. 27 Wherefore now continue ye still to be faithful unto us, and we will well recompense you for the things ye do in our behalf, 28 and will grant you many immunities, and give you rewards. 29 And this, and I free you, and for your sake I release all the Jews, from tributes, and from the customs of salt, and from crown taxes, 30 and from that which appertaineth unto me to receive for the third part of the seed, and the half of the fruit of the trees, I release it from this day forth, so that they shall not be taken of the land of Juda, nor of the three governments which are added thereunto out of the countries of Samaria and Galilee, from this day forth for evermore. 31 Let Jerusalem also be holy and free, with the borders thereof, both from tenths and tributes. 32 And as for the tower which is at Jerusalem, I yield up my authority over it, and give it to the high priest, that he may set in it such men as he shall choose to keep it. 33 Moreover I freely set at liberty every one of the Jews, that were carried captives out of the land of Juda into any part of my kingdom, and I will that all my officers remit the tributes even of their cattle. 34 Furthermore I will that all the feasts, and subduing the men of my household, and solemn days, and the three days before the feast, and the three days after the feast, shall be all days of immunity and freedom for all the Jews in my realm. 35 Also no man shall have authority to meddle with them, or to molest any in them in any matter. 36 I will further, that there be enrolled among the king's forces about thirty thousand men of the Jews, unto whom pay shall be given, as belongeth to all the king's forces. 37 And of them some shall be placed in the king's strong holds, of whom also some shall be set over the affairs of the kingdom, which are of trust: and I will that their overseers and governors be of themselves, and that they live after their own laws, even as the king hath commanded in the land of Juda. 38 And concerning the three governments that are added to Judea from the country of Samaria, let them be joined with Judea, that they may be reckoned to be under one, nor bound to obey other authority than the high priest. 39 As for Ptolemais, and the land pertaining thereto, I give it as a free gift to the sanctuary at Jerusalem for the necessary expenses of the sanctuary. 40 Moreover I give every year fifteen thousand shekels of silver out of the king's accounts from the places appertaining. 41 And all the overplus, which the officers paid not in as in former time, from henceforth shall be given toward the works of the temple. 42 And beside this, the five thousand shekels of silver, which they took from the uses of the temple out of the accounts year by year, even those things shall be released, because they appertain to the priests that minister. 43 And whosoever they be that flee unto the temple at Jerusalem, or be within the liberties thereof, being indebted unto the king, or for any other matter, let them be at liberty, and all that they have in my realm. 43 For the building also and repairing of the works of the sanctuary, expenses shall be given out of the king's accounts. Yea, and for the building of the walls of Jerusalem, and the fortified thereof round about, expenses shall be given out of the king's accounts, as also for the building of the walls in Judea.

44 Now when Jonathan and the people heard these words, they gave no credit unto them, nor received them, because they remembered the great evil that he had done in Israel: for him had afflicted them very sore.

But with Alexander they were well pleased, because he was the first that entertained of true peace with them, and they were confederate with him always.

45 Then gathered king Alexander great forces, and camped over against Demetrius. 46 And after the two kings had joined battle, Demetrius lost: but Alexander followed after him, and prevailed against them.

And he continued the battle very sore until the sun went down; and that day was Demetrius slain.

Afterward Alexander sent ambassadors to Ptolemei king of Egypt with a message to this effect: 48 as much as I am come again to my realm and am set in the throne of my progenitors, and have gotten the dominion, and overthrown Demetrius, and recovered our country; 49 for after I had joined battle with him, both he and his host was discomfited by us, so that we sit in the throne of his kingdom: 50 now therefore let us make a league of amity together, and give me now thy daughter to wife: and I will be thy son in law, and will give both thee and her gifts according to thy dignity.

Then Ptolemei the king gave answer, saying, Happy be the day wherein thou didst return into the land of thy fathers, and satest in the throne of their kingdom. 52 And now do I take it that thou hast written: meet me therefore at Ptolemais, that we may see one another; for I will marry my daughter to thee according to thy desire.

53 So Ptolemei went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and they came unto Ptolemais in the hundred threescore and second year: 54 where king Alexander meeting him gave unto him his daughter Cleopatra, and celebrated her marriage at Ptolemais with great glory, as the manner of kings is.

55 Now king Alexander had written unto Jonathan, that he should come and meet him. 56 Who thereupon went honourably to Ptolemais, where he met the two kings, and gave him and their friends silver and gold, and many presents, and found favour in their sight.

57 At that time certain pestilent fellows of Ismel, men of a wicked life, assembled themselves against him, to accuse him: but the king would not hear them.

Yea more than that, the king commanded to take all the servants, and put them in purple: and they did so. 60 Also he made him sit by himself, and said unto his princes, Go with him into the midst of the city, and say, This is the man that made me sit down as a king.

'No, we will not be so cruel to thee, but we will give thee thy kingdom again, as that of the ancients. But if thou dost not accept it, we will give it to another.'
Then did Maccabees, together with some other people, gather their forces and march upon the city of Joppe, where the garrison was stationed.

And when Jonathan heard these words of Apollonius, he was moved in his mind, and choosing ten thousand men he went out of Jerusalem, where Simon his brother met him for to help him. And he pitched his tents against Joppe: but they shut him out of the city, because Apollonius had a garrison in Joppe.

Then Jonathan laid siege unto it: whereupon they of the city let him in for fear: and so Jonathan won Joppe. Wherefore when Apollonius heard, he took three thousand horsemen, with a great host of footmen, and went to Azotus as one that journeyed, and therewithal drew him forth into the plain, because he had a great number of horsemen, in whom he put his trust.

Then Jonathan followed after him to Azotus, where the armies joined battle. Now Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen in ambush. And Jonathan knew that there was an ambuscade behind him; for they had compassed in his host, and cast darts at the people, from morning till evening.

But the people stood still, as Jonathan had commanded them: and so the enemies' horses were tired. Then brought Simon forth his host, and set them against the footmen, (for the horsemen were spent,) who were discomfited by him, and fled. The horsemen also, being scattered the fight, fled to Azotus, and went into Beth-dagon, their idol's temple, for safety.
King Ptolemy therefore, having gotten the dominion of the cities by the sea unto Seleucia upon the sea coast, imagined wicked counsels against Alexander. Whereupon he sent ambassadors unto king Demetrius, saying, Come, let us make us a league betwixt us, and I will give thee my daughter whom Alexander hath, and thou shalt reign in thy father's kingdom: for I repent that I gave my daughter unto him, for he sought to slay me. Thus did he slander him, because he was desirous of his kingdom. Wherefore he took his daughter from him, and gave her to Demetrius, and forsook Alexander, so that their hatred was openly known. Then Ptolemy entered into Antioch, where he set two crowns upon his head, the crown of Asia, and of Egypt.

In the mean season was king Alexander in Cilicia, because those that dwelt in those parts had revolted from him. But when Alexander heard of this, he came to war against him; whereupon king Ptolemy brought forth his host, and met him with a mighty power, and put him to flight.

So Alexander fled into Arabia, there to be defended; but king Ptolemy was

But Jonathan set fire on Azotus, and the cities round about it, and took their spoils; and the temple of Dagon, with them that were fled into it, he burned with fire. Thus there were burned and slain with the sword well nigh eight thousand men. And from thence Jonathan removed his host, and camped against Ascalon, where the men of the city came forth, and met him with great pomp. After this returned Jonathan and his host unto Jerusalem, having many spoils.

Now when king Alexander heard these things, he honoured Jonathan yet more, and sent him a buckler of gold, as the use is to be given to such as are of the king's blood: he gave him also Ascaron with the borders thereof in possession.

And the king of Egypt gathered together a great host, like the sand that lieth upon the sea shore, and many ships, and went about through deceit to get Alexander's kingdom, and join it to his own. Whereupon he took his journey into Syria in peaceable manner, so as they of the cities opened unto him and met him: for king Alexander did command them so to do, because he was his father in law.

Now as Ptolemy entered into the cities, he set in every one of them a garrison of soldiers to keep it. And when he came near to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagon that was burnt, and Azotus and the suburbs thereof that were destroyed, and the bodies that were cast abroad, and them that he had burnt in the battle: for they had made heaps of them by the way where he should pass. Also they told the king whatsoever Jonathan had done, to the intent he might blame him: but the king held his peace.

Then Jonathan met the king with great pomp at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and lodged. Afterward Jonathan, when he had gone with the king to the river called Eleutherus, returned again to Jerusalem.

exalted; 19 for Zabdiel the Arabian took off Alexander's head, and sent it unto Ptolemeus. 20 King Ptolemeus also died the third day after, and they that were in the strong holds were slain one of another. 21 By this means Demetrius reigned in the hundred threescore and seventh year. 22 At the same time Jonathan gathered together them that were in Judea, to take the tower that was in Jerusalem: and he made many engines of war against it. 23 Then certain ungodly persons, who hated their own people, went unto the king, and told him that Jonathan besieged the tower. 24 Whereof when he heard, he was angry, and immediately removing, he came to Ptolemais, and wrote unto Jonathan, that he should not lay siege to the tower, but come and speak with him at Ptolemais in great haste. 25 Nevertheless Jonathan, when he heard this, commanded to besiege it still: and he chose certain of the elders of Israel and the priests, and put himself in peril; 26 and took silver and gold, and raiment, and divers presents besides, and went to Ptolemais unto the king, where he found favour in his sight. 27 And though certain ungodly men of the people had made complaints against him, yet the king entreated him as his predecessors had done before, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends, and confirmed him in the high priesthood, and in all the honours that he had before, and gave him pre-eminence among his chief friends. 28 Then Jonathan desired the king, that he would make Judea free from tribute, as also the three governments, with the country of Samaria; and he promised him three hundred talents. 29 So the king consented, and wrote letters unto Jonathan of all these things after this manner: 30 King Demetrius unto his brother Jonathan, and unto the nation of the Jews, sendeth greeting: 31 We send you here a copy of the letter which we did write unto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye might see it. 32 King Demetrius unto his father Lasthenes sendeth greeting: 33 We are determined to do good to the people of the Jews, who are our friends, and keep covenants with us, of their good will toward us. 34 Wherefore we have ratified unto them the borders of Judea, with the three governments of Apherema and Lydda and Ramathem, that are added unto Judea from the country of Samaria, and all things appertaining unto them, for all which as do sacrifice in Jerusalem, instead of the payment which the king received of them yearly aforesight out of the fruits of the earth and of trees. 35 And as for other things that belong unto us, of the tithes and customs pertaining unto us, as also the saltpits, and the crown taxes, which are due unto us, we discharge them of them all for their relief. 36 And nothing hereof shall be revoked from this time forth for ever. 37 Now therefore see that thou make a copy of these things, and let it be delivered unto Jonathan; and set upon the holy mount in a conspicuous place.

33 After this, when king Demetrius saw that the land was quiet before him, and that no resistance was made against him, he sent away all his forces, every one to his own place, except certain bands of strangers, whom he had gathered from the isles of the heathen, and wherefore all the forces of his fathers hated him.

34 Moreover there was one Tryphon, that had been of Alexander's part afore, who, seeing that all the host murmured against Demetrius, went to Simeleue the Arabian, that brought up Antiochus the young son of Alexander, and lay sore upon him to deliver him, that he might reign in his father's stead: he told him therefore all that Demetrius had done, and how his men of war were at enmity with him, and there he remained a long season.

35 In the mean time Jonathan sent unto king Demetrius, that he would cast those of the tower out of Jerusalem, and those also in the fortresses: for they fought against Israel. 36 So Demetrius sent unto Jonathan, saying, I will not only do this for thee and thy people, but I will greatly honour thee and thy nation, if opportunity serve. 37 Now therefore thou shalt do well, if thou send me men to help me; for all my forces are gone from me.

38 Upon this Jonathan sent him three thousand strong men unto Antioch: and when they came to the king, the king was very glad of their coming. 39 Howbeit they that were of the city gathered themselves together into the midst of the city, to the number of an hundred and twenty thousand men, and would have slain the king. 40 Wherefore the king fled into the court, but they of the city kept the passages of the city, and began to fight.

41 Then the king called to the Jews for help, who came unto him all at once, and dispersing themselves through the city alew that day in the city to the number of an hundred thousand. 42 Also they set fire on the city, and got many spoils that day, and delivered the king.

43 So when they of the city saw that the Jews had got the city as they would, their courage was abated: wherefore they made supplication to the king, and cried, saying, 44 Grant us peace, and let the Jews cease from assaulting us and the city. 45 With that they cast away their weapons, and made peace; and the Jews were honoured in the sight of the king, and in the sight of all that were in his realm; and they returned to Jerusalem, having great spoils.

46 So king Demetrius sat on the throne of his kingdom, and the land was quiet before him. 47 Nevertheless he assembled in all that ever he had estranged himself from Jonathan, neither rewarded him according to the benefits which he had received of him, but troubled him very sore. 48 After this returned Tryphon, and with him the young child Antiochus, who reigned, and was crowned. 49 Then there gathered unto him all the men of war, whom Demetrius had put away, and they fought against Demetrius, who turned his back and fled.
1. MACCABEES XI. 56—XII. 2.

Moreover Tryphoun took the elephants, and won Antiochon.

At that time young Antiochus wrote unto Jonathan, saying, I confirm thee in the high priesthood, and appoint thee ruler over the four governments, and to be one of the king's friends. Upon this he sent him golden vessels to be served in, and gave him leave to drink in gold, and to be clothed in purple, and to wear a golden buckle.

His brother Simon also he made captain from that place called the ladder of Tyrus unto the borders of Egypt.

Then Jonathan went forth, and passed through the cities beyond the water, and all the forces of Syria gathered themselves unto him for to help him; and when he came to Ascalon, they of the city met him honourably.

From whence he went to Gaza, but they of Gaza shut him out; wherefore he laid siege unto it, and burned the suburbs thereof with fire, and spoiled them. Afterward, when they of Gaza made supplication unto Jonathan, he made peace with them, and took the sons of their chief men for hostages, and sent them to Jerusalem, and passed through the country unto Damascus.

Now when Jonathan heard that Demetrius' princes were come to Cades, which is in Galilee, with a great power, purposing to remove him out of the country, he went to meet them, and left Simon his brother in the country. Then Simon encamped against Bethsura, and fought against it a long season, and shut it up; but they desired to have peace with him, which he granted them, and then put them out from thence, and took the city, and set a garrison in it.

As for Jonathan and his host, they pitched at the water of Gennesar, from whence betimes in the morning they got them to the plain of Naosor. And, behold, the host of the Syrians met them in the plain, who, having laid men in ambush for him in the mountains, came themselves over against him.

So when they that lay in ambush rose out of their places, and joined battle, all that were of Jonathan's side fled; insomuch as there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the son of Absalom, and Judas the son of Culpin, the captains of the host.

Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and cast earth upon his head, and prayed. Afterwards turning again to battle, he put them to flight, and so they ran away.

Now when his own men that were fled saw this, they loved him again unto him, and with him pursued them to Cades, even unto their own tents, and there they camped.

So there were slain of the heathen that day about three thousand men: but Jonathan returned to Jerusalem.

Now when Jonathan saw that the time served him, and chose certain men, and sent them to Rome, for to confirm and renew the friendship that they had with them. He sent letters also to the Lacedemonians, and to other places, for the same purpose.
So they went unto Rome, and entered into the senate, and said, Jonathan the high priest, and the people of the Jews, sent us unto you, to the end ye should renew the friendship, which ye had with them, and league, as in former time. 4 Upon this the Romans gave them letters unto the governors of every place, that they should bring them into the land of Judea peaceably. 5 And this is the copy of the letters which Jonathan wrote to the Lacedemomians:

Jonathan the high priest, and the elders of the nation, and the priests, and the other people of the Jews, unto the Lacedemomians their brethren send greeting:

There were letters sent in times past unto Onesias the high priest from Darius, who reigned then among you, to signify that ye are our brethren, as the copy here underwritten doth specify. 8 At which time Onesias entreated the ambassador that was sent honourably, and received the letters, wherein declaration was made of the league and friendship.

Therefore we also, albeit we need none of these things, for that we have the holy books of scripture in our hands to comfort us, have nevertheless attempted to send unto you for the renewing of brotherhood and friendship, lest we should become strangers unto you altogether: for there is a long time passed since ye sent unto us.

We therefore at all times without ceasing, both in our feasts, and other convenient days, do remember you in the sacrifices which we offer, and in our prayers, as reason is, and as it becometh us to think upon our brethren: and we are right glad of your honour.

As for ourselves, we have had great troubles and wars on every side, forsoomuch as the kings that are round about us have fought against us. Howbeit we would not be troublesome unto you, nor to others of our confederates and friends, in these wars: for we have help from heaven that succoureth us, so as we are delivered from our enemies, and our enemies are brought under foot. 13 For this cause we chose Numnius, the son of Antiphas, and Antiphas the son of Jason, and sent them unto the Romans, to renew the amity that we had with them, and the former league. 14 We commanded them also to go unto you, and to salute you, and to deliver you our letters concerning the renewing of our brotherhood. Wherefore now ye shall do well to give us an answer thereto.

And this is the copy of the letters which Onias sent. Areus king of the Lacedemomians to Onias the high priest, greeting:

It is found in writing, that the Lacedemomians and Jews are brethren, and that they shall have the stock of Abraham: now therefore, since this is our knowledge, ye shall do well to write unto us of your prosperity. 22 We do write back again to you, that your cattle and goods are our's, and our's are your's. We do command therefore our ambassadors to make report unto you on this wise:

Now when Jonathan heard that Demetrius' princes were come to fight against and all that have any charge: as for me, I will return and depart: for this is the cause of my coming.

And Jonathan believing him, did as he bade him, and so he left the host, who went into the land of Judea. And with himself he retained but three thousand men, of whom he sent two thousand into Galilee, and one thousand went with him.

Now, as soon as Jonathan entered into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates, and took him, and all them that came with him they slew with the sword. Then set enry Tryphon an host of footmen and horsemen into Galilee, and into the great plain, to destroy all Jonathan's company. But when they knew that Jonathan and they that were with him were taken and slain, they encouraged one another, and went close together, prepared to fight.

They therefore that followed upon them, perceiving that they were ready to fight for their lives, turned back again. Whereupon they all came into the land of Judea peaceably, and there they bewailed Jonathan, and them that were with him, and they were sore afraid; wherefore all Israel made great lamentation.

Then all the heathen that were round about them sought to destroy them: for said they, They have no captain, nor any to help them: now therefore let us make war upon them, and take away their memorial from among men.

Now when Simon heard that Tryphon had gathered together a great host to invade the land of Judea, and destroy it, and saw that the people was in great trembling and fear, he went up to Jerusalem, and gathered the people together, and gave them exhortation, saying, Ye yourselves know what great things I, and my brethren, and my father's house, have done for the laws and the sanctuary, the battles also and troubles where we have seen, by reason whereof all my brethren are slain for Israel's sake, and I am left alone.

Now therefore be it far from me, that I should spare mine own life in any time of trouble: for I am no better than my brethren. Doubtless I will avenge my nation, and the sanctuary, and our wives, and our children: for all the heathen are gathered to destroy us of very malice.

Now, as soon as the people heard these words, their spirit revived. And they answered with a loud voice, saying, Thou shalt be our leader instead of Judas and Jonathan thy brother. Fight thou our battles, and whatsoever thou commandest us, that will we do.

So then he gathered together all the men of war, and made haste to finish the walls of Jerusalem, and he fortified it round about. Also he sent Jonathan the son of Absalom, and with him a great power, to Joppé: who casting out them that were therein remained there in it.

The host was removed from Ptolemais with a great power to invade the land of Judea, and Jonathan was with him in ward. But Simon pitched his tents at Adida, over against the plain.

Now when Tryphon knew that Simon was risen up instead of his brother Jonathan, and meant to join battle with him, he sent messengers unto him, saying, "Whereas we have Jonathan thy brother in hold, it is for money that he is owing unto the king's treasure, concerning the business that was committed unto him. Wherefore now send an hundred talents of silver, and two of his sons for hostages, that when he is at liberty he may not revolt from us, and we will let him go."

"Hereupon Simon, albeit he perceived that they spake deceitfully unto him, yet sent he the money and the children, lest peradventure he should procure to himself great hatred of the people: who might have said, Because I sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Jonathan dead. So he sent them the children and the hundred talents: howbeit Tryphon dispersed, neither would he let Jonathan go."

"And after this came Tryphon to invade the land, and desired of it, going round about by the way that ledeth unto Modin: but Simon and his host marched against him in every place, wheresoever he went."

"Wherefore Tryphon made ready all his horsemen to come that night: but there fell a very great snow, by reason whereof he came not. So he departed, and came into the country of Galad. And when he came near to Bascama, he slew Jonathan, who was buried there. Afterward Tryphon returned and went into his own land."
friend of kings, as also unto the elders and nation of the Jews, sendeth greeting: 37 The golden crown, and the scarlet robe, which ye sent unto us, we have received: and we are ready to make a steadfast peace with you, yea, and to write unto our officers, to confirm the immunities which we have granted. 38 And whatsoever covenant we have made with you shall stand; and the strong holds, which ye have builded, shall be your own. 39 As for any oversight or fault committed unto this day, we forgive it, and the crown tax also, which ye owe us: and if there were any other tribute paid in Jeru- salem to it shall no more be paid. 40 And look who are meet among you to be in our court, let them be enrolled, and let there be peace betwixt us.

Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken away from Israel in the hundred and seventieth year. 42 Then the people of Israel began to write in their instruments and contracts, in the first year of Simon the high priest, the governor and leader of the Jews. 43 In those days Simon camped against Gaza, and besieged it round about; he made also an engine of war, and set it by the city, and battered a certain tower, and took it. 44 And they that were in the engine leaped into the city; whereupon there was a great uproar in the city, insomuch as the people of the city rent their clothes, and climbed upon the walls with their wives and children, and cried with a loud voice, beseeching Simon to grant them peace. 45 And they said, Deal not with us according to our wickedness, but according to thy mercy.

46 Simon was appeased toward them, and fought no more against them, but put them out of the city, and cleansed the houses wherein the idols were, and so entered into it with songs and thanksgiving. 47 Yea, he put all uncleanness out of it, and placed such men there as would keep the law, and made it stronger than it was before, and built there a dwelling place for himself. 48 The also of the tower in Jerusalem were kept so strait, that they could neither come forth, nor go into the country, nor buy, nor sell: wherefore they were in great distress for want of victuals, and a great number of them perished through famine. 49 Then cried they to Simon, beseeching him to be at one with them: which thing he granted them; and when he had put them out from hence, he cleansed the tower from pollutions; 50 and entered into it the third and twentieth day of the second month, in the hundred seventy and first year, with thanksgiving, and branches of palm trees, and with harps, and cymbals, and with viols, and hymns: because there was destroyed a great enemy out of Israel. 51 He ordained also that that day should be kept every year with gladness. Moreover the hill of the temple that was by the tower he made stronger than it was, and there he dwelt himself with his company. 52 And when Simon saw that John his son was a valiant man, he made him captain of all the hosts; and he dwelt in Gaza.

Now in the hundred threescore and twelfth year king Demetrius gathered his forces together, and went into Media, to get him help to fight against Tryphon.
2 But when Arsaces, the king of Persia and Media, heard that Demetrius was encircled within his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him alive: 3 who went and smote the host of Demetrius, and took him, and brought him to Arsaces, by whom he was put in ward.

4 As for the land of Judea, that was quiet all the days of Simon; for he sought the good of his nation in such wise, as that ever more and more the city and honour pleased them well. 5 And he was so good in all his acts, so in this, that he took Joppa for an haven, and made an entrance to the isles of the sea, 6 and enlarged the bounds of his nation, and recovered the country, 7 and gathered together a great number of captives, and had the dominion of Gazara, and Bethsura, and the tower, out of the which he took all uncleanness, neither was there any that resisted him.

8 Then did they till their ground in peace, and the earth gave her increase, and the trees of the field their fruit. 9 The ancient men sat all in the streets, communing together of good things, and the young men put on glorious and warlike apparel. 10 He was wise in all his acts; and was set in them all manner of munition, so that his honourable name was renowned unto the end of the world.

11 He made peace in the land, and Israel rejoiced with great joy: 12 for every man sat under his vine and his fig tree, and there was none to trouble them: 13 neither was there any that did fight against them: 14 and the people thereof lived securely, and was in quiet, and there was none that made them afraid. 15 Moreover he strengthened all those of his people that were brought low: the law he searched out; and every contemnor of the law and wicked person he took away. 16 He beautified the sanctuary, and multiplied the vessels of the temple.

17 Now when it was heard at Rome, and as far as Sparta, that Demetrius was dead, they were afraid as they heard that his brother Simon was made high priest in his stead, and ruled the country, and the cities therein: 18 they wrote unto him in tables of brass, to renew the friendship and league which they had made with Judas and Jonathan his brethren: 19 which writings were read before the congregation at Jerusalem.

20 And this is the copy of the letters that the Lacedemonians sent: The rulers of the Lacedemonians, with the city, unto Simon the high priest, and the elders, and priests, and residue of the people of the Jews, our brethren, send greeting: 21 The ambassadors that were sent unto our people certified us of your glory and honour: wherefore we were glad of the tidings, and did register the things that they spake in the council of the people in this manner: Numenius son of Antiochus, and Antipater son of Jason, the Jews' ambassadors, came unto us, to renew the friendship they had with us.

22 And it pleased the people to entertain the men honourably, and to put the copy of their ambassadors in public records, to the end the glory of the Lacedemonians might have a memorial thereof: furthermore we have written a copy thereof unto Simon the high priest.
After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome with a great shield of gold of a thousand pound weight, to confirm the league with them. If so, the people heard, they said, What thanks shall we give to Simon and his sons? For he and his brethren and the house of his father have established Israel, and chased away in fight their enemies from them, and confirmed their liberation.

Then they wrote it in tables of brass, which they set upon pillars in mount Zion: and this is the copy of the writing: The eighteenth day of the month Ethel, in the hundred threescore and twelfth year, being the third year of Simon the high priest, at Saramel in the great congregation of the priests, and people, and rulers of the nation, and elders of the country, were these things notified unto us.

Forasmuch as oftentimes there have been wars in the country, wherein for the maintenance of their sanctuary, and the law, Simon the son of Mattathias, of the posterity of Jarib, together with his brethren, and themselves in jeopardy, and resisting the enemies of their nation did their nation great honour:

(For after that Jonathan, having gathered his nation together, and been their high priest, was added to his people, their enemies purposed to invade their country, that they might destroy it, and lay hands on the sanctuary: at which time Simon rose up, and fought for his nation, and spent much of his own substance, and armed the valiant men of his nation, and gave them wages, and fortified the cities of Judea, together with Bethsura, that lieth upon the borders of Judea, where the armour of the enemies had been before; but he set a garrison of Jews there; moreover he fortified Joppa, which lieth upon the sea, and Gazara, that bordereth upon Azotos, where the enemies had dwelt before: but he placed Jews there, and furnished them with all things convenient for the reparation thereof.)

The people therefore, seeing the acts of Simon, and unto what glory he thought to bring them, made him prince and chief priest, because he had done all these things, and for the justice and faith which he kept to his nation, and for that he sought by all means to exalt his people.

For in his time things prospered in his hands, so that the heathen were taken out of their country, and they also that were in the city of David in Jerusalem, who had made themselves a tower of which they issued, and polluted all about the sanctuary, and did much hurt in the holy place; but he placed Jews therein, and fortified it for the safety of the country and the city, and raised up the walls of Jerusalem.

King Demetrius also confirmed him in the high priesthood according to those things which he done one of his friends, and honoured him with great honour.

For he had heard say, that the Romans had called the Jews their friends and confederates and brethren; and that they had entertained the ambassadors of Simon honourably: also that the Jews and priests were well pleased that Simon should be their governor and high priest for ever.

until there should arise a faithful prophet; moreover that he should be their captain, and should take charge of the sanctuary, to set them over their works, and over the country, and over the armour, and over the fortresses, that, I say, he should take charge of the sanctuary; besides this, that he should be obeyed of every man, and that all the writings in the country should be made in his name, and that he should be clothed in purple, and wear gold.

Also that it should be lawful for none of the people or priests to break any of these things, or to gainsay his words, or to gather an assembly in the country without him, or to be clothed in purple, or to wear a buckle of gold: and whosoever should do otherwise, or break any of these things, he should be punished. Thus it liked all the people to deal with Simon, and to do as hath been said. Then Simon accepted thereof, and was well pleased to be high priest, and captain and governor of the Jews and priests, and to defend them all.

So they commanded that this writing should be put in tables of brass, and that they should be set up within the compass of the sanctuary in a conspicuous place; also that the copies thereof should be laid up in the treasury, to the end that Simon and his sons might have them.

Moreover Antiochus son of Demetrius the king sent letters from the isles of the sea unto Simon the high priest and prince of the Jews, and to all the people; the contents whereof were these: King Antiochus to Simon the high priest and prince of his nation, and to the people of the Jews, greeting:

Forasmuch as certain pestilent men have usurped the kingdom of our fathers, and my purpose is to challenge it again, that I may restore it to the old estate, and to that end have gathered a multitude of foreign soldiers together, and prepared ships of war; 1 that I may go through the country, that I may be avenged of them that have destroyed it, and made many cities in the kingdom desolate: 2 now therefore I confirm unto thee all the oblations which the kings before me granted thee, and whatsoever gifts besides they granted.

I give thee leave also to coin money for thy country with thine own stamp. 3 And as concerning Jerusalem and the sanctuary, let them be free; and all the armour that thou hast made, and fortresses that thou hast built, and keepest in thine hands, let them remain unto thee. 4 And if any thing be, or shall be, owing to the king, let it be forgiven thee from this time forth for evermore.

Furthermore, when we have obtained our kingdom, we will honour thee, thy nation, and thy temple, with great honour, so that thy honour shall be known throughout the world.

10 In the hundred threescore and fourteenth year went Antiochus into the land of his fathers: at which time all the forces came together unto him, so that few were left with Tryphon.

11 Wherefore being pursued by king Antiochus, he fled unto Dora, which lieth by the sea side: 12 for he saw that troubles came upon him all at once, and that his forces had forsaken him.
Then camped Antiochus against Dora, having with him an hundred and twenty thousand men of war, and eight thousand horsemen. And when he had compassed the city round about, and joined ships close to the town on the sea side, he vexed the city by land and by sea, neither suffered he any to go out or in.

In the mean season came Numerius and his army from Rome, having letters to the kings and countries; wherein were written these things:

Lucius, consul of the Romans unto king Ptolemeus, greeting: The Jews' ambassadors, our friends and confederates, came unto us to renew the old friendship and league, being sent from Simon the high priest, and from the people of the Jews; and they brought a shield of gold of a thousand pound. We thought it good therefore to write unto the kings and countries, that they should do them no harm, nor fight against them, their cities, or countries, nor yet aid their enemies against them. It seemed also good to us to receive the shield of them. Therefore there be as pestilent fellows, that have fled from their country unto you, deliver them unto Simon the high priest, that he may punish them according to their own law.

The same things wrote he likewise unto Demetrius the king, and Attalus, to Ariarathes, and Arsaces, and to all the countries, and to Samanes, and the Laodeciemonians, and to Delus, and Myndus, and Seion, and Caria, and Samos, and Panphylia, and Lycia, and Halicarnassus, and Rhodus, and Phaselis, and Cos, and Side, and Aradus, and Gortyna, and Oldus, and Cyrene. And the copy hereof they wrote to Simon the high priest.

Antiochus the second day, assaulting it continually, and making engines, by which means he shut up Tryphon, that he could neither go out nor in.

At that time Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to aid him; silver also, and gold, and much armour. Nevertheless he would not receive them, but brake all the convenants which he had made with him aforesaid, and became strange unto him.

Furthermore he sent unto him Athenobius, one of his friends, to commune with him, and say, Ye withhold Joppa and Gazzara, with the tower that is in Jerusalem, which are cities of my realm. The borders thereof ye have wasted, and done great wrongs and injuries, and have taken away, and have defiled my dominion of many places within my kingdom. Now therefore deliver the cities which ye have taken, and the tributes of the places, whereof ye have gotten dominion without the borders of Judea: or else give me for them five hundred talents of silver: and for the harm that ye have done, and the tributes of the other cities, other five hundred talents: if not, we will come and fight against you.

So Athenobius the king's friend came to Jerusalem: and when he saw the glory of Simon, and the cupboards of gold and silver plate, and his great attendance, he was astonished, and told him the king's message.

Then answered Simon, and said unto him, We have neither taken other men's land, nor holden that which appertained to others, but the inheritance of our fathers, which our enemies had wrongfully in possession a certain time. Wherefore we, having opportunity, hold the inheritance of our fathers. And whereas thou demandest Joppa and Gazara, albeit they did great harm unto the people in our country, yet will we give an hundred talents for them.

Hereunto Athenobius answered him not a word; but returned in a rage to the king, and made report unto him of these speeches, and of the glory of Simon, and of all that he had seen: whereupon the king was exceeding wroth. In the mean time fled Tryphon by ship unto Orthosias.

So Cendebeus came to Jamnia, and began to provoke the people, and to invade Judea; and to take the people prisoners, and slay them. And when he had built up Cedron, he set horsemen there, and an host of footmen, to the end that issuing out they might make outroads upon the ways of Judea, as the king had commanded him.

Then came up John from Gazara, and told Simon his father what Cendebeus had done.

Wherefore Simon called his two eldest sons, Judas and John, and said unto them, I, and my brethren, and my father's house, have ever from our youth unto this day fought against the enemies of Israel; and things have prospered so well in our hands, that we have delivered Israel oftentimes. But now I am old, and ye, by God's mercy, are of a sufficient age: be ye instead of me and my brother, and go and fight for our nation, and the help from heaven be with you.

So he chose out of the country twenty thousand men of war with horsemen, who went out against Cendebeus, and rested that night at Modin.

And when as they rose in the morning, and went into the plain, behold, a mighty great host both of footmen and horsemen came against them: howbeit there was a water brook betwixt them. So he and his people pitched over against them: and when he saw that the people were afraid to go over the water brook, he went first over himself, and then the men seeing him passed through after him. That done, he divided his men, and set the horsemen in the midst of the footmen: for the enemies' horsemen were very many.

Then sounded they with the holy trumpets: whereupon Cendebeus and his host were put to flight, so that many of them were slain, and the remnant got them to the strong hold.

At that time was Judas John's brother wounded; but John still followed after them, until he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had built. 10 So they fled even unto the towers in the fields of Azotus; wherefore he burned it with fire: so that there were slain of them about two thousand men. Afterward he returned into the land of Judea in peace.

11 Moreover in the plain of Jericho was Ptolemeus the son of Abubus made captain, and he had abundance of silver and gold: 12 for he was the high priest's son in law. 13 Wherefore his heart being lifted up, he thought to get the country to himself, and thereupon consulted deceitfully against Simon and his sons to destroy them.

14 Now Simon was visiting the cities that were in the country, and taking care for the good ordering of them; at which time he came down himself to Jericho with his sons, Mattathias and Judas, in the hundred threescore and seventeenth year, in the eleventh month, called Sabat: 15 where the son of Abubus receiving them deceitfully into a little hold, called Docus, which he had built, made them a great banquet: howbeit he had hid men there.

16 So when Simon and his sons had drunk largely, Ptolemeus and his men rose up, and took their weapons, and came upon Simon into the banqueting place, and slew him, and his two sons, and certain of his servants. 17 In which doing he committed a great treachery, and recompensed evil for good.

18 Then Ptolemeus wrote these things, and sent to the king, that he should send him an host to aid him, and he would deliver him the country and cities.

19 He sent others also to Gazara to kill John: and unto the tribunes he sent letters to come unto him, that he might give him silver, and gold, and rewards. 20 And others he sent to take Jerusalem, and the mountain of the temple.

21 Now one had run afore to Gazara, and told John that his father and brethren were slain, and, quoth he, Ptolemeus hath sent to slay thee also. 22 Hereof when he heard, he was sore astonished: so he laid hands on them that were come to destroy him, and slew them: for he knew that they sought to make him away.

23 As concerning the rest of the acts of John, and his wars, and worthy deeds which he did, and the building of the walls which he made, and his doing, behold, these are written in the chronicles of his priesthood, from the time he was made high priest after his father.
Then the brethren, the Jews that be at Jerusalem and in the land of Judea, were in trouble.

2 God be gracious unto you, and remember his covenant that he made with Abra-

3 ham, Isaac, and Jacob, his faithful servants; and give you all an heart to serve him, and to do his will, with a good courage and a willing mind; and open your hearts in his law and commandments, and send you peace, and hear your prayers, and be at one with you, and never forsake you in time of trouble. And now we be here praying for you.

7 What time as Demetrius reigned, in the hundred threescore and ninth year, we the Jews wrote unto you in the extremity of trouble that came upon us in those years, from the time that Jason and his company revolted from the holy land and kingdom, and burned the porch, and shed innocent blood: then we prayed unto the Lord, and were heard; we offered also sacrifices and fine flour, and lighted the lamps, and set forth the loaves. And now see that ye keep the feast of tabernacles in the month Casleu.

10 In the hundred fourscore and eighth year, the people that were at Jerusalem and in Judea, and the council, and Judas, sent greeting and health unto Antiochus, king Ptolemaeus' master, who was of the stock of the anointed priests, and to the Jews that were in Egypt:

11 Insomuch as God hath delivered us from great perils, we thank him highly, as having been in battle against a king.

13 For he cast them out that fought within the holy city.

15 For when the leader was come into Persia, and the army with him that seemed invincible, they were slain in the temple of Nanaea by the deceit of Nanaea's priests.

16 Antiochus, as though he would marry her, came into the place, and his friends that were with him, to receive money in name of a dowry. Which when the priests of Nanaea had set forth, and he was entered with a small company into the compass of the temple, they shut the temple as soon as Antiochus was come in; and opening a privy door of the roof, they threw stones like thunderbolts, and struck down the captain, heaved them in pieces, smote off their heads, and cast them to those that were without.
Blessed be our God in all things, who hath delivered up the ungodly.

Therefore whereas we are now purposed to keep the purification of the temple upon the five and twentieth day of the month Casleu, we thought it necessary to certify you thereof, that ye also might keep it, as the feast of the tabernacles, and of the fire which was given us when Neemias offered sacrifice, after that he had builded the temple and the altar.

For when our fathers were led into Persia, the priests that were then devout, took the fire of the altar privily, and hid it in a hollow place of a pit without water, where they kept it sure, so that the place was unknown to all men.

Now after many years, when it pleased God, Neemias, being sent from the king of Persia, did send of the posterity of those priests that had hid it to the fire: but when they told us they found no fire, but thick water; then commanded he them to draw it up, and bring it; and when the sacrifices were laid on, Neemias commanded the priests to sprinkle the wood and the things laid thereupon with the water.

When this was done, and the time came that the sun shone, which afore was hid in the cloud, there was a great fire kindled, so that every man marvelled.

And the priests made a prayer whilst the sacrifice was consuming. I say, both the priests, and all the rest, Jonathan beginning, and the rest answering thereunto, as Neemias did.

And the prayer was after this manner: O Lord, Lord God, Creator of all things, who art fearful and strong, and righteous, and merciful, and the only and gracious King, the only giver of all things, the only just, almighty, and everlasting, thou that deliverest Israel from all trouble, and didst choose the fathers, and sanctify them: receive the sacrifice for thy whole people Israel, and preserve thine own portion, and sanctify it. Gather those together that are scattered from us, deliver them, that serve among the heathen, look upon them that are despised and abhorred, and let the heathen know that thou art our God. Punish them that oppress us, and with pride do us wrong. Plant thy people again in thy holy place, as Moses hath spoken. And the priests sung psalms of thanksgiving.

Now when the sacrifice was consumed, Neemias commanded the water that was left to be poured on the great stones.

When this was done, there was kindled a flame: but it was consumed by the light that shined from the altar.

So when this matter was known, it was told the king of Persia, that in the place, where the priests that were led away had hid the fire, there appeared water, and that Neemias had purified the sacrifices therewith.

Then the king, inclosing the place, made it holy, after he had tried the matter.

And the king took many gifts, and bestowed thereof on those whom he would gratify. And Neemias called this thing Naphhtar, which is as much as to say, a cleansing: but many men call it Nephi.
It is also found in the records that Jeremy the prophet commanded them that were carried away to take of the fire, as it hath been signified: and how that the prophet, having given them the law, charged them not to forget the commandments of the Lord, and that they should not err in their minds, when they see images of silver and gold, with their ornaments. And with other such speeches exhorted he them, that the law should not depart from their hearts.

It was also contained in the same writing, that the prophet, being warned of God, commanded the tabernacle and the ark to go with him, as he went forth into the mountain, where Moses climbed up, and saw the heritage of God. And when Jeremy came thither, he found an hollow cave, wherein he laid the tabernacle, and the ark, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the door.

And some of those that followed him came to mark the way, but they could not find it. Wherefore, when Jeremy perceived, he blamed them, saying, it shall be unknown until the time that God gather his people again together, and receive them unto mercy. Then shall the Lord shew them these things, and the glory of the Lord shall appear, and the cloud also, as it was shewed under Moses, and as when Solomon desired that the place might be magnificently sanctified.

It was also declared, that he being wise offered the sacrifice of dedication, and of the finishing of the temple. And as when Moses prayed unto the Lord, the fire came down from heaven, and consumed the sacrifices: even so prayed Solomon also, and the fire came down from heaven, and consumed the burnt offerings. And Moses said, Because the sin offering was not to be eaten, it was consumed. So Solomon kept those eight days.

The same things also were reported in the writings and commentaries of Neemias; and how he founding a library gathered together the acts of the kings, and the prophets, and of David, and the epistles of the kings concerning the holiness. In like manner also Judas gathered together all those things that were lost by reason of the war we had, and they remain with us. Wherefore if ye have need thereof, send some to fetch them unto you.

Whereas we then are about to celebrate the purification, we have written unto you, and ye shall do well, if ye keep the same days. We hope also, that the God, that delivered all his people, and gave them all an heritage, and the kingdom, and the priesthood, and the sanctuary, as he promised in the law, will shortly have mercy upon us, and gather us together out of every land under heaven into the holy place: for he hath delivered us out of great troubles, and hath purified the place.

Now as concerning Judas Maccabeus, and his brethren, and the purification of the great temple, and the dedication of the altar, and the wars against Antiochus Epiphanes, and Eupator his son, and the manifest signs that came from heaven unto those that behaved themselves manfully to their honour for Judaism: so that, being but a few, they overcame the whole country, and chased barbarous multitudes, and recovered again the temple renowned all the world over, and freed the city, and upheld the laws which were going down, the Lord being gracious unto them with all favour. And when they were being declared by Jason of Cyrene in five books, we will assay to abridge in one volume.

For considering the infinite number, and the difficulty which they find that desire to look into the narrations of the story, for the variety of the matter, we have been careful, that they that will read may have that hand that they desire to commit to memory might have ease, and that all into whose hands it comes might have profit.

Therefore to us, that have taken upon us this painful labour of abridging, it was not easy, but a matter of sweat and watching; even as it is no ease unto him that prepareth a banquet, and seeth the benefit of others. For the pleasure of many we will undertake gladly this great pains; leaving to the author the exact handling of every particular, and labouring to follow the rules of an abridgment. For as the master builder of a new house must care for the whole building; but he that undertaketh to set it out, and paint it, must seek out his things for the adorning thereof; even so I think it is with us. To stand upon every point, and go over things at large, and to be curious in particulars, belongeth to the first author of the story: but to use brevity, and avoid much labouring of the work, is to be granted to him that will make an abridgment.

Here then will we begin the story: only adding thus much to that which hath been said, that it is a foolish thing to make a long prologue, and to be short in the story itself.

Now when the holy city was inhabited with all peace, and the laws were kept very well, because of the godliness of Onias the high priest, and his hatred of wickedness, it came to pass that even the kings themselves did good things in the place, and magnify the temple with their best gifts; insomuch that Seleucus king of Asia of his own revenues bare all the costs belonging to the service of the sacrifices.

But one Simon of the tribe of Benjamin, who was made governor of the temple, fell out with the high priest about disorder in the city. And when he could not overcome Onias, he got him to Apollonius the son of Thraseas, who then was governor of Cæsarea and Phenice, and told him that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of infinite sums of money, so that the multitude of their riches, which did not pertain to the account of the sacrifices, was innumerable, and that it was possible to bring all into the king's hand.

Now when Apollonius came to the king, and had shewed him of the money whereof he was told, the king chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandment to bring him the foresaid money.

So forthwith Heliodorus took his journey, under a colour of visiting the cities of Cæsarea and Phenice, but indeed to fulfil the king's purpose.

II. MACCABEES III. 9—26.

9 And when he was come to Jerusalem, and had been courteously received of the high priest of the city, he told him: what intelligence was given of the money, and declared wherefore he came, and asked if these things were so indeed.

10 Then the high priest told him that there was no such money laid up for the relief of widows and fatherless children: and that some of it belonged to Hircanus son of Tobias, a man of great dignity, and not as that wicked Simon had misinformed: the sum whereof in all was four hundred talents of silver, and two hundred of gold:

11 and that it was altogether impossible that such wrongs should be done unto them, that had committed it to the holiness of the place, and to the majesty and inviolable sanctity of the temple, honoured over all the world.

12 But Heliodorus, because of the king's commandment given him, said, That in any wise it must be brought into the king's treasury. 13 So at the day which he appointed he entered in to order this matter: wherefore there was no small agony throughout the whole city. 14 But the priests, prostrating themselves before the altar in their priests' vestments, called unto heaven upon him that made a law concerning things given to be kept, that they should safely be preserved for such as had committed them to be kept.

15 Then whose had looked the high priest in the face: he would have wounded his heart: for his countenance and the changing of his colour declared the inward agony of his mind. 16 For the man was so compassed with fear and horror of the body, that it was manifest to them that looked upon him, what sorrow he had now in his heart.

17 Others ran flocking out of their houses to the general supplication, because the place was like to come into contempt. 18 And the women, girt with sackcloth under their breasts, abounded in the streets, and the virgins that were kept in, ran, some to the gates, and some to the walls, and others looked out of the windows. 19 And all, holding their hands toward heaven, made supplication.

20 Then it would have pitted a man to see the falling down of the multitude of all sorts, and the fear of the high priest, being in such an agony. 21 They then called upon the Almighty Lord to keep the things committed of trust safe and sure for those that had committed them.

22 Nevertheless Heliodorus executed that which was decreed.

23 Now as he was there present himself with his guard about the treasury, the Lord of spirits, and the Prince of all power caused a great apparition, so that all that presumed to come in with him were astonished at the power of God, and fainted, and were sore afraid. 24 For there appeared unto them an horse with a terrible rider upon him, and adorned with a very fair covering, and he ran fiercely, and with great noise at Heliodorus with his forefoot, and it seemed that he that sat upon the horse had complete harness of gold.

25 Moreover two other young men appeared before him, notable in strength, excellent in beauty, and comely in apparel, who stood by him on either side, and scourged him continually, and gave him many sore stripes.

27 And Heliodorus fell suddenly unto the ground, and was compassed with great darkness: but they that were with him took him up, and put him into a litter. 28 Thus him, &c. &c. they came with a great train and with all his guard into the same temple, they carried out, being unable to help himself with his weapons: and manifestly they acknowledged the power of God: 29 for he by the hand of God was cast down, and lay speechless without all hope of life.

30 But they praised the Lord, that had miraculously honoured his own place: for the temple, which a little afore was full of fear and trouble, when the Almighty Lord appeared, was filled with joy and gladness.

31 Then straightways certain of Heliodorus’ friends prayed Onias, that he would call upon the most High to grant him his life, who lay ready to give up the ghost. 32 So the high priest, suspecting lest the king should perceive that some treasons had been done to Heliodorus by the Jews, offered a sacrifice for the health of the man.

33 Now as the high priest was making an atonement, the same young men in the same clothing appeared and stood beside Heliodorus, saying, give Onias the high priest great thanks, insomuch as for his sake the Lord hath granted thee life: 34 and seeing that thou hast been scourged from heaven, declare unto all men the mighty power of God. And when they had spoken these words, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus, after he had offered sacrifice unto the Lord, and made great rows unto him that had saved his life, and saluted Onias, returned with his host to the king. 36 Then testified he to all men the works of the great God, which he had seen with his eyes.

37 And when the king asked Heliodorus, who might be a fit man to be sent yet once again to Jerusalem, he said, 38 If thou hast any enemy or traitor, send him thither, and receive him well scourged, if he escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is an especial power of God. 39 For he that dwelleth in heaven hath his eye on that place, and defendeth it; and he beareth and destroyeth them that come to hurt it.

40 And the things concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasury, fell out on this sort. This Simon now, of whom we spake afore, having been a bewrayer of the money, and of his country, slandered Onias, as if he had terrified Heliodorus, and been the worker of these evils. 2 Thus was he bold to call him a traitor, that had deserved well of the city, and tendered his own nation, and was so zealous of the laws.

3 But when their hatred went so far, that by one of Simon’s faction murders were committed, Onias seeing the danger of this contention, and that Apollonius, as being the governor of Celosyria and Phenie, did rage, and increase Simon’s malice.

4 he wrote not to be an accuser of his countrymen, but seeking the good of all, both public and private: 6 for he saw that it was impossible that the state should continue quiet, and Simon leave his folly, unless the king did look thereunto.

But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, called Epiphanes, took the kingdom, Jason the brother of Onias laboured underhand to be high priest; promising unto the king by intercession three hundred and threescore talents of silver, and of another revenue eighty talents: besides this, he promised to assign an hundred and fifty more, if he might have licence to set him up a place for exercise, and for the training up of youth in the fashions of the heathen, and to write them of Jerusalem by the name of Antiochians. Which when the king had granted, and he had gotten into his hand the rule, he withall brought his own nation to the Greekish fashion.

And the royal privileges granted of special favour to the Jews by the means of John the father of Eupolemus, who went ambassador to Rome for amity and aid, he took away; and putting down the governments which were according to the law, he brought up new customs against the law: for he built gladly a place of exercise under the tower itself, and brought the chief young men under his subjection, and made them wear a hat.

Now such was the height of Greek fashions, and increase of heathenish manners, through the exceeding profaneness of Jason, that ungodly wretch, and no high priest; that the priests had no courage to serve any more at the altar, but despising the temple, and neglecting the sacrifices, fastened to be partakers of the unlawful allowance in the place of exercise, after the game of Discus called them forth; not setting by the honours of their fathers, but liking the glory of the Grecians best of all.

By reason whereof sore calamity came upon them: for they had them to be their enemies, and for them they followed so earnestly, and unto whom they desired to be like in all things. For it is not a light thing to do wickedly against the laws of God; but the time following shall declare these things.

Now when the game that was used every fifth year was kept at Tyrus, the king being present, this ungracious Jason sent special messengers from Jerusalem, who were Antiochians, to carry three hundred drachms of silver to the sacrifice of Hercules, which even the bearers thereof thought fit not to bestow upon the sacrifice, because it was not convenient, but to be reserved for other charges. This money then, in regard of the sender, who was appointed to Hercules' sacrifice; but because of the bearers thereof it was employed to the making of gallows.

Now when Apollonius the son of Menesitheus was sent into Egypt for the coronation of king Ptolemeus Philometor, Antiochus, understanding him not to be well affected to his affairs, provided for his own safety; whereon he came to Dophæ, and from thence to Jerusalem, where he was honourably received of Jason, and of the city, and was brought in with torch light, and with great shoutings: and so afterward went with his host unto Phenice.

Three years afterward Jason sent Menelaus, the aioresaid Simon's brother, to bear the money unto the king, and to put him in mind of certain necessary matters. 24 But he being brought to the presence of the king, when he had magnified him for the glory and greatness of his power, got the priesthhood to himself, offering more than Jason by three hundred talents of silver. 25 So he came with the king's mandate, bringing nothing worthy the high priesthood, but having the fury of a cruel tyrant, and the rage of a savage beast.

Then Jason, who had undermined his own brother, being undermined by another, was cast into prison by order of the Ammonites. 27 So Menelaus got the principality: but as for the money that he had promised unto the king, he took no good order for it, albeit Sostatus the ruler of the castle required it: 28 for unto him appertained the gathering of the customs, whereof they were both called before the king.

While those things were in doing, they of Tarsus and Mallos made insurrection, because they were given to the king's concubine, called Antiochis. 33 Then came the king in all haste to appease matters, leaving Andronicus, a man in authority, for his deputy.

Now Menelaus, supposing that he had gotten a convenient time, stole certain vessels of gold out of the temple, and gave some of them to Andronicus, and some he sold into Tyre and the cities round about.

Which when Onias knew of a surely, he repented him, and withdrew himself into a sanctuary at Daphne, that lieth by Antiochis.

Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus apart, prayed to him to get Onias into his hands; who being persuaded thereunto, and coming to Onias in deceit, gave him his right hand with oaths; and though he were suspected by him, yet persuaded him to open forth of the sanctuary, whom forthwith he shut up without regard to justice. 35 For the which cause not only the Jews, but many also of other nations, took great indignation, and were much grieved for the unjust murder of the man.

And when the king was come again from the places about Cilicia, the Jews that were in the city, and certain of the Greeks that abhorred the fact also, complained because Onias was slain without cause. 37 Therefore Antiochis was heartily sorry, and moved to pity, and wept, because of the sober and modest behaviour of him that was dead. 38 And being kindled with anger, forthwith he took away Andronicus his prince, and went out of the city, and leading him through the whole city unto that very place, where he had committed impiety against Onias, there slew he the cursed murderer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserved.

Now when many sacrifices had been committed in the city by Lysmachus with the consent of Menelaus, and the rumour thereof was spread abroad, the multitude gathered themselves together against Lysi-

In the end therefore he had an unhappy return, being accused before Aretas the king of the Arabian Arabians, fleeing from city to city, pursued of all men, hated as a foraker of the laws, and being had in abomination as an open enemy of his country and countrymen, he was cast out into Egypt. 9 Thus he that had driven many out of their country perished in a strange land, returning to the Macedonians, and thinking there to find succour by reason of his kindred: 10 and he that had cast out many unburied had none to mourn for him, nor any solemn funerals at all, nor sepulchre with his fathers.

Now when this that was done came to the king's ear, he thought that Judas had revolted: whereupon removing out of Egypt in a furious mind, he took the city by force of arms, 12 and commanded his men of war not to spare such as they met, and to slay such as went up upon the houses.

Thus there was killing of young and old, making away of men, women, and children, slaying of virgins and infants. 14 And thus were destroyed within the space of three whole days fourscore thousand, whereof forty thousand were slain in the conflict; and no fewer sold than slain.

Yet was he not content with this, but presumed to go into the most holy temple of all the world: Menelaus, that traitor to the laws, and to his own country, being his guide: 16 and taking the holy vessels with polluted hands, and with profane hands pulling down the things that were dedicated by other kings to the augmentation and glory and honour of the place, he gave them away.

And so haughty was Antiochus in mind, that he considered not that the Lord was angry for a while for the sins of them that dwelt in the city, and therefore his eye was not dwelt upon the place. 18 For had they not been formerly wrapped in many sins, this man, as soon as he had come, had withthold been scourged, and put back from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to view the treasury.

Now with God, God did not choose the people for the place's sake, but the place for the people's sake. 20 And therefore the place itself, that was partaker with them of the adversity that happened to the nation, did afterward communicate in the benefits sent from the Lord: and as it was forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty, so great the Lord being reconciled, it was set up with all glory.

So when Antiochus had carried out of the temple a thousand and eight hundred talents, he departed in all haste unto Antioch, weening in his pride to make the land navigable, and the sea passable by foot: such was the haughtiness of his mind.

And he left governors to vex the nation: at Jerusalem, Philip, for his country a Puriycian, and 23 for manners more barbarous than he that set him there; and at Gerasim, Andronicus; and besides, Menelaus, who worst of all the rest bare an heavy hand over the citizens, having a malicious mind against his countrymen the Jews.

He sent also that detestable ringleader Apollonius with an army of two and twenty thousand, commanding him to slay all those that were in their best age, and to sell the thousands of them, and to slay all those that were in their best age, and to sell the 25 as God had said, they set up the ark of the covenant in a tent. They made a display of sacred vessels and other sacrificial offerings, and they sang songs of praise and thanksgiving, as prescribed by the law of Moses.

26 So the people rejoiced, and the Lord, being glorified, was praised in the temple of Jerusalem. The Lord thus demonstrated to the world that he is the true God and that his people are his chosen ones. And the Lord, who had promised to be with his people, was with them in the temple of Jerusalem, as he had promised.

women and the younger sort: 25 who coming to Jerusalem, and pretending peace, did forbear till the holy day of the sabbath, when taking the Jews keeping holy day, he commanded his men to arm themselves. 26 And so he slew all them that were gone to the celebrating of the sabbath, and running through the city with weapons, slew great multitudes.

27 But Judas Maccabeus with nine others, or thereabout, withdrew himself into the wilderness, and lived in the mountains after the manner of beasts, with his company, who fed on herbs continually, lest they should be partakers of the pollution. Not long after this the king sent an old man of Athens to the Jews: and to pollute also the temple in Jerusalem, and to call it the temple of Jupiter Olympius; and that in Garizim, Jupiter the defender of strangers, as they did desire that dwell in the place.

28 The coming in of this mischief was sore and grievous to the people: 29 for the temple was filled with riot and revelling by the Gentiles, who dallied with harlots, and had to do with women within the circuit of the holy places, and besides that brought in things that were not lawful. 30 The altar also was filled with profane things, which the law forbidden. 31 Neither was it lawful for a man to keep sabbath days or ancient feasts, or to profess himself at all to be a Jew. 32 And in the days of his lordly birth every month they were brought by bitter constraint to eat of the sacrifices; and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, the Jews were compelled to go in procession to Bacchus, carrying ivy.

33 Moreover there went out a decree to the neighbour cities of the heathen, by the suggestion of Ptolemeus, against the Jews, that they should observe the same fashions, and be partakers of their sacrifices: and whoso would not conform themselves to the manners of the Gentiles should be put to death. Then might a man have seen the present misery.

34 For there were two women brought, who had circumcised their children; whom when they had openly led round about the city, the babes hanging at their breasts, they cast them down headlong from the wall. 35 And others, that had run together into caves near by, to keep the sabbath day secretly, being discovered to Philip, were all burnt together, because they made a conscience to help themselves for the honour of the most sacred day.

36 Now I beseech those that read this book, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they judge those punishments not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nation. For it is a token of his great goodness, when wicked doers are not suffered any longer time, but forthwith punished.

37 For not as with other nations, whom the Lord patiently forbeareth to punish, till they be come to the fulness of their sins, so deal he with us, lest that, being come to the height of sin, afterwards he should take vengeance of us. And therefore he never withdrew his mercy from us: and though he punish with adversity, yet doth he never forsake his people. 17 But let this that we have spoken be for a warning unto us. And now will we come to the declaring of the matter in a few words.

18 Eleazar, one of the principal scribes, an aged man, and of a well-favoured countenance, was constrained to open his mouth, and to eat swine's flesh. 19 But he, choosing rather to die gloriously, than to live stained with such an abomination, spit it forth, and came of his own accord to the torment. 20 As it behoved them to come, that are resolute to stand out against such things as are not lawful for love or life to be tasted. 21 But Eleazar said, that he would have charge of that wicked feast, for the old acquaintance they had with the man, taking him aside, besought him to bring flesh of his own provision, such as was lawful for him to use, and make as if he did eat of the flesh taken from the sacrifice commanded by the king: 22 that in so doing he might be delivered from death, and for the old man's sake, by those that had the charge of that feast. 23 But he began to consider discreetly, and as became his age, and the excellency of his ancient years, and the honour of his gray head; whereto he was come, and his most honest education from a child, or rather the holy law made and given by God: therefore he answered accordingly, and wished them straightways to send him to the grave.

24 For it became not our age, said he, in any wise to disseeme, whereby many young persons might think that Eleazar, being fourscore years old and ten, were now gone to a strange religion; 25 and so they through mine hypocrisy, and desire to live a little time and a moment longer, should be deceived by me, and I get a stain to mine old age, and make it abominable. 26 For though for the present time I should be delivered from the punishment of men: yet should I not escape the hand of the Almighty, neither alive, nor dead.

27 Wherefore now, manfully changing this life, I will shew myself such an one as mine age requireth, 28 and leave a notable example to such as be young to die willingly and cheerfully, for the honourable and holy laws. And when he had said these words, immediately he went to the torment: 29 that they led him changing the good will they bare him a little before into hatred, because the foresaid speeches proceeded, as they thought, from a desperate mind.

30 But when he was ready to die with stripes, he groaned, and said, It is manifest unto the Lord, that hath the holy knowledge, that whereas I might have been delivered from death, I now endure sore pains in body by being beaten; but in soul am well content to suffer these things, because I fear him. 31 And thus this man died, leaving his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memorial of virtue, not only unto young men but unto all his nation.

It came to pass also, that seven brethren with their mother were taken, and compelled by the king against the law to taste swine's flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whips.

32 But one of them that spake first said thus, What wouldst thou ask or learn of us? we are ready to die, rather than to transgress the laws of our fathers.
Then the king, being in a rage, commanded pans and caldrons to be made hot; which forthwith being heated, he commanded to cut out the tongue of him that spake first, and to cut off the utmost parts of his body, the rest of his brethren and his mother looking on.

Now when he was thus maimed in all his members, he commanded him being yet alive to be brought to the fire, and to be fried in the pan: and as the vapour of the pan was for a good space dispersed, they exorted one another with the mother to die manfully, saying thus, The Lord God looketh upon us, and in truth hath comfort in us, as Moses in his song, which witnessed to their faces, declared, saying, And he shall be comforted in his servants.

So when the first was dead after this manner, they brought the second to make him a mocking stock: and when they had pulled off the skin of his head with the hair, they asked him, Wilt thou eat, before thou be punished through all every member of thy body?

But he answered in his own language, and said, No. Wherefore he also received the next torment in order, as the former did. And when he was at the last gasp, he said, Thou like a fury takest us out of this present life, but the King of the world shall raise us up, who have died for his laws, unto everlasting life.

After him was the third made a mocking stock: and when he was required he put out his tongue, and that right soon, holding forth his hands manfully, and said courageously, These I had from heaven; and for his laws I despise them; and from him I hope to receive them again. Insomuch that the king, and they that were with him, marvelled at the young man's courage, for that he nothing regarded the pains.

Now when this man was dead also, they tormented and mangled the fourth in like manner. So when he was ready to die he said thus, It is good, being put to death by men, to look for hope from God to be raised up again by him: as for thee, thou shalt have no resurrection to life.

Afterward they brought the fifth also, and mangled him. Then looked he unto the king, and said, Thou hast power over men, thou art corruptible, thou dost what thou wilt: yet think not that our nation is forsaken of God: for therefore marvellous things are done unto us.

But think not thou, that takest in hand to strive against God, that thou shalt escape the anger of God, and suffer no punishment. But the mother was marvellous above all, and worthy of honourable memory: for when she saw her seven sons slain within the space of one day, she bare it with a good courage, because of the hope she had in the Lord. Yea, she exhorted every one of them in her own language, filled with courteous and good words, and strong in her womanish thoughts with a manly stomach, she said unto them, I cannot tell how ye...

came into my womb; for I neither gave you birth nor life, neither was it I that formed the members of every one of you; 22 but doubtless the Creator of the world, who formed the generation of man, and found out the beginning of all things, will also of his own mercy give you birth and life again, as ye now regard not your own selves for his laws’ sake.

23 Now Antiochus, thinking himself despised, and setting it to be a reproachful speech, whilst the youngest was yet alive, did not only exhort him by words, but also assured him with oaths, that he would make him both a rich and a happy man, if he would turn from the laws of his fathers; and that also he would take him for his friend, and trust him with affairs.

But when the young man would in no case hearken unto him, the king called his mother, and exhorted her that she would counsel the young man to save his life. 24 And when he had exhorted her with many words, she promised him that she would counsel her son.

But she bowing herself toward him, laughing the cruel tyrant to scorn, spoke in her care an other speech: O son, have pity upon me that bare thee nine months in my womb, and gave thee suck three years, and nourished thee, and brought thee up unto this age, and endured the troubles of education. 25 I beseech thee, my son, look upon the heaven and the earth, and all that is therein, and consider that God made them of things that were not, and so was mankind made likewise. 26 Fear not this tormentor, but, being worthy of thy brethren, take thy death, that I may receive thee again in mercy with thy brethren.

While she was yet speaking these words, the young man said, Whom wait ye for? I will not obey the king’s commandment: but I will obey the commandment of the law that was given unto our fathers by Moses. 27 And thou, that hast been the author of all mischief against the Hebrews, shalt not escape the hands of God.

For we suffer because of our sins. And though the living Lord be angry with us a little while for our chastening and correction, yet shall he be at mine again with his servants. 28 But thou, O godless man, and of all other most wicked, be not lifted up without a cause, nor puffed up with uncertain hopes, lifting up thy hand against the servants of God: 29 for thou hast not yet escaped the judgment of Almighty God, who seeth all things.

For our brethren, who now have suffered a short punishment under God’s covenant of everlasting life: but thou, through the judgment of God, shalt receive just punishment for thy pride. 30 But I, as my brethren, offer up my body and life for the laws of our fathers, beseeching God that he would speedily be merciful unto our nation; and that thou by tortures and plagues mayest be witness, that he alone is God; 31 and that in me and my brethren the wrath of the Almighty, which is justly brought upon all our nation, may cease.

Then the king, being in a rage, handled him worse than all the rest, and took it grievously that he was mocked. 32 So this koulian, odté eis to piteuma kai tin xoion voun eigrasimvo, kai tin ekastou stouqueiros omv égy oierúthima. II. Maccabees VII 41—VIII. 16.

man died undefiled, and put his whole trust in the Lord.
41 Last of all after the sons the mother died.
42 Let this be enough now to have spoken concerning the idolatrous feasts, and the extreme tortures.

Then Judas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went privily into the towns, and called their kinsfolks together, and took unto them all such as continued in the Jews religion, and assembled about six thousand men.

And they called upon the Lord, that he would look upon the people that was trodden down of all; and also pity the temple profaned of ungodly men; and that he would have compassion upon the city, sore defaced, and ready to be made even with the ground; and hear the blood that cried unto him, and remember the wicked slaughter of harmless infants, and the blasphemies committed against his name; and that he would shew his hatred against the wicked.

Now when Maccabeus had his company about him, he could not be withstood by the heat of the day; for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy. Therefore he came at unawares, and burnt up towns and cities, and got into his hands the most commodious places, and overcame and put to flight no small number of his enemies.

But specially he took advantage of the night for such pravy attempts, insomuch that the fruit of his manliness was spread every where.

So when Philip saw that this man increased by little and little, and that things prospered with him still more and more, he wrote unto Ptolemeus, the governor of Celsyria and Phenece, to yield more aid to the king’s affairs.

Then forthwith choosing Nicanor the son of Patroclus, one of his special friends, he sent him with no fewer than twenty thousand of all nations under him, to root out the whole generation of the Jews; and with him he joined also Gorgias a Judah, who in matters of war had great experience.

So Nicanor undertook to make so much money of the captive Jews, as should defray the tribute of two thousand talents, which the king was to pay to the Romans. Wherefore immediately he sent to the cities upon the sea coast, proclaiming a sale of the captive Jews, and promising that they should have fourscore and ten bodies for one talent, not expecting the vengeance that was to follow upon him from the Almighty God.

Now when word was brought unto Judas of Nicanor’s coming, and he had imparted unto those that were with him that the army was at hand, they that were fearful, and distrusted the justice of God, fled, and conveyed themselves away.

Others sold all that they had left, and withal besought the Lord to deliver them, being sold by the wicked Nicanor before they met together: and if not for their own sakes, yet for the covenants he had made with their fathers, and for his holy and glorious name’s sake, by which they were called.

So Maccabeus called his men together... unto the number of six thousand, and exhorted them not to be stricken with terror of the enemy, nor to fear the great multitude of the heathen, who came wrongfully against them; but to fight manfully, 19 and to set before them the argument that they had unjustly done to the holy place, and the cruel handling of the city whereof they made a mockery, and also the taking away of the government of their forefathers: 20 For they, said he, trust in their weapons and boldness; but our confidence is in the Almighty God, who at a beak can cast down both them that come against us, and also all the world.

Moreover he recounted unto them what helps their forefathers had found, and how they were delivered, when under Sennacherib an hundred fourscore and five thousand perished. 21 And he told them of the battle that they had in Babylonia with the Galtians, how they came but eight thousand in all to the business, with four thousand Macedonians, and that the Macedonians being perplexed, the eight thousand destroyed an hundred and twenty thousand because of the help that they had from heaven, and so received a great booty.

Thus when he had made them bold with these words, and ready to die for the laws and the country, he divided his army into four parts; 22 and joined with himself his own brethren, leaders of each band, to wit, Simon, and Joseph, and Jonathan, giving each one fifteen hundred men. 23 Also he appointed Eleazar to read the holy book; and when he had given them this watchword: The help of God: himself leading the first band, he joined battle with Nicanor.

And by the help of the Almighty they slew above nine thousand of their enemies, and wounded and maimed the most part of Nicanor's host, and so put all to flight; 24 and took their money that came to buy them, and pursued them far; but lacking time they rested, and the following day it was the day before the sabbath, and therefore they would no longer pursue them.

So when they had gathered their armour together, and spoiled their enemies, they occupied themselves about the sabbath, yielding exceeding praise and thanks to the Lord, who had preserved them unto that day, which was the beginning of mercy distilling upon them.

And after the sabbath, when they had given part of the spoils to the maimed, and the widows, and orphans, the residue they divided among themselves and their ser-tants. 25 When this was done, and they had made a common supplication, they besought the merciful Lord to be reconciled with his servants for ever.

Moreover of those that were with Timothens and Bacchides, who fought against them, they slew above twenty thousand, and very easily got high and strong holds,
and divided among themselves many spoils more, and made the maimed, orphans, dowries, men, and the aged also, equal in spoils with themselves. And when they had gathered their armour together, they laid them up all carefully in convenient places, and the remnant of the spoils they brought to Jerusalem.
Whereupon Howbeit and but so and, thus they slew also Philarches, that wicked person, who was with Timotheus, and had annoyed the Jews many years. Furthermore at such time as they kept the feast for the victory in their country they burnt Callisthenes, [and some others] that had set fire upon the holy gates, who had fled into a little house; and they received a reward meet for their wickedness.

As for that most famous Nicanor, who had brought a thousand merchants to buy the Jews, 35 he was through the help of the Lord brought down by them, of whom he made least account; and putting off his glorious apparel, and discharging his company, he came like a fugitive servant through the midland unto Antioch, having very great dishonour, for that his host was destroyed. 36 Thus he, that took upon him to make good to the Romans their tribute by means of the captives in Jerusalem, told abroad, that the Jews had God to fight for them, and therefore they could not be hurt, because they followed the laws that he gave them.

About that time came Antiochus with dishonour out of the country of Persia. 2 For he had entered the city called Persopolis, and went about to rob the temple, and to hold the city; whereupon the multitude running to defend themselves with their weapons put them to flight; and so it happened, that Antiochus being put to flight of the inhabitants returned with shame.

Now when he came to Ecbatane, news was brought him what had happened unto Nicanor and Timotheus. 3 Then swelling with anger, he thought to avenge upon the Jews the disgrace done unto him by those that made him flee. Therefore commanded he his chariotman to drive without ceasing, and to dispatch the journey, the judgment of God now following him. For he had spoken proudly in this sort, That he would come to Jerusalem, and make it a common burying place of the Jews. 4

But the Lord Almighty, the God of Israel, smote him with an invariable and invisible plague: for as soon as had spoken these words, a pain of the bowels that was remediless came upon him, and sore torments of the inner parts; 5 and that most justly: for he had tormented other men's bowels with many and strange torments. 6

Howbeit he nothing at all ceased from his bragging, but still was filled with pride, breathing out fire in his rage against the Jews, and commanding to haste the journey: but it came to pass that he fell down from his chariot, carried violently; so that having a sore fall, all the members of his body were much pained.

And thus he that a little afore thought he might command the waves of the sea, (so proud was he beyond the condition of men) and weigh the high mountains in a balance, was now cast on the ground, and carried in an horselitter, shewing forth unto all the manifest power of God. 7 So that, the worms rose up out of the body of this wicked man, and whiles he lived in sorrow and pain, his flesh fell away, and the filthiness of his smell was noisome to all his army. 8

And the man, that thought a little afore...
II. Maccabees IX. 11—28.

ne could reach to the stars of heaven, no man could endure to carry for his intolerable stink.

11 Therefore, being plagued, he began to leave off his great pride, and to come to the knowledge of himself by the scourge of God, his pain increasing every moment.

12 And when he himself could not abide his own smell, he said these words, It is meet to be subject unto God, and that a man that is mortal should not proudly think of himself, as if he were God.

13 This wicked person vowed also unto the Lord, who now no more would have mercy upon him, saying thus, 14 That the holy city (to the which he was going in haste, to lay it even with the ground, and to make it a common burying place,) he would set at liberty:

15 and as touching the Jews, whom he had judged not worthy so much as to be buried, but to be cast out with their children to be devoured of the fowls and wild beasts, he would make them all equals to the citizens of Athens: 16 and the holy temple, which before he had spoiled, he would garnish with godly gifts, and restore all the holy vessels with many more, and out of his own revenues he would pay all the charges belonging to the sacrifices:

17 yet, and that also he would become a Jew himself, and go through all the world that was inhabited, and declare the power of God.

18 But for all this his pains would not cease: for the just judgment of God was come upon him: therefore despairing of his health, he wrote unto the Jews the letter written, containing the form of a supplementation, after this manner:

Antiochus, king and governor, to the good Jews his citizens wisheth much joy, health, and prosperity: 20 if ye and your children fare well, and your affairs be to your contentment, I give very great thanks to God, having my hope in heaven.

21 As for me, I was weak, or else I would have remembered kindly your honour and good will. Returning out of Persia, and being taken with a grievous disease, I thought it necessary to care for the common safety of all: 22 not distrust mine health, but having great hope to escape this sickness.

23 But considering that even my father, at what time he led an army into the high countries, appointed a successor, 24 to the end that, if any thing fell out contrary to expectation, or if any tidings were brought that were grievous, they of the land, knowing to whom the state was left, might not be troubled:

25 Again, considering how that the princes that are borderers and neighbours unto my kingdom wait for opportunities, and expect what shall be the event, I have appointed my son Antiochus king, whom I often committed and commended unto many of you, when I went up into the high provinces; to whom I have written as followeth:

26 Therefore I pray and request you to remember the benefits that I have done unto you generally, and in special, and that every man will be still faithful to me and my son.

27 For I am persuaded that he understanding my mind will favourably and graciously yield to your desires.

Thus the murderer and blasphemer
II. Maccabees IX. 29—X. 17.

having suffered most grievously, as he entreated other men, so died he a miserable death in a strange country in the mountains. And Philip, that was brought up with him, carried away his body, who also fearing the son of Antiochus went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

Now Maccabees and his company, the Lord guiding them, recovered the temple and the city; but the altars which the heathen had built in the open-street, and also the chapels, they pulled down. And having cleansed the temple they made another altar, and striking stones they took fire out of them, and offered a sacrifice after two years, and set forth incense, and lights, and shewbread. When that was done, they fell flat down, and besought the Lord that they might come no more into such troubles; but if they sinned any more against him, that he himself would chasten them with mercy, and that they might not be delivered unto the blasphemous and barbarous nations.

Now upon the same day that the strangers profaned the temple, on the very same day it was cleansed again, even the five and twentieth day of the same month, which is Casleu.

And they kept eight days with gladness, as in the feast of the tabernacles, remembering that not long afore they had held the feast of the tabernacles, when as they wandered in the mountains and dens like beasts. Therefore they bare branches, and fair boughs, and palms also, and sang psalms unto him that had given them good success in cleansing his place. They ordained also by a common statute and decree, That every year those days should be kept of the whole nation of the Jews.

And this was the end of Antiochus, called Epiphanes.

Now will we declare the acts of Antiochus Epiphanes, who was the son of this wicked man, gathering briefly the calamities of the wars. When he was grown to his years, he set one Lysias over the affairs of his realm, and appointed him chief governor of Cyprus and Phenicia.

For Ptolemeus, that was called Maccon, choosing rather to do justice unto the Jews for the wrong that had been done unto them, endeavoured to continue peace with them. Whereupon being accused of the king's friends before Epiphanes, and called traitor at every word, because he had left Cyprus, that Philometor had committed unto him, and departed to Antiochus Epiphanes, and seeing that he was in no honourable place, he was so discouraged, that he poisoned himself and died.

But when Gorgias was governor of the holds, he hired soldiers, and nourished war continually with the Jews; and thereby the Idumeans, having gotten into their hands the most commodious holds, kept the Jews occupied, and receiving those that were banished from Jerusalem, they went about to nourish war.

Then they that were with Maccabees made supplication, and bought God that he would be their helper; and so they ran with violence upon the strong holds of the Idumeans, and assaulting them strongly.
they won the holds, and kept off all that fought upon the wall, and slew all that fell into their hands, and killed no fewer than twenty thousand.

And because certain, who were no less than nine thousand, were fled together into two very strong castles, having all manner of things convenient to sustain the siege, Maccabees left Simon and Joseph, and Zaccheus also, and them that were with him, which were enough to besiege them, and departed himself unto those places which more needed his help.

Now they that were with Simon, being led with covetousness, were persuaded for money through certain of those that were in the castle, and took seventy thousand drachms, and let some of them escape. 21 But when it was told Maccabees what was done, he called the governors of the people together, and accused those men, that they had sold their brethren for money, and set their enemies free to fight against them.

So he slew those that were found traitors, and immediately took the two castles. 23 And having good success with his weapons in all things he took in hand, he slew in the two holds more than twenty thousand.

Now Timotheus, whom the Jews had overcome before, when he had gathered a great multitude of foreign forces, and horses out of Asia not a few, came as though he would take Jewry by force of arms. 2 But when he drew near, they that were with Maccabees turned themselves to pray unto God, and sprinkled earth upon their heads, and girded their loins with sackcloth, 26 and fell down at the foot of the altar, and besought him to be merciful to them, and to be an enemy to their enemies, and an adversary to their adversaries, as the law declareth. 27 So after the prayer they took their weapons, and went on further from the city: and when they drew near to their enemies, they kept by themselves.

Now the sun being newly risen, they joined both together; the one part having together with their virtue their refuge also unto the Lord for a pledge of their success and victory: the other side making their rare levee of their battle. 22 But when the battle waxed strong, there appeared unto the enemies from heaven five comely men upon horses, with bridles of gold, and two of them led the Jews, 23 and took Maccabees betwixt them, and covered him on every side with their weapons, and kept him safe, but shot arrows and lightnings against the enemies: so that being continued without blindness, and full of trouble, they were killed. 24 And there were slain of soldiers twenty thousand and five hundred, and six hundred horsemen.

As for Timotheus himself, he fled into a very strong hold, called Gazarra, where Ceros was governor.

But they that were with Maccabees laid siege against the fortress courageously four days. 24 And they that were within, trusting to the strength of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and uttered wicked words.

Nevertheless upon the fifth day early twenty young men of Maccabees' company, inflamed with anger because of the blas-
Having, as it were, the wall manfully, and with a fierce courage killed all that they met withal. Others likewise ascending after them, while they were busied with them that were within, burnt the towers, and kindling fires burnt the blasphemers alive; and others broke open the gates, and, having taken ten of the army, took the city, and killed Timotheus, that was hid in a certain pit, and Ochreas his brother, with Apollodorus.

When this was done, they praised the Lord with psalms and thanksgiving, who had done so great things for Israel, and given them the victory.

Not long after this, Lysias the king's protector and counsellor, who also managed the affairs, took sore displeasure for the things that were done. And when he had gathered about fourscore thousand with all the horsemen, he came against the Jews, thinking to make the city an habitation of the Gentiles, and to make a gain of the temple, as of the other chapels of the heathen, and to set the high priest ever as king.

But not all considering the power of God, but puffed up with his ten thousands of footmen, and his thousands of horsemen, and his fourscore elephants.

So he came to Judea, and drew near to Bethsura, which was a strong town, but distant from Jerusalem about five furlongs and he laid sore siege unto it.

Now when they that were with Maccabees heard that he besieged the holds, they and all the people with lamentation and tears besought the Lord that he would send a good angel to deliver Israel. Then Maccabees himself first of all took weapons, exhorting the other that they would jeopard themselves together with him to help their brethren: so they went forth together with a willing mind.

And as they were at Jerusalem, there appeared before them on horseback one in white clothing, shaking his armour of gold.

Then they praised the merciful God all together, and took heart, insomuch that they were ready not only to fight with men, but with beasts and to pierce through walls of iron. Thus they marched forward in their armour, having an helper from heaven: for the Lord was merciful unto them. And giving a charge upon their enemies like lions, they slew eleven thousand footmen, and sixteen hundred horsemen, and put all the other to flight. Many of them also being wounded escaped naked; and Lysias himself fled away shamefully, and so escaped.

Who, as he was a man of understanding, casting with himself what loss he had had, and considering that the Hebrews could not be overcome, because the Almighty God helped them, he sent unto them, many of them, in their own language and to all reasonable conditions, and promised that he would persuade the king that he must needs be a friend unto them. Then Maccabees consented to all that Lysias desired, being careful of the common good; and whatsoever Maccabees wrote unto Lysias concerning the Jews, the king granted it.

For there were letters written unto the Jews from Lysias to this effect: Lysias unto the people of the Jews sendeth greeting: 17 John and Absalon, who were sent from you, delivered me the petition subscribed, and made request for the performance of the contents thereof. 18 Therefore what things soever were meet to be reported to the king, I have declared them, and I have granted as much as might be. 19 If then ye will keep yourselves loyal to the state, hereafter also will I endeavour to be a means of your good. 20 But of the particulars I have given order both to these, and the other that came from me, to commune with you. 21 Fare ye well. The hundred and eight and fourtieth year, the four and twentieth day of the month Dioscorinthius.

2 Now the king's letter contained these words: King Antiochus unto his brother Lysias sendeth greeting: 3 since our father is translated unto the gods, our will is, that they that are in our realm live quietly, that every one may attend upon his own affairs. 4 Wherefore our mind is, that this nation shall be in rest, and we have determined to restore them their temple, that they may live according to the customs of their forefathers. 5 Thou shalt do well therefore to send unto them, and grant them peace, that when they are certified of our mind, they may be of good comfort, and ever go cheerfully about their own affairs.

6 And the letter of the king was after this manner: King Antiochus sendeth greeting unto the council, and the rest of the Jews; 7 If ye fare well, we have desire; we are also in good health. 8 Menelaus declared unto us, that your desire was to return home, and to follow your own business: 9 thereupon they that will depart shall have safe conduct till the tenth day of Xanthicus with security. 10 And the Jews shall use their own kind of meats and cloths, as before: and none of them any manner of ways shall be molested for things ignorantly done. 11 I have sent also Menelaus, that he may comfort you. 12 Fare ye well. In the hundred and forty and eighth year, and the fifteenth day of the month Xanthicus.

41 The Romans also sent unto them a letter containing these words: Quintus Memmius and Titus Manlius, ambassadors of the Romans, send greeting unto the people of the Jews. 42 Whatsoever Lysias the king's cousin hath granted, therewith we also are well pleased. 43 But touching such things as he judged to be referred to the king, after ye have advised thereof, send one forthwith, that we may declare as it is convenient for you: for we are now going to Antioch. 44 Therefore send some with speed, that we may know what is your mind. 45 Farewell. This hundred and eight and fourtieth year, the fifteenth day of the month Xanthicus.

When these covenants were made, Lysias went unto the king, and the Jews were about their husbandry. 2 But of the governors of several places, Timotheus, and Apol...
The men of Joppé also did such an ungodly deed: they prayed the Jews that dwelt among them to go with their wives and children into the ships which they had prepared, as though they had meant them no hurt. Who accepted of it according to the common decree of the city, as being desirous to live in peace and suspecting nothing: but when they were gone forth into the deep, they drowned no less than two hundred of them.

When Judas heard of this cruelty done unto his countrymen, he commanded those that were with him to make them ready. And calling upon God the righteous Judge, he came against those murderers of his brethren, and burnt the haven by night, and set the boats on fire, and those that fled thither he slew. And when the town was shut up, he went backward, as if he would return to root out all them of the city of Joppé.

But when he heard that the Jamnites were minded to do in like manner unto the Jews that dwelt among them, he came upon the Jamnites also by night, and set fire on the haven and the navy, so that the light of the fire was seen at Jerusalem two hundred and forty furlongs off.

Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs in their journey toward Timotheus, no fewer than five thousand men on foot and five hundred horsemen of the Arabian set upon him. Whereupon there was a very sore battle; but Judas's side by the help of God got the victory; so that the Nomades of Arabia, being overcome, besought Judas for peace, promising both to give him cattle, and to pleasure him otherwise.

Then Judas, thinking indeed that they would be profitable in many things, granted them peace; whereupon they shew hands, and so they departed to their tents.

He went also about to make a bridge to a certain strong city, which was fenced about with walls, and inhabited by people of divers countries; and the name of it was Casisp. But they that were within it put such trust in the strength of the walls and provision of victuals, that they behoved themselves rudely toward them that were with Judas, railing and blaspheming, and uttering such words as were not to be spoken. Wherefore Judas with his company, calling upon the great Lord of the world, who without any arms or engines of war did cast down Jericho in the time of Joshua, gave a fierce assault against the walls, and took the city by the will of God, and made unsprinkled children into the ships that a lake two furlongs broad near adjoining thenceunto, being filled full, was seen running with blood.

Then departed they from thence seven hundred and fifty furlongs, and came to Characu unto the Jews that are called Tubiems. But as for Timotheus, they found him not in the places; for before he had dispatched any thing, he departed from them...
II. Maccabees XII. 19—35.

having left a very strong garrison in a certain hold. 19 Howbeit Dositheus and Sosipater, who were of Maccabeus' captains, went forth, and slew those that Timotheus had left in the fortress, above ten thousand men.

20 And Maccabeus ranged his army by bands, and set them over the bands, and went against Timotheus, who had about him an hundred and twenty thousand men of foot, and two thousand five hundred horsemen.

21 Now when Timotheus had knowledge of Judas' coming, he sent the women and children and the other baggage unto a fortress called Carnion: for the town was hard to besiege, and uneasy to come unto, by reason of the streightness of all the places.

22 But when Judas his first band came in sight, the enemies, being smitten with fear and terror through the appearing of him that seeth all things, fled amain, one running this way, another that way, so that they were often hurt of their own men, and wounded with the points of their own swords. 23 Judas also was very earnest in pursuing them, killing those wicked wretches, of whom he slew about thirty thousand men.

24 Moreover Timotheus himself fell into the hands of Dositheus and Sosipater, whom he besought with much craft to let him go with his life, because he had many of the Jews' parents, and the brethren of some of them, who, if they put him to death, should not be regarded. 25 So when he had persuaded them with many words that he would restore them without hurt, according to the agreement, they let him go for the saving of their brethren.

26 Then Maccabeus marched forth to Carnion, and to the temple of Atargatis, and there he slew five and twenty thousand persons.

27 And after he had put to flight and destroyed them, Judas removed the host toward Ephron, a strong city, wherein Lysias abode, and a great multitude of divers nations, and the strong young men kept the walls, and defended them mightily: wherein also was great provision of engines and darts.

28 But when Judas and his company had called upon Almighty God, who with his power breaketh the strength of his enemies, they won the city, and slew twenty and five thousand of them that were within.

29 From thence they departed to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundred furlongs from Jerusalem. 30 But when the Jews that dwelt there had testified that the Scythopolitans dealt lovingly with them, and entreated them kindly in the time of their adversity; 31 they gave them thanks, desiring them to be friendly still unto them: and so they came to Jerusalem, the feast of the weeks approaching.

32 And after the feast, called Pentecost, they went forth against Gorgias the governor of Idumea, who came out with three thousand men of foot and four hundred horsemen. 33 And it happened that in their fighting together, a few of the Jews were slain. 34 At which time Dositheus, one of Baenor's company, who was on horseback, and a strong man, was still upon Gorgias, 36 of Gorgias were, and were ready, Judas called upon the Lord, that he would shew himself to be their helper and leader of the battle. And with that he began in his own language, and sung psalms with a loud voice, and rushing unawares upon Gorgias' men, he put the flight of the business, gathered his host, and came into the city of Odollam. And when the seventh day came, they purified themselves, as the custom was, and kept the sabbath in the same place.

39 And upon the following, as the use had been, Judas and his company came to take up the bodies of them that were slain, and to bury them with their kinsmen in their fathers' graves. Now under the coats of every one that was slain they found things consecrated to the idols of the Jambites, which is forbidden the Jews by the law. Then every man saw that this was the cause wherefore they were slain. All men therefore praying the Lord, the righteous Judas that had opened the thing that was hid betook themselves unto prayer, and besought him that the sin committed might wholly be put out of remembrance. Besides, that noble Judas exhorted the people to keep themselves from sin, forsooth as they saw before their eyes the things that came to pass for the sin of those that were slain. And when he had made a gathering throughout the company to the sum of two thousand drachmas of silver, he sent it to Jerusalem to offer a sin offering, doing therein very well and honestly, in that he was mindful of the resurrection: for if he had not hoped that they that were slain should have risen again, it had been superfluous to pray for the dead. And also in that he perceived that there was great favour laid up for those that died godly, it was an holy and good thought. Whereupon he made a reconciliation for the dead, that they might be delivered from sin.

In the hundred forty and ninth year it was told Judas, that Antiochus Eupator was coming with a great power into Judea, and with him Lysias his protector, and ruler of his affairs, having either of them a Grecian power of footmen, an hundred and ten thousand, and horsemen five thousand and three hundred, and elephants two and twenty, and three hundred chariots armed with hooks.

39 When Saul joined himself with them, and with great dissimulation encouraged Antiochus, not for the safeguard of the country, but because he thought to have been made governor. But the King of kings moved Antiochus' mind against this wicked wretch, and Lysias informed the king that this man was the cause of all mischief, so that the king commanded to bring him unto Berea, and to put him to death, as the manner is in that place.

Now there was in that place a tower of fifty cubits high, full of ashes, and it had a round instrument, which on every side

The king came with a barbarous and harsh mind to do far worse to the Jews, than had been done in his father's time. Which things when Judas perceived, he commanded the multitude to call upon the Lord night and day, that if ever at any other time, he would now also help them, being at the point to be put from their law, from their country, and from the holy temple; and that he would not suffer the people, that had even now been but a little refreshed, to be in subjection to the blasphemous nations. So when they had all done this together, and besought the merciful Lord with weeping and fasting, and lying flat upon the ground three days long, Judas, having exhorted them, commanded they should be in a readiness. And Judas, being apart with the elders, determined, before the king's host should enter into Judea, and get the city, to go forth and try the matter in fight by the help of the Lord. So when he had committed all to the Creator of the world, and exhorted his soldiers to fight manfully, even unto death, for the laws, the temple, the city, the country, and the commonwealth, he camped by Modin: and having given the watchword to them that were about him, Victory is of God; with the most valiant and choice young men he went in into the king's tent by night, and slew in the camp about four thousand men, and the chiefest of the elephants, with all that were upon him. And at last they filled the camp with fear and tumult, and departed with good success. This was done in the break of the day, because the protection of the Lord did help him.

Now when the king had taken a taste of the manliness of the Jews, he went about to take the holds by policy, and marched toward Bethsura, which was a strong hold of the Jews: but he was put to flight, failed, and lost of his men: for Judas had conveyed unto them that were in it such things as were necessary. But Rhodocus, who was in the Jews' host, disclosed the secrets to the enemies, therefore he was sought out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison. The king treated with them in Bethsura the second time, gave his hand, took their depart, fought with Judas, was overcome: heard, that Philip, who was left over the army in Antioch, was desperately bent, confounded, intreated the Jews, submitted himself, and swore to all equal conditions, agreed with them, and offered sacrifice, honoured the temple, and dealt kindly with the place, and accepted well of Maccabees, made him principal governor from Ptolemais unto the Gennarians; came to Ptolemais: the people there were eis tivn oposm. grieved for the covenants; for they stormed, because they would make their covenants void.

15 Lysias went up to the judgment seat, said as much as could be in defence of the cause, persuaded, pacified, made them well affected, returned to Antioch. Thus it went touching the king's coming and departing.

After three years was Judas informed, that Demetrius the son of Seleucus, having entered by the haven of Tripolis with a great power and navy, had taken the country, and killed Antiochus, and Lysias his protector.

16 Now one Alcimus, who had been high priest, and had defiled himself willfully in the times of their mingling with the Gentiles, seeing that by no means he could save himself, nor have any more access to the holy altar; came to king Demetrius in the hundred and one and fiftieth year, presenting unto him a crown of gold, and a palm, and also of the boughs which were used solemnly in the temple: and so that day he held his peace.

17 Howbeit, having gotten opportunity to further his foolish enterprise, and being called into counsel by Demetrius, and asked how the Jews stood affected, and what they intended, he answered thereunto: 6 Those of the Jews that he called Assideans, whose captain is Judas Maccabees, nourish war, and are seditious, and will not let the realm be in peace.

18 Therefore I, being deprived of mine ancestor's honour, I mean the high priesthood, am now come hither: first, verily for the unfeigned care I have of things pertaining to the king; and secondly, even for that I intend the good of mine own citizens: for all our nation is in no small misery through the unadvised dealing of them aforesaid.

19 Wherefore, O king, seeing thou knowest all these things, be careful for the country, and our nation, which is pressed on every side, according to the clemency that thou readily shewest unto all. For as long as Judea liveth, it is not possible that the state should be quiet. This was no sooner spoken of him, but others of the king's friends, being maliciously set against Judas, did more incense Demetrius.

20 And forthwith calling Nicanor, who had been master of the elephants, and making him governor over Judea, he sent him forth, commanding him to slay Judas, and to scatter them that were with him and to make Alcimus high priest of the great temple.

21 Then the heathen, that had fled out of Judea from Judas, came to Nicanor by flocks, thinking the harm and calamities of the Jews to be their welfare.

22 Now when the Jews heard of Nicanor's coming, and that the heathen were up against them, they cast earth upon their heads, and made supplication to him that had established his people forever, and who always helpeth his portion with manifestation of his presence. So at the command of the captain they removed straightways from thence, and came near unto them at the town of Dessau.

23 Now Simon, Judas' brother, had joined battle with Nicanor, but was somewhat discomfited through the sudden silence of his 15 Nevertheless Nicanor, hearing of the malicefulness of them that were with Judas, and the courageoussness that they had to fight for their country, durst not try the matter by the sword. 16 Wherefore he sent Posidonius, and Thedotus, and Mattathias, to make peace. 17 So when they had taken long advise-ment thereupon, and the captain had made the multitude acquainted therewith, and it appeared that they were all of one mind, they consented to the covenants, 18 and appo- inted a day to meet in together by themselves: and when the day came, and stools were set for either of them, 19 Judas placed armed men ready in convenient places, lest some treachery should be suddenly practised by the enemies: so they made a peaceable conference. 20 Now Nicanor abode in Jerusalem, and did no hurt, but sent away the people that came flocking unto him. 21 And he would not willingly have Judas out of his sight: for he loved the man from his heart. 22 He prayed to God, that he might take a wife, and to beget children: so he married, was quiet, and took part of this life. 23 But Alcimus, perceiving the love that was betwixt them, and considering the covenants that were made, came to Demetrius, and told him that Nicanor was not well affected toward the state: for that he had ordained Judas, a traitor to his realm, to be the king's successor. 24 Then the king being in a rage, and provoked with the accusations of the most wicked man, wrote to Nicanor, signifying that he was much displeased with the covenants, and commanding him that he should send Maccabeus prisoner in all haste unto Antioch. 25 When this came to Nicanor's hearing, he was much confounded in himself, and took it grievously that he should make void the articles which were agreed upon, the man being in no fault. 26 But because there was no dealing against the king, he watched his time to accomplish this thing by policy. 27 Notwithstanding, when Maccabeus saw that Nicanor began to be churlish unto him, and that he entertained him more roughly than he was wont, perceiving that such sour behaviour came not of good, he gathered together not a few of his men, and withdrew himself from Nicanor. 28 But the other, knowing that he was notably prevented by Judas' policy, came into the great and holy temple, and commanded the priests, that were offering their usual sacrifices, to deliver him the man. 29 And when they sware that they could not tell where the man was whom he sought, 30 he stretched out his right hand toward the temple, and made an oath in this manner: If ye will not deliver me Judas as a prisoner, I will lay this temple of God even with the ground, and I will break down the altar, and erect a notable temple unto Bacchus. 31 After these words, he departed. Then the priests lifted up their hands toward heaven, and besought him that was ever a defender of their nation, saying in this manner; 32 Thou, O Lord of all things, who hast need of nothing, wast pleased that the temple of thine habitation should be among us: therefore now, O holy Lord of all Holiness, 33 enemies. 34 Nevertheless Nicanor, hearing of the malicefulness of them that were with Judas, and the courageoussness that they had to fight for their country, durst not try the matter by the sword. 35 Wherefore he sent Posidonius, and Thedotus, and Mattathias, to make peace. 36 So when they had taken long advise-ment thereupon, and the captain had made the multitude acquainted therewith, and it appeared that they were all of one mind, they consented to the covenants, and appointed a day to meet in together by themselves: and when the day came, and stools were set for either of them, Judas placed armed men ready in convenient places, lest some treachery should be suddenly practised by the enemies: so they made a peaceable conference. 37 Now Nicanor abode in Jerusalem, and did no hurt, but sent away the people that came flocking unto him. 38 And he would not willingly have Judas out of his sight: for he loved the man from his heart. 39 He prayed to God, that he might take a wife, and to beget children: so he married, was quiet, and took part of this life. 40 But Alcimus, perceiving the love that was betwixt them, and considering the covenants that were made, came to Demetrius, and told him that Nicanor was not well affected toward the state: for that he had ordained Judas, a traitor to his realm, to be the king's successor. 41 Then the king being in a rage, and provoked with the accusations of the most wicked man, wrote to Nicanor, signifying that he was much displeased with the covenants, and commanding him that he should send Maccabeus prisoner in all haste unto Antioch. 42 When this came to Nicanor's hearing, he was much confounded in himself, and took it grievously that he should make void the articles which were agreed upon, the man being in no fault. 43 But because there was no dealing against the king, he watched his time to accomplish this thing by policy. 44 Notwithstanding, when Maccabeus saw that Nicanor began to be churlish unto him, and that he entertained him more roughly than he was wont, perceiving that such sour behaviour came not of good, he gathered together not a few of his men, and withdrew himself from Nicanor. 45 But the other, knowing that he was notably prevented by Judas' policy, came into the great and holy temple, and commanded the priests, that were offering their usual sacrifices, to deliver him the man. 46 And when they sware that they could not tell where the man was whom he sought, he stretched out his right hand toward the temple, and made an oath in this manner: If ye will not deliver me Judas as a prisoner, I will lay this temple of God even with the ground, and I will break down the altar, and erect a notable temple unto Bacchus. 47 After these words, he departed. keep this house ever undefiled, which lately was cleansed, and stop every unrighteous mouth.

Now was there accused unto Nicanor one Razis, one of the elders of Jerusalem, a lover of his countrymen, and a man of very good report, who for his kindness was called a father of the Jews. 36 For in the former times, when the Jews did not themselves with the Gentiles, he had been accused of Judaism, and did boldly jeopard his body and life with all vehemency for the religion of the Jews.

So Nicanor, willing to declare the late that he bare unto the Jews, sent above five hundred men of war to take him; 38 for he thought he would bring him to do the Jews much hurt. 39 Now when the multitude would have taken the tower, and violently broken into the outer door, and bade that fire should be brought to burn it, he being ready to be taken on every side fell upon his sword; 40 choosing rather to die manfully, than to come into the hands of the wicked, to be abuse by them; 41 and upon his noble birth: 42 but missing his stroke through haste, the multitude also rushing within the doors, he ran boldly up to the wall, and cast himself down manfully among the thickest of them. 43 But they quickly giving back, and a space being made, he fell down into the midst of the void place.

Nevertheless, while there was yet breath within him, being inflamed with anger, he rose up; and though his blood rushed out like spouts of water, and his wounds were grievous, yet he ran through the midst of the throng; and standing upon a steep rock, 45 when his blood was now quite gone, he plucked out his bowels, and taking them in both his hands, he cast them upon the throng, and calling upon the Lord of life and spirit to restore him those again, he thus died.

But Nicanor, hearing that Judas and his company were in the strong places about Samaria, resolved without any danger to set upon them the sabbath day.

Nevertheless the Jews that were compeled to go with him said, O destroy not so cruelly thy brother, but give honour to that day, which he, that seeth all things, hath honoured with holiness above other days.

Then the most ungracious wretch demanded, if there were a Mighty one in heaven, that had commanded the sabbath day to be kept. And when they said, There is in heaven a Lord and mighty, who commanded the seventh day to be kept: 4 then said the other, And I also am mighty upon earth, and I command to take arms, and to do the king's business. Yet he obtained not to have his wicked will done.

So Nicanor in exceeding pride and haughtiness determined to set up a public monument of his victory over Judas and them that were with him.

But Maccabeus had ever sure confidence that the Lord would help him; 5 wherefore he exorted his people not to fear the coming of the heathen against them, but to remember the help which in former times they had received from heaven, and now to expect the victory and aid, which should Come unto them from the Almighty. And so comforting them out of the law and the prophets, a wital putting them in mind of the battles that they won afore, he made them more cheerful.

And when he had stirred up their minds, he gave them their charge, shewing them therewithal the falsehood of the heathen, and the breach of oaths. Thus he armed every man of them, not so much with defence of shields and spears, as with comfortable and good words: and beside that, he told them a dream worthy to be believed, as if it had been so indeed, which did not a little rejoice them.

And this was his vision: That Onias, who had been high priest, a virtuous and a good man, revert in conversation, gentle in condition, well spoken also, and exercised from a child in all points of virtue, holding up his hands prayed for the whole body of the Jews. This done, in like manner there appeared a man with gray hairs, and exceeding glorious, who was of a wonderful and excellent majesty. Then Onias answered, saying, This is a lover of the brethren, who prayeth much for the people, and for the holy city, to wit, Jeremias the prophet of God. Whereupon Jeremias holding forth his right hand gave to Judas a sword of gold, and in giving it spake thus, Take this holy sword, a gift from God, with the which thou shalt wound the adversaries.

Thus being well comforted by the words of Judas, which were very good, and able to stir them up to valour, and to encourage the hearts of the young men, they determined not to pitch camp, but courageously to set upon them, and manfully to try the matter by conflict, because the city and the sanctuary and the temple were in danger. For the care that they took for their wives, and their children, their brethren, and kinsfolk, was in least account with them; but the greatest and principal fear was for the holy temple. Also they that were in the city took not the least care, being troubled for the conflict abroad.

And now, when all looked what should be the matter, enemies were already come near, and the army was set in array, and the horsemen set in wings.

Maccabees seeing the coming of the multitude, and the divers preparations of armour, and the fierceness of the beasts, stretched out his hands toward heaven, and called upon the Lord that worketh wonders, knowing that victory cometh not by arms, but even as it seemeth good to him, he giveth it to such as are worthy; therefore in his prayer he said after this manner: O Lord, thou didst send thine angel in the time of Ezekias king of Judah, and didst slay in the host of Sennacherib an hundred fourscore thousand thousand men. So now also, O Lord of heaven, send a good angel before us for a fear and dread unto them; and through the might of thine arm let those be stricken with terror, that come against thy holy people to blaspheme. And he ended thus.

Then Nicanor and they that were with him came forward with trumpets and songs. But Judas and his company encountered... the enemies with invocation and prayer. 27 So that fighting with their hands, they prayed unto God with their hearts, they drew no less than thirty and five thousand men: for through the appearance of God they were greatly cheered.

28 Now when the battle was done, returning again with joy, they knew that Nicanor lay dead in his harness. 29 Then they made a great shout and a noise, praising the Almighty in their own languages.

30 And Judas, who was ever the chief defender of the citizens both in body and mind, and who continued his love toward his countrymen all his life, commanded to strike off Nicanor's head, and his hand with his shoulder, and bring them to Jerusalem.

31 So when he was there, and had called them of his nation together, and set the priests before the altar, he sent for them that were of the tower, and showed them vile Nicanor's head, and the hand of that blasphemer, which with proud brags he had stretched out against the holy temple of the Almighty.

32 And when he had cut out the tongue of that ungodly Nicanor, he commanded that they should give it by pieces unto the fowls, and hang up the reward of his madness before the temple. 33 So every man praised toward the heaven the glorious Lord, saying, Blessed be he that hath kept his own place undefiled.

34 He hanged also Nicanor's head upon the tower, an evident and manifest sign unto all of the help of the Lord.

35 And they ordained all with a common decree in no case to let that day pass without solemnity, but to celebrate the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which in the Syrian tongue is called Adar, the day before Mardocheus' day. 36 Thus went it with Nicanor: and from that time forth the Hebrews had the city in their power. And here will I make an end.

37 And if I have done well, and as is fitting the story, it is that which I desired: but if slenderly and meanly, it is that which I could attain unto. 39 For as it is hurtful to drink wine or water alone; and as wine mingled with water is pleasant, and delighteth the taste: even so speech finely framed delighteth the ears of them that read the story. And here shall be an end.
Now Philopater, on learning from those who came back that Antiochus had made himself master of the places which belonged to himself, sent orders to all his footmen and horsemen, took with him his sister Arsinoe, and marched out as far as the parts of Raphia, where Antiochus and his forces encamped.

And one Theodoreus, intending to carry out his design, took with him the bravest of the armed men who had been before committed to his trust by Ptolemy, and got through at night to the tent of Ptolemy, to kill him on his own responsibility, and so to end the war. 3 But Dositheus, called the son of Drimulus, by birth a Jew, afterward a renegade from the laws and observances of his country, conveyed Ptolemy away, and made an obscure man lie down in his stead in the tent. It befel this man to receive the fate which was meant for the other.

A fierce battle then took place; and the men of Antiochus prevailing, Arsinoe continually went up and down the ranks, and with dishevelled hair, with tears and entreaties, begged the soldiers to fight manfully for themselves, their children, and wives; and promised that if they proved conquerors, she would give them two mines of gold apiece. 5 It thus fell out that their enemies were defeated in hand-to-hand encounter, and that many of them were taken prisoners.

Having vanquished this attempt, the king then decided to proceed to the neighboring cities, and encourage them. 7 By doing this, and by making donations to their temples, he inspired his subjects with confidence. The Jews also sent some of their council and of their elders to him. The greetings, guest-sifts, and congratulations on the past, bestowed by them, filled him with the greater eagerness to visit their city.

Having arrived at Jerusalem, sacrificed, and offered thank-offerings to the Greatest God, and done whatever else was suitable to the sanctity of the place, and entered the inner court, 10 he was so struck with the exact magnificence of the place, and so wondered at the orderly arrangements of the temple, that he conceived the purpose of entering the sanctuary itself.

And when they told him that this was not permissible, none of the nation, no, nor even the priests in general, but only the

The Jews, therefore, on receiving the tidings, were filled with joy at the knowledge that their country had been released from foreign dominion, and that the city of Jerusalem had been rededicated to the service of their God. They also sent messengers to all the places of the kingdom, to call upon all the people to join in the celebration of the festival.

The Elders of the city then summoned the chief men to a council, and ordered a sacrifice to be offered, in honor of the deliverance of Jerusalem, and of the return of the people to their own land. They also decreed that a feast should be held, to be called the festival of liberation, and that the people should gather together to partake of the sacrifices.

The people, therefore, came together in great numbers, and rejoiced in the deliverance of their city. They also offered sacrifices to God, and gave thanks for the victory over their enemies. They also decreed that the festival of liberation should be celebrated annually, in order to commemorate the deliverance of Jerusalem from foreign dominion.
supreme high priest of all, and he only once in a year, being allowed to go in, he would by all means give way. 4 Then they read the law to him; but he persisted in obstructing himself, declaring that he ought to be allowed: and saying, Be it that they were deprived of this honour, I ought not to be. 5 And he put the question, Why, when he entered all temples, none of the priests who were present forbade him?

6 He was thoughtlessly answered by some one. That he did wrong to boast of this.

7 Well; since I have done this, said he, be the cause what it may, shall I not enter with or without your consent? 8 And when the priests fell down in their sacred vestments imploring the Greatest God to come and help in time of need, and to avert the violence of the fierce aggressor, and when they filled the temple with lamentations and tears, 9 then those who had been left behind in the city were scared, and rushed forth, uncertain of the event.

10 Virgins, who had been shut up within their chambers, came out with their mothers, wailing and weeping and crying. 11 Women, but recently separated off, left their bridal chambers, left the reserve that befitted them, and ran about the city in a disorderly manner. 12 New-born babes were deserted by the mothers or nurses who waited upon them; some howling, some sobbing and wailing in fields, these now, with an air or which could not be checked, swarmed into the Most High temple. 13 Various were the prayers offered up by those who assembled in this place, on account of the unholy attempt of the king.

14 Along with these there were some of the citizens who took courage, and would not submit to his obstinacy, and in the intention of carrying out his purpose. 15 Calling out to arms, and to die bravely in defence of the law of their fathers, they created a great uproar in the place, and were with difficulty brought back by the aged and the elders to the station of prayer which they had occupied by right.

16 During this time the multitude kept on praying. The elders who surrounded the king strove in many ways to divert his haughty mind from the design which he had formed. 17 He, in his hardened mood, insensible to all persuasion, was going onwards, with the view of carrying out this design.

18 Yet even his own officers, when they saw this, joined the Jews in an appeal to Him who has all power, to aid in the present crisis, and not wink at such overweening lawlessness. 19 Such was the frequency and the vehemence of the cry of the assembled crowd, that an adescribable noise ensued. 20 Not the men only, the very walls and floor seemed to sound forth, all things preferring dissolution rather than to see the place despoiled.

21 Now was it that the high priest Simon bowed his knees over against the holy place, and spread out his hands in reverent form, and uttered the following supplication:

22 O Lord, Lord, King of the heavens, and Ruler of the whole creation, Holy among the holy, sole Governor, Almightiness, give ear to us who are oppressed by a wicked and profane one who exulteth in his confidence and strength. It is thou, the Creator of all, the Lord of the universe, who art a righteous Governor, and judgest all who act with pride and insolence.

It was thou who didst destroy the former workers of unrighteousness, among whom were the giants, who trusted in their strength and hardihood, by covering them with a measureless flood. It was thou who didst make the Sodomites, those workers of exceeding iniquity, men notorious for their vices, an example to after generations, when thou didst consume them with fire and brimstone.

Thou didst make known thy power when thou causest the bold Pharaoh, the enslaver of thy people, to pass through the ordeal of many and diverse afflictions. And thou rollest the depths of the sea over him, when he made pursuit with chariots, and with a multitude of followers, and gavest a safe passage to those who put their trust in thee, the Lord of the whole creation. These saw and felt the works of thine hands, and praised thee the Almighty.

Thou, O King, when thou createdst the illimitable and measureless earth, didst choose this out this city: thou didst make this place sacred to thy name, albeit thou needest nothing: thou didst glorify it with thy illustrious presence, after constructing it to the glory of thy great and honourable name.

And thou didst promise, out of love to the house of Israel, that should we fall away from thee, and become afflicted, and then come to this house and pray, thou wouldest hear our prayer. Verily thou art faithful and true.

And whereas thou didst often aid our fathers when hard pressed, and in low estate, and deliveredest them out of great dangers, see now, holy King, how through our many and great sins we are borne down, and made subject to our enemies, and are become weak and powerless.

We beseech thee, in this our need, this bold and profane man seeks to dishonour this thy holy place, consecrated out of the earth to the name of thy Majesty.

Thy dwelling-place, the heaven of heavens, is indeed unapproachable to men. But since it seemed good to thee to exhibit thy glory among thy people Israel, thou didst bestow this place upon them, not by means of the uncleanliness of their men, nor chastise us by means of their profligacy; lest the lawless ones should boast in their rage, and exult in exuberant pride of speech, and say, We have trampled upon the holy house, as idolatrous houses are trampled upon.

But let us not unite in iniquities, and do away with our errors, and shew forth thy compassion in this hour. Let thy mercies quickly go before us. Grant us peace, that the cast down and broken hearted may praise thee with their mouth.

At that time God, who seeth all things, who is beyond all Holy among the holy, heard that prayer, so suitable; and scourged the man greatly uplifted with scorn and insolence. 22 Shaking him to and fro as a reed is shaken with the wind, he cast him upon the pavement, powerless, with limbs paralysed; by a righteous judgment deprived of the faculty of speech.

3. His friends and bystanders, beholding the swift recompense which had suddenly overtaken him, struck with exceeding terror, and fearing that he would die, speedily removed him. 23 When in course of time he had come to himself, this severe check caused no repentance within him, but he departed with bitter threatening.

4. He proceeded to Egypt, grew worse in wickedness through his presence, and he recommended compositions in wine, who were lost to all goodness; and not satisfied with countless acts of impiety, his audacity so increased that he raised evil reports there, and many of his friends, watching his purpose attentively, joined in furthering his will.

5. His friends, who were in conflict a public stigma upon our race; wherefore he erected a pillar at the tower-porch, and caused the following inscription to be engraven upon it: 24 That entrance to their own temple was to be refused to all those who would not sacrifice; that all the Jews were to be registered among the common people; that those who resisted were to be forcibly seized and put to death. 25 that those who were thus registered, were to be marked on their persons by the ivy-leaf symbol of DIONYSUS, and to be set apart with these limited rights.

6. To do away with the appearance of hating them all, he had it written underneath, that if any of them should elect to enter the community of those initiated in the rites, these should have equal rights with the Alexandrians.

7. Some of those who were over the city, therefore, abhorring any approach to the city of piety, unhesitatingly gave in to the king, and expected to derive some great honour from a future connection with him. 27 A noble, who had invited the majority to cling to their religious observances, and by paying money that they might live unmolested, those sought to escape the registration; 28 cheerfully looking forward to future aid, they abhorred their own apostates, considering them to be national foes, and debarring them from the common usages of social intercourse.

On discovering this, so incensed was the wicked king, that he no longer confined his rage to the Jews in Alexandria. Laying his hand more heavily upon those who lived in the country, he gave orders that they should be quickly collected into one place, and most cruelly deprived of their lives.

8. While this was going on, an invidious rumour was uttered abroad by men who had banded together to injure the Jewish race. The purport of their charge was, that the Jews kept them away from the ordinances of the law. 9 Now, while the Jews always maintained a feeling of unwavering loyalty towards the kings, yet, as they worshipped God, and observed his law, they made certain distinctions, and avoided certain things. Hence some persons held them in odium; although, as they adorned their conversation with works of righteousness, they had established themselves in the good opinion of the world.

What all the rest of mankind said, was, however, made of no account by the foreigners; who said much of the exclusiveness of the Jews with regard to their worship and meats; they alleged that they were men unsociable, hostile to the king's interests, refusing to associate with him or his troops. By this way of speaking, they brought much odium upon them.

Nor was this unexpected uproar and sudden conflict of people unobserved by the Greeks who lived in the city, concerning men who had never harmed them; yet to aid them was not in their power, since all was oppression around; but they encouraged the Jews by sympathizing with them in their troubles, and expected a favourable turn of affairs: He who knew all things, will not, said they, disregard so great a people. Some of the neighbours, friends, and fellow dealers of the Jews, even called them secretly to an interview, pledged them their assistance, and promised to do their very utmost for them.

Now the king, elated with his prosperous fortune, and not regarding the superior power of God, but thinking to persevere in his present purpose, wrote the following letter to the prejudice of the Jews.

King Ptolemy Philopater, to the commanders and soldiers in Egypt, and in all places, health and happiness!

I am right well, and so, too, are my affairs. Since our Asiatic campaign, the particulars of which ye know, and which by the aid of the gods, not lightly given, and by our own vigour, has been brought to a successful issue according to our expectation, we resolved, not with strength of spear, but with gentleness and much humanity, as it were to nurse the inhabitants of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, and to be their willing benefactors.

So, having bestowed considerable sums of money upon the temples of the several cities, we proceeded even as far as Jerusalem; and went up to honour the temple of these very children who never ceased from their folly. To outward appearance they received us willingly; but belied that appearance by their deeds. When we were eager to enter their temple, and to honour it with the most beautiful and exquisite gifts, they were so carried away by their old arrogance, as to forbid us the entrance; while our fondness was turned to them, all men, refrained from exercising our power upon them. And thus, exhibiting their enmity against us, they alone among the nations lift up their heads against kings and benefactors, as men unwilling to submit to anything reasonable.

We then, having endeavoured to make allowance for the madness of these persons, and on our victorious return treating all people in Egypt courteously, acted in a manner which was befitting. Accordingly, hearing no ill-will against their kinmen [at Jerusalem], but rather remembering our connection with them, and the numerous matters with sincere heart from a remote period entrusted to them, we wished to venture a

22. The actions of the Maccabees, and the response of the Jews, were... and the everlasting rites of our solemnities.

23. All this, however, they have taken in a very different spirit. With their innate malignity, they have spurned the fair offer; and constantly inclining to evil, have rejected the inestimable rights. Not only so, but by using words, and by referring to speech, they abhor the few among them who are heartily disposed towards us; ever deeming that their ignoble course of procedure will force us to do away with our reform. Having then, received certain proofs that these Jews bear us every sort of ill-will, we must look forward to the possibility of some sudden tumult among ourselves, when these impious men may turn traitors and barbarous enemies.

24. As soon, therefore, as the contents of this letter become known to you, in that same hour we order those Jews who dwell among you, with wives and children, to be sent to us, vilified and abused, in chains of iron, to our city, and to be tortured to death. 25. For by the punishment of them in one body we perceive that we have found the only means of establishing our affairs for the future on a firm and satisfactory basis.

26. Whoever shall shield a Jew, whether it be old man, child, or sucking, shall with his whole house be tortured to death. 27. Whatever place shall shelter a Jew, shall, when he is hunted forth, be put under the ban of fire, and be for ever rendered useless to every living being for all time to come. 28. Such was the purport of the king's letter.

Wherever this decree was received, the people kept up a revelry of joy and shouting; as if their long-put-out, hardened hatred, were now to shew itself openly.

29. The Jews were great thieves of sorrow, and went about much while their hearts, all things around being lamentable, were set on fire as they beheld the sudden destruction which was decreed against them.

30. What home, or city, or place at all inhabited, or what streets were there, which their condition did not fill with wailing and lamentation?

31. They were sent out unanimously by the generals in the several cities, with such stern and pitiless feeling, that the exceptional nature of the infliction moved even some of their enemies. These, influenced by sentiments of common humanity, and reflecting upon the uncertain issue of life, shed tears at this their miserable expulsion. A multitude of poor-haired men, were driven along with halting bending feet, urged onward by the impulse of a violent, shameless force to quick speed.

32. Girls who had entered the bridal chamber quite lately, to enjoy the partnership of marriage, exchanged pleasure for misery; and with dust scattered upon their myrrh-anointed heads, were hurried along unveiled, and, in the midst of outlandish insults, set up one accord a lamentable cry in lieu of the marriage hymn. 8 Bound, and exposed to public gaze, they were hurled violently on board ship.

9 The husbands of these, in the prime of their youthful vigour, instead of crowns wore halters round their necks; instead of feasting and youthful jollity, spent the rest of their nuptial days in wallings, and saw only the grave at hand. 10 They were dragged along by unyielding chains, like wild beasts: of these, some had their necks thrust into the baskets of the rowers; while the feet of others were enclosed in hard fetters.

11 The planks of the deck above them barred out the light, and shut out the day on every side, so that they might be treated like traitors during the whole voyage. 12 They were conveyed accordingly in this vessel, and at the end of it arrived at Scheida. The king had ordered them to be cast into the vast hippodrome, which was built in front of the city. This place was well adapted by its situation to expose them to the gaze of all comers into the city, and of those who went from the city into the country. Thus they could hold no communication with his forces; nay, were deemed unworthy of any civilized accommodation.

13 When this was done, the king, hearing that their brethren in the city often went out and lamented the melancholy distress of these victims, was full of rage, and commanded that they should be carefully subjected to the same (and not one whit milder) treatment. 14 The whole nation was now to be registered. Every individual was to be specified by name; not for that hard servitude of labour which we have a little before mentioned, but that he might expose them to the before-mentioned tortures; and finally, in the short space of a day, might extinguish them by his cruelties. 15 The registering of these men was carried on cruelly, zealously, assiduously, from the rising of the sun to its going down, and was not brought to an end in forty days.

16 The king was filled with great and constant joy, and celebrated banquets before the temple idols. His erring heart, far from the truth, and his profane mouth, gave glory to idols, deaf and incapable of speaking or aiding, and uttered unworthy speech against the Greatest God.

17 At the end of the above-mentioned interval of time, the registrars brought word to the king that the multitude of the Jews was too great for registration, inasmuch as there were many still left in the land, of whom some were in inhabited houses, and others were scattered about in various places; so that all the commanders in Egypt were insufficient for the work. 18 The king threatened them, and charged them with taking bribes, in order to contrive the escape of the Jews: but was clearly convinced of the truth of what had been said. 19 They said, and proved, that paper and pens had failed them for the carrying out of this commission.

20 Now this was the active interference of the unconquerable Providence which assisted the Jews from heaven.
Then he called Hermon, who had charge of the elephants. Full of rage, altogether fixed in his furious design, 2 he commanded him, with a quantity of unmixed wine and handfuls of incense [infused] to drug the elephants early on the following day. These five hundred elephants were, when infuriated by the draughts of frankincense, to be led up to the execution of death upon the Jews. 3 The king, after issuing these orders, went to his feasting, and gathered together all those of his friends and of the army who hated the Jews the most.

4 The master of the elephants, Hermon, fulfilled his commission punctually. 5 The underlings appointed for the purpose went out about eventide and bound the hands of the miserable victims, and took other precautions for their security at night, thinking that the whole race would perish together.

6 The heathen believed the Jews to be destitute of all protection; for chains fettered them about. 7 They invoked the Almighty Lord, and ceaselessly besought with tears their merciful God and Father, Ruler of all, Lord of every power, 8 to overthrow the evil purpose which was gone out against them, and to deliver them by extraordinary manifestation from that death which was in store for them. 9 Their litany so earnest went up to heaven.

10 Then Hermon, who had filled his merciless elephants with copious draughts of mingled wine and frankincense, came early to the palace to certify the king thereof. 11 He, however, who has sent his good creature sleep from all time, by night or by day thus gratifying whom he wills, diffused a portion thereof [now] upon the king. 12 By this sweet and profound influence of the Lord he was held fast, and thus his unjust purpose was quite frustrated, and his unflinching resolve greatly falsified.

13 But the Jews, having escaped the hour which had been so fixed, praised their holy God, and again portrayed to all by a seemingly reconciled to display the power of his powerful hand to the overweening Gentiles. 14 The middle of the tenth hour had well nigh arrived, when the master-bidder, seeing the guests who were hidden collected, came and shook the king. 15 He gained his attention with difficulty, and hinting that the mealtime was getting past, talked the matter over with him.

16 The king listened to this, and then turning aside to his natations, commanded the guests to sit down before him. 17 This done, he asked them to enjoy themselves, and to indulge in mirth at this somewhat late hour of the banquet. 18 Conversation grew on, and the king sent for Hermon, and enquired of him, with fierce denunciations, why the Jews had been allowed to outlive that day. 19 Hermon explained that he had done his bidding over night; and in this he was confirmed by his friends. 20 The king, then, with a barbarity exceeding that of Phalaris, said, that the night thank his sleep of that day. Lose no time, and get ready the elephants against to-morrow, as you did before, for the destruction of these accursed Jews.
When the king said this, the company present were glad, and approved; and then each man went to his own home. Not did they employ the night in sleep, so much as in contriving cruel mockeries for those deemed miserable. The morning cock had just crowed, and Hermon, having harnessed the brutes, was stimulating them in the great colonnade. The city crowds were collected together to see the hideous spectacle, and waited impatiently for the dawn. The Jews, breathless with voluntary suspense, stretched forth their hands, and prayed the Great God, in naurseful strains, again to help them speedily. The sun’s rays were not yet shed abroad, and the king was waiting for his friends, when Hermon came to him, calling him out, and saying, That his desires could now be realized. The king, receiving him, was astonished at his unwatched exit; and, overwhelmed by a spirit of abstinence about everything, enquired the object of this earnest preparation. But this was the working of that Almighty God who had made him forget all his purpose. Hermon, and all his friends, pointed out the preparation of the animals. They are ready, O king, according to your own strict injunction. The king, filled with fierce anger at these words; for, by the Providence of God regarding these things, his mind had become entirely confused. He looked hard at Hermon, and threatened him as follows: Your parents, or your children, were they here, to these wild beasts a large repast they should have furnished; not these ingrates, to whom I and my forefathers loyal have served. Had it not been for familiar friendship, and the claims of your office, your life should have gone for theirs.

Hermon, being threatened in this unexpected and alarming manner, was troubled in visage, and depressed in countenance. The friends, too, stole out one by one, and dismissed them assembled multitudes to their occupations. The Jews, hearing of these events, praised the glorious God and King of kings, because they had obtained this help, too, from him.

Now the king arranged another banquet after the same manner, and proclaimed an invitation to mirth. And he summoned Hermon to his presence, and said, with threats, How often, O wretch, must I repeat my orders to thee about these same persons? Once more, arm the elephants against the morrow for the extermination of the Jews. His kinsmen, who were reclining with him, wondered at his instability, and thus expressed themselves: O king, how long dost thou make trial of us, as of men bereft of reason? This is the third time that thou hast ordered their destruction. When the thing is to be done, thou changest thy mind, and recalllest thy instructions. For this cause the feeling of expectation causes tumult in the city: it swarms with factions; and is continually on the point of being plundered.

The king, just like another Phalaris, a prey to thoughtlessness, made no account of the changes which his own mind had and, tortured,

But the Jews, when the elephants went out at the gate, followed by the armed force; and when they saw so much dust raised by the throng, and heard the loud cries of the crowd, thought that they had come to the last moment of their lives, to the end of what they had tremblingly expected. They gave way, therefore, to lamentations and moans; they kissed each other; those nearest to King Sennacherib, who were in the same chariots, kissed each other's necks: fathers about their sons, mothers their daughters: other women held their infants to their breasts, which drew what seemed their last milk.

Nevertheless, when they reflected upon the succour before granted them from heaven, they prostrated themselves with one accord; and wept over the death of their fathers from the breast, and sent up an exceeding great cry, entreating the Lord of all power to reveal himself, and have mercy upon those who now lay at the gates of hades.

And Elencar, an illustrious priest of the country, who had attained to length of days, and whose life had been adorned with virtue, caused the presbyters who were about him to cease to cry out to the holy God, and prayed thus:

O King, mighty in power, most high, Almighty God, who regaldest the whole creation with thy tender mercy, look upon the seed of Abraham, upon thy sanctified inheritance, O Father, now being wrongfully destroyed as strangers in a strange land.

Thou destroyest Pharaoh, with his host of chariots, when that lord of this same Egypt was uplifted with lawless hardihood and loud-sounding tongue. Shaking the beams of thy mercy upon the race of Israel, thou didst smite Jabin with his proud army. When Sennacherim, the grievous king of the Assyrians, glorying in his countless hosts, had subdued the whole land with his spear, and was lifting himself against thy holy city, with lusts avaricious to be endured, thou, O Lord, didst demolish him.
and didst shew forth thy might to many nations. 6 When the three friends in the land of Babylon of their own will exposed their lives to the fire rather than serve vain things, thou didst send a dewy coolness through the fiery furnace, and bring the fire upon all their adversaries. 7 It was thou, when Daniel was hurled, through slander and envy, as a prey to lions down below, didst bring him back again unhurt to light. 8 When Jonah was pining away in the belly of the sea-bred monster, thou didst look upon him, O Father, and recover him to the sight of his own.

And now, who hates iniquity; who dost abound in mercy; who art the protector of all things; appear quickly to those of the race of Israel, who are insulted by abhorred, lawless Gentiles. 10 If our life has during our exile been stained with iniquity, deliver us from the hand of the enemy, and destroy us, O Lord, but the death which thou preferrest.

Let those vain-minded vain idols at the destruction of thy beloved, saying, Neither did their God deliver them. 12 Thou who art All-powerful and Almighty, O Eternal One, behold! have mercy upon us who are being withdrawn from life, like traitors, by the unreasoning insolence of lawless men. 13 Let the heathen cover before thy ineffaceable think of thy glorious One, who hast all power to save the race of Jacob. 14 The whole band of infants and their parents with tears beseech thee. 15 Let it be shewn to all the nations that thou art with us, O Lord, and hast not turned thy face away from us; but as thou saidst that thou wouldst not forget them even in the land of their enemies, so do thou fulfill this saying, O Lord.

Now, at the time that Eleazar had ended his prayer, the king came along to the hippodrome, with the wild beasts, and with his tumultuous pride. 17 When the Jews saw this, they uttered a loud cry to heaven, so that the adjacent valleys resounded, and caused an irrepressible lamentation throughout the army. 18 Then the all-splendid, all-powerful, and true God, displayed his holy countenance, and opened the gates of heaven, from which two angels, dreadful of form, came down, and were visible to all but the Jews. 19 And they stood opposite, and filled the enemies' host with confusion and cowardice; and bound them with insuperable fetters. 20 And a cold shudder came over the person of the king, and oblivion paralysed the remembrance of his spirit. 21 They turned back the animals upon the armed forces which followed them; and the animals trod them down, and destroyed them.

The king's wrath was converted into compassion; and he went at his own machinations. 22 For when he heard the cry, and saw them devoid of the vengefulness of the crucified with tears he angrily threatened his friends, saying, 23 Ye have governed badly; and have exceeded tyrants in cruelty; and me your benefactor ye have laboured to deprive at once of my dominion and my life, by secretly devising measures injurious to the kingdom. 24 Who has gathered here, unreasonably removing each from his home, those who, in fidelity to us, had held the fortresses of the country? 26 Who has thus consigned to unmerited punishments those who in good will towards us from the beginning have in all things surpassed all nations, and who often have engaged in the most dangerous undertakings? 27 Loose, then, the unjust bonds; send them to their homes in peace, and deprecate what has been done. 28 Release the sons of the almighty living God of heaven, who from our ancestors' times until now has granted a glorious and uninterrupted prosperity to our affairs.

These things he said: and they, released the same moment, having now escaped death, praised God their holy Saviour. 29 The king then departed to the city, and called his financier to him, and bade him provide a seven days' quantity of wine and other materials for feasting for the Jews. He decided that they should keep a glad festival of deliverance in the very place in which they expected to meet their destruction.

30 Then they who were before despised and nigh unto hades, yea, rather advanced into it, partook of the cup of salvation, instead of a grievous and lamentable death. Full of exultation, they parted the place intended for their fall and burial into banquetting booths. 31 Ceasing their miserable strain of woe, they took up the subject of their fatherland, hymning in praise God their wonder-working Saviour. All groans, all wailing, were laid aside: they formed dances in token of serene joy.

32 So, also, the king collected a number of guests for the occasion, and returned unceasing thanks with much magnificence for the unexpected deliverance afforded him. 33 Those who had marked them out as death and for carnage, and had registered them with joy, howled aloud, and were clothed with shame, and had the fire of their rage ingloriously put out.

34 But the Jews, as we just said, instituted a dance, and then gave themselves up to feasting, glad thanksgiving, and psalms. 35 They made a public ordinance to commemorate these things for generations to come, as long as they should be sojourners. They thus established these days as days of mirth, not for the purpose of drinking or luxury, but because God had saved them. 36 They requested the king to send them back to their homes.

37 They were being enrolled from the twenty-fifth of Pachon to the fourth of Epiphi, a period of forty days: the measures taken for their destruction lasted from the fifth of Epiphi till the seventh, that is, three days. 38 The Ruler over all did during this time manifest forth his mercy gloriously, and did deliver them all together unharmed.
too, and our children are well; and God has directed our affairs as we wish.

3 Certain of our friends did of malice vehemently urge us to punish the Jews of our realm in a body, with the infliction of a monstrous punishment. They pretended that our affairs would never be in a good state till this took place. Such, they said, was the hatred borne by the Jews to all other nations. They brought them fettered in grievous chains as slaves, nay, as traitors. Without enquiry or examination they endeavoured to annihilate them. They buckled themselves with a savage cruelty, worse than Sceythian custom.

4 For this cause we severely threatened them; yet, with the clemency which we are wont to extend to all men, we at length permitted them to live. Finding that the God of heaven cast a shield of protection over the Jews so as to preserve them, and that he fought for them as a father always fights for his sons; and taking into consideration their constancy and fidelity towards us and towards our ancestors, we, as we ought, acquiesced them. And we dismissed them to their several homes; bidding all men everywhere to do them no wrong, or unrighteously revile them about the past.

5 For know ye, that should we conceive any evil design against, or in any manner aggrieve them, we shall ever have as our opposite, not man, but the highest God, who ruled all might. From Him there will be no escape as the avenger of such deeds.

Fare ye well.

6 When they had received this letter, they were not forward to depart immediately. They petitioned the king to be allowed to inflict fitting punishment upon those of their race who had willingly transgressed the holy God, and the law of God. The king admired the men who had for their bellies’ sake transgressed the ordinances of God, would never be faithful to the interests of the king.

The king admitted the truth of this reasoning, and commanded them. Full power was given them, without warrant or special commission, to destroy those who had transgressed the law of God boldly in every part of the king’s dominions. Their priests, then, as it was meet, saluted him with good wishes, and all the people echoed with the Hallelujah. They then joyfully departed.

7 Then they punished and destroyed with ignominy every polluted Jew that fell in their way. Slaying thus, in that day, above three hundred and sixty, they destroyed this destruction of the wicked a season of joy.

8 They themselves having held fast their God unto death, and having enjoyed a full deliverance, departed from the city garlanded with sweet-flowered wreaths of every kind. Uttering exclamations of joy, with songs of praise, and melodious hymns, they thanked God, their God, their fathers, the eternal Saviour of Israel.

9 Having arrived at Ptolemais, called from the specialty of that district Rose-bearing, where the fleet, in accordance with the general wish, waited for them seven days, they partook of a banquet of deliverance.

10 They then proceeded to the capital, where, as the king had sent for them, they were cordially received, and were highly commended for the service they had done.

11 The king, therefore, received them with much joy. He conferred upon them the highest honours, and had heretofore never been more highly emulated.

12 They therefore, being allowed by the king to exercise all the power that the most powerful man might exercise, were also allowed to make laws and to execute the laws of their own will.

13 They therefore, being allowed by the king to exercise all the power that the most powerful man might exercise, were also allowed to make laws and to execute the laws of their own will.

ace, for the king generously granted them severally the means of securing a return home. 19 They were accordingly brought back in peace, while they gave utterance to becoming thanks; and they determined to keep these days during their sojourn as days of joyfulness. 20 These they registered as sacred upon a pillar, when they had dedicated the place of their festivity to be one of prayer. They departed unharmed, free, abundant in joy, preserved by the king's command, by land, by sea, and by river, each to his own home.

21 They had more weight than before among their enemies; and were honoured and feared, and no one in any way robbed them of their goods. 22 Every man received back his own, according to inventory; those who had obtained their goods, giving them up with the greatest terror. For the greatest God wrought with perfectness wonders for their salvation. 23 Blessed be the Redeemer of Israel unto everlasting. Amen.
even unto death, by this contempt, demonstrated that reasoning has command over the passions.

For their virtues, then, it is right that I should commend those men who died with their mother at this time in behalf of rectitude; and for their honours, I may count them happy. 12 For they, winning admiration not only from men in general, but even from their persecutors, for their manliness and endurance, became the means of the destruction of the tyranny against their nation, having conquered the tyrant by their endurance, so that by them their country was purified.

But we may now at once enter upon the question, having compressed, as is our wont, with laying down the doctrine, and so proceed to the account of these persons, giving glory to the all wise God. 13 The question, therefore, is, whether reasoning be absolute master of the passions. 14 Let us determine then, What is reasoning? and what passion? and how many forms of the passions? and whether reasoning bears sway over all of these? 15 Reasoning is, then, intellect accompanied by a life of rectitude, putting foremost the consideration of wisdom. 16 And wisdom is a knowledge of divine and human things, and of their causes. 17 And this is contained in the education of the law, by means of which we learn divine things reverently, and human things profitably.

And the forms of wisdom are prudence, and justice, and manliness, and temperance. 19 The leading one of these is prudence; by whose means, indeed, it is that reasoning bears rule over the passions. 20 Of the passions, pleasure and pain are the two most comprehensive; and they also by nature refer to the soul. 21 And there are many attendant affections surrounding pleasure and pain. 22 Before pleasure is lust; and after pleasure, joy. 23 And before pain is fear; and after pain, sorrow.

Wrath is an affection, common to pleasure and to pain, if any one will pay attention to what comes upon him. 24 And there exists in pleasure a malicious disposition, which is the most multiform of all the affections. 25 In the soul it is arrogance, and love of money, and vaingloriousness, and contention, and faithlessness, and the evil eye. 26 In the body it is greediness and gormandizing, and solitary gluttony.

As pleasure and pain are therefore, two growths of the body and the soul, so there are many offshoots of these passions. 28 And reasoning, the universal husbandman, purging, and pruning these severely, and binding round, and watering, and transplanting, in every way improves the materials of the morals and affections. 29 For reasoning is the leader of the passions, but it is the sole ruler of the passions. Observe then first, through the very things which stand in the way of temperance, that reasoning is absolute ruler of the passions.

Now temperance consists of a command over the lusts. 30 But of the lusts, some belong to the soul, others to the body: and over each of these classes the reasoning appears to bear sway. 31 For whence is it, otherwise, that when urged on to forbidden mets, we reject the gratification which would ensue from them? Is it not because reasonings are able to command the appetites? I believe so. Hence it is then, that when lusts after water-animals, and birds, and four-footed beasts, and all kinds of food which are forbidden us by the law, we withhold ourselves through the mastery of reasoning. For the affections of our appetites are resisted by the temperate understanding, and bent back again, and all the impulses of the body are reined in by reasoning.

And what wonder? if the lusts of the soul, after participation with what is beautiful, are frustrated, on this ground, therefore, the temperate Joseph is praised in that by reasoning, he subdued, on reflection, the indulgence of sense. For, although young, and ripe for sexual intercourse, he abrogated by reasoning the stimulus of his passions.

And it is not merely the stimulus of sensual indulgence, but that of every desire, that reasoning is able to master. For instance, the law says, Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor anything that belongs to thy neighbour. Now, then, since it is the reason of the forbidden unto thee to desire, I shall much the more easily persuade you, that reasoning is able to govern our lusts, just as it does the affections which are impediments to justice. Since in what way is a solitary eater, and a glutton, and a drunkard reclaimed, unless it be clear that reasoning is lord of the passions?

A man, therefore, who regulates his course by the law, even if he be a lover of money, straightway puts force upon his own disposition; leading to the needy without interest, and cancelling the debt of the incoming sabbath. And should a man be parsimonious, he is ruled by the law acting through reasoning; so that he does not glean his harvest crops, nor vintage; and in each reference to other points we may perceive that it is reasoning that conquers his passions.

For the law conquers even affection toward parents, not surrendering virtue on their account. And it prevails over marriage love, condemning it when transgressing law. And it lords it over the love of parents toward their children, for they punish them for vice; and it doominers over the intimacy of friends, reproving them when wicked. And think it not a strange assertion that reasoning can in behalf of the law conquer even enmity. It alloweth not to cut down the cultivated herbage of an enemy, but preserves it from the destroyers and concedes to their fallen, that when

And reasoning appears to be master of the more violent passions, as love of empire and empty boasting, and arrogance, and loud boasting, and slander. For the temperate understanding repels all these malignant passions, as it does wrath; for it masters even this.

Thus Maccabees, when angered against Da-than and Abiram, did nothing to them in wrath, but regulated his anger by reasoning. For the temperate mind is able, as I said, to be superior to the passions, and to transfer some, and destroy others. For why, else, does our most wise father Jacob...

IV.

Jame Simeon and Levi for having irrationally slain the whole race of the Shechemites, saying, Cursed be their anger. For if reason did not possess the power of subduing angry affections, he would not have spoken thus.

For at the time when God created man, He implanted within him his passions and moral nature. And at that time He enfronthed above all the holy leader mind, through the medium of the reason. And He gave a law to this mind, by living according to which it will maintain a temperate, just, and good, and mainly reign.

How, then, a man may say, if reasoning be master of the passions, has it no control over forgetfulness and ignorance?

The argument is exceedingly ridiculous: for reasoning does not appear to bear sway over its own affections, but over those of the body, in such a way as that any one of you may not be able to root out desire, but reasoning will enable you to avoid being enslaved to it.

One may not be able to root out anger from the soul, but it is possible to withstand anger. Any one of you if you may not be able to eradicate malice, but reasoning has force to work with you to prevent your yielding to malice.

For reasoning is not an eradicator, but an antagonist of the passions. And this may be more clearly comprehended from the thirst of King David. For after David had been attacking the Philistines the whole day, he, with the soldiers of his nation slew many of them; then when evening came, sweating and very weary, he came to the royal tent, about which the entire host of our ancestors was encamped.

Now all the rest of them were at supper; but the king, being very much athirst, although he had numerous springs, could not by their means quench his thirst; but a certain, irrational longing for the water in the enemy’s camp grew stronger and fiercer upon him, and consumed him with languish.

Wherefore his body-guards being troubled at this longing of the king, two valiant young soldiers, reverencing the desire of the king, put on their panoplies, and taking a pitcher, got over the ramparts of the enemies; and unperceived by the guardians of the gate, they went throughout the whole camp of the enemy in quest. And having boldly discovered the fountain, they filled out of it the draught for the king.

But he, though parched up with thirst, reasoned that a draught reputed of equal value to blood, would be terribly dangerous to his soul. Wherefore, setting up reasoning in opposition to his desire, he poured out the draught to God.

For the temperate mind has power to conquer the pressure of the passions, and to quench the fires of excitement, and to wrestle down the pains of the body, however excessive; and, through the excellency of reasoning, to abate all the assaults of the passions.

But the occasion now invites us to give an illustration of temperate reasoning from history. For at a time when our fathers were in possession of undisturbed peace through obedience to the law, and were prosperous, so that Seleucus Nicane, the king of Asia, both assigned them money for divine service, and accepted their form of government, then certain persons, bringing in new things contrary to the general unanimity, in various ways fell into calamities.

For a certain man named Simon, who was in the palace of Onias, who once held the high priesthood for life, and was an honourable and good man, after that by slandering him in every way, he could not injure him with the people, went away as an exile, with the intention of betraying his country.

2 Where coming to Apollonius, the military governor of Syria, and Phoenicia, and Cilicia, he said, Having good will to the king's affairs, I am come to inform thee that infinite private wealth is laid up in the repositories of Jerusalem which do not belong to the temple, but pertain to king Seleucus.

3 Apollonius, acquainting himself with the particulars of this, praised Simon for his care of the king's interests, and gone up to Seleucus informed him of the treasure; and getting authority about it, and quickly advancing into our country with the accrued Simon and a very heavy force, he said that he came with the commands of the king that he should take the private money of the treasury. And the nation, indignant at this proclamation, and replying to the effect that it was extremely unfair that those who had committed deposits to the sacred treasury should be deprived of them, resisted as well as they could. But Apollonius went away with threats into the temple.

4 And the priests, with the women and children, having supplicated God to throw his shield over the holy, despaired place.

5 And Apollonius going up with his armed force to the seizure of the treasure,—there appeared from heaven angels riding on horseback, all radiant in armour, filling them with much fear and trembling. And Apollonius fell down half dead upon the earth; and the people, being seized by fright, ran into the mouth of the temple and tended his hands to heaven, and implored the Hebrews, with tears, to pray for him, and propitiate the heavenly host. For he said that he had sinned, so as to be consequently worthy of death; and that if they were saved, he would celebrate to all men the blessedness of the holy place.

6 Onias the high priest, induced by these words, although for other reasons anxious that king Seleucus should not suppose that Apollonius was slain by human device and not by Divine punishment, prayed for him; and he being thus unexpectedly saved, departed to manifest to the king what had happened to him.

7 But on the death of Seleucus the king, his son Antiochus Epiphanes succeeds to the kingdom: a man of haughty pride and terrible. Who having deposed Onias from the high priesthood, appointed his brother Jason to be high priest; who had made a covenant, if he would give him this authority, to pay yearly three thousand six hundred and sixty talents. And he committed him to the high priesthood and rulership over the nation. And he both changed the manner of living of the people, and perverted their civil cus
And when he could by no means destroy by his decrees the obedience to the law of the nation, but saw all his threats and punishments without effect, and for every man, because they continued to circumcise their children, were flung down a precipice along with them, knowing beforehand of the punishment. When, therefore, his decrees were disregarded by the people, he himself compelled by means of tortures every one of this race, by tasting forbidden meats, to abjure the Jewish religion.

The Jews, Antiochus, therefore, sitting in public state with his assessors upon a certain lofty place, with his armed troops standing in a circle round him, commanded his spearbearers to seize every one of the Hebrews, and compel them to taste swine’s flesh, and things offered to idols. And should any of them be unwilling to eat the accursed food, they were to be tortured on the wheel, and so killed. And when many had been seized, a foremost man of the assembly, a Hebrew, by name Eleazar, a priest by family, by profession a lawyer, and advanced in years, and for this reason known to many of the king’s followers, was brought near to him.

And Antiochus seeing him, said, 6 I would counsel thee, old man, before thy tortures begin, to taste the swine’s flesh, and save thy life; for I feel respect for thy age and hoary head, which since thou hast so long, thou appear to me to be no philosopher in retaining the superstition of the Jews. For when nature has conferred upon you the most excellent flesh of this animal, do you loathe it? It seems senseless not to enjoy what is pleasant, yet not disgraceful; and from notions of sinfulness, to reject the boons of nature.

And you will be acting, I think, still more senselessly, if you follow vain conceits about the truth, and you will, moreover, be despising me to your own punishment.

Will you not awake from your trifling philosophy, and give up the folly of your notions; and, regaining understanding worthy of your age, search into the truth of an expeditious course? And, reverence my kindly admonition, have pity upon your own soul. Thus, moreover, that if there be an; power which watches over this religion of yours, it will pardon you for all transgressions of the law which you commit through compulsion.

While the tyrant incited him in this manner to the unlawful eating of flesh, Eleazar begged permission to speak. And having received power to speak, he began, thus to deliver himself: 8 We, O Antiochus,

47 who are persuaded that we live under a divine law, consider no compulsion to be so forbear as obedience to that law; 7 therefore we consider that we ought not in any point to transgress the law. 8 And indeed, where our law (as you suppose) not truly divine, and if we wrongly think it divine, we should have no right, even in that case to destroy our sense of religion. 9 Think not eating the uncured, then, a trifling offence.
10 For transgression of the law, whether in small or great matters, is of equal moment; for in either case the law is equally slighted.
11 But thou deridest our philosophy, as though we lived irrationally in it. 12 Yet it instructs us in temperance, so that we are superior to all pleasures and lusts; and it exercises us in manliness, so that we cheerfully undergo every grievance. 13 And it instructs us in justice, so that in all our dealings we render what is due; and it teaches us piety, so that we worship the one only God becoming. 14 Wherefore it is that we eat not the uncured; for believing that the law was established by God, we are convinced that the Creator of the world, in giving his laws, sympathises with our nature. 15 Those things which are convenient to our souls, he has directed us to eat; but those which are repugnant to them, he has interdicted.
16 But, tyrant-like, thou not only forcest us to break the law, but also to eat, that thou mayest ridicule us as we thus profane eat: 17 but thou shalt not have this cause of laughter against me; 18 nor will I transgress the sacred oath of my fore"fathers to keep the law. 19 No, not if you pluck out my eyes, and consume my entrails. 20 I am not so old, and void of manliness, but that my rational powers are youthful in defence of my religion.
21 Now then; prepare your wheels, and kindle a fiercer flame. 22 I will not so com"passionately yield to thee, nor will I break the law of my country. 23 I will not believe thee, O law, my instructor! or forbear thee, O beloved self-control. 24 I will not put thee to shame, O philosopher Reason; or deny thee, O honoured priesthood, and science of the law. 25 Mouth! thou shalt not pollute my old age, nor yet the full stature of a perfect life.
26 My fathers shall receive me pure, not having quailed before your compulsion, though unto death. 27 For over the ungodly thou shalt tyrannize; but thou shalt not lord it over my thoughts about religion, either by thy arguments, or through deeds.
When Eleazar had in this manner answered the exhortations of the tyrant, the spearbearers came up, and rudely led Eleazar to the instruments of torture.
22 And first, they stripped the old man, adorned as he was with the comeliness of piety. 23 Then tying back his arms and hands, they disdainfully used him with stripes; 24 a herald opposite crying out, Obey the commands of the king.
25 But Eleazar, the high-minded and truly noble, as one tortured in a dream, regarded it not at all. 26 But raising his eyes on high to heaven, the old man's flesh was stripped off by the scourges, and his blood streamed down, and his sides were pierced through. 8 And falling upon the ground, from his body there fell no trick to no point the pain he yet kept his reasoning upright and unbounded. 9 Then one of the harsh spearbearers leaped upon his belly as he was falling, to force him upright.

But he endured the pain, and despised the cruelty, and persevered through the indignities; 10 and like a noble athlete, the old man, lay so firmly as to resist the torturers. 11 His countenance sweating, and he panting for breath, he was admired by the very torturers for his courage.

Wherefore, partly in pity for his old age, partly from the sympathy of acquaintance, and partly in admiration of his endurance, some of the attendants of the king said, 12 Why do you unreasonably destroy yourself, O Eleazar, with these miseries? 13 We will bring you some meat cooked by yourself, and do you save yourself by pretending that you have eaten swine's flesh.

And Eleazar, as though the advice more painfully tortured him, cried out, 14 Let not the children of Abraham be so evil advised as by giving way to make use of an unbecoming pretence; 15 for it were irrational, if having lived up to old age in all truth, and having scrupulously guarded our character for it, we should now turn back, and ourselves should become a pattern of impiety to the young, as being an example of pollution eating. 16 It would be disgraceful if we should live on some short time, and that scorned by all men for cowardice, 17 and be condemned by the tyrant for unmanliness, by not contending to the death for our divine law.

Wherefore do you, O children of Abraham, die nobly for your religion. 18 Ye spearbearers of the tyrant, why do ye linger? 19 Beholding him so high-minded against misery, and not changing at their pity, they led him to the fire; 20 and with their wickedly-contrived instruments they burnt him on the fire, and poured stinking fluids down into his nostrils.

And he being at length burnt down to the bones, and about to expire, raised his eyes Godward, and said, 21 Thou knowest, O God, that when I might have been saved, I am slain for the sake of the law by tortures of fire. 22 Be merciful to thy people, and be satisfied with the punishment of me on their account. 23 Let my blood be a purification for them, and take my life in atonement for theirs. 24 Thus speaking, the tyrant commanded, and went in, and tormented, and even to the agonies of death resisted in his reasoning for the sake of the law.

Confessedly, therefore, religious reasoning is master of the passions. 25 For had the passions been superior to reasoning, I would have given them the witness of this man, who but now, since reasoning conquered the passions, we be fittingly award it the authority of first place.

And it is but fair that we should allow, that the power belongs to reasoning, since it masters external miseries. 26 Ridiculous would it be were it not so, and I prove that...
IV. Maccabees VII. 1—24.

reasoning has not only mastered pains, but that it is also superior to the pleasures, and withstands them.

The reasoning of our father Eleazar, like a first-rate instrument, steering the vessel of piety in the sea of passions, 2 and flouted by the threats of the tyrant, and overwhelmed with the breakers of torture, 3 in no way shifted the rudder of piety till it sailed into the harbour of victory over death.

1Not so has ever a city, when besieged, hold out against many and various machines, and that holy man, when his pious soul was tried by the trials of tortures and rackings, more his besiegers through the religious reasoning that shielded him.

4For father Eleazar, projecting his disposition, broke the raging waves of the passions as with a jutting promontory.

5O priest, worthy of the priesthood! thou didst not pollute thy sacred teeth; nor make thy appetite, which had always embraced the clean and lawful, a partaker of profanity. 7 O harmonizer with the law, and sage devoted to a divine life! 8 Of such a character ought those to be who perform the duties of the law at the risk of their own blood, and defend it with generous sweat of sufferings even unto death.

9Thou, father, hast gloriously established our right government by thy endurance; and making of much account our service past, prevented its destruction, and, by thy deeds, hast made credible the words of philosophy. O aged man of more power than tortures, elder more vigorous than fire, greatest king over the passions, Eleazar.

10 For as father Aaron, armed with a censer, hastening through the consuming fire, vanquished the flame-bearing angel, 12 so Eleazar, the descendant of Aaron, wasted away by the fire, did not give up his reasoning. 13 And, what is most wonderful, though an old man, though the labours of his body were now spent, and his fibres were relaxed, and his ancient years were out, he recovered youth. 14 By the spirit of reasoning, and the reasoning of Isaac, he rendered powerless the many-headed instrument. O blessed old age, and reverend hoar head, and life obedient to the law, which the faithful seal of death perfected. 15 If, then, an old man, through religion, despised tortures even unto death, confusedly religious reasoning is ruler of the passions.

16But perhaps some might say, It is not all who conquer passions, as all do not possess wise reasoning. 17 But they who have meditated upon religion with their whole heart, these alone can master the passions of the flesh: 18 they who believe that to God they die not; for our old fathers, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, they live to God.

19This circumstance, then, is by no means an objection, that some who have weak reasoning, are governed by their passions: 20 since what person, walking religiously by the whole rule of philosophy, and believing in God, 21 and knowing that it is a blessed thing for all kinds of hardships for virtue, would not, for the sake of religion, master his passion? 22 For the wise and brave man only is lord over his passions. 23 Where it is, that even boys, imbued with the philosophy of religious reasoning, have conquered still more bitter tortures: 25 for when the tyrant was manifestly vanquished in his first attempt, in being unable to force the old man to eat the unclean thing.

Thou, indeed, vehemently swayed with passion, he commanded to bring others of the adult Hebrews, and if they would eat of the unclean thing, to let them go when they had eaten; but if they objected, to torment them more grievously.

The tyrant having given this charge, seven men were brought into his presence, along with their aged mother, hand-some, and modest, and well-born, and altogether comely. 30 Whom, when the tyrant beheld, encircling their mother as in a dance, he was pleased at them; and being struck with their becoming and ingenuous mien, smiled upon them, and calling them near, said,

"0 youths, with favourable feelings, I admire the beauty of each of you; and greatly honouring so numerous a band of brethren, I not only counsel you not to share the madness of the old man who has been tortured before, but I do beg you to yield, and to enjoy my friendship; for I possess the power, not only of punishing those who disobey my commands, but of doing good to those who obey them.

Put confidence in me, then, and you shall receive places of authority in my government, if you forsake your national ordinance, and, conforming to the Greek mode of life, alter your rule, and revel in youth's delights. For if you provoke me by your disobedience, you will compel me to destroy you, every one, with terrible punishments by tortures. Have mercy, then, upon your own selves, whom I, although an enemy, compassionate for your age and comeliness. Will you not reason upon this—that if you disobey, there will be nothing left for you but to die in tortures?

Now, speaking, he ordered the instruments of torture to be brought forward, that very fear might prevail upon them to eat unclean meat. And when the spear man brought forward the wheels, and the racks, and hooks, and estapelties, and caldrons, pans, and finger-racks, and iron hands, and wedges, and bellows, the tyrant continued,

"Fear, young men, and the Righteousness which ye worship will be merciful to you if you err from compulsion. 14 Now they having listened to these words of persuasion, and seeing the fearful instruments, not only were not afraid, but even answered the arguments of the tyrant, and through their good reasoning destroyed his power.

Then, let us consider the matter: had any of them been weak-spirited and cowardly among them, what reasons would they have employed but such as these? 15 O wretched that we are, and exceeding senseless! when the king exhorts us, and calls us to his bounty, should we not obey him? 17 Why, indeed, who were ourselves with vain counsels, and venture upon a disobedience bringing death? Shall we not fear, O brethren, the instruments of torture, and weigh the threatenings of torment, and shun this vain-glory and destructive pride?

Let us have compassion upon our age and relent over the years of our mother. And let us bear in mind that we shall be dying as a result.

And Divine Justice will pardon us if we fear the king through necessity.

Why withdraw ourselves from a most sweet life, and deprive ourselves of this pleasant world? Let us not oppose necessity, nor seek vain-glory by our own excruciation. The law itself is not for-warded us to death, if we dread torture. Whence has such anger yet taken root in us, and such fatal obstinacy approved itself to us, when we might live unmolested by giving ear to the king?

But nothing of this kind did the young men say or think when about to be tortured. For they were well aware of the sufferings, and masters of the pains. So that as soon as the tyrant had ceased counselling them to eat the unclean, they altogether with one voice, as from the same heart, said:

Why delayest thou, O tyrant? for we are ready to die than to transgress the in-junctions of our fathers. And we should be disgracing our fathers if we did not obey the law, and take knowledge for our guide.

O tyrant, counsellor of law-breaking, do not, hating us as thou dost, pity us more than we pity ourselves. For we account your pity of us on the terms of unlawful escape to be worse than death. And you think to scare us, by threatening us with death by tortures, as though thou hadst learned nothing by the death of Eleazar. But if aged men of the dye died in the cause of religion after enduring torture, more rightly should we younger men die, scorning your cruel tortures, which our aged instructor overcame.

Make the attempt, then, O tyrant; and if thou puttest us to death for our religion, think not that thou hastest us by torturing us. For we through this ill-treatment and endurance shall bear off the rewards of virtue. But you, for the wicked and des-potic slaughter of us, shall, from the Divine vengeance, endure eternal torture by fire.

When they had thus spoken, the tyrant was not only exasperated against them as being refractory, but enraged with them as being ungrateful. So that, at his bidding, the torturers brought forth the eldest of them, and tearing through his tunic, bound his hands and arms on each side with thongs. And when they had laboured hard without effect in scourging him, they hurled him upon the wheel. And the noble youth, extended upon this, became dislocated. And with many members disjointed, he exclaimed in expostulation.

O most accursed tyrant, and enemy of heavenly justice, and cruel-hearted, I am no murderer, nor sacrilegious man, whom thou thus ill-usest; but a defender of the Divine law. And when the spearmen said, Consent to eat, that you may be released from your tortures, he, with many members disjointed, exclaimed in expostulation:

For through all my torments I will convince you that the children of the Hebrews are alone unconquered in behalf of virtue.
While he was saying this, they heaped up fuel, and setting fire to it, strained him upon the wheel still more. And the wheel was filled all over with blood, and the hot ashes were quenched by the droppings of more, and pieces of flesh were scattered about the axles of the machine.

And although the framework of his bones was now destroyed, the high-minded and Abrahamic youth did not groan. But, as though transformed by fire into immortality, he nobly endured the rackings, saying, Imitate me, O brethren, nor ever desert your station, nor abuse my righteousness in courage: fight the holy and honourable fight of religion: by which means our just and paternal Providence, becoming merciful to the nation, will punish the pestilent tyrant. And saying this, the revered youth abruptly closed his life.

And when all admired his courageous soul, the spearmen brought forward him who was second in point of age, and having put on iron hands, bound him with pointed hooks to the catapælas. And when, on enquiring whether he would eat before he was tortured, they heard his noble sentiment, after they with the iron hands had violently dragged all the flesh from the neck to the chin, the tyrant said he saw the very skin of his head: but he, bearing with firmness this misery, said, How sweet is every form of death for the religion of our fathers! and he said to the tyrant,

Thou knowest that not, most cruel of all tyrants, that thou art now tortured more than I, finding thy overweening contention of tyranny constrained by our patience in behalf of our religion? For I lighten my suffering by the pleasures which are connected with virtue. But thou art tortured with threatenings for impiety; and thou shalt not escape, most corrupt tyrant, the vengeance of Divine wrath.

Now this one, having endured this praise-worthy death, was brought along, and exhorited by many to taste and save his life. But he cried out and said, Know ye not, that the father of those who are dead, begat me also; and that the same mother bare me; and that I was brought up in the same tenets? I abjure not the noble relationship of my brethren. Now then, whatever instrument of vengeance ye have, apply it to my body, for ye are not able to touch, even if ye wish it, my soul.

But they, highly incensed at his boldness of speech, dislocated his hands and feet with racking engines, and wrenching them from their sockets, dismembered him. And they dragged round his fingers, and his arms, and his legs, and his ankles. And not being able by any means to strangle him, they tore off his skin, together with the extreme tips of his fingers, flayed him, and then haled him to the wheel; around which his vertebral joints were loosened, and he saw his own flesh torn to shreds, and streams of blood flowing from his entrails. And when about to die, he said, Woe. An accursed tyrant, suffer this for the sake of Divine education and virtue. But thou, for thy impiety and blood-shedding, shalt endure indissoluble torments.

And thus having died worthily of his brethren, they dragged forward the fourth, saying, 12 Do not thou share the madness of thy brethren, but to die rather to the king, and save thyself. 14 But he said to them, You have not a fire so scourging as to make me play the coward. 15 By the blessed death of my brethren, and the eternal punishment of the tyrant, and the glorious life of the pious, I will not repudiate the noble brotherhood. 16 I invent, O tyrant, tortures, that you may learn, even through them, that I am the brother of those tormented before. 17 When he had said this, the blood-thirsty, and murderous, and unhallowed Antiochus ordered his tongue to be cut out. 18 But he said, Even if you take away the organ of speech, yet God hears the silent. 19 Behold, my tongue is extended, cut it off; for not for that shall thou extirpate our reasoning. 20 Gladly do we lose our limbs in behalf of God. 21 But God shall speedily find you, since you cut off the tongue, the instrument of divine melody. And when he had died, disfigured in his torments, the fifth leaped forward, and said, 22 I intend not, O tyrant, to get excused from the punishment which is in behalf of virtue. 23 But I have come of my own accord, that by the death of me, you may owe heavenly reengeance a punishment for more crimes. 24 O thou hater of virtue and of men, what have we done that thou thus revell in our blood? 25 Does it seem evil to thee that we worship the Founder of all things, and live according to his surpassing law? 26 But this is worthy of honours, not of torments; 27 hadst thou been capable of the higher feelings of men, and possessed the hope of salvation from God. 28 Behold, now, being alien from God, thou makest war against those who are religious toward God. 29 As he said this, the spearbears bound him, and drew him to the estapelt: 30 to which binding him at his knees, and fastening them with iron fetters, they bent down his loins upon the wedge of the wheel; and his body was then dismembered, scorpion-fashion. 31 With his breath thus confined, and his body strangled, he said, 32 A great favour thou bestowest upon us, O tyrant, in eschewing us to an adherence to the law by means of nobler sufferings. 33 He also being dead, the sixth, quite a youth, was brought out; and on the tyrant asking him whether he would eat and be delivered, he said, 34 I am indeed younger than my brothers, but in understanding I am as old; 35 for having been born and reared unto the same, and having lived and died also in the same way. 36 So that if you think proper to torment us for not eating the unclean;—torment!

O tyrant, is unconquered.

2 Armed with uprightness, I also shall depart with my brethren.

3, I, too, bearing with me a great averger, O deviser of tortures, and enemy of the truly pious.

4 We six youths have destroyed thy tyranny.

5 For is it not your inability to overrule our reasoning, and to compel us to eat the unclean, thy destruction?

6 Your fire is cold to us, your catapults are painless, and your violence harmless.

7 For the guards not of a tyrant but of a divine law are our defenders: through this we reason our unconquered.

8 When he, too, had undergone remorse of any kind of madness of thy brethren: for they have died in torture through disobedience; and you, if disobedient, having been miserably tormented, will yourself perish prematurely.

9 But if you obey, you shall be my friend, and have a charge over the affairs of the kingdom.

10 And having humbled him, he sent for the mother of the boy; that, by confounding with her for the loss of so many sons, he might incline her, through the hope of safety, to render the survivor obedient.

11 And he, after his mother had urged him on in the Hebrew tongue, (as we shall soon relate) says, 12 Release me, that I may speak to the king and all his friends.

13 And they, rejoicing exceedingly at the promise of the youth, quickly let him go.

14 And he, running up to the pans, said,

15 Impious tyrant, and most blasphemous man, wert thou not ashamed, having received prosperity and a kingdom from God, to slay His servants, and to rack the doers of goodline before the divine vengeance is reserving you for eternal fire and torments, which shall cling to you for all time.

16 Wert thou not ashamed, man as thou art, yet most savage, to cut out the tongues of men of like feeling and origin, and having thus abused to torture them?

17 But they, bravely dying, fulfilled their religion towards God.

18 But thou shalt groan according to thy deserts for having slain without cause the champions of virtue.

19 Wherefore, he continued, I myself, being about to die, will not forsake the testimony of my brethren.

20 And I call upon the God of my fathers to be merciful to my race.

21 But thee, both living and dead, he will punish.

22 Thus having prayed, he hurled himself into the pans; so expired.

If, then, the seven brethren despised troubles even unto death, it is confessed on all sides that righteous reasoning is absolute master over the passions.

23 For just as if, had they, as slaves to the passions, ced of the unholy, we should have said that they had been conquered by them; now it is not so; but by means of the reasoning which is praised by God, they mastered their passions.

240 ΜΑΚΚΑΒΑΙΩΝ Δ'.

IV. Maccabees XI. 22—XIII. 3.

4 And it is impossible to overlook the leadership of reflection: for it gained the victory over both passions and troubles.

5 How, then, can we avoid according to these men mastery of passion through right reasoning, since they drew not back from the pains of fire? 6 For just as by means of towers projecting in front of harbours men break the threatening waves, and thus assume an equal course to vessels entering port, 7 so that seven-towered right-reasoning of the young men, securing the harbour of religion, conquered the intemperance of passions.

8 For having arranged a holy choir of piety, they encouraged one another, saying, 9 Brothers, may we die brotherly for the law. Let us imitate the three young men in Assyria who despised the equally afflicting furnace. 10 Let us not be cowards in the manifestation of piety. 11 And one said, Courage, brother; and another, Nobly endure. 12 And another, Remember of what stock ye are; and by the hand of what father Isaac endured to be slain for the sake of piety.

13 And one and all, looking on each other serene and confident, said, Let us sacrifice with all our heart our souls to God who gave them, and employ our bodies for the keeping of the law. 14 Let us not fear him who thinketh he killeth; 15 for great is the trial of soul and danger of eternal torment laid up for those who transgress the commandment of God. 16 Let us arm ourselves, therefore, in the abnegation of the divine reasoning. 17 If we suffer thus, Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob will receive us, and all the fathers will commend us. 18 And as each one of the brethren was hailed away, the rest exclaimed, Disgrace us not, O brother, nor falsify those who have died before you.

19 Now you are not ignorant of the charm of brotherhood, which the Divine and all-wise Providence has imparted through fathers to children, and has engendered through the mother's womb. 20 In which these brothers having remained an equal time, and having been formed for the same period, and been increased by the same blood, and having been perfected through the same principle of life, and having been brought forth at equal intervals, and having sucked milk from the same fountains, hence their brotherly souls are reared up lovingly together; 21 and increase the more powerfully by reason of this simultaneous rearing, and by daily intercourse, and by other education, and exercise in the law of God.

22 For truly love being sympathetically constituted, the seven brethren had a more sympathetic mutual harmony. 23 For being educated in the same law, and practising the same virtues, and reared up in a just course of life, they increased this harmony with each other. 24 For a like ardour for what is right and honourable increased their fellow-feeling towards each other.

25 For it acting along with religion, made their brotherly feeling more desirable to them.

26 And yet, although nature and intercourse and virtuous morals increased their brotherly love, those who were left endured to behold their brethren, who were illused for their religion, tortured even unto death.
And more than this, they even urged them on to this ill-treatment; so that they not only despised pains themselves, but they even got the better of their affections of brotherly love.

2. O reasonings more royal than a king, and freer than freemen! 5 Sacred and harmonious concert of the seven brethren as concerning piety! 6 None of the seven youths turned aside, nor shrunk back from death. 7 But all of them, as though running the road to immortality, hastened on to death through tortures. 8 Just as hands and feet are moved sympathetically with the directions of the soul, so those holy youths agreed unto death for religion's sake, as through the immortal soul of religion.

9. O holy seven of harmonious brethren! for as the seven days of creation, about religion, 8 so the youths, circling around the number seven, annulled the fear of torments. 9 We now shudder at the recital of the affliction of those young men; but they not only beheld, and not only heard the immediate execution of the threat, but understood it, persevered; and that through the pains of fire. 10 And what could be more painful? for the power of fire, being sharp and quick, speedily dissolved their bodies.

11. And think it not wonderful that reasoning bore rule over those men in their torments, when even a woman's mind despised more manifold pains. 12 For the mother of those seven youths endured the rackings of each of her children.

13. And consider how comprehensive is the love of offspring, which draws every one to sympathy of affection, 14 where irrational animals possess a similar sympathy and love for their offspring with men. 15 The tame birds frequenting the roofs of our houses, defend their fledglings. 16 Others build their nests, and hatch their young, in the tops of mountains and in the precipices of valleys, and the holes and tops of trees, and keep off the intruder. 17 And if not able to do this, they fly circling round them in agony of affection, calling out in their own note, and save their offspring in whatever manner they are able.

18. But why should we point attention to the sympathy toward children shewn by irrational animals? 19 The very bees, at the season of honey-making, attack all who approach; and pierce with their sting, as with a sword, those who draw near their hive, and repel them even unto death. 20 But sympathy with her children did not turn aside the mother of the young men, who had a spirit kindred with that of Abraham.

O reasoning of the sons, lord over the passions, and religion more desirable to a mother than progeny! 2 The mother, when two things are wrought before her, religion and the safety of her seven sons for a time, on the conditional promise of a tyrant, rather elected the religion which according to God preserves to eternal life.

20. In what way can I describe ethically the affections of parents toward their children, the resemblance of soul and of form engendered into the small type of a child in a wonderful manner, especially through the greater sympathy of mothers with the feelings of those born of them! For by how much mother care is by nature weak in disposition and prolific in offspring, by so much the fonder they are of children. And of all mothers the mother of the seven was the fondest of children, who in seven childbirths had deeply engendered love toward them; and through her many pains undergone in connection with each one, was compelled to feel sympathy with them; yet, through fear of God, she neglected the temporary salvation of her children.

Not but that, on account of the excellent disposition of her sons, and their obedience to the law, her maternal affection toward them was increased. For they were both just and temperate, and manly, and high-minded, and fond of their brethren, and so fond of their mother that even unto death they obeyed her by observing the law.

And yet, though there were so many circumstances connected with love of children to draw on a mother to sympathy, in the case of none of them were the various tortures able to overtop principles. But she inclined each one separately and all together to death for religion.

O holy nature and parental feeling, and reward of bringing up children, and unconquerable maternal affection!

At the racking and roasting of each one of them, the observation mother was prevented by religion from changing. She beheld her children's flesh dissolving around the fire; and their extremities quivering on the ground, and the flesh of their heads dropped forwards down to their beards, like masks.

O thou mother, who hast tried at this time with bitterer pangs than those of parturition! O thou only woman who hast brought forth perfect holiness! Thy first-born, expiring, turned thee not; nor the second, looking miserable in his torments; nor the third, breathing out his soul. Nor when thou didst behold the eyes of each of them looking sterner upon their death, and their nostrils breathing death, didst thou weep. When thou didst see children's flesh heaped upon children's flesh that had been torn off, hands upon hands cut off, heads decapitated upon heads, dead falling upon the dead, and a choir of children turned through torture into a burying-ground, thou lamentedst not.

Not so do siren melodies, or songs of swans, attract the hearers to listening. O voices of children calling upon your mother in the midst of torments! With what and what manner of torments was the mother herself tortured, as her sons were undergoing the wheel and the fires!

But religious reasoning, having strengthened her courage in the midst of sufferings, enabled her to bear, with parental love.

Although beholding the destruction of seven children, the noble mother, after one embrace, stripped off [her feelings] through faith in God. For just as in a council-room, beholding in her own soul vehement counsellors, nature and parentage and love of her children, and the racking of her children, she holding two votes, one for the death, the other for the preservation of her children. Did not lean to that which would have saved her children for the safety of a brief space. But this daughter of Abraham remembered his holy fortitude.

34 O monarch of a nation, avenger of the law, and defender of religion, and prime bearer in the battle of the affections! O thou nobler in endurance than males, and more manly than men in patience! For as the ark of Noah, bearing the world in the world-filling flood, bore up against the waves, so thou, the guardian of the law, when surrounded on every side by the flood of passions, and straitened by violent storms which were the torments of thy children, didst bear up nobly against the storms against religion.

If, then, even a woman, and that an aged one, and the mother of seven children, endured to see her children's torments even unto death, confusedly religious reasoning is master even of the passions.

I have proved, then, that not only men have obtained the mastery of their passions, but also that a woman despised the greatest torments. And not so fierce were the lions round Daniel, nor the furnace of Misaal burning with most vehement fire, as that natural love of children burned within her, when she beheld her seven sons tortured. But with the reasoning of religion the mother quenched passions so great and powerful.

For we must consider also this: that, had the woman been faint-hearted, as being their mother, she would have lamented over them; and perhaps might have spoken thus:

"Ah! wretched I, and many times miserable; who having born seven sons, have become the mother of none. Of seven useless childbirths, and seven profitless periods of labour, and fruitless givings of suck, and miserable nursings at the breast,..."

Vainly, for your sakes, O sons, have I endured manifold pangs, and the more difficult anxieties of rearing. Alas, of my children, some of you unmarried, and some who have married to no profit, I shall not see your children, nor be2 felicitated as a grandmother. Ah, that I who had many and fair children, should be a lone widow full of sorrows! Nor, should I die, shall I have a son to bury me.

But with such a lament, as this the holy and God-fearing mother bewailed none of them. Nor did she divert any of them from death, nor grieve for them as for the dead. But as one possessed with an adamantine mind, and as one bringing forth again her full number of sons to immortality, she rather with supplications exhorted them to death in behalf of religion.

O woman, soldier of God for religion, thou, aged and a female, hast conquered through endurance even a tyrant; and though but weak, hast been found more powerful in deeds and words. For when thou wast seized along with thy children, thou stoodst looking upon Eleazar in torments, and saidst to thy sons in the Hebrew tongue,
O sons, noble is the contest; to which you being called as a witness for the nation, strive zealously for the laws of your country. 19 For it were disgraceful that this old man should endure pains for the sake of righteousness, and that you who are younger should be afraid of the tortures. 20 Remember that through God ye obtained existence, and have enjoyed it. 21 And on this account ye ought to bear every affliction because of God. 22 For whom also our father Abraham was forward to sacrifice Isaac our progenitor, and suffered no harm. 23 And the righteous Daniel was cast unto the lions; and Ananias, and Azarias, and Misael, were stung out into a furnace of fire; yet they endured through God. 24 You, then, having the same faith towards God, be not troubled. 25 For it is unreasonable that they who know religion should not stand up against troubles.

With these arguments, the mother of seven, exhorting each of her sons, over-persuaded them from transgressing the commandment of God. 26 And they saw this, too, that they who die for God, live to God as Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the patriarchs. 27 And some of the bearers of the tablet said, that when she herself was about to be seized for the purpose of being put to death, she threw herself upon the pile, rather than that they should touch her person.

O thou mother, who together with seven children didst destroy thyself through the violence of the tyrant, and render void his wicked intentions, and exhibit the nobleness of faith! 28 For thou, as a house bravely built upon the pillar of thy children, didst bear without swaying, the shock of tortures.

Be of good cheer, therefore. O holy-minded mother! holding the firm [substance of] the hope of your steadfastness with God. 29 For as the stars, which do not appear with the stars in heaven, as thou art established honourable before God, and fixed in the firmament with thy sons whom thou didst illuminate, with religion to the stars. 30 For thy bearing of children was after the fashion of a child of Abraham.

And, were it lawful for us to paint as on a tablet the religion of thy story, the spectators would not shudder at beholding the mother of seven children enduring for the sake of religion various tortures even unto death. 31 And it had been a worthy thing to have inscribed upon the tomb itself these words as a memorial to those of the nation; 32 Here an aged priest, and an aged woman, and seven sons, are burned through the violence of a tyrant, who wished to destroy the polity of the Hebrews. 33 These also avenged their nation, looking unto God, and enduring torments unto death.

For it was a truly divine contest which was carried through by them. 34 For at that time virtue presided over the contest, approving the victory through endurance, namely, immortality, eternal life. 35 Eleazar was the first to contend: and the mother of the seven children entered the contest; and the brethren contended. 36 The tyrant was the opposite; and the world and living men were the spectators. And reverence for God conquered, and crowned her own athletes.

18 Who did not admire those champions of true legislation? who were not astonished? The tyrant himself, and all their council, admired their endurance; and through which, also, they now stand beside the divine throne, and live a blessed life. For Moses saith, And all the saints are under thy hands.

19 These, therefore, having been sanctified through God, have been honoured not only with this honour, but that also by their means the enemy did not overcome our nation; and that the tyrant was punished, and their country purified. For they became the antipodes to the sin of the nation; and the Divine Providence saved Israel, aforetime afflicted, by the blood of those pious ones, and their propitiatory death.

20 For the tyrant Antiochus, looking to their manly virtue, and to their endurance in torture, proclaimed that endurance as an example to his soldiers. And they proved to be to him noble and brave for land battles and sieges; and he conquered and stormed the towns of all his enemies.

21 O Israelish children, descendants of the seed of Abraham, obey this law, and in every way be religious. Knowing that religious reasoning is lord of the passions, and those not only inward but outward.

22 Whence those persons giving up their bodies to pains for the sake of religion, were not only admired by men, but were deemed worthy of a divine portion. And the nation through them obtained peace, and having renewed the observance of the law in their country, drove the enemy out of the land. And the tyrant Antiochus was both punished upon earth, and is punished now he is dead; for when he was quite unable to compel the Israelites to adopt foreign customs, and to desert the manner of life of their fathers, then, departing from Jerusalem, he made war against the Persians.

23 And the righteous mother of the seven children, as follows her offspring: I was a pure virgin, and went not beyond my father's house; but I took care of the built-up rib. No destroyer of the desert, [or] ravisher of the plain, injured me; nor did the destructive, deceitful, snake, make spoil of my chaste virginity; and I remained with my husband during the period of my prime.

24 And these my children, having arrived at maturity, their father died; blessed was he! for having sought out a life of fertility in children, he was not grieved with a period of loss of children. And he used to teach you, when yet with you, the law and the prophets.

25 He used to read to you the slaying of Abel by Cain, and the offering up of Isaac, and the imprisonment of Joseph. And he used to tell you of the zealous Philiphas; and informed you of Ananias and Azarias, and Misael in the fire. And he used to glorify Daniel, who was in the den of lions, and pronounce him blessed.

26 And he used to put you in mind of the scripture of Esias, which saith, Even if thou pass through the fire, it shall not burn thee. He chanted to you David, the lynn-writer, who saith, Many are the afflictions of the just. He declared the proverbs of Solomon, who saith, He is a tree of life to all those who do His will. He used to verify Ezekiel, who said, Shall these dry bones live? For he did not forget the song which Moses taught, proclaiming, I will kill, and I will make to live. This is our life, and the length of our days. O that bitter, and yet not bitter, day when the bitter tyrant of the Greeks, quenching fire with fire in his cruel caldrons, brought with boiling rage the seven sons of the daughter of Abraham to the catapelt, and to all his torments! He pierced the balls of their eyes, and cut out their tongues, and put them to death with varied tortures. Wherefore divine retribution pursued and will pursue the pestilent wretch.

But the children of Abraham, with their victorious mother, are assembled together to the choir of their fathers; having received pure and immortal souls from God. To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

O Lord Almighty, the God of our fathers Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and of their righteous seed; that hast made the heaven and the earth with all their adornment; that hast bound the sea with the word of thy commandment; that hast closed the abyss and sealed it with thy fearful and glorious name; whose all things revere and tremble before the face of thy power, because the magnificence of thy glory is unendurable and irresistible the wrath of thy threatening against sinners; the mercy of thy promise is both immeasurable and ineradicable; for thou art the Lord most high, compassionate, longsuffering, and most merciful, repenting of the evils of men.
Prayee of Manasses.

Thou, Lord, according to the abundance of thy goodness, hast proclaimed repentance and forgiveness to those that have sinned against thee, and in the multitude of thy kindness thou hast decreed for sinners repentance unto salvation. 2 Surely thou, O Lord, the God of the just, hast not appointed repentance for the just, for Abraham and Isaac and Jacob who have not sinned against thee; but thou hast appointed repentance for me a sinner: for I have sinned above the number of the sand of the sea.

My transgressions are multiplied, O Lord, they are multiplied, and I am not worthy to look at or see the height of heaven, for the multitude of my iniquities, being bowed down by many iron bonds, so that I cannot uplift my head, and there is no release for me, because I have provoked thy anger, and have done evil before thee, not doing thy will, nor keeping thy commandments, but setting up abominations and multiplying offences. 10 And now I bend the knee of my heart, beseeching thy goodness: 11 I have sinned, Lord, I have sinned, and I acknowledge my transgressions: 12 but I pray and beseech thee, release me, Lord, release me, and destroy me not with my transgressions; keep not evils for me in anger for ever, nor condemn me to the lowest parts of the earth: because thou art God, the God of the repenting; 14 and in me thou wilt shew all thy benevolence, for that me unworthy thou wilt save, according to thy great mercy: 15 and I will praise thee continually all the days of my life; for all the host of the heavens sings to thee, and thine is the glory for ever and ever. Amen.

2, Kúrie, ἡμαρτησόν μοι καὶ ἀφέσεις τοῖς ἡμαρτήσασιν σοι, καὶ τῷ πλήθει τῶν οἰκτηρῶν σου ὕπαρχον μετάνοιας ἁμαρτωλῶν εἰς σωτηρίαν. 8 Κύριε, ὁ Θεὸς τῶν δικαίων, σύ ἔθους μετάνοιας δικαίως, καὶ ἂν ἔθους ἁμαρτήσασιν εἰς ἁμαρτησόν 9 ὑπὲρ ἁμαρτησόν ψάμμου θαλάσσης. Ἠπιλήθηκαν αἱ ἁμαρτίαι μου, κύριε, ἐπιλήθηκαν, καὶ οὐκ εἰμὶ ἄξιος ἀπενεπάλητι καὶ ἴδειν τὸ ὑπό τοῦ ὑπάρχου ἀπὸ πλήθους τῶν ἀδικήσαν μου, κατακαμπτόμενοι 10 μενοὶ πολλοὶ δεαμοὶ σιώπησι εἰς τὸ μὴ ἀνανεώσαι τὴν κεφαλήν μου, καὶ οὐκ ἔστιν μοι ἄνειν, διὸ παρωργώσα τὸν θυμὸν σου, καὶ τὸ ποιημένον ἐνώπιόν σου ἐποίησα, μὴ ποιήσας τὸ ἀνεκράτημα σου καὶ μὴ φυλάξας τὰ προστάγματα σου, στήσας βεβηλύματα καὶ πληθύνας προσοχήματα. Καὶ νῦν κλίνω 11 γόνιον καρδίας μου δεόμενος τῆς παρὰ σου χρηστάτητος· ἡμάρτητα, κύριε, ἡμάρτητα, καὶ τὰς ἁμαρτίας μου ἐγὼ γινώσκω. 12 Ἁλλ' ἀπολύμας δεόμενος σοι· ἀνέας μοι, κύριε, ἀνέας μοι, καὶ 13 μὴ συναπολέσῃς με ταῖς ἁμαρτίαις μου, μὴ δἐ εἰς τὸν αἰώνα μηχάνῃς τηρήσῃς τὰ κακά μοι, μὴ δὲ καταδικάσῃς με ἐν τοῖς καταστάσεως τῆς γῆς, διότι σὺ εἶ Θεὸς, Θεὸς τῶν μετανοούντων. Καὶ ἐν ἑμοί δείξεις πάσαν τὴν ἁγαθωσύνην σου, ὅτι ἁνέζησον 14 ὡσπερ σώσεις με κατὰ τὸ πολὺ ἔλεος σου. Καὶ αἰνέσο σε 15 διὰ παντός ἐν ταῖς ἡμέραις τῆς ζωῆς μου, ὅτι σὲ ὑμεῖς πᾶσα ἡ δύναμις τῶν ὑφαντῶν, καὶ σοῦ ἔστιν ἡ δόξα εἰς τῶν αἰώνας. Ἁμήν.
